WHY.

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WHERE?

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

REMEDY FOR THE WHITE GRUB.

The use of benzine has been found effectual in France in destroying the white grubs (the larvæ of the May or dor bug), which often do immense damage, especially in dry seasons, to lawns, strawberry plants, seedling plants and other nursery stock. Holes are made in the ground infested with the grubs with one of the sharp iron dibbles used sometimes in transplanting small plants, and the benzine is poured into them. Fifty grains of benzine are used to the square yard, and care is taken to insert it above the feeding-ground of the grubs. In an experiment recently made by one of the French forest officers and reported at a meeting of the National Agricultural Society, the grubs on twelve acres were destroyed at a cost of three dollars and twenty cents per acre.

AN ELECTRIC CLOCK.

A great deal of interest has been created in France by the novel form and operation of an electric clock, recently introduced, the peculiarity in the construction of which consists in the presence of two kinds of batteries, one a wet zinc-iron element and the other a dry zinc-iron element. The former consists of an iron bottle five and one-half inches high by three and one-half inches in diameter, which forms one electrode; the other electrode is a zinc rod passing through an India-rubber stopper into the center of the bottle, this being filled with caustic potash and oxide of mercury. There is no diaphragm, and the zinc is gradually consumed, while the oxide of mercury is reduced; the e. m. f. is 1.3 volts, and the internal resistance is .2 of an ohm. These clocks receive an impulse forty times a minute, and exhibit no weakening of the power either in the dry or the wet cell. An easy calculation will show the interesting fact that the total number of electrical impulses exceeds twenty-one million per annum—certainly a most severe duty for any battery.

MICROBES DESTROYED BY STEAM.

The experiments of steam disinfection, recently tried in Jacksonville, have proved that the steaming process is thoroughly efficacious in destroying microbes in general, and also the yellow fever microbes. Active germs placed by Dr. Gibier in a gelatine filled glass tube germinated, showing unmistakable life and activity. Microbes subjected to the steaming process, though for only ten minutes, and under very imperfect conditions, were afterward subjected to the same cultivation, but remained entirely inert.

NEPTUNE'S SATELLITES.

M. Tisserand has presented a report to the Paris Academy of Sciences concerning some remarkable observations of the satelites of the planet Neptune, which was discovered in 1847. The angle which the plane of the orbit of this satelite made at that date with the ecliptic was about thirty degrees, but this angle has now increased by at least six degrees. The satellite moves around its principal in an opposite direction to that usually followed by other satelites, so that a question might be raised whether in the course of time this variation in the inclination of the plane of its orbit might not end in its movement around its principal becoming normal. M. Tisserand showed that this variation of inclination was due to the oblate or flattened condition of Neptune at its poles, and that it will complete its limit within a period of five hundred years, at the end of which time it will be as it was in 1847.

VARIOUS LOCATIONS OF THE CAPITAL.

The Capital of the United States has been located at different times at the following places: At Philadelphia from September 5, 1774, until December, 1776; at Baltimore from December 20, 1776, to March, 1777; at Philadelphia from March 4, 1777, to September, 1777; at Lancaster, Pa., from September 27, 1777, to September 30, 1777; at York, Pa., from September 30, 1777, to July, 1778; at Philadelphia from July 2, 1778, to June 30, 1783; at Princeton, N. J., June 30, 1783, to November 20, 1783; Annapolis, Md., November 26, 1783, to November 30, 1784; Trenton from November, 1784, to January, 1785; New York from January 11, 1785, to 1790; then the seat of Government was removed to Philadelphia, where it remained until 1800, since which time it has been at Washington.

KEEN SENSE OF PRESSURE.

The relative sensibility to pressure of different parts of the body is ascertained by placing weights of the same size, but of different amounts, upon the skin. By this means it has been found that the parts which have the keenest sense of pressure are generally those in which sensibility to touch is most developed. The smallest weight which can be perceived is three one hundredths of a grain, and this is recognized by the skin of the forehead, the temples, the back of the hand and the forearm. The tips of the fingers can perceive a weight of three-thirtieths of a grain, the chin and the nose one of three-fourths of a grain, while the finger nails do not notice one weighing less than fifteen grains. Considerable pressure may be exerted without its being perceived, if it is uniform. Thus when the hand is plunged into mercury the increased pressure is only at the line corresponding with the surface of the fluid.

SMOKELESS GUNPOWDER.

The British Government has at last settled on a white, almost smokeless, powder for use in firearms. The importance of this statement is evident in view of the fact that until the powder had been decided upon it was impossible to ascertain accurately the length of the cartridge, and, consequently, the proportions of the coming weapon. There is, therefore, no longer any obstacle in the manufacture of the new magazine rifles, the production of which will make rapid progress after the new year. The powder gives out a very small report—not much greater than that of an air gun.

FANS FOR MOVING VEHICLES.

A fan for cars and other moving vehicles is a most admirable invention. To one of the wheels of the vehicle a pulley is attached by a belt to a vertical shaft, having suitable bearings on one end of the car, adapted to be clutched and unclutched from another shaft extending the length of the car. The fan-shafts are across the car, and are operated by belts or cords from the first, keeping fans along the top of the car in vigorous motion, causing a constant circulation of air.

TRIED FOR WITCHCRAFT.

Some Curious Facts in the History of English Jurisprudence.

Lawyers dispute as to when the last trial and conviction for witchcraft took place in England, and many of the profession, having so little respect for the memory of Sir Matthew Hale as to be ashamed of these sentences, have endeavored to make out that the last case occurred in the seventeenth century, in the reign of Charles II. Hutchinson, of the "Historical Essay on Witchcraft," writing in 1718, declared that there had been no execution of a witch for thirty-six years. It is certain, however, says the London Illustrated Magazine, that Jane Wenham was sentenced to death for witchcraft at Hertford in 1712, and Dr. Parr declares that four years after, at Huntingdon, Mr. Justice Powel, the same judge who had tried Jane Wenham, passed the capital sentence on Mary Hicks and her daughter Elizabeth (a child eleven years old), who were actually executed (Wenham got off upon a point of law) on the 17th of July, 1716. The same writer asserts that "two unhappy wretches were hanged at Northampton in March, 1705, and in July, 1712, five other witches suffered the same fate at the same place."

Doubts have been thrown on Dr. Parr's assertion, and on the source—certainly much later in date than Hutchinson's essay—from which he derived it; and, perhaps, there we must abandon the imaginative contemplation of so piquant a contrast between enlightenment and barbarism as would be presented by the spectacle of witches being hanged while "Spectators" and "Tattlers" were being written, while Swift was pamphleteering on the conduct of the Allies, and Pope poetizing the rape of Belinda's lock. Anyhow, the act of James I. continued in force for another twenty years. It was not repealed until 1736, when at last it occurred to the legislature that the real mischief of the offense of witchcraft was to be found in the manner of the witch's dealing, not with the devil, but with the public.

In repealing the ancient statute, therefore, punishment was very wisely provided for "persons pretending to exercise or use any kind of witchcraft, sorcery, enchantment or conjuration," or to discover stolen or lost property "by any occult or crafty science." The former of these provisions would be operative against professors of cheiromancy and cartomancy (though not, it is submitted, of astrology), while the latter seems to be aimed especially at the use of the "divining rod," which, I believe, is still employed in the mining districts of Cornwall for discovering the whereabouts of unexplored mineral treasures, and the use of which within quite recent times in Somersetshire for the facilitation of well-sinking is discussed with due gravity, it may be remembered, by a famous British essayist.

RUNAWAY HUSBANDS.

The Principal Cause of Distress Among Women and Children.

There is a need of punishment for this atrocious crime—as atrocious it is, says the Chicago Herald. To merely empty the scorn of mankind on a fugitive husband is not enough, and it would seem that even this penalty is rarely executed. The laws ought to be enforced, and the judiciary, clothed as they are with extraordinary powers, ought to render a better account to society.

It is not uncommon for one husband to keep two establishments. Wives often, on hearing of their husband's infidelity, learn at the same time the location of his second home. Not long ago, such a husband, confronted by his wife, swore brazenly to the mistress with whom he was also well established, that he had never met his wife. Society gave to that wife, in recompense, a promise of pitiful alimony, which the husband promptly refused to pay.

The husband owes a solemn duty to his family. Warned by the officers of the law to perform that neglected duty, he may be dealt with as sharply as an indignant judge may see fit. Has any recusant husband felt this power of the law in Chicago! Are not men who have abandoned wife and home quoted at par in Chicago!

The wife, the woman, is not adequately protected. Marriage is a failure the moment she can be repudiated for a newer face. The mean-spirited fellow who has blasted her career may continue to enjoy the blessings of a society into whose foundations he has mined, while his wife and children struggle with starvation, meeting the cruel rebuffs of the county agent and the Relief and Aid Society.

A major part of the distress among women and children is naught but the crime of renegade husbands. They should all be hauled before the concrete dock of justice, not the ideal bar of public opinion for which they care nothing. Their carcasses should be reached on requisition if need be, and the duty they owe the State should be extorted by means practiced on criminals who are no worse.

A DRUMMER'S TALE.

How He Acquired the Euphonious Sobriquet of "Black Patch."

Nearly every drummer has a "trick of trade" that is so essential to success that he will not divulge it, writes A. J. Gray in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. For instance, I have one. It is of prime importance that his customers recognize a drummer so readily that no time will be lost. Now, if a drummer has brilliant hair, a novel limp or a peculiarity of physique or face that appeals in an instant to the eye of any man who has even seen him before, he has a great advantage over a fellow-craftsman who is so unfortunate as to be commonplace in features, form and manner. I was certainly commonplace looking, and, covering a large territory, it was impracticable to get around more than once a quarter, and I soon found that my constant partner, a whisky drummer, with the emblem of his line displayed in his face and nose—particularly the nose—had to introduce me to my customers each day. True, I was a handsome man, but not strikingly so. There were so many others handsome, on much the same pattern, that it grew monotonous, whereas, a decidedly homely man would be easily noted, because other homely men were homely in different ways. It chanced that a blessing came in disguise that helped me out. It came in the disguise of a brickbat that my left cheek intercepted one night while rambling with my whisky friend among a crowd of drunken miners. It necessitated a big patch of black court plaster, which I found decidedly relieved my good looks. I had to explain its presence to each customer, and I could not dispense with it until I had commenced a second round. To my delight I found that each one remembered me the moment he saw the patch. That is the reason I wear it yet, and that explains how, both among the "profesh" and on the road, I gained the sobriquet of "Black Patch."

A MOTHER'S PRIDE.

How She Tried to Conceal the Condition of Her Drunken Son.

"I am reminded of an incident which I witnessed a few days ago on an outgoing train," says a writer in the Indianapolis News. "A plainly-dressed old woman and a tall, awkward young man, evidently her son, had been in the city, and were going home. There was an uncertainty in the boy's step as he came into the car which indicated that he was considerably intoxicated. They sat down together and he at once began to talk in a loud voice. His words were driveling nonsense, without a tinge of humor. His mother, however, seemed strangely insensible to her son's disgrace. She laughed freely at the incoherent remarks and replied to them, though in so low a tone that her words were inaudible to the passengers.

"People exchanged surprised glances and began to talk of the unusual scene. Some thought the mother indifferent to her son's condition, and therefore little better than he herself. Others were more charitable and did not believe she realized his condition.

"As I listened, it seemed to me the woman's tones were not natural. There was something that sounded strained and affected in her laugh. Her old bonnet was drawn down so that her face was entirely hidden, and I observed that she kept it so, carefully. Then I began watching her closely, for I wanted to see her features. I felt that a glance at them would assure me whether her cheerfulness was real or feigned.

"The train hurried along, and I began to think my watchfulness was to go unrewarded. The young man rambled foolishly on with his talk, and his mother continued to laugh at his pointless wit. Then the engine whistled, and the couple prepared to get off. I leaned forward and saw the woman fumble about searching for a package. The hand she put out trembled like an aspen. As she rose from the seat she turned her head and I caught a glimpse of her face. Her eyes were dimmed with tears and her furrowed cheeks were wet. The expression of her countenance was so sad that it rises up before me day and night. The poor woman in her pride had preferred to appear unconscious of her son's disgrace, hoping the strangers who witnessed it might not comprehend."

WHAT BERLINERS EAT.

Our German Cousins Said to Mix Horse-Flesh with Their Sausage.

The amount of animal food disposed of in the German capital is such that, divided up equally among the population of the city, it yields an allowance of two and a half pounds of meat a week to every man, woman and child in the place, including infants in arms, members of the Legislature and paupers. In other words, says the London Telegraph, each and every Berliner, irrespective of age, sex or political opinions, is officially credited with the consumption of 141 pounds weight of beef, mutton, veal, pork, lamb and horse-flesh per annum. No fewer than 7,000 horses are slaughtered yearly for the Berlin meat market, their flesh being partly sold as "butcher's meat" in shops specially affected to the retail trade in "pferdefleisch," and partly "worked up" into sausages, a popular variety of which is hawked "all hot" about the streets late in the evening and during the smaller hours of the early morn. Poor Prussians are much addicted to horse-flesh stewed in a savory sauce; nor do the well-to-do disdain it as an occasional viand served under its own name. In Germany, Italy and even France the flesh of horses and asses is unquestionably "converted into sassengers," like unto the aged hero of one Samuel Weller's most gruesome anecdotes, in vast quantities, and imparts to them close texture, rich color, and aromatic flavor, in particular to Brunswick "wurst," "martadella of Bologna," and "saucisson de Lyon." This bulk of the substance to which these dainties owe their being, however, is pork, fresh or salted; and in all probability the 470,000 pigs that annually pay the debt of nature in tribute to Berlinese appetites find their way to the table in the shape of either sausage or ham; for Prussians rarely eat roast pork or fried bacon, whereas they are never weary of smoked and cured preparations of pig. Besides devouring this porcine host, Berlin stands accountant yearly for the violent death of 127,500 head of cattle, 131,500 calves, and 346,000 sheep, besides a multitude of minor animals, all of which vanish in due course down her capacious maw.

How to Cut a Bottle.

A simple method of accurately cutting a bottle is to place it upon some level foundation and fill it with linseed oil to the point at which you desire the line of separation to occur. Then take an iron rod of as great a diameter as will pass into the bottle, make it almost white-hot and dip it into the oil. After the lapse of a few moments a sharp crack is heard, and the bottle is found to be as neatly cut as if with a diamond. If the bottle be very thick, and the cracking sound not heard in a few moments, a little cold water thrown on the outside will accomplish the desired result.

Multiplication of Drugs.

A Baltimore physician in a paper published recently in a local medical journal denounces with lively earnestness the tendency to the multiplication of useless drugs. The writer asserts that in the index to the fifteenth edition of the "United States Dispensatory" is a list of about 17,000 names of medicinal substances, which, allowing for duplication and repetition, he estimates represents about 11,000 remedies. Those of acknowledged merit in this enormous bulk are aptly compared to Gratiano's reasons, "two grains of wheat hid in two bushels of chaff." The very existence of this vast armory of therapeutic weapons demonstrates the doctor's weakness in his struggle with disease. The conquerors of this world are the men of few weapons; the needless elaboration of arms is the vain resort of the feeble.

Divorces Under the New Law.

Already, those desiring to have the bonds of matrimony canceled, are taking advantage of the new law which makes two years' desertion a ground for divorce when the parties are actual residents of the State. Under the old law the time was three years. The bill, which passed the Legislature, this year, has only recently been approved, and the two first petitions for divorce under it were filed at the Court of Chancery on Monday.

Flag-Raising.

A handsome flag was unfurled to the breeze from the top of a sixty-five foot pole erected in the yard adjoining the new parochial school building, at the corner of Sixth and Liberty streets, yesterday morning. The scholars of the school assembled in a body and sang appropriate music, as twelve of their number hauled up and unfurled the flag. Rev. Father Smyth spoke a few words to the children.

Mr. Harry Burdette Dennis and Miss Susie Pizie, both of North Plainfield were united in marriage by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, yesterday.

The Hon. Jonathan R. Goble of local-option fame, and the Hon. Albert Hensell, of Burlington county, both members of the late legislature of New Jersey, were guests during the centennial holidays of the Hon. John Ulrich.

Dr. J. B. Probasco has purchased the property at 49 East Front street, adjoining his residence, and workmen are now engaged in tearing down the house thereon. The lot will subsequently by turned into a lawn and added to that which already surrounds the Doctor's beautiful home.

The seventh of the Chautauqua University-Extension Lectures on the greater English poets, by Prof. W. D. McClintock, M. A., of this city, was given at Assembly Hall, last evening. The subject was: "The Poetry of Burns." The next lecture, which will be the last of the series, will be on "The Poetry of Wordsworth," to-morrow evening.

Mr. F. R. Stevens, Manager for the Plainfield Lumber company, succeeded in getting an excellent photograph of Central Engine No. 99, as it passed his place of business on Monday morning. The locomotive was handsomely decorated and was running at a high speed when Mr. Stevens touched the spring, thus securing a good photograph.

Ex-Councilman Fred Slater and Mrs. Slater of the Borough, entertained a party of twenty-two guests on board a steam tug he had chartered, Monday. The boat joined in the naval procession that escorted President Harrison to New York. Among the guests were Councilman Emmons, Clerk Arnold and their wives. A bountiful dinner was served aboard.

Wedding Bells.

At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Jesse Rogers, 18 East 134th street, New York city, at eight o'clock, last evening, Miss Phebe Esther Rogers, formerly of Westfield, N. J., was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. George William Field of New York, by the Rev. Mr. Siles. Mr. Henry A. Field, a brother of the groom, was best man, and Miss Lydia Baldwin of Westfield, N. J., was bridesmaid. The bride was attired in a cream colored cashmere, and carried a bouquet of tea roses; the bridesmaid was dressed similar to the bride.

After the ceremony a reception was tendered the happy couple. Supper, vocal and instrumental music and dancing was indulged in until a late hour. Among those present were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Lambert Edmonds, Mr. and Mrs. Speer, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher, Miss S. Hines, Miss M. Postmaster Harrold is a son-in-law of Mr. Robert Radford of this city, and was at one time in business here. Thus Plainfield is again honored by the appointment of one of its former residents to the postmastership at Dunellen.

THE PLAINFIELD Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

Its Erection to Begin Very Soon—First Call for Subscriptions.

The Building Committee of the Y. M. C. A. have issued the following notice to subscribers:

"We desire to inform you that we have purchased, as the site of our building, the lots Nos. 55 and 57 East Front street, for the sum of $7,000. $27,000 have been subscribed. In estimating our needs originally we apportioned our proposed fund as follows: Lot, $10,000; Building, $35,000; Furniture, $5,000; making a total of $50,000. The $3,000 saved on the estimated cost of the lot will give us so much more with which to make the rooms attractive. We still have $23,000 to raise. We shall endeavor to raise the $7,000 needed for the lot before the last payment, so that when the title is transferred we ought to have $34,000.

"The experience of many places where buildings have been recently erected, shows that when such a proportion of the amount needed is subscribed, it is well to start the building, as the remainder can be more easily secured while the building is going up. We recognize that a few subscriptions were made conditional on the whole amount being raised, and we have no right, therefore, to call for such at this time. But we feel confident of securing the amount estimated, and of soon being able to begin the erection of the building. We believe, however, that much depends on immediate action. In anticipation, therefore, of the work of erection and in order to prepare for it, we deem it wise to give notice, in accordance with the subscription agreement, that thirty days from date, the first of four equal payments on your subscription will be payable.

"We shall be glad, of course, to receive any subscription in one payment. Remittances may be sent to E. St. John, Treasurer, or the amount may be handed to any member of the following Committee: Wm. D. Murray, C. T. Kissam, E. St. John, H. Otis Newman, Henry A. McGee, D. E. Titsworth, C. W. McCutchen.

Centennial Services in the Holy Cross and Grace Churches.

At the Episcopal churches of this city and North Plainfield, services were held in commemoration of the Centennial anniversary of the inauguration of President Washington, as appointed for use in the diocese by the Bishop.

"The last of the series of Centennial Commemorations, which began in 1876, will occur on Tuesday, the 30th day of April of the present year. On the morning of that day in 1789, in the city of New York, George Washington took the oath of office as the first President of the United States of America.

"At the close of the inaugural ceremonies, the President and both Houses of Congress, with others, went on foot from Wall street to St. Paul's chapel, Broadway, where the prayers of the Church were said by Bishop Provoost, the first Bishop of New York, and one of the Chaplains of the Congress.

"Washington was a devout communicant of our Church, and an office-holder, till the time of his death, in his Virginia parish. It seems most fitting that an event of so much importance should be recalled and emphasized at the end of the first century of Republican government. On the morning of that memorable day in 1789, the church bells throughout the country were rung, to call the people together, that they might invoke a special blessing on those in authority. That blessing has been granted abundantly. I ask the clergy and people of this Diocese, where it is possible to do so, to assemble in their several houses of Worship on the morning of April 30th, and join in the same prayers and praises in which the Father of his Country besought the guidance and help of his Heavenly Father.

"The following order of service is put forth for use on that day. Let us gladly do our share to mark the beginning of a new century, by praying that God may continue to bless our land in the future as He has in the past.

"JOHN SCARBOROUGH,
Bishop of New Jersey."

Trenton, April 2, 1889.

Palpitation of the Heart.

Persons who suffer from occasional palpitation of the heart are often unaware that they are the victims of heart disease, and are liable to die without warning. They should banish this alarming symptom, and cure the disease by using Dr. Flint's Remedy. J. G. Miller, Agent, Plainfield.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH CELEBRATES.

Bishop O'Farrell's Patriotic Address, and Cardinal Gibbons' Letter.

The bell of St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, was rung for half an hour, yesterday morning, in commemoration of the centennial anniversary of the inauguration of the first President of the United States.

A mass of thanks was celebrated, followed by prayer for the authorities by the Rev. Father Freeman. The following address issued to the clergy of the diocese, and the letter of Cardinal Gibbons included, was read:

TRENTON, N. J., April 15, 1889.

REV. DEAR SIR—The following letter was published by His Eminence Cardinal Gibbons, and addressed to the clergy and faithful of the Arch Diocese. The sentiments expressed in it receive my most cordial approval. I hereby desire, Rev. Dear Sir, that you read this letter in your church next Sunday, and announce that you will offer a Mass of Thanksgiving on April 30, at 9 o'clock:

'REV. DEAR SIR:—On Tuesday, April 30th next, as you are doubtless aware, the citizens of the Republic will unite in celebrating the centenary of the inauguration of George Washington, the Father of his Country and first President of the United States.

To Washington will remain the imperishable glory of leading this people out of the house of bondage and oppression into the clear light of freedom and national prosperity. The history of the United States is the history of the gradual rise from the foundations of liberty and law and order, by him so deeply and so broadly laid of that stately fabric of our national institutions, which has become the admiration of the world. Therefore do we testify our love for him and endeavor to repay a small fraction of the inestimable debt we owe to his memory by giving his name to fair and thriving cities from our great capital Westward, to lofty mountain peaks and majestic ships, and to our towns by thousands. His name, too, with wider range and deeper import, is cherished in the hearts of all.

Most just and fitting it is that this nation, so founded, rising so magnificently upon the lines which he laid down, should honor with especial and grateful commemoration the hundredth anniversary of the taking by the great captain of war of the chair of office in peace as the chief magistrate of the land he had fought for with such effective valor. To all it should be a matter of profound satisfaction that the citizens of the United States, without regard to race or creed or previous allegiance to flag soever, are about to recognize the life and achievements of the greatest man this Western world has nurtured, as a gift of Almighty God to his own age and as an exemplar to all the ages to be.

In order, therefore, to give expression to our heartfelt thanks for the civil and religious blessings thus far vouchsafed to us by the giver of every perfect gift, and to pray that the spirit of patriotism which burned in the heart of Washington may continue to animate those to whom the destinies of our beloved country may be entrusted, you are invited, Rev. Dear Sir, to announce at a seasonable time before hand a special service for the morning of April 30, at 9 o'clock, or at any hour most suitable to the congregation.

I hereby request you, Rev. Dear Sir, to arrange that a Mass of Thanksgiving be celebrated in your church on Tuesday, April 30, at 9 A. M., in honor of this memorable occasion. The Mass will be that of the Blessed Trinity, with Gloria and Credo—the solemn votive mass of thanksgiving. After Mass the clergy will please recite with the faithful the Prayer for the Authorities, that the Almighty in His infinite mercy, may vouchsafe to continue His gracious blessings on our beloved country.

As an additional expression of joy and thanksgiving the church bells will be rung from 10 to 10 30 o'clock the same morning.

† MICHAEL JOSEPH,
Bishop of Trenton.

By order of the Rt. Rev. Bishop,
J. JOSEPH SMITH,
Chancellor.

Plainfield Deserves Something.

Mayor Male, President Dumont of the Council, Councilmen Marsh, Erickson and others, have signed a remonstrance that will be presented to the Union County Board of Freeholders at to-morrow's meeting.

The communication calls attention to the fact that although Plainfield will be called upon to pay one-fifth of the cost of the new county roads, yet none of those roads proposed is of any additional benefit to Plainfield. The Freeholders voted against macadamizing the road from the Morris turnpike in Springfield to the line dividing Fanwood and Westfield, but voted to macadamize a road from Westfield to Rahway. The latter is uncalled for, and even the Westfielders have little use for it, while the former is a connecting link between the fine roads of this city and its suburban towns and those of Orange and the other beautiful places in that vicinity.

The people of Plainfield trust that the decision of the Board in respect to those two roads, will be reversed.

A New Kind of Chicken Thieving.

While Mr. Randolph Giles, a farmer living at Piscataway, was at dinner, yesterday, he heard a great commotion in his hennery, and going into the door yard he discovered two large red foxes running off in the direction of a hay barrack, each carrying a chicken in his mouth. Mr. Giles and his sons secured shot guns and gave chase. Arriving at the hay barrack, the party shot one of the two foxes and captured two fine cubs. One fox escaped, but that one was also shot about dusk last evening.

Mr. Giles has been missing chickens of late, but until now he has been at a loss to account for their mysterious disappearance. The hay barrack is located in a field, some distance from Mr. Giles' residence, and it is thought that there are several other cubs in the barrack.

The Middlesex Gun Club's Big Shoot.

There was a large gathering of crack wing shots at the Middlesex Gun Club's centennial shoot, held at Dunellen, yesterday. Sweepstakes at live birds and inanimate targets were shot from 10 o'clock in the morning until dark.

The live birds killed, some 500 in number, were a fair average lot, very irregular in flight, and they puzzled many of the experts. The artificial targets used were blue rocks and keystones, and were shot under the popular keystone system. The event of the day was a guaranteed purse of $150 at 15 live birds, $15 entrance fee, shot under modified Hurlingham rules. Twenty-five of the crack shots of this country entered, making the purse $375, to be divided into four parts—40, 30, 20 and 10 per cent.

F. Mahlon of Trenton, Wm. Siegler of Montclair, and Capt. Jones of Jersey City killed their 15 birds straight, and divided first money—$150.

J. Frank Kleinze of Philadelphia, Frank Class of Pine Brook, M. Lindsley of West Hoboken, Chas. VanCamp of Trenton, Mose Williams of Elizabeth, E. A. Francis of Newark, and Capt. Brewer of Philadelphia, each killed 14 and divided second prize, $112.50.

J. Riggott of Rockaway, R. E. Irwin of Philadelphia, S. Castles of Newark, Chas. Smith of Plainfield, and John D. Voorhees of Bound Brook, killed 13 and divided $75.

C. M. Hedden of Newark, E. D. Miller of Springfield, H. E. Buckwalter of Philadelphia, S. G. Smith of Plainfield and E. S. Mills of Washington, grassed 12 birds and divided fourth money, $37.50.

Cannon, the one-arm expert of Newark, killed 11; Williams of Trenton and John Erb of Newark, killed 10 each.

Lotta in "Musette."

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

A multitude of Lotta's admirers paddled through the rain to the Detroit Opera House last night, and, under the influence of her irresistible mirth, seemed to quite forget their discomforts. "Musette" was the play, and Lotta was Little Bright Eyes, the madcap who has an old head on young shoulders, the instincts of the ferret, the activity of the bobolink and the loyalty of a devotee.

Her impersonation was hailed with many plaudits, magnificent baskets of flowers were sent over the footlights, and the audience lost no cue to manifest the liveliest satisfaction with the little artiste's efforts to please. She made the night a gala time indeed, and she was seconded with notable skill and cleverness by Geo. C. Boniface, Jr., in the droll character of bashful Billy Bokus.

He'd Better Keep this Side of the Brook.

Frank Dodge, ex-Secretary of the Reform Club, who was so unfortunate as to cross the brook when he was intoxicated, recently, and was consequently arrested and sent to Somerville, is said to have been released upon the payment of his fine by a female friend.

He was reported as around Plainfield yesterday, celebrating, but he steered clear of North Plainfield.

Shooting at Keller's Grove.

In a shooting match at Keller's Grove, North Plainfield, yesterday, between Mr. Fred. Bechtel and another member of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein, Mr. Bechtel won a prize, having scored the most points in the long range shooting contest. Considerable money changed hands on the result.

Mr. Chas. Dresselt and Mr. Christian Stoeckle also shot a match at 100 yards, the latter-named winning.

Mayor Grant, of New York City, Fills the Post of Toast-Master — Governor Hill Delivers the Address of Welcome—Ex-President Cleveland Speaks to "The People of the United States"—Governor Fitzhugh Lee Tells of "The States"—Speeches by Chief-Justice Fuller, Senator Daniels, Senator Evarts and Others—President Harrison Responds to "The United States"—The Great Civic Parade To-Day—An Immense Column of Social, Political, Trade and Business Organizations.

NEW YORK, May 1.—President Harrison, after reviewing the military pageant yesterday afternoon was scarcely given a chance to don evening attire before he was whirled away to the Metropolitan opera house for the long talked of Centennial banquet. There were many distinguished people there in advance of him, and a beau-

THE GREAT CENTENNIAL FEAST.

The President was welcomed at the entrance of the Metropolitan Opera House, in as nearly as possible the same manner as on his arrival there Monday night, and was at once escorted to his seat at the table of honor, in the center of a triangular group of twenty-eight tables, the number of guests being about eight hundred and sixty.

Mayor Grant presided, and at the President's table were also seated Vice-President Morton, ex-President Cleveland, Governor Hill, Senator Evarts, Bishop Potter, Chief Justice Fuller, Secretary Proctor, Admiral Porter, Major-General Schofield, General Sherman, J. R. Lowell, ex-President Hayes, Speaker Cole, S. S. Cox, C. W. Bowen and Elbridge Gerry.

After Bishop Potter, in response to Mayor Grant's invitation, had said grace, the pleasant task of disposing of the bounteous feast began.

The banquet was the most remarkable one ever held in America, or perhaps in the world, in point of arrangement and execution of detail. The chief steward, seated at a central point, directed every movement of the army of subordinates by means of electricity. At a touch of the bell, every roast was carved, every cork drawn, every course served, simultaneously, thus avoiding any confusion of courses or wines, and insuring the perfect accuracy of every movement on the part of the assistants.

The cost of the banquet is said to have been $35,000.

At 9 o'clock the appearance of Mrs. Harrison and party in the President's box, followed quickly by that of hundreds of othe ladies in the auditorium gave the signal for the speaking to begin. The vast theatre was then crowded with a distinguished audience.

Mayor Grant, in a few well chosen words, introduced Gov. Hill, to whom was delegated the duty of delivering the address of welcome. The Governor said:

GOV. HILL'S ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

Fellow Countrymen: As the Governor of the State within whose borders were heard the acclaims which greeted the first President's oath of allegiance to the Constitution, I extend a welcome to all here assembled. Welcome to you, President Harrison, latest of the line of those distinguished men who have given the same guarantee of obedience to the charter of our liberties and faithfulness to the rights of the people. Welcome to your honored Cabinet, and to those chosen representatives of all the sister States, whose presence here speaks anew the grandeur and greatness of our United States. Welcome to all in authority—Legislative, Executive or Judicial, civil and military—who, in their station, with honor and justice are daily serving our common country. Welcome to all the ambassadors of other nations who participate with us in these festivities. Welcome, strong and brave men, sons of fathers who yielded life, who sacrificed fortune, who endured severest privation, that we might rejoice in liberty. Welcome, fair and true women, daughters of mothers who gave patriotic encouragement in days of darkest distress; who willingly devoted themselves to suffering that the infant Republic might be sustained. Welcome those from whatever clime who have become part of our people, and who have contributed their share in maintaining the purposes and increasing the glory of our common wealth. Welcome to all—citizens, strangers, friends.

The toast, "George Washington," was drunk standing. Then ex-President Cleveland spoke to the toast, "The People of the United States." Mr. Cleveland said:

EX-PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S SPEECH.

The mention of a people may well suggest sober and impressive reflections. The subject was not beneath the Divine thought when the promise was given to the children of Israel, "I will take you to me for a people and I will be to you a God." This idea of Divine relationship to a people is also recognized in the fervent utterance, "Yea, happy is that people whose God is the Lord."

The influence of these reflections is upon me as I speak of those who, after darkness and doubt and struggle, burst forth in the bright light of independence and liberty, and became "Our people"—free, determined and confident—challenging the wonder of the universe, proclaiming the dignity of man, and invoking the aid and favor of Almighty God.

Let us then have an abiding faith in "Our people" Let petulance and discontent with popular action disappear before the truth that in any and all circumstances the will of the people, however it may be exercised, is the law of our national existence.

When Mr. Cleveland concluded Governor Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, was introduced. He spoke to "The States," and said:

FITZHUGH LEE'S SPEECH.

His Excellency, the President of the United States,

Mr. Chairman, and Gentlemen: The inauguration of George Washington as the first President of the United States, is the event in American history we are celebrating to-night. It so happens that I am at present the Governor of the State in which he was born, lived, and is now sleeping his last sleep so quietly and calmly that no sound will ever awake him to glory again. Owing to that circumstance, and from no merit of mine, I feel I have been honored by the request to make a response to the toast just read.

Virginia, in giving this illustrious patriot to the whole country, recognizes the fact that though one State may contain the locality of his berth, and the place of his burial, no one State can bound his boundless fame, but that on the wings of renown his glory has been wafted to all parts of the known world, and now each State in the American Union is equally interested in all that pertains to the hero's life, services and character.

The Republic of to-day should be the Republic of the fathers—the United States of 1889, under our present distinguished Chief Magistrate, will then be the United States of 1841 and 1789, when the sceptre of power was in the hands of William Henry Harrison and George Washington.

May it so continue, and may the contest hereafter, between the States, be, for the promotion of commerce and civilization, the progress of agricultural and manufacturing wealth, and the development of arts and sciences, while each State is laboring at the same time to promote the common glory of the United States. Then may we hear the harmonious invocations from forty-two hearts, ascending to our father's God, sweeping into the heavens and rising above the stars, that State shall not lift up its sword against State, neither shall they know war any more, and that the reign of peace, union and fraternity shall be as lasting as the home of the stars—as eternal as the foundations of the everlasting hills—and in your harbor here may "Liberty enlightening the world" join the swelling anthem and proclaim to her subjects everywhere that the problem of free, popular and Constitutional government has been solved upon the American Continent.

THE FEDERAL CONSTITUTION.

In his response Chief Justice Fuller, after a brief but comprehensive analysis of the Constitution, concluded by saying:

"This matchless instrument vindicates its title to immortality. The conservative evolution that characterized it has enabled it to pass the century since its birth, with its machinery, no cog or wheel displaced, still noiselessly and easily working; to receive direct amendment, to absorb the results of frequent construction, and to emerge from the Civil war, drawing new vigor from the strain to which it had been subjected."

THE SENATE.

Senator Daniels' response was an analysis of the Senate's position in the framework of government, and he held that as the representative of the equal powers of the States it formed the keystone of the governmental arch.

THE JUDICIARY.

Senator Evarts, in his response, dwelt upon the peculiar feature of American institutions presented by the supremacy of the judicial power, as compared with the legislative. The written Constitution superseded the English maxim that the king, the ruler, could do do wrong. With us, an ever present and ever active energy of law qualifies every act of executive or legislative power.

Gen. William T. Sherman followed Senator Evarts, responding to the toast, "The Army and Navy." He said:

THE ARMY AND THE NAVY.

Mr. President and kind friends: When notified by your committee that I was detailed to respond to this double toast, I begged them to divide it, promising to limit myself to my own special branch of service in less than half the time allotted; but no! I must do double duty. I therefore bespeak your indulgence.

On such an occasion as this, you, the citizens of America, have a perfect right to inquire of your knightly servants, have you been true and faithful to your oaths during the past century?

Making due allowance for the usual infirmities of human nature, I answer emphatically, yes!

Men, horses and the fundamental principles of the military science remain the same to-day as when Washington led and taught his Revolutionary army, the same patient endurance of the labor and hardships of war, the same submission to discipline and authority, the same patriotic devotion to our country's honor and its flag which is the symbol of all that is glorious and good in our national character; but the instruments of war have changed, and are still changing with a rapidity which confounds the ancients, and calls for new and younger men. Should unhappily an occasion arise I am sure these will come forth, worthy successors to their noble sires. Tear from your histories the annals of heroic valor, patient endurance and devotion to the flag by the soldiers of your country during the past century, and you will leave a void indeed.

Steel, steam, electricity and nitro-glycerine have revolutionized the navies of the world, have banished from the high seas the majestic line-of-battle ship, the handsome frigate and speedy sloop, and in their stead have substituted monitors and steel clads, real monsters of the most uncouth patterns, so that were Nelson and Collingwood, John Paul Jones and Stewart recalled to earth they would find themselves strangers on their own decks. The world will go ahead, and I have abundant faith that the heroic youth of our navy will keep well abreast in these modern inventions, and, should the occasion arise, they, too, will prove equal to it, as they have ever done in the past.

Therefore, let me conclude with what I might have begun and finished with:

"The Army and Navy forever.

President Harrison was to have responded at the point where Mr. Blaine's toast was scheduled, but this part of the programme was re-arranged, and the President remained on the list as the last speaker. He did not rise to respond to the toast, "The United States," until a very late hour. This delay was at his own suggestion, in order to give him more time to rest after his fatiguing day's work. The President was pale and seemed very tired.

PRESIDENT HARRISON'S ADDRESS.

President Harrison was vociferously applauded when he finally arose. He said:

Mr. President and fellow citizens: I should be unjust to myself, and what is more serious, I should be unjust to you, if I did not at this first and last opportunity express to you the deep sense of obligation and thankfulness which I feel for those many personal and official courtesies that have been extended to me since I came to take part in this celebration. [Applause.] The official representatives of the State of New York and of this great city have attended me with the most courteous kindness, omitting no attention that could make my stay among you pleasant and gratifying. From you and at the hands of those who have thronged the streets of the city to-day, I have received the most cordial expressions of good will. I would not, however, have you understand that these loud acclaims have been in any sense appropriated as a personal tribute to myself. I have realized that there was that in this occasion and in all these interesting incidents which have made it so profoundly impressive to my mind, which was above and greater than any living man. [Applause.] I have realized that that tribute of cordial interest which you have manifested, was rendered to that great office which, by the favor of a greater people, I now exercise, than to me. [Applause.]

Let me add a thought due to our country's feature. Perhaps never have we been so well equipped for war upon land as now; and we have never seen the time when our people were more smitten with the love of peace. To elevate the morals of our people, to hold up the law as that sacred thing which like the ark of God of old may not be touched by irreverent hands, but frowns upon any attempt to dethrone its supremacy; to unite our people in all that makes home comfortable as well as to give our energies in the direction of material advancement; this service may we render. And out of this great demonstration let us draw lessons to inspire us to consecrate ourselves anew to this love and service of our country.

At the conclusion of the banquet the President received a committee from St. Francis Xavier college, who presented him with a tribute written in the various languages of the world. It was an engrossed document addressed to "Washington and America."

In a few words the President expressed his sincere thanks to the faculty of the college, and requested to be remembered to his former classmate, the Rev. J. Denny, S. J.

THE CIVIC PARADE.

An Immense Column of Social, Political, Trade and Business Organizations.

NEW YORK, May 1.—The civic and industrial parade started at 10 o'clock this morning at Fifty-seventh street and Fifth avenue. It followed the same line as the military, only in an opposite direction. This was down Fifth avenue, past the stand at Forty-second street, under the Twenty-sixth street arch, to and past the reviewing stand at Madison square and the Worth Monument stand, under the Twenty-third street arch and to Fifteenth street, where it turned east to Broadway, then north, and passed entirely round Union square, with its circle of big stands, to Fourteenth street, where it wheeled west to Fifth avenue. Passing down Fifth avenue, it passed under the citizens' arch at Waverley place, wheeled eastward along Waverley place, passing the grand stand there into Broadway. At Canal street, in Broadway, the parade began to disband, and only a small portion of it passed the City Hall stand.

Gen. Daniel Butterfield, Grand Marshal, led the parade. His division marshals were: Gen. A. P. Ketchum, Gen. Emil P. Shaefer, Gen. John Cochrane, Col. Thomas H. Barber, Capt. C. G. Burns, J. F. Wenman, Gen. David J. Morrison, Nathaniel McKay, Gen. James R. O'Beirne, and Gen. M. T. McMahon.

The ceremonial feature of the civic parade was the presentation to President Harrison in front of the reviewing stand of an elaborate address enclosed in a silver box. This was done when the column, coming down Fifth avenue, reached Twenty-sixth street. At that point an honorary body of seventy men, representing the oldest and greatest organizations of every sort in the city, and headed by Mayor Grant, assumed the head of the procession. Among the societies represented were:

The General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen, the Huguenot, the Holland, and the New England societies; Cooper Institute, the Marine Society, the Board of Trade, the Historical and Geographical societies, the Society of Architects, the Artists' society, the Bible society, the Association for the Promotion of Art, the Ethnological society, the Shipman's association, the Art Students' league, the Columbia College School of Mines, the Bar association, the Board of Underwriters, the Brewers', Builders', Coffee, Cotton, Stock, and Petroleum exchanges, the Electrical society, the Jewelers' Security association, the Board of Trade and Transportation, the Society of American Artists, the Mercantile exchange, the Master Painters' association and the Master Plumbers' association.

FLOATS IN THE CIVIC PARADE.

The historical floats which occupied so prominent a position in the industrial parade were original in design and attracted profound attention and admiration. The conception and design of each was the work of S. C. Dubois, and the credit of their execution belongs to Joseph Stollwerk. The first seven represented the seven original colonies which were first peopled from the Old World.

The first, "Virginia," was a miniature representation of a model of a ship of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Its historical idea was the company sent in 1606 under command of Capt. John Newport, which brought to America men who had principally lost their fortunes and who sought new ones in the New World. A council of seven was appointed for its government, Capt. John Smith at the head. On the float were a group of these adventurers, costumed in the Elizabethan style, standing on the high poop-deck of the vessel.

Tableau No. 2 represented New York, which came next in the order of settlement. This float showed a boat load of Dutch sailors and voyagers, with a sailor in the midst throwing a line to make fast to a post planted by Hudson in 1609. New Jersey was the offspring of New York, and was represented by the latter State's float.

The third design was in striking contrast to the preceding one. Its title was "The Anchoring of the Mayflower, December, 1620." The picture depicted the pilgrim fathers signing the compact to "submit to whatever just and equal laws and ordinances might be thought convenient for the general good." The charter of Massachusetts comprised all the territory of what is now known as the New England States. A charter, however, was granted by the Plymouth company in 1629 to Capt. John Mason for New Hampshire, who found on his arrival there a number of settlers from Massachusetts. Connecticut also was colonized by people from the former colony. Roger Williams, with a number of religious exiles who could not live in harmony with the Puritans, peopled the country about Providence, R. I., buying the land from the Narragansett Indians and establishing a system of religious toleration. They received a charter from Charles II. in 1663. The design of this tableau was cumulative, by placing the banners and mottoes of New England all in one float.

The next float represented Delaware, 1627. The country was settled by Finns and Swedes under a charter from Gustavus Adolphus and his daughter Christina. The object was to christianize the savages, and the tableaux represented the mode in which it was done by trading. The Indians are seen receiving cotton goods in return for their rich stores of pelts.

Maryland, settled in 1633, was represented by float No. 5. The scene is the arrival of Lord Baltimore, and he is guaranteeing freedom of worship in the new colony. The Carolinas, which were not represented by floats, were first settled by exiles from Virginia, who fled from the mother colony during the religious troubles of some years before. It was here where John Locke, the philisopher, arranged the famous "grand model" of government.

The design of the Pennsylvania float was William Penn's treaty with the Indians. When Penn arrived in the Welcome in 1682, he was met at Chester by a number of Quakers who had arrived the year before, and had made much progress in laying out Philadelphia. On his arrival he met by appointment a body of Indians and bargained for their land. The tableaux exhibited Penn as he put aside the unsigned "treaty which was never broken." An Indian is holding the calumet towards him, and the picturesque appearance of the different groups, and the building in process of erection for the proprietor's occupancy, all present a striking and interesting sight.

The last of the Colonial floats was "Georgia, 1732," which was the last colony settled in North America previous to the revolutionary struggle for independence. James Edward Oglethorpe, who founded it and who was a religious enthusiast of broad and enlightened views, is welcoming the Huguenots, Scotch Covenanters and Irish Presbyterians on their arrival.

Float No. 9 was composed of Washington and his generals. Washington, as commander-in chief, occupies the center of the line, his four major-generals—Ward, Putnam, Schuyler and Lee—on either side. Closely following are the nine brigadier-generals, the number originally appointed by the Continental Congress.

Washington crossing the Delaware was represented by the next two. In the first he is crossing from the Pennsylvania side, to which he had been obliged to retreat to save his army from the overwhelming forces of Sir William Howe after the disastrous fight in October, at White Plains, and the surrender of Fort Washington, ten miles from New York City. The crossing was made on Christmas night, 1776. His army only numbered 2,500 men, but conditioned as they were, he won the subsequent fight at Trenton and took 1,000 prisoners. The second is the Valley Forge tableau, where the debilitated troops quartered during the winter of 1777-78 without food half the time and clothed in rags. Sick and disheartened, with scarcely any shelter and every opportunity to desert, Washington shares their misfortunes, going about addressing and comforting them. He reminds them of what forms the tableau's motto: "The liberty of America depends upon your valor and firmness." The picture shows him, with his wife, meeting the Prussian soldier, Baron Steuben, who was commissioned inspector-general of the army by Congress in 1778.

The twelfth design was General Washington's farewell to his officers at Fraunce's tavern, in New York, Dec. 4, 1781. The figures represented are those of Washington and Generals Knox, Green, Hamilton, Steuben and Lafayette. These words from Washington's farewell address comprise the picture's motto: "With a heart full of gratitude and love, I now take leave of you. I most devoutly wish that your latter days may be as prosperous as your former ones have been glorious and honorable."

Float No. 13 represented Washington resigning his commission, which took place at Annapolis in the House of Delegates Dec. 23, 1783. Its motto is this quotation from his address on that occasion: "Having now finished the work assigned me I retire from the great theatre of action and, bidding an affectionate farewell to this august body, under whose orders I have so long acted, I here offer my commission and take my leave of all the public employments of life."

The inauguration of Washington was the theme of the fourteenth float. It represented a section of the old Federal Hall, or State House, as it was called. The representing figures are those of the President, Chancellor Livingston, General Knox, John Jay and others. The guards of honor in this tableau were the thirteen States which had ratified the Constitution. This sentence from Washington's inaugural address is the motto: "The preservation of the sacred fire of liberty, and the destiny of the republican form of government, are justly considered as deeply, perhaps as finally, staked on the experiment intrusted to the hands of the American people."

McSwyny's Four Hundred.

NEW YORK, May 1.—"McSwyny's Four Hundred" held their centennial banquet at Delmonico's last night. Toasts were responded to by Mayor Cleveland of Jersey City, Mayor Gleason of Long Island City, Bishop Farrell of Trenton, Col. John O'Beirne, Judge McAdam, Hon. John E. Fitzgerald, Judges Nehrbas, Rhinelander and Dillon, Amos Cummings and others.

The Fireworks.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Fine displays of fireworks were made last night at the Battery, Union square, Mount Morris Park, Tompkins square, East River Park, Washington square, Central Park plaza, Fifty-ninth street and Eighth avenue; Canal street square, junction of Canal and West streets; Washington heights, Boston road and Third avenue, and Webster avenue and Burnside road. The set piece used as the grand finale at each place represented the colossal figure of Washington as he appeared taking the oath of office as the first President of the United States. The piece was an exact copy of the statue now on the steps of the Sub-Treasury in Wall street. It is 60 feet high and between 30 and 40 feet wide. The figure was all of colored fire, surrounded by brilliant sun fires and colored stars of the Union. The total cost of the fireworks was $11,000.

IN MANY OTHER CITIES.

The Inauguration Centennial Celebrated Throughout the Country.

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 1.—Religious services were held in all the churches of the city yesterday, and there was a general suspension of business. The National colors were displayed on all the public and on many private buildings.

SAN FRANCISCO CELEBRATES.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—The day was celebrated by religious services, literary exercises, displays of flags in the harbor, salutes and general decorations.

DENVER TAKES A HAND.

DENVER, Col., May 1.—The Washington Centennial Anniversary was celebrated here yesterday; a public meeting being held in the Tabor Opera House under the auspices of the G. A. R. Ex-Congressman Belford delivered an able oration on the life of Washington. All public offices and many business houses were closed. It was intended to have a grand parade, but the heavy rains of the past few days have made the streets so muddy that it was thought best to abandon this feature of the programme.

THE DAY IN BUFFALO.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 1.—The celebration of Washington's Inauguration Centennial in this city was confined to the churches, courts, banks, federal institutions and a few manufacturing establishments. The most ambitious observance of the day was at the First Presbyterian church in the morning, where seats were reserved for the mayor and city officials, judges, members of the Buffalo Historical society and others, and where Judge Daniels and Hon. James O. Putnam made addresses. Services were also held in the other churches.

A GENERAL HOLIDAY AT BEVERLY.

BEVERLY, Mass., May 1.—The one hundredth anniversary of the inauguration of George Washington was observed here as a general holiday. Special union religious services were held at the First Parish meeting house. Rev. O. T. Lamphear, D. D., delivered an interesting address. He spoke of the services held in this same church one hundred years ago, and eulogized men who took part in that service—men who were advisers of Washington and whose names have been associated with the history of the country. Joseph McKean was pastor, and among the worshippers were George Cabot, Israel Thorndike, Nathan Day, Joshua Fisher, and those patriotic merchants who pledged their fortunes to the infant republic. This church was built in 1770, and stands in the same position and with but slight alterations to-day.

DOWN IN DIXIE'S LAND.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 1.—The centennial of Washington's inauguration did not pass without a very general observance in Alexandria, as was fitting, for the ovation to Washington on his route to New York was begun in Alexandria. The center of observance was at Christ church, where Washington worshipped, where Rev. P. H. Slaughter, D. D., delivered a discourse on Washington's life as a churchman and a townsman. Rev. Slaughter narrated graphically, yet with eloquent words, the relation of the great chief to the city of Alexandria, and closed by the recitation of verses in honor of Washington and Lee. The congregation rising at the close sang "America."

HON. W. H. BARNUM DEAD.

He Passes Peacefully Away at His Home in Lime Rock, Conn.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., April 30—Hon. William H. Barnum, Chairman of the National Democratic Committee died at Lime Rock yesterday.

Mr. Barnum had been confined to his bed but two or three days and for the past 24 hours his death had been momentarily expected. He was out for the last time on Friday last, when he sat on the piazza for an hour. Saturday he was taken with a bad spell and it was apparent from the first that he could not recover.

He had been very feeble ever since his sickness during the Presidential campaign.

Another Body Recovered.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 1.—Another body was taken out of the wreck on the Grand Trunk railroad yesterday, burned beyond recognition. Relatives and friends of missing persons supposed to have been burned in the wreck, have arrived here and are endeavoring to identify watches and other trinkets found in the ruins.

Funeral of George Higginson.

BOSTON, May 1.—Oliver Wendell Holmes, Robert Treat Paine, Thomas Jefferson Coolidge, General C. J. Paine, Henry Parkman, and other noted persons, were present yesterday at the funeral of the late George Higginson, the banker. Rev. Phillips Brooks officiated.

WHY.

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WHERE?

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

WITH BAT AND BALL

New York's Increasing Lead in the League Race.

THE SENATORS AGAIN BEATEN.

It Took Twelve Innings for Pittsburg to Beat Cleveland.

Philadelphia Again Defeats Boston—Chicago Wins from Indianapolis by Superior Batting—Brooklyn Improving In Her Work—Cincinnati Takes a Game from Kansas City—St. Louis Winning with Monotonous Regularity.

NEW YORK, May 2.—New York and Philadelphia have each strengthened their positions in first and second places in the League race. Pittsburg is a strong third and Cleveland and Chicago are a tie in the fourth place, with Indianapolis and Boston following. Washington has yet to win her first game.

St. Louis has increased her lead over the Athletics in the struggle for first place in the Association race. Cincinnati and Brooklyn are the only other clubs that bettered their positions in this race yesterday.

NEW YORK'S LEAD INCREASING.

The Giants captured another game from the Senators yesterday, and did not do any hard work to get it. Captain Morrill tried his "kids" again. The only one who made any headway was Carney. The other three, Keefe, Sweeney and Ebright, were steady for about four innings, and then Keefe lost all control of the ball. The result was seven bases on balls in one inning, which, with two base hits, gave New York seven runs and settled the game. The strain of so many men on bases told heavily against young Sweeney and broke him all up and rattled him so that he lost his head completely. This, with some more bases on balls and five base hits, gave New York seven more runs.

PITTSBURG WINS FROM CLEVELAND.

PITTSBURG, May 2.—Pittsburg did not get a single hit in yesterday's game until the eighth inning, when Maul broke the ice by repeating Conway's performance of Tuesday by driving the ball over the left field fence for a home run. From this out the play was of the most exciting description, men of both teams being on the bases every inning until the twelfth, when Pittsburg won on a base on balls and opportune sacrifice hitting.

THE PHILLIES CAME NEAR LOSING.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—The home team came near losing yesterday's game to the Bostons after having it well in hand for seven innings. Then Gleason lost all control of the ball, and the result was the visitors by timely batting made the score uncomfortably close. The fielding of the Bostonians was exceedingly loose, Kelly distinguishing himself by dropping an easy fly.

THE CHICAGOS WON WITH THE BAT.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 2.—The Chicagos won yesterday's game by virtue of superior batting. Hutchinson, though very wild at times, was, in the main, effective. In the sixth inning he forced in two Indianapolis runners by giving bases on balls when the bases were full.

THE BRIDEGROOMS BUNCHED THEIR HITS.

BROOKLYN, May 2.—Over 8,000 persons witnessed the game yesterday between the Brooklyn and Baltimore teams. Caruthers and Cunningham did the pitching, and both were very effective. The Brooklyns were more fortunate in bunching their hits and ran the bases well.

ST. LOUIS GETS EVERYTHING.

ST. LOUIS, May 2.—The Browns had a walk-over with Louisville yesterday, their victory being due to Stratton's poor work at the outset.

RATHER SAD FOR MR. PORTER.

KANSAS CITY, May 2.—Cincinnati won yesterday's game. Porter was put in to pitch his first game for the home team, and the visitors jumped on to him with both feet, making 15 safe hits for a total of 19 bases.

A LIFE SENTENCE FOR RAPE.

William D. Johnson Gets a Dose of Connecticut Justice.

WATERBURY, Conn., May 2.—Judge Andrews of Litchfield has sentenced William D. Johnson of Burrville to State prison for life for assaulting Bertha Cook, the Torrington school teacher, at Campville, April 17. Johnson first pleaded not guilty, but changed his plea.

Johnson's uncle on his mother's side and his uncle's wife are both in State prison for eighteen years and five years respectively. The pair three years ago deserted their own two-year-old offspring in a lot at Oar Bridge on the Connecticut Western railroad after riding fifty miles with that intention. Several of Smith's children had mysteriously disappeared previously.

Newport Carpenters Strike.

NEWPORT, R. I., May 2.—The carpenters' strike for nine hours as a day's work instead of ten, at the same pay, began yesterday. All but two contractors have yielded, and only seventy-five men are out.

FOR MURDERING A PEDDLER.

Joseph Hillman Charged with Killing Hermann Seidemann.

WOODBURY, N. J., May 2.—Jos. Hillman, a young married man of 20, who lives at Turnerville, has been indicted by the grand jury of Gloucester county for the murder of Hermann Seidemann, a Jewish peddler at that place.

The crime is supposed to have been committed in November, but was not discovered until March, when a party of pleasure seekers found the body in Nash's mill-pond, near Turnerville. Suspicion at once fell upon Hillman, who lived close by the pond and was known to have entertained Seidemann at his house over night on several occasions.

The authorities began a thorough investigation and soon collected enough evidence to warrant his arrest, and he was locked up. The indictment is for murder in the first degree. He stoutly denies any knowledge of the affair.

The trial will not take place until September.

Covington's Grotto of Lourdes.

CINCINNATI, O., May 2.—An event of national interest to the Catholic church was the impressive consecration of the magnificent grotto of Lourdes at St. Aloysius church on Seventh street, Covington, Ky. The cavern is a perfect reproduction of the famous grotto of Lourdes in the mountain fastnesses of France, where the Virgin appeared one day to little Bernedette, a peasant girl, and revealed to her various secrets. It is built under the main altar, and comprises an excavation 20 by 40 feet, containing the ante-chamber and grotto proper. Father Blenke, the pastor of the church and the donor of the grotto, furnished the designs made after repeated pilgrimages to the original shrine.

Cut Her Little Baby's Throat.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Ellen Good, a colored servant, 20 years old, in the employ of Mrs. Brent, who lives in the Delaware flats, 283 West Thirty-eighth street, gave birth to a child yesterday morning, and immediately after the babe was born its mother cut its throat with a pair of scissors. Then she went to the roof and hid the dead body between some trunks that belonged to Mrs. Keiser, an actress, who lives in the house. After murdering and hiding the body of her child Ellen went to the kitchen to prepare breakfast for the housecold. She kindled the fire, but had to cease work because of exhaustion. She is under arrest.

Philadelphia's Gift to Capt. Murrell.

BALTIMORE, May 2.—Captain Murrell, his officers and crew, were given a banquet last night, on which occasion Captain Murrell was presented with a silver ice pitcher. Philadelphia sprung a surprise on everybody at the feast when J. W. Goodson, of that city, arose and in behalf of Philadelphia presented a check for $2,500, the money to be divided between the officers and crew of the Missouri. He said the subscription in Philadelphia for them netted $3,100, $600 of it being used to purchase merit medals, which would be presented to the officers and crew on shipboard to-morrow.

The N. P. U. Celebrate.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The National Provident union celebrated the Centennial by a meeting last night at the Metropolitan Opera house, a very large audience being present. Among the speakers and prominent guests were Hon. William Warner, of Missouri, Commissioner Tanner, Daniel Dougherty and E. O. Bragdon, President of the Union. An overture by the Seventh Regiment band and the singing of "America" by the entire audience preceded the speechmaking. The leading oration of the evening was delivered by Senator Daniel, who spoke of Washington's influence in our national life.

Two More Identified.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 2.—The remains of two more of the charred victims of the Grand Trunk wreck have been identified and taken away. They were those of Morgan R. Scullen, of Chicago, which were identified by A. Colcin, and those of H. S. Hall, an old and retired merchant, of Evansville, Ind., which were identified by his son-in-law. Thirteen dead are thus far accounted for, leaving six bodies about which no inquiries have been made.

He Was Crushed to a Jelly.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 2.—A terrible accident occurred near here yesterday. As Charles Bailey, a prominent farmer, was driving over a bridge with a heavy load of lumber, about a mile east of here, the bridge collapsed, precipitating the load together with the horses and driver to the gulch twenty feet below. Bailey was instantly killed, being crushed to a jelly. Both horses also perished. Bailey was twenty-eight years of age.

JERSEY CITY, May 2.—Michael Jamison of 227 Seventh street, quarrelled with his wife yesterday afternoon and threw a bucket at her. It struck her on the back of her head, and knocked her down. The woman was taken to the Second Precinct Station, where the wounds were found to be serious, and she was sent to the City Hospital. In the meantime her husband escaped.

APPOINTMENTS NEXT WEEK.

It Is Probable that several Important Offices Will Be Filled Soon.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Secretary Windom will hardly take up the cases of customs officers and other appointees this week. It is expected, however, that he will confer with the President early next week in relation to the appointment of a Surveyor and Naval Officer for the Port of New York. It is said, too, that a number of other important Federal appointment in the State will be settled within the next week, among them the Collectorship and Appraisership for the Port of Buffalo. The Secretary has notified some of the interested parties that he will probably take up these cases on the 7th inst.

There is widespread belief here that while Naval Officer Burt may be allowed to remain in his position for a few weeks, his official term will not extend beyond July 1, and that he will be relieved so that his successor may take charge of the office at the beginning of the new fiscal year.

All Quiet at Oklahoma.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Adjutant-General Dunn has received the following telegram from General Merritt, at Oklahoma, through Assistant Adjutant-General Williams, at Chicago: "Everything continues quiet. Noah Plympton presided, and among others present were: James Parton, Col. Jonas H. French, Charles A. Dana, Gen. Stephen Thomas, Hon. Leopold Morse and John Boyle O'Reilly. General Butler spoke feelingly of the honor done him, and paid a glowing tribute to Admiral Farragut, by whose cooperation and daring efforts the victory of New Orleans was won. Mr. Dana made an eloquent speech.

A Reception to the Justices.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The New York Bar association tendered a reception last night to the Justices of the United States Supreme court, a distinguished array of legal celebrities being present. Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Blatchford, Field and Strong (retired), ex-President Cleveland, Elihu Root, Judge Magie of New Jersey, Allen W. Evarts, Senator Hiscock and William Jay were a few of the many prominent guests.

BURGLARY.

PROFESSIONAL THIEVES DO SOME GOOD WORK BUT GET NOTHING.

They Cut Their Way Into the Post Office. Force Open the Government's Big Safe and Smash the Locks on All the Cash Drawers.

Some time during last night, burglars entered the post office on Front street, forced the safe doors and pried open all the locked drawers in the office; but besides whatever might have been the inconsiderable contents of five or six registered letters, the burglars got nothing.

A view of the scene this morning shows that the work was done by professionals, and very clean and careful work it was. They entered by the back door, boring a big hole beneath the inner bolt and a small hole above the latch. The holes were bored with a carpenter's augur and the chips were carefully laid at one side. As soon as the burglars had entered, the door was shut again and a towel stuffed in the holes so that no light would shine through and attract attention from the back buildings.

The front door was then securely fastened on the inside by a big screw-eye that was driven into the floor. The door of Postmaster Force's private office, through which the large Government-safe can be seen from the street, was closed, and the burglars from all appearances then proceeded with their work leisurely and undisturbed.

A small hole was drilled in the safe door alongside of the combination plates and then chipped larger with a chisel. A steel bar was inserted and with a blow the back-plates of the lock were smashed, the clutches driven out of the bolts and the handles then turned with ease. But inside of the big safe a small steel safe confronted the cracksmen. This they seemed to have neither the time nor the tools to open. In it were the funds of the general account and the money order department, all of which was found intact this morning.

The empty envelopes of five or six registered letters, on the floor, were records of all the burglars succeeded in getting for their trouble. All the locked drawers in the office were pried open and taken to the sorting table in the back of the room. They contained little of value, however—28 cents being the total in cash. The closet in which were stored $2,000 of stamped envelopes and postal cards, was not opened. But such bulkey matter that would have to be carried through the streets and subsequently sold, probably offered no temptation to the professionals at work on that job.

No clue to the identity of the burglars is obtainable. Nothing was left behind by which to trace them. They will probably never be captured nor even known. Two strange men who have been roaming about town for a few days past, were supposed to be missing this morning. THE PRESS reporters have had their suspicions aroused and their eyes on the strangers ever since they arrived. Yesterday one of the pair stopped in the Dime Savings Institution and asked a few questions about making a deposit, and as to how soon it would begin to draw interest. He also wanted to know how he could draw the money if he went West. All the time he was talking his eyes were searching the interior of the room. Consequently rumor sought to connect them with the burglary, but these suspects who are said to be harmless advertising agents, are still in Plainfield.

The business men in general are disposed to blame the police. The work of the burglars must have taken some time, and they traveled all around the interior of the room. The usual lights were kept burning and many burnt match were seen about the place. But then it must be remembered that on account of the partitions that enclose the office its interior cannot be seen from the street except through a small window and two doors that were left open last night, but found closed this morning. If it had been noticed that these doors were closed—especially the one hiding the safe—the burglars might have been trapped.

No doubt the police are very much to blame, but more particularly censurable is the carelessness of the private watchmen who is employed to look in at the interior of the office every hour during the night. But Watchman Wright says he looked in every half-hour all night and could see the safe all the time. He saw nothing out of the way.

In contrast with this inefficiency of the guardians of the city, is the faithfulness of the post office employees. In spite of the fact that the burglars had time and tools to open everything but the inner safe, yet they found nothing left in reach except six cents in one drawer and twenty-two cents in another, that had been paid in for letter postage due. Asst. Postmaster George Godown and Registry Clerk Charles Pratt, had as usual seen that everything was carefully locked within the steel inside safe before they left the office last night.

Each day the receipts from all sources up to three o'clock, are deposited, but later yesterday afternoon quite a large amount had come in. Over $150 from the sale of stamps and about $600 received in the money-order department, was in the inside safe with about $5,000 worth of postage stamps.

The Postmaster's desk was unlocked with the key that was found in a drawer, and then carefully locked again. A fragrant Havana cigar that was in the desk was left, but a revolver was taken and also five cartridges from a box full—just enough for another load. A smaller safe in the office which contained very little of value, was untouched. The burglars showed themselves acquainted with the kind of safes used in the Government's post offices. They are called the "cut-off" because upon any attempt being made to blow them open, the back of the doors fall in instead of the front blowing out. Last night's operators opened the safe in an easy way that showed they had been there before. They seemed to have recognized also the inner safe of bolted steel-plates, and knew from experience there was no use to attempt getting in it.

The burglary was at once reported to headquarters, and Inspector Hugh J. Gorman, of Philadelphia, arrived at noon today. An examination of affairs is now going on under the supervision of himself and Postmaster Force.

"A Despicable Lie."

(From "The Voice" of Today.)

On Thursday of last week the New York Mail and Express contained the following dispatch from Trenton:

It can be stated on the best of authority that Gen. Clinton B. Fisk, the Prohibition leader in this State, will not be a third party man next Fall. Gen. Fisk told ex-Senator Sewell a few days ago that he was through with a third party movement in New Jersey. He said that the Democrats had gone so far in the recent Legislature in favor of intemperance that every Prohibitionist must join the Republicans next November, and endeavor to elect a Republican Governor and a Republican Legislature.

This has been telegraphed to and commented on with exultation by the Republican papers throughout the whole country. The Voice and Gen. Fisk have received great numbers of dispatches and letters of inquiry.

Of course the story is a base falsehood.

Gen. Fisk was seen by a Voice reporter last Monday, and said:

I have not spoken with ex-Senator Sewell, as stated by The Mail and Express, nor have I had an interview with any other New Jersey politician about temperance matters. You may denounce the statement of The Mail and Express as an unconscionable lie. My pockets are full of dispatches asking about this matter. You may tell my good Prohibition friends the country over, that they need not have the slightest fear about my drawing back from the advanced position which we occupy in the the temperance conflict.

Go See Lotta.

Lotta will caper and make merry as Musette in the familiar play of that title at Music Hall, Saturday night. The clever little actress has long been popular in this role, and her appearance in it should be welcomed by a large, audience. More than her usual spirit enters into the performance, as though Lotta were enjoying a lark with her old dramatic friend, the sportive, mischievous Musette. Mr. George C. Boniface, Jr., who has decided ability as a comedian, and is much improved in quality, extracts a good deal of mirth from the part of Billy Bokus, a precocious juvenile, quite artistically played by Mr. Boniface. The role of Sir Hugh is capitally played. The company is a satisfactory one.

Reception at Hope Chapel.

The scholars of the Hope chapel Sunday school, were tendered a reception in the chapel, last evening, and a large number of the scholars were present. Mr. Fred Andrews presided, and announced the numbers on an informal programme, beginning with a piano solo by Miss Hunter, followed by a banjo solo with piano accompaniment by Mr. M. Day and sister. Miss Heyniger then gave a pleasing recitation, followed by recitations by Mr. and Mrs. Hillman, Mr. Fred Andrews and an address by Mr. S. R. Struthers.

Each and every number on the programme was acceptably rendered, and at the conclusion of the musical and literary exercises, iced-cream and cake were served in abundance.

A Treat of Music.

There was a large gathering of immensely entertained people in the Jacob Bros., piano warerooms, on East Front street, last evening. The musicale arranged by Manager Henry Shepherd was a complete success, and the public hopes for another at the same price.

Mr. John Francis Gilder played a number of brilliant pieces, among which his own compositions were not the least charming. Mr. B. T. Barnes sang "The Exile" by Keller, "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," and as an encore, Meyer Helmund's "Marguerita."

The Death Record.

Miss Lizzie Storr, daughter of the late Joseph Storr, died at her home in North Plainfield early on Monday morning of heart disease, aged 26 years.

The sad announcement is made of the death of Mary E., the young wife of Mr. Jay Snyder of Grove street, which occurred on Sunday night. The deceased was but 21 years of age. The funeral took place from the Mt. Bethel church yesterday, at noon.

—The case of the City vs. James Dady, which was set down for to-morrow morning, has been adjourned over until the 15th instant.

—A young man was arrested by Officer Giesse last evening on a charge of committing an offence in the neighborhood of the American Steam Laundry, on East Front street. He gave bail for a hearing.

Children Cry for It.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The Rev. and Mrs. A H. Lewis, sail for Europe on the steamer "Nebraska," Thursday of next week.

Mr. Percy VanAlstyne broke the bowling record at The Olympia, yesterday afternoon, with a score of 214.

Miss Josie Martin of Chatham street, North Plainfield, left today for a week's visit with friends in New York and Brooklyn.

Ex-Councilman Wm. T. Kaufman and family are at home again on Seventh street, West, after a long absence. Mr. Kaufman has regained his good health.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Laing of Park place, North Plainfield, were surprised by a few of their friends on Tuesday evening. A few hours were pleasantly passed, after which the gathering dispersed.

Mr. Fred Dunn of this city, sprung his camera on President Harrison as the latter was viewing the procession at Elizabeth, on Monday, and got an excellent photograph of the Chief Magistrate.

Our Young Men is the name of a neatly gotten up pamphlet by the Young Men's Christian Association of Camden, N. J. The periodical is published monthly and contains matter of both interest and profit to young men.

The members of the well-known sporting goods firm of A. M. Vanderbeek & Co., of this city, went to Bound Brook on Tuesday, and "they say" that they landed thirty-six white perch from the Raritan River, below the dam.

The death occurred yesterday of Mrs. Marie Maire, mother of Mrs. George Lissignolo of this city. Mrs Maire was an old resident of this vicinity, and at the time of her death still occupied the pretty homestead property in Warren township near Guerrier's hotel.

A pretty wedding took place at the residence of the bride's sister, in Harlem, at five o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Emma Emrich of Harlem and Mr. John C. Soffel of Red Bank were united in the bonds of holy matrimony, Rev. Mr. Jewitt of Red Bank officiating. The groom is a brother of Mrs. J. H. McVey, of this city.

The funeral of the late Irene H. Hall who died on Monday of paralysis, aged 78 years, took place from the house, No. 107 East Front street, at 12:30 o'clock today. Rev. C. B. Mitchell officiated. The body was then transferred to the Second Reformed church at Somerville, where a second service was held at three o'clock this afternoon. Interment was made at Somerville.

Mr. J. A. Whitman of New York recently purchased the desirable piece of property on East Front street, at the corner of Leland avenue, this city, and on Saturday his household effects were removed to Plainfield, where he intended locating. Word was received in this city today, announcing Mr. Whitman's sudden death from heart disease on Saturday night. It is understood, however, that the deceased's family will take possession of the premises.

Concerning a Y. M. C. A. Home.

The new Postmaster-General of the United States was formerly General Secretary of the Philadelphia Y. M. C. A. Several years ago a secretary wrote asking his opinion of the Association buildings. He received the following:

"Replying to your favor of the 13th of March, as to the value of the Association buildings, I am free to say that a city like Philadelphia, with its hundred thousand young men, could get on better without its street railroads than without its fine commodious building of the Young Men's Christian Association. No better investment was ever made in this city by its merchants and business men than the gymnasium, library, reading room and halls, that they have for its young men. I consider it of great importance that every city should have a building as headquarters for its young men."

JOHN WANAMAKER.

The New Marriage Law.

May 1, the marriage license law passed by the recent Legislature, goes into effect. The law prohibits any justice of the peace, minister or other person from marrying minors, unless the parents or guardians are present and give their consent or until the minor applying shall produce a certificate of consent in writing signed by the parents or guardians and this certificate must be proved genuine by the oath of at least one person. If the consent shall not be obtained as required then the person performing the ceremony must require the parties to take an oath that they are of age. The justice or minister is required to register every marriage in a book kept by him for that purpose and the certificate of consent shall be attached to the marriage certificate, both of which must be filed with the State Bureau of Vital Statistics.

—"In God we trust; all others cash down," is the sign which adorns the front of a rural blacksmith shop.

Mean Trick.

B. H. K.—I shall raise on your board after Tuesday.

B.—Why?

B. H. K.—Because you are using Dr. Dam's Remedy, and eat twice as much as you formerly did.

The County Road From Plainfield to Elizabeth.

Following is the course of road No. 3 designated by the Board of Chosen Freeholders as one of the county roads which the county will hereafter have to keep in repair, and for which work this city will be obliged to contribute its share of the cost.

The road leads from Elizabeth to Plainfield, beginning at West Jersey street at the end of the stone pavement in the city of Elizabeth and following the line of said street, its various courses, passing under the Central railroad bridge at ElMora, thence following the line of North avenue, its various courses passing through the townships of Union, Cranford and Westfield, crossing under Central railroad bridge at Broad street, Westfield, to South avenue, thence following the course of South avenue to the South side of Richmond street, in the city of Plainfield.

Railroad Notes.

It is understood that the New Jersey Central Railroad Company has joined the Trunk Line Association.

It is one of the features of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad relief plan that the children of those who join are carried to school free of charge and their families are transported at half rates.

The speed of railroad trains is restricted to three theoretical limits: First, a physical limit of eighty miles an hour, beyond which it is found impossible to hold to the track. Second, an operating limit of sixty miles an hour, which practical experience has found trains cannot run at without much danger of life. Third, a commercial limit of thirty miles an hour, at which, all things considered, it is found most economical to run a train.

Not a Law, But It Should Be.

A number of papers throughout the State have stated that a law has been passed by the Legislature making the school age for children from 6 to 20 years. Such a law, even if passed, would not be effective without an amendment to our State constitution. It would be a good law and be of vast benefit to the youths of the State, by giving them more years of public schooling at an age when the mental faculties are more fully developed.

The constitution, however, fixes the school age of children between the ages of 5 and 18 years, therefore an amendment to the constitution would be necessary before the passage of such a law as reported would be valid.

A Truth.

One of our exchanges truthfully remarks: "Every line in a newspaper costs something. If it is for the benefit of an individual firm it should be paid for. If a grocer was asked to denote groceries to persons abundantly able to pay for them, he would refuse. The proprietor of a newspaper must pay for the free advertising if the beneficiary does not, and yet it is one of the tardiest things to be learned by many people that a newspaper has space in its columns to rent, and must rent it to live. To give away or rent it for anything less than living rates would be as certainly fatal as for a landlord to furnish house rent free."

New Locomotives.

Twenty-five locomotives have recently been ordered to be constructed at the Cook locomotive works in Paterson, for use on the Central Railroad of New Jersey. Some of them have already been delivered, and the order calls for the delivery of two each week until the contract is completed. They are taken to the shops in Elizabeth by way of the Erie and Pennsylvania railroads. They are said to be beauties, and the weight of each one averages ninety-five tons.

The Sparrow Declared a Bad Bird.

A writer in the Scientific American takes strong ground against the English sparrows and declares them to be an enemy to the fruit grower, gardener and farmer, beside which all others sink into insignificance. He says that these birds increase with astonishing rapidity and he advises that a war of extermination be waged against them. He says that they are particularly destructive to young fruit buds, and also to small fruits of all kinds as they are about ripening.

Saturday's Ball Game.

The ball game on Saturday between the Crescents of this city and the Y. M. C. A., nine of New Brunswick promises to be an interesting event in base ball circles. The game will take place on the new grounds, corner of Richmond street and LaGrande avenue, this city, and will be called about 3:30 o'clock. The Y. M. C. A's of New Brunswick will bring over a strong team, and the Crescents will probably have their hands full in defeating them.

Big Crop and High Prices.

Predictions of the peach crop, like dreams, go by contraries. Peach growers now assure us of an abundant supply of that delicious fruit during the coming Summer. They say that unless the growth is retarded by frosts in July, the yield will be unusually large. The price will correspond with the crop.

Court of Special Sessions.

Court of Special Sessions convened at Elizabeth, yesterday morning, Judges McCormick, Heyer and Wiley on the bench. No business of importance was transacted. Court adjourned until Wednesday next.

—An overgrown boy, and a dog to match, amused himself on Park avenue, near Sixth street, last evening, by chasing and stoning cats.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

STRIKE OF BUILDING HANDS.

The Bricklayers, Masons and Carpenters of Pittsburg All Stop Work.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 2.—Building operations throughout Allegheny county are paralyzed. It is estimated that fully five thousand union men are out on strike today. The blow to operations which contractors and capitalists have fought assiduously this spring has fallen. The strike extends to carpenters and joiners, stone masons and hod carriers, and as a result of the strike in these trades, bricklayers and the other building trades are, in many places, at a stand still. The strikers are members of the United Building Trades' Union and the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. The last named organization works in connection with the first.

The strike is inaugurated against the employment of non-union labor and by some of the trades for advance in pay. The carpenters strike mainly against non-union workmen, but at the same time want a uniform minimum rate of $2.50 per day. The stone masons want an advance from $2.60 to $3 and the hod carriers ask for an advance from $2.25 to $2.50. Work in all districts of Pittsburg, Allegheny, East End, South Side and the suburban towns is at a standstill.

Indications are that the struggle will be a long one, at least with some of the trades.

Threatened Bread Famine in Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., May 2.—Over two hundred journeymen bakers went on strike this morning on the issue that ten hours' work shall constitute a day's work. The average day now comprises fourteen hours' of work and in many shops this is increased by three or four hours. The men do not ask for an increase of wages, but are determined that shorter hours of work shall prevail. The strikers are all union men. Committees have been appointed to wait at all railroad stations to intercept men who may come from other cities to seek employment. It is probable that the strike will prove a success, for the reason that, outside of the union men, there are not enough journeymen bakers in Newark to do the work of one large establishment.

Whiskers May Save His Life.

BELVIDERE, N. J., May 2.—In the Bolak murder trial yesterday the question came up as to whether the defendant wore whiskers on the night that Bolinshire, his alleged victim, was murdered. Kempsey, one of the witnesses, testified that he saw a man he thought to be Bolak at Mine Hill on the night of the murder and that he wore whiskers. To rebut this the defense presented testimony to show that Bolak was clean shaven on the night of the murder. This closed the case on both sides, and, owing to the illness of one of the jurymen, an adjournment was taken until to-morrow.

Held for Bigamy.

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 2.—Jacob Fischer, a Polish blacksmith, was yesterday committed to the County Jail, charged with bigamy. Fischer ran away two years ago from his first wife Esther in Poland and fled to this country, where he married again. His forsaken wife learned of his whereabouts and followed him. There was a stormy scene when the two wives met, but wife No. 2 ejected her rival from the house. The latter then applied to Justice Neill for her husband's arrest for bigamy. Fischer was held without bail for crime and waived examination.

His Wife Couldn't Stay the Knife.

JERSEY CITY, May 2.—Gustav Schoot, of Cincinnati, stabbed himself in Steup's hotel, yesterday, with a pocket knife. His wife attempted to prevent him, but failed. He was about to stab himself a second time, when Mr. Steup and the bartender, Frank Wenhauser, in response to Mrs. Schoot's cries, arrived, and prevented him. Schoot's wounds are slight. He was taken to the Jersey City hospital.

Miners Will Continue Work.

MASSILLON, Ohio, May 2.—From interviews with operators and leading miners indications are that the miners in this valley will continue work and accept the 77½ cents per ton rates as the summer schedule which went into effect yesterday.

Big Damages Against a Railroad.

BOSTON, May 5.—Aloysius Fagnaut has obtained a verdict of $28,5000 damages against the Boston and Albany railroad for injuries caused by the falling upon him of a decayed post.

Reunion of Veterans.

NEW YORK, May 2.—A grand reunion of veterans of all G. A. R. posts in this vicinity was held yesterday in honor of Commander-in-Chief Warner, G. A. R.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The summing up in the Hawes murder trial at Burmingham, Ala., will be finished to-day.

The newly appointed Postmaster of New York city, Cornelius Van Cott, began his duties Tuesday.

At Jasper Ala., last night the Western Union telegraph office was struck by lightning and operator Hurd was killed.

The Crogin Manufacturing company, of Chicago, engaged in the manufacture of tin and sheet iron ware, made a voluntary assignment yesterday. The liabilities are about $70,000; assets estimated at $130,000.

The special Russian Commission intrusted with the matter has approved the Siberian Railway scheme of constructing a line from Zlatoonst to Valdivostock within six years at a cost of 25,000 roubles per verst.

It is stated that a sub-committee of the Samoan confereuce is projecting a plan for the future government of Samoa under a native ruler and appointing a tribunal to consider and adjudicate the question of land tenure.

The Erie Canal was formally opened on Tuesday at midnight and eighty-two boats took advantage of the fact and cleared. This is a much smaller number than usual at this time of year although very favorable rates are obtained by the boats.

The police at Cronstadt, Russia, have discovered another plot against the life of the Czar and in the course of their investigations found a Nihilist storehouse filled with arms and explosives. Several arrests have been made in connection with the discovery.

The 8,168 ton schooner Shiloh sailed from Gloucester, Mass., for a fishing trip to George's, on March 25, since when nothing has been heard of her. Her owners on Tuesday gave her up as lost. She was commanded by James Wells, a native of Guysboro, N. S., and had a crew of thirteen men, most of whom were natives of Nova Scotia.

Weather Indications.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Indications for Eastern New York and New England, Fair, stationary temperature; northerly winds.

MR. PARNELL'S EXAMINATION.

Attorney-General Webster's Harsh Treatment of the Irish Leader.

Mr. Parnell Denies that He Ever Resorted to Violence or Other Illegal Means to Further His Schemes—Mr. Gladstone to Attack the Tory Budget This Evening—A Fund of £10,000 for the Orangemen's Plan of Campaign.

LONDON, May 2.—Everybody is commenting on the acerbity of manner which characterizes the demeanor of Sir Richard Webster toward Mr. Parnell, much to the discredit of the former. Even the leading and most pronounced Tories doubt the wisdom of the Attorney-General's course, not that they desire to spare the feelings of the Irish leader, but because they believe that the harsh manner adopted by Mr. Webster will greatly increase the already widespread popular sympathy with that persecuted gentleman.

On cross-examination before the Parnell Commission yesterday, Mr. Parnell denied that the Irish World had ever collected money for the Irish Parliamentary party. The paper, he said, had been hostile to himself and the Irish party since 1882.

Sir Charles Russell produced extracts from the same paper adverse to Mr. Parnell.

Mr. Parnell admitted his acquaintanc with Mooney, but did not know whether he had contributed to the Parliamentary fund or not. He had had no communication with Patrick Ford since 1881. Mr. Parnell emphatically denied that his Irish scheme had ever included coalition with the Fenians.

The order to expel landlords, he said, was certainly aimed to destroy landlordism; but not to drive individuals from the country. He had never had any idea of resorting to illegal means. His testimony throughout denied all knowledge of any manifestoes counselling violence, but it was no part of his duty, he said, to exclude any one from the League on account of their antecedents. On the contrary, he wanted to include all Irishmen.

He had no recollection of delivering a speech at Lynn in which he said that when England was beaten to her knees the time would have come to realize the Nationalist idea.

Lord Dunraven's yacht, the Valkyrie, was successfully launched yesterday. Her frames are of steel, the top and sides of her deck and deck fitting are of teak, and her bottom planking of hard wood. Her length is 85 feet; beam, 15 feet 9 inches; depth, 11 feet 6 inches and her tonnage 56.76. The length of her load waterline is a trifle under 70 feet, Lloyds measurement.

Mr. Gladstone will attack the Budget in the House of Commons this evening and there will of course be a large crowd in attendance to hear him.

The Unionists are sadly divided in their opinions as to the propriety of passing the Sugar bill. Lord Hartington will probably oppose it, and if he does he may possibly carry a few of the Unionists now favorable to the measure with him.

The supporters of the Sugar convention, from Baron de Worms down, are alarmed at the defection in the Unionist ranks and are sending speakers into the provinces to agitate in favor of the bill, hoping to compel such an expression of preference from the constituents of certain Unionist members as will cause them to change front.

The Liberals are organizing a counter agitation, with a prospect of good results.

The display of pictures at the Academy is much better this year than at the exhibition of 1888. This is especially true of landscapes of which there are a great many excellent ones. The nudes are fewer than last year and far inferior in respect of conception and execution. There is a profuse display of portraits, most of which are good.

Mr. Thomas W. Russell, the Unionist member of Parliament for South Tyrone, has collected £10,000 as a fund for an Orangemen's "plan of campaign," to combat the League system of that name. An "Estates Committee" has been formed, with Lord Abercorn as president.

The Radicals are rejoicing over the rejection of the Leaseholder's Acceptance bill, whose progress in the House they have persistently hampered since its introduction. The rejection of the measure is a substantial triumph of Georgeism, and the American apostle of single tax may well feel gratified at the fate of the bill, more especially in view of the enormous success of his tour of the Kingdom.

The House of Commons has rejected the bill proposing to give to urban leaseholders the power to purchase leases.

The potters at Munich have gone out on strike to enforce a demand for an increase of wages and a reduction of their day's work to ten hours.

An explosion occurred in the Recklinghausen colliery at Dortmund, Westphalia, yesterday, killing three persons and injuring eight others.

President Harrison Returns to Washington.

LAST OF THE CENTENNIAL.

The Presidential Train Makes a Quick Run Over the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Only Two Stops Made After Jersey City Was Left Behind—The Newspaper Correspondents Have a Lively Dinner on the Train—Speeches by Distinguished Guests—Crowds Cheer the Train as It Rushes by the Larger Stations.

NEW YORK, May 2.—After the President and Vice-President left the reviewing stand yesterday afternoon they were driven to Mr. Morton's residence, where a light lunch was partaken of. At 4 o'clock the President and Vice-President, Stuyvesant Fish and Elbridge T. Gerry were driven in a carriage to the Pennsylvania railroad ferry, where other carriages, occupied by Russell Harrison and members of the Centennial committee, joined them and the party were quickly driven aboard the ferryboat Princeton and conveyed to Jersey City. No one else was allowed aboard the boat—a fact which did not seem to please the people who were kept waiting on the New York side for the next boat to arrive.

ON BOARD THE TRAIN.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 2.—It was nearly 5 o'clock when the Presidential party arrived at the Pennsylvania railroad ferry landing from New York, the departure of the special train for Washington having been delayed one hour beyond the scheduled time at the request of the committee having in charge the industrial parade. The carriages containing the distinguished party were driven to the railroad yard just outside of the depot, where the special train awaited them.

A large crowd had gathered about the train, and the President was loudly cheered as he stepped from his carriage and walked to the private car of Vice-President Frank Thomson.

The train was made up of the combination car "Premier," the correspondent's car, the dining-car "Continental," the private car occupied by the President. The party included the President and Mrs. Harrison, Miss Ida Murphy, Private Secretary Halford and others. A number of the party which had accompanied the President from Washington, were obliged to leave New York before the conclusion of the Centennial ceremonies, and several others had determined to remain in New York until today, and three of the sleeping cars that had brought the party from Washington were left behind on the return trip.

The private car occupied by the President was beautifully decorated. In the open fire place in the little parlor bloomed lillies and roses, while American Beauties and marechals Niels wreathed the windows and festoons of smilax decorated the ceiling.

At 5:15 the train pulled out of the yard.

George W. Boyd and E. L. Postlethwaite of the Pennsylvania Railroad company accompanied the party from here and Vice-President Thomson was expected to join it at Trenton.

AT HOME ONCE AGAIN.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The Presidential train pulled into the station at 10:45 last night, exactly at the hour when it was scheduled to arrive. The journey from New York was a quick and pleasant one. Only two stops were made. The first was at Trenton. Vice-President Thomson of the railroad, was to have joined the party at this point, but he telegraphed from Philadelphia that he was not well enough. The second stop was made at Philadelphia, where the train was delayed about five minutes.

As soon as it started supper was served in the dining-car "Continental" and in the President's car. When the rest of the party had been satisfied the dining-car was given up to the newspaper correspondents. During their dinner several members came in from the other cars and speeches were made by distinguished guests.

Secretary Rusk was made to listen to a song detailing the woes of an office seeker which he seemed to enjoy thoroughly. Secretary Proctor declined to speak and his hasty exit from the car was made to a chorus of amusing allusions to the "Secretary of Peace."

The entire company drank the health of Secretary Blaine standing and Walker Blaine, who had resisted all attempts to persuade him to sing a song responded in a graceful manner. Assistant Secretary Bussey established his superiority immediately by answering that he was the only member of the new administration that has no door-keeper.

Secretary Halford, who was called to respond for the President immediately after, said that he dad a door-keeper and he needed two.

Postmaster-General Wanamaker said that if he had not gone into the drygoods business he was quite sure he would have been a newspaper man and he promised the company that the two cent postage stamp should be colored a vivid red if the Washington correspondents wished it.

Major John M. Carson made a speech in behalf of the Washington correspondents. In the course of his remarks he drew a very pretty contrast between the methods of travelling 100 years ago and those of the present period. He took occasion to congratulate the Pennsylvania road upon the very thorough and magnificent equipment of the President's train and concluded his remarks by asking his associates and the distinguished guests present to join him in drinking the health of the managers of the great corporation which had done so much toward perfecting railroad travel.

At the larger stations crowds cheered the train as it went by. A large crowd cheered the President as he walked through the station here and took his seat in the White House carriage which was waiting for him.

Tooth Pullers and Sawbones.

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—The dental and medical departments of the University of Pennsylvania held their 115th annual commencement yesterday. There were 12[illegible] graduates in medicine and 60 in dentistry, who hail from all States and countries. Provost William Pepper conducted the ceremonies. Dr. D. Hayes Agnew, the noted surgeon, has just resigned his professorship at the University. When he rose to speak yesterday he was cheered for several minutes. He was overcome with emotion, and before he had said many words fainted and fell backward into the arms of Dr. McVickar.

SO HARD!

I stood at the side of an open grave;
They brought the casket that held my dead,
And placed it there, a cross at the head;
I tried so hard to be brave.

The singers chanted their mournful song,
The pastor offered a plaintive prayer,
And many true friends surrounded me there
I tried so hard to be strong.

I thought how quickly had passed the term
Which we had spent together on earth,
Yet sought to value it at its worth;
I tried so hard to be firm.

There lay the dear one, lifeless and cold,
Gently confined in the narrow case;
Never again could I see that face;
I tried so hard to be bold.

The dead had shielded me oft from harm,
Had given me counsel wise and kind,
Had loved me with heart and strength and mind;
I tried so hard to be calm.

It seemed at that moment I had no will;
I could not reason, I could not forget,
I longed to cry out aloud, and yet
I tried so hard to be still.

I planted there flowers of many a hue,
The bloom and blossom each summer morn;
To the memory of the loved one gone
I'll try so hard to be true.

A FEW LETTERS.

They Tell an Interesting Story of Love and Duplicity.

[From Herman Dorman, of Detroit, to Miss Sadie Menton, of Cleveland.]

MY DEAR MISS MENTON—I thought of saying to you what I now intend to write. I meant to say it the night before you left for your visit to Cleveland, but somehow my courage failed me. A friend of yours told me that you had rejected many suitors because you believed their motives to be mercenary. I could not bear to have the deep love I feel for you tinged with such a suspicion and I had resolved to be silent forever. But since you have been away this city seems to me so utterly dreary and desolate that I have made up my mind to at least learn the worst. I may say—and my only excuse for saying it is the remark I have alluded to—that I believe my own fortune is nearly if not quite equal to yours. I do not say this boastfully, but merely to show you that in offering you my hand and heart I am not actuated by any other desire than to hope for yours in return. In case you should look favorably upon my suit I shall be only too glad if your wealth is so arranged as to be entirely beyond the control of any one but yourself.

My dear Miss Menton, I love you truly, devotedly and unselfishly, and I love you for yourself alone. What is your answer!

With deepest affection, yours,
HERMAN DORMAN.

[From Miss Sadie Menton at Cleveland to Mr. Herman Dorman at Detroit.]

MY DEAR MR. DORMAN—I can assure you that no such thought ever entered my mind regarding you. I think I am somewhat of a judge of character and can tell the false from the true. I shall be here some weeks longer, and if you happen to be in Cleveland before I return, I shall be very glad to welcome you.

Yours,
SADIE MENTON.

[From Mr. John Menton, Detroit, to his sister Sadie, in Cleveland.]

MY DEAR SAD—Might I respectfully ask if you've gone crazy? Herman Dorman! of all men in the world! Now, I did think once that you had some sense, but I see you are just like the rest of them. Trust a girl for picking out the very worst man in her set every time. Dorman wants your cash, that's the brutal long and short of it. Now, Harry Raymond is worth ten thousand of such as that shyster Dorman. If you were poor you would have married Harry, you know you would. You liked him, and he has been in love with you ever since you were in the high school. Now you have driven him out to a Texas ranch and have actually engaged yourself to that rascal! My dear Sadie, I have no patience with you. Why is it that an honest man generally has no chance with a plausible scoundrel in the favor of a good and high-minded woman?

Anyhow, don't let the engagement be announced for awhile yet. You will do that much at least for me.

Your brother, JOHN.

[From Miss Sadie Menton, Cleveland, to John Menton, Detroit.]

MY DEAR BROTHER—You must not write to me again in the strain of your last letter. You know that I mean what I say. I will overlook it this time, because doubtless what I wrote you took you by surprise. You are entirely mistaken in your estimate of Mr. Dorman's character. He has admitted to me with sorrow that men rarely understand and sympathize with him. His has been a life of earnest work and unselfish devotion to duty. There is nothing of the boon companion about him as there was about Mr. Raymond. If Herman had received the answer I gave to Mr. Raymond, he would merely have buried the sorrow in his heart and devoted himself to his duty instead of going dramatically off to Texas and making an absurd cowboy of himself. You must not say I drove him there. Herman is entirely disinterested, and to prove it to you I have only to say that his fortune is quite equal to my own. I shall do as you request about keeping the engagement secret for a time. Your affectionate sister,

SADIE.

[From John Menton, Detroit, to Miss Sadie Menton, Cleveland.]

SADIE—Do you know that there is an estimable and valuable, if somewhat uninteresting volume named "Bradstreet's?" Look up the standing of Mr. Herman Dorman. "Fortune equal to your own." Bosh! Distrust a man whom women like and with whom his fellow men don't sympathize.

JOHN.

[From Harry Raymond, Slaughter Ranch, Tex., to John Menton, Detroit.]

MY DEAR JOHN—I'm a wild and woolly cowboy, and don't you forget it. There is more buckskin than culture about me now. My chief recreation is shooting holes in the air around a tenderfoot when he comes to visit the ranch. He generally thinks I was born this way, and that I have an unquenchable thirst for innocent blood. John, I'm afraid I haven't gone far enough west, or am too far south, or something. I don't forget as easily as I thought I would. I've evidently struck the wrong latitude. If you notice the slightest trace of lingering regret at my absence don't stop to write, but telegraph. There is a telegraph line to the fort near here, and some of the boys are in every night to fill up with forty rod, and they'll bring a message out. The moment I get a dispatch I'll take a vestibuled mule train to the nearest railway station so quick that the mules won't know what struck them.

I'd about as soon ride a Woodward avenue car as a bronco, anyhow. Yours, HARRY.

[From Herman Dorman, Palace Hotel, Cleveland, to Isaac Van Bruntstein, pawnbroker, Detroit.]

MY DEAR VAN B.—Send me $500 as soon as possible to the Palace Hotel, here. I'll pay you within three months at any rate of interest you like to put on.

HERMAN DORMAN.

[From I. Van B., Detroit, to H. Dorman, Cleveland.]

DEAR SIR—I would rather see the $400 I have already lent, than lend any more on such poor security as your word for payment. VAN BRUNTSTEIN.

[From H. Dorman, Cleveland, to I. Van B., Detroit.]

Look here, Ikey, if you ever want to see your $400 you'll lend me what I want P. D. Q. Here's the situation: I'm here at an expensive hotel and must keep up style. Everything depends on it. I'm engaged to Miss Menton, of Detroit, and that's worth half a million, as you know. You can easily find out the truth of what I say by asking —— or —— to both of whom she has written about our approaching marriage. Now don't fail to send the cash, and the moment we are married I'll make her fork over the amount. Yours, H. DORMAN.

[From I. Van B. to H. Dorman, Cleveland].

DEAR SIR—I inclose you N. Y. draft for $500. I also inclose a three months' note for $2,000, which please sign and return. Engagements are uncertain and I can not take the risk for less. Yours,

VAN BRUNTSTEIN.

[From H. Dorman to I. Van B.]

MY DEAR ISAAC—You are not half so sharp as I thought you were. I have cashed the draft. Thanks. But I have torn up the note. I will pay you all right enough if you don't press me too much, but not such rascally usury as that. You know you have no legal remedy—such extortion is illegal, anyhow—so you'll have to trust to

Yours truly, H. D.

[From Isaac Van Bruntstein, Detroit, to John Menton.]

DEAR SIR—I called at your office to-day, but you were out. I therefore leave this note for you. I understand that Herman Dorman is to marry your sister. He owes me $2,000 which he refuses to pay. I have a letter written by him in which he admits that he marries her for her money. If this letter is worth $2,000 to you you are welcome to it. I. VAN BRUNTSTEIN.

Bring letter or send it by bearer. If it is what you say it is I will pay the sum you ask. JOHN MENTON.

MY DEAR SADIE—I inclose you a letter which came into my hands. It speaks for itself, and besides relates to a most dishonorable action on the part of the man who wrote it. It is from a scoundrel of one class to a scoundrel of another, but there was no honor in either of the thieves in this case.

Yours, JOHN.

[Telegram.]

Harry Raymond, Fort Broncho, Tex.:

Come home, you idiot. JOHN MENTON.

[From the society columns of the Detroit Free Press.]

The engagement is announced of Henry D. Raymond, of this city, to Miss Sadie Menton, daughter of the late Samuel Menton. As both Mr. Raymond and Miss Menton are well known in Detroit society it is expected that the wedding will be one of the brilliant events of the coming season. Mr. Raymond but recently returned from his ranch in Texas.—Luke Sharp, in Detroit Free Press.

DON'T EAT HASTILY.

The Habit Ruined the Great Napoleon and May Also Ruin You.

It is a mistake to eat quickly. Mastication performed in haste must be imperfect, even with the best of teeth, and due admixture of the salivary secretion with the food can not take place.

When a crude mass of inadequately crushed muscular fiber, or undivided solid material of any description is thrown into the stomach, it acts as a mechanical irritant, and sets up a condition in the mucous membrane lining of that organ which greatly impedes, if it does not altogether prevent, the process of digestion.

When the practice of eating quickly and filling the stomach with unprepared food is habitual, the digestive organ is rendered incapable of performing its proper functions, says Medical Classics. Either a much larger quantity of food than would be necessary under natural conditions is required, or the system suffers from lack of nourishment.

Those animals which were intended to feed hurriedly were either gifted with the power of rumination or provided with gizzards. Man is not so furnished, and it is fair to assume that he was intended to eat slowly. We must apologize for reminding our readers of facts so familiar. The matter may seem a small one, but it is not so.

Just as a man may go on for years with defective teeth, imperfectly masticating his food, and wondering why he suffers from indigestion, so a man may habitually live under an affliction of hurried dinners without knowing why he is not well, or how easily the cause of his illness might be remedied.

The habit of eating fast and carelessly is supposed to have paralyzed Napoleon on two of the most critical occasions of his life—the battles of Borodino and Leipsic. On each of these occasions he is known to have been suffering from indigestion.

On the third day of Dresden, too (as the German novelist, Hoffman, who was in the town, asserts), the Emperor's energies were impaired by the effects of a shoulder of mutton stuffed with onions. There can be no doubt that Napoleon's irregularities as to meals injured his health and shortened his life.

STATISTICAL FACTS.

Reliable Information on a Variety of Interesting Topics.

A German statistician says: There are at present 3,064 languages spoken by the inhabitants of our globe, whose religious convictions are divided between 1,000 different confessions of faith. The number of males is nearly equal to that of the females. The average duration of life is 33 years. One-fourth of the population of the earth dies before attaining the seventeenth year. Of 1,000 persons only one reaches the age of 100 years, and not more than six that of 65 years. The entire population of the globe is upward of 1,200,000,000, of whom 35,214,000 die every year; 96,480 every day; 4,020 every hour; 67 every minute and 1 and a fraction every second; on the other hand the births amount to 36,792,000 every year; 100,800 every day; 4,200 every hour; 70 every minute; 1 and a fraction every second. Married people live longer than the unmarried, the temperate and industrious longer than the gluttons and idle, and civilized nations longer than uncivilized. Tall persons enjoy a greater longevity than small ones. Women have a more favorable chance of life before reaching their 50th year than men, but a less favorable one after that period. The proportion of married persons to single ones is as 75 to 1,000. Persons born in spring have a more robust constitution than those born at other seasons. Births and deaths occur more frequently at night than in the daytime. It may finally be added that only one-fourth of the male inhabitants of the globe grow up to carry arms or perform military service.

A Brakeman Killed.

SENECA FALLS, N. Y., May 2.—John Bettelle, of this village, a locomotive fireman in the employ of the New York Central railroad, fell from a moving freight train at Skaneateles. He was taken to a Syracuse hospital where he died a few hours after. His remains were brought to his home at this place.

Clarks Get Yarn from Scotland.

NEWARK, N. J., May 2.—The first shipment of yarn from the Scotch mills of the Clark Thread company arrived yesterday, and will be used in the Kearney mills in place of the product of the striking spinners. The strike seems no nearer a settlement now than on the day the hands quit work.

The Miners Did Not Strike.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 2.—An Akron, Ohio, special says that the miners of the Akron district did not strike yesterday, as had been expected, a compromise having been reached by which the miners agree to accept 77½ cents as the basis of the summer scale of wages.

Sentenced to Death.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., May 2.—Jack Taylor was sentenced to death yesterday for the murder of William McCausland and refused a new trial. This makes three out of four of the murderers of McCausland now under sentence of death.

WHY.

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WHERE?

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

PRESIDENT HARRISON'S DELAY

In Appointing a Controller of the Treasury May Cause Considerable Trouble.

If an Appointment Is Not Made Within Ten Days, the Business of the Office May Be Brought to a Standstill—The Navy Department Officially Informed of Paymaster Smith's Disappearance—Other Matters of Importance.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The ten days for which the Deputy First Controller of the Treasury was authorized to act, pending the appointment of a Controller, expired yesterday, and Mr. Garrison was designated to act for another ten days. This is the last delay possible under the law, and if a Controller is not appointed by the 12th the business of the office will be at a standstill.

The Navy department has been officially informed of the mysterious disappearance of Passed Assistant Paymaster H. R. Smith. Yesterday afternoon a written report was received from Captain Jewell, of the "Essex" that Smith had left the ship on the PAYMASTER SMITH.

25th inst. He was to return the next day, but since that time nothing had been heard from him. Commodore Walker, as acting Secretary, instructed the commandant of the New York navy yard to cause a search to be instituted for Smith by the Police department of New York.

Mr. Smith was a man of high standing in the navy; owns a house in this city, and it is believed that he has been foully dealt with.

The Controller of the Currency has declared a ninth dividend of 2 per cent. in favor of the creditors of the Pacific National bank of Boston, making 57 per cent. paid on claims proved amounting to $1,897,111. The bank failed in May, 1882.

As soon as Mr. Huston the newly appointed United States Treasurer begins his duties the printing of all national greenback notes will be suspended temporarily. The old stock bearing the name of J. M. Hyatt, as Treasurer, will be worked off as speedily as possible. The plates engraved with his signature will be hammered until where Mr. Hyatt's signature appeared will be a smooth surface and then Mr. Huston will write his name in small letters and it will be neatly engraved on every plate, when this is done the presses at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing will be started anew and the new notes with their new signatures will begin to appear.

Secretary Proctor returned from New York last night and will leave Saturday for a trip through the West. He will inspect the military prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and the military posts at Denver, Cheyenne, Omaha, St. Paul and Chicago. Adjutant-General Drum, Col. Barr, military secretary and private secretary Partridge will accompany him. Gen. Schofield will join the party at Chicago.

F. C. Partridge, of Proctor, Vt., has been appointed Private Secretary to the Secretary of War with whom he has had confidential relations since his connection with the Vermont Marble Company of which Mr. Proctor is president. Capt. Morse, who has filled this position since Mr. Proctor became Secretary of War, will return to Vermont and resume his former position with the Marble Company.

The President respited N. Cobert, a colored man, who was to have been hanged here tomorrow for the murder of Pejer Wetzel, until May 17th. The District Supreme Court yesterday denied Colbert's appeal for a new trial, and the papers were only received by the President to-day. Owing to the limited time he would have to examine, the execution is postponed.

The Navy Department to-day received from Rear-Admiral W. W. Belknap his first general order issued when he assumed command of the Asiatic squadron at Yokahoma, Japan, on April 4. He has made the following staff appointments: Chief of Staff, Captain F. V. McNair; Lieutenant Commander George A. Norris, Flag Lieutenant; Lieutenant Commander C. H. West, Flag Secretary; and Naval Cadet C. B. Brittain, Aide.

The following New York state fourth-class postmasters were appointed yesterday: D. B. Cornell, Barton; H. Fairman, Boyd; John Dycker, Callicoon: William Upson, Catlin; J. S. L. Baker, Chittenango; F. A. Moore, Clarkson; A. M. Woodcock, Frewsburg; V. Einemann, Greenswood; Robert Simpson, Greigsville; Mrs. F. J. Whitney, Henderson; T. Edmunds, Hunts; E. Manchester, Knoxborough; E. J. Bingham, Lockwood; C. C. Kaufman, Margaretville; G. M. Cady, Nichols; John Holmes, Richmondville; G. R. Kent, Scipio; H. A. Traber, Seward; J. H. Masterman, South Dansville; H. S. Spurbeck, South Granby; A. S. Emmons, Spencer; W. W. Merreau, Union: J. H. Baker, Wabautuck; J. B. Brown, Woodhull; E. C. Caldwell, York.

The General Land office is daily in receipt of letters asking information in regard to town site entries in Oklahoma. Several circular letters containing information and instructions relating to the question have already been issued, but still much confusion seems to exist in the public mind on the subject.

SPEAKER BOYER SICK.

The President of Pennsylvania's Assembly Confined to His House.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 3.—Speaker Boyer, being detained at home owing to ill health, sent a communication to the House yesterday informing it of his illness and announcing that he had appointed Dr. Walk, of Philadelphia, to preside.

The members of the House turned up in pretty good form after their trip to New York.

The act providing for the appointment of female physicians in hospitals and asylums for the insane first claimed consideration by the House. It was opposed by Messrs. Wherry and Shiras, the latter of whom said the bill was founded on mere sentiment and there were few female physicians in the State sufficiently competent and skilfull to take charge of insane patients. In fact, their number is so small as to make it impossible for the hospitals to comply with the law. He said the Board of Managers of Dixmont hospital will resign if this bill passes. It is all very well to talk of down-trodden women and holding out the helping hand, but in this instance it is not right to force women in position.

Mr. Taggart said he had no doubt if the Dixmont trustees should resign because of the passage of this bill there would be ten men after the place for every member of the board, in fact there wouldn't be any harm done if the trustees of a number of institutions should resign. This is a good bill and the people are demanding its passage. Colonel Bean made an eloquent speech in favor of the bill and Mr. Thompson, of Warren, in a speech full of facts, showed the fallacy of making laws of this kind when it will be impossible to carry them out. Col. Bean charged that Dr. Curwen, of the Warren asylum, had been here lobbying against this bill. Mr. Wherry said that Dr. Curwen was his particular friend, and although he had met him numerous times, yet not a word had passed between them about this bill. The House then killed the bill by 60 yeas to 87 nays.

Outbreak Among Italians.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., May 3.—An outbreak occurred among a number of Italian laborers on the Schuylkill and Lehigh Valley road near this city yesterday. The men struck for higher wages and arming themselves with pistols and clubs compelled the men in other sections to join them. At the section of Contractor Rickert near Orwigsburg the mob met with the first organized resistance. Rickert rallied his men and made a stand, some of his force being armed with Winchester rifles. Several volleys were fired and the leader of the rioters, an Italian, was shot through the legs. The sheriff proceeded to the scene with a strong posse. Nine of the rioters were arrested and lodged in jail here last night. All is now quiet.

Non-Union Miners Assaulted.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 3.—A special from Uniontown, Pa., says: Two colored non-union miners named John Williams and Robert Jackson, who have been working at the Stewart Iron company's coke works since the strike, were murderously assaulted while on their way to work yesterday by a crowd of locked-out men. The assailants were armed with clubs and stones and the two colored men were terribly injured. Williams shot at one of his assailants but did not hit him. Before he could fire again another of the assailants shot him in the left arm. The negroes finally escaped to the works. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of the strikers.

Couldn't Punish Hotelling.

PITTSBURG, May 3.—A Tiffin, Ohio, special says that Thomas Hotelling, who was several times convicted of causing the death of William Jones, but each time procured reversals from the higher courts, was released from jail yesterday, the prosecuting attorney abandoning the attempt to secure his punishment. Hotelling has spent some years in jail. Jones' body was found on a railroad track several years ago, and there was evidence that death had occurred prior to its being placed where found.

He Killed the Canal.

SANDWICH, Mass., May 3.—Samuel Fessenden, treasurer of the Cape Cod Canal company, left town two weeks ago, having in his possession all the company's funds and the funds of the Episcopal church, and leaving a large number of unpaid bills and notes. His family have since left town and nothing is known of his or their whereabouts. The canal enterprise has probably received its death blow.

A Million and a Half Involved.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 3.—Isaac B. Felts, who is suing Jacob Heysradt, of Hudson, N. Y., for possession of coal lands in Lackawanna township, valued at $100,000, has brought an ejectment suit against the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad company, which is the actual occupant of the lands. The litigation involves royalties lands and rights valued at $1,500,000.

The Sea Serpent Seen.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., May 3.—Captain Coverdale, of the schooner Nathaniel Lark, from Fernandina, reports that April 25, latitude about 34 N., he sighted what seemed to be the famous sea serpent, with head reared far aloft, but the object proved to be a gigantic tree, and the serpent's head was a branch projecting 20 feet in the air. The tree is dangerous to navigation.

Presbyterians in Session.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 3.—The National Institute of United Presbyterians' Young People's Society and of Christian Endeavor is in session here with delegates from all parts of the country. Reports of the work done in Nebraska, Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania were of a flattering nature. The rest of the session was devoted to a discussion on plan of work.

ON THE BALL FIELD

Washington's Team Annihilated by New York.

CHICAGO TUMBLED ONCE MORE.

Boston's Hollow Victory at Philadelphia Pittsburg Loses Again.

Brooklyn's Bridegrooms Altogether Too Athletic for the Association Quakers. A Cold Day for Columbus—Four Straight for St. Louis—Cowboys Hit to Some Purpose—A Contested Decision at Jersey City—The Atlantic Association.

NEW YORK, May 3—The New York's increased their lead over their competitors in the League race yesterday by their victory over Washington. Pittsburg went ahead of Philadelphia, Cleveland took fourth place and Chicago dropped behind Indianapolis and Boston.

St. Louis now has a strong hold on first place in the Association race. The Athletics are still second, with the Baltimore and Kansas City third and fourth. Brooklyn went ahead of Cincinnati and is now fifth in the race.

FOUR STRAIGHT GAMES.

Yesterday's game at St. George resulted in a walkover for the New Yorks, who won by the same score that they did on the day before. Smiling Mickey Welch opened a little wild, but soon gained control of the ball, and the visitors could do nothing with him.

UNEARNED RUNS DID IT.

PHILADELPHIA, May 3.—The Philadelphias got on to Clarkson in the first inning yesterday and knocked out four runs, three earned, but after that they did nothing with him. Casey pitched with surprising effectiveness, but errors by Irwin and Clements permitted the visitors to tally five unearned runs and win the game.

CLEVELAND WINS AGAIN.

PITTSBURG, May 3. — Inability to hit O'Brien at the proper time, McAleer's brilliant fielding and McKean's batting compelled the home team to yield their second game of the series to the Clevelands yesterday.

ONE HUNDRED SAW THE GAME.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 3.—Clouded skies, chilling temperature, and threatening rain made it a bad day for baseball, and there were not more than one hundred persons on the ground yesterday afternoon when the game began. The players stood about rubbing and blowing on their hands to keep them warm, and were evidently none too anxious to play.

BAD FOR THE ATHLETICS.

BROOKLYN, May 3.—The Athletics paid their first visit to Brooklyn yesterday and were warmly received. Their old Jonah, Terry, was put in to pitch for the Brooklyns, and he mowed the blue-legged Quakers down in great shape. The Brooklyns did not make as many hits by two as did the visitors, but their hits all counted and were made at the right time, generally coupled with errors by the Athletics.

SWARTZEL'S MAGNIFICENT WORK.

KANSAS CITY, May 3.—Swartzel's magnificent work enabled the home team to win yesterday's game from Cincinnati after a close and exciting contest. Smith pitched well, but the hits of the home team were well bunched.

BALTIMORE, 2; COLUMBUS, 1.

COLUMBUS, May 3.—The day was cold and the audience small at the Columbus-Baltimore game yesterday.

FOUR STRAIGHT FOR ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, May 3.—The Browns won their fourth successive game from Louisville yesterday in a prettily played contest. King had the Louisvilles at his mercy, while Stratton was hit hard at opportune times.

A DISPUTED DECISION AT JERSEY CITY.

JERSEY CITY, May 3.—Although the Hartfords had more runs than the Jersey Citys after the ninth inning in yesterday's game, it does not say that they will be credited with a victory, for in the ninth inning, with one man out and three on bases, Mann hit a grounder to Gerhardt, who, with Lang and O'Brien's assistance, enacted a double play. But while this play was going on, Say crossed the plate, and the umpire said the run counted. Capt. Gerhardt told the umpire he was doing wrong, but the latter would not change his decision. The game then went on under protest, and the Atlantic Association will have a meeting in a couple of weeks, this case will be brought up.

LALLY'S HOME RUN DID IT.

NEWARK, May 3.—The Newarks and New Havens played a great game here yesterday. Both teams hit hard and fielded beautifully, and each looked like sure winners in their turn. Corcoran, the visiting first baseman, had a tongue fight with Umpire Pierce which cost him $30 and also barred him from continuing in the game. Lally was substituted, and the change was a good one for New Haven, as Lally made a home run, which saved his club from defeat.

WON IN TWO INNINGS.

EASTON, May 3.—Easton hit German for five singles in the first two innings, and won the game. After that German was puzzling and the fielding was sharp.

WILKESBARRE BATTED HARD.

WILKESBARRE, May 3.—Wilkesbarre batted the Worcester pitcher very hard in the first two innings in yesterday's game, and took a lead which the Eastern boys could not overcome.

Secretary Blaine Still Indoors.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 3.—Secretary Blaine still keeps indoors at the Normandie. Walker Blaine said to-day, however, that he expected the Secretary would be at his desk at the State Department to-morrow or Saturday.

Kit Mills Destroyed By Fire.

AYER, Mass., May 3.—The kit mill of U. S. Adams at Townsend, Mass., was totally destroyed by fire last evening. Loss about $15,000, nearly covered by insurance.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Elizabeth celebrated the Centennial by forgetting all about her debts for one day.

—Corner loafers and churchyard guards are beginning to bloom and will soon be ripe.

—Court will open at Elizabeth on Tuesday next, when the Grand Jury will be sworn.

—The highest point in the State of New Jersey is Kittatinny mountain, 1,018 feet above sea level.

—On Wednesday the Pennsylvania Railroad Company reduced the toll on coal ten per cent.

—From the appearance of the store windows we should say the hens are now "doing their prettiest."

—The Nolan murder sentence will not be pronounced at Somerville, until May 27, when a motion for a new trial will be heard.

—It is stated that if all the freight cars in the United States were in a line they would extend from New York to San Francisco and back again.

—Flower thieves are operating in this city. Within the past few days several thefts of potted plants have been reported in various parts of the city.

—The season for excursions and strawberry festivals is rapidly approaching, and the traditional church oyster stew will soon give way to strawberies and iced-cream.

—This evening the Borough Council will meet in regular session and transact routine business. It is probable that some definite action will then be taken with reference to organizing a fire department.

—The second of the series of lectures by F. W. Grant, will be given this evening, May 3, at Reform Hall, at 7:45. Subject—"The Resurrection Side of the Gospel." No price of admission will be charged.

—A new club has been organized in the Borough, called the "Bare-Faced Club." Any one wishing to become a member must relieve his phiz of whiskers and mustache, and "pipe 'em up" as an initiation fee.

—Will our bands give us open air concerts this Summer, is the question that agitates the minds of our citizens. We have two excellent bands in this city, and the citizens would doubtless be pleased to hear from either of them.

—Considerable improvement is going on in this city just now in the way of building additions to houses, painting, remodeling, etc. We would like to see new residences erected also, but are pleased to see the many improvements.

—The travel over the New Jersey Central and Pennsylvania Railroads during the Centennial celebration in New York this week, was the largest in the history of the two roads. It is estimated that up to Wednesday the Pennsylvania Railroad carried to and from New York at least 50,000 persons, while the Central Railroad and its branches came next with about 45,000.

—That map that the news printed last night is just as clear as mud. Even scholars in the primary and high school departments can readily pick out the location where they live, and they will now know just how many blocks they will have to travel to meet the cars on their way to and from school. One of the advanced pupils was heard to remark this morning: "My! how that map resembles our cow yard; of course it isn't a fac simile, because pa never had the paths photographed; but anyway, its pretty good."

Were They Robbers.

Between twelve and one o'clock last evening, the night clerk at the City Hotel, heard foot-steps in the billiard room which adjoins the wine cellar, and going in the basement, a man was seen to run out into the back yard. Half an hour later another attempt was made to enter the place through the kitchen. A platoon of police, who were called in, searched the lower part of the house, but found no trace of the alleged burglars.

Mean Trick.

B. H. K.—I shall raise on your board after Tuesday.

B.—Why?

B. H. K.—Because you are using Dr. Dam's Remedy, and eat twice as much as you formerly did.

ON TRACK OF THE BURGLARS.

Pinkerton Detectives Following the Men Who Robbed the Plainfield Post Office.

Detective McManus, from the Pinkerton agency, come out to Plainfield, yesterday, and investigated the post office robbery here of the night before. The detective is following a gang of post office burglars who robbed the post office at New Rochelle, about two weeks ago, and he is of the opinion that the men who broke into the Plainfield office on Wednesday night are the same ones who robbed the New Rochelle office.

While some people were at first disposed to blame the police for allowing a burglary to take place in the most central part of the city, it is reasonable to believe that Officer Flannigan interrupted the burglars in their work, and probably saved the government from being robbed of several thousand dollars.

To a PRESS reporter last evening Officer Flannigan stated that about three o'clock yesterday morning he crossed over Front street directly in front of the post office, ostensibly to notice the decorations in the office windows. The police are transferred alternately each month to different locations, and as this was the officer's first night on duty in the neighborhood of the post office he did not particularly notice that the lights were unusually low, or even out in the office. The officer says he put his face close up to the window pane and carefully scrutinized the decorations, but he noticed nothing unusual within the building. It is believed that the robbers saw him and beat a hasty retreat, thinking, perhaps, that they had been detected.

The officer continued his beat along East Front street to Peace street and along that thoroughfare to North avenue, where he noticed a strange man approach the station and try the door leading to Station Agent Haynes' apartments. The door was locked and the stranger next tried the door in the ladies waiting room, but this was also locked. The man then ascended the steps at the East end of the station and awaited the arrival of the 3:29 A. M. train for New York. The officer supposing that he was merely a passenger did not approach him.

Officer Flannigan walked along North avenue to a point near Day's livery stable where he stopped. Presently he heard two men approaching from Park avenue; he saw them pass under a street lamp and go direct to the station. The officer followed the men, but as they were nicely dressed and gentlemanly in their deportment, he took no particular notice of them. He did, however, notice that when the train arrived all three of the men hastened out and jumped on the train. One of the men Mr. Flannigan describes as powerful looking, weighing over 200 pounds and wearing a light overcoat; the other was medium-sized, rather slim, and dressed in black. Neither of these men carried anything in their hands, but the officer says that the first one to reach the station, alone, may have carried a small hand satchel. Nothing further was thought of the matter, and the officer went on his beat as usual. Mr. Flannigan says he knew nothing of the robbery until he reported for duty last evening.

It has since been ascertained that Nightwatchman Wright saw three men pass along Somerset street and turn into Front, soon after Officer Flannigan says he looked into the post office window. This is thought to be conclusive proof that the three men who boarded the 3:29 A. M. train, were the robbers.

Detective McManus last evening showed Officer Flannigan a number of photographs of professional safe breakers, and the latter identified two of them as the men he saw pass under the street lamp on North avenue.

A TOUGH CUSTOMER HELD ON SUSPICION.

One of Inspector Byrnes' force came out from New York, today, and reported the arrest in that city of a man on suspicion. The prisoner is known to the detectives of the city as a tough character given to just such jobs as that of Wednesday night in the post office.

Chief Carey, Postmaster Force, Government Inspector Gorman and Officer Flannigan went to New York this afternoon to see Inspector Byrnes and also have a look at his captive.

Officer Flannigan thinks he can identify any of the three men he saw. One of them had small side-whiskers the same as those worn by the prisoner in New York. This man had on his person when arrested, a time table of the Central Railroad of N. J., and also some small articles of jewelry. One of the registered packages emptied in the Plainfield post office was a small box like a jewelry box.

The prisoner also had some burglary tools, one of which was a drill that fits the hole bored in Postmaster Force's safe.

He May Lose His Eyesight.

George Eckert, a lad of about fourteen years of age, was terribly burned all over the face, yesterday, by the explosion of a can of powder. Dr. Edward Rushmore is in attendance, and under his care the unfortunate boy is much better today and the terrible pain is somewhat allayed. But the bandages have not yet been removed from the patient's eyes, and it is not known whether his sight is destroyed.

Eckert is the grandson of Mrs. J. A. Clare of Jackson avenue. He found a mustard can of powder that had been in the house some time, and took it out of doors to have some fun with it. When he touched it off he was too near, and received the whole force of the flames and flying powder over his right hand, that threw the lighted match, and in his face.

SOCIABLE OF YE OLDEN TIMES.

The Young People of Trinity Reformed Church Render an Exceedingly Interesting Programme in Ancient Attire—The Costumes Worn by the "Old Folks."

The closing sociable in the series which the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of Trinity Reformed church has so successfully conducted during the Winter, took place in the Sunday school room of that church, last evening. Trinity's young people are noted for their efficiency in arranging and conducting entertainments of this nature, and their efforts last evening were again crowned with success, as was evidenced from the enthusiasm manifested throughout the evening.

Mr. F. S. Dunn, the Society's President, acted in the capacity of master of ceremonies. The programme included vocal and instrumental music, recitations, etc., and all who took part creditably acquitted themselves. The first number was a piano solo by Miss Alice Smith, followed by a song, "Blue Bells," by the "Old folks." Next came a reading by Miss Lilian Force, entitled: "Grandmother Lee's Ride."

"Reuben and Rachel" was the title of a part song by Miss Sadie Addis and Mr. Chas. D. Wheeler, which was warmly applauded, and they were obliged to respond to an encore. The "old folks" sang "Auld Lang Syne," and Mrs. J. C. VanDyke's impersonation of "Mrs. Josiah Allen's proposed visit to Washington" was really an amusing production. Mrs. VanDyke told in original style of the intended change in the National Administration, and selected members of the Society for "Uncle Josiah's Cabinet."

Miss Etta Krymer then favored the audience with a song, "Grandma's Advice," and the "old folks" closed the programme by singing the "Suwanee River," assisted by Messrs. Fred Cutter, S. J. Samelson, C. D. Wheeler and J. Ran Dunn.

The Social Committee having the affair in charge consisted of Mrs. F. S. Dunn, Miss Phœbe Mills, Miss Emma King, Miss Minnie Force, Miss Mabel Woodruff, Miss Julia Johnson and Miss Minnie Williams.

Following is a list of the "old folks," together with the style of dress worn:

Mrs. F. S. Dunn wore an empire gown of flowered delaine.

Miss Phœbe Mills was dressed in plaid delaine; she also wore an old fashioned 'kerchief.

Miss Julia Johnson was becomingly attired in an old styled dress of plaid silk, as were also Miss Minnie Force and Miss Mabel Woodruff.

Mrs. J. C. VanDyke wore figured lawn.

Miss Smith's dress was figured challie, over which she wore a shawl of antiquated design, the same being one hundred and fifty years old.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Ex-City Clerk Richard Merritt is out again after a serious illness, and is slowly regaining his former good health.

Mr. S. A. Haines of Netherwood, will address the Hope Chapel Temperance Society, this evening, and a large attendance is expected.

Ex-Councilman Karl Polak has given up his Netherwood residence and removed with his family to New York, intending to make his home there for the future.

The genial countenance of Rev. Father Morris, a former pastor of St. Mary's church, this city, but now pastor of the Catholic church at Avondale, N. J., was seen in our city today.

Miss Kate Maier of the Park Hotel, Dunellen, returned home last evening, after a week's visit with relatives in New York city, much charmed with her visit and the Centennial celebration.

George W. Thompson of Stelton, N. J., died of cancer on Tuesday night. He was one of the organizers of the County Agricultural Society, and was a practical and scientific farmer and fruit grower. He was also a writer for the press on agricultural subjects, and was prominent in State and National legislation affecting farmers' interests.

Mr. A. M. Laing, nephew of Mr. John Laing of this city, has been spending the past few days in viewing the inaugural ceremonies at New York, and visiting relatives and friends in Plainfield. Mr. Laing is an attache of the Government printing office at Washington, which position he has held through many changes of administration.

All Sorts of Excuses.

Running a daily newspaper differs materially from all other mercantile pursuits. Newspaper editors in the rural districts are oftentimes obliged to accept pot-cheese, honey and corn-cobs in payment for subscriptions and advertising, but that's all right, for "everything goes" there. But the city papers get their pay in promises. Witness this:

Last week a man called at this office and told he would pay us every cent he owed us if he lived until Saturday night. We haven't seen him since, and presume he died on Friday. Another said he hoped to go to the devil if he did not pay in three days. Have not seen him since, but suppose he's gone. Quite a number said they would see us to-morrow. Hope they will. One told us six months ago that he would pay as soon as he got some money. The man would not lie, and, of course, hasn't had a cent since.

GOV. GREEN SAYS IT IS A LIE.

Major Halstead Had Accused Him of Being a Traitor During the War.

Gov. Green, of New Jersey, rarely allows anything to disturb his equanimity. Even that extraordinary threat of "We, the Centennial People," otherwise S. Fish, was a cause more of amusement than anger to New Jersey's Executive. But now the Governor is really provoked and he doesn't care who knows it. His wrath is due to the extraordinary statement made by Major George R. Halstead, of Elizabeth, Wednesday night at a meeting in that city of the Sons of Revolution. The doughty Major, in opposing the election of Gov. Green as one of the Vice Presidents of the Society, took occasion to characterize the Governor as a copperhead.

As can well be imagined, remarks of this nature concerning the most prominent dignitary in New Jersey have been the occasion of wide-spread comment in that State. In Elizabeth, where both gentlemen have their homes, it was the universal theme of conversation. The general opinion there seemed to be that Major Halstead had been guilty not only of an unpardonable breach of good manners, but of a misstatement of facts as well.

Gov. Green was seen at his home late in the afternoon by a reporter. He had read an account of the attack made upon him by the Major and was evidently in a bad humor about it.

"I cannot bandy epithets with a man who forgets that he is a gentleman," said the Governor tersely, in response to a question as to why Major Halstead should have assailed him with such vehemence. "But," continued the Governor warmly, "if he or any other man says that I was at any time subjected to personal indignities on account of my political views they tell a monstrous lie, as they do if they assert that I was disloyal to the Union. I am utterly surprised at this attack upon me by Major Halstead. He has always professed to feel a great friendship for me, and if I had been asked previously to guess who would be apt to make such aspersions upon me Major Halstead would have been the last man to occur to me. Why, if he tells the truth he even cast his vote for me for Governor."

"Who is Major Halstead and what is his record?" asked the reporter.

"That information you will have to secure elsewhere. I prefer to say nothing about it," was the Governor's dignified reyly. "Some time last Summer, hearing that a society composed of the Sons of Revolutionary sires had been organized in the State, I sent in my name for membership and was elected. I thought the idea a good one, as the Cincinnati did not cover the ground, only the first direct descendant being eligable to membership in that organization. I came into the Society of the Sons of Revolution by virtue of my great grandfather, Rev. Jacob Green of Hanover, Morris county, N. J. He was a clergyman widely known in his day, and an active patriot, being a member of the Provisional Convention of the State, and the Chairman of the committee who reported upon the advisability of the severance of the relations of the Colony with the Mother Country. I thought that ought to entitle me to membership in the society, and they seemed to think so too."

"That statement of Major Halstead's is an outrageous lie; I can vouch for that," said ex-Speaker Egan. "I have lived in Elizabeth thirty-six years and have known Gov. Green from his youth and watched his career. While always a staunch Democrat he was as loyal a man during the war as could be. His voice was constantly lifted in support and defence of the Union, and as for his being ill-treated on account of his political opinion, that is simply fudge. The whole trouble is Major Halstead is a crank. He has a great opinion of himself and his merits. Probably he was miffed because the Governor did not invite him to stretch his legs under the mahogany when the President was here. The Major has been trying to get some political office for the past two years and is soured because he has not been successful. He has never done anything to distinguish himself and traveled on the reputation of his family."

Bishop Hurst and the Y. M. C. A.

The following letter written by Bishop Hurst to the President of the Buffalo Y. M. C. A., will explain itself:

My Dear Sir:—My opportunities for observing the work of the Y. M. C. Associations are frequent, and cover a wide territory, and I take great pleasure in saying that its work is beyond all praise. All the churches are blest by its delightful ministrations. It is the child of a Special Providence. I have known of cases where it has helped to save, indeed, has saved instrumentally, young men who are now an ornament to our common Christianity. I sincerely hope that its friends may be multiplied. Every Christian, and every loyal citizen of our land, ought to be its active and loving keeper.

Hoping that the anniversary at Buffalo may be very successful, I am

Yours very cordially,
JOHN F. HURST.

The Weary Can Now Quench Their Thirst.

Mr. Daniel Cory, owner of the Berry building at the corner of Front street and Park avenue, is entitled to the everlasting gratitude of the community at large, for providing a supply of pure and wholesome water for the citizens in general. Mr. Cory has placed a pump and tin cup on the Park avenue side of the building, for the convenience of pedestrians. Surely this enterprise ought to attract New Yorkers to Plainfield. But we suppose that the authorities will try to prevent the water from flowing on Sunday.

FATAL FIRE AT GERMANTOWN.

One Man Burned to Death—One Probably Fatally Injured.

PHILADELPHIA, May 3.—At an early hour in the morning the four story stone building attached to the Catholic College on East Chelton avenue, Germantown, was discovered to be on fire.

Ignatius was burned to death. He tried to follow his brother's example but the flooring gave way under him and he sank into the burning mass of debris.

The loss on the burned building, which was used for storage and cooking purposes, is not yet known.

MR. PARNELL'S EXAMINATION.

The Irish Leader Says He Always Denounced the Commission of Outrages.

Archbishop Walsh to Follow Mr. Parnell on the Witness Stand—The Proceedings of the Samoan Conference Attracting Considerable Notice Throughout England—The Tories, Seeing No Hope for the Sugar Bill, Abandon It.

LONDON, May 3.—In his cross-examination before the Commission yesterday, Mr. Parnell stated that he always had repudiated the American dynamite and physical force parties on every occasion, and had frequently denounced them in the House of Commons. He was not aware, he said, that the Cincinnati Commercial reported his speeches verbatim as the Irish World did. He admitted that he had not found fault with the actions of the Invincibles in the past, but he quoted from speeches and from a manifesto published in 1881, in which he denounced the commission of outrages as an unconstitutional action. He further said that he advocated the buying out of landlords and makingthe tenants the owners of the land they occupied.

The proceedings of the Samoan conference in Berlin, scanty as they have thus far been, are followed with great interest in England, and nearly all the London papers contain daily comment on the matters now being deliberated at the German capital.

The Radical press is persistent in its accusations that Lord Salisbury has leanings towards Germany's interests in the Conference and intimates that the German and English Commissioners seem to work together in the Conference and are jointly opposed to the American Commissioners. This, the Radical papers assert, is a grave blunder, to sacrifice American to German interests, and point out how much more England has, and ought to have, in common with the United States than with Germany.

Nothing was elicited connecting Mr. Parnell with the Fenians or showing that he had any knowledge of murderous plots.

Sir Richard Webster pressed the question whether he dad ever denounced outrages. In answer to this, the witness read extracts of speeches he had made in 1879, containing such sentences as: "Let us remain within the law and the constitution," "I hope that the people will not be tempted to imitate violence or assume an illegal attitude towards the government."

In 1880 he said he denounced the shooting of land agents as unnecessary and prejudicial to the Irish cause, in those places when there was a suitable League organization.

Mr. Parnell admitted when asked the question that he did not consider such denouncing sufficient. He denied that he was responsible for the violence of articles published by United Ireland.

Archbishop Walsh will follow Mr. Parnell on the witness stand before the Commission. He will make an excellent witness for the defense and will put the Tories to the blush if they have any shame. The papers continue to comment upon the futility of the Attorney-General's examination of Mr. Parnell, and all appear to agree that he is injuring even the remnant of a cause that the Times might have.

The Government seeing no hope for the passage of the Sugar bill, have virtually abandoned it. The bill will be killed in the committee stage. So much opposition has been shown to its passage, not only by the Liberals, who raised a great hue-and-cry over it, but by popular demonstration, and by disaffections in the Tory ranks.

Despite the Government's assertions to the contrary, the idea popularly prevailed that sugar would be greatly raised in price if the bill was made a law. It is wisdom on the part of the Government to abandon it.

The letter written by the King of Holland to the Duke of Nassau decidedly puts a stop to the efforts making to continue the Duke in the regency of Luxemburg.

Nassau's letter to the King was but a polite "feeler" and if any hesitation had been shown by King William to demand back his own, the friends of the Duke would have attempted to keep the Duke in power.

The King's peremptory refusal to consider even a hint of such a proposition and insistence upon resuming power over Luxemburg to-day together with Holland, causes the ambition of Nassau to take a fall, and he will retire from a position into which he was inducted with so much ceremony so recently and which he fully deemed his own by right.

A banquet was tendered Consul-General Waller last night on his retiring from office. A number of Royal Academicians attended the gathering, which was unique and brilliant.

Henri Rochefort is at Dover waiting for a permit from the French government to go to Algeria to attend the funeral of his son. He is fuming because the permission does not come and denies himself to all visitors.

During the Whitsuntide recess Mr. Gladstone expects to enjoy a yachting cruise in the waters of Great Britain with a party of friends.

The National and Liberal press of Germany demand the abolition of police agents abroad. The Kreuz Zeitung says that it doubts the honesty of the North German Gazette's demand in the matter, and suspects other interests are back of the demand.

Father Boniface, chief of the Bavarian African missionaries, and Sister Benedicta, who was captured by the Arab Bushiri, and afterward released, are at Augsburg. The latter has re entered the convent and will not return to missionary labors.

Dr. Harke, of Hamburg, a lieutenant of the Reserves, has been sentenced by a military court to three day's imprisonment in a fortress for challenging Dr. Batthold, a lawyer, to fight a duel.

Fears that They Were Drowned.

BOSTON, May 3.—Last Sunday noon Clarence P. Page and Fred Hines, cousins, aged 20 and 24 respectively, left Lynn in a canoe intending to paddle to Somerville, where they lived, a distance of about twelve miles. Since then nothing has been heard of them and it is feared that they have been drowned.

CARNEGIE TAKES A HAND.

He Subscribes to the Fund of the Duquesne Steel Company Strikers.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 3.—A new feature in the strike at the Duquesne Bessemer Steel works has been developed, verifying in a measure the statement that the fight was between the Duquesne company and Andrew Carnegie.

One of the members of the strikers' Finance committee stated that Andrew Carnegie and Captain Jones of the Edgar Thomson Steel works, had placed $1,500 at the disposal of the strikers and had intimated that if more aid be needed it would be forthcoming.

The strikers who were despondent before are now buoyed with new hope. It is said that if the Allegheny Bessemer Steel company men join the strike Carnegie will either have to quit making rails or buy out this firm.

Yesterday fifty of the Italian laborers left the works in a body, dissatisfied with their wages and hard work. They were induced to return within the enclosure but refused to go to work.

The strikers had a jollification last night. Friends from the Braddock and Homestead mills visited Duquesne, the streets were ablaze with red fire, six wagon loads of provisions for the strikers were donated by the merchants, and the strikers paraded the streets carrying sacks or baskets of provisions on their shoulders.

FUTURES IN OIL.

A Conference of Exchanges to Be Held at Pittsburg Next Week.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 3.—By request of the New York Consolidated and Petroleum exchange a meeting of the conference of oil exchanges will be held at the Pittsburg Petroleum exchange on Tuesday, May 7, at 9:30 a. m., for the purpose of considering the subject of trading in "futures" in oil, and the transaction of such other business as may be brought before it.

The poor success attending the dealing in oil, as tried in New York, has led to this move.

One of the brokers to-day said: "I have little faith in the system and do not believe it will meet with the approval of the trade here. Possibly, if all the exchanges adopt it, there will be an improvement in the trade, but the failure of the experiment in New York is a bad omen for its success anywhere and I doubt that the conference will adopt the scheme."

Lord Gower's Magnificent Gift.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Mrs. Frank Leslie has received letters from Lord Ronald Gower, informing her of his purpose to present, through her, to some public gallery or collection in New York, his colossal marble bust of "Our Savior," called "It is Finished," now in the Royal Academy of London. This work of art, which is now on its way to this city, will be accompanied by the plaster casts of the Shakespeare monument, in bronze, lately presented by Lord Ronald Gower to Stratford-on-Avon, and which he desires Mrs. Frank Leslie to tender to some "public collection of casts or a Shakespeare or artistic gallery." Mrs. Frank Leslie has not yet determined the ultimate disposition of the marble Christ but it is probable that it will be transmitted either to the Metropolitan Museum of Art or to the St. Patrick's cathedral.

Bellamore Has Absconded.

TAUNTON, Mass., May 3.—Felix Bellamore, of Three Rivers, Que., was arrested in Fall River Tuesday night. He had been judged in court to have gotten the better of the Bank of Hockelaga to the amount of $1,340, which he was ordered to pay by March 9 last. He was released on bail. Hercules Milot and Vere Gangnon, of Three Rivers, becoming his bondsmen in the sum of $1,500. He absconded and was defaulted and his bondsmen were given until May 9 to produce him in court.

Gov. Ames Was on Hand.

BOSTON, May 3.—The members of the Massachusetts delegation to the Centennial ceremonies in New York arrived at home yesterday to the surprise of the party, who thought him ill, Governor Ames was found in waiting ready to take his place in the line, and with the Fifth regiment in the van and the delegation in carriages between the First and Second cadets, the line of march was taken to the State House, where the usual military ceremonies took place and the trip came to an end.

Suicide In a Cemetery.

BROOKLYN, May 3.—Wm. White, aged 50, a wealthy restaurateur of 15 Wall street, New York, shot himself dead yesterday in Greenwood cemetery, where he had gone to visit, as was his frequent custom, the grave of a favorite child who died some years ago. He leaves a wife and three children. Mrs. White says her husband had been in poor health for some time, and had worried over business affairs, but had given no intimation of suicidal intent.

A Mistaken Report.

LONDON, May 3.—The report that the North German Lloyd steamer Weser had arrived at Bremen with yellow fever on board, proves to have been entirely without foundation. The error was caused by a misleading telegraph dispatch. The steamer on which the yellow fever occurred was the Berlin, which arrived in the Weser river yesterday. The Berlin sailed from Bahia March 28, and was last reported at Lisbon on April 27.

A Big Iron Foundry Shuts Down.

MERIDEN, Conn., May 3.—The Meriden Malleable Iron company, one of the big concerns of Meriden, is financially embarrassed owing to several recent failures of Western houses whose notes the company held. The employes in the iron and brass foundries were notified that their services would not be required until further notice. About two hundred and fifty men are thrown out of work.

The Case Against Raymond.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 3.—Lawyers Purdy and Cardoza, and special agents of the insurance companies, have laid their case against John C. Raymond, the alleged Iselin house burner, before the court. Raymond was not represented. None of his friends, not even his wife, is allowed to see him without a pass from the prosecutor. Hon. Leon Abbett and Senator Adrian for the defense.

Attempted Murder and Suicide.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 3.—Thomas Cullinan, of Rochester, yesterday afternoon, shot Sarah Gardenier, said to be his mistress and then shot himself, dying an hour later. The woman will recover. Cullinan has a wife and eight children in Rochester.

A Raft Sighted at Sea.

NEW YORK, May 3.—The steamship Veendam, from Rotterdam, which got in yesterday, reports having passed on the voyage—no latitude nor longitude is indicated—a raft composed of planks and spars nailed together, bearing no marks of identification.

OLD D. D.

SHE was as trim-built a little body as ever gladdened the eyes of a lover of grace, with irregular features that might drive a photographer to despair but would charm the heart of a true artist.

Around her, on the floor, chairs, bed and every other resting place, were many and gorgeous articles of new apparel for man and woman; three immense trunks stood in the middle of the large room, they were each half full and it certainly seemed a hopeless case if the balance of the garments were to be crowded into the space remaining.

It was night, late, and the great boarding-house was in silence.

As the little woman roused herself with an effort and was about to resume her work there was the noise of a closing door, then halting, stumbling footsteps upon the stairs.

She had paused at the first sound and listened intently. The door which she stood facing was slowly opened and into the room came edging, sheepishly, a big, handsome, boyish young man. But his face was flushed, his fair hair disordered; he stood a picture of shame and semi-intoxication.

"Billy Moore!" began his girl-wife, in a gust of passion, "I think you are as mean as mean can be. Here you go out and leave me to break my back with all this packing, and never come home until midnight, and then come home drunk, yes, drunk! It's mean, that's what it is, and I won't stand it!"

"That's right, Henny, pitch into me. Oh, pitch into me; give it to me good; I won't say nothin'. But you needn't bother to pack any more."

"Not pack any more!" repeated the girl in astonishment; "why?"

"'Cause we can't go, that's why. There! now it's all out!" and the poor, weak sinner dashed his hat upon the floor, sank into a chair, and buried his face in his hands.

William Moore, just of age, good-looking, soft-hearted and headed, had married jolly little Henrietta Miles, late a favorite of the Bland Opera-House Corps de Ballet, thereby pleasing himself and entirely alienating all the few relatives of his deceased parents. The sharp, pretty little woman whom he had won loved him truly, and she was worthy the affection of any man, child of the footlights though she had been from earliest infancy.

Three days before the executors had paid to the young man a little over four thousand dollars, all that remained of his father's estate. With this sum the young couple were about to start for the West, where Moore had arranged to take an interest in an established business that would give him a good living and opportunity for future prosperity.

This, the last evening, he had gone out "for a few minutes, just to say 'good-bye' to some of the boys," promising to return very soon and finish the necessary packing.

When the wife saw Willie, whom she fully recognized that she had to protect and uphold; when she saw him penitent and in tears, her hasty anger vanished; she went to his side and cuddled him.

"Come, Billy boy," she said, coaxingly, "tell us all about it; out with it and let's have the worst over."

"Oh, Henny!" he mumbled, "I'm 'shamed to look at you. I went down to the corner, and got into a little game, just a little one, for fun, you know, with Chick Lawton, and I drinked a little too much, and old D. D. he came in and rung himself into the game, and kept a-drawin' me on and on, and—and so it happened."

"Is it all gone, Willie?"

"Every cent—every cussed rap!"

Her face set hard, and she could not stifle the sigh that came from her heart.

"Oh, Henny!" sobbed the man; "I don't care for myself, it's you—when I think of you!"

"You ought to have thought of me before, Willie, then it would a-been some good!"

"It was all the fault of old D. D., Henny, 'twas him that done it. Chick Lawton wouldn't a-took all a fellow had. He's some white, Chick is—"

"Oh, bother your Chick—Chick Lawton! the chicken-hearted, grinning dude! I know him better 'n ever you dare to. He's a no good sneak, that's what he is. But I didn't think D. D. would a-done like that."

"That old D. D. ain't got no heart, Henny, nary heart, all the boys say so; ask any of them, ask Chick—"

"Don't come with any more of your chickin' that Chick at me, Will Moore. He's a little beast, your Chick is, that thinks a girl can't be honest or respectable just because she dances in the ballet. I wouldn't wipe my shoes on the cad. Old D. D. don't set up for nothing but a sport, but if a girl carries herself straight he's always the real gentleman to her. I'll say that for him."

The story told and her anger relieved by the few explosions, this quick-witted, self-reliant wee woman set to work at once to do the best she could under defeat.

"Come, Willie," she said, and her voice at least was cheerful, "get to bed now and sleep so as to wake up spry and sober. I've enough in my purse to square us here. All this trotting harness that we bought to astonish the natives out West we will sell, then we will go away from here, and you can get work, or I can get a wig and clogs and go back to the old biz until you work your way. It's all right now, Billy, only—" and she knelt down beside him and forced his face in front of hers, "only, Billy, promise me, promise me hard that you'll never, never again—"

"Henny, I promise you, true, I'll never touch another drink or card, so help me."

The husband was petted, tucked into bed and soon slept the sleep of health, exhaustion and light-mindedness. But the young wife sat for an hour and thought deeply, and before she sought slumber remained long on her knees in prayer.

In the morning, bright and early, she hurried her Willie off to find a purchaser while she arranged the goods to best advantage for display. It was a sore task on her brave heart, for she dearly loved finery, and for the first time in her life had been able to indulge in it without stint. But she never flinched as she shook out and placed all the pretty gowns and other vanities. She was on her knees at a trunk when there came a tap at the door.

"Come in!" she cried, carelessly.

The door was opened and a man stood there, silent and immovable.

She sprang to her feet and faced him, her body crouched, her eyes blazing like those of an infuriated tiger cat.

The man was Dudley Dodge, professional gambler. The reverend title of D. D., irreverently bestowed upon him by all acquaintances, was not belied in his looks. Tall, smooth-faced, faultless in dress, with no display of jewelry, and a calm, stern demeanor that nothing was ever known to disturb, he looked like any thing but what might be the popular idea of a leader in his class.

"Mrs. Moore," he said, with a slight bow, and removing his hat, "your husband is not in, I'm glad of it—I wish to see you alone," and before she had time to utter a word he was in the room and the door was closed behind him.

Then the gasping little woman found her voice.

"It's you, is it! You villain! You who made my Willie drunk and robbed him of all he had in the world. You, you, oh! I don't know what's bad enough for me to call you—and then you have the cheek to come here and grin over your devil's work. I hate you—get out this room!"

While she panted, breathless with fury, old D. D. opened his mouth and spake.

"Mrs. Moore, listen to me, if you please. You are a good girl. I've watched you long and know how you have carried yourself.

"IT'S YOU, IS IT!"

I like you and respect you. I like your foolish boy of a husband, too. Last night I dropped in where he was and found him in a game with Mr. Lawton. He had been drinking, and I knew what would happen. I insisted upon playing with them, and in an hour or two had checks signed by your husband for every dollar he had in bank."

"I know it, and you—"

"Wait, Mrs. Moore. I told you I liked and respected you. I can afford to indulge in weakness sometimes. Here are your husband's checks." He opened his hand. "What I now do with them you will please tell no one but him—otherwise you will injure my reputation for sanity."

And old D. D. tore those checks into small bits and scattered them at her feet.

"Oh! oh! D. D.—Mr. Dodge! How can I—what can I say to thank you!" she stammered.

"Say not a word. It pleases me to do this for you. I like you even better for what you said in anger. Pack up now and get away from here; tell your husband, from me, to drop the drink and the play, he has no head or nerve for either. Good-bye! If one like me can say such a thing, I wish you God bless you," and he held out his hand.

If "the gurls" had heard of what that little woman did next, they'd have said: "That's just Henny Miles all over!" She put her arms around that ancient rascal's neck and kissed him full and fair on the lips.

Then as he hastily turned out of the door she collapsed into a heap on the floor, sobbing, woman-like, her heart out, in joy and thankfulness.

There was a suspicious moisture in the steel-gray eyes of old D. D. as he slowly descended the stairs; as he stood on the front steps a dapper "gent" rushed up to him. It was Mr. Lawton.

"Hello! D. D! whatcher doin' here, eh?" he exclaimed. "What's brung you outer bed this early? I see Billy Moore rushin' up street bit ergo; kinder down on 's luck I guess. Thought I'd run up and see Henny a bit, mebby I might give her a helpin' hand jest now—I'm a soft-hearted feller, I am."

"Mrs. Moore is busy now, I have just left her," said D. D., slowly, and with his eyes fixed on the other man's face. "I am sure Mrs. Moore does not wish to see company. Don't go up, you'd much better walk down street with me. Come!"

That "come" sounded like a command, and Mr. Click Lawton was not the man to anger D. D.

He trotted down street beside his silent companion.

"Come in here and take a drink, old man," he said at last. "Dern'd if you don't give a feller fever'n ager, you're worse'n a ice-cream freezer, you old turnip, you. Come in and drink somethin' to warm the cockles of your heart, if you got one."

"Go you and get your drink; excuse me; I very seldom drink, and just now I have on my lips what I would not wash off with liquor for the world!"

And there was a warm feeling under the spotless linen of old D. D.

Had he a heart? ALEX. DUKE BAILIE.

A Drummer's Last Resort.

"Look out, young feller; what are you about?" said the policeman in a certain Southern town to a traveling man who was tapping with his cane with the evident intention of smashing in the glass around a street lamp.

"Ah, there you are," said the traveling man, as the glass gave way with a crash. "Now, if you will be good enough to arrest me, I will be obliged to you."

"You seem mighty anxious to get arrested," said the officer.

"Yes; I was a little bit afraid you wouldn't notice me. I've got to stay here about three days till I hear from my firm on a business matter."

"Well, you don't want to spend that time in jail, do you?"

"Yes; I've tried both the hotels here."

WHY.

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

Sir Julian Pauncefote Calls on the President.

THE NEW BRITISH MINISTER.

Secretary Blaine Introduces Lord Sackville's Successor to Mr. Harrison.

The Occasion Marked by the Usual Official Amenities—Her Majesty's Representative Makes a Speech and the President Responds—Mutual Expressions of Respect and Esteem—Coil Boilers to Be Tried in Naval Vessels.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Sir Julian Pauncefote, the new British Minister, presented his credentials to the President yesterday and was formally received by the latter. Secretary Blaine made the presentation.

The Secretary came to the State department early and received Sir Julian who was accompanied by Mr. Harry Edwards, the British Charge d'Affairs, Secretaries Herbert and Buckley and Private Secretary Ames. After Mr. Blaine and the new Minister had exchanged courtesies, the party proceeded to the Executive Mansion and were ushered into the Red parlor where all official visitors are received, and where the presentation took place.

After Senator Blaine had introduced Sir Julian, the latter stepped forward and addressing the President, said:

"Mr. President, Sir, I have the honor to place in your hands a letter from the Queen, my august Sovereign, accrediting me as her Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States. In fulfilling this pleasing duty I desire to express my sense of the distinguished character and special importance of the mission which Her Majesty has been graciously pleased to confide to me, and to assure you that no effort will be wanting on my part worthily to discharge so great a trust.

"My utmost endeavors will be devoted to the object which Her Majesty and her people have so much at heart, the maintenance of the relations of peace and friendship which happily subsist between Great Britain and the United States, and the strengthening, if possible, of the many ties which unite those two great English-speaking countries, destined to exercise the most beneficial influence for the advancement of civilization and the promotion of happiness throughout the world. I believe that the citizens of the United States reciprocate the feelings of amity and good will I have expressed and and are animated by the most kindly sentiments towards Her Majesty and her people.

"I beg, sir, in conclusion, to offer you the assurance of my highest respect and esteem."

President Harrison then made the following reply:

"Mr. Minister: The pleasure I have in receiving from your hands the letters whereby Her Britannic Majesty accredits you as her Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States, is enhanced by the earnest assurance of good will with which you have accompanied their delivery. It is gratifying that Her Majesty's choice of a representative, charged with the expression of sincere amity between the two Nations, has fallen upon one whose official station for many years past has induced an intimate acquaintance with the relations between the United States and the British Empire. I am happy to assure you, in return, of no less zealous efforts on my part, and on the part of those who are associated with me in the Government, to perpetuate relations of peace and friendship between the United States and Great Britain. It is especially pleasing to know that you, as the representative of the British people, have been an interested and friendly observer of our National commemoration of the inauguration of the first President of the Republic.

"To yourself, personally, Mr. Minister, I am glad to offer the greeting due to your distinguished reputation and eminent qualities."

SIR JULIAN PAUNCEFOTE.

Secretary Tracy has determined to give coil boilers a thorough practical trial in order to test their qualities for generating steam for naval vessels. Secretary Whitney took some steps toward making this test during his administration, and some of the boiler-builders had actually constructed boilers to be tested, but as Secretary Whitney's term was drawing to a close, the matter was postponed. Coil boilers have already been introduced into some of the vessels of the French navy, but they have hardly had a satisfactory test as yet. The chief advantages claimed for them is that they save a great deal of space and weight, two very important factors in the construction of a war vessel.

The President has made the following appointments:

Dr. Alva S. Alexander, of New York, United States Attorney for the Northern District of New York.

Carter B. Harrison, of Tennessee United States Marshal for the Middle District of Tennessee.

Postmaster Flynn, of Guthrie, Oklahoma, telegraphed the Postmaster-General, that as a usual thing a line of people one-half a mile long gathers at the delivery window waiting for mail, although the eleven clerks of the office work continuously from 5 o'clock in the morning until midnight. The delivery of letters averages 3,000, and of newspapers 1,000 daily. The sale of stamps amounts to $50 daily. There are five banks and six newspapers in the town.

An examination of the pension roll discloses the fact that there are 855 pensioners upon the rolls drawing pensions for total blindness.

DASHED TO DEATH.

Fatal Accident to a Coach Load of Passengers in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—A western bound fast freight dashed into a two horse wagonette at the Bridge street crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad, Frankford yesterday, hurling two of its occupants into eternity. The scene of the catastrophe in the daylight hours was a horrible one, showing only too terribly the awful nature of the collision. Blood was spattered for yards, and a heap of shattered timbers piled on the side of the track was all that was left of the vehicle.

The occupants of the conveyance were, with one exception, officers and members of Jerusalem Lodge, F. and A. M., of Frankford. One of their brothers, Howard C. Yonker, died suddenly yesterday, and the party was returning from the residence of Dr. A. H. Boyer, No. 4713 Richmond street, Bridesburg, one of the officers of the lodge, whither they had gone to arrange for his funeral. It was on their return journey that the fatal accident occurred. The following are the killed.

THE KILLED.

FRED. K. WOMRATH, aged 55, No. 447 Marshall street, ex-member of Common Council and ex-fur dealer on Archland street, above Seventh.

Samuel Smith, a wholesale liquor merchant of Frankford, had his skull fractured and will die. Frank Wilgus, a Frankford druggist, was injured internally and is expected to die.

IMPEACHMENT PROPOSED.

Judge White, of Pittsburg, to Be Arraigned as Unfit to Officiate.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 4.—Mr. Shiras, of Allegheny, has prepared a resolution providing for the appointment of a House committee to take steps for the impeachment of Judge White, the now famous License Court Judge of Pittsburg. He takes the ground that undue influences have been brought to bear upon Judge White; that he has exceeded and strained his authority and is an unfit person to be a Judge.

The bill legalizing the sale of pools on racing tracks was called up in the House yesterday on final passage. There were enough votes pledged to pass the bill with at least two to spare, but at the time the vote was taken a number of friends of the bill were temporarily absent in the Senate or in Conference committee, and these were not recorded. The bill failed, although it received ninety-four votes.

The Fow Liquor License bill came up in the Senate on final passage and failed of a constitutional majority.

The Lockout Ended.

PITTSBURG, May 4.—A Uniontown special says that the lockout at the Stewart coke works, which has lasted since February 1, was settled last evening, the company agreeing not to push the prosecutions against the four men who assaulted non-union men, and the strikers promising to stop interfering with the company's efforts to start the works, allowing the company to employ who they choose, and agreeing that any old hands taken back will renounce labor organizations. Gillis, the man who had kept the men stirred up, is to vacate the company's property and leave. Some of the men will return to work at the reduced wages offered. Others have obtained work elsewhere.

A Destructive Gas Explosion.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., May 4.—A destructive gas explosion occurred at the Beechwood colliery yesterday. The fire boss neglected to put up the "caution board" at the entrance of an abandoned gangway in which gas had accumulated. James Nolan, who was making repairs, knowing that the fire boss had passed, and seeing no danger signal up, entered the gangway with a naked lamp. The flame of the lamp caused a terrible explosion. Nolan was blown against the rocks and sustained fatal injuries. Two miners were dragged out of the shaft unconscious, but were not seriously injured. Considerable damage was done to the property.

Patersons Strikers Succeed.

PATERSON, N. J., May 4.—The strike of the silk ribbon weavers of the Star Silk company has ended. The weavers who took the strikers' places have been discharged and the old wages restored. The weavers of Clay & Grocock are still out. The firm has about twenty looms running. The weavers filling the strikers' places left good positions on broad silk goods in other mills. The National Silkworkers and the Progressive Union are preparing an indignation meeting.

Must Not Fool With Reporters.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 4.—Paddy Ryan, ex-champion heavy weight, was knocked out Wednesday night by a newspaper reporter weighing about 150 pounds. Ryan insulted Wells, the reporter, who knocked him down three times on the sidewalk. Ryan was finally rescued by his friends. His face was so badly bruised that he did not appear yesterday at the saloon where he is employed as a bouncer.

Narrow Escape From a Burning Building.

MEDINA, N. Y., May 4.—Seymour Blount's residence at Shelby Basin, west of this place, was destroyed by fire last night, and the family had narrow escapes, having to be rescued from the windows. Loss $2,000 to $3,000.

Boston Outplays Washington at Every Point and Wins Easily.

Chicago Opens at Cleveland with a Victory—Pittsburg Gets Away with the Hoosiers—Brooklyn Scores Another from the Athletics—St. Louis Slaughtered at Kansas City—Columbus Beats Baltimore—The Atlantic Association.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The fine record made by the New Yorks was lowered considerably by the defeat they sustained yesterday at the hands of the Philadelphia club. The champions, however, are still a strong first, with Pittsburg and Philadelphia a tie in second place. Boston comes next, with Cleveland and Chicago a tie in fifth place.

Kansas City, Brooklyn and Columbus strengthened their positions in the Association race, while the three favorites were beaten.

BEATEN IN FIFTEEN MINUTES.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—It took the Phillies about fifteen minutes to knock out the Giants yesterday afternoon. They did it by making seven runs in the first inning on two hits and seven errors. They were also aided by the umpire. The bunching of fielding and battery errors, and the shrewdness of Harry Wright in changing pitchers at the right moment, were the main causes of defeat. The day was as cold for the spectators as it was for the Giants. It was a cloudy day, and not over 1,500 people attended the game.

WASHINGTONS LOSE TO BOSTON.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The Senators managed to play an even game with Boston for five inning yesterday, but then went to pieces and gave Healy miserable support. In the last inning they batted out four earned runs.

CHICAGO WON BY HEAVY BATTING.

CLEVELAND, May 4.—About 4,000 people attended the opening championship game which was won by the heavy and connected batting of the Chicagos.

THE HOOSIERS BEATEN EASILY.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 4.—Pittsburg batted the ball over the field and out of it and won easily yesterday. Attendance about 1,200.

THE BRIDEGROOMS RATTLE THE QUAKERS.

BROOKLYN, May 4.—The Brooklyns won another game from the Athletics at Washington Park yesterday afternoon by getting a strong lead in the first five innings. The Athletics became badly rattled in their overanxiety to win, and made four errors in the first two innings, and allowed as many runs to be scored.

COLUMBUS CLIPS THE ORIOLES' WINGS.

COLUMBUS, O., May 4.—Columbus turned the tables on the Baltimores yesterday in a well-played game. Timely hits off Kilroy, aided by bases on balls, tell the story. The Baltimores showed up poorly at the bat and their fielding errors were costly. The fielding of Marr and the batting of Orr were the features of the game.

THE COWBOYS BEAT THE BROWNS.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 4.—The St. Louis Browns received the worst beating of their lives yesterday afternoon and from a most unexpected quarter. There was a splendid audience present, and after it got over its astonishment it just settled down to solid enjoyment. The visitors were outplayed at every position. Chamberlain had to retire at the end of the second inning after nine hits had been made, two of them home runs. Hudson was but little better and twelve earned runs were quickly piled up by the Cowboys. The Browns became paralyzed and put up a very poor game.

NEWARK BATTED AT THE RIGHT TIME.

NEWARK, May 4.—The tie game of Thursday between the New Havens and Newarks was played off here yesterday, and the Newarks won by good hard hitting at the right time, McDermitt and Sullivan each making home runs when there were two men on bases. The visitors were unable to do anything with Miller's curves.

HARTFORD'S HITS WERE OPPORTUNE.

EASTON, May 4.—Hartford's hits were more opportune yesterday than Easton's, and as a result they won the game. The fielding was very sharp. O'Connell pitched a fine game for Hartford. Turner was somewhat wild, though he was more puzzling than O'Connell.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—A regular meeting of the Plainfield Bowling Club will be held at the alleys next Monday evening.

—The annual meeting of The Monday Afternoon Club will be held at the Seminary, next Monday, at 3:30 P. M.

—Don't forget the drawing for $50 in gold and a picture, and the other attractions at the T. A. B. fair to-night.

—The North Plainfield Council can transact more business in a couple of hours, than the Legislature can in the same number of days.

—Geo. S. Avery, Y. M. C. A. State Evangelist for Massachusetts, will conduct at the Y. M. C. A. meeting, Monday night. All men invited. Instrumental music.

—At twelve o'clock today Messrs C. Schepflin & Co., agreeably surprised their employees by shutting down as the beginning of the Saturday half-holidays of the year.

—It has been suggested that the Borough Council hold a special meeting in the near future, vote away the remainder of the appropriations—if any there be—and adjourn sine die.

—Installing officer J. R. Naylor, last evening, installed the recently elected officers of Alpha Lodge, No. 4, I. O. G. T. at their rooms on West Front street. One new member was also initiated.

—An unusually interesting meeting was held in Hope chapel, last evening Mr. Benj. Hand opened the meeting with scripture reading and prayer. Mr. S. A. Haines of Netherwood delivered an eloquent and interesting address.

—Officer Giese also saw the three men who are supposed to have broken into the Plainfield post office on Wednesday night. The officer passed the men on Park avenue, near Second street, when one of them said in a gruff voice: "good morning, sir," to which the officer responded with the words "good morning."

Better Look at Home.

Those persons who have so much to say how a newspaper should be conducted are the ones who do not subscribe for it—nine times out of ten—know nothing about the business and if they had their own way would ruin the paper in less than a year. Hot headedness doesn't pay in running a newspaper, one wants to have a reasonably cool head. It would be interesting to know how much good these growlers have done the community. Nine times out of ten they take their job printing out of town and also subscribe for outside papers and borrow the local ones.

THE PRESS Always on Top.

The game of base ball, this morning on the Front street grounds, between the carrier boys of THE PRESS and the evening news, resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 38 to 25.

The news' pitcher was batted all over the field—Mr. M. Sutphen of THE PRESS making one of the longest hits of season. THE PRESS boys only played eight of their innings to the news nine.

Free School Books for the Poor.

Gov. Green has approved the bill which provides that text books shall be provided free to all pupils in the public schools of the State. This removes what has heretofore proved a stumbling block to the poorer class of children, although in many places the Boards of Education some years ago arranged to supply all the necessary books to the children.

Wedded in New York.

Mr. Watson C. Emory of this city, and Miss Belle Molloy of No. 110 West Seventeenth street, New York city, were united in marriage by Rev. Dr. Crams, at the parsonage of the Eighteenth Street church in New York, on Sunday, April 28, at 6:30 o'clock P. M. Mr. and Mrs. Emory have taken up their residence in Plainfield.

Special to Mechanical Drawing Class.

The lesson in Mechanical Drawing, next Tuesday, at the Y. M. C. A., will be the last. Mr. A. J. Gavett requests the members of the class to be sure to bring all their drawings that are in good order.

An Apron Sale.

The ladies of the Park Avenue church will hold an Apron Sale, with refreshments, at the residence of Mrs. A. R. Dilts, 134 Park avenue, Tuesday, May 7, from 2 to 6 P. M.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

During the past week Mr. Robert Gorton of this city, was awarded a patent for a wire hook.

Justice L. F. Wadsworth was suddenly taken ill, about two o'clock this morning, and Dr. Endicott was summoned immediately. The sickness boarders on typhoid pneumonia.

Assemblyman Ulrich of this city, has accepted an invitation from the citizens of Rockaway, N. J., to deliver the oration in connection with the Memoral Day observances at that place.

Master Charles Teeple, of Grove street, North Plainfield, while playing ball on the Sixth street grounds in this city, yesterday afternoon, dislocated the little finger on his left hand.

The Rev. Chas. B. Mitchell leaves next Monday evening to spend the week with his relatives in Pittsburg, prior to the departure of himself and wife for Europe on the 18th instant. Mr. Mitchell will return next Saturday.

The following delegates from New Brunswick, will attend the annual meeting of the State Exempt Firemen's Association, in this city, on Wednesday next: Messrs J. N. Terrill, W. H. Hardy, John Lawrence, Chas. Dodge and Dunham Way. They will start for Plainfield at 8 A. M. in a carriage.

Mr. William Ryno died at his home in South Plainfield, yesterday, of pneumonia, in the 77th year of his age. He was an old and prominent resident of the place—formerly called New Brooklyn. The large mill property and lake that the Roselle and South Plainfield railroad now runs through, has belonged to Mr. Ryno for many years.

The Rev. George P. Noble, of Cornwall-on-Hudson, and Mr. Aaron M. Powell, of this city, will be the speakers at the Third Anniversary of the Y's, next Monday evening, in the Congregational church. There will also be a musical programme. All are cordially invited. Mr. Noble is the son-in-law of Mrs. Fanny T. Ketcham, of East Fifth street.

Today we record the death of Miss Kittie, the 18-year-old daughter of Mary and Swan Smalley of Manning avenue, North Plainfield. Deceased has been troubled about four years with epileptic fits in one of which a few days ago, she was relieved by death. Interment was made in the burial plot of Ambrose Smalley, Sr., her grandfather, in the Bound Brook cemetery. Rev. H. B. MacCauley officiated at the grave.

The Hotel Netherwood—New Jersey's most charming and select Summer resort—opened on Wednesday last. Demands for early accommodations impelled the proprietor, Mr. F. E. Miller, to begin the season of '89 one month earlier. The good judgment of such decision is very apparent, as there are many guests at the Hotel already. Numbered among those of the past few days were two brides and bridegrooms.

Mr. John Elder, of Washington, D. C., left Plainfield for his home this morning, after returning a recent visit of Freeholder Andrew Vanderbeek's. Mr. Elder was formerly a wealthy plantation owner in Louisiana, and at the breaking out of the War possessed $140,000 worth of slaves, alone. In spite of this great loss, Mr. Elder remained a loyal Union man and sought by his personal influence and public speeches to prevent secession. Only his popularity and bravery saved his life, which was threatened for his expression of Union sentiments in the Rebel hot-beds.

North Plainfield School Meeting.

Pursuant to a notice in another column the legal voters of School District No. 38, will meet in special session in the public school building in North Plainfield, on Tuesday evening, May 7, at eight o'clock. The total amount though to be necessary for the purpose is $20,000, of which $16,000 will be devoted to the erection of the building, and $4,000 for heating, furnishing, etc.

The matter of issuing bonds in the corporate name and under the seal of the District, to defray the cost of erecting, heating and furnishing the new building, will also be decided at the meeting.

A Notable Wedding at Linden.

The marriage of Miss Anna, daughter of ex-Assemblyman Blancke of Linden, to Mr. Julius John of New York, took place Thursday evening in the Dutch Reformed church at Linden. The wedding was a most brilliant one, and the church was thronged with invited guests. The best man was Mr. Young of New York, and the maid of honor, Miss Lena Blancke, a sister of the bride. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Oscar Gesner.

Among those present from this city were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kelley and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Campbell. Prof. S. O. Frazee of this city furnished the music for the reception, which was attended by about 150 guests.

She Picked Prince of Wales Pocket, and Now Resides in Westfield.

The favorite mustang of Broncho Bill, ridden in the Wild West Show, is now a resident of Westfield and resides in more or less comfort up at Embree Crescent. White as to eye; pie-bald as to color; lean as to condition; lank of limb; scant as to mane and tail; comfortable as to disposition: fleet of foot; sound of wind; rhinoceros-hided and as tireless as a locomotive, "Witch Hazel" for that is her name, is like a singed cat in that she is better than she looks.

It was she who was wont to pick the handkerchief out of the Prince of Wales pocket and stooped at the tap of a riding whip to take on her back the youth of the Royalty that "commanded" the great Wild West Show when Buffalo Bill first took it to England. Buffalo Bill presented the galloper to Marshall P. Wilder, and Marshall P. Wilder turned it over to the Standard man, who happened to be his friend; and so it comes about that a somewhat famous little horse is in town. —Alf. Pearsall in the Westfield Standard.

Shame on Him.

On Tuesday last a dog belonging to a resident of Second street, bit a little child who, with its mother from Brooklyn, N. Y., were visiting friends on Orchard place, this city. The little one was playing near the dog when the animal bit the child on the cheek. The owner of the dog was sent for, but he would not kill the dog under any consideration. The next day, however, he concluded to allow the canine to be taken away and killed upon the payment of eight dollars. The money was paid over to him and the animal was taken into the woods about a mile and a half away and shot.

The neighbors in that vicinity think the owner of the dog did a niggardly act in refusing to surrender the animal until he was paid the above sum. The dog was valued at about 50 cents.

In the Chancellor's Court.

Additional testimony was heard by Vice Chancellor VanFleet yesterday forenoon, in his Chambers, in Newark, in the partition suit between Mrs. Mary P. Clayton, complainant, and James M. Silvers, defendant. The parties are both residents of Westfield, Union county, and the suit was brought for partition of land in that place. No decision was rendered.

Centennial.

One hundred years our Yankee land
Has triumphed over ill,
One hundred years! and patriot ties
Do link its people still.
And when another hundred years
Have passed, e'en yet there'll be
No better place than Collier's store
To purchase jewelry.

The Highest Yet.

Mr. John W. Murray, Jr., of the Crescent Bowling Club, made a score of 232 in ten frames, at Olympia Alley, last evening.

BOROUGH COUNCIL MEETING.

Claims Ordered Paid, and Additional Streets to be Macadamized—A Host of Other Matters Considered.

The Borough Council met in regular session last evening, all the members being present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, and the regular order of business was taken up.

Sundry petitions for peddler's, cartman's, express and scavenger licenses were read, referred and granted. Other petitions persented and referred as follows:

One asking for a lamp on Duer street, near Green Brook road; another for a crosswalk at Grove street and Park place.

A petition was also received from property owners on Willow avenue, asking Council to macadamize that thoroughfare from Washington avenue to a point West known as the "farm" line, said petitioners agreeing to contribute one-half of the cost, provided, however, that it did not exceed $1,000. Referred to the Street Committee.

The Clerk's monthly statement showed these figures: Balance on hand at time of making last report, $59.94; received for licenses, etc., $122.50; total $182.44.

Claims were presented and subsequently ordered paid, as follows: T. W. Morrison, $41.80; P. Hapenny, $7; W. A. Pangborn, $4.75; T. McDonald, $18.25; A. D. Cook & Bro., $5.50; Job Coddington, $18.75; C. Mundy, $3.55; Geo. Conover, $6.85; Alex. Thorn, $1 95; Carney Bros., $3.39; B. A. Hegeman, Jr., $13.30.

STANDING COMMITTEES.

Mr. McGee, from the Fire, Water and Lamps Committee, reported on the matter of a fire alarm system, adding that it was necessary, first to clear up the ownership of the bell now in the tower. He stated that the bell was presented to the fire department by Mr. John Taylor Johnston, and in answer to a letter addressed to that gentleman, the latter had replied that the bell was donated for fire purposes and not as personal property. Mr. McGee stated that the committee was not yet ready to definitely report on the best method for establishing a fire alarm system. Referring to the matter of organizing a fire department, he said that a paper was awaiting signatures. The report was filed.

The Street Committee, through Mr. Smalley, reported that negotiations had been made with the First National Bank for $800. in pursuance with instructions given the committee; he further stated that the work of scraping and turnpiking the roads was going on; the total amount spent for work on the streets thus far is $101.77.

The Street Committee further recommended, in its report, the macadamizing of Westervelt avenue from the South side of Jackson avenue to Grandview avenue, the property owners along the line agreeing to pay one-half of the expense. The committee submitted bids from two stone-crushing firms, each agreeing to furnish stone at the rate of about 90 cents a ton at the crusher; the same committee also reported in favor of a crosswalk at Grove street and Park place. The report was received.

Mr. Needham, from the Printing Committee, reported recommending the purchase of new furniture for the Council Chamber, painting the walls and kalsomining the ceiling, at an estimated cost of about $225. The report was received, and later on the committee was, upon resolution adopted, authorized to purchase furniture and make the stated repairs.

A resolution by Mr. McGee, authorizing the Fire, Water and Lamps Committee to negotiate a loan of $1,500 for street lighting purposes, was adopted.

The Street Committee made a supplementary report in favor of the petitions for a crosswalk at Park place and Vine street, and also for a sidewalk in front of No. 70 Duer street. In the former instance the petition was granted, and the committee was instructed to proceed with the work. In the latter instance the committee was authorized to serve the usual notice on the owner of the property, said owner to lay a walk in conformity with the Borough ordinance.

Mr. Emmons offered a resolution to the effect that $1,000 of the road fund for 1889 be set aside for work on Somerset street, to be used where most needed. The resolution was amended, making the amount $750, and adopted, Mr. McGee voting "no."

A resolution by Mr. McGee, allowing property owners to macadamize in front of their own property, at their own expense, went through without opposition.

Mr. Emmons submitted a resolution authorizing the Street Committee to investigate and report on the probable cost of grading, and also as to the number of feet the petitioners ask to have macadamized on Willow avenue. Mr. Bettman answered these questions satisfactorily, but the resolution went through "all the same," Messrs McGee and Bettman voting "no."

WILL BENEFIT A FEW.

Mr. Smalley, from the Street Committee introduced a resolution that was neither just nor fair. It provides for the macadamizing of a couple of blocks on Westervelt avenue, leaving the rest of that thoroughfare hub deep in mud during the Spring. The resolution provides for macadamizing the avenue from Jackson to Westervelt avenues, while that section of the thoroughfare mostly traveled, from Jackson avenue East to Brook avenue, [is entirely ignored. The cost of the work was not stated; furthermore it was not known.

Mr. McGee made a stand against the proposed scheme, and argued hard to defeat it, but the resolution was adopted, Mayor Cooley casting the deciding vote in the affirmative. Messrs Buckle, Bettman and McGee voted against the adoption of the resolution. The latter maintained that it was wrong for the Council to meet regularly and order additional streets and avenues macadamized, without even knowing the cost for the work on the same. He also maintained that if Westervelt avenue was to be macadamized, it was but right and just to extend the improvement at least to Brook avenue where it joins the city line. Mr. Buckle agreed with him.

Upon resolution of Mr. Emmons, the following were elected Special Marshals: Louis Conrad, Wm. Krewson and Samuel Taynor.

The ordinance fixing the salaries of the Assessor and Collector, was taken from the table, read for the third time and adopted.

The Street Committee was authorized and empowered to contract for crushed stone, at a cost not to exceed 90 cents per ton; also to purchase a four-ton roller.

Council then adjourned.

SUSPICIOUS OF THE WEST.

Governor Green Thinks Colorado Society Decidedly Tough.

Considerable amusement was occasioned at the State House at Denver, Col., recently, over the receipt of a telegram from Gov. Green of this State refusing to honor a requisition issued by Governor Cooper of Colorado for the return of Herbert Coddington, the cowboy who ran away with the daughter of a citizen of Las Animas. After leaving Colorado Coddington repaired to New Jersey where himself and the girl were married. Before taking his departure Coddington, it is alleged, appropriated a quantity of his reluctant father-in-law's goods, and subsequently set fire to the paternal residence. The irate old rancher resolved to bring his objectionable son-in-law to justice, and learning of his location in New Jersey swore out warrants charging him with abduction, arson and grand larceny. These warrants were presented to the Attorney General, who submitted them to the Governor. The latter at once issued a requisition. The Secretary of State supposing that one indictment was sufficient, jumped upon the first one, which happened to be that for abduction.

Armed with this requisition and supremely happy in the belief that the recreant son in-law could be seized and brought back without any difficulty, the muscular father of the girl, accompanied by an officer, hied himself to the State of ravenous mosquitoes and villainous whiskey—as the Denver papers call New Jersey—intent upon revenge. Arriving at Elizabeth, clad in plainsman's garb, he presented his credentials to Gov. Green and asked for the custody of Coddington, who had meantime been arrested.

The New Jersey executive eyed him keenly, cast a look of apprehension upon his bronzed features and fierce aspect, and remarked that he would investigate the case. He did, and finding the prisoner and girl had been married, refused to surrender Coddington. Arranging for the retention of the prisoner until he could return to Colorado and amend his papers, the father-in-law came back, had a new requisition issued covering the three charges of abduction, arson and larceny, and again migrated to New Jersey.

Governor Green had in the interval grown more suspicious, and when the old rancher materialized upon the scene, received him coldly, and scanning the requisition and warrants closely, put his executive veto upon the whole proceeding, alleging as a reason that the status of society in the wild and woolly West in general, and Colorado in particular, was such as to endanger Coddington's life if surrendered and brought back.

In this trying dilemma, with defeat and chagrin staring him in the face, the old gentleman telegraphed back to the Attorney General:

"Governor of New Jersey refuses to honor requisition. What shall I do?"

To which the astute Attorney General replied:

"Cuss Governor, bless son-in-law and skip for home."

Gov. Green's estimate of Colorado society, and his evident belief that the untamed cowboy still roams the State killing whom he desires at will, created a ripple of amusement at the State House, Denver.

A Mass of Falsehoods.

If the news of last night quotes Chief of Police Carey correctly, the Chief is guilty of a mass of misstatements, if nothing worse, concerning the post office robbery.

The Chief tells an untruth if he says the safe could not be seen from the street; he tells a falsehood if he says the light displayed was very dim, and he is dishonest if he claims that the drapery in the windows prevented anyone from seeing the interior of the office.

If an officer noticed that the inner door was closed—as the news states—he should have investigated the mater at once. He had no business to "attribute it to the neglect of the clerks," even if it had "happened before." Consequently, in view of the fact that it never did happen before, the news makes the negligence of the officer very prominent.

Mean Trick.

CLAIMS TO BE CHRIST.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 4.—Rev. George Jacob Schweinfurth, the particular flower of the Beekmanities, has heretofore simply claimed to be a Christ. Now he unreservedly asserts his right to be known as Jesus Christ. Mrs. Beekman, the founder of the sect, and, after her death, Mr. Sweinfurth, both claimed that they were Christ, but in a sense that admitted of pettifogging, for they generally accompanied it with the explanation that every Christian was, in one sense, Christ.

But Mr. Schweinfurth is no longer content with such shuffling as this, and has at last come out boldly with the claim that he is not only a Christ, but the Christ—in fact, that he is Jesus Christ. He claims to be the veritable Jesus who was born at Bethlehem and was crucified on Calvary.

NEWS FROM ABROAD

A SLIGHT SENSATION OCCURS.

The Irish Leader Forced to Admit He Had Made Exaggerated Statements.

King John of Abyssinia Killed in an Encounter with the Dervishes — Henry Rochefort Abandons His Trip to Algeria—The French Government Would'nt Give Him a Permit—Other Items of Interest.

LONDON, May 4.—The cross-examination of Mr. Parnell before the Parnell Commission was continued yesterday.

Mr. Parnell denied knowing "Number One," either under the name of Tynan or any other. He had never heard Egan associated with the "Martyr Fund" for the benefit of the families of those executed and incarcerated for participation in the Phoenix Park murders. He saw nothing criminal in the fund, but rather thought it was right to assist the innocent victims of the "martyrs."

Mr. Parnell said he could not recollect having denounced outrages between 1878 and 1881. He believed the outrages were the work of small societies.

Mr. Parnell said that he had often reproved Mr. William O'Brien for the violent character of the articles published in his paper, United Ireland. Witness had not publicly repudiated them because it was not the way to effect the alterations he desired.

A sensational incident—the most remarkable of the examination—occurred when Sir Richard Webster quoted a statement made by Mr. Parnell during the debate on Mr. Forster's bill in 1881, suspending the habeas corpus, to the effect tnat secret societies had then ceased to exist in Ireland. Sir Richard asked Mr. Parnell if he believed the statement when he made it.

Mr. Parnell replied: "No; at any rate it was an exaggerated statement."

Sir Richard Webster: "Did you or did you not misstate the fact when you made that statement?"

Mr. Parnell admitted that he had made the statement knowing it to be untrue; or at least extravagant. He further admitted that he had never withdrawn the statement. His purpose in making it was to exaggerate the effect which the League had had in eradicating secret societies.

Mr. Parnell further testified that he was unable to say what had become of the books of the Land League. Some of them were brought to London and some were now before the Commission. Where the missing books and documents were he did not know, but he would endeavor to ascertain.

Details of the defeat of the Abyssinian army and the death of King John are at hand. The report states that the Abyssinians attacked the stronghold of the Dervishes at Nelemmeh on March 10, but were repulsed with many wounded. On March 12 the Dervishes assumed the aggressive and completely routed the King's forces. Among the large number killed were King John and his principal generals, Ras Area and Ras Aila. King Menelek of Shoa immediately proclaimed himself King of Abyssinia and is marching to Adowa.

The Dublin Bankruptcy court is pursuing an examination into the Provincial bank frauds which a short time ago created so much excitement in the Irish capital. The brokers to whom the pilfered money was paid were subpœnaed as witnesses and excused their acceptance of large sums of money in notes across the counter of the bank by the plea that they believed that the defaulter, Ross Todd, had married a lady with a large fortune and that the money they received from him was his own. The testimony taken shows that £25,000 of the £27,000 embezzled by Todd was paid over the bank counter to five brokers.

M. Henri Rochefort has abandoned his journey to Bona, Algeria, for which place he started to bury his son, and returned to London. He had applied to the French Government for a permit to go to Algeria for the purpose mentioned and had been assured that the necessary papers would be forwarded at once.

Upon his arrival at Dover, where he was joined by his daughter, he found no papers awaiting him, nor did they arrive during the succeeding two days of his stay there. Disgusted at the apparent indifference of the French authorities he gave up the idea of attending the obsequies of his son and rejoined his fellow exiles here.

A body of infantry has been sent to quell the violence which prevails among the workers in the Rothschild's mines in Moravia. The miners demand the return of $10,500 which they have collectively paid in on account of insurance premiums, which demand the masters refuse to comply with; hence the riots. Thus far ten of the leaders in the disorders have been arrested, but the men are determined to fight until they are overpowered by superior numbers or until their demands are satisfactorily met.

PAYMASTER SMITH FOUND.

He Had Been Drinking and Had Tried to Commit Suicide.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Henry R. Smith, the missing paymaster of the United States Corvette "Essex," was found at his mother's residence, 344 West Fourteenth street, yesterday, in a very precarious condition, the result of centennial over-indulgence.

Smith left the "Essex" on Thursday, the 25th. the day after the craft arrived from a three years' cruise on the Asiatic station. A large sum of money was due the men and Smith went to the Sub-Treasury and drew $1,200 with which to pay the crew an installment. He spent the night at the Gilsey house and placed the money in the safe. Next day he received the cash and that was the last seen of him.

Mrs. Smith says her son came home Wednesday night in a partly crazed condition. He appeared to have been drinking heavily. She persuaded him to retire, but after being in bed a few hours he arose and attempted to commit suicide by shooting. After that she watched him closely but he made no further attempt on his life. His wife arrived yesterday from San Francisco.

It was reported that Smith had had some difference with his wife and that this and her expected arrival here were the causes of his disappearance and attempt upon his life.

Smith was in too bad a condition to tell what disposition he had made of the "Essex's" money. His accounts on board are perfectly straight.

The case has been reported to the Naval authorities.

MONUMENT TO OUR FATHERS.

The Governors of the Thirteen Original States Propose to Erect a Memorial.

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—The Governors of the thirteen original States, who participated in the celebration of the Washington Centennial, have arranged to meet in Independence hall, Philadelphia, on July 4, next, to consider and carry out resolutions passed by them at Carpenters' hall, in April of last year, looking toward the erection of a monument to preserve the memory of the men who secured the events, the centennial of which has just been celebrated. The resolutions have just been endorsed by the United States Senators representing the thirteen original States, and the members of Congress that closed the first century of the Constitutional Government, as well as by President Cleveland and his Cabinet.

Funeral of the Hon. William H. Barnum.

LIME ROCK, Conn., May 4.—The funeral over the remains of the Hon. William H. Barnum was held in Trinity church here yesterday. The interment was in the family lot. There were special trains from Hartford and New York bringing mourners from all over the country, among them many prominent politicians, including ex-President Cleveland. The service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Putnam, rector, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Walker, former rector. The bearers were three nephews of the deceased M. B. Richardson, A. L. Richardson and George M. Walton and Sidney Ensign, Porters Burrall and George W Cowdrey.

Inventor Hotchkiss' Fortune.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 4.—The contest over the $12,000,000 estate of the late B. B. Hotchkiss, inventor of the Hotchkiss gun, began hers yesterday, the question at issue being whether Hotchkiss had a legal domicile in America, in which case the widow will receive $6,000,000 and Hotchkiss' father $6,000,000, or whether his legal residence was Paris, in which event six relations living in France will secure $2,000,000 each. The French defendants entered a demurrer and after argument, the court reserved its decision.

Haar's Assailants in Court.

BOSTON, May 4.—"Hopper" Pierce, Talbot, Dud J. Breen and Sheehan, the four young men who assaulted Martin Haar, a driver of a beer wagon, a week ago last Saturday evening, were arraigned yesterday charged with assault with intent to kill. Haar, who had just left the hospital, testified to the facts already published. Pierce was held in $15,000 bail and Talbot in $5,000 for their appearance before the Superior court while Breen and Sheehan were discharged

Even the Italians Strike.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 4.—There was another strike at the Duquesne Bessemer Steel works yesterday, the Italians who had replaced strikers demanding even higher wages than the original workmen had asked for. The company refused the demand and only twenty men are now at work. The strikers are greatly encouraged over this turn of affairs, but the company is still confident of securing a non-union force.

A Mysterious Assault.

BRADFORD, Vt., May 4.—Two men entered Winship's hardware store last evening and stole $250. Harry Chamberlain, the clerk, says the men asked to see some goods, but he has no recollection of what then occurred until he found himself on the sidewalk outside, recovering from unconsciousness. There are no marks of violence on his person, and the method in which he was assaulted is a mystery.

A Whole Family Poisoned.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 4.—Jefferson Lightfoot, his wife, and two children, after eating their dinner exhibited symptoms of arsenical poisoning, and though the children soon recovered, the parents are still critically ill, and Mrs. Lightfoot will probably not recover. Some corn left from the dinner was fed to chickens, four of which died after eating it. The affair is being investigated.

Miners Issue a Circular.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 4.—A circular issued by the miners of the Pittsburg district to the railroad coal operators demands a yearly rate of 74 cents per ton, and states that if no answer is received by to-day a convention will be called to consider methods of securing a uniform scale and enforcing cash payments instead of the company store system.

The Market is Too Dull.

BELVIDERE, N. J., May 4.—The Warren furnace at Hackettstown, which resumed operations last August after having been idle for several years, is to be blown out on account of the dull state of the iron market. The company has thirty thousand tons of iron on hand and no market for it. The furnace at Stanhope is also to go out for a similar reason.

Secretary Cook Improving.

NEW YORK, May 4.—It was stated at the Gilsey house last evening that Secretary of State Cook was somewhat improved. His physicians are in constant attendance, and though there is no immediate danger, the crisis in the illness has not yet been reached.

GWENDOLEN.

Her First and Only Romance and How It Ended—A Sentimental Sketch.

THE sunlight slightly touched with golden gleam the tops of the autumn-stricken trees. Mellow tintinnabulations weirdly wended their musical waves through the gloaming, and softly touched the pink and pearly ears of Gwendolen Gabriella Gerster, as she stood listening by the turnpike gate for the return of the meek and loving cows. Nearer came the sound, and louder grew the tinkle of the bells. Twilight grew apace into dusk, and the crickets and lightning bugs sang and flashed in the darkening, dewy air. The old cottage was dimly outlined against the mountain side, and the tallow candle flickered through the window pane. Back and forth the form of her mother passed the door and window. Tired Father Gerster sat dozing by the chimney, slowly, unconsciously puffing curling rings of smoke from his briar-wood pipe. Never was nature more beautiful in quiescent perfection than on that July night. The day had been hot and dry adown the valley, and in the cities of the plain. Gwendolen stood immovable as an incomparably sculptured statue of a Venus de Medici. She did not appreciate the loveliness, but thought only of the loneliness of the summer night on the mountain.

Truly it was a lonely life for such a girl-woman to lead, with no confidential friend save her faithful mastiff. By day, and by night Old Tiger was her constant friend and solace of her hours of utter solitude. His big brown eyes were fixed upon her, and every breath, every heaving of the breast, each motion of the lips, and her every movement were worshiped by him. She felt that to Tiger, at least, she was an object of love and respect. But a nameless longing, a vague unrest took possession of her that summer evening, and over her sweet features there came a gloom indescribably sad. Who can fathom the bottomless pit of a soul that longs for love. There is neither depth or breadth, nor boundary of any kind for the flight of the thoughts of a soul like that of Gwendolen Gabriella Gerster.

Suddenly from out the gloom there came a dull, deadened, regular sound like the far off beating of a heart. Nearer it came, and louder. What is it? She believes, yet dares not hope, that it is the sound of the galloping of a horse. Clearer, clearer, nearer, nearer it comes; it is, it is the speeding of a horse, and now its neigh is heard. He is snuffing the nearness of habitation. There in the dense shadow, a mile away, is the form of man and beast. Nearer, in plain sight; how grandly he sits, and how proudly comes the thoroughbred bearing him. Is it a Prince in disguise? Surely it must be one of the great, if not one of the good of earth. How beautiful men are to the untutored mind of womanhood.

"Whoa! Elko! Whoa there, boy. Good evening, miss. May I ask if I am on the right road to Pickwicktown?"

"Good evening, sir," she responded. "You are ten miles off the road, and going wrong, too."

"Then may I rest here to-night? I have lost my way, and it is impossible for me to find it in this strange country. May I stop here until morning? Any place will do for me, if I may picket my Elko safely."

"I will ask papa. Wait here," she said.

"What!" responded Father Gerster, as he roused himself from his reverie. "A stranger wanting to stop all night. Not for the world. I never keep lodgers, and neither man nor beast shall stay on my place, not for a moment. Tell him to begone."

"I pray you, kind sir, do not turn a stranger away in the night, and in a strange country. Have mercy on my poor animal, if not on me." And as he spoke Captain Knightly stepped into the candle-light by the door-sill, and bowed very low, with hat in hand.

"Why, papa, of course you wouldn't turn a gentleman away under such circumstances,' pleaded Gwendolen.

"Silence, child. I never spoke an unkind word to you, but if you plead for such a thing as the admission of a stranger beneath my roof, I shall become harsh and cruel. It is my will that not for a single hour shall a stranger lodge here. Begone, sir." Rudely and gruffly Father Gerster spoke, and touched his ever-ready revolver as he gave his order to begone.

Gwendolen burst into tears. Mother Gerster interceded and pleaded for the handsome stranger, but the old man was resolute, and the stalwart stranger bowed low as he turned and disappeared into the darkness. Presently the sound of the neighing and trampling was again heard, as he galloped down the mountain side, retracing his way to the forks of the road in the valley, or else seeking a more hospitable roof for the night.

Father and Mother Gerster soon forgot the incident and slept soundly. Gwendolen Gabriella was never so wakeful. Her rude pillow was bathed with tears. Think, think, think, until it seemed that she would go mad; but she could not recall where nor under what circumstances she had seen that noble face. Was it in a dream? No, somewhere, and at some time, she had seen him. She felt that he gave her a smile and token of recognition as he departed. Who could he be? What was that? Is there not a sound out there in the gloom? Up, quietly up she raised the curtain. The moon was struggling through the clouds. Yes, there in the garden is a man. He is digging. He stops, stands up, the light strikes his face. It glitters in the moonbeams. He ties a strap to either end and swings it over his shoulder. There is a sound in the room below. Father Gerster is rising. He is disturbed. Gwendolen raises the window, making considerable noise, and calls out into the air: "Father Gerster, are you up?" The stranger hears, he speeds across to the copse and disappears. The cottage door is opened and Father Gerster steps out into the moonlight. His rifle is in the hollow of his elbow. He scans the yard and peers into the gloom. Gwendolen, from above, calls down: "Father Gerster, is that you down there? I heard a noise, what is it?"

"I, too, heard a noise, Gwendolen. I fear your handsome stranger has not entirely left us. If I might but see him, this good and trusty rifle should speed him to Heaven."

He retires again. All is quiet. An hour passes away. Out into the moonlight again stands the stranger. He beckons and Gwendolen bows. Lightly she drops from the window. Why has she such confidence in that strange man? She knows not. They meet. Together they glide away down the road, until the charger is found, and then they mount. A goodly distance is traversed, and then, dismounting, he shows her, by the light of the pale moon's glance, the papers which show that she is Lady Gwendolen Beacham, heiress of the fairest estates in all Britain. Captain Knightly is her cousin. They were playmates. Old Gerster is a pirate, robber and thief. He abducted her and another bears her title. Morning comes. They are married

LOVE, NOT LUCRE.

How His Young Cashier Dispelled an Old Banker's Suspicion.

The president of the Swamptown bank was sitting in his library at home the other evening when, according to Texas Siftings, a servant announced that his cashier was in the parlor and desired to see him. The president started, turned a little pale, and muttered: "It has come at last! A confession, undoubtedly. Why did I not have that man watched? Wonder he didn't skip to Canada at once." Then he descended to the parlor, where the following conversation took place:

Cashier (advancing hesitatingly and speaking in an embarrassed way)—I hope you will forgive me, Mr. Goldbags, but—

President Goldbags (sternly)—Forgive you, sir! There is and should be no forgiveness for an offense like yours. Too much leniency is the reason why these crimes are augmenting in number.

"Crimes, sir?"

"Yes, crimes. I call things by their right names."

"But you will pardon me—"

"Pardon you? No, indeed, I won't. Besides that, only the Governor of the State has the pardoning power."

"I must confess, sir—"

"Well, go on and confess, then. That is about all there is left to do, I suppose [bitterly]; but I have suspected this for some time, and I have been a fool not to have investigated you thoroughly."

"Is it, then, so great an offense? Are not most young men impelled that way? Did you not yourself—"

"Silence, sir! How dare you insinuate, miserable man, that ever I was guilty of betraying the confidence—"

"Betray confidence! I love her and she loves me. I wish to marry her, and so—"

"Love her! Marry her! Who are you talking about?"

"Why, your daughter, of course. You said you had long suspected it and I thought you knew; but it is no crime, sir, indeed it is not."

"Then you are not a defaulter?"

"No!"

"And you do not contemplate skipping to Cadada with the funds of the bank?"

"Never thought of such a thing."

"No confession to make, eh?"

"Only a confession of love, Mr. Goldbags, that's all. I ask the hand of your daughter."

"Well, she is yours. You take a great load off my mind."

"In taking your daughter?"

"No, hang it, in removing my suspicions. But I say, son-in-law, don't take in Canada on your wedding trip. The very name makes me shudder."

The young man promised and they parted with lightened hearts.

PECULIAR NAMES.

Choice Gems from an Old Report of the British Registrar General.

The Puritans brought out with them from England some very queer Scripture names, and long after the reinstated Stuarts had in their turn given place to the Dutch dynasty, the Bible continued to furnish a large portion of the given names of the descendants of the Pilgrims. These remarkable cognomens have nearly died out in this country, but we find that others, quite as curious, though for the most part of a widely different style and character, exist at the present day in England.

A friend lent us, a short time ago, an abstract of an old report of the British Registrar General, in which the marriages, deaths and births in the United Kingdom during a period of twelve years are enumerated. The index to this document is the most interesting portion of it, as will be seen by a few items which we propose to give.

In the first place, it appears that Smith is not, as we have hitherto supposed, the most common of all the Anglo-Saxon patronymics. At the date of the report there resided in the British Isles 13,429 Joneses, 12,637 Smiths—majority in favor of the Joneses, 792. The Williamses stand next on the muster roll. They foot up 8,743. The Browns and the Whites also figure prominently in the directory, though far behind the three illustrious families first mentioned.

From the enormous aggregate of names, amounting to several millions, the compiler of the abstract referred to has picked out some choice gems, a few of which we select for the amusement of our readers:

"Jane Stickalorum; Pay Day; Turnerica Henrica Ulrica de Gloria de Lavinia Rebecca Turner; Matilda French Onion; Sanspariel Scamp (in plain English, Unequaled Rascal); Hostilina Iphegenia Maria Hypsehile Wadge; Zaphnashaneah Drayton; Acts Apostles Tong; Betsy Toast Divine; Samson Catchaside Kitchen; Firstson Jones; Prince Albert Gammon and Albertina Regina Victoria Gotha Bolt."

There are hundreds of other names in the catalogue, equally absurd, but the above will suffice as samples.

THE CHAIR BACK.

Used in the Mediæval Era as a Protection from Attacks.

The changes in the height of the chair back, says the writer of "Romance of Furniture," have not been purely arbitrary. Its early mission was not only one of support, but also one of defense from any sudden attack in the rear, an explanation likely to lessen enthusiasm over mediæval life. It should be remarked, however, that even if the master of the house deemed it necessary to put his person in safety he did not have any serious apprehension for the other dwellers in the house or for visitors, so that in each room there was one seat with a very high back reserved for the seignior, while the others had either no backs at all or very insignificant ones. Thus there came about a development sufficiently curious, and the seat with a high back became by custom the mark of dignity and power.

Finally the wig became responsible for revolution. When the wig began to descend to the back the high chair back became very uncomfortable. The curls of hair, wool and silk which composed the monumental structure that every fashionable man believed he ought to wear entangled themselves in projections or adhered to the fabric, and produced in the toilet a disorder most offensive to the majestic dignity of the time. One alternative then presents itself, either to renounce the wig or to cut down the backs of the chairs. They resigned themselves to this last measure, and the wig comes out the victor in this singular contest. Afterward the high chair back lost all significance.

In the eighteenth century there was a new and last revolution. The chair back, which in the preceding century had diminished in size, suddenly becomes pliable, as it were, takes a rounded form, becomes small, convenient, agreeable and ceases completely to be solemn.

Four Generations of Scribners.

The Scribner family, of Waterborough, Me., is remarkable in that its four generations are unbroken by death. David Scribner and his wife, both about ninety years old, have been married for sixty-five years, and have three children, the oldest being over sixty. Their children have children and grandchildren, and no death has yet occurred in the line of descendants from Mr. and Mrs. Scribner to their great-grandchildren.

Newark Bakers Triumphant.

NEWARK, N. J., May 4.—The demands of the journeymen bakers of this city have been conceded and all the bosses have signed the agreement granting the men shorter hours. Up to last evening only two bosses had refused to go to the headquarters of the union and sign the agreement. The journeymen propose to upen a co-operative bakery.

Arbor Day in New York.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The first "Arbor Day" established for the special instruction of school children about the importance of growing and preserving the forests fell upon yesterday. Such a day has been an established institution in a number of other states for several years, but it is new to New York.

Balak Convicted of Murder.

BELVIDERE, N. J., May 4. — Michael Balak was convicted of murdering Michael Ballenshine, last evening. The crime was committed at Oxford last fall. The allegation was that Balak, knowing Ballenshine had $80 in money, had accompanied to a lonely spot and shot Tim.

"Red Nose Mike" to Hang June 25.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 4.—Michael Rizzilo, one of the murderers of McClure, the paymaster, near Wilkesbarre, will be hanged on Tuesday, June 25, in Luzerne county, Governor Beaver having signed the death warrant yesterday.

Senator Ingalls Looks for an Extra Session

ABOUT THE MIDDLE OF AUTUMN

To Get Legislation in Shape Before the Holiday Recess.

Preparations Making for the President's Summer Sojourn at Deer Park—The Federal Supreme Court—A Valuable Present to the Smithsonian Institution from the Chinese Minister—Gen. Black Files an Answer to the Big Suit.

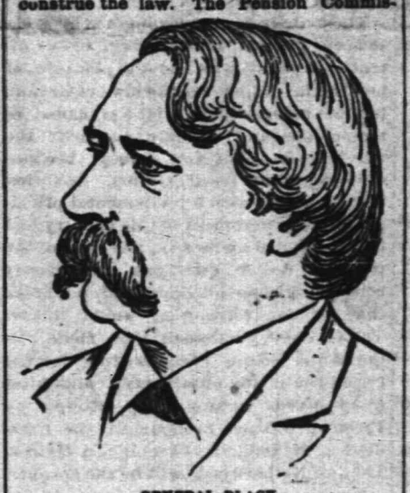
WASHINGTON, May 6.—Senator Ingalls says in an interview: "In my opinion there will be an extra session of Congress called next fall, probably about the middle of October. This course has been deemed judicious with a view to organizing the House of Representatives and getting legislation in shape before the holiday recess."

Preparations are already under way at Deer Park for the expected visit of the President this summer. A cottage has been secured for him and it will be ready for occupancy at short notice. Secretary and Mrs. Windom have engaged apartments at the hotel, and Commissioner of the Census Porter will map out his plans in the same neighborhood.

When the Supreme Court meets after the present recess on May 13 an adjournment will follow for the summer vacation. A number of opinions will be delivered on the 13th, among which is specified what is hoped to be a final decision in the celebrated Myra Clarke Gaines case from New Orleans.

After the court adjourns the several justices will go out on their circuits for several weeks. Nothing certain is known in Supreme Court circles about the successorship to Justice Matthews, but it is the opinion of some persons connected with the court that the appointment lies between Judge Gresham and Attorney-General Miller.

General Black has made answer to the suit filed against him for $100,000 for the malicious withholding of a pension claim. The general says that the United States government is bound to hold harmless all its officers for their official actions, even though they maliciously construe or misconstrue the law. The Pension Commissioner decides an average of 500 cases a day, and if each applicant whose claim is rejected were to charge malicious intent, it can easily be imagined what a mass of litigation the government would have to deal with. It is understood that General Black has consulted with prominent members of the government on the matter.



GENERAL BLACK.

The Chinese Minister has made a valuable gift to the regents of the Smithsonian Institution. Ensconced in a beautiful gold plush case is a "Jade" ring about ten inches in diameter and one-eighth of an inch in thickness. It has a hollow centre about four inches in diameter. The face of the ring has ornamental spots and its back is quite smooth. It is of a pale pea hue, though it was originally of cream color. Upon it is a cream colored spot about the size of a ten-cent piece, which, if continuously rubbed with a piece of silk, will grow in size. This ring is known as the "hanpek" jewel of the dynasty of Han who reigned about 3,500 years ago. In that dynasty the court officials, when having an audience with the Emperor, held this ring with both hands, thrusting their fingers into the opening and guarding against moving their hands while addressing the throne. It was used as an emblem of submission or respect for their Sovereign. It had been buried with its owner, was unearthed from the sepulchre recently, and is considered very valuable.

Col. T. J. Morrow, proprietor of the Sunday Gazette of this city, announces in his paper that he will sell his newspaper at public auction next Thursday. The Gazette was established in 1865 by Col. Tom. Florence, an ex-member of Congress from Pennsylvania. Colonel Morrow has owned and had control of the paper during the past eight years. He proposes now to retire from journalism and engage in other business.

Lieut. Aug. F. Fechteler, U. S. N., was thrown from his horse while returning from the Ivy City races and seriously injured. He had gone out to the races in company with several gentlemen, but had become separated from them on the return. His horse had been almost unmanageable all the way in, and finally, at the corner of New York avenue and Second street, threw his rider. Lieut. Fechteler was unconscious when he was picked up and carried into a neighboring house. Dr. J. D. Morgan was called and said he was suffering from concussion of the brain. His condition is considered quite serious.

KILLED IN A RIOT.

Fatal Encounter Between Railroad Men and Brickyard Employes.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 6.—The Raritan River Railroad company attempted to lay a spur track across Noah Freeman's land at Sayreville early yesterday morning, and their employes were resisted by the employes of a brickyard situated on the land. In the fight that ensued George Kissenger, one of the railroad employes, was killed, and a man named Kennedy so badly beaten that he will die. The railroad construction car was burned, and the rails spoiled by the fire.

The sheriff, with a posse of fifty men, took charge of affairs at noon yesterday, and is preserving order, but the brickyard men are still belligerent, and have not yet allowed Kissenger's body to be removed. They are mostly foreigners. They declare that they will kill any railroad men who attempt to lay rails. The railroad men have not renewed the attack since they were first driven away.

Kissenger's neck was broken, but it is not known who killed him, and it probably never will be. A number of men on both sides were hurt.

DASHED ITS BRAINS OUT.

The Horrible Death of a Baby at the Hands of Its Insane Father.

CHICAGO, May 6.—William Tansor, of this city, a machinist by trade, 26 years of age, living with his young wife and six-month's old baby, became suddenly insane while in bed, and after a desperate struggle with his wife, seized the baby from the crib in which it was sleeping, and dashed its brains out against the wall of the room. He then seized a butcher's knife and tried to murder his wife, who eluded the madman and fled to the street, meanwhile arousing the neighbors by her piercing screams. Tansor then slashed his own throat with the knife and when the police arrived he was walking to and fro in the room with a terrible gash in his neck from which the blood was streaming, while in one hand he held the bloody knife and of his left arm lay the horribly mutilated body of the dead infant. The murderer was at once overpowered and taken to the hospital for treatment.

Warner Miller a President.

NEW YORK, May 6.—The American Meat company has been reorganized, with Warner Miller as president and ex-Congressman J. J. Belden, of Syracuse, as one of the directors. This is the company with $25,000,000 capital which intends to become a rival of the "Big Four" dressed beef combination. It will control large ranches in the West, and stock-yard facilities at Kansas City. The company, as first organized, contained a number of Cotton Oil trust people, but they were frightened out, it is alleged, by the Armours threatening to fight the Cotton Oil trust. The necessary capital has already been subscribed, and it is not thought that there will be any further delay in carrying out the project.

Victory for the Miners.

BRAZIL, Ind., May 6.—The first victory in the adjustment of the yearly mining scale was achieved yesterday by the miners, 42½ cents with 5 cents advance on Nov. 1. This is a 5-cent reduction instead of 10 as demanded. Machines are used exclusively in the bituminous mines at Coxville and Clay City. The temporary rate agreed upon for bituminous miners is also a victory, as the rate is higher than at first offered, besides bringing about the resumption of work in all bituminous mines in the State.

A Misunderstanding of Orders.

JAMESTOWN, D. T., May 6.—The Northern Pacific westbound limited passenger train collided with a freight train near Crystal Springs, thirty-six miles west of here, yesterday. Engineer Boss, of the passenger, and postal clerk Slakerly were killed. Baggage master Nichols and postal clerk Boundsbury had their legs and arms broken and were badly scalded, but will recover. None of the passengers was injured. Three car-loads of horses were killed. A misunderstanding of train orders was the cause of the collision.

Is It a Murder?

PORTLAND, Ore., May 6.—A special from Port Blakely, W. T., says that the body of M. R. Silber, who hired a small boat a few days ago and went out on the bay, was found to-day hanging to the mast of the boat, with a bullet hole in the head. It is supposed that Silber was killed by smugglers or pirates, but the affair is a mystery. Silber was a stranger, who came to Port Blakeley but a few days ago. He was well dressed and seemed to have plenty of money.

Saved by a Newsboy.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 6.—An Erie special says that Ira Kufford, a newsboy, who left his home at Grand Rapids, Mich., to become a tramp, ran into the police station last night and gave information which enabled the police to surprise a gang of tramps who were stripping and robbing S. M. Wilson, a mill owner of Cherry Valley, Ohio, who had come to Erie to sell lumber, and had fallen in the way of the tramps while intoxicated.

A Striker Stabbed.

PITTSBURG, May 6.—In a row at Duquesne between a number of strikers and the new men employed by the company one of the strikers was seriously and perhaps fatally stabbed. The company are still hiring new men in place of the strikers. The strikers succeeded in persuading some of the men not to go to work, but eight went to work yesterday.

Harry Evarts Was One of the Victims.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 6.—Harry Evarts, who had been employed at the West Side Museum, Chicago, and formerly by Adam Forepaugh, was one of the victims of the Grand Trunk railroad near Hamilton. He has relatives in this city.

Fatal Fight in a Saloon.

LYKENS, Pa., May 6.—During a saloon fight Sidney Ware shot and killed Morris Miller and fatally wounded Frederick Kindler. Ware and a companion, H. L. Jones, were arrested. Miller and Kindler leave families.

OLD FELLOWS IN THE BACK ROW

A Few of the Young Fellows Who Have Become Noted.

Old Players Who Have Changed Clubs are Doing Nicely—The League Fight for the Championship Promises to be a Long One—New York Will Give the Cleveland Boys a Royal Time—Association Doings.

NEW YORK, May 5.—Baseball cranks are already speculating on the strength of the various teams. The playing of the clubs during the past week has been carefully watched and every indication of weakness has been noted and the points where the teams have been reinforced by new material have not gone unobserved. The young material in the principal organizations has, at this early stage of the championship, come in for more than its share of comment. The fine playing of many of the young stars of the diamond has won for them a popularity that will continue to increase with the season. Among those who have distinguished themselves already are Duffee and Fuller, of the Browns; Haliday, Beard, Duryea and Earle, of Cincinnati; Lovett and Visner, of the Brooklyns; Hutchinson, of Chicago, and McAleer, of Cleveland. The old players, too, who are with other clubs than those that paid them last season, are all doing good work, both in batting and fielding. The reconstruction of the Kansas City team seems to have greatly improved the club, while Cleveland has not proven such an easy prey for the Pittsburg and the Indianapolis teams to blot out as was generally supposed it would be.

The League clubs have all discovered that the fight this season will be a long and steady one. Already there are a number of changes not calculated upon by the "baseball crank." When the Bostons left this city, after a rest of three days, largely due to rain, and opened in such a brilliant manner in Philadelphia by hitting Buffinton without any difficulty, he commenced to feel that the Bostons were the coming men. Philadelphia long ago learned that one game don't win the pennant, and in the next two contests made the Bostons bite the dust. While this was being done in Philadelphia the New Yorks were amusing themselves practicing with the Washingtons, from whom they captured the entire series of four games. The Giants are playing magnificently together, and are handling an article of ball never before seen here this early in the season.

The Clevelands have been doing very creditable work in the West, and have proven their ability to play ball with Indianapolis and Pittsburg. If their showing is so good away from home, the Forest City has the best reason in the world to expect a good record of the club upon its return to familiar scenes of battle. The reception which this new member of the League will receive at Staten Island will be most cordial. President Day proposes to make the first visit of the Ohio men a memorable one. He will send out invitations as in previous years, and will have a band to greet them upon their arrival.

In the Association there has been several features during the past week. The manner in which the Brooklyns have braced up and started to work has caused the fault finders to hide their heads. Luck turned in favor of the Brooklyns the past week, and not only luck, but the team has been playing good ball. Their long hits have not been captured by phenominal playing, as during the previous games, but they have gone right in the direction desired by the batters. The team is working more harmoniously also, and will, if their present game continues, give a good account before the season advances much further.

IN THE BASEBALL WORLD.

St. Louis Still Leads in the Association Race—Standing of the Clubs.

NEW YORK, May 6.—St. Louis still heads the list in the Association race, with the Kansas City club close on its heels. The Athletics stand third and the Baltimores fourth, with the Brooklyn, Cincinnati, and Louisville clubs following in the order mentioned.

CROWDS STOPPED THE GAME.

BROOKLYN, May 6.—The American Association game at Ridgewood Park, yesterday, between the Brooklyns and the Athletics, had a very unsatisfactory ending.

The great difficulty was that the crowd was too large and the police force in attendance too small. The result was that the game could not be played to a finish.

Five innings were completed, with the score standing a tie at 1 to 1. In the sixth inning the Athletics scored four runs through the prettiest kind of hard hitting. The Brooklyns then went in for their half of the sixth, and the first batsman had been thrown out from short to first when the crowd closed in upon the field and stopped the game.

When Umpire Holland saw that it was utterly impossible to get the crowd back, as there were between twelve and thirteen thousand people within the enclosure, and at least half that number on the field, he simply ordered the men to their dressing rooms and declared the game a draw.

GOOD HITTING WINS.

Close of the Fair.

The fair under the auspices of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society which has been in progress in T. A. B. Hall for the past fortnight, closed on Saturday evening, when the prize of $50 in gold was awarded to Mr. Thomas Hyland. The fair has been a pronounced success during its progress, and the society will doubtless receive a rich financial benefit as the result of its efforts.

Desecrating the Graves.

In another column Mr. John H. Tier, Jr., offers a reward of twenty-five dollars for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the party or parties who stole the flowers from the lot owned by him in Evergreen cemetery. ### Everybody Will be Welcome.

The third anniversary of the Y's of this city, will be held at 8 o'clock in the Congregational church, this evening.

There will be a programme of vocal and instrumental music, besides addresses by Mr. Aaron M. Powell, and the Rev. Geo. P. Noble of Cornwall-on-Hudson.

ANOTHER ONE IN THE TOILS.

Two of the Alleged Post Office Robbers Identified in New York Yesterday.

On Saturday Post Office Inspector Gorman, Postmaster Force, Elias R. Pope, Chief Carey and Charles Wilkinson called on Inspector Byrnes in New York, for the purpose of identifying the prisoner who was arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the Plainfield post office robbery. Mr. Pope was unable to identify the man as the same one who called at his office a day or so previous to the robbery and inquired about making deposits, etc. Mr. Wilkinson, a passenger on the same train the burglars are supposed to have left town on, could not identify the prisoner either.

During Saturday another of the alleged robbers was gathered in by Inspector Byrnes' men and locked up at headquarters. Yesterday Conductor Jacob Archer, who runs the 3:29 A. M. train to New York, was ushered into the presence of the two prisoners and a half dozen dummies arranged in a line in the Inspector's office. He positively identified the two prisoners as the men who boarded his train in this city on the morning of the robbery.

The men were taken to Jefferson Market Court, where Justice Rielly remanded them. Post Office Inspector Gorman then went before United States Commissioner Muirhead and formally lodged a complaint against the prisoners, charging them with robbing the Plainfield post office.

Inspector Byrnes and his men have materially aided the Government officials in ferreting out the robbers, and it is to be hoped that they will be dealt with as the law and justice demands. The names of the two prisoners are withheld in the hope that the third one may be apprehended.

George Eckert, who was so badly burned in the face by the explosion of a can of powder—the correct story of which was told exclusively in THE PRESS of last Friday—is getting better every day, and his eyesight will undoubtedly be saved.

Willie, the only son of William and Amelia Patterson, died at 55 East Third street, at six o'clock last evening, after an eight day's illness from pneumonia. The little one was but seventeen months old. The funeral will take place from the house on Wednesday at 2 P. M.

Flourishing Financial Condition of Holy Cross.

The beautiful weather brought out a large congregation at Holy Cross church, yesterday morning and afternoon. The singing was unusually well rendered by the vested choir.

At the morning service the rector read the financial report for the year ending May 1. This parish has raised for various objects during the year over $7,000. Through the instrumentality and untiring efforts of the ladies auxiliary and guilds of the parish, the sum of over $1,400 has been raised. The report was one of the most encouraging ever presented, it shows the church to be in a most flourishing condition, and free of indebtedness.

The Y's Closing Meeting.

The regular monthly devotional meeting of the Y. W. C. T. U., is to be held in the Y rooms, to-morrow afternoon, at 4 o'clock. This being the last of the devotional meetings until Fall, will every member please make a special effort to be present?

FIRST VICTORY OF THE SEASON.

Plainfield Defeats New Brunswick in the Opening of the Y. M. C. A. Base Ball Series.

The Crescent nine of the Y. M. C. A., of this city, opened the season on their new ball grounds, Saturday, by defeating the New Brunswick Y. M. C. A., nine in eight innings by a score of 16 to 5 as given in detail below.

There was a big crowd along the ropes, but the grand stand was not as well patronized as later in the season when the Spring winds have died down. The Crescents appeared in a variety of uniforms, from Voehl in corduroy trousers and an overcoat, to Condon in bicycle pants and a tennis shirt.

It was a mixed team of Plainfielders and it played a mixed game. Good luck and Bedford's wildness gave the game to the Crescents. Fifteen times they were given their bases on balls, and six times a wild pitch added another run to their score.

Nearing pitched a better game than his last against the Potters, but Demarest who was put in the box later, seemed able to do as well against the nine at the bat. Condon, who caught the last three innings, proved he has lost none of his skill in that position. W. Cadmus umpired the game very satisfactorily.

Reform Hall.

There was a fair attendance in Reform Hall, last evening. President French presided, Mr. Vanderbeek and a full choir furnished their usual selections of choice music and in the absence of Chaplain Honeyman, who has formally resigned that position, Rev. Dean Rodman of Grace Episcopal church conducted the devotional exercises.

The address of the evening was by Archdeacon Rodman and received close attention from all who had the pleasure of hearing it. In his customary clear and forcible manner he upheld the cause of temperance, and severely censured the late Legislature of New Jersey, because of its repeal of Local Option, declaring that by such action a fundamental principle of the government of this country had been trampled under foot, the right of the people to decide questions immediately concerning home interests, and predicted that popular retribution would follow. The reverend gentleman then made eloquent and fitting remarks touching the recent centennial observances, and after a few words appropriately uttered by President French, pronounced the benediction. Next Sunday evening S. A Haines, Esq., of Netherwood, will be the speaker.

Called Home.

It is with sincere regret that we today record the death of Caroline L., the eldest daughter of Otto and Louise C. Arens, which occurred at her home on Park avenue, yesterday morning, after an illness covering a period of about fifteen weeks, from heart trouble. The deceased was in the 15th year of her age, and her kind and loving disposition had made her a great favorite with all who knew her. Thus a bright and promising life has been cut off while yet in childhood, and the bereaved parents to whom the deceased was especially endeared, have the sympathy of a host of friends and acquaintances, who will share both their burden and their sorrow.

The funeral will take place at Grace church, to-morrow afternoon, at 4:45 o'clock. Interment private.

An Evening Sociable.

A number of young persons attended, on Friday evening, a sociable given by Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Crosley, at their residence on Duer street, North Plainfield. The affair was thoroughly enjoyed by those present. During the evening a programme of music, both vocal and instrumental, recitations, legerdemain, etc., was rendered, followed by games and supper. Adjournment was made about midnight.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Crosley and Miss Crosley; Miss Lewis, Miss Jones, Miss Wilson, and Messrs. J. C. Allen, W. Coddington, F. M. Brown, G. W. Watts, G. H. Bogart and A. TenEyck.

—A meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association is announced for this evening.

THEIR FIFTH ANNIVERSARY.

The Dunellen W. C. T. U. Hold Appropriate Exercises in Commemoration of the Event.

The ladies of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Dunellen, celebrated their fifth anniversary in the Presbyterian church at that place, last evening, and the occasion drew together an unusually large congregation. All the other churches omitted the evening service and the members united in observing the fifth anniversary. The choirs from the First Baptist, Seventh Day Baptist, Presbyterian and Methodist churches furnished the music.

Mrs. R. Humpstno presided and formally opened the service, followed by singing by the choir and prayer by Mr. T Thomas. The President read a chapter from the scripture and the choir and congregation joined in singing a hymn, after which Mrs. T. J. Todd read the Secretary's report. The report showed the Union to be in a flourishing condition, with a membership of 19 and a substantial balance in the treasury. Addresses were delivered by Rev. J. W. Seran, Rev. Mr. Livermore and Rev. Mr. Cubberly. A collection was taken up, and after a prayer by Mrs. Bodine, Rev. Mr. Livermore dismissed the audience with the benediction.

A Dangerous and Objectionable Location for a Post Office.

Since the appointment of Mr. A. S. Coriell as Postmaster at New Market, a considerable and very pronounced objection is raised to the removal of the post office out of the village proper to the North side of, and within 50 feet of the Lehigh Valley Railroad track which has neither gates nor flagman, being dangerous to life and limb.

It is against the public wish to so locate it—not more than 25 persons are in receipt of mail matter residing on the North side of the track, and the district for miles South in which about 200 persons reside, consider it unjust to be necessitated to drive across the track. The effect of the removal of the office makes two offices in one polling district, whilst the South poll will have none.

The attention of the Postmaster General has been called to the subject and if his statement that the wishes of a community are to be consulted has any virtue in it, the New Market people will see whether he will require the office to remain where it properly belongs.

But maybe individual wishes are more potent than a unanimous expression of opinion without regard to party.

Union County Courts.

The May term of the Union County Courts begins to-morrow at Elizabeth before Judge VanSyckel. The term is expected to be an unusually short one as there are but few important cases on the calendar.

The calendar includes fourteen Supreme Court causes, seventeen Circuit Court causes, and six Justices appeals. But one argument and one case in the General Quarter Sessions are named in the calendar. The jury appeal list includes the following cases: John H. Tier vs. the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield; Edw. Love vs. Fritz Schlitter, and the Economic Gas Co., vs. Francis X. Schoonmaker.

The Little Ones' Second Sale.

The second annual sale of the Evona Childrens' Sewing Class, of useful and fancy articles and refreshments, will be held at the home of Rev. Dr. Taylor, 108 Park avenue, on the afternoon and evening of Thursday next, May 9.

This charitable work of useful instruction is carried on in connection with the Mission church of the Heavenly Rest, and appeals to the hearts of all friends of this Mission who will be glad of this agreeable opportunity, not only of expressing their good will for the work but by giving it some substantial aid.

Thrown from a Mustang.

A colored man riding a mustang on North avenue, near the railroad station, about four o'clock, yesterday afternoon, was thrown from the animal's back and dragged for a considerable distance. The mustang ran on to the sidewalk in front of the Friends' meeting house, where he came to a stop, and the rider was extricated from his perilous position, but little injured.

Mechanical Drawing Class.

The lesson in Mechanical Drawing, tomorrow evening, at the Y. M. C. A., will be the last. Mr. A. J. Gavett requests the members of the class to be sure to bring all their drawings that are in good order.

HAPPENINGS IN THE VICINITY.

Fanwood Turns Out and Celebrates—Personalities About Our Neighbors.

Scotch Plains woke up when the Centennial arrived, and the decorations on the houses, and the crowds that boarded the East-bound trains in the morning and returned on the West-bound trains in the evening, showed that the village was for three days at least, American from head to foot. Baker & Mead's was handsomely decorated, and Flannery's was out in gala attire. Dr. Oliver had flung a handsome flag to the breeze, and several other banners formed pleasing decorations. The post office of course sported a flag, for it was here that was situated the official building of the United States Government; and what was everybody shouting for, and going to town with all the children for, and stopping work for, if not for the celebration of the anniversary of the founding of the great and glorious United States Government? Note that it was not the anniversary of the birth of the country that we have been so uproarious about, nor yet of the achievement of our independence, but of the existence of organized Government, so auspiciously begun with the inauguration of George Washington. And I suppose that Mr. Richie considered the Post Office Department as the most important branch of the Executive, and that it followed that he was called upon to make a good display of bunting; hence these flags.

I should say, on a rough guess, that something like a third of the village went in town during the holidays. Some of the people went in to attend to business, but the majority were simply off on a lark. Quite a lark it was too, and something to be remembered to one's dying day.

Mr. Fred Hoppell, who was in town for the three days, told me of an incident which gives some idea of the enormous jam of people. He says that on the third day, at a point above Twenty-third street, the crowd was so dense that several mounted policemen rode right against the packed mass of men and women, but that it was impossible for the horses to penetrate it. Fancy a crowd packed so closely that strong horses driven against it can make no impression upon it, and you will have some faint idea of what Broadway was like at that time.

Mr. Samuel P. Hall reports that from a window on Fifth avenue he observed a number of women to faint.

Station-master Brown stayed at home and attended to the wants of the travelling public.

James Murphy went in town on Wednesday so as to have two punches taken out of his ticket.

William Hazel went to New York on the same day, for the purpose of seeing the parade. The last I saw of him he was walking down Fifth avenue trying to look over the heads of a crowd of men three miles long and standing fifteen deep, half of them mounted on boxes and barrels. Rough, wasn't it?

Mr. T. L. M'Cready, the single tax advocate and editor of the Standard, spent the holidays at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Charles L. Sykes. Mr. M'Cready is very much encouraged with the outlook. The reception which on the other side of the water is being given to Henry George, especially among the more thoughtful and influential portions of the people, shows pretty plainly what the outcome of the political situation will be, and there is not much doubt that when the Home Rule topic is settled the liberal party will turn its attention to the question of the taxation of ground rents.

Mr. T. F. Sykes, of Seventeenth street, New York, will spend the Summer with his parents at the old homestead. Mr. Sykes has departed from the family faith and become a black Republican, but a Republican domiciled in New Jersey is sufficiently in the soup to keep the balance true.

Now it appears that the whole of the old Thys' house was to be moved, but the work was to be done on the installment plan. The second section started on its way during the Centennial, and has been placed near the other half, so that Hunter avenue has two new houses and Front street one house less. Messrs John Messler and Daniel Collins were among those engaged in the work of removal. Arthur Kelly sat at the foot of the capstan and held the reins of the horses while they went around.

The Hotchkin family, known as the bell-ringers, will shortly appear at Excelsior Hall. This is the nearest approach to a dramatic entertainment that we have had for some time. I met the advance agent of the company as he was distributing the posters. He said that it was not his place to speak of the character of the entertainment, but that any one who had attended last year would be able to give a pointer thereon. Everyone speaks of the former entertainment in the highest terms; Frank Allen says that it's tip top. The company is said to use a greater variety of instruments than any other in the World. A glance at the programme shows that the entertainment is one that every one should see—or perhaps I ought to say hear—or see and hear both.

SUBURBAN SAUNTERER.

—A delegation of mosquitoes sent out as scouts from Elizabethport, arrived in town last evening.

—Dr. Dam's Vegetable Remedy is compounded under the personal supervision of a regular physician, and not by those who have had no personal experience in prescribing and watching the effect of medicines.—[Adv.

HOISTING THE BLACK FLAG.

Hundreds of Families Starving in the Pennsylvania Coal Regions.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 6.—The long continued idleness at the mines has caused much suffering among the poor of the coal fields, and hundreds of families are destitute. Strong, able bodied men, with large families to support, are in sore need. For the past six months many of them have not averaged over $10 a month, and under the grabbing policy of the coal monopoly they have been reduced to the verge of starvation.

From reports received there seems to be more suffering in Hyde Park than in any other section of the city. There coal mining is about the only industry.

The collieries of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad company are all situated there, and they work even less time than the collieries of the other companies. It was said that a few days since black flags were displayed in several places in that vicinity. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company keeps no company stores, but as a rule individual operators in the lower part of the city and Lackawanna township run institutions of this kind.

At some of these stores the clerks, or at least a portion of the working force, are kept over night and Sundays. The operators understand the terrible needs of the men, and they fear that in their necessities they may be tempted to make an attack upon these well filled stores. The miners are intelligent, peaceable and honest, but in trying times like these it is hard to tell what their necessities may force them to do.

The hard times are shown by the increased demand upon the Poor Board at Friday's meeting. Several men applied for relief because, having worked all the time that the collieries were in operation, they were unable to earn sufficient to support their families.

The condition of the poor is most distressing, and it is intensified by the fact that there is no prospect of better times at the mines before the middle of June, owing to the policy of the coal combination of crowding all the year's work into a few months.

PORTER TALKS BACK.

He Says that General Butler is a Coward and Worse.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Admiral Porter is inclined to look upon Gen. Butler's utterances as a huge joke.

"And so Gen. Butler has been saying things about me?" he asked. "Well, what if he has. I shall not take any notice of it. He knows what I think of him. I have said time and again that he is a coward and worse. Now I suppose he wants to get even with me in his old age. Let him talk; nobody believes him."

"But he says you ran away."

"Does he! Well, let him say so. I have in my possession a letter written to me by Gideon Welles after the capture of the forts thanking me for my efforts, and saying that but for my exertions Admiral Farragut could not have captured New Orleans. I do not want any stronger praise than Secretary Welles gave me in that letter. People who run away do not get to the head of the navy. There were three officers who were censured by Farragut, two of them unjustly. The other one has never, to my knowledge, satisfactorily explained his conduct. I supposed Butler meant him, but you say he referred to me. Well, well, well! It does not trouble me one bit. People who believe what Butler says must set history aside, and I have not the slightest regard for their opinion."

To Help the Evicted Tenants.

BOSTON, May 6.—A number of prominent citizens of Boston are agitating a plan to help the evicted tenants in Ireland by establishing in one of the poorer districts of that country a factory where the evicted persons can find employment in making boots, shoes, clothing and underwear, the money to start the enterprise being raised by popular subscription among friends of the Irish cause in the United States. The originators of the scheme propose to go to Ireland personally to supervise the work of carrying it out, and they will first submit the matter to the judgment of Messrs. Parnell, Davitt and O'Brien. There will be no attempt to do anything which could possibly lead the English Government to object to the plan.

These Heroes Not Forgotten.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 6.—The season of dedications and reunions on this battlefield will be inaugurated on May 21, when the State is to hold its exercises. Monuments are beginning to arrive, and are being at once put up in their proper positions. The 148th Pennsylvania is here, and goes in the wheat field. The 84th is to stand on the Hummelbaugh farm, Culp's Hill. Beside these, the New York Excelsior Brigade memorial is being finished. Work is also being done on the Michigan Sharpshooters' monument. The present summer will be memorable for the various dedications by States and regiments.

More of the Danmark's Passengers.

NEW YORK, May 6.—The passengers of the lost steamer Danmark, who arrived at Castle Garden yesterday per steamer Wieland, speak very highly of their treatment by Capt. Murrell, of the Missouri, and by the Wieland's officers. They also had good care at the Azores. A large number of friends greeted the belated voyagers on their arrival. Rasmus Anderson, aged 32, one of the Danmark's people, died on board the Wieland of apoplexy. His wife lives at Gowen, Mich. With the exception of this sad event, the voyage from the Azores was without special incident.

Many Buildings Burned.

CHICAGO, May 6.—A large saloon, known at one time as the "Pavilion," at the corner of Cottage Grove avenue and Thirty-ninth street, together with a four-story building in course of erection, a dozen stores and the living quarters of four families, including the rooms and possessions of nearly fifty street-car men, were burned early yesterday. The entire loss is about $60,000, with possibly $40,000 insurance. There were several narrow escapes from death, but nobody was dangerously hurt.

Killed While Eating Pie.

KINGSTON, N. Y., May 5.—John Westbrook, aged 23 years, son of F. L. Westbrook, of this city, fell from a second story window of his residence yesterday, fracturing his skull. He lived only a few hours. He was eating a piece of pie while sitting on the window-sill, and is supposed to have fallen out accidentally. He had been married about a year, and was a nephew of the late Judge Westbrook.

Death of Colonel Wilder.

BOSTON, May 3.—Col. Charles W. Wilder, of the firm of Wm. H. Ward & Co., 140 Oliver street, died yesterday aged 70. He was prominently connected with the State militia. He served in the City Council and State Legislature.

False Report of President Carnot's Death

BY THE HAND OF AN ASSASSIN.

Paris Thrown Into a Fever of Excitement by the Alarmist Rumor.

The Boulangists Sneer at the Affair and Say It Was a Concocted Scheme—Henry George Meeting with Marked Success in Scotland—Banquets in Honor of the Paris Exposition—Other Foreign News of Interest.

LONDON, May 6.—Paris was thrown into a fever of excitement last evening by a report that President Carnot had been shot. The rumor spread rapidly and in an incredibly short space of time the cafes and place of resort were emptied, and the Champs d'Elysee was choked by a surging crowd eager to learn the truth. It was quickly learned, however, that the President was safe, and that the man, Perrin, who fired the shot which gave rise to the alarmist rumor was one of the class which infest every capitol—a crank with a grievance.

When this announcement was made the excitement subsided as quickly as it had arisen, and the crowds indulged in innumerable jokes over the affair. Perrin's assertion that he fired only a blank cartridge is probably true, as no bullet can be found. He says he has three children and is desirous of taking them to Senegal, but has no funds wherewith to pay the expenses of the journey, therefore he fired the shot to attract attention to himself and his condition.

The Boulangists sneer at the affair, and assert that it was concocted by the President and his friends to win public sympathy with their clique as against the National party.

The advance in American cotton has driven the cotton masters of Lancashire to the verge of a financial crisis. Most of the manufacturers of cotton products will sustain heavy losses and it is feared that a panic will ensue which will result in intense suffering among the operatives who will necessarily be thrown out of employment.

The Government has offered to the County Council the site of Millbank prison upon which to erect a building suitable for their purposes. Several workmen's dwellings and the buildings occupied by the National Land Council are included in the site and there is consequently a chance for a first rate row over the gift. The offer has not yet been accepted, but probably will be.

Henry George has met with marked success in his lecturing tour of Scotland. He will close his campaign with his speech at Glasgow next Thursday and return to London.

Mr. George has made many converts during his tour, and it is now quite evident that single tax will be a very important factor in Imperial politics in the North at the next election.

Mr. George has made his greatest inroads in the Liberal ranks, and it is quite clear that the Scotch Liberals must adopt his theory or become divided.

The Government has decided to take a division on the question of the second reading of the Sugar Bounty bill, but in view of the uncertainty as to the result, has wisely concluded not to treat the matter as a question of confidence. In other words, the Ministry is resolved to stick to office whether beaten or not.

PEERLESS PROCTOR KNOTT.

The Chicago Stable Wants Sam. Bryant's Three-Year-Old Prodigy.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 6.—It is said the owners of the Chicago stables late yesterday afternoon increased their bid for Proctor Knott, and displayed great anxiety to secure the three-year-old prodigy. The stable secured an option on the horse at $25,000, but whether that option has expired is not known.

During the interview between Johnson, of Hankins & Johnson, and Mr. Bryant, the latter bantered the former for a race with Terra Cotta any distance, a mile and a quarter preferred, Proctor Knott and Terra Cotta to carry weight for age, and the race to take place either at the West Side track or in Louisville, Ky., within the next few days.

Johnson was unable to act upon the challenge, and what will come of it is not known.

"OLD IRONSIDES" TO GO.

Secretary Tracy Has Ordered the Gallant Ship to Washington.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 6.—"Old Ironsides," the same old American frigate immortalized by the poet and the topic of many a schoolboy's declamation, is and has been for years one of the dearest relics of this town. So when the rumor of Secretary Tracy's intention to remove the battle-scarred ship from Portsmouth navy yard to that in Washington spread a wave of indignation burst upon the town. And to-day it may be said that Portsmouth citizens, young and old, are fairly beside themselves with anger at the prospect. People here see no reason for taking the noble old frigate away. She is indossolubly connected with this town, the people are attached to her, and Portsmouth's proud naval record is in itself a reason why "Old Ironsides" should remain here. The idea of making her an attraction for the curiosity hunters who flock to the national capital is extremely distasteful.

There is no doubt that great pressure will be brought to bear upon the Administration to save the old ship to the Granite State. From Washington it is learned that Secretary Tracy proposes to use her there as a receiving ship, providing the expense of removing her is not too great. He argues that the Constitution is not earning her oats here, and must be utilized in some fashion besides catering to the patriotic sentiment of the people who live on the banks of the Piscataqua. It is more than probable that "Old Ironsides" will have to go.

TOLD BY PREACHERS.

Queer Experiences of Some Noted New York Ministers.

The duties of clergymen often lead to strange experiences and most preachers who have spent a large portion of their lives in their profession could tell of many quaint happenings in their intercourse with their fellow-men, says the New York Journal.

Dr. Howard Crosby says of himself that a short time ago he was on a Fourth avenue horse-car, when a drunken man entered and began to use profane and offensive language. Some of the passengers told him to "shut up," but the fellow became worse, and Dr. Crosby went over to him and began talking to him soothingly. The fellow instantly quieted down, and as he got up to leave the car scowled on the men who told him to shut up, but turned with an amiable expression on his face to Dr. Crosby and said, patting his back familiarly:

"I like you, old feller; you know how it is yourself."

A well-known clergyman in New York City was one evening belated when returning home from a pastoral visit to a sick member of his congregation on the West side, at Eighty-fourth street, near Eleventh avenue. The night was very dark, and he struck into a number of vacant lots and finally lost his bearings. He saw a man a short distance before him and asked him the nearest way to a Ninth Avenue Elevated station. The man proved to be drunk, and the clergyman thought he would improve the occasion by giving him a short lecture on the evils of alcohol. Bracing himself against a lamp-post the man said:

"You're a preacher, aincher!"

The clergyman admitted the allegation, and the man, shaking his forefinger unsteadily, said:

"See that, now. You're tryin'—hic—to show me the road to Heaven, an' has ter ask a sinner like me fur the road ter New York. Why doncher larn the roads on earth fust!"

Rev. Robert S. McArthur, the pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, has had some unique experiences. He is sometimes asked to unite in marriage an Irish or German girl and a Chinaman. In such cases he always institutes a rigid inquiry to find that all is right before he unites the pair.

On one or two occasions when the bride was Irish he has been asked to give the Chinaman an Irish name in performing the ceremony, as the girl did not want her friends on the other side to know that she had married a Chinaman, and he found it difficult to impress on them the fact that it would be wrong.

It is in the wedding fees occasionally tendered that the greatest oddities of human nature are illustrated. Mr. McArthur told the writer that he knew a country clergyman who recently married a couple and was given a bag of potatoes as a fee. On another occasion this clergyman was given a valuable colt as a wedding fee. A brother clergyman received a present from a grateful bridegroom of a dog for tying the nuptial knot.

A kiss from the bride is now and then offered. Rev. W. S. Rainsford, of St. George's Episcopal Church in this city, says that once when he was a curate in Canada his rector was called upon to unite a couple in marriage and was asked by the bridegroom to take as a fee the first kiss from the bride. This would usually be thought a privilege, but the good rector didn't look at it in that light. The fact was that the happy pair were both full-blooded negroes. Mr. Rainsford in telling the story to the writer, said:

A very mean trick was played by a groom on the pastor of a Mariner's church in New York City, whose name the writer has been requested to withhold. The groom was a respectably-dressed young fellow, and his wife a dapper, smiling young girl, who did not appear the equal in station of the groom. After the nuptial knot was tied the groom slipped a paper apparently containing a gold coin into the clergyman's hand, and went away with the expression on his face of a man who had done a generous act.

After the couple had gone the clergyman unwound one paper. Then another envelope appeared, and then a third, which was tied over the coin. Two more papers were unrolled, and a shining new one-cent piece was revealed.

A more dishonest trick was, however, played upon a prominent Episcopal clergyman, at present living in this city, by a bridegroom. This clergyman is well known in social circles, and to prevent his friends keeping up a perpetual joke at his expense his name, by request, is not given.

The pair who came to be married were an honest-looking young fellow of handsome appearance and good address and a young girl scarce out of her teens.

The bridegroom, after the ceremony, produced a fifty-dollar bill and said, in a shamefaced way:

"I would like to give you this bill as a fee for making me so happy, but I feel as if I could not afford it. I could spare ten dollars. Would you—would you—er—mind giving me the change?"

'Certainly not," said the minister, as he took the bill and went to the drawer. He took out forty-five dollars in bills and gave them to the bridegroom, telling him he would only accept five dollars as a fee. The married couple departed, but when the clergyman tried to pass the fifty-dollar bill it was found to be counterfeit.

A Chemical Experiment.

The Practical Teacher gives the following simple experiment in chemistry, which any child can try: Cut three leaves of red cabbage into small pieces, and, after placing them in a basin, pour a pint of boiling water over them, letting them stand an hour; then pour off the liquid into a decanter. It will be of a fine blue color. Then take four wine-glasses—into one put six drops of strong vinegar; into another six drops of solution of soda; into a third the same quantity of a strong solution of alum; and let the fourth glass remain empty. Fill up the glasses from the decanter, and the liquid poured into the glass containing the acid will quickly change to a beautiful red; that poured with the soda will be a fine green; that poured into the alum will turn to a pretty purple, while that poured into the empty glass will remain unchanged.

Queen Charlotte's Pearls.

Among the hereditary jewels belonging to Duke of Cumberland are Queen Charlotte's pearls, valued at $750,000, about which for twenty years Queen Victoria and the Hanoverian King quarreled with majesterial dignity. The Queen maintained they belonged by right to England. The King insisted they should have been sent to Hanover in 1837, on the death of William IV. The other jewels belonging to the Duke are valued at $2,000,000. His gold and silver plate weighs twelve tons.

THE SPARROWHAWK.

Strange Story of a Good Ship Wrecked A. D. 1627.

How the Craft Was Preserved in a Sand Dune—Its Removal in 1863 by a Patriotic Son of New England—One of the Rarest Relics in Plymouth Hall.

One of the wonderful stories of both land and sea is the tale of the vessel Sparrowhawk. The ship was wrecked on Cape Cod in the winter of 1627, on a voyage from England to Virginia, and for a time its passengers were sheltered by the pilgrim fathers at Plymouth. The vessel was preserved in a sand dune about two miles from Orleans harbor, which opens on the Atlantic, and until 1863 was lost to recollection. It was lifted into a creek by a great storm, and then by the incidents of sand drift was covered up. The vessel was well-built of oak, and there was no trace of decay, while all iron about her had disappeared. Her upper works had been burned, probably after she was stranded. When whole she was probably a vessel of seventy tons, and her midship section was semi-circular, showing good carrying capacity and stability, while her deadwood was very long, which indicated a long run, and, consequently, a fast sailer. The ribs were pieced up in a manner which had always been thought to be a modern innovation in ship carpentry. It is also mentioned that the keel showed but one mast-step, and indicates the probability that the vessel had a small mast away aft, after the at that time common rig of the ketch.

The Sparrowhawk was big enough to cross the Atlantic, says the Providence Journal, but had a keel only twenty-eight feet and ten inches long. She had a great rake at both stem and stern, and measured forty feet long on deck, with a depth of nine and a half feet. She is said to have had "many passengers in her and sundrie goods," and from what Governor Bradford's "History of Plymouth plantations" tells of the wreck her importance was comparable with that of any vessel in the trans-Atlantic service of those days. The history of Gov. Bradford on this point reads:

"They had lost themselves at sea, either by the insufficiency of ye maister or his lines; for he was sick and lame of ye scurvie, so that he could but lie in ye cabin doare and give direction; and it would seem was badly assisted, either with mate or mariners; or else ye fear and unruliness of ye passengers were such as they made him stear a course betweene ye southwest and ye northwest that they might fall with some land, whatsoever it was they cared not. For they had been six weeks at sea, and had no water, nor beere, nor any woode left, but had burnt up all their emptie caske; only one of ye company had a hogshead of wine or two, which was allso almost spente, so as they feared they should be starved at sea or consumed with diseases, which made them rune this desperate course. But it plased God that though they came so neare ye shoulds of Cape Codd (Peaked hill and Nauset bars) or else ran stumbling over them in ye night, they knew not how, they came right before a small blind harbore that lies about ye middle of Manmoyake bay to ye southward of Cape Codd, with a small gale of wind, and about high water toucht upon a barr of sand that lyes before it, but had no hurt, ye sea being smooth; so they laid out an anchore. But towards the evening the wind sprunge up at sea and was so rough as broake their cable and beat them over the bar into ye harbore, where they saved their lives and goods, though much were hurte with salt water; for with beating they had sprung ye butt end of a plank or too, and beat out their occome (oakum); but they were soone over and ran on a drie flat within the harbor, close by a beach, so at low water they got out their goods on drie shore and dried those that were wette, and saved most of their things without any great loss; neither was the ship much hurt but she might be mended and made servisable againe."

When every thing and every body was ashore in the wilderness, Governor Bradford says that they were much cast down, but Indians at length offered to guide them to Plymouth, and two men were sent with guides to bring assistance. It was supposed that the vessel could be saved, and some repairs were made upon her, but a storm arose and she was thrown upon the shore. The shipwrecked company went to Plymouth and remained there until the end of the next summer, when they were taken to Virginia.

The creek in which the vessel went ashore became in time a swamp, and at last was lost sight of. A sand dune rose above it, and this was for a century called "The Old Ship." The wreck remained covered for over two hundred and forty years, with the exception of a single day in 1782, when the sands slid away and showed its timbers. But nobody cared about it then. It was not uncovered again until 1863, upon May 6 of which year it was seen by Messrs. Solomon Linnell, 2d, and Alfred Rogers. Mr. Linnell had passed the very same spot without seeing the relic two days before that time. The hulk remained where it had been found for several months, and was visited by many antiquaries. In August, 1863, it was again covered with sand for a short time. Mr. Amos Otis, of Barnstable, about that time made a statement of the finding and history of the wreck, and a little later Mr. Charles W. Livermore, now of this city, but then a resident of Boston, together with Mr. Leander Crosby, of Orleans, dug the wreck out of its sandy bed. Mr. Livermore paid the bills and it was removed to Boston. It was exhibited on Boston common for six weeks and was then brought to this city and was on exhibition for a week.

Mr. Livermore has given the relic to the Pilgrim Society, which owns Plymouth Hall, the home of so many colonial relics, at Plymouth, Mass. He had kept it in this city, in storage, from 1863 till February 15, 1889. It had always been his intention to give it to an antiquarian society. The Pilgrim Society was written to and two members of it visited this city and looked over the old timbers. They found them apparently as solid as they were in 1863, and Mr. Livermore passed them into the society's hands for all time. The timbers were boxed up and sent off, and they are now at Plymouth, where ship carpenters will set them up in Plymouth Hall, if they have not already done so.

The Oldest Piece of Iron.

The oldest pieces of wrought iron now known are probably the sickle blade found by Belzoni under the base of a sphinx in Karnac, near Thebes; the blade found by Colonel Vyse, imbedded in the masonry of the great pyramids; the portion of a cross-cut saw exhumed at Nimrod by Mr. Layard—all of which are now in the British Museum. A wrought bar of Damascus steel was presented by King Porus to Alexander the Great, and the razor steel of China for many centuries has surpassed all European steel in temper and durability of edge. The Hindoos appear to have made wrought iron directly from the ore, without passing it through the furnace from time immemorial, and elaborately-wrought masses of iron are still found in India which date from the early centuries of the Christian era.

Set Afire by Drunken Sailors.

NEW YORK, May 6.—A court of inquiry at Bermuda has found that the brig Richard P. Buck, which was burned at that place last month, was set afire by sailors while they were in a drunken carouse, having stolen the liquor from casks in the cargo. The origin of the fire had been a mystery, and some unpleasant suspicions had been entertained, which are now happily removed.

J., May 6.—Frederick Frelinghusen, receiver of the Mechanics' National bank, which was ruined in 1881 by the operations of its most trusted employe, will begin this week the payment of a dividend of 4 8-10 per cent. to those who had money on deposit in the bank. At the time of the failure the directors paid in money enough to settle with the smaller depositors and the others were paid 75 per cent. of their claims.

WASHINGTON TOPICS

What Is Going on at the National Capital.

WORK IN THE SUPREME COURT.

Chief Justice Fuller Speaks Encouragingly of the Progress of Business.

President and Mrs. Harrison May Spend the Summer in the Mountains—Secretary Windom Better—The New Naval Tugs—The Armes Court-Martial—Nobody but Quay Admitted to See the President Yesterday.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Chief Justice Fuller, of the Supreme Court, speaks encouragingly of the progress of business before the Supreme Court. The term about to close will show a slight gain since it began. Cases that in the ordinary course of Supreme Court procedure would have required three years to be reached, have been settled in two years and eight months. The business before the Court, the Chief Justice thinks, could be expedited by the establishment of an intermediate or Appellate Court, as proposed some years ago by Senator Davis' bill. This plan, he says, was tried in Illinois, and in about two years the Supreme Court of that State was enabled to catch up with the business that had accumalated on the docket. While it might not have such luck in the Supreme Court of the United States or make such progress, still the country would be benefitted by such an intermediate court.

THE PRESIDENT'S VACATION.

President and Mrs. Harrison may possibly spend a portion of the summer in the mountains of West Virginia, on the new West Virginia Central Railway, in which Secretary Blaine and other prominent men are interested, at a place called Davis, fifty miles south of Piedmont, in the mountains. The altitude is said to be higher than that of Deer Park, Md, where the arrangements to pass the early portion of the Summer have been completed by the President who wished to have his family near enough to Washington to spend each Sunday in their midst, returning to his official duties the following Monday. Mr. S. B. Elkins, of New York, who is interested in the new road to Davis, proposes building himself a Summer cottage at this point, and has invited Mr. Harrison's family to be his guests for a while.

SECRETARY WINDOM BETTER.

Secretary Windom is better to-day, but was not well enough to leave his house. His condition has been much more serious than was supposed. He had a severe attack of cholera morbus on Thursday, which did not succumb to medical treatment until Saturday. He was much prostrated yesterday but feels much stronger to-day, so much so that he was able to leave his bed and dictate several letters to his private secretary, who spent several hours with him.

THE NEW NAVAL TUGS.

The last Naval Appropriation act having made provision for the purchase or construction by contract of four steam tugs at a cost not to exceed $35,000 each (one to be for the Washington and another for the Mare Island navy yard,) a board consisting of Captain R. W. Meade, Chief Engineer De Valia and Naval Constructor Vintoyne, has been ordered to convene at the Washington yard, to take into consideration the question as to the size and class of tugs best suted for the needs of the service and the cost of which will not exceed the limit of the appropriation.

THE ARMES COURT-MARTIAL.

General Benet, who is acting as Secretary of War, has sent the proceedings and findings in the Armes' court-martial to the President for his action. Under the new regulations, the proceedings of courts-martial ordered by the President take this course instead of first receiving the endorsement of the Commanding Major-Generals of the Army. If the old procedure had been followed in this case, it would have involved a delay of several weeks, during General Schofield's absence in the West.

NOBODY BUT QUAY ADMITTED.

The President denied himself to business callers yesterday, an exception, however, being made in the case of Senator Quay. The public reception was held in the afternoon, as usual, and was very largely attended.

STANDARD SILVER DOLLARS.

The issue of standard silver dollars from the mints for the week ended May 4, 1889, was $263,114. The issue during the corresponding period of last year was $271,585. The shipments of fractional silver coin during the month of May amounted to $487,530.

ALL QUIET AT OKLAHOMA.

The War department is in receipt of a telegram from General Crook, saying that he is informed by General Merritt that Colonel Wade reports all quiet in Oklahoma, and that the scouts have discovered no attempts to settle in the Cherokee outlet.

APPOINTMENTS EXPECTED.

It is understood that several appointments to important positions in the Interior department will be made within a day or two. A large number of Presidential postmasters, it is believed, will be appointed tomorrow.

Death of Mr. Charles A. Robbins.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Charles Albert Robbins, formerly a member of the firm of McKesson and Robbins and lately engaged in the manufacture of quinine and chemicals in this city died at his home in Brooklyn, aged 34.

CHASING AN ELOPING WIFE.

The Husband Catches Her at the Depot, but She Gets Away.

MT. HOLLY, N. J., May 7.—An exciting scene was witnessed at the railroad station here last night. Just as the Philadelphia train pulled out of the station Robert Hatfield, a young married man, came rushing up, a revolver in hand, and greatly excited exclaimed:

"Where is he! Let me shoot him!"

The crowd scattered in all directions. Hatfield's wife was sitting in the car with Charles Toy, of Camden, who is a conductor on the Amboy division. Mrs. Hatfield waved a good-by from the car window to her irate husband.

As the train was pulling out Hatfield made a leap for the platform of the car, but missed it and fell back. Some one picked him up bleeding and bruised, and took the revolver away from him. When Hatfield got on his feet the train had gone. He said that his wife is eloping with Toy. If possible he will have the pair arrested at Camden.

The Ramabai Society.

NEW YORK, May 7.—The Ramabai Association, of which Rev. E. E. Hale is President, and the object of which is to ameliorate the condition of the women of India held its first New York meeting last night. Mrs. Courtland Palmer is President of the New York branch, and it is proposed to establish branches in the various cities. Mr. Hale explained of that the 100,000,000 women in India, 20,000,000 are widows, and of the latter 1,000,000 are under nineteen years of age. These "child widows" are held in a bondage worse than slavery, being restricted to certain kinds of food and dress, secluded from society, forced to drudgery, and rarely allowed to marry. It is customary for a man to have as many as 100 wives, some girls being compelled to marry when only eight or nine years old. The death of a husband plunges the wives into misery.

The American Peace Society.

BOSTON, May 7.—The American Peace Society held its annual meeting here yesterday, President E. S. Tobey in the chair. Mr. Tobey was re-elected president for the ensuing year, with Rev. R. B. Howard as corresponding secretary, and Hon. Robert C. Winthrop, J. G. Whittier, Bishop Warren, Rev. E. E. Hale, Rev. A. P. Peabody, Bishop Foster, Fred. Douglas, Robt. Treat Paine, President Seelye, Oliver Ames, and others as vice-presidents. The Treasurer's report shows receipts during the year $5,101; balance on hand, $457.

Bad for Ballot Reform.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 7.—In the Assembly last night on Mr. Saxton's motion, the Governor was requested to return the Ballot Reform bill for verbal amendment. This recall is made necessary by the fact that one of the sections was not changed to correspond to the requirement of an initial mark on the stub instead of on the ballot. The section as it stands would require ballots not marked with the ballot clerk's initial to be thrown out. This mishap may kill the bill, as the Governor can, under the 30 day limit, allow the bill to die without vetoing it.

Had Bolak Phœbe Paulin's Watch?

EASTON, Pa., May 7.—Michael Bolak, recently convicetd of the murder of Michael Bollingshire, has an unenviable record. Some of his former associates, who were afraid to speak about the matter before Bolak's conviction, lest he should revenge himself upon them, now assert that the gold watch which was found in his possession belonged to Phœbe Paulin, who was mysteriously murdered on Orange Mountain four years ago.

His Skull Was Crushed.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., May 7.—Samuel Huston, a coal oil dealer, aged 70 years, and leaving a wife and several grown-up children, was almost instantly killed in the yard of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad. Unknown to the crew he was riding on a train that was being shifted to the main track from a siding and either fell or jumped off, and landing on his head, crushed in his skull. The coroner will hold an investigation.

Bishop Keane Will Be on Hand.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—A telegram was received this morning at the pastoral residence of St. Matthew's church from Bishop Keane, who arrived in New York Saturday from Europe, stating that he would be in the city on Tuesday next in time to attend the banquet which will be given in his honor on the evening of that day. It is intended to give him a reception as well as a banquet upon his arrival in this city.

The C. B. & Q. Reorganization.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 7.—In response to the invitation of Hon. F. B. Cooley, of Hartford, who holds many proxies in the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, Mr. Levi Z. Leiter, of Chicago, who is a heavy stockholder in that company, has consented to the use of his name as candidate for membership in the Board of Directors at the coming election, May 15.

Rathmeres Won the Fight.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., May 7.—Henry Fisher and Charles Rathmeres, a baker, between whom there has been a long standing feud, agreed to settle the matter by fighting to a finish for $50. The fight took place four miles out of this city, and was won by Rathmeres, who knocked out his opponent in the tenth round. Both the men were badly punished.

Drowned While Playing.

CEDAR LAKE, N. J., May 7.—Willie Pendleton, the six year-old son of William H. Pendleton, while playing on the side of a creek near here, fell into the creek while running, and being unable to climb the steep bank the child was drowned. He was taken from the water a few minutes after he fell in, but life was extinct.

The "Big Four" on Trial.

JERSEY CITY, May 7.—Messrs. Kern, Hilliard, Watt and Reynolds, the indicted members of the Board of Public Works, commonly known as the "big four" were placed on trial yesterday. The accused are charged with malfeasance in office, in exceeding the appropriations and in paying bonds that were not due out of the city funds.

WAS BUTLER DRUNK

That's the Allegation Made by Admiral Porter

SEVERAL BROADSIDES FIRED.

David D. Talks Fight and Bold Ben. Promises More Revelations.

The Admiral Quotes from Official Documents to Refute the Charge that He Ran Away at the Battle of New Orleans, and the General in Turn Says that Porter Frudulently Tried to Secure Prize Money.

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Admiral Porter has been interviewed again on the charge of Gen. Butler that he ran away in the battle of New Orleans.

After quoting letters from Secretary Welles and others Admiral Porter said: "It is all nonsense to say that we forsook our duty even for an hour. The forts surrendered to me and Butler knows it. His position is untenable and he never would have attacked me had he been sober. That speech of his was a drunken speech, you know. I'll give him enough of a reply, however. I'll fire it at him for the next three weeks, and then he will let me alone for five years. I shall not hear any more from him during my lifetime, for I don't expect to live another five years. I suppose he was celebrating his (!) capture of New Orleans. He claims it, I understand, although the city was in the possession of the Marine corps for fully three days before Butler and his troops got there. I know that because I towed them.

"When that bird of ill-omen," he said, "takes offense at any one he 'bottles up' his venom until in one of his madlin intervals he expels it. On my first acquaintance with Butler at New Orleans he sent me an impertinent message upon which I wrote to him that if he did not send me an ample apology I would take personal satisfaction. He had to make the apology after doing all he could to dodge the issue. Since then we have not been at all like Damon and Pythias.

"About once in every five years after one of his drunken bouts, Butler makes a spasmodic rush at me like a mad bull, but I have always caught him on my horns and thrown him flat on his back. I wonder the public should notice what the old imbecile says, and except for the fun of laying him out again, I would not notice him now. He is the only man I ever heard of who could outlive the contempt of the whole nation."

BUTLER'S SIDE OF THE CASE.

General Butler fortified behind ponderous legal tomes and innured in huge piles of manuscripts sat in his office on Capitol Hill this morning engaged in the preparation of a reply to Admiral Porter regarding the New Orleans episode.

He has enlisted the assistance of his law partner, O. D. Barrett, and business of every sort will be subordinated to the work which was inaugurated by the General's utterances at the recent banquet at Boston.

When your representative interrogated Gen. Butler as to the course he would pursue concerning Admiral Porter, he replied: "When Porter will say that he did not go down the river with his fleet below the head of the Passes on the day that Farragut passed the forts, I will prove he lies. He has not said that yet."

Among the papers on General Butler's desk, and which will be a prominent factor in the proposed answer, is a brief of the record in a case which was tried several years ago in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, before Judge Humphrey. On the brief is inscribed:

"Supreme Court District of Columbia in Admiralty No. 269. United States in behalf of the officers and men of the North Atlantic Squadron, vs. The Ironclad ram Texas and the Beaufort."

"We will show up a transaction in which Admiral Porter was interested," said Mr. Barrett, "and in which he claimed prize money aggregating $872,121.66 for the capture of these two vessels, when, as a matter of fact they were in the possession of the army. It was in the closing days of the Rebellion and these two men-of-war were on the point of destruction by the Confederates after the surrender of Lee. Admiral Porter put in a claim for the amount of prize money stated but the case was thrown out of court and especially when it was shown that the two boats only brought $7,000 when they were disposed of.

"Had Gen. Butler acted upon the information given him by Porter he would have abandoned Farragut and ceased operations against the forts; but he was better informed than the commander of the mortar fleet, who, the day after he had reported that the Confederates were in pursuit of and would destroy the fleet, retraced his steps when it was shown that there was no foundation for his scare. This controversy will not be settled by pooh-poohing on the part of Porter, as he will find out before we are done with him."

A Rich Gift to Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 7.—George W. V. Smith of New York, son-in-law of the late George R. Townsley of this city, has made known to the City Library association his intention to present to the association his rare collection of paintings and bric-a-brac valued at about $25,000. His wife will also contribute a rare collection of antique lace, and Mr. Smith will leave a sum of money, the interest on which will be used to increase the collection. It is probable that an art museum will be built by the citizens to receive the collection.

Church of the United Brethren.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 7.—A special from Chambersburg says: The Board of Bishops of the United Brethren church met here yesterday to prepare their report for the general conference which meets at York tomorrow. Bishop J. Weaver, of Ohio, presided, and all the bishops were present, including Bishop Fleckinger, of Africa. The sessions of the board were strictly secret.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—No. 3 Engine is again in working order, and ready to do duty in North Plainfield.

—The Y. M. C. A. Crescents will play the Rutgers College nine on the ball grounds in this city, next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

—This evening the legal voters in School District No. 38, will meet in the public school building in North Plainfield, and decide upon the erection of a new school building.

—At a meeting of the trustees of Hillside Cemetery, last evening, it was decided to cut the proposed road through from Park avenue direct to the main entrance gates of the Cemetery grounds.

—Dr. W. E. Mattison of North Plainfield, yesterday commenced the work of taking the school census in School District No. 38, having been appointed by the Board of Trustees for that purpose.

—The Committee of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society in charge of the recent fair, desires to thank through The Press the young ladies who so kindly assisted, and the public who so generously contributed, towards the great success of the affair. Also those who did such effective work in soliciting subscriptions in the contest for the watch.

The Post Office Robbery.

Post office Inspector Gorman has completed his investigation of the post office robbery in this city, and has made an official statement to the authorities at Washington. The total amount of money stolen was 28 cents in pennies, a small quantity of jewelry and a few registered letters, probably aggregating two or three dollars more. The Inspector warmly commended Postmaster Force and his corps of efficient clerks for the great care exercised in protecting the Government property.

There is little or no doubt that the two men arrested by Inspector Byrnes' men, and now awaiting a hearing before Commissioner Shields in New York on Friday of this week, are guilty of the post office robbery here, and there is little doubt that the jewelry found in the pockets of one of the prisoners is the same that was stolen from the Plainfield office. The two men have been identified by Conductor Archer, and the only thing that remains to be done to insure their conviction is to ascertain the whereabouts of Miss Annie Keating, to whom the missing jewelry was addressed.

The size of it is that if more strenuous efforts were made to ferret out the perpetrators of the burglary, instead of gazing at "those lights" the public would be better pleased.

Board of Education Meeting.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education was held last evening, all the members being present. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Mr. Babcock reported the purchase of six new clocks at a cost of $54; and the Board decided upon five cents per name as the compensation for taking the school census. Mr. Murray was appointed a Committee of one on fences and Dr. Huribut was instructed to consider the matter of a cesspool at the Bryant building.

The matter of naming the new school was deferred until a future meeting. Miss Wilson was appointed Superintendent of the new school in place of Miss Gilbert, who has been transferred to another school.

The Clerk was requested to petition the Council to appoint all the public school janitors as special policemen, and the meeting adjourned.

A Club House for Plainfield, at Last.

At the meeting of the Plainfield Bowling Club, last evening, a committee was empowered to go ahead and secure a most desirable peice of property that was offered in the very centre of the city, for the purpose of a club house.

The Press is not at liberty today to state where this property is, as a premature disclosing of its location might interfere with its purchase. Suffice it to say, it could not be better situated nor better adapted for the uses to be made of it.

The commodious double house now standing can easily be altered in its interior to suit the comforts and conveniences of a gentlemen's club house. Billiard, reading and smoking rooms will be furnished, and bowling alleys added.

ITS THIRD ANNIVERSARY.

The Friends of the Y's Meet to Celebrate and Congratulate the Organization on its Work.

An audience composed mostly of ladies that half-filled the Congregational chapel on West Seventh street, was gathered together, last evening, upon the occasion of the third anniversary of the organization of the Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Plainfield.

The President, Miss Adelaide McGee, presided and was assisted by the Rev. C. L. Goodrich, who opened and closed the meeting with prayer and benediction. The pulpit was decorated with blossoms, buds and plants, including a large "Y" composed entirely of white flowers.

The musical features of the evening were organ selections by Mrs. B. T. Barnes, a baritone solo by Mr. Bigelow accompanied by Mr. W. A. Conger, and a solo by Miss Lilian Dorman; but the gem of all was the singing by Miss Julia Ketcham and Miss Dorman of Shelley's "Hark, My Soul!" accompanied by Mrs. Barnes.

The Rev. George P. Noble, of Cornwall-on-Hudson, addressed those assembled, with a word to the Y's and a word for the Y's. He spoke a word to them of sympathy and encourgement, and a word for them in the way of presenting the organization and its work to the people for their endorsement and assistance.

Mr. Aaron M. Powell also spoke. He congratulated the Y's upon their work at the hospital, among the colored children and in the sewing class; and he congratulated them on the financial condition of their treasury. He spoke of their power and how it could best be exerted among young men in their parlors.

Miss Bertha M. Taylor read the following reports, and the meeting closed by all singing

"Sow thy seed be never weary,
Let no fears thy soul annoy;
Be the prospect ne'er so dreary,
Thou shalt reap the fruits of joy."

Secretary's Report.

To night closes the third year of the Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Plainfield. Since May 6, 1888, we have been obliged to accept many resignations from both active and honorary members, but our ranks have been reinforced by earnest workers and when complaining of no definite work for the "Y" in this city of so many societies our enthusiastic and efficient President was always ready with something new in which to get us interested and by which to hold us united. Through her efforts and encouragement we still number to-night 159 pledged members.

During the warm months the regular meetings are suspended but through the Summer of '88 the Hospital Committee of seven young ladies took their turn each week visiting, singing and reading to the sick. Many of our members personally interested send books and pamphlets to make the monotonous days pass more cheerfully if possible to the patients there.

In response to a call from the W. C. T. U. our Union assisted in a carnival of months held in Crescent rink the 4, 5 and 6th of last December, the proceeds of which enabled us to meet all expenses to start and carry on new branches of work, mainly, the sewing class, hospital work and colored juvenile department, besides contributing to poorer Unions.

On February 21, '88, the sewing class was started with one of our most energetic workers at its head. A machine was hired and they began by sewing for Industrial school and Children's Home. The attendance was small but the few who were faithful accomplished good work.

The Colored Juvenile Department was ordered by the Union at a meeting in March. Miss Hattie P. Burnett was made Superintendent. Notices were sent to the Colored church and Mission and on March 13 the Superintendent organized a Temperance Drill Class with 10 enrolled members. The committee in charge have since carried on the work, meeting in the "Y" rooms every Wednesday afternoon, instructing the colored boys and girls in Hygiene, Physiology and temperance. Experiments and temperance songs are used to illustrate the lessons. Interest increases and 32 children now answer to the roll call.

At the same special meeting held March 9, a Superintendent of Y. M. C. A. work was chosen and a plan proposed by Mr. Murray from the Young Men's Christian Association by which we could aid in raising money for their building fund. The young ladies took hold of it with a will and hope to be of good service.

Some of those present no doubt already are familiar with our scheme and we will try not to slight any one, hoping the cards will receive a warm reception by all solicted from.

Early in March a committee from the "Y" took charge of one of the regular Thursday evening entertainments usually given by the Woman's Temperance Aid Society in Reform Hall. Later we took pleasure in contributing to a new piano for the Reform Club.

The "Y" did begin work last October under very discouraging circumstances, but withall kept up the regular meetings, the business meetings being very well attended the third Tuesday in every month.

We are indebted to some of the pastors of the city for occasional help in our Devotional meetings. But we have generally conducted these meetings ourselves and the greatest interest has been manifested in them, realizing that in our prayers lies the main strength of our organization.

Wait on the Lord; be of good courage and he shall strengthen thine heart; wait, I say, on the Lord.

Respectfully submitted.
Bertha M. Taylor, Sec.

A Plainfield Wife and Mother Driven From Home.

Unable to longer stand the brutal treatment of her husband, the wife of a prominent church and temperance speaker of this city, is compelled to leave her home.

The Press will give the names of the parties and further particulars of the affair to-morrow.

Those Post Office Lights.

Under the above caption the Somerset street sheet says that Chief of Police Carey states that Postmaster Force was "frequently personally requested to give more light, that the office might be better protected."

It may not be generally known that the Postmaster and the person who "edits" the Somerset street sheet are not on speaking terms, and therefore it is not to be wondered at that any reflection that the latter can cast on the former will be done in the best manner possible. The Ppstmaster, however, considers the source from whence come these statements and believes it beneath his dignity to make any public statement regarding the false statements and falsehoods contained in the assertion that the Post Office has not been properly lighted at night. He simply brands them as falsehoods.

The public, who have passed the office for months and years past, can testify that the Post Office has always been properly and sufficiently illuminated at night to show any vigilant night officer whether any person was in the room meddling with the safe. The statement made by the sheet above alluded to is in keeping with lots of other "rot" that it has published regarding this burglary and other matters.

Elizabeth Talent in Plainfield.

(From the Elizabeth Journal.)

The congregation of the First Presbyterian church of Plainfield had the pleasure of listening to the new choir, yesterday. The choir is composed of Miss Carrie Conger, soprano, of this city; Mr. Samuel I. Mitchell, tenor, formerly a member of the First Presbyterian church of this city; Mr. Wm. B. Martin, bass, formerly of the Park M. E. church of this city, and Miss Masterson, contralto, of Plainfield.

The choir sang in the lecture room, owing to the fact that the church, which was commenced in 1888, is not yet finished. The announcement that the choir would sing for the first time drew a large congregation. Schilling's Te Deum was one of the selections rendered.

The pastor of the church is Rev. Dr. Ketcham. The new organ when placed in the church will cost $7,000. The funds which will complete the edifice were bequeathed by the late Mrs. Lattimer, who before her demise remembered Rev. Dr. Ketcham to the amount of $10,000.

Union County Roads.

Congressman Kean has made an offer to the Union County Board of Freeholders to take all the county road bonds, amounting to $150,000, which it is proposed to issue to raise money to repair the highways. The bonds will bear 4½ per cent. interest. The Board has not made up its mind what to do about the Congressman's proposal. There is trouble in the Board over what roads should be improved, Plainfield, Linden and Elizabeth protesting that they are not getting a fair proportion of the proposed improvements.

The Borough Board of Health met last evening, and acted promptly upon such matters as came before them.

Arrangements concerning the health of the Borough during the coming warm weather were fully discussed, and in the near future prompt action will be taken to insure a healthy condition of premises, etc. A rigid enforcement of the laws governing these matters may be looked for.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING.

President Dumont called the City Council to order in regular session at 8:30 o'clock last evening, all the members being present except Councilmen Squires and Watson. The minutes of the two previous meetings, regular and special, were read and approved.

A communication was received from the Board of Health, with reference to the unhealthy condition of the Peace street sewer, at its mouth; the Board asked the Council to take steps to remedy the evil; the matter, together with another communication referring to the New street sewer was referred to the Street Committee with power.

Petitions and communications were received and referred as follows: From property owners on East Sixth street, asking to have that thoroughfare macadamized, said property owners agreeing to pay 15 cents per running foot.

From C. H. Hand and others asking Council to establish a building line on West Second street between Park and Central avenues.

From the Plainfield Street Railway Company, with reference to using the storage battery system, in case a franchise was awarded to said company.

From L. A. Rheume, for permission to erect a structure of corrugated iron over a cellar in the centre of his lumber yard on Peace street, said structure to be 16x16 feet in dimensions and ten feet high, the building to be used for storing lumber.

From T. W. Morrison, a communication, relating to an old bill for advertising which was never authorized, stating that the printing was done under an old ordinance when that paper was designated as one of the official organs of the city. The document contained plenty of "taffy" and was evidently intended to work upon the more timid Councilmen. It was referred to the Committee on Printing and Stationery. Later Mr. Newhall returned the bill with the Committee's recommendation that the bill be audited when proof of publication is presented.

Sundry petitions for hack, peddlers' and cartmen's licenses were presented, referred and subsequently granted.

Claims were presented and referred as follows, including a batch of poor bills:

The Street Commissioner submitted his bond with the names of Messrs E. P. Thorn and E. A. Campbell as sureties. It was referred to the Law and Ordinance Committee, and later returned, recorded and filed.

The quarterly report of the City Physician was ordered filed.

The Board of Engineers submitted the following names of persons duly elected members of the Plainfield Fire Department, all of whom were confirmed: R. B. Rogers, a member of No.2 Engine Co.; W. H. Lyon, of Alert Hose Co.; C. W. Smith, No. 2 Engine Co.

The monthly reports of the Treasurer and Collector were presented, referred and ordered on file. The latter report showed the total collections for the month to be $1,420.71, $413.86 of which has been credited to the Board of Education.

Corporation Counsel Marsh made a report, stating the number and nature of the cases now in litigation, in which the City is interested. He also submitted a proposition from Messrs Jackson and Codington counsel for Robert Simpson, setting forth certain propositions under which their client was willing to pay costs and have discontinued the suit now pending against him. Corporation Counsel Marsh was instructed to arrange a settlement according to the proposition named.

The Fire and Building Committee, through Mr. Erickson, returned the petition of Mr. G. W. May, presented at a former meeting, as being contrary to the provisions of the City ordinance. The petition of Mr. Asa Collier, for permission to build an addition to the Olympia bowling alleys, was granted.

The Committee also recommended the erection of a partition in both the truck and Gazelle engine houses, separating the stables from the department apparatus, at a cost not to exceed $110. The recommendation was adopted.

Mr. Moffett, from the License Committee, reported the Netherwood Hotel license application as correct. Mr. Marsh moved to receive and file the application, and it was so ordered, notwithstanding Mr. Erickson's amendment to grant the same.

An old claim of Nelson Runyon $21.95 contracted while he was City Judge, was recommended to be paid by the Committee to whom the matter was referred at a previous meeting.

The Committees in their order, when called, reported back the bills presented during the evening, and they were sent to the Auditing Committee for final signature.

Mr. Newhall, from the Water Committee, submitted the following report, which was upon resolution adopted, accepted, and the Committee was authorized to expend not over $300 to carry out the suggestions and recommendations therein contained.

Your committee have carefully considered the various communications and propositions relating to water and sewerage which have been placed in our hands for attention.

We have from the first recognized the necessity of promptly providing a supply of water and a complete system of sewerage.

The law provides that the Common Council may grant a water franchise to a corporation properly organized for the purpose. The law also provides that the Common Council may purchase or construct water works to be owned and operated by the City, provided the citizens shall first give their assent to such purchase or construction at any regular or special election.

Your committee have carefully examined the whole subject and have received a number of propositions varying greatly in their terms.

The conditions upon which the franchise is asked, and the rates fixed for the sale of water for fire and domestic purposes in these various propositions, do not appear to be unreasonable or exorbitant, but it may be that much more favorable rates could be obtained by advertising for positive bids upon specific detailed specifications.

Your committee have also considered the propriety of constructing or purchasing water works to be owned and operated by the City.

In this connection the only question to be decided in our opinion is: can water for fire purposes and for private consumption be furnished to our citizens at a less net cost than it could be obtained from parties holding a franchise?

From the best information your committee have been able to secure, we are of the opinion that if the works are owned and operated by the City, water can be furnished for private consumption at a less rate than the most favorable figures named in the propositions thus far submitted.

We believe also that under such circumstances the annual revenue to the City would be sufficient not only to cover the interest but to gradually liquidate the original outlay.

Under all the circumstances your committee respectfully recommend and request that you authorise them to employ a competent engineer to draw up plans and specifications for the construction of a complete system of water supply and sewerage, and that tenders be solicited from responsible parties, who shall be asked to make bids based upon either of the following conditions:

First—The works to be constructed strictly in accordance with plans and specifications and subject to over-sight and approval of inspector to be appointed by the City; the franchise to be granted for a fixed term subject to provision giving the City the right to purchase under specified conditions; subject during the continuance of franchise, to fixed annual rates for water for fire and other public purposes, and for private consumption.

Second—The works to be constructed strictly in accordance with plans and specifications and subject to oversight and approval of inspector to be appointed by the City, and after completion and satisfactory trial for a proper length of time, to be purchased by the City and paid for at a fixed price and terms.

Plainfield, N. J., May 2, 1889.

HENRY B. NEWHALL,
E. N. ERICKSON,
Committee.

A resolution by Mr. Newhall to the effect that the taxes coming into the City Treasury, be deposited evenly between the First National and City National Banks, was referred to the Finance Committee.

Messrs Sebring and Moore, two delinquents to the North avenue sewer fund, the Corporation Counsel was instructed to notify, that unless they come to "centre" within ten days, their sewer connection will be severed; furthermore the Street Commissioner was empowered to carry out the provisions of the resolution introduced by Mr. Marsh and adopted, and to "sever the connection," in case the notice is not complied with.

Mr. Erickson introduced an ordinance to license, regulate and restrain persons or vehicles from sprinkling streets in the City, under a fine of $100. The ordinance provided for a fee of $5, but it was amended by Mr. Marsh, making the annual fee $10. The orninance was read twice, ordered engrossed and advertised.

Mr. Marsh presented an ordinance dividing the Fourth Ward into two election districts, which was adopted on its second reading and ordered engrossed and advertised. The two districts are to include the following territories: First—All that section in the Fourth Ward lying North-west of the Central Railroad; Second—All that portion lying South-east of the railroad. This division has become necessary, according to law, inasmuch as there were over 600 votes cast in the Fourth Ward at the last election.

Upon motion of Mr. Marsh $500 was appropriated for street repairs.

The engrossed copy of the ordinance relating to the assessment and collection of taxes was called up and adopted on its final passage.

The ordinance amending the building ordinance which made it optional whether a man erected a hen-coop or a "one-story-flat," was called up for final passage. Messrs Dumont, Erickson, Gallup, Jenkins, Myers, Moffett, Marsh, voting "No." It was lost.

Councilman Myers introduced a proper resolution, providing for borrowing funds to meet the expenses of the poor, fire and general funds, to the extent of $1,500, now due, in anticipation of taxes. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

The Auditing Committee reported on the claims presented, and they were ordered paid.

Chief Doane was instructed to have the fire wells at Sixth and Liberty streets, and at Park avenue and Second street, raised to the proper grade.

The Finance Committee was requested to confer with the Mayor, with reference to the appointment of a Deputy Tax Collector.

Council then adjourned.

The Great Exposition Opened Yesterday.

PRESIDENT CARNOT PRESENT.

Premier Tirard Delivers an Address of Welcome to All in Attendance.

Lord Lytton Wanted to Be Present But the Queen Commanded Him to Withdraw—The Lord Mayor of London Will Attend To-morrow—The Coming Naval Review at Spithead—The Trial of Orloff—Late Foreign News.

PARIS, May 7.—The French Exposition was opened yesterday afternoon by President Carnot. Large crowds were present and the scene was a very brilliant one. The President was accompanied by the Presidents of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies and by his Cabinet. The procession escorted by a squadron of cavalry, left the Palace of the Elysee, early in the afternoon and its arrival at the central dome of the Exhibition building was announced by a salute from the artillery. President Carnot ascended a dais erected under the dome, and took his place surrounded by his Ministers, Senators and Members of the Chamber of Deputies.

Premier Tirard delivered an address of welcome to all present. He declared that the magnitude of the Exhibition exceeded the expectation of the Government. In conclusion the Premier extended a greeting to all strangers and said republican France would show herself hospitable and generous, treating them not as rivals, inspiring jealousy, but as fellow-workers laboring for the happiness of humanity.

President Carnot followed Minister Tirard. In his remarks he referred to the "undauntable energy of France which had arisen from the most severe trials to fresh industrial triumphs."

After the Exhibition was opened the President and his party inspected the various departments.

LATE NEWS FROM ABROAD.

Lord Lytton Wanted to See the Paris Exposition Opening But Couldn't.

LONDON, May 7.—It transpires that Lord Lytton, the British Ambassador to France, was really desirous of remaining in Paris to witness the opening of the Exposition and plainly intimated his wish to the Foreign Office. The Queen, however, commanded that his lordship should withdraw from the French capital at the same time informing Lord Salisbury that it would never do for the Minister of a Royal House to participate in or even countenance a ceremony designed to commemorate the overthrow of royalty.

TORIES DOWN ON REPUBLICS.

The Tory press adopt a similar view in their comments upon the opening of the Exhibition. They propose to forgive the revolutionists for their rebellious acts, but do not condone their excesses, nor do they admit the benefits of the republican form of government which is the ultimate result of that struggle. On the whole, the Conservative press can see no reason for the Exposition, neither can they bring themselves to the belief that it will be otherwise than a miserable failure.

THE LORD MAYOR GOING.

The Lord Mayor of London, accompanied by the Sheriffs, will take his departure for Paris to attend the Exposition to-morrow. He has abandoned the idea of travelling in state.

MR. ALEXANDER'S GIFT.

It is asserted that Mr. Alexander, the noted philanthropist and collector of paintings, is the donor of the building for the new portrait gallery to which Lord Salisbury referred in his speech at the Royal Academy dinner. The cost of the gallery when completed will be £100,000.

THE NAVAL REVIEW AT SPITHEAD.

The naval review at Spithead has been fixed for July 27. The Queen will view the manœuvres of the fleet from the deck of the Royal yacht Victoria, and Albert and the Emperor of Germany and his brother, Prince Henry, will witness the scene from the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern.

THE TRIAL OF ORLOFF.

The Russian Police Officer Who Shot Fraulein Belsani, the Prima Donna.

MOSCOW, May 7.—The trial of Orloff, the agent of the Secret Police, who a few weeks ago shot and killed Fraulein Belsani, a well-known prima donna of the Deutschen theatre at Prague, opened to-day. The crime was a most sensational one, the victim being shot down on the stage at a rehearsal of "Die Walkure" at the Grossen theatre.

Revenge was the motive for the crime, both the singer and her deceased husband having caused the arrest of several of Orloff's friends on the charge of being connected with the Nihilist party.

Catholic Pilgrims Assaulted.

TRIESTE, May 7.—A railway train having on board 800 pilgrims to Rome was assailed by a tremendous crowd here yesterday and bombarded with stones. The train hurriedly left the station to escape the showers of missiles, but was attacked in a similar fashion at several other stations. Twenty-four persons were more or less severely injured by stones and broken glass and the railway carriages were almost completely wrecked.

To Testify Before the Commission.

DUBLIN, May 7.—Messrs. William O'Brien and Edward Harrington, Members of Parliament, who were released from prison for the purpose of testifying before the Parnell Commission are now on their way to London to attend the Commission. Mr. Harrington is dressed in his prison garb, intending to appear in London and in the witness box in this dress.

Boulangists' Residences Searched.

PARIS, May 7.—The police have searched the residences of a number of Boulangists at Neuilly.

The Sheriff in Possession.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., May 7.—The property of the Union Glass company has been levied upon by the sheriff to satisfy claims of $10,000 held by James L. Patton and W. S. Falta. The plant will cover all indebtedness, and the works will not be shut down.

The Strike a Failure.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 7.—The Allegheny Bessemer Steel works are now in almost full operation with non-union men and the strike will probably be a failure. Some attempts at violence continue but without serious result.

BEGS TO BE EXCUSED.

Massachusetts' Supreme Court Declines to Answer the Legislature's Questions.

BOSTON, May 7.—The Supreme Court today sent to the House of Representatives its answer to certain questions asked by the House relative to the meaning of the statute as to private schools.

After stating that the Constitution provides that the Legislature may require the opinions of the court "upon important questions of law and upon solemn occasions" the answer proceeds to discuss the nature of the questions presented and concludes as follows:

"This is not an unusual exigency and does not create or present "a solemn occasion" within the fair meaning of the Constitution so that we can properly give an ex-parte opinion upon the construction of the statute in question. For these reasons, imperfectly stated, we beg to be excused from further answering the questions proposed by the House."

The report was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

The House, especially the majority leaders, felt quite disappointed and angry that the court declined to answer the questions.

Interesting Natural Gas Figures.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 7.—At the fifth annual meeting of the stockholders of the Philadelphia Natural Gas company, in this city, President George Westinghouse, Jr., stated that the company is now bringing to 30,000 customers an amount of gas equal to 20,000 tons of coal daily. It has 705.5 miles of pipe, tapping 181 producing wells, and has constructed 77 miles of telephone lines in the last year for private use. The financial statement of the company for the year just ended shows: gross earnings, $2,756,217.25; expenses, $1,696,293.53; net earnings, $1,059,923.72. Dividends (1 per cent. per month,) $900,000. Surplus, $159,923.72. Hereafter the dividends will be paid quarterly instead of monthly.

"Electric Sugar" Howard to the Bar.

NEW YORK, May 7.—The case of William E. Howard, the alleged chief of the Electric Sugar frauds was called yesterday before Recorder Smyth. Howard responded promptly. When he reached the bar he was confronted with an indictment charging him with grand larceny and asked to plead. It charges him with obtaining $6,500 from the sugar company under false pretences. There are three counts in the indictment. Howard's counsel demurred to the indictment. The demurrer was overruled and the prisoner again remanded to await trial.

Ex-Mayor Clymer Dead.

READING, Pa., May 7.—Ex-Mayor Daniel R. Clymer, who was smitten with paralysis Saturday morning died at his residence No. 1210 Perkiomen avenue. The best medical aid was summoned, but he failed to rally. He was 70 years of age, and was a man of unimpeachable integrity, although in dress and habits rather eccentric. Mr. Clymer was well known, not only in Reading and Berks county, but throughout the State, and, despite his peculiarities, he was honored by all with whom he had any business relations.

Embezzler Gray Arrested.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 7.—A special from Johnstown says: Lorenzo Gray, Collector of Ephratah, who embezzled $800 of the town's money was arrested at Brockport, near the Canadian line, Saturday night, in company with a Gloversville woman of bad reputation. He had been over the line and came back for delayed baggage. Gray was a prominent church member. The Sheriff is bringing him back.

Dr. Rice Wants a Divorce.

TRENTON, N. J., May 7.—A petition for divorce has been filed in the Court of Chancery by Dr. William Rice, a prominent physician of Trenton. The co-respondents named are Joseph G. Hayes and Peter Wickes, of Trenton, and Chester Nash, of Elmira, N. Y. It is understood that Mrs. Rice will enter a counter suit soon, and some sensational developments are expected.

In Favor of Dearborn & Co.

BOSTON, May 7.—A decision of the Supreme Court of Washington Territory has just been rendered in favor of H. M. Dearborn & Co., of Seattle, W. T. The suit involved the title to Dearborn's additions to the central portions of the city of Seattle, some 500 lots of lands, some of which squatters had taken possession of. The value of this property is over $1,000,000.

Mr. Hopkins is All Right.

THE RAILWAY HOG.

A Western Man Teaches a Massachusetts Woman a Needed Lesson.

Nowhere in the wide world does the railway hog so flourish as in Boston. Not infrequently—alas! that it should be necessary to say it—the too-familiar animal wears petticoats. It is found in astonishing numbers on the suburban trains that bring half the business population into town, always striving to occupy as much room as possible, regardless of other passengers' comfort. The cheek of this human variety of porker is simply unspeakable. It affords an ideal illustration of the peculiar want of courtesy toward and consideration for his fellow beings which so markedly characterizes the indigenous Yankee. Here is an amusing instance in point, of which the writer was a witness only the other day, says a Boston correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A good-natured looking Westerner in boots entered a car bound for Roslindale, on the Providence road. It was very crowded, and people were standing upon all sides. Walking slowly through the aisle, he came at last upon a young woman reading a novel, who was occupying the whole of an extra bench, turned over, for the accommodation of a small pug dog that lay comfortably snoozing upon a shawl. The passengers who stood about were eyeing the spectacle with looks of indignation, but not one of them seemed to have the nerve to protest. The new comer, however, was not lacking in that quality. "Madam," he said, mildly, "I would like to sit down, if you please."

The young female looked up at him from her book with a cold and withering glare. "The seat is engaged," she replied, with acidulated accents.

"By the dog?"

"Yes."

"Has the dog a ticket?"

No answer.

"Oh, I'm sorry he hasn't a ticket," said the man from the West, "because I shall have to bounce him off the train."

And with that he picked up Mr. Pug by the back of the neck, gently tossed him through the open car window, and calmly took the seat thus made vacant.

The train had come to a pause at Roxbury station just a minute before and was only beginning to move off as this occurred. The dog alighted upon the ground uninjured, and at once scampered out of sight. Its mistress—who had not had time to interfere, so quickly was the thing done—jumped to her feet with a scream of surprise, and would certainly have gone for the wool of her adversary had not the conductor at that very instant thrust his hand at her for her fare. To the latter, who had not seen the occurrence, owing to the crowd, she made a hysterical appeal for redress, begging him at the same time to stop the engine, so that her pet might be picked up. But another passenger put in a word, upon which the official said that she had been served quite right, and that she might get off at the next station. This she did; but whether she recovered her dog or not is unknown to the historian. In the car she left, however, there was gladness and lightness of spirit, since for once the railway pig had been known to get left.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN BAIT.

The Interesting Story of the Evolution of the Corbait.

In the streams of the Rocky mountains the fishermen use a bait that is not generally known in the United States, says the Denver Republican. It is called corbait. It is a kind of water grub, and in natural history it furnishes, like the butterfly, some interesting evidence in favor of the doctrine of evolution, while the close of its existence might point a moral for preachers and philosophers of opposite turns of mind.

At the sandy bottom of a clear and sluggish stream it first appears as a little maggot rolling along with the current. As it rolls, portions of the finest sand and atoms of wood stick to it, until it acquires a complete overcoat. With the gluey substance which it has acquired in nature's store, it cements the sand and little patches of wood around its body with marvelous skill. Its head and front parts are somewhat like a fly or little beetle, and it has strong claws. When its overcoat or house is finished, with all the modern improvements, it stops rolling and begins to crawl on the bottom against the current until it reaches a rock, under which it takes refuge from trout and other enemies. There it remains in peace and security all through the summer.

In winter it closes up the front and only door of its cabin and doubtless sleeps the sleep of the just. When spring returns and the water begins to get warm, it manages to thin down the walls of its habitation, from which, of course, the water is already expelled, until it becomes sufficiently buoyant to bear the tenant to the surface. Then it floats along, looking like an insignificant fragment of a rotten twig. Suddenly under the rays of the sun the upper portion of this affair bursts open. It is a boat now, with one little passenger aboard—a beautiful green fly, known by trout fishers as the "green drake." Perfectly safe in his little vessel, this green drake enjoys the sunshine. He scratches his wings with his toes, combs his hair with his fingers, and takes some long and lazy stretches. Then, as if struck with a new idea, he raises his wings, hesitates a moment to consider his future career, and at last flies off to make new acquaintances in another sphere of life.

Unfortunately his want of experience on wings is too often fatal to him. His ability and propensity to walk upon the water seem to be of questionable utility; but he gets there as if to look down upon the miserable world from which he came. Lost in reverie and serene happiness, he floats along carelessly and then disappears in the jaws of a hungry trout, where his variegated career ends.

Fungi in an Old Mine.

When the old drifts of the Ophir mine at Virginia City were opened the other day it was found that a tremendous growth of fungi had in some cases nearly closed the passages. It grew from the top and bottom, and the sides were clotted with it; but the fungi growing from the bottom was different from the other. The foot-wall fungi had in several instances raised stones weighing from fifty to one hundred and fifty pounds, and some were held in the air at a height of over three feet. Some of the fungi resembled human hair, they were so fine; some were five or six feet long and as large as a broom handle; another kind terminated in a sort of bulbous blossom; others hung from the roof and looked like serpents. The heaviest growth was in the darkest parts.

Leeches in Assam.

Assam swarms so with leeches that the lives of men are in danger, any person falling from faintness or getting stuck in a swamp or mudhole being sure to be sucked to death by hundreds of them. Animals frequently fall victims, and recently an elephant and his keeper, after having been several days missing, were found in a bog in the jungle, the man dead and the elephant so covered with leeches that it died the day after it was rescued. Every body there carries salt as a protection against the blood-suckers.

A KENTUCKY ROMANCE.

How the Present Governor of That State Lost and Regained His Fortune.

"Did you ever hear how General Simon Bolivar Buckner, present Governor of Kentucky, lost and won his fortune?" asks a Louisville, Ky., correspondent of the New York Sun. It is one of the most remarkable of real romances.

General Buckner's first wife was a Miss Kingsbury, a very beautiful and accomplished woman. She inherited a large fortune, and at the time of her marriage was considered the wealthiest heiress in the South. Her estate was valued at $500,000. Through investments and judicious management General Buckner largely increased this amount.

At the opening of the war General Buckner went with the South. Most of his wife's property was in Northern cities, principally in Chicago. When he joined the Confederacy he feared that all this would be confiscated by the Union Government. After much thought it was decided to save the whole of it by deeding it to Mrs. Buckner's brother, Mr. Kingsbury, who strongly sympathized with the North. This was done, and General Buckner took command of a division of the Southern army.

Young Kingsbury had become a gallant soldier with the Federals. One day as he was going into battle he said he had a premonition of death. Remembering the trust the Buckners had imposed upon him, he told the story to a brother officer, and wrote an account of the conveyance of the large estate upon a slip of paper. He requested his companion in arms to put it away, and in case of accident to send it or deliver it to the Buckner family when opportunity presented itself after the war. The young officer complied with the request. The battle came on and Kingsbury was among the slain.

The war ended and Kingsbury's friend went to Europe. The rush of incidents had caused him to forget all about the paper. He did not return to America for several years. Shortly after his return he was in Washington and met General Burnside, whom he had known during the war. He inquired of the General concerning the Buckners of Kentucky. General Burnside told him how General Buckner had made over his property to his brother-in-law, Kingsbury, who had been killed in battle. The property had then reverted to young Kingsbury's heirs, as no will or memorandum of the transfer had been found.

"But there is a memorandum," exclaimed the young officer, "and I have it, too."

The next day after the dinner party he started out to find the document, of which he had not before thought since the death of young Kingsbury. After a long search he found the paper, and a tedious and costly lawsuit was ended, for it clearly established General Buckner's right to a great property, the larger part of which consists of office buildings in the heart of Chicago, from which he receives a rental of $75,000 a year.

THE MALE SHOPPER.

A Nuisance of the Genus Dude That Seems to Be on the Increase.

"Is that a man?"

"No, that's a male shopper."

"And what is a male shopper?"

"Oh, I see."

This brief and breezy interview, says the New York Star, took place in the gentlemen's furnishing department of one of the great dry-goods establishments which line Sixth avenue, between Fourteenth and Twenty-third streets, the party of the first part being a pleasant-faced, matronly woman in front of the counter, and the party of the second part an equally pleasant, but thoroughly annoyed, clerk behind it.

A youth with a nut-brown derby hat a size too small for his small head, a cape overcoat of a pronounced check, patent leather shoes covered with light moccasins, a ponderous walking-stick and a pretty lisp, which issued from beneath a single-ply mustache, had just left the counter, where he had forced the patient employe to haul down a dozen boxes and overturn half his stock of scarfs, suspenders and a silken half-hose without making a sale.

When the work of upheaval was complete the youth remarked pleasantly:

"Thanks, awfully. I'll call again."

And flitted away like the giddy thing that he was, to pose before the Hoffman and give the ladies a treat to his beauty.

As the clerk sought to reconstruct his goods he ventilated his sentiments by the use of several emphatic swear words.

"I'd rather wait on twenty women than one of those dude shoppers," he continued. "They never buy any thing worth more than fifty cents, and yet I'm forced by the rules of the house to bring out every thing they ask to look at. I can tell one of them as soon as he strikes me, but that doesn't do any good. I can only grin and bear it."

"Do many of them come in here? Yes, too many. I have an average of about four a day to wait on, and they seem to be increasing. They ought to be kept at home in pinafores or put to work by their parents. The chronic female shopper is bad enough, but those fellows make me very tired. There ought to be a law to suppress them."

HINTS ON MARRIAGE.

Why Young Couples Should Not Live in Boarding-Houses.

While the Chicago Journal's Stroller counsels early marriage as a rule he does not believe in the marrying of children; and there are cases where if people waited until they were sixty years old they would not have sense enough to make it a success. These are the cases where marriage is a failure. And young men should be careful to get a helpmeet, with all that it implies, instead of a helpest, as somebody has said. Some old crusty has defined getting married as "an abstract desire on the part of a young man to pay some nice young lady's board." Now the idea of a young couple in moderate circumstances going to boarding after getting married is one of the most ridiculous things I can conceive. If the girl does not want to go to housekeeping, she shouldn't get married. If they haven't money enough to start keeping house, wait until they have, and they will appreciate it so much the more. They'll never save any money while boarding. I had a young friend who was boarding in a private family, and who became smitten with the charms of his landlady's daughter and married her. And instead of going to housekeeping, they continued boarding with her ma, and whereas the aforesaid young lady had been doing office work down town, now she can stay at home and play lady, and visit and gossip as only people who have lived in boarding houses know how, and he, poor fellow, has his nose to the grindstone earning enough to pay their board, where when he was courting her he had only his own to pay. Shrewd mamma, sharp daughter. Verily she had what the vulgar would call a "snap." Young people, if you will get married go to housekeeping, even if you only have money enough to furnish one room. You'll be the happier and never regret it. And always live within your income. Do not build in advance on a raise in salary which may not come.

THE SAYREVILLE RIOT.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 7.—The funeral of George Kessinger, who was shot and killed in Saturday night's riot at Sayreville, took place at Washington, N. J., yesterday, and was attended by hundreds of people.

The State Chancellor granted an injunction restraining the Raritan River Railroad company from proceeding with track-laying on the Furman brickyard property, and the company's cars have been withdrawn from the ground.

The sheriff is on hand with a posse of over fifty deputies and, although there is still great excitement among the brickyard and railroad employes, it is not thought that rioting will be renewed.

The coroner's inquest in the case will be held on the 13th inst.

Two Important Decisions.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 7.—Judge Simonton has decided that the Western Union Telegraph company cannot remove its suit to enforce forfeiture to the United States court. He also decided that electric light companies are not manufacturing corporations, since they do no not produce a material substance, and that their capital is therefore liable to taxation.

PALMER IS PRINTER

The Long Looked-for Nomination Announced at Last.

ROOSEVELT GETS A PLACE.

New York's Young Reformer Selected to Be a Civil Service Commissioner.

Hugh S. Thompson, of South Carolina Also Selected for the National Board of Examiners—Many Postmasters Named. An Important Pension Decision by Assistant Secretary Bussey—Consul Crowell's Dissertation on Imported Tea.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The President has appointed Frank W. Palmer, of Illinois, to be Public Printer, and Theodore Roosevelt, of New York, and Hugh S. Thompson, of South Carolina, to be members of the Civil Service Commission.

The following named postmasters have also been appointed:

Massachusetts—A. B. Story, Gardner; A. T. Serwin, Lenox.

New Jersey—Alexandria C. Yard, Trenton.

Pennsylvania—George Ammerman, Hawley; M. R. Peterman, Royersford; H. H. Schock, Selins Grove; Thomas Walker, Jermyn.

New York—William Yerden, Fort Plain; M. V. Burhans, Saugerties; Jesse Elking, New Paltz; Frank Foggin, Port Richmond; S. St. John, Port Jervis; Thomas Honohan, Frankfort; W. H. Sammis, Northport.

Secretary Bussey yesterday rendered an opinion of great importance, broadening former constructions in "the line of duty" cases.

In this case Mary E. McNeil applied for a pension as the widow of Alexander McNeil, who while engaged in a wrestling contest with a comrade in camp, received injuries which resulted in his death.

The Pension office rejected the claim, on the ground that McNeil was not in the line of duty at the time he sustained his injuries, but Mr. Bussey holds that he was, and lays down the broad principle that soldiers while in camp, while not disobeying orders or acting in violation of military regulations, are always in the line of duty.

Consul Crowell, at Amoy, China, in a report just received at the State department, calls attention to the extensive adulteration of teas for the American market. He says a large percentage of the Amoy Oolong is poorly cultivated, poorly picked and cured, dirty and adulterated. "Stuff" it was called by the Amoy Commissioner of Customs in his last year's annual report, and he added that the "Stuff was alone wanted in America."

"This is," Consul Crowell says, "unfortunately true, for nearly the whole crop of Amoy Oolongs—bad and often unfit for use as they are—are annually marketed in the United States. The American people are better able to use and pay for a good article of tea than the people of any other nation. I am certain it is not the tea-drinking public in the United States that causes this inferior stuff to find a market only in America. It is the greed of importers and exporters that alone makes it possible to impose this vile stuff by excessive courtesy called tea, upon the American public.

"I have several times called the attention of the department to the stuff called Amoy Oolong. I now beg to report my suggestions with increased emphasis, and to hope that the tea-drinking public at home may be protected against this so-called tea known as Amoy Oolong.

"I repeat my suggestions at this time, when all the last year's crop has been marketed and before the new crop comes into market, that it may be thought that I have any desire to affect the market of these teas or to accomplish any other purpose except that of preventing them from being dumped into the New York market, and then, by some occult means, imposed on the public.

"The law relating to the importation of bad and adulterated teas into the United States is sufficient, if enforced, to protect the public against such spurious teas. Most of the Amoy Oolongs are sent hence to the port of New York. A small percentage goes to other American ports. Hence careful attention and honest inspection of these teas at New York would prevent their being imposed upon the public.

"Of the 2,863,580 pounds of this tea which this year went to New York, I am quite confident, if it had been inspected with even moderate care and the law enforced that 50 per cent. of it would have been refused entry into the United States."

THE SAMOAN CONFERENCE.

The Demands that Are Made by the United States Commissioners.

BERLIN, May 8.—The Vossische Zeitung says that the American Commissioners to the Samoan Conference are instructed by their government to demand the neutrality of the Islands and the administration of Samoan affairs by Samoans, and urge the claim of the United States to the right to establish a coaling station at Pago Pago.

The demands of the United States, however, are not intended to prevent the other powers from exercising their influence in accordance with their interests.

Prince Bismarck received the delegates to the Samoan Conference yesterday afternoon and conversed with them for three-quarters of an hour. Count Herbert Bismarck was present at the interview.

Union and Non-Union Men Fight.

ORANGE, N. J., May 8.—Austin Drew & Co.'s hat shop, which has been non-union for ten months, was yesterday made a union shop. When the union men went to work in the afternoon the non-union men whose places they filled became angry, and there were several short fights. At one time a small riot was in progress. The police were sent for, and only stopped the fighting by a display of revolvers and threats to shoot. A union hatter was arrested, but was discharged, as he claimed that he was but protecting himself from the assaults of the independent men.

BUTLER AND PORTER.

Canister and Grape-Shot Fired on Both Sides—Harsh Words Used.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Gen. Butler was interviewed again to-day about Admiral Porter and the battle of New Orleans.

"Says I was drunk, does he," growled the General, referring to the Admiral's remarks of yesterday. "Well, suppose he does; his statement to that effect will be satisfactory testimony to the contrary to those who know him."

"That speech was written four or five days before the day on which it was delivered, and copies of it were sent to the various morning newspapers in Boston. The statements made by me were neither new nor unsupported, as Porter will find out before he gets through with this matter. Parton, who is credited with being a careful historian, says on page 247 of his book: 'Gen. Butler in New Orleans;' 'Capt. Porter's fleet of steamers were coming rapidly down the river, propelled by a report that the celebrated ram Manassas was after them.' Why, Porter himself has never denied that. He admits it. Porter can't tell the truth anyhow. He has attacked me like a blackguard but I do not propose to make any such fight. This matter is going to be settled once for all, and I am going to settle it."

WHAT PORTER SAYS.

Admiral Porter said in reply to the remarks of General Butler published yesterday:

"I see Butler is going for me on the question of prize money and if he confines himself to that subject I will probably not interfere with him. But he must not accuse me of running away when there was any fighting going on. I do not come from that kind of stock.

"So far as any further statements from me are concerned, I shall probably not make any more, since I consider that I have pretty well refuted the allegations of General Butler."

A STARTLING TALE.

A Scheme to Fasten the Crime of Murder Upon Innocent Persons.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 8.—A startling exposure has been made by Detective Howard, of a local agency, in connection with the murder and robbery of Farmer Umberger, in Somerset county, a few weeks ago. Two brothers, David and Joe Nicely, are awaiting trial charged with the crime. Detective Howard alleges that a scheme has been concocted to fasten the crime on two innocent persons. It is the intention, he says, to arrest Collins Hamilton and Joseph Hoffman a few days before the trial.

These men resemble the Nicely boys, and Hamilton was once before arrested on suspicion. In the house of Hamilton will be discovered a gray wig similar to the one worn by one of the robbers, and in the house of Hoffman will be found one of the stolen purses, containing $11,000 of the $13,000 stolen. The scheme, the detective alleges, is to go before court, present the wig and purse and claim that the Nicely's are innocent and that Hamilton and Hoffman are the criminals.

A FATAL EXPLOSION.

ASHLAND, Pa., May 8.—A fatal explosion occurred near here yesterday. R. J. Malone & Co., contractors, of New York, are engaged in driving a tunnel from Big Mine Run to Dark Corner to drain off water which stands in and about Centralia. At 2 o'clock yesterday, while the workmen were engaged in drilling holes in the rock for the purpose of blasting, one of the drills struck some dynamite which had failed to explode in a previous blast. An explosion immediately followed.

James Kentzler, of New York, was instantly killed, and seven others were seriously injured. The injured are:

Thomas Flynn, of Girardville; John Carroll, Patrick Carroll and Thomas Navin, of Big Mine Run, and Thomas Tretan and two others (names not learned), of Holmesville

The Sheriff Retires.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 8.—The sheriff's deputies have been withdrawn from the scene of Sunday morning's railroad riot at Sayreville, and no more trouble seems likely to occur at present. The house of Kennedy, the South Amboy man who was badly hurt during the riot, was burned yesterday, and Kennedy, who seemed half crazy, rushed into the flames while trying to save the building. He was rescued but was much worse last night.

Murderer Kemmler's Trial.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 8.—William Kemmler, who brutally killed his paramour on March 29 last, was placed on trial for his life yesterday. The prisoner's brother and the latter's wife, who is also a sister of the murdered woman, are here from Philadelphia and were present in court. The day was occupied in the District Attorney's arraignment and the taking of some testimony describing the murder. The defense will be insanity.

Oil Men in Conference.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 8.—The conference committees of the various oil exchanges of New York, Bradford, Oil City and Pittsburg met yesterday, and after an all day's consideration of the question, decided to recommend dealing in futures, and proposed rules to govern such transactions based on the rules of the Chicago Grain exchange. The various exchanges have yet to act upon these recommendations.

WITH BAT AND BALL

New York Steps Back in the League Race.

PHILADELPHIA WINS AGAIN

Chicago Plays in Luck at Cleveland—An Uphill Game for Indianapolis.

Brooklyn Wins a Game from Louisville in the First Inning—Columbus Gets an Awful Drubbing at St. Louis—The Athletics Win from the Cincinnatis—Kansas City Outplays Baltimore—Yesterday's Games in the Atlantic Association.

NEW YORK, May 8.—New York lost a lot of ground through the defeat she sustained yesterday at the hands of Philadelphia. Boston and the Phillies are now tie for first place, with New York third and Pittsburg fourth.

Kansas City club seems to be the most formidable opponent the St. Louis Browns have at present in the race for the championship of the American Association. The Athletics are a good third, with Baltimore and Brooklyn doing fine work.

THE GIANTS OUTBATTED AND OUTFIELDED.

PHILADELPHIA, May 8.—The Giants were outbatted and outfielded yesterday, but notwithstanding, the spectators were kept guessing until Andrews collared Crane's fly in the ninth. Only seven hits were made off Buffinton, and they were distributed through five innings. Crane showed marked improvement over his first exhibition.

AN UNFORTUNATE EFFORT.

CLEVELAND, May 8.—The Clevelands were defeated in a closely contested game through an unfortunate attempted stop by Bakely. The ball was hit at him like a shot and he jumped for it and partially stopped it. In bouncing away from his hand it rolled between short field and third base and two runs were scored by Chicago.

IT WAS AN UPHILL GAME.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 8.—Pittsburg took what seemed to be the winning lead in the first two innings yesterday on hits, stolen bases and bases on balls, assisted by Bassett's wild throw to the plate, but the home club played a strong uphill game, and from that point on Boyle was invincible. The feature was the batting of Sullivan.

BROOKLYN WINS WITH EASE.

LOUISVILLE, May 8.—The Brooklyns easily defeated the Louisvilles yesterday in a one-sided contest. Ramsey and Kerins were put in for the first time, and lost the game in the first inning.

ROBINSON OFF HIS HIGH HORSE.

ST. LOUIS, May 8.—The Browns played ball yesterday, defeating Columbus in a decidedly jug-handled game. Robinson played, but without the remittance of the fine.

STICK WORK WON.

CINCINNATI, O., May 8.—The Athletics won yesterday's game by their superior work at the bat. Bard was the only red-leg that could hit the ball with any success.

LONG IN BATTING MOOD.

KANSAS CITY, May 8.—Kansas City beat Baltimore yesterday in a closely contested game, in which McCarthy and Kilroy both did effective work. The feature of the game was Long's batting, who made a hit every time he went to the bat.

WILLIAMS DID VERY WELL.

JERSEY CITY, May 8.—The Jersey Citys tried Williams, their new pitcher, yesterday, and he did very well. The Jerseys pounded Carsey and Lally for twenty hits and won easily.

THE TABLES TURNED.

NEWARK, May 8.—The Newarks succeeded in turning the tables on the Hartfords yesterday, after a hard struggle. The victory was due in a great measure to Miller's excellent work in the box.

LOWELL, 5; WILKESBARRE, 0.

WILKESBARRE, May 8.—Lowell batted harder and fielded better than Wilkesbarre yesterday, and succeeded in shutting out their opponents without a run.

WON IN THE SEVENTH.

EASTON, May 8.—Worcester won yesterday by making several singles, a two-bagger, a three-bagger, and a home run in the seventh inning. Both teams played well.

BASEBALL SCORES.

At Philadelphia—Philadelphia, 6; New York, 4.

At Washington—The Boston-Washington game was postponed to June 17 (Bunker Hill Day) to be played in Boston.

At Cleveland—Cleveland, 3; Chicago, 5.

At Indianapolis—Indianapolis, 10; Pittsburg, 7.

At Cincinnati—Cincinnati, 1; Athletic, 7.

At Louisville—Louisville, 3; Brooklyn, 13.

At Newark—Newark, 7; Hartford, 5.

At Wilkesbarre—Wilkesbarre, 0; Lowell, 5.

At Trenton—Cuban Giants, 2; Boston, 5.

At Easton—Worcester, 11; Easton, 10.

At Syracuse—Syracuse, 5; Rochester, 0.

At Hamilton—Hamilton, 6; Buffalo, 2.

Parnell Elected a Life Member.

LONDON, May 8.—The National Liberal Club at its annual meeting yesterday elected Mr. Parnell a life member by a large majority. The meeting was attended by two thousand members and was very stormy. A resolution was adopted declaring that owing to the divisions at present existing in the party it was not desirable for the club to be identified with any section of it.

Says Pryor Was a Deserter.

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 8.—O. F. Chappell, the soldier with whom Gen. Roger Pryor left his horse when he went to the Yankee lines, has sworn to a long statement in which he says that Pryor deliberately deserted and was received by the Union forces as a deserter.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—The State Exempt Firemen's Association was first organized three years ago with six associations. It now includes sixteen associations, and is rapidly increasing.

—The "Young Actives" of North Plainfield, defeated a nine known as the "Irish Boys" in a game of ball on the Manning avenue grounds, yesterday afternoon, by a score of 9 to 3.

—It won't be so one-sided a victory for the Crescents next Saturday, as it was last. They will play a strong nine from Rutgers College, on the LaGrande Ave., grounds, at 3 o'clock.

—A petition was generously circulated in North Plainfield, last evening, for signatures praying upon the Court at Somerville to raise the license fee to $700. The petition was largely signed.

—For the convenience of their numerous patrons Schwed Brothers have added an elegant line of light colored felt and straw hats, to their large and stylish stock of clothing and gent's furnishings.

—One of the causes on the calendar of the Supreme Court, this term, is that of Augusta C. Lissignolo, of East Front street, vs Councilman G. Warren Watson. Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, appears for the defendant.

—How some Boards of Excise act is shown in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., a city of about twice the inhabitants of Plainfield. The Board there met on Monday night and the number of licenses granted were: ale and beer, 43; storekeepers, 42, hotel, 21. Total—106.

—Many persons seem to labor under the impression that the public highways are just the place in which to dump the rubbish of all kinds. This is an error which in this city can be made to cost the victims thereof the sum of several dollars and costs, as per ordinance.

—The Y. M. C. A. ball nine of New Brunswick is somewhat excusable, for its defeat by the Crescents in this city on Saturday last, from the fact that it was the club's first game this season. A New Brunswick paper in alluding to the game says: "The local team played well in the field, but could not bunch their hits. The Plainfielders had a picnic off Bedford's usually deceptive curves and batted him all over the field."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. George E. Vincent, who was in Plainfield again yesterday, is the author of a very incisive and instructive paper in last week's Journalist.

Mrs. David L. Thompson, of Rock View avenue, Washington Park, is back from Asbury Park where she has been sojourning for a month. She returns greatly benefited in health.

Mr. Alfred Compton of this city, is to be credited with the accomplishment, on Monday, of a feat that doesn't happen once a year. He caught a shad with hook and line below the dam at Bound Brook. This fish is always captured by the dragging of nets.

The Episcopalian Convention.

The annual convention of the Episcopal churches of this diocese opened in St. John's church at Elizabeth, yesterday. Clergymen and lay delegates to the number of several hundred, were present from all sections of Northern New Jersey. The sessions will conclude today. Bishop Scarborough presided.

The convention opened with devotional exercises, followed by a sermon by Rev. T. Logan Murphy of North Plainfield, after which there was a brief business session.

A Salutary Law.

New Jersey livery stable keepers are at last afforded some protection by the law against the abuse or destruction of their rigs by persons hiring the same. A law signed by the Governor recently provides that any one hiring any horse, mule, wagon or livery rig and overdriving or abusing the same or hiring the same by reason of any false pretense, deceit or fraud, shall upon conviction, be fined $200 or imprisonment one year or both.

Special Odd Fellows Session.

A special session of the Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., of New Jersey, will be held at Hoboken, to-morrow. Delegates from the Plainfield Lodge will attend.

THE FIREMEN'S CONVENTION.

Delegates Present From All Parts of the State—The Business Session Followed by a Collation.

The third annual Convention of the State Exempt Firemen's Association, convened in Firemen's Hall, this city today. About seventy-five delegates, representing the various Associations in the State, are in attendance, and a finer looking body of men has never before visited the city. The meeting was called to order by President R. M. Stites of Morristown.

The chair appointed Messrs Wm. Exall of Newark, A. Saltzman of Plainfield, and O. F. Lozier of Morristown, as a Committee on Credentials. After a recess of fifteen minutes the Committee reported the following delegates present:

Jersey City—F. B. Budden, Martin Rouse, F. T. Farrier, Thos. Leather, Thos. Mahoney.

Morristown—O. F. Lozier, Wm. Becker, Jr., Chas. McCollum, J. Brown, I. G. Arnold.

Newark—Wm. Exall, J. F. Henson, Wm. A. Schmidt, Horace H. Brown, Jas. McMonagle.

New Brunswick—J. N. Terrill, Dunham Way, Chas. Dodge, Wm. Hardy, John Lawrence.

Orange—A Persinette, W. J. Doherty, A. A. Robinson, Harry Rawnsley, Robt. F. Baxter.

Elizabeth—none.

Hoboken—none.

Rahway—Thos. A. Lee, Jno. Brown, Jno. A. Price, Wm. Jeffries, Russell Clark.

Newton—none.

Vineland—none.

Scotch Plains—H. L. Stites, Wm. D. Johnson.

Paterson—Jno. McKiernan, Jno. J. Spittel, Chas. M. King, Stewart Taylor, Geo. W. Pollett.

Plainfield—A. Saltzman, Thos. Carty, D. W. Littell, Jno. B. Gable, Jacob Kriney.

Trenton—Chas. W. Biles, E. S. Mitchell, Jno. A. McCrellish, H. S. Hammill, Louis R. Cooper.

Washington—Thos. Tayburn, Edward Vannetta, S. J. Burness, Chas. W. Christine, F. M. Slack.

Perth Amboy—W. C. Martin, R. H. Barnes.

As each of the delegates names were called, they advanced to the platform and received a handsome badge.

Mr. Alex. Titsworth of this city delivered the address of welcome to which the President responded in a few well chosen words, adding that "today we have pitched our tent in the land of milk and water."

The Secretary read the minutes of the last Convention and they were approved.

The treasurer reported these figures:

|---|---|
| On hand | $16.55 |
| Received during year | 60.00 |
| Expenditures | 35.99 |
| Balance on hand | $35.56 |

The report was approved by the Finance Committee and ordered spread upon the minutes in full.

Mr. C. W. Biles, Chairman of the Executive Committee, stated that the Committee had no special report to make. He said that most of the business during the year had been transacted by correspondence; Senate bill, No. 4, referring to the incorporation of Exempt Firemen's Associations, Mr. Biles said, seemed to meet the demands of the Associations throughout the State.

President R. M. Stites read the report of the State Statician. The document was an exhaustive one, and was very interesting. It dwelt on fire department matters in early days. The report was received and ordered printed in the Fireman's Herald and a vote of thanks was tendered to President Stites. There being no other committees to report the Convention proceeded to the election of officers. The following persons were re-elected;

President—Col. Richard M. Stites of Paterson.

Vice Presidents—J. N. Terrill of New Brunswick, Jno. M. McKiernan of Paterson.

Secretary—C. H. Green of Morristown,

Treasurer—Thos. Leather of Jersey City.

Statician—Col. R. M. Stites of Paterson.

The rules were suspended and Mr. Stites was re-elected by acclamation.

A recess of 15 minutes was taken so as to allow the delegates from each Congressional District an opportunity to decide upon their nominations for Executive Committee. Upon re-assembling the following were elected by acclamation:

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

Chas. W. Biles, Wm. H. Hardy, Thos. Tayburn, Joshua Brown, Wm. Exall, F. P. Budden.

STANDING COMMITTEE.

Jno. A. McCrellish, A. Saltzman, C. W. Christine, Jno. J. Spittel, A. Personette, Martin Rouse.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the officers of the Association for the faithful performance of their duties during the past year; also the President for his advocating Senate Bill No. 4. Mr. A. Saltzman read the bill.

The President and Secretary were instructed to take the necessary steps to have the State Association incorporated under the act.

A resolution was adopted making the constitution and by-laws and rules governing this Association govern the Association when incorporated, and the President and Secretary were appointed a Committee to procure a seal, and select a design for badges. Messrs Exall and Brown were added to the Committee.

Mr. Terrill offered a resolution, which prevailed, requesting the members to wear the badges presented to them today at the next meeting of their individual associations, to show the progress made by the State Association and also to show the beautiful mementoes awarded by the Plainfield Association.

Messrs Saltzman, Brown and Biles were appointed a Committee on Legislative matters.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the Plainfield Association for the courteous treatment given the delegates. It was decided to hold the next annual meeting at New Brunswick.

A resolution was adopted requesting the Legislative Committee to consider the advisability of the passage of a law making it the duty of Chief Engineers to keep a record of the fires, loses, insurance, etc., and report the same yearly to the Secretary of the State.

The assessment for the local associations was fixed at $5, and after some further discussion the Convention adjourned sine die.

A collation was provided for the delegates in the Republican Association rooms.

The Committee of Arrangements consisted of Alex. Titsworth, Ch'n; John B. Gable, J. A. Hubbard, D. W. Rogers, C. R. Hope.

A GOLDEN WEDDING.

Dr. and Mrs. George Gidney Surprised Upon the 50th Anniversary of Their Marriage.

A number of invited friends and neighbors of Dr. and Mrs. George Gidney, gathered at their home on East 5th street, last evening, and overwhelmed them with congratulations upon the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage day. The affair was arranged and most successfully carried out by Mrs. Sarah M. Runyon, the daughter of the aged couple, who resides with them. It was a complete surprise and a most pleasurable occasion throughout.

They received the large party in their parlor, with eyes full of tears and hearts full of joy at the sight of so many kind faces and the sound of so many good wishes. The figures "50" formed in apple blossoms stood on an easel, and there were also baskets and boquets in profusion.

The Rev. Mr. Schenck—Dr. and Mrs. Gidney's pastor—addressed them and those present in a very happy way. A beautiful prayer followed after which all sang "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." A number of golden presents were received, and there was also given a rich wedding cake. The couple whom the occasion honored, looked as young as some of the much younger guests, and seemed good for many returns of the day.

Dr. and Mrs. George Gidney were married, May 7, 1839, in the city of New York, by the Rev. Mr. Stelle, pastor of the Broome street M. E. church. The bride's name was Miss Sarah Clarkson, and both were then residents of New York. Of the six children born to them, three are now living—Eliza, the eldest, wife of the Rev. J. A. Griffes, living in Kansas; George, Jr., the well known veterinary surgeon at Elizabeth, and Mrs. Sarah M. Runyon. Seven grand children are living.

FIGHTING OVER THE WEALTH OF THE DEAD.

The Progress of the Latimer, Lee and DeBaud Will Contests in the Courts.

The ejectment suit of Ezra D. Hetfield et al, vs. John H. Jackson, executor and others, involving the question of the validity of the will of Frazee Lee and the title to all the real estate of which he died seized, came up before the Union County Circuit Court, yesterday. R. V. Lindabury, Esq., represented the plaintiffs, and ex-Chancellor Runyon and Messrs Jackson & Codington, the defendants. The case was postponed until the October term on the ground of the absence of two, and the illness of a third, material witnesses for the defence. It is supposed to be a point gained by the defendants that this case is put off until October as in the meantime a decision on the question of the will may be obtained in the Prerogative Court, from Chancellor McGill (without a jury), which decision would be prima facie proof of the validity of the will.

The Latimer contested will case has been set down for hearing before the Orphans' Court at Elizabeth, on Wednesday, May 29, inst. Ex-Chancellor Runyon, James R. English, Nelson Runyon and John H. VanWinkle represent the proponents, and Messrs Jackson & Codington and Clark & Reed, the caveators.

The DeBaud contested will case was referred to ex-Surrogate Gerber. The counsel in the case are Walter L. Hetfield and Nelson Runyon for the will, and Messrs Clark & Reed and Jackson & Codington for the contestant.

The following persons were appointed a committee to draft constitution and by-laws: Messrs W. R. Codington, S. E. Flower, J. Scott, Dr. H. H. Lowrie and W. A. Coddington.

LAID AT REST.

Funeral of Caroline Arens at Grace Church.

The display of flowers at the funeral services in Grace church, yesterday afternoon, over the remains of Caroline Arens, was the most superb, probably, that has ever been seen in this city. Every variety was present in great quantity and the most costly were the most profuse.

The attendance was large and included numbers of friends from out of town. Many of Mr. Arens' New York business acquaintances arrived on the 4:34 train, and evidenced their esteem and sympathy for the bereaved father and mother, by their presence at the last sad rites over the remains of their beloved daughter.

After an organ selection by Mrs. Freeman, the vested choir entered from the vestry and passing up the aisle, singing as they went, waited at the rear of the church for the arrival of the family and the hearse from the house.

Archdeacon Rodman met the funeral party at the church door, and led the procession to the altar. He was followed by the chanting choir that headed the pall-bearers carrying the elegant casket of white plush with massive silver mountings. It was loaded with beautiful flowers. The family followed.

During the progress of the Episcopal service for the burial of the dead, the choir chanted the anthem and sang other parts and responses. "Abide With Me," and "Hark, Hark My Soul," were also selections that they rendered.

The interment was subsequently made in Hillside Cemetery, where the services were private.

Mr. Ferdinand Fish of Plainfield.

A life-long resident of this city, who married the daughter of another prominent Plainfielder, is thus written of in yesterday's New York Star:

"I met Ferdinand Fish hurrying along Liberty street a day or two ago, and in the course of a brief conversation discovered that he is a pronounced bull on the values of downtown real estate, which he is thoroughly convinced will realize still higher figures in the future than those now prevailing.

"The career of Mr. Fish, who is a good-looking, well-built man, about 37 years of age, is an instance of what can be accomplished by unremitting attention, combined with intelligence and almost tireless adaptability for hard work. He succeeded, a little over six years ago, the late James M. Taylor, who had transacted what is termed a conservative business, from which he derived a fair income, as a representative and manager of estates.

"Under the auspices of Mr. Taylor's successor the business of the office has increased to such an extent that it has become one of the most extensive in the city, and few names are as well known or as popular in real estate circles as that of Ferdinand Fish. The same name is also familiar to the public as that of president of several successful corporations connected with building and land improvements."

The Westervelt Avenue Improvement.

It is stated that the reason certain Borough Councilmen advocated macadamizing a portion of Westervelt avenue, at the Council meeting on Friday night, was because the property owners agreed to pay fifty per cent. of the cost. This is said to be the most favorable proposition made by property owners, for similar improvements, since the borough was incorporated.

The section of Westervelt avenue, which was ordered macadamized at the last meeting, is between Jackson and Grand View avenues, and not "Jackson and Westervelt" avenues, as the types made us say, inadvertently, on Saturday. This portion of the thoroughfare, is, perhaps, more in need of repair than the remainder of the driveway; hence the Council's action.

An Incipient Strike.

"Plainfield tinsmiths demand nine hours and $2.50 a day," said a Newark paper, Sunday. That was true, to a certain extent.

The tinsmiths of this city have raised no question of wages yet, but they did recently demand the reduction of a day's labor to nine hours. This was acceded to by A. M. Griffen, but in the case of other shops, it is said, the striking men were allowed to go and find work elsewhere.

The Festival Cometh.

The W. C. T. U. meetings increase in interest and enthusiasm. At their regular business meeting, yesterday, they decided to hold a noon prayer meeting which will commence next Monday. Everyone will be welcome.

They will have an iced cream and strawberry festival in their rooms at an early date.

Robert Collyer.

A series of sermons by Unitarian clergymen will be given in this city. The first will be preached by Rev. Robert Collyer the famous pulpit orator, in the Seventh Day Baptist church, next Sunday evening. The public is invited to be present. The services will begin at 7:45 o'clock.

Public Library.

No books will be delivered on Thursday and Friday, May 9, and 10, owing to the annual examination of the books. All books falling due on either of these days must be returned today.

NORTH PLAINFIELD SCHOOL MEETING.

The Suggestions and Recommendations of the Board of Trustees Overwhelmingly Defeated—What is to be Done to Accommodate North Plainfield's School Children?

The legal voters in School District, No. 38, turned out in large numbers last evening, to attend the special school meeting held in the public school building in North Plainfield. The object of the meeting was to vote for or against an extra appropriation of $20,000 to be devoted to the erection and furnishing of a new school building. It is a well established fact that the present school building is inadequate to accommodate the pupils, and some weeks ago the trustees called a special meeting to consider the matter of erecting a new school house.

Dr. H. K. Carroll called the meeting to order, last evening, and Mr. S. St. J. McCutchen was elected Chairman, and Mr. Geo. F. Brown was chosen Secretary. The Secretary read the call and also the minutes of the special meeting of April 23.

Dr. Carroll on behalf of the Board of Trustees, submitted two resolutions, the first authorizing the Board of Trustees to expend $20,000 for school purposes—$16,000 for the erection of a building, outhouses and fences, and $4,000 for heating, furnishing, etc.

The second resolution provided for the issue of bonds of $500 denomination, to draw interest at not more than 4½ per cent. payable half yearly, said bonds to be numbered from one to forty respectively and to mature yearly in sums ranging from $500 to $2500, the last bond to fall due in 1909. The resolution further provided that a tax shall be levied each year to pay the bonds falling due and also the interest on the remaining bonds.

Considerable discussion followed on the matter of the form of ballot to be used in voting for or against the extra appropriation, but the following form prepared by the trustees was adopted: "For the resolution appropriating $20,000," and "Against the resolution appropriating $20,000."

The chair named Messrs H. R. Munger and James K. Arnold as tellers, and the vote resulted as follows:

|---|---|
| Total number of votes cast | 194 |
| For the appropriation | 48 |
| Against the appropriation | 146 |

Thus it will be seen that the resolution was defeated by 98 votes.

They Make an Exception for Plainfield's Sake.

The Union County Board of Freeholders, after a protracted meeting yesterday afternoon, resolved to make no change in the list of county roads to be improved, with the exception of adding a cross-country highway from Springfield to Fanwood.

This is the strip THE PRESS spoke of last week as connecting Plainfield's macadamized roads with those of Orange and the towns in its vicinity. A petition signed by Mayor Male, the Council and a number of our citizens was presented the Board asking for the improvement of the piece of road designated above.

President Dumont of the Council is to be credited with the recognition of the need of the road and the creation of the petition for which Director Hubbard and Freeholder Vanderbeek succeeded in securing the favorable action of the Board.

Both Legs Cut Off and Death Follows.

Fireman John Hummer, a faithful employee of the Central railroad, had both legs cut off, one above and one below the knee, in a collision at Dover, yesterday afternoon. He died at his home at Hampton Junction at ten o'clock this morning. He was about 40 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children.

The trouble occurred because a local freight train, engine No. 193, and the Port Oram drill engine, No. 70, met on the single track at Port Oram. An investigation will be necessary to prove who was to blame. It is reported that the entire crew of the drill engine escaped.

Engineer Wolverton of the freight, jumped into the canal along side of the track in time to save himself; but his fireman, Hummer, was caught and mangled as stated above. A brakeman on the same train, was slightly injured.

Will Not Accept Pay Like Petit Jurors.

The opening of the May term of Court occurred at Elizabeth yesterday. The grand jurors from this city were as stated exclusively in THE PRESS on Monday—Gen. Wm. H. Sterling, B. Frank Coriell and David Hand. Mr. Elias R. Pope was appointed foreman.

Under the new law these jurors are to receive $2 per day compensation, and the Board of Freeholders recently resolved not to pay for the dinners as was the practice when grand jurors were not remunerated for their services. But upon organization, this body of jurors unanimously resolved not to accept the fee.

Adjourned on a Bid of $6,100.

The sale of the property of E. Cane at Clinton avenue and Fourth street, yesterday afternoon, was adjourned until the 23d, on a bid of $6,100 by J. F. Phillips, of New York.

The understanding was that such bid would stand until the date of adjournment. The farm stock, tools, and implements will also be sold on the 23d, and the furniture on the following day.

—The Young Crescents of this city, will play the Stars of Dunellen on the ball grounds of the latter, Saturday morning next, at 9:30 o'clock.

Mr. Parnell Makes a Retraction in Open Court.

HE CORRECTS HIS EVIDENCE

The Irish Leader Surprises Sir Richard Webster, the Attorney-General.

He Says He Did Not Intentionally Mislead the House of Commons—The Tories Strongly Deprecate the Orange Colonizing Scheme Proposed by Commoner Thomas Russell—The Kaiser Inspects His Fleet—Late Foreign News.

LONDON, May 8.—When Mr. Parnell appeared yesterday in the Parnell Commission he surprised the court by stating that he wished to make a correction in the testimony he had given last Friday, when he stated that he had intentionally misled the House of Commons in regard to secret societies in Ireland.

Mr. Parnell said that upon referring to Hansard's report of the House of Commons speech in question, he found that the remarks which Sir Richard Webster quoted on Friday referred particularly to ribbonism and ribbon societies, and not to secret conspirators generally. "Wherefore" said Mr. Parnell, "the statement I made in the House of Commons was fairly accurate. The facts are that ribbonism practically did not exist at that time."

This statement caused quite a sensation in Court.

Mr. Parnell said that he had never heard that one hundred guineas had been paid for the defence of Moonlighters at the Cork Assizes in 1881. If he had been asked to make such payments, the witness said that in those days he should have approved of doing so for the defence of the men, if he had reason to believe that the law was being strained against a man. The general rule, however, was to limit such payments as far as possible.

He remembered one case where such payment of money was sanctioned the man was acquitted. In another case the witness remembered Mr. Harris, who made himself responsible for the defence of the prisoner. At the same time he instructed Mr. Harris not to undertake like defences in the future.

Mr. Parnell said that he had sometimes paid out money from his own private account in behalf of the League. He had no objection whatsoever to an inspection of his private accounts. In answer to a question regarding the physical force advocates Mr. Parnell said the majority of the physical force party were utter straugers to him. He had never heard that Mr. Egan had joined the Clan-na-Gael, and would regret exceedingly to find that gentleman rejoining the ranks of the physical forcers.

Mr. Parnell said he could not accept the reports of his American speeches published in the Irish World as in any degree accurate. Mr. Ford, the editor of that paper, garbled speeches to suit the taste of the readers of the World. He declared that any member of the League who should advocate the use of dynamite would be a traitor.

LATE NEWS FROM ABROAD.

The Tories Strongly Deprecate the Orange Colonizing Scheme.

LONDON, May 8.—The Government is strong and earnest in deprecation of Commoner Thomas W. Russell's Orange colonizing scheme, chiefly it is inferred in view of the enormous expense involved in its operation. The opponents of the scheme assert that each colonist would require a constable, at a cost of £100 a year, to protect him and declare that the increased expenses of the Government arising from the necessity of augmented defence, etc., requiring additional taxation to meet them, have already imposed upon the taxpayers as much of a burden as they are disposed to carry without open revolt.

Mr. Russell's scheme for settling the Olphert disputes is also offensive to the landlords and tenants alike and is regarded as impolitic by the bulk of the supporters of the Ministry.

Both schemes embody well developed germs of a Parliamentary row, and if pressed will result in placing the Irish question in the House in a worse position than it has occupied in several years.

RIDICULOUS PRECAUTIONS.

Much comment has been excited by the ridiculous precautions taken by the Government to prevent the escape of William O'Brien and Edward Harrington while crossing the Irish channel from Kingstown to Holyhead.

Four policemen slept outside the cabin door in such positions as to prevent the exit of any one from the cabin without their being aroused, and frequent examinations of the interior of the cabin were made to assure the burly constables that their weak and emaciated prisoners were still on the inside.

Upon arriving at Holyhead Mr. Harrington, who had insisted upon wearing his prison garb to London, yielded to the advice of his counsel and resumed his ordinary attire.

THE KAISER INSPECTS HIS FLEET.

Emperor William yesterday boarded the yacht Irene at Kiel, and from her deck he inspected the fleet in that harbor. Sixteen men-of-war comprised the fleet and made a magnificent show. In the evening the war vessels and the entire town were brilliantly illuminated in honor of the Kaiser.

THE NEW AUSTRIAN TORPEDO-BOATS.

A full complement of Austrian naval officers and seamen have arrived at the seaport of Elbing, West Prussia, to receive and man four new torpedo-boats built for the Austrian government and take them to the Adriatic.

TRIAL OF BELGIAN SOCIALISTS.

The trial of a number of prominent Socialists implicated in the recent disturbances in connection with the Belgian strikes began at Mons yesterday. Twenty of the accused men were arrigned in court and the Chief Prosecutor announced that ten others against whom warrants had been issued had fled the country.

The proceedings showed that the Government in endeavoring to make cases against the prisoners had resorted to free use of agents a provocateur, and it was also shown that one of the prisoners, Laloi, was a Government spy.

IN HONOR OF HIS FATHER-IN-LAW.

Mr. Joseph Chamberlain will give a grand dinner party to his father-in-law, ex-Secretary Endicott, who is now his guest, on Saturday. Several notable Englishmen and Americans have been invited.

THE GOVERNOR'S VETO.

Governor Beaver Checks the Progress of Several Appropriation Bills.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 8.—The House was kept busy several hours yesterday passing upon bills returned by the Governor without his approval. Most of them were appropriation bills and included the following: For an appropriation to the Home for our Merciful Saviour, of Philadelphia; to enable the Pennsylvanian Reserve Corps commands to combine their appropriations to erect a memorial building on the Gettysburg battlefield of Gettysburg, and making an additional appropriation for the same; for an appropriation for the Pennsylvania Society to Protect Children from Cruelty; an appropriation for the Allegheny Society for the Protection of Children from Cruelty; also, to pay the claim of Peter McKee and to the Pittsburg Free Dispensary.

The Governor insists in his message that the appropriations as they stand will exceed the receipts for the two coming years, and the bills need paring. He objects to the Gettysburg memorial tablet appropriation because the suspension of the erection of the building is placed in the hands of an independent association not responsible to the executive department of the State.

The Governor also vetoed the bill to allow the Free Quakers of Philadelphia to sell their burial lots on South Fifth street, and use the proceeds for Free Quaker charities.

When the veto of an appropriation for the Home for Aged Colored Women was reached Dr. Walk made a protest against this assumption by the Executive of legislative authorship. He said that these bills had been carefully considered. The House owed it to its own self-respect to pass these bills notwithstanding the Governor's veto. The House, however, refused to pass any of the bills over his veto.

The appropriations for the Old Ladies' Home of Philadelphia and the Union Home for Old Ladies were also vetoed and the House sustained the veto.

The total amount cut out by these vetoes aggregates $61,000.

IN THE SENATE.

Mr. Cooper, in the Senate, made a motion that the vote by which the Fow Liquor License Transfer bill was killed last Friday be reconsidered. Mr. Packer said he was against the bill and therefore against reconsideration. Mr. Cooper said he hoped the Senate would indulge this measure. It was one of high importance and should not be killed in this way. The object of reconsideration was to correct one objectionable feature, that of compelling saloonkeepers to pay constables for their monthly visit and to right a typographical error, the result of a mistake by the printer or of collusion with him. He should be allowed to set himself right before the people, as he was regarded as the father of these features, when really he had no knowledge of them.

Senator Green favored the amendments, but opposed Section 6 of the bill, limiting the number of saloons to one in five hundred population.

Mr. Ross opposed any bill which would limit the discretion of the Judges. It would be regarded as the intent of the Legislature that one license should be granted to every five hundred persons.

The Senate agreed to reconsider the vote, and Mr. Cooper inserted his amendment.

The Quigley bill, relating to the revocation of liquor licenses, came up on second reading in the Senate. A motion was made by Mr. Woods to strike out the last section of the bill which provides that the saloonkeeper shall be furnished with the particulars of the charges against him. The motion was lost.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 8.—In the Assembly yesterday, Mr. Crosby called up the motion to concur in the Senate amendments to the Excise Commission bill as amended. The call of the House was ordered. Several absentees were brought in and excused. Mr. Crosby then explained the amendments saying that all them were verbal and unimportant, except two. One of these was the permits for sale by manufacturers in no license towns, in amounts of five gallons or over to persons non-resident in the town.

Mr. Sheehan then moved to non-concur in the amendments, to appoint a Conference Committee and ask the Senate to do likewise. Mr. Saxton urged that the majority support the bill as it is. After considerable argument, pro and con, in which Messrs. Fish, Blumenthal, Sullivan, Greene and others took part, the Senate amendments were concurred in 67 to 49.

IN THE SENATE.

In the Senate, the Rhodes Anti-Bucket Shop bill was placed in the order of third reading.

Mr. Fassett's prison bill was ordered to third reading and made a special order for to-morrow.

Mr. Walker moved to recommit the bill granting rights at Niagara Falls to an electric power company.

Mr. Raines said the bill provided that the machinery be kept out of sight, under the Falls, and there would be no disfigurement of scenery.

Mr. Langbein also favored the bill, but Mr. Walker's motion was carried, 19 to 11.

The Senate Committee on Commerce and Navigation has agreed to report favorably Mr. Grout's bill authorizing the construction by the Standard Oil company of a bulkhead on the Long Island City water front.

A Big Baby.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 8.—Howard Menzie, a reputable resident of this city, by occupation an engineer, has returned from Athens, Pa., where his sister, Mrs. S. H. Hall, died in child birth. Menzie makes the astounding statement that the child weighed thirty-one pounds and two ounces. Mrs. Hall was a woman of medium height, very stout and weighed something over 200 pounds. She leaves three children, the youngest being two and a half years old. This child, Menzie says, weighed fifteen pounds at birth. Four doctors were in attendance on Mrs. Hall. They all say her child was larger than any they have ever known. Mrs. Hall's home previous to her marriage was in Auburn, N. Y., where she will be buried.

The Plaintiff Wins.

BOSTON, May 8.—Judge Nelson in the United States District Court to-day in the Maritime libel suit of Mayer-Goldsmith vs. steamship Caledonia gave a decree for the plaintiff for $7,850 and costs. This was an action to recover $12,000 damages for loss sustained in the shipment of 276 head of cattle by the defendant's steamship to England, 1885. During the voyage the Caledonia became disabled and owing to the refusal of the captain to take assistance from passing steamers, the voyage was greatly prolonged and the cattle suffered in consequence.

The United Brethren Church.

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., May 8.—The Board of Missions of the United Brethren church met here yesterday, Bishop Weaver, of Dayton, O., presiding. Rev. C. Stearn, of Baltimore, was elected secretary. Reports showing a satisfactory condition of the church were presented.

BE STILL, AND WAIT.

Be still, and wait,
And bear thy fate—
If thou art poor or desolate—
As patiently
As it may be,
Till better fortune comes to thee.

Though black the night,
No star in sight,
There surely comes the morning light;
So o'er thy sky
Of midnight dye
The sun will shine out by and by.

Be still, and wait,
Nor frown at fate,
Be thy misfortunes small or great;
For thou shouldst know
That joy and woe
Have, like the tides, their ebb and flow.

The fret and strain
Of heart and brain
Increase the gloom, augment the pain;
But hours of calm—
Like hallowed psalm—
To aching wounds will furnish balm.

Though many a bliss
Thou'rt doomed to miss
In such a changing world as this,
Thy fears abate;
Be still, and wait,
For joy will find thee—soon or late.
—Josephine Pollard, in N. Y. Ledger.

UNEQUAL PARTNERSHIP.

What Happened to the Firm of Huntington & Wife.

Never dawned a brighter morning than that which ushered in Ray Huntington's wedding day. Never throbbed a happier heart than that of the fair girl who, forsaking home and friends, vowed to love, honor and obey him, "until death do us part."

"She was the belle of the village, and ought to have had her choice among us all," explained Carl Trenton, who, every body knew, had been refused by the bride at least a dozen times.

"He is so handsome—and rich, too, they say. Really, Nell Alden has done remarkably well," said more than one envious maiden.

Ray Huntington, although he was not a rich man, was advancing rapidly on the road to wealth. As he was a lawyer in a distant city, the wedded pair at once went to the home which he had provided there, a modest cottage in the suburbs, very plainly furnished, but as beautiful as a palace in the eyes of the loving bride.

"We shall be away from the disagreeable noise and bustle, dearest," said Ray, uneasily. "I can lunch at Roger & Allen's, and be home for an early tea, except, perhaps, in very busy seasons. Besides, I get this place at a bargain—it costs dreadfully to rent—and we must really economize in every way possible. We must creep before we can walk, Nellie."

"I am sure every thing is as nice as it can be," said the wife. "It is much better than being right in the city. I am sure that I should be crazy in a week, there."

"I don't doubt it," returned the relieved husband. "But you will not be bothered here at all. I will attend to the marketing each day as I go to town, and we will have a quiet home of our own."

That was the beginning.

Ray Huntington's boasted creed was that marriage was simply a partnership of two congenial souls—a blending of two natures into a perfect whole, whose thoughts, whose aims, whose energies were one. That was all very well, if our legal gentleman had only lived up to his professed belief. But, like many others, he professed one thing and lived another. While he often declared that a man and his wife were one, his daily life added most emphatically: "And the man is that one."

Pretty, loyal Nellie was not long in discovering the fact, and, although grieved that her exalted idol proved to be but common clay, after all, she made the best of life as she found it, and succeeded in eking out the scanty allowance, which was grudgingly given, to an extent which surprised and delighted him.

"It isn't every man has a wife like mine," he often said confidentially to a friend, but never a word of praise to the toiling wife herself.

What wonder that the roses in her cheeks gave place to colorless lilies, and "crow's feet" multiplied in the fair face, as added claims taxed her strength and economy. Tiny feet pattered here and there, baby voices made the sweetest of all music to her mother heart, and added numbers brought added labor to the patient, mother hands.

Ray Huntington was recognized by the world (by his world, in which his care-worn wife had no part) as a successful man. He attended his clubs, and dressed in a manner befitting his station, while his wife wore shabby calico.

"Because I must, my dear, you do not understand," he explained, when she gently chided him for some extravagant outlay. "It is quite necessary that one in my position should do so. I heard it hinted that I was to be run for mayor next year. Think of that, my dear."

And the uncomplaining woman did think of the proposed honor—thought of it with added dread, as she toiled in the kitchen, with no help except an ignorant Swede girl, an emigrant, whose chief recommendation was her patient love for the little ones.

Once she ventured to suggest an allowance for family use, as the busy lawyer often forgot to order the necessary articles, but she was met with indignant surprise.

"Women know nothing about spending money, Nellie, I am surprised! I will attend to it. What! Gretchen wants more money? Wasn't it last week that I gave you two dollars for her?"

"Yes, but she has been here four weeks. We owe her five dollars now," Nellie began with crimson face, and went on desperately: "Mother wrote that she is going to visit us next month. She has never been here—has never seen our children. Charlie must have new shoes and clothes. Baby needs new flannels, and—this is the best dress I have in the world. You wouldn't want me to feel ashamed to welcome my own dear mother, Ray?"

"How much money do you want?" he asked, frigidly.

"Fifty dollars at least to make us comfortable and respectable," she replied, with painful hesitation.

"Fifty dollars! I am not made of money," he exclaimed, even while his faithful conscience reminded him that he had paid more than that sum for a club dinner, the week before, and paid it with a willing smile. "Here, this must do," and he counted four five-dollar bills into her hand.

With one startled, indignant glance, the wife's hand shut convulsively over the money, and she left the room hastily.

"She will make that do," muttered her husband, uneasily, watching her. "Next time I will give her more, and I really think I will call at Blankton's and order one of those new silks sent up."

The silk came, and Nellie smiled bitterly, as she laid it in the darkest corner of her bureau drawer. Charlie rejoiced in new clothes and real "boy's boots," baby wore new, soft, warm flannels, Gretchen was paid, but there was nothing left to replenish the mother's wardrobe.

Alas! it seemed as if it was never to need it.

One evening Ray Huntington returned to find his well-ordered house in confusion. Baby had cried herself to sleep, and was still sobbing pitifully, while Charlie was crying softly by the chamber door, where Gretchen was vainly trying to quiet the fever-stricken wife and mother.

"Oh, papa, will my boo'ful mamma die? Say, papa, will she die?" wailed Charlie, creeping timidly to his father's side.

Gretchen looked up hopefully as he entered.

"I will do it in a moment, Ray," cried Nellie, with crimson cheeks and strangely bright eyes. "I only stopped to rest for a moment, my—my head feels so queerly, but I will get your tea at once."

"Lie still, dearest," he said, more gently than he had spoken for many months. "Gretchen, take this note to Dr. Davis, and call as you come back to ask Mrs. Hall if she will run in a few moments."

Dr. Davis came, a gray-haired man, who had read many of this world's lessons aright.

"Overwork, my dear sir. System completely run down. I have noticed it. No help but that raw Swede girl—willing enough, but not capable, sir. Men don't know the value of good wives until they lose them," said the old man, bluntly.

"You don't think—she—my wife—Nellie will not die!" cried the startled lawyer.

"Perhaps not—hope not. But she is worked down, and the worst of it is, she will carry all her worry and trouble with her through her delirium. What is that about partnership, Huntington? I have heard you define marriage, often enough. How have you used this partner of yours? Have you shared the profits honestly? I'd like to have you compare accounts, you will have time enough before your wife gets up again. I suppose she has a mother. Send for her at once. Yes, yes, I'll be round in the morning, but more depends upon loving care than upon me; mind, I said loving care. Good night, sir."

In the weary, almost hopeless time of anxious waiting, Ray Huntington learned a new meaning of his favorite creed. In her delirium Nellie told him many things which she would never have mentioned in her rational moments.

At last there came a day when the little cottage was as silent as death; when the dread angel hovered on the threshold, then passed mercifully by; when a human flower bloomed but to perish, and a tiny life went out with its first glimpse of earth.

"Yes, she will live," said good Dr. Davis, suspiciously wiping his glasses with unusual energy. "You have learned your lesson easier than many men do, Huntington, for you will have your wife again. If you love her, cherish her. That's the word, cherish her, man. Make her happy. She is your partner in life. She has common sense, I suppose! Well, then, allow her her share of the profits. Never let her be ashamed of her husband's meanness. I am a blunt old man, sir, but I mean well. I have seen so much of this one-sided partnership business among married people, that I have no patience left. Your wife has just as much right to her share of your income as you have to yours. I hope you're not offended, but I'm glad I've had the courage to give you something to think about. Keep up the loving care, Huntington, and your wife will be around in a month."

That month was one of pleasure and sorrow to the repentant husband, but he had resolved upon a new course of action, and as they sat at the table on New Year's eve, he said, tenderly: "It was kind of the mother to leave us to begin the new year together, Nellie; it shall be the beginning of a new life for us. Henceforth my 'partner' is an equal with myself. The household is your branch of the business, I will see that you have sufficient funds to cover all the expenses in a creditable way. My wife shall never again feel ashamed because of my stinginess."

"It was never that," Nellie protested, loyally.

"Perhaps you were not sensible of it, but the feeling was there just the same," replied her husband, firmly. "It shall never happen again. To-morrow the firm of Huntington & Wife begins anew, and on a different basis. I will cherish my family, hereafter."

Not to Be Read by Smokers.

Dr. Lyman reports through the New York Medical Journal some very accurate investigations concerning the use of tobacco. In an observation of thirty-eight boys of all classes of society and of average health, who had been using tobacco for from two months to two years, twenty-seven showed serious injury to the constitution and checked physical development. Thirty-two showed damage done to the heart's action, disordered digestion and a craving for alcohol. Thirteen had intermittency of the pulse and one had consumption. After the abandonment of tobacco, within six months one-half were free from all the above symptoms and the remainder were cured by the end of the year. The Maoris are given as an instance of the evil resulting from tobacco. This race was, when first discovered, the finest developed of any tribe on the Pacific. It is now decimated in numbers and degenerate in type. This is said to be owing to their inordinate fondness for tobacco.

How Lace Is Washed.

The washers of nice lace form a class of expert labor quite by themselves, and few people have any idea of the amount of labor involved in the cleansing operation, and of the skill and knowledge required. This labor, of course, comes in chiefly in the drying, for the washing is but a simple thing in comparison. A table is cushioned and covered closely with a spotless cloth, and on this the lace is stretched with an intricate care that is amazing; through every mesh a pin is placed to hold it in place, and the whole tracery of the pattern is thus pricked out till every leaf and spray and sprig is firmly fastened so that it can not shrivel or contract, a whole day being sometimes used up in preparing a single yard of the lace, so that when dry it is lifted off soft and perfect and unimpaired in the design.

A Counting Contrivance.

Some genius has just made a most elaborate affair specially designed to facilitate the tallying of tabulated statistics. His method consists essentially in first recording the data relating to each person by punching holes in the sheets or strips of electrically non-conducting material (paper) and then counting or tallying these data, either separately or in combination, by means of mechanical counters operated by electro magnets, the circuits through which are controlled by the perforated cards or strips.

A Morocco Alarm Clock.

Mail carriers in Morocco are said to avoid risk of losing their places by oversleeping by tying a string to one foot and setting the end of it on fire before they go to sleep. The string, they know from experience, will burn so long, and when the fire reaches their foot it is time for them to get up.

No Cancer Among the Jews.

An Albany physician says he has never known a case of cancer among the Hebrews, and thinks their exemption from the disease is due to abstinence from pork.

New Jersey's Homœopaths.

TRENTON, N. J., May 8.—The State Homœopathic society, in convention here yesterday, condemned the bills pending in various legislatures which aim to establish State Boards to grant medical licenses. The homœopaths assert that the boards, being composed mainly of allopaths, will refuse to license physicians whose views do not accord with those of the old school.

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WHERE:

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

A Dispute Over Appointments in the Census Bureau.

A QUESTION OF CIVIL SERVICE.

An Appeal Will Be Made to President Harrison for a Decision.

Secretary Windom Hears Arguments Regarding the Assessment of Duty on Canadian Railway Cars — Complaints Against an Oklahoma Town Site Company—A Connecticut Man Placed in the Census Office—Washington Jottings.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—It is expected that the President will soon be called upon to decide a dispute, the foundation of which is already laid, between the Interior department and the Civil Service commission.

Assistant Attorney Shields of the Interior department has decided that appointments in the Census bureau are not under Civil Service rules, basing his decision on the law reviving the Census bureau, which says; "All examinations for appointment or promotion under this act shall be under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior."

The Civil Service board, it is said, will appeal from this decision to the President, and make a strong effort to have the patronage of this important bureau placed under its control.

The Census bureau will give employment to 1,500 clerks for two years, and to as many more for shorter periods, to say nothing of local superintendents and enumerators.

Secretary Windom and Assistant Secretary Tichenor heard arguments yesterday in favor of the continuance of the custom of non-assessment of duty on railway cars coming from Canada to the United States. The Canadian and United States roads were represented by Digby Bell, ex-Collector at Detroit; Benjamin Hazler, ex-Collector at Suspension Bride; Mr. Russell, attorney for the Canadian Southern Pacific railroad company; W. R. Bates, formerly Special Agent for the Treasury Department, and ex-Representative Spalding, of Michigan.

Several months ago the present Collector of Customs at Port Huron, suspended the rule relating to the non-assessment of Canadian railroad cars, which had been in force for twenty years, and issued an order making them dutiable. The Treasury department confirmed the order, but afterwards suspended it until the representatives of the different roads could be heard. The attorneys for the Canadian companies protested that the rule had been too long in operation to be disturbed.

Special Inspector Pickler, at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, telegraphs Secretary Noble as follows: "There is great complaint here against the Seminole Town Site company on account of its charging $10 for the registry of lots here, of which W. W. Whitter and others telegraphed you yesterday. I am just informed that the same company has been selling lots to settlers at Edmonds at auction as high as fifty dollars. I will investigate."

Commissioner Stockslager, by direction of the Secretary, immediately telegraphed as follows to Inspector Pickler: "Sales of town lots by town site companies or other private individuals or organizations are worthless under the law, and the people should be so informed."

George B. Crittenden, of Connecticut, has been appointed Chief of Division in the Census office at a salary of $2,000 per annum, and Henry C. Gordon, of Indiana, special agent of the Land office at a salary of $1,500 per annum.

First Assistant Postmaster-General Clarkson, who has been on a visit to friends in Kentucky, has returned to Washington and was at his desk in the department today.

American Delegates Dined.

BERIN, May 9.—The American delegates to the Samoan Conference were entertained at dinner at the Kaiserhof last evening. Eighteen persons were present. Mr. Kasson was seated midway between the ends of the table, having at his right Count Herbert Bismarck and Messrs. Coleman, Beauclerk and Gerrisch, and at his left Sir Edward Malet, Lieutenant Buckingham and Messrs. Arendt and Parker. Mr. Phelps sat directly opposite Mr. Kasson, with Messrs. Scott, Bates, Richthofen and Sewell at his right and Messrs. Krauel, Rowe, Stemrich and Crosby at his left.

She Has Disappeared.

OXFORD, Pa., May 9.—Mrs. Annie C. Ingram, wife of Alexander H. Ingram, a well known farmer of Lower Oxford township, disappeared from her home. Mrs. Ingram, who has been an inmate of the State Hospital at Norristown, was out on a leave of absense from that institution. It is feared that she has committed suicide. All search for her whereabouts has been without discovery. Mrs. Ingram is about 40 years of age, large size, and was dressed in black silk when last seen.

Murder in a Brick Yard.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—James Warren was shot and instantly killed yesterday afternoon by Pompey Small, a colored laborer in McDernin's brick yard, Lime Kiln pike, below Haines street, Germantown. Small made an attempt to escape, but was caught by the Fourteenth district police, and is now in the Germantown police station awaiting a hearing.

Wrecked Sailors Brought to Port.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 9.—The steamer St. Pierre, from St. Pierre, Miquelon, brings Captain Dixon and fourteen men of the schooner Alice Louise of Barrington, Mass., wrecked in Fortune Bay, and the captain and two men of the schooner Zelia of Quebec, which sank off St. Pierre, during a voyage from St. Pierre to Sydney, C. B.

CHRISTIAN YOUNG MEN.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 9.—The twenty-eighth international convention of the Young Men's Christian Association was opened in Association Hall yesterday, by Gen. O. O. Howard, of New York, the vice-president of the last convention, in the presence of the most prominent laymen of the evangelical churches, not only of the United States and Canada, but of England, Germany, Sweden, Switzerland and other countries.

There were a thousand delegates Among those present from foreign countries were: Mr. H. Hodder, of London; Baron Von Starck, of Berlin; Karl Fries, Stockholm; E. Hoffer, Secretary of the Zurich Association; Robert Burns, Secretary of the Aldersgate branch of the London Association; Robert McCann, National Secretary for Ireland; Viscount Michima, a Japanese nobleman of Tokio, and John T. Swift, Secretary of the Association which is doing in Japan the same work that Secretary McConaughry is to do in India.

President F. W. Kennedy delivered the address of welcome to the visiting delegates. The other speakers of the day were Elbert B. Monroe, of New York; John T. Swift, of Tokio, who discussed the obligations of American young men to their brethren in foreign lands; W. A. Hunton, of Norfolk, Va., who spoke on the work among young colored men.

Last evening there was a reception of delegates and their hosts at the Academy of the Fine Arts. Saturday evening a reception will be held at the Academy of Music where Governor Beaver is to deliver an address to the convention.

Fighting the Companies.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 9.—The joint executive board of the Knights of Labor of Luzerne county are aiding the miners and laborers of the Anthracite regions in a final effort to resist the alleged encroachments of the big coal companies. Public meetings will be called and an effort made to bring the agents of the companies before the courts on a criminal charge, to the effect that the companies last year overcharged the men for powder to the total extent of $2,275,840. The circular that has been issued declares that labor is starving; that the men here have averaged only five days' work for the past four months; that credit is refused them everywhere and that nine out of ten families cannot get meat at all, and find it very hard to get bread.

A Striker Shot.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 9.—John Galloway, shipping clerk for the Bessemer Steel company, and Wm. Dunn, one of the men now on a strike, were on a passenger train last evening from Duquesne to Homestead. A quarrel ensued over Dunn calling Galloway a black sheep, when Galloway shot Dunn twice. One shot entered his breast and may prove fatal. A large crowd gathered at Homestead and it was feared violence would be done Galloway, but his friends got him away, and he is now in jail in this city.

Fierce Forest Fires.

CUSTER CITY, May 9.—A fierce forest fire has been raging about the Moody Tract, five miles south of here all day. Everybody is engaged in fighting the flames, but at latest accounts the fire was unchecked. The Moody Tract is one of the most valuable oil properties in McKean county, and a large number of rigs and small tanks of oil are undoubtedly destroyed. Telegraphic communication with the scene of the fire has been broken.

Notification to Glass-Blowers.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 8.—Thomas Wightman, of this city, President of the Green Glass and Bottle Manufacturers' Association, has written a letter to Master Workman Arrington, of the Knights of Labor Glass-Blowers' Assembly, notifying him that the workmen must prepare to accept a material reduction in wages for the next blast, which will begin on September 1. Glass-blowers say the cut will be resisted.

The Collegians Won.

BOSTON, May 9.—The race between the Harvard 'Varsity Union Boat club and Boston Athletic club, eight-oared crews, was rowed on Charles river yesterday afternoon and was won by the Harvard crew by two and one-half lengths, in 9 minutes and 43 seconds. The Athletic crew made a fairly good race, finishing second three lengths ahead of the Unions.

An Electric Expert Injured.

BANGOR, Me., May 9.—William Brennan, one of the experts of the Thompson-Houston Electric company while at work taking up the sclack of the overhead wire of the Electric street railway was struck by the cable and knocked from the high cart and fell on his head. It is not thought that he can recover. His home is in Connecticut.

A Bank Treasurer Asked to Resign.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., May 9.—Barton Ricketson, Jr., treasurer of the Five Cent Savings Bank has been asked to resign, discrepancies amounting to $1,500 having been found in his accounts. He has held his office since 1861. He lives at Darmouth, where he carries on fancy farming.

Smith Gives In.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The fight over the Commissionership of Public Works came to a sudden end yesterday by unconditional surrender of the office by the present incumbent, D. Lowber Smith, to Thomas F. Gilroy, Mayor Grant's appointee.

Children Eat Poison.

WATERTOWN, Mass., May 9.—Two children of David Hill, a boy aged 4 and a girl aged 2 years, ate some arsenic and sugar which they found in a field and are in a critical condition. The mixture was intended to kill potato bugs. The children belong to a family of nine, who are destitute, the father having deserted them.

Expelled from Rutgers.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 9.—J. N. Holly, of New York, has been expelled from Rutgers college by the Faculty for cheating in examinations. He confessed. He stood high and was to have been graduated in June.

ON THE BALL FIELD

New York's Giants Are on the Down Grade.

FOURTH IN THE LEAGUE RACE.

Boston Now Leads With Pittsburg in the Second Place.

Washington Wins Its First Game of the Season — Brooklyn Still Winning — St. Louis Has an Easy Time at Columbus. Cincinnati Downs the Athletics—The Cowboys Getting Tired — Yesterday's Games in the Atlantic Association.

NEW YORK, May 9.—New York dropped down to fourth place through the defeat she sustained yesterday at Boston. The game Philadelphia lost and the one Pittsburg won combined to put the Smoky City team in second place. Cleveland also went ahead of Indianapolis.

There was but little change in the Association further than the winners strengthening their positions.

BOSTON, 7; NEW YORK, 0.

BOSTON, May 9.—"Buck" Ewing and his champions played here yesterday for the first time this season and 11,000 people actually howled with joy when they saw Clarkson pitch them out with phenomenal skill. Fourteen times New York got a man on first, but Clarkson invariably prevented the necessary hit to send the runner to the plate. Ewing did about all the playing for the Giants. Crane's wildness helped Boston to win.

AT LAST WASHINGTON WINS.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.—Washington defeated Philadelphia yesterday afternoon by hard and consecutive hitting. Casey pitched the first two innings and Gleason finished out the game. Sam Wise made four hits, including a homer and a double.

BIG CLOUDS IN THE WINDY CITY.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Pittsburg's defeat yesterday of the "Gentlemen," as Anson insists on calling his players, in their first home game has completely disgusted the people here, who are crying loudly for a team worthy the support the Chicagos receive. The probabilities are in favor of their cry being in vain. There is a general feeling that New York is slated for the pennant again.

THE LEAGUE'S LIVELY BABY.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 9.—Cleveland's players demonstrated yesterday that they were batters as well as fielders and base runners. Beatin's home run was made when two men were on bases.

SLAUGHTER IN KENTUCKY.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 9.—Fifteen hundred people witnessed yesterday's game, which was one of the poorest exhibitions of ball playing ever seen here. After the game had been lost by poor fielding Ewing did not exert himself, and in the last inning simply tossed the ball across the plate, allowing the Brooklyn batters to hit it at will. Corkhill and Browning made several fine catches. President Davidson fined Ehret $50, suspended Ramsey and Kerins and notified Tomney and Esterbrook that they would be released.

ANOTHER FOR ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, May 9.—The Browns defeated Columbus again with ease yesterday in an uninteresting contest. Daily split a finger in the first inning in attempting to catch a high fly and O'Connor took his place.

A COMBINATION THAT ALWAYS WINS.

CINCINNATI, May 9.—Cincinnati won yesterday's game from the Athletics by timely batting and good fielding.

THE COWBOYS GETTING TIRED.

KANSAS CITY, May 9.—Baltimore defeated the home team yesterday in a rather one-sided contest. Foreman started in to pitch but sprained his ankle in the fourth inning, and Cunningham finished the game.

THIS WAS FOR BLOOD.

JERSEY CITY, May 9.—The rivalray which has long existed between the Jersey City and Newark clubs still exists. The usual enthusiastic crowd was missing yesterday, not more than 2,000 spectators being present. The Newarks did the better work at every point, and only for a fumble and a wild throw by McDermott in the fifth inning, which gave three runs, the Newarks would have won.

WILKESBARRE WINS.

WILKESBARRE, May 9.—Wilkesbare won from Eaton yesterday by bunching their hits and superior base running.

NEW HAVEN LOSES.

HARTFORD, May 9.—The opening championship game here yesterday was between Hartford and New Haven. The fielding was generally good. The pitching of Horner was so wild the Hartfords could do but little batting.

PRINCETON, 14; YALE, 11.

PRINCETON, May 9.—Princeton played here the second game of the championship series yesterday, and defeated Yale. The day was perfect, and with the exception of Osborn, who played with an injured thumb, the teams were also perfect. Stagg, the old-time pitcher, was supported in great shape by Poole, but as for the rest of the Yale team, they did not do their pitcher justice.

An Aged Woman Burned to Death.

ALTOONA, Pa., May 9.—A lamp in the hands of Mrs. James Harkins aged 70, of Hollidaysburg exploded yesterday. She was burned to death. Her aged husband was fatally burned while rendering assistance to his wife.

It May Extend Its Road.

BOSTON, May 9.—The Senate has passed the bill authorizing the Hartford and Connecticut Western railroad to extend its road from Tariffville, Conn., to Springfield, Mass.

Glasspackers Refused a Charter.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 9.—The newly organized assembly of glasspackers has been refused a charter by the Knights of Labor on the ground that it is a mixed assembly.

MISS STEERS DENIES IT ALL.

She Says the Stories Told and Printed of Her Suicide and Marriage, are False.

Miss Susie Steers, who had been missing from the knowledge of her acquaintances in this city for the past four years, is back again in Plainfield and wishes THE PRESS to emphatically deny all the tales that have been told and published about her goings-on and her fate.

She says she is not married nor never was, and that she has not committed suicide. Below we print from THE CONSTITUTIONALIST of May 29, 1885, the rumors that were then prevalent in this city about Miss Steers. The letter mentioned, Susie says, she never wrote, and she also intimates that her sister Maggie "made it all up herself."

The gentleman Susie is accused of marrying, has been a married man with a wife and children for some years, and Susie says she can produce him from Harlem at any time to prove that she did not marry him. Miss Steers, who is still a young maiden woman, is very indignant that the rumor should have spread that she is married to any one. She says she has "too level a head."

WHERE IS SHE?

Susie Steers, a domestic, has been missing from her friends in this city for some days. For several months she was in the employ of Mr. Ellis A. Campbell on Park avenue. Recently she went to New York city. Shortly after going there her sister, Maggie, who is a domestic in the employ of ex-Councilman John B. Brown of this city, received a letter from Susie stating that she was married. The letter in question was from New York and told of meeting her husband, who does not receive her kindly. The writer refers to him in uncomplimentary terms and concludes as follows:

When you receive this I will be dead. You will find my body at 141 West 18th street, and my trunk at Abingdon Square. I pray you will forgive me for thus taking my life, but I cannot live.

Inclosed in the letter was a receipt from the express company and the trunk was found at the office. On Tuesday Mr. Campbell visited the morgue in New York city, where the body of a young woman was lying, who had committed suicide at the Grand Union Hotel by shooting herself through the heart. He at once asserted that the corpse was that of Susie Steers. The next day in company with the missing girl's sister and brother, Mr. Campbell again visited the morgue, only to find that the body had been recognized as that of Miss Hattie Bedient of Hornby, N. Y., and was then on its way to that place in charge of the dead girl's father. From photographs, however, the sister Maggie, and Mr. Campbell were quite positive that the suicide was Susie Steers until they were shown the clothing worn by the deceased, when they were reluctantly compelled to admit the identity of Miss Bedient. Since then nothing has been learned of Susie Steers, and her parents and relatives are wild with grief over her sudden disappearance. Miss Steers states that her sister had given evidence of being unsettled in her mind for some time, and thinks it possible that the whole scheme was an invention of her fevered brain.

A Plainfielder Buried in Somerville.

Isaac H. Hall, aged 82, died at his home in Plainfield April 29, from paralysis. Brief services were held at his late residence by Rev. C. B. Mitchell, after which the remains were brought to Somerville for burial and the funeral service held in the Second Reformed church, Rev. P. M. Doolittle officiating. The attendance was large.

Mr. Hall was formerly a resident of Somerset county, living in Branchburgh township, where for many years he filled the office of Assessor. He was a brother of James Hall, a one-time student at law with the late Hon. Geo. H. Brown of Somerville. Mr. Hall was a good citizen and a man generally respected in the communities where he lived.

Elliott vs. Cleaver.

The "Wigwam case" came up before the Common Pleas of Somerset county for trial Tuesday. It was an appeal from Justice Sutphen and a jury.

A motion was made before the Justice to non-suit on the grounds of want of jurisdiction of the Justice to try or hear a case wherein damages are claimed to a reversionary interest on real estate, the plaintiff not being in possession. The Justice refused to non-suit.

W. R. Codington, of Jackson & Codington, counsel for Mr. Cleaver, yesterday renewed his motion which was granted. This makes the third non-suit in this case. The Court gives counsel the privilege of submitting briefs.

The One Hundredth Meeting.

The one hundredth meeting of the Huribut Circle of the C. L. S. C., will be held in Vincent chapel, this evening. The programme as arranged, is as follows:

Chautauqua Song....' Day is dying in the West"
Address of Welcome.....Dr. J. L. Huribut
Talk on Modern Athens.....Geo. E. Vincent
Song.....Miss Julia J. Ketcham
Address.....Dr. Edward Everett Hale
Chautauqua Song.....
....."God be with you 'till we meet again"

After the meeting an informal reception will be held from ten to eleven o'clock.

—Society people and tourists are already arranging for their Summer "outing."

—Many of the most thoughtful and conservative people of Westfield are friendly to a Borough form of Government. North Plainfield thrives under it; Why not Westfield?

FAREWELL TO THEIR PASTOR.

Last evening the members of the 7th Day church and Sabbath school tendered a farewell reception to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Lewis, previous to their departure for Europe to day. The lecture room of the church was densely filled with the Dr. and Mrs. Lewis' friends, who were present to wish them God speed on their journey, a pleasant trip and a safe return.

During the evening Mr. Gorton contributed some vocal selections, Miss Lewis read, and some of the Sunday school scholars enacted a piece called "Spring Flowers." On the whole the reception was a very enjoyable affair.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Assemblyman Ulrich started today for a trip to Washington, D. C., on official business.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Demarest, three and a half years of age, is lying dangerously ill at the home of her parents on Park avenue.

Edward Rushmore, M. D., of this city, was elected Vice President of the New Jersey State Homeopathic Medical Society, at its annual meeting held in Trenton, yesterday.

The annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church, will be held on Sunday evening. Ex-Mayor L. V. F. Randolph has kindly consented to deliver an address.

At St. Francis church, Metuchen, yesterday afternoon at six o'clock, was consummated the marriage of Mr. John J. Curran of this city, and Miss Minnie, daughter of Mr. Thomas Savard of South Plainfield.

THE PRESS hastens to correct an error. Miss Wilson has not taken Miss Gilbert's place in the new school. She has just been appointed a teacher, and temporarily takes charge of Miss Gilbert's old class. Miss Gilbert is the Vice Principal of the new school.

Mr. L. E. Barkalew of North Plainfield, has purchased the desirable building lot on which his carpenter shop now stands on Duer street, near Park place. He also owns the adjoining lot, and it is understood that he intends to erect first-class dwelling houses on both lots.

Governor John B. Gordon and staff of Georgia will visit Elizabeth this evening as the guests of Governor Green, with whom they will dine. Afterward the Veteran Zouaves will escort both Governors to their armory, where Governor Gordon will be given a reception.

The cover of the programme for the XVIth season of the Chautauqua Assembly, to be held this Summer, is designed by Mr. George Wharton Edwards and is very artistic and original. The sports, temples of oratory, ampitheatres and assemblages of ancient and modern times, are pictorially compared.

A Reception by the Daughters of the King.

The "Kings Daughters" met yesterday afternoon, at the residence of Mrs. Edward J. Waring in Washington Park, and re-organized. Mrs. W. De. F. Curtis having resigned, Mrs. Samuel St. John McCutchen was chosen President, Mrs. Morgan S. Taylor, Vice President, Miss Ida Musgrave, Treasurer, and Mrs. Foster, Secretary.

This organization is a charitable one, and is engaged in a most noble work, helping the poor in many directions. In order to raise funds for their work a reception will be given at the residence of Miss Musgrave on Mercer avenue, Washington Park, North Plainfield, next Wednesday afternoon, from 4 till 7 o'clock. Tickets of admission will be 25 cents, and it is hoped that a large number will be present, as the object is a most worthy one.

The last reception was held at the residence of Mrs. Geo. P. Dupee of Rock View avenue, at which a handsome sum was realized.

A Heartfelt Expression of Loss.

At a special meeting of the Plainfield Bicycle Club, held April 27, the following resolutions were adopted and subsequently handsomely engrossed and framed, and presented to the family of the dead comrade:

WHEREAS, We have learned with sincere sorrow of the death of our fellow member, Francis P. VanBuren,

Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Van Buren the Club has lost one who by his genial disposition and kindly manners endeared himself to every member of the Club, and who by his active participation in all Club events renders his loss a heartfelt one, and leaves a void in our ranks that will be difficult indeed to fill.

Resolved, That we tender to the family of the deceased our sincere sympathy in this their great affliction.

R. A. FAIRBAIRN,
F. W. WALZ,
H. W. BEEBE, } Committee.

Valuable Property.

The railroad system of New Jersey—which has 2,000 miles of main line, with a value greater per mile than that of the railroads of any other State—stands first among the States in length of track, value of railroad property and net earnings of the railroad companies.

Spinal Disease.

DR. FLINT'S REMEDY should be taken whenever there is felt pain or soreness in the back, or uneasiness in the extremities, increased by motion, as these are the premonitory symptoms of spinal congestion. Descriptive treatise with each bottle. J. G. Miller, Agent, Plainfield.

ANOTHER SPECIAL CARPET SALE.

THE FIRST FLY.

The Plainfield Homing Club Opens the Season With a "Fly" From Harve de Grace.

The first match of the season under the auspices of the Plainfield Homing Club, took place yesterday, and terminated very successfully. At 10:40 o'clock yesterday morning 35 birds belonging to individual members of the club were liberated at Harve de Grace, Md., 115 miles distant, and eighteen out of the thirty-five returned to their lofts in this city between two and three o'clock in the afternoon. This is considered good flying for the first match.

A Boarding-House and Inn.

A few weeks ago Mr. Billings of Bound Brook, applied to the Somerset county court for a license to keep an inn and tavern. Judge Magie was informed that there was only one hotel at that place; that there was a necessity for a second one; that Mr. Billings was a man of good character and had kept a large boarding house, but was compelled to give it up because without a bar he could not make it pay. The Judge took the papers, including a remonstrance from the citizens of the locality to consider the matter.

Last Wednesday, Judge Magie said that he had carefully considered the application, and if the Court could see that there was any necessity at all for the hotel it would rather grant a license to Mr. Billings than to any other applicant from Bound Brook, as the Court found that he was a man of excellent character. But the applicant himself had by his own witnesses shown that although there had been applications for board they were always from people employed in or residents of Bound Brook. An inn and tavern is intended for the benefit of the traveling public, and it was not shown that Bound Brook was in need of a second such inn and tavern. The application was therefore refused.

A Letter From Mr. Springmann.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—As the news had something to say concerning me in a recent issue, which did me an injustice, and as I am a man in public business, I ask you to straighten out matters by stating the facts.

On Saturday morning John Spencer of Coontown, who was somewhat under the influence of liquor called at my place of business on Somerset street, and attempted to enter. I met him at the door and said, "I guess you are in the wrong place," to which he replied: "The —— you say, you ——————." I then asked him to leave the premises, which he refused to do. I took hold of him and pushed him out on the sidewalk, and as I was about to re-enter my shop Spencer struck me in the face. I retaliated by knocking him down, and for the offence (?) of defending myself I was arrested and fined three dollars. This was the sentence imposed by Mayor Cooley.

By publishing this statement you will greatly oblige

WM. W. SPRINGMANN,
87 Somerset street.

President—T. O. Doane.
Vice President—H. M. Sherwin.
Secretary—Edw. Mosher.
Treasurer—J. A. Hubbard.

The report of the treasurer showed the Association to be in a sound financial condition.

Royal Arch Masons.

The Grand Convocation of the Grand Chapter of the Royal Arch Masons of New Jersey was in session in Elizabeth, yesterday. L. T. Greer of Passaic, was the presiding officer. About 125 Masons from various parts of the State were present. The sessions were held with closed doors, and during the afternoon the officers were elected. Mr. William H. Sebring of this city was elected to the office of G. S.

Be Considerate.

This is the season when one wants the sash of the window up and another wants it down. The safe rule is for those who are in full health to think twice about those who are thin blooded or ailing. No man is more unmannerly than he who would force his plenty-of-air dictum upon everybody in a room or car. Let us be considerate.

HIS LETTER.

[For The Press.]

To weeping Fan
The postman ran
With this here letter.
She dried her eyes,
She ceased her sighs,
She felt much better.

DEAR FAN:
I have nothing to do,
The which you will think very queer;
Will doubtless remark that I might
Think of you each day in the year;
Each hour, each moment thereof,
As ever your thoughts are of me;
Which is awfully nice of my girl;
Quite flatt'ring to my vanity.

But observe, we men do not think
Over love nor over it dream
As women who harp on the strain,
Who cry 'tis a glorious theme.
It is true, when under the spell
Of something, we scarcely know what,
We term you "sweet angels" and such,
Though we quickly find you are not.

It is true, we tumble and fall
In the snares you spread for our feet,
And whilst we are flound'ring about
Do whisper in language discreet
That you are the light of our life,
Which the same is gammon, you know,
Yet, poor souls, you b'lieve it is true
And do try to prettier grow.

But, as I was going to say,
That is, thus intended to write,
Dress up in your best like a doll,
For I will be over to-night.
A woman that's dressed up to kill
Is a ravishing sight—and say!
I've just saved a quarter and this
Will buy you a jolly bouquet.

There's several more things I might add,
But why should I torture your soul;
Though the Altar your Mecca may be
The mirror is also your goal;
And bonnets and dress form a part
Of your innocent dreams of love;
And I'll wager, at Easter, in church,
You wondered what's the fashion—above.

Adieu! That's "Good-by" for a time;
I hope you won't take this to heart;
Leastwise, I do trust that you will,
For know of myself 'tis a part;
And if by good fortune your lips
Should touch it, fear not, O my sweet,
For mine were placed here in fond hopes
That with yours they somehow would meet.

—F.

"Entertained at Plainfield."

Under this caption the Fredonian of New Brunswick says:

"On Sunday afternoon a stage load of the members of Welcome Division, No. 170, S. of T., left Temperance Hall for Plainfield to participate in the exercises of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union meeting at that city. They were received by members of the W. C. T. U. and the Reform Club and were conducted to the meeting of the W. C. T. U. in the afternoon, and in the evening they attended a meeting at the Reform Club rooms.

"At 7 o'clock the visitors were served with supper at the residence of Mrs. Sarah R. Mattox, who is a member of Howell Division. After the meeting the visitors started for home, arriving in this city at midnight, having spent a very pleasant time. They speak in the highest terms of their reception and entertainment by members of the Order in Plainfield. A return visit will be made soon by the Plainfield Division."

Dunellen Notes.

President John H. Handren of the Dunellen Berough Commissioners, has disposed of his Dunellen property and will this week remove with his family to Brooklyn, where his business is now located. Mr. Handren, during his residence at Dunellen, has been one of the foremost of its citizens, and has expended large sums of money in improving and beautifying the place. As a public benefactor he has but few equals, and the loss sustained by his removal from the village will be severely felt by the residents.

Postmaster Harrold will assume the management of the Dunellen post office on June 1.

At present there are no vacant houses within the borough limits. This speaks well for Dunellen.

A Girl Spoils the Flush.

Many of THE PRESS readers still remember with pleasurable feelings, Mr. and Mrs. S. O. A. Murphy, for many years residents and property owners in Plainfield. The Republican of Haverstraw, N. Y., near where they now live, had this to say of Mr. Murphy, last Saturday:

"Samuel O. A. Murphy has had a misfortune. His highest aim was to have a base ball nine in his own family. He had seven lively boys, and last week another acquisition was added to the family, but it was a little queen. Murphy is proud of it, even though for the time the completion of the nine had to be deferred."

Reorganized on the Old Lines.

The Union County Board of Freeholders organized yesterday at Elizabeth. Director Hubbard was re-elected. Chas. E. Reed of Rahway, was re-elected Clerk. All the other officers were also re-elected. The salary of County Collector Wood, which has been $1,000, was raised to $1,500 for this year only, on account of extra work to be performed. The standing committees will not be changed, as there has been no change in the personnel of the Board.

A Storm Approaching.

The peculiar color of the moon for the past few nights is said to indicate dry and hot weather. Telegraphic despatches from the West, however, state that a severe storm is approaching from that region, and it is likely to reach here before bedtime, to-night.

—Mrs. C. Neighbor has purchased the old "Zachariah Webster" property on E. Front street, near Peace. It belonged to the Orthodox Quakers.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

A CARELESS CONDUCTOR.

He Neglected a Timely Warning and His Train Was Wrecked.

CLEVELAND, O., May 9.—The Valley road train which reaches this city at 3:30 p. m., was wrecked in the suburbs yesterday and two persons killed and eight injured.

The wreck was caused by one of the wheels of the smoker coming loose, throwing the car from the track. It dashed into a freight car on a side track and was completely smashed. The other cars did not leave the track.

The killed were: H. H. Hackman, a leather dealer of Cleveland, and Frank Odbert, of Akron, Ohio. The injured are: W. H. Gallagher, Newcomerstown, O., leg hurt and head cut; George Pellinger, Akron, head cut and body bruised; J. C. Taylor, Cambridge, O., same; W. M. Clark, Pittsburg, same; Lawrence O'Connell, Akron, leg broken and head cut; Caroline Tilchman, Cleveland, most seriously bruised and may die.

Passengers warned the conductor several times before the accident occurred that something was wrong as there were frequent bumpings along the track but no attention was paid to it.

A Detective Brutally Assaulted.

TRENTON, N. J., May 9.—Edward Layton, a detective employed by the Law and Order league to obtain evidence of excise violations for use before the grand jury, was set upon by eight saloonkeepers yesterday and terribly beaten. He claims that he was offered $400 to leave town, and on refusing it he was attacked. His condition is serious. Two of his assailants have been arrested.

A Horrible Tale.

PARIS, May 9.—The Correspondence de l' Est states that it has reliable information that a band of Kurds recently attacked a weading party in the Mouch district, robbing the guests and indecently outraging the bride. After gorging themselves with the wedding feast they killed the bride and boiled her body in the pot in which the wedding meal had been cooked.

His Testimony Before the Royal Commission.

NOTHING TO DO WITH FENIANS.

The Irish Leader Scores a Point Upon His Opponents.

Mr. Parnell's Complaints Against Sir Richard Webster Abundantly Justified in Popular Opinion—Lord Chief Justice Coleridge Refuses the Attorney-General a Postponement in Another Suit—Late News and Gossip from Abroad.

LONDON, May 9.—Before the Parnell Commission yesterday Mr. Parnell said that in no sense could the receptions with which he was honored in America be identified with the "physical force" element. He believed that none of his colleagues since joining the National party had had anything to do with Fenians.

Mr. Parnell here scored a point by remarking that the Tories had been much more closely associated with such a movement, and cited as an instance the time when they co-operated with the Parnellites to obstruct the progress of the Criminal Code bill, to its ultimate death.

Mr. Parnell said that he had copies of some of his letters made from short-hand notes.

Sir Richard Webster: "It seems that there exists a book of copies of Mr. Parnell's letters. I should like to see that."

Sir Charles Russell: "By all means."

Justice Hannen: "If the letters refer to the League they should have been disclosed."

Mr. Parnell: "His Lordship is welcome to any letter I ever wrote or received."

ARCHBISHOP WALSH ON THE STAND.

Mr. Parnell then left the witness box and Archbishop Walsh of Dublin was called. The Archbishop testified that he had come to the conclusion prior to 1879 that there was great need of a defensive land orgaization. He then proceeded to give his opinion as to the necessity for such an organization when Justice Hannen interposed and said that the inquiry must be limited to ascertaining whether the establishment of the Land League was necessary.

Sir Richard Webster remarked that opinions were inadmissible.

Mr. Biggar here sprang to his feet and declared that the hirelings of the Government had repeatedly given their opinion, which had been accepted.

OPINIONS NOT ADMISSIBLE.

The judges then retired to consult as to the admissibility of expressions of opinion and returned with the decision that it was not permissible for counsel to ask witness abstract questions seeking to elicit a declaration of opinion. The mere expression of Archbishop Walsh's opinion was not admissible.

Archbishop Walsh, resuming his testimony, said he had abundant means of knowing that the League had denounced outrages. A great many priests had joined the League with his approval.

LATE NEWS FROM ABROAD.

Mr. Parnell's Complaint Against Sir Richard Webster, Abundantly Justified.

LONDON, May 9.—The opinion is generally expressed that Mr. Parnell's complaint of the hardship he has been compelled to endure from Sir Richard Webster's method of cross-examination is abundantly justified. The Attorney-General's manner throughout was gratuitously offensive and a great many Conservatives unhesitatingly express their disgust thereat, believing that whatever may be the final decision of the Commission Sir Richard's conduct of the prosecution has had a bad effect upon public opinion, where a good impression is most needed at this time.

Justice Hannen, too, has lately been a source of disappointment and anxiety to the sympathizers with home rule, many of them expressing their fears that his recent outbursts of temper indicate his prejudice against the Irish party. Very little is expected of his associate justices favorable to the Parnellites, no matter what evidence may be given to disprove the already discredited charge brought by the Times, but Justice Hannen's proverbial fairness and great influence has been relied upon as a bulwark against the pig-headed partisanship of his colleagues. Should the Parnellites surmise that he, too, is turning against them prove correct there will be little advantage in prolonging the sitting save for the purpose of adding another to the long list of reasons why Ireland should have home rule, in showing how absolutely impossible it is for the Irish to obtain justice from an English tribunal.

NO POSTPONEMENT FOR WEBSTER.

Lord Chief Justice Coleridge to-day denied the application of Attorney-General Webster for the postponement of a suit in which the latter was interested, the application being based on the ground that Webster was engaged in the case before the Parnell Commission.

The Chief Justice in refusing to grant a postponement said that it had been the practice, as it still was, to favor the Attorney-General in the respect mentioned when that official was engaged in public cases, but that the rule did not, nor would it be permitted to extend to cases in which the Attorney-General was acting in a private capacity.

This judicial expression is believed to have been designed to strengthen the contention of the Government that the Attorney-General as counsel for the Times is in no sense an officer of the Government.

HEWITT WAS NOT PRESENT.

Ex-Mayor Hewitt, of New York, did not attend Earl Derby's banquet at the Liberal Union Club last night, although a special invitation was sent to him and accepted.

COLONEL M'MURDO DEAD.

Colonel McMurdo, noted as the negotiator of the Delagoa Bay, Tehuantepec and other concessions, is dead.

TOY COINS NOT PERMISSIBLE.

In the court at Nurnberg to-day several toy-makers were found guilty and heavily fined for manufacturing and selling as "counters" for children's games imitations of gold and silver coins. Both German and American coins were imitated and large quantities of them were exported to America.

The attention of the German authorities was called to the matter by complaints from the Government at Washington and proceedings against the offenders were begun at once.

Two cases were prepared, one based on the imitation of American coins and the other on the counterfeit of German pieces. The American case failed, but conviction was secured in the German case with the result of punishing the culprits to the fullest extent of the law.

LEGISLATION AT HARRISBURG.

A Mistake in Printing the Fow Liquor Bill—Osborne Takes His Seat.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 9.—The Fow License Transfer bill came up in the Senate yesterday on final passage, and it was found that one of the amendments made Tuesday had not been printed in the bill as it was amended.

Mr. Cooper said that this sort of thing had occurred so often that it could hardly be regarded as an unintentional error in this case.

It was necessary to postpone action on the bill until to-day, and in the meantime the mistake will be corrected.

The bill appropriating $200,000 in aid of the improvement of the harbor of Philadelphia passed finally.

SENATOR OSBORNE TAKES HIS SEAT.

At noon the Osborne-Devlin election contest was called on special order. Mr. Gobin, the chairman of the committee, spoke at length in favor of the adoption of the majority report, and then made the motion.

Mr. Ross, who was one of the two signers of the minority report, offered an amendment delaring that Devlin was the regularly-elected member and should retain his seat.

Mr. Ross questioned the power of the committee, and said in the Constitution the courts were clearly constituted the forum in which all contested elections should be tried. The gentlemen of the committee all agreed that the present member occupied his seat without a taint of fraud, but the votes thrown out were thus treated on the clearest technical reasons; instances where persons had failed to have property possessed by will assessed in their own name, paying their taxes in the name of the former owner, and, also, where electors, who were property owners, had voted without the formality of being sworn.

On the question of adopting Mr. Ross's amendment the vote was 15 to 33 against it. The majority report was then adopted, and Senator Osborne was sworn in as the member from the Third District, Philadelphia.

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

In the House Dr. Walk introduced a concurrent resolution, which was adopted, endorsing the proposed pottery exposition to be held under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Museum of Industrial Art. The House on third reading voted down the bill to authorize the formation of corporations for the purpose of driving and floating sawlogs, lumber and timber upon all streams not exceeding twenty miles in length from their source. This is commonly known as the "Boom bill."

The reports on the Soldiers' Orphans' Appropriation bill, and the bill to relegate the management of the fund and the orphans to a commission, were presented and the reports were agreed to.

The House passed the bill authorizing boards of prison inspectors to fix salaries of deputy wardens, keepers and other employes, except in Philadelphia, also the bill empowering the President Judges of the Courts of Common Pleas of counties not forming separate judicial districts to hold the Courts of Quarter Sessions of the peace and Oyer and Terminer and general jail delivery in the absence of the associate judges.

When the House reached the Senate bill on third reading, providing for the incorporation and regulation of Young Men's Christian Associations, Mr. Kratz made an earnest protest against the passage of the bill, which, he declared, established a sectarian test in the State. The bill provided that such associations shall be managed exclusively by persons of the Protestant Evangelical faith. The bill was passed, receiving 106 votes in the affirmative.

The Senate bill for the government and regulation of county jails and prisons was defeated.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

What the Law Makers Are Doing at Albany.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 9.—The Rapid Transit bill was received from the Senate and referred to the Railroad Committee.

Bills introduced: Amending the charter of Jamestown relative to the tenure of office of appointive officers (third reading).

Incorporating the Church Fire and Lightning Insurance Association (an association of M. E. Churches throughout the State, whose aggregate property is valued at $400,000. The principal office to be in Rochester).

Bills passed appropriating $36,000 to improve the sanitary condition of the Capitol.

Compelling all freight cars in the State to have automatic self-couplers caused considerable discussion. Mr. Saxton favored such appliances, but thought the provision requiring all railroads to first submit the style of coupler to the Railroad Commission for approval would give the Board too much power. His motion to strike out that provision was carried, and after some further argument the bill was passed. Ayes 74; noes 16.

THE EVENING SESSION.

After recess the Assembly passed Mr. R. P. Bush's bill relating to preliminary education of medical students.

Mr. Crosby tried to call up his Rapid Transit bill but was ruled out of order.

The Governor's veto of the two-headed, non-partisan New York Police and Park Commission bills having been read, Mr. Hamilton spoke in favor of the principle of the police bill and moved its passage over the veto.

Mr. Connelly said Mayor Grant had told him he knew of no deal and would tolerate none. The Republicans were seeking some political advantage, and the Governor had set his foot on it. Mr. Connelly severely condemned the course of the Republican members.

Mr. Martin said he did not believe there ever had been any deal.

Mr. McCann eulogized Gov. Hill for his lofty statesmanship, courage, and rugged honesty.

Mr. Horaridge denounced the bills as part of a deal.

Mr. Adams said if the Republicans would lie down among the dogs they must expect to get fleas. He would support the vetoes.

Mr. Kerrigan denounced the attempt to get rapid transit by a dishonest deal. The motion to pass the bill over the veto was lost, 50 to 44—not two-thirds. Mr. King was the only Republican voting no.

In the Senate the following were passed: Mr. Mullaney's Coal Scalpers' bill; Mr. R. P. Bush's bill for the purchase of the Creedmoor rifle range for the use of the National Guard; Mr. Hitt's bill, extending to two years the time for the construction of railroads; Mr. McNaughton's bill, amending the Corporations act; Mr. Walker's bill, empowering the Railroad Commissioners to authorize a change of motor power by street surface railroads; Mr. Moffat's bill appropriating $60,000 for a Normal school at Plattsburg.

Supposed to Be in Canada.

MEDINA, N. Y., May 9.—Curtice R. Bentley, of Lyndonville, this county, has disappeared. It is said that he owes sums of money in several places. Debts to the amount of $2,800 have already been discovered. Bentley is supposed to be in Canada.

IRISH FAMILY NAMES.

Changes by Which "Mac's" and "O's" Have Become Lost.

The Transition of Patronymics from Ancient Irish Into the Present English—The Original of Murphy, Connelly and Other Common Names.

Family names or hereditary surnames first became fixed in Ireland in the reign of Brian Borumha, between the years 1002 and 1014. For a long time, says the Irish Times, it was a popular error that the prefix "O" to a name signified that the bearer was of royal descent, while a Mac had no special significance of high social standing. This error has been exploded by showing that several Kings in Ireland have borne the prefix of Mac to their names, while some of the lowest and most obscure families bore the prefix "O." When surnames first became hereditary some families went back several generations to select an illustrious ancestor from whom to take a name. Mac signifies son, like the Anglo-Norman Fitz, a corruption of the Latin filius, a son. "O" was taken to signify that the name was taken from a grandfather or more remote ancestor.

Appended is a list of some of the popular names to be met with every day, showing the transition of the name from the ancient Irish into the present English. In some instances several different names were made from the same Irish name. Generally the change was made into something bearing a similar sound to that of the original.

Mac and O'Gowan into Smith, MacIntyre into Carpenter, MacSpallane into Spencer, MacCongry into L'Estrange, MacCrossan into Crosby, O'Reilly into Ridley, O'Donnell into Daniels, O'Sullivan into Silvers and Silvan, MacCarthy into Carter, O'Neil into Neil or Neel. MacConava was corrupted into Conover, and Anglicised into Ford. In the same way O'Marcachain was translated into Ryder and Anglicised Markham. MacConry was corrupted into Conroy, and erroneously translated into King. Rogers is an Anglicisation of the Irish name MacRory. Matthews is the English of MacMahon. MacCowan is the original from which has been corrupted Camphill, Campbell, Howell and Caulfield. MacOscar in like manner has been altered into Cosgrove and Costello, MacMurtagh to Mortimer, O'Clery to Clarke and Clerkin, O'Cindellan to Cunningham. The O'Dorcy's, of Galway, altered their name to D'Arcy and D'Orsay, to give the impression that they were descendants of the Anglo-Norman family of D'Arcy. O'Dulany is the original from which is derived Delany and DeLani.

Many Irish names have been abbreviated, not through any desire on the part of the bearer to hide their origin, but in order to render the names more pronouncable in English. Of these MacEochaldh is only an example and is now known as McKeogh and Keogh; MacGillapatrick, to Fitzpatrick; MacGillaroe, to Gilroy and Kilroy; MacGilla Brighde, to McBride; MacGillafinen, to Linden and Leonard; MacGennis, to Ennis and Guinness; O'Mulryan, to Ryan; MacMurragh, to Kavanagh.

The original of Murphy is O'Murchadha, it was Anglicised O'Murchoe and latterly Murphy. Connelly and Connolly are derived from O'Conghalaigh; Clancy is MacFlannchadha in Irish, and was Anglicised MacClancy and then Clancy; the family once owned the barony of Rossclogher, in the county of Letrim. Tuomy comes from Tuarh-da-Mhuighe; it was the name of two baronies in King's County, and was afterwards adopted by the family bearing the Irish name O'Maoilchein. Scully is derived from O'Scolaighe. Quinn comes from O'Cuinn, a family once numerous and powerful in the County Tyrone. Phelan and Whelan are each corruptions of O'Faolian; O'Toole in Irish is O'Tuathail. Sullivan, with and without the O prefixed, is derived from O'Sullebhain.

The original Kelly, in Irish O'Ceallaigh, was descended from Aedh-Slaine, monarch of Ireland. Its last representative was Congalach O'Kelly, Lord of Bregia, who died in 1292. The family afterwards became scattered, so that there are but few parishes in the country but has some of these Kellys.

It will be a surprise to many to learn that Byron is not an English name, but a corruption of the ancient name of O'Beirne, another corruption of the name being Bruin. O'Brollaghan is the original of Bradley, while in Scotland it is made Brodie. Harrington is an Anglicised form of O'Heraghty and O'Hennessy. O'Hiombair was changed to Ivers by the gentry and to Howard by the peasantry. O'Mulligan in the same way has been changed to Molyneaux and Baldwin. O'Honeen to Green, O'Rourke to Rooke, MacFirbis to Forbes, O'Cornain to Corbett, O'Grieghan to Graham, O'Heyne to Hindes, Hynes, Hine and Haynes or Hayne, O'Barran to Barrington and Barron, MacHugh to Hughes, MacGillamire to Gilmore, O'Leyne to Lyons, O'Houlahan to Holland, O'Drum to Drummond.

The Irish in early times also had distinctive Christian names and these have also undergone a change similar to those in the surnames, though frequently there have been no cause for the Anglicisation; thus Cormack has been rendered into Charles, though the latter is not a translation and has little similarity in sound. Mahon was turned into Matthew; Teige, into Timothy; Art, into Arthur; Donal, into Daniel; Goron, into Jeoffry; Finghin, into Florence; Feradach, into Frederic; Eoghan, into Owen, and many others have undergone like changes.

STRANGE COINCIDENCES.

Incidents from Which the Superstitious Can Draw a Moral.

Most expressive coincidences have sometimes occurred in the words of actors in their last appearance on the stage, says the New York Epoch. An English actor named Cummins, some twenty years ago, appeared in a play in which it fell to him to deliver these lines:

"Be witness for me, ye celestial hosts;
Such mercy and such pardon as my soul
Accords to thee and begs of heaven to show thee
May such befall me at my last hour."

The last words had scarcely dropped from his lips when he fell dead on the stage.

The following instances may be regarded by the superstitious as a sufficient warning against all jests of such a grim subject as death. It is related by Mr. Bolton, an English actor and author, that the famous tenor, Sims Reeves, was once playing the Squire in the pantomime of "Old Mother Goose," and at the very moment when he was walking off the stage, singing:

"My wife's at rest—there let her lie, She's at rest, and so am I,"

a man tapped him hurriedly on the shoulder and whispered: "You must come home directly; Mrs. Reeves is dead." Greatly shocked, Mr. Reeves hurried home and found it only too true.

The other instance of which I refer relates to the death of J. W. Coudry, a mind reader, who, a short time ago, while lecturing at New Haven, Conn., took occasion to boast of his entire freedom from fear, at the same time speaking of death in a somewhat flippant and jesting manner. Very singularly, before the conclusion of his performance, he was stricken with apoplexy, his death occurring only two days later.

TAMING A HUSBAND.

The Sarcastic Advice of a Woman Who Has Had Three of them.

Certainly—you can't scold amiss, my dear woman, exclaims a female contributor in the New York Ledger. If he hasn't done "this or that," he has probably done something else. Scolding clears the domestic atmosphere; you have to keep up a perpetual cannonading, or there will be a revolt. Husbands get terribly unmanageable sometimes unless they are kept up to the mark. Don't lose any time about it either. Once let a man hoist the flag of independence, and unless you haul it down for him in double quick time you're a lost woman. Once allow him to suppose that he's master of the house, and the first you know it will be: "Minnie, bring me a match for my cigar, that's a dear," or, "Minnie, just look for my cravat, will you?" or even, "Minnie, I've brought Jones and Howard home to dinner; couldn't help asking 'em. You needn't make any extra parade, but just get a few oysters, or a lobster or something!" That's the way you'll be victimized. Once begin waiting on him, and you'll have business for the rest of your life. Put him down, and keep him there.

"How?"

That's a pretty question to ask. The "hows" are as thick as mosquitoes on an August evening. Blame him for every thing he does; make up your mind not to be satisfied under any circumstance whatever. If it rains, blame him because the sun doesn't shine; if he puts his newspaper on one corner of the mantel-piece, scold him because he didn't put it on the other; if he laughs above his breath, put your hands up to your ears, and ask him "if he supposes you were made without nerves!" If he frowns, call him an ill-natured brute.

If he brings home tickets for the opera, tell him you had set your heart on going to the theater. If he talks to a lady, turn jealous, go into hysterics; if he joins a knot of gentlemen, tell him "it's very plain that his poor wife's society has no longer any charms for him." If he invites friends to your house, tell him that "you don't keep a hotel," if he does n't invite them, tell him he is an unsocial bear, who would like to keep you alone the whole time. If he has a cold in his head, deluge the whole house with soap-and-water and scrub-brushes; if he suffers from toothache, insist on having every window in the room open, on account of "fresh air." If he is fond of roast turkey, see that cold pork is on the table instead; if he likes coffee, discover, all of a sudden, that it is not healthy, and substitute milk and water!

Don't give him his own way in any one particular—contradict him on all occasions—tread on his toes whenever he is going to say any thing, and then fret at him for being "silent and sulky." Never allow him to wear his best coat—put him on a diet of one shirt a week—keep the "change" and deal it out to him by the half dime—groan at his extravagance whenever he buys a new hat, and hunt in all his pockets for strong cigars, champagne corks, peanut-shells, or any such silent witnesses to his depravity.

Why, if you didn't keep up this constant system of intimidation, he might actually be impudent enough to chuck you under the chin, or pull your curls, or even kiss you once in awhile. He might keep dinner waiting half a minute; he might steal one of your little handkerchiefs out of the bureau drawer when he couldn't find his own yellow border concerns; he might elevate his feet on the parlor mantel; he might imagine home was a place to enjoy himself in; he might be insane enough to suppose that a wife liked to wait on her husband!

There is no telling what he might not do or say or think if he were not judiciously snubbed.

Just follow up this system, however, and you'll be pretty sure to take the starch out of him. Don't get discouraged if he is a little stiff and "set in his way" at first; two or three months of the above discipline will make him as limp as an old dish-rag. You may be obliged to fight one or two pitched battles, but that's of no consequence. You have always one great resort—if the day is going against you, turn on the tears! He can't go sniveling about the house with red eyes and swelled nose—you can! Tears will subdue a man when the rest of the feminine artillery won't! Try it just once, and see!

That's the way to break them in, girls! No failure and warranted to cure the worst cases—no better receipt in the whole conjugal pharmacopœia for transforming a high-spirited young fellow into a meek, umbrella-carrying, bill-paying, cradle-rocking machine who knows his "place," and never speaks unless his wife says he may.

ECCENTRIC DISCIPLINE.

How a Boston Pater Familias Punished His Naughty Boy.

I am writing the scrappy sort of letter which is particularly obnoxious to the soul of the editor, and, therefore, take occasion to tuck in a story with a moral which, writes Arlo Bates in one of his Boston letters, was told the other day in a discussion on the training of children. A gentleman who is regarded as somewhat eccentric by the more conventional of his acquaintances, and whose management of his small son, a lad of some seven years, is especially amazing to the gossips, returned home the other evening to be met with the news that the boy had cut a hole in the drawing-room sofa.

"Well, my son," the father said, after being informed by the lad that he had done the damage under the pressure of an irresistible desire, such as is usually the plea of children in similar circumstances. "I am very sorry that you should spoil my sofa. I have just paid $75 to have it recovered, and I can not afford to have that done over again. The only thing I can see is for you to sit on that cut place when anybody is here so as to cover it. I know you don't like company very well, but I know your mother would be ashamed to have callers see that hole."

The small boy knew his father too well to protest, and indeed for the moment he was probably only too happy to get off so easily. When, however, he had been summoned to sit on that cut two or three times things wore a different aspect. He heard the door-bell ring with apprehension, and when he was called for to run to the drawing-room he burst into wailing and weeping so violent that his presence had to be dispensed with.

"Now, my son," his father said to him. "I did not make any fuss when you cut my new sofa covering, and I can't allow you to make a fuss about bearing the consequences of what you did to please yourself."

The poor little wretch was reduced to a condition of despair pitiful to behold, when his father said to him:

"Now, Willis, I am going to make a proposition to you. You may do just as you please about it. I promised you a soldier's uniform at Christmas; now, if you had rather I took that money and had the sofa mended, I would put enough in it to get the thing done. But if I do you will get no uniform at Christmas."

The lad chose to have the sofa mended, and at Christmas he bore his disappointment like his father's son. He did have, it is only fair to his father to add, a good deal in the way of alleviations of one sort and another.

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WHERE!

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

WASHINGTON NEWS

Sandwich Islanders Pity Our Wrecked Mariners.

VICTIMS OF THE SAMOAN GALE.

Aid Offered the Survivors Who Have Been Landed at Honolulu.

General Butler Searching the Naval Records for Evidence of the Cowardice of Admiral Porter—Tippecanoe Veterans Call Upon the President—General Sigel's Successor Appointed—News and Gossip from the National Capital.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Secretary of State Blaine is in receipt of a despatch from Mr. Merrill, United States Minister at Honolulu, dated April 12, last, stating that on the 6th of that month a number of the survivors of the wreck of the naval fleet at Samoa reached Honolulu, where their presence created profound sympathy among the Government and people of those islands.

In a note of April 6th to Mr. Merrill, the Hawaiian Minister for Foreign Affairs assures him of the deep sympathy of the Hawaiians with the distress which had thus fallen on the American people generally, and expresses an earnest desire that the former will avail himself of any possible means at his disposal of that Government which may be of service to the officers and men, survivors of the wreck in question.

Mr. Merrill promptly returned the thanks of the Government of the United States for this kind [illegible] and the Secretary of the Navy [illegible] of Mr. Merrill's dispatch [illegible] by Mr. Blaine, supplement [illegible] note of thanks for the kind [illegible] of sympathy and courteous tend[illegible] offer of services by asking that the grateful acknowledgements of the Navy Department be appropriately communicated to his Hawaiian Majesty's Government.

A copy of Mr. Tracy's letter has been forwarded to Mr. Merrill, in order that his wishes may be fittingly complied with.

The Navy department is taking measures to guard, as far as possible, the health of the officers and crews of the vessels attached to the North Atlantic squadron in the West Indies. With this in view the Ossipee, which recently arrived at Key West, has been ordered to Hampton roads. One of the ships now in New York harbor will proceed to Cape Haytien to take her place and on arriving there the Galena will proceed to Hampton roads. Commissioner Tanner has written a letter to special Pension Examiner Shank, of Lima, O., refusing to accept his resignation, offered because he was not in political sympathy with the Administration. Mr. Shank's record is good and he says that Mr. Shanks need not fear for his official head as long as he maintains the efficiency of the service.

About forty survivors of the Tippecanoe veterans who voted for Gen. William Henry Harrison in 1840, called at the Executive Mansion yesterday and paid their respects to the President.

The forty old gentlemen filed past the President and shook his hand. Nearly every one had something to say about William Henry Harrison, and the President's face wore a constant smile.

Secretary Windom had a long conference with the President concerning appointments under the Treasury department. The appointment of Asa Matthews, the present Speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives as First Comptroller, and that of S. C. Wright, of Nevada, as Superintendent of the United States Mint at Carson city, Nev., were agreed upon.

General internal revenue collectors were also selected and their appointments will probably be announced to-day. Three new auditors were likewise chosen, but as their several assignments have not yet been agreed upon, the commissions were not signed.

Secretary Windom has appointed J. N. Patterson as Superintendent of Repairs under the Treasury department at Philadelphia.

BROKER KINNE WANTS REDRESS.

He Says His Pretty Wife Was Lured Away by a Newark Butcher.

NEWARK, N. J., May 10.—Mr. George P. Kinne, a real estate broker of 15 Cortlandt street, New York, has brought suit against Jacob Myers, a wealthy wholesale butcher of this city, to recover $10,000 damages for the alienation of the affections of his wife Minnie.

The plaintiff and defendant are both middle-aged men, while Mrs. Kinne is still young and handsome. Mr. and Mrs. Kinne were married in the spring of 1888, and within a few months thereafter Myers' attentions to the bride became so marked that Mr. Kinne's suspicions were aroused, and he caused a watch to be set on the couple. The affidavits in the case show that Myers repeatedly took Mrs. Kinne to the theatre and to suppers, and on one occasion they spent several hours together travelling back and forth on the elevated road from Harlem to the Battery, and finally took the boat for Coney Island.

Mrs. Myers is said to have begun a suit for divorce against her husband, Mrs. Kinne being named as co-respondent.

IN A DRIVING FINISH

Proctor Knott Defeated for the Kentucky Derby.

SPOKANE BEAT HIM BY A NOSE.

A Tremendous Crowd Gathered at Louisville to See the Race.

Sam Bryant's Gelding Was a Big Favorite But He Couldn't Go the Route—The Race Ended in a Terrible Finish, the Jockeys of the Leaders Using Whip and Spur with All Their Might and Main—Run in Fast Time.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 10.—The largest crowd at Churchill Downs since the Ten Broeck-Mollie McCarthy race witnessed yesterday's races, the chief attraction being the fifteenth renewal of the Kentucky Derby. Twenty-one bookmakers with auction poolsellers and mutual machines could not accommodate the mob, who for forty minutes struggled and fought to place their money on their choice for the Derby. Most of it went on Proctor Knott, with Milton Young's pair, Once Again and

PROCTOR KNOTT.

Bookmaker, second, and Hindoocraft third in popular favor. Spokane had a stable following, and a few well posted outsiders backed him to beat Knott. The starters, jockeys and average odds were:

Spokane (Kiley), 12 to 1 and 3 to 1 place; Cassius (Taral), 20 and 5; Outbound (Hollis), 50 and 15; Hindoocraft (Armstrong), 8 and 2; Sportsman (Lewis), 30 and 8; Proctor Knott (Barnes), 1 to 3 and out; Bootmaker (Murphy) and Once Again (Warwick), coupled, 4 and 7 to 10; 3 to 2 the field against Knott.

All carried 118 pounds except Knott, who carried 115.

After three break-aways, they got off to a good start, Hindoocraft leading, Bootmaker and Spokane second. Cassius was first out of the chute, followed by Outbound, Spokane leading the bunch, third. When straight in the stretch Knott's blaze face showed in front, Hindoocraft at his girths, Bootmaker third, and the others in a bunch well up. Knott quickly opened up three full lengths as they came to the stand, and Sportsman had a neck the best of Hindoocraft. The others all together, close up. Barnes was unable to properly hold the big gelding as they went around the lower turn and in his efforts to keep him down threw him out of his stride twice. Straightened in the backstretch Knott was again going smoothly in the lead by more than a length.

At the quarter Sportsman and Hindoocraft went after the leader; the effort was too much for the former and Hindoocraft was second at the half, two lengths behind Knott. Here Spokane showed just clear of the field, running third on the outside. At the three-quarters it was Knott by a length and a half, Spokane second, lapped by Once Again, the others well up in a bunch and all moving easily and fast. Rounding the upper turn Knott's lead appeared to be a good length, with Spokane second laying well out for the inside in the stretch. As they came into the stretch Barnes took Knott to the middle ground for better going, but the gelding went wider than he intended. Spokane came in close to the rails, Knott had a lead of a neck from Spokane when straightened out for the run in, and Once Again was close up in third place. The bunch all still near enough to be in it. Half way down the stretch Spokane had drawn abreast of Knott, here the latter swerved from the spur a bit and Barnes applied the whip. Spokane was in front by a half length at the distance stand and Knott a length the best of Once Again. The last two were both getting the lash and responding so well that Spokane's lead was rapidly diminishing. Then Kiley got to work with all he had and in a terrible finish Spokane and Proctor Knott went under the silken cord together on opposite sides of the track a length and a half ahead of Once Again, and the mob who watched for the winner were unable to tell who had won and fell to arguing about it.

After a few minutes delay the decision was announced and the fastest race ever run at the distance in the world, considering the condition of the track, was won by Spokane by a short head, Once Again third, Hindoocraft fourth, Sportsman fifth, others bunched. Time by quarters: 24¾, 48½, 1:14¼, 1:41½, 2:09¼, 2:34½—within one half second of the record.

The last of the Derby field had passed under the string in 2:37.

Winners at Pimlico.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 10.—First race, one mile—Salvini, 1; Pocatello, 2; Vosburg, 3. Time, 1:43¼.

Third race, three-quarters of a mile—Britanic, 1; Tom Hood, 2; Vance, 3. Time, 1:16.

Fourth race, Peyton Handicap, mile and furlong—Burch, 1; The Bourbon, 2; others drawn. Time, 1:57¾.

Fifth race, selling, seven furlongs—Rom, 1; First Attempt, 2; Al Reed, 3. Time 1:2[illegible].

An Ex-Postmaster Provided For.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., May 10.—Benjamin Ryall, late postmaster of this village, has been appointed manager of the Port Jervis, Monticello and New York railroad. E. McMillan, for many years connected with the road as conductor, was appointed superintendent.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Yesterday holds the record as the warmest day of the year.

—A band of Irish bag-pipers paraded the streets this morning, and inspired the hearts of all true Sons of Erin.

—The annual meeting of the New Jersey Grand Council of the Royal Arcanum will be held in Trenton on May 22.

—The stage will run from the post office to the ball grounds to-morrow, at a fare of 5 cents each way. Game will be called at three o'clock.

—If the weather to-morrow remains as warm as it is today, the grand stand at the ball grounds will doubtless be in great demand. Admission—15 cts.

—Bert. Bodine's nine of North Plainfield will play the Leal team of this city, a game of ball, on the grounds near Blatz's Hotel in the borough, to-morrow morning.

—Supposing Mayor Male should issue—as he is empowered by law—a proclamation like this: "If owners of dogs don't muzzle them by the first of June, they will be shot."

—The Memorial Day detail from Winfield Scott Post, met last evening and perfected their plans for the Decoration Day celebration. As before stated Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes will be the orator of the day.

—The news of Wednesday contained over half a column about Corporal Tanner "wanting to be appointed Commissioner of Pensions." The fact is he was appointed weeks ago, but the news has not got as far as that yet.

—A carboy of acid in a freight car on the Central Railroad, at Somerville, broke on Wednesday night and set fire to the car. The car was side-tracked and the firemen extinguished the flames before any great damage had been done.

—A black dog with many canine admirers, was followed around by the police last evening, with the hope that one or the other of the officers could put a bullet through the animal. Late in the evening the brute found its way into North Plainfield, where it was last seen.

—The Rutgers ball team of New Brunswick, that is to meet the Y. M. C. A. Crescents of this city, to-morrow afternoon, played its first game Wednesday, and defeated the New York University nine by a score of 21 to 1. The "Rutgers" made 13 base hits and stole 15 bases, but they'll find things different, to-morrow.

A Defeated Player Tears up the Score.

The Fourth Class High School played a return game of ball with the First Class Grammar School on the Y. M. C. A., field yesterday, and defeated them by the score of 26 to 15. The Fourth Class had everything their own way from the beginning of the game to the end. Langdon of the Fourth Class made the first home run on that field.

At the end of the game one of the members of the defeated team, it is said, was mean enough to tear the score out of the score book that belonged to the Fourth Class. The batteries of the teams were: Lowrie and Langdon for the Fourth Class. and Shepherd and Flagg of the First Class.

Umpires, Ulrich and Drayton.

"A Leading Man in His Line."

Mr. W. H. Brower, of Broadway, this city, and Broadway, New York, has recently returned from the South, and the National Hotel Reporter thus speaks of him and his visit:

"Still another prominent New Yorker who has recently enjoyed a sojourn of two weeks at Hot Springs is Mr. Wm. H. Brower, the well-known florist of 955 Broadway. Mr. Brower has been engaged in this business in New York for thirty-five years, and is favorably known to all hotel keepers in that city. For many years he has furnished all the flowers for the banquets held at Delmonico's, and many hotels in the vicinity of Madison Square, and is recognized as the leading man in his line of business in the metropolis."

ANOTHER VILLIFIED BY THE "NEWS."

How Judge Bartine's Action in the Borough Wigwam Case Was Misrepresented.

The publication of the recent result of the trial of the above case, which appeared in the news, was evidently the result of the biased imagination of the defeated party rather than a fair and accurate statement of what actually transpired.

The suit, to begin with, was not in the Circuit but in the Common Pleas Court, on appeal. When it is considered that the Circuit Court would have had jurisdiction while the Common Pleas Court would not, more significance is attacked to this misstatement than at first blush appears.

Again the allegation that rumors were afloat that Judge Bartine had been given to understand if he wished his political influence and affluence (?) in North Plainfield and Somerset county to be continued, he must decide in favor of Mr. Cleaver and the Democratic party, is entirely unfounded and those who know the Judge best are the ones who also know best that no one would dare intimate such a threat in his presence, as is implied in the charge.

As to the statement that at the outset the Judge remarked he was familiar with the case—the same is a gross perversion of what was said by the Court. What he did say was this: "I am familiar with the case"—referring to the Supreme Court case then just cited by Mr. Cleaver's counsel in suport of his motion to nonsuit.

The further statement that Mr. Eliott's counsel presented a "bristling" array of arrangements and legal opinions, may be true in the sense that they were so "bristling" as to prevent the court from seeing the point in them, and may to some extent account for the adverse decision.

The article referred very judiciously omits to specify the exceptions it says Mr. Elliott's counsel frequently took to his Honor's ruling, and, (sad loss to the bar and bench of the State!) altogether abstains from stating the point of law raised by Mr. Elliott's counsel, which it says the Judge admitted had never before been brought up in the Somerset County Courts.

How exceptions could be taken is a conundrum, as no evidence whatever was taken.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. F. C. Harder has purchased the handsome home on the corner of Madison avenue and Ninth street, formerly owned by Mr. Edwin B. Day.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Haviland and family have returned to their home in Washington Park, after an absence of several months in New York.

Mr. Oscar Fay Adams, the well-known litterateur, whose parents reside in the Borough, was in Plainfield yesterday. The New York Tribune of this morning describes him as, "slight in frame, near-sighted, gray-haired and absent-minded.

The death is announced of Mrs. Hannah Bird, wife of Mr. Levi Bird which occurred at her home on Harmony street, North Plainfield, yesterday, after a long illness. The funeral will take place from the house on Sunday at 1:30 P. M.

Pleaded Guilty to the Charge.

James Murray was a defendant in Justice Nash's Court, yesterday afternoon, to answer to a charge of using foul and indecent language, preferred by James Barber. The parties live in Fanwood Township, just beyond Terrill road, and the complainant alleges that on several occasions the defendant has spoken disrespectfully to him and called him vile names. Murray pleaded guilty to the charge, and sentence was deferred until Wednesday next.

The Donkey Club.

Members of the Donkey Club can now be seen every pleasant Sunday in front of our churches. They form in "mashing" line in order to be received by the ladies as they pass out. They look exceedingly sweet and captivating standing there with their weak, gaping faces turned greedily upon the outgoing congregation, while the horribly vile smell of the cheap cigarette fills the air and renders it unfit for breathing purposes. An officer with a club is badly needed to clear the nuisance.

The Oriental's Ball.

The second annual ball of the Oriental Social Club took place in the new Saenger and Turner Hall, on Somerset street, North Plainfield, last evening. The attendance was large, notwithstanding the fact that the heat was oppressive. Prof. Sause of New York furnished the music for dancing, which continued until early this morning. Mr. Willet S. Marsh was floor manager, and Mr. J. A. Murphy and Miss Powers led the grand march.

Their Second Annual Sale.

The members of the Children's Sewing Class of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, held their Second Annual Sale at the residence of the rector, No. 108 Park avenue, last evening. The affair which was under the personal supervision of Mr. J. P. Taylor, was well attended, and many of the articles made by the children during the year were sold at reasonable prices. Ice-cream and refreshments were also served.

—Is this the way to keep North Plainfield Republican; by refusing to educate the coming voter?

HURLBUT CIRCLE.

A Feast of Reason at Its Hundredth Gathering.

Invitations to the 100th meeting of the Hurlbut circle of the C. L. S. C., drew together in Vincent chapel, last evening, a congenial gathering of members of the local circle and graduates of the courses.

It was an informal assemblage, en famille. Miss Kate Kimball, whose guiding hand at the headquarters of the C. L. S. C., in Plainfield, has carried out the wonderful success of the scheme all over the World, was present to help welcome the guests of the evening. In such efforts she was assisted by Miss Georgie Chamberlin and Miss Ida Angleman. Comfortable chairs were scattered about the floor of the auditorium, and those present drew together in irregular groups within sociable proximity to the speakers on the platform.

Mr. Robert Gorton, President of the local circle, opened the meeting by presenting Dr. Hurlbut, the first President of the circle, and requesting him to preside. All joined in singing one of the Chautauqua songs, and the Rev. C. L. Goodrich led in prayer.

Mr. George E. Vincent, the first speaker, gave a talk on Modern Athens, that was thoroughly enjoyed by every person present. He told first of the ancient ruins, and afterwards of the modern aspect, of the Greek city. He had played base ball in the parquette of an old theatre, but found nothing of past Athens about Athens of today with its horse cars and electric lights, except the names of the streets in Greek on the corners. His talk was full of amusing anecdote, and replete with a wit that smothered romance under practical good sense.

Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, the well-known author and pulpit orator of Boston, and one of the Counsellors of the S. L. S. C., entertained the assemblage with an explanation of the purposes and results of a Chautauqua course. He related a number of instances of its far-reaching effects and wide spread influence.

Miss Julia Ketcham sang a solo during the evening, accompanied by Miss Carrie Dewey. Refreshments were served about ten o'clock.

BASE BALL MATTERS.

A List of the Games Arranged for the Crescents.

Manager Joseph W. Gavett of the Crescent Base Ball Club, is filling out his calendar of the ball games which the Crescents will participate in during the coming Summer. The following is an accurate list, so far as the dates are filled in, and our readers would do well to cut it out and paste it in their hats. Unless otherwise stated the matches will take place in this city:

Saturday, May 11—Rutgers College.
May 18—Bloomfield Club.
May 22—Fat Men's Club of Plainfield.
May 25—Tenth Ward Athletic Club of Newark.
May 30—In the morning, the Alerts of Elizabeth. No game has yet been arranged for the afternoon.
June 8—West End Club at Somerville.
June 22—Ogden Club of Elizabeth.
June 29—Miller Athletic Club of Newark.
July 4—No game yet arranged for the morning. In the afternoon the Ironsides of Newark.
July 6—Ogden Club of Elizabeth.
July 13—O. N. T. Club of Newark.
July 20—Y M. C. A's at New Brunswick.
July 27—West Ends of Somerville.
Aug. 24— " at "
Sept. 7— " of "
Sept. 21—Alerts at Elizabeth.

Thus it will be seen that some of the best clubs in the State will play in this city during the coming Summer, and it is to be hoped that the lovers of this favorite sport will show their appreciation of Manager Gavett's efforts to furnish amusement for them, by patronizing the grand stand, and thus contribute toward defraying the Club's expenses.

Ex-Mayor Rockfellow to the Rescue.

A team of horses belonging to a family on Central avenue, made an attempt to enter Reynolds' Pharmacy, early this morning, and for a minute or two made things lively on the sidewalk in that neighborhood. Ex-Mayor Rockfellow went to the rescue, and soon brought the frightened animals under control. It is supposed that the horses saw the sign over the store door, reading "Whipped Cream Soda" and were eager to sample it.

A Warning.

Mayor Cooley says the North Plainfield authorities are prepared to follow up with emphasis those who are guilty of sending a threatening letter, signed "White Caps," to an estimable young woman of the Borough. The half-dozen new Borough marshals are also anxious for something to do, so the offenders had better keep shady and stop where they are.

A Disgraceful Scene.

Drunkenness among women is becoming alarmingly frequent in some of the towns of this State, and hardly a week goes by but a member of the female sex is seen under the influence of liquor. A drunken man is bad enough but a drunken woman is a sight that few care to see. There is nothing more demoralizing to the young.

THE FRAZEE LEE WILL CASE.

The Counsel for the "Heirs" Accuses the Other Side of Sharp Practice and "Smartness."

THE TIMES ... ness on Wednesday, under the title "Fighting over the Wealth of the Dead," had the following article in reference to the postponement for the term of an ejectment suit, in which the Frazee Lee heirs and Scotch Plains Baptist church are interested:

The ejectment suit of Ezra D. Hetfield et al. vs. John H. Jackson, executor and others, involving the question of the validity of the will of Frazee Lee and the title to all the real estate of which he died seized, came up before the Union County Circuit Court, yesterday. R. V. Lindabury, Esq., represented the plaintiffs, and ex-Chancellor Runyon and Messrs Jackson & Codington, the defendants. The case was postponed until the October term on the ground of the absence of two and the illness of a third, material witnesses for the defence. It is supposed to be a point gained by the defendants that this case is put off until October as in the meantime a decision on the question of the will may be obtained in the Prerogative Court, from Chancellor McGill (without a jury), which decision would be prima facie proof of the validity of the will.

Mr. R. V. Lindabury, counsel for the "heirs," in referring to the article in THE PRESS, said to a reporter of the Elizabeth Journal:

"Yes it is true that the case was postponed for the term on the ground of the absence of two of the defendants' witnesses, and the illness of a third, but whether or not the absence of these witnesses was not prearranged, and the illness of the third a mere feint is open to a serious question.

"The only material witness of the three is the minister of the church, and they sent him away to Europe, a few weeks ago, and have kept him there until the present time. He could have delayed his going until the case was tried here had he or his church thought it desirable, or his deposition could have been taken before he sailed, or his testimony taken in the probate case could have been received here by consent.

"The article in the Plainfield PRESS which was manifestly inspired by the defendants, shows the whole truth that the church people think it a point gained to successfully fight off the case for a term, but what a gain it is!

"Nothing could more clearly show the weakness of the defence. They are afraid to meet a jury of Union county, and submit to them a question of whether or not the paper on which they rest the whole case is the will of Frazee Lee.

"They seem to think that the Chancellor will decide the probate case in their favor, and his decision will help them in a jury trial; but like many other schemers, they may find themselves woefully mistaken. That the case is one of great doubt they show by their fear to meet it before a jury, and the Chancellor is an honest man, and they certainly have great risk in depending on his decision.

"They have published broadcast through the press that the chancellor refused to let them settle the case some months ago, but that is totally untrue. The heirs offered to settle with them again and again, and the pressure of public opinion became so strong that they felt forced to do something.

"They then informed the heirs that they were themselves disposed to make a settlement, but had a great doubt as to their power to do so. I insisted that there was no question about that power and suggested that if they honestly thought there was, we might submit that matter to the Chancellor. Thereupon a settle- was made, and agreed to on both sides, for $50,000, subject to the sanction solely of the church's power to make it. Instead of going with me to the Chancellor and submitting the question to him, of the power of the church to make a settlement, the church people filed a petition ex parte with the Chancellor setting forth that the heirs had made an offer to settle for $50,000 and asking his advice whether or not the executors should accept the offer. It was not stated in the petition that the church had actually agreed to accept nor were the facts and circumstances set out, which were necessary to show the advisability of its acceptance. The Chancellor did not refuse to sanction the settlement because none was submitted to him, nor did he deny the power of the church to make a settlement. I have it from his own lips that all he did was simply to decline to give advice. So much for the story that the Chancellor refused to allow the church to settle. It has been given forth to shield the church as much as possible from the public criticism on their uncompromising and intolerant position. Now, as to the Chancellor's decision in the probate case, as I have already intimated, it may disappoint the church. If it should be against them it will end the whole litigation, and we shall be saved from the labor and costs of trying the ejectment case, and the church people who might have won this case if they tried it this term, will find to their sorrow their mistake in swearing it off.

"On the other hand, if the Chancellor's decision should be for the church, the statute provides that it shall not control the matter of the real estate, the title to which can only be conclusively established by the verdict of a jury.

"Nor is it true, as stated in the Plainfield paper, that a decision of the Chancellor in favor of the will be a prima facia proof of its validity in the ejectment suit. It will be a prima facia proof of the regularity of its execution, but that is not disputed by anybody, but it will be no proof whatever of the testamentary capacity of Frazee Lee, and that is the question in the case. One of the most dangerous things in the World is smartness, and it will not be a matter of surprise if the swearing off of the ejectment case on Tuesday last, proves to the Scotch Plains Baptist church a boomerang."

INTERNATIONAL CONVENTION OF THE Y. M. C. A.

Plainfield's Association Represented by its President and its General Secretary.

The 28th International Convention of the Young Men's Christian Association assembled in the city of Philadelphia, on Wednesday last. Gen. O. O. Howard was elected temporary Chairman, and impressed the delegates by his manly Christianity. After the business incidental to the opening of the Convention, Mr. D. B. Chamberlin, who has given so liberally to Association work in Denver, Col., was elected permanent Chairman.

The afternoon session was an unusually attractive and impressive one, because of those who took part in it. A young Indian spoke of the work being done by the Y. M. C. A. for his race; Mr. McCann from Ireland, represented the 5,000 Irishmen in Associations; Mr. Burns, Secretary of the London Association—the first organized; Carl Friese of Sweeden, and others gave encouraging reports from strange and far countries. Most interest, however, was shown in the remarks of Mr. E. B. Monroe of New York, and John T. Swift, of Tokio, who told of the 80,060 students who were being reached in that great city. Mr. W. A. Hunton, the first colored Secretary, gave a very bright account of Association work for young men of the colored race.

About seven hundred and fifty delegates are in attendance, and it looks as if the expectation of the Committee that 1,000 would participate in the exercises would be fulfilled. Plainfield is represented by President W. D. Murray and General Secretary J. H. Manning.

Flannel Shirts all the Go.

Sensible men, dressy men, go-as-you-please men, athletes and dudes, all follow with gladness the fashion of wearing flannel shirts, which asserts itself with the first breath of Spring. From the revelation that the flannel shirt is a luxury during the heated term there was but a step to the discovery that the new garment is useful as well as ornamental in the Spring season; and so a numerous and increasing class of Americans have established the practice of blossoming out in fancy flannel shirts as soon as Spring overcoats may be laid aside. It is not only a proper compliance with the requirements of hygienic laws in a variable climate such as ours, but also a just and effective protest against the ugly and tyrannous custom which for two generations has encased masculine humanity, regardless of times or seasons, in stiff-starched and obnoxious muslin and linen.

The Fruit Crops.

The following prophecies are of general interest:

The pear crop will average light in consequence of its great enemy, the blight.

The strawberry crop is hardly up to the average, yet much larger than that of 1888, which was the lightest in many years.

The peach crop will be the largest ever grown. A good crop is expected at most points in the West.

The crop of apples will be much smaller than that of last year.

A Railroad for Washington Valley.

The New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad is reported to be surveying a line to Bound Brook, starting from its road near Newark. The object is to secure a connection with Philadelphia, over the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, and to bid for some of the Western trunk line business to and from that city. It is understood that the proposed route is to run through Washington Valley, where comparatively little grading will be required.

The Broker Must Make Good the Loss.

In the Union county court, Wednesday afternoon, the jury in the case of J. H. Staats vs. Randolph Steele, a suit for the recovery of the balance of a loan of money, gave the plaintiff a verdict, assessing his damages at $320, including interest.

The defendant claimed it was money given him by Staats to be invested in speculation at Staats' risk, and it was lost.

Convention Echoes.

A most interesting meeting may be expected at the Y. M. C. A., Monday evening, when reports will be received from delegates in attendance upon the 28th International Y. M. C. A. Convention, now in session in Philadelphia.

Mr. W. D. Murray will conduct the service. Members of the Association are especially urged to be present.

Beware of the Sharpers.

The prevalence of swindles is alarming. Scarce a paper can be picked up but there are accounts of new swindling schemes that are being successfully played by sharpers. These tricks are always played on fools who sign their names to documents of which they have no knowledge, and it is always done "as a mere matter of form."

IN THE PARNELL COMMISSION.

Archbishop Walsh Continues His Testimony Regarding the National League.

The Rulings of the Judges Upon Evidence Offered Will Tend to Prolong the Trial Indefinitely—Historian Kinglake Improving—Perrin's Story Was True—A Catholic Congress to Be Held in Paris. Ex-Mayor Hewitt at Blenheim.

LONDON, May 10.—Archbishop Walsh resumed his testimony yesterday in the Parnell Commission. He said that facts which had come to his knowledge proved that the influence of the National League tended to diminish crime in Ireland. The decadence of secret societies had been gradual since 1886.

The witness was aware that the League had advised tenants not to enter their complaints in the Land Court after the Parliamentary act of 1881 was passed. Subsequent events justified this advice.

The witness said he knew of only one instance in which the League was indiscreet, that was when one of the branches of the League passed a resolution deciding to publish a list of all persons in that District who were not members of the League. The witness protested against such an action and the plan was abandoned.

"As the League spread," declared the Archbishop, "secret societies vanished and the people learned to prefer open action and disliked and distrusted secret bodies and movements." Throughout the witness's diocese cases of boycotting were few and anything like intimidation was considered reprehensible.

LATE NEWS FROM ABROAD.

Archbishop Walsh's Testimony—Many Witnesses to be Called.

LONDON, May 10.—The decision of the judges of the Parnell Commission to allow Archbishop Walsh to testify only regarding matters within his own knowledge will have the effect of greatly prolonging the proceedings.

It was expected by Mr. Parnell's counsel that the Archbishop would be allowed to testify to what he had seen and heard himself, and also concerning the vast amount of information that came to him as head of a large diocese.

There is probably no man connected with the Irish movement who possesses so accurate a knowledge of Irish affairs as Archbishop Walsh, and if he had been allowed to speak freely he would have been able to do Mr. Parnell and his associates much good.

Now it will be necessary to call to the witness box a large number of Irish priests in order to rebut the testimony given by the police and their agents.

In accordance with Justice Hannen's ruling several priests from every section must testify in order that the Parnellite counsel can place proper evidence regarding the usefulness of the League and its crimeless character before the Commission.

In view of Wednesday's squabble over the reception of the Archbishop's testimony and the evident partisan ruling of the Commission the friends of Sir Charles Russell advise him to withdraw from the case. Although it is reported that Sir Charles is strongly tempted to take this step, Mr. Parnell's earnest petitions against such action will probably restrain him.

HISTORIAN KINGLAKE BETTER.

Alexander Kinglake, the aged historian, best known for his "History of the Crimean War," who was reported yesterday to be seriously ill, is somewhat better to-day.

On the 9th of April Mr. Kinglake had an operation performed to remove a cancer on his tongue and has been in rather a precarious state of health since. It is hoped now that he will recover, though his age, 79 years, is against him.

PERRIN'S STORY WAS TRUE.

The story of Perrin, the man who fired at President Carnot last Sunday, turns out, upon investigation, to be true. Misfortune had unbalanced the poor fellow's mind, and prompted him to shoot the President. M. Carnot will send Perrin's wife money, and Madame Carnot pleads for the man's release.

IT WAS A MERE "FEELER."

The German National Liberals have held a caucus and resolved to support the bill providing for workingmen's insurance.

This bill is fathered by Prince Bismarck, and he is anxious to have it passed. The action of the National Liberals insures the passage of the measure. Bismarck will speak in the Reichstag when the bill is introduced condemning the opposition of the Conservatives to it.

Westphalian Miners Will Hold Out.

BERLIN, May 10.—The striking miners in the Westphalian district have held a meeting and resolved to maintain their demand for an advance in wages, and reduced hours of labor. The miners of Belgium and Silesia have sent money to aid the strikers. The mine owners are alarmed at the prospect of outside help being given to the miners.

NO MORE LEGISLATION.

Pennsylvania's Lawmakers Conclude Their Work and Adjourn Sine Die.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 10.—Speaker Boyer had a hard time of it getting the House together yesterday after the all-night session of the night before.

After a message from the Governor announcing that he had signed a number of bills, Messrs. Moore, McKinnon and Stevenson were appointed a committee to wait on the Governor and inform him that the House was ready to adjourn.

Messrs. Jones, of Philadelphia; Allison and Flad were appointed a committee to wait on the Senate and to inform that body that the House was ready to adjourn.

Ex-Speaker Graham was called to the chair, and Mr. Dearden, in a neat speech, presented to Speaker Boyer, on behalf of the House, a silver service of knives, forks, spoons, etc., and a very large solid silver salver.

Mr. Baker, on behalf of Chief Clerk Morrison, presented Speaker Boyer with a gold charm in the shape of a gavel, with diamonds for the head.

Mr. Moore, on behalf of Clerks Morrison, Baker, Voorhees and Huhn and Sergeant-at-Arms Patterson, presented the Speaker with a diamond pin.

Mr. Fow, on behalf of the House, presented to Chief Clerk Morrison a handsome silver set.

Mr. Connell, on behalf of the House, presented to Reading Clerk Baker a purse of gold in a few appropriate remarks.

Mr. Brooks, for the House, gave to the Journal Clerk, Fetteroulf a gold watch, referring to the high esteem in which Mr. Fetteroulf was held by the members.

Mr. Wherry, for the House, made a most felicitous speech in presenting to Resident Clerk Voorhees an order for a beautiful and costly piano, hoping that it would be a sweet reminder of the members of the House, who were his constant friends.

On behalf of the House Mr. Kaufman presented to Chief Page Pyne a handsome diamond pin, and Mr. Fow, for the House gave Sergeant-at-Arms Patterson a magnificent clock; to Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms Hartman a pair of sleeve buttons, and to Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms Boyd a watch seal.

As Speaker Boyer resumed the chair he was met by ex-Speaker Graham, who complimented him highly for his efficiency and spoke feelingly of the parting.

The gavel then fell and the Speaker declared the House adjourned sine die.

IN THE SENATE.

At the opening of the session of the Senate, the President pro tem. appointed Messrs. Reyburn and Gobin as members of the Soldiers' Orphans' Commission representing the Senate; Messrs. Newmyer, Shull and Williamson were appointed a committee on behalf of the Senate to notify the Governor that the Senate was ready to adjourn sine die.

The Senate proceeded to the election of a President pro tem. Mr. Newmyer nominated Boies Penrose, and Mr. Ross nominated William McAleer. A ballot being taken Mr. Penrose was declared elected by a vote of 33 to 14. The new President was escorted to the chair by Senators Newmyer and McAleer. After a short speech he was sworn in by Judge Simonton.

A resolution offered by Mr. Cooper was adopted thanking Lieutenant-Governor Davies for the impartial manner he has presided over the sessions of the Senate.

Resolutions thanking the various other officers of the Senate were then adopted and several Senators made eulogistic remarks on the retirement of Captain Delaney.

The Senate then adjourned.

After the adjournment of the Senate a handsome silver service was presented to Hon. John C. Grady, the retiring President pro tem. The presentation speech was made by Mr. Ross, of Bucks.

Senator Newmyer, on behalf of Chief Clerk Russell Errett, presented Mr. Grady with a handsome gavel.

NEW YORK'S LEGISLATORS.

The Saxton Electoral Reform Bill Goes to the Governor.

ALBANY, May 10.—The House yesterday occupied fully one hour in concurring in Senate amendments to bills.

Among these was the Saxton Electoral Reform bill; the Senate amendments of which were concurred in by a party vote of 69 to 34 and the bill sent to the Governor.

Mr. Fish from the Special Committee to investigate questions connected with the construction of the Assembly ceiling and staircase, presented his report which was signed by all the members of the committee. Mr. McCann, he said, had also filed a separate memorandum report which was accompanied by two bills, the passage of which the committee reccommends. On motion of Mr. Gibbs the report was ordered to be printed and made a special order for next Tuesday. After some discussion, the Ceiling Committee was then discharged.

The report, in brief, refers to the flight of Contractor Snaith and the fact that the inquiry, therefore, was greatly hampered. They were satisfied that in the year 1888 John Snaith and T. J. Sullivan, contractors, and Charles B. Andrews, Superintendent of the Public Buildings, combined and conspired together to procure from the State the contract for the ceiling and staircase repairs at a price greatly in excess of the real value of the work, and by means by which they have already received $231,063.29, and claim as due to Snaith a further sum of $39,086.91 for work which was not worth more than $165,000.

The report goes into minute details as to the manner in which this conspiracy was carried into effect.

IN THE SENATE.

The special order, Mr. Fassett's Prison bill, was taken up.

Several amendments offered by Mr. Fassett were adopted.

The bill was then passed.

The most novel feature of the bill is that it provides for indeterminate sentences, so that the length of the term of imprisonment will depend to a considerable extent upon the conduct of the prisoner and the degree to which he has availed himself of the reformatory opportunities offered him.

The Senate Committee on General Laws, which was instructed on March 29, 1888, to investigate the subject of trusts and similar combinations, has reported the result of its inquiry. The majority of the committee, comprising the Republican members, Messrs. Arnold, Coggeshall, O'Connor and Walker, take the ground that trusts and similar combinations are only new forms of the ever-present struggle for supremacy in the industrial world; that they are not necessarily monopolies; that they should not be interfered with by special legislation.

The minority report, signed by Messrs. Lincoln, Langbein and Ives, the Democratic members, states that the minority cannot subscribe to the doctrine that these organizations are harmless, nor that it is safe to trust entirely to the corrective action of time and the law of supply and demand to eradicate the abuses incident to such colossal combinations of money and power.

A CANDID CRITICISM.

Mr. Sweet Receives a Picture—His Discussion with a Prominent New York Artist on the Same—An Interesting Art Talk.

WEEK before Christmas an express wagon paused in front of my humble palace in Harlem. A man with large red ears, all the tucks in which seemed to have been let out, extricated a box from his wagon and proceeded to deliver it at my door. As it was from Arkansaw I supposed it contained ripe persimmons, or some other tribute of respect from some admirer, hence I was very much elated, even after the man reminded me that there was a dollar and a half express charges on the box.

As I am the unfortunate victim of the ripe persimmon habit, I parted with the dollar and a half, and then with wild yelps of joy and a borrowed hatchet, I proceeded to tamper with the upper crust of the box.

Then I recoiled, and I will state, in the interest of science, that my recoil very much exceeded my propulsive velocity. In my anguish I used strong language, for there were no persimmons or other delicacies in the box. It contained an alleged oil painting and a letter from Satterlee V. Jones, of Cottonwood, Ark. I darted out of the house to recover the dollar and a half from the driver, but, alas! he had swum off, so to speak, with the assets.

Mr. Jones, who is one of the leading artists of Cottonwood, writes me as follows:

ALEX. E. SWEET, Esq., New York City—My Dear Sir: I send you a beautiful oil painting, a real gem, executed entirely by myself. As you will observe it is a landscape.

My object in sending you this gem is to enable you to compare it with imported paintings on exhibition in your city. My friends here say that it can not be equalled by any of the old masters in New York.

If you encourage me to do so, I shall move to New York in the spring. I am sure I would enjoy myself very much painting little bits of scenery on the Hudson, rocks and trees and the like.

What I want is your candid, not your candied opinion, Mr. Sweet.

Yours truly,
SATTERLEE V. JONES.

I immediately sat down, and seizing my most sarcastic pen by the neck, wrote Mr. Jones as follows:

MY DEAR SIR: Many thanks for your kindness in sending me the work of art, on which there was a dollar and a half unpaid express charges. While I am not an artist, still I am not entirely artless, so to speak. Your little picture is undoubtedly a gem, and I congratulate you on your success as a gemist.

A well-executed picture like the one before me is a perpetual teacher of refinement. A silent influence ever goes forth from a picture of that class. We feel its force and we order our lives accordingly. It grows into one's soul and leaves a dreamlike pleasure which years of hardship and toil can not obliterate. You can send back the dollar and a half by postal note or money order.

Thanking you again for the confidence bestowed on me, and hoping to hear from you soon, I remain, yours truly,
ALEX. E. SWEET.

P. S.—I was just about to mail this letter when I received a visit from my old friend, Prof. Mahlstick, of the National Academy of Design. Besides being one of the greatest of living painters, he is a recognized critic on all matters pertaining to art. Thinking you would like to have my favorable criticism corroborated by such high authority, I submitted your picture to him. He examined it carefully, and turning it over looked on the back and asked:

"Well, what is it?"

After telling him that the unpaid express charges alone were one dollar and a half, I explained that it was a landscape, but he evidently did not believe me.

He insisted that the ecru colored mountain in the background was a dromedary, and he called my attention to its four legs. I maintained that it was a mountain, but the professor said he had heard of the foot of a mountain, but no mountain ever had four legs. He rather got the better of me in the argument. I think you must have inadvertently painted the legs on that mountain. I know it placed me in a very awkward position, and the professor even intimated that I didn't know any more about art than you do, which is rather tough on me. I wish you would be more careful in the future where you put your legs.

We had another dispute about the two trees in the foreground. He could not understand why two men should stand on their heads and wave their legs around. He evidently mistook the limbs of the tree for the legs of men standing on their heads. He wanted to bet, but when I thought of that dollar and a half I hedged.

The professor is not quite satisfied with the cow. She is leaning back on her tail, and no real cow does that, hence he concluded that it must be a kangaroo, although the horns bothered him somewhat. He said that he would compromise and take the supposed cow for a ship, but when he observed the absence of spars he clung to the kangaroo theory, although, seen from one stand-point, it looked like the execution of Charles I.

The professor also expected me to tell him what was the meaning of the big red dog on the roof of the house, and what the mashed-raspberry wagon wheel was doing in the sky, that is if the rag carpet in the background is meant for the firmament.

I told him that the red dog was a bird, and the cart wheel was the setting sun. Am I right about it? Let me know about it when you remit the dollar and a half unpaid express charges.

In criticizing the picture, Prof. Mahlstick said something about the superfluity of the inconsistent coloring within the confines of the foliage on the left marring the toot onsemble, while the chiara oscuro was altogether too a la mode and de trop.

Perhaps you know what he means by these technical terms. I don't. The nearest I ever came to being an artist was when my father proposed to apprentice me to a painter and glazier.

When I spoke to the professor about your coming to New York and painting rocks and bits of scenery on the Hudson, he yawned and said:

I asked the professor if he couldn't give you any hints, and he told me to write you to get treated for color blindness, and to buy cheaper canvas; so you see, Satterlee, he takes considerable interest in you. He also said something about painting your nose, but I forgot what it was. However, he did say that your landscape reminded him of "a busted vermilion factory."

I also questioned professor in regard to your drawing. After examining once more very critically the drawing in your landscape, he said that he had no doubt but that your chances for drawing a turkey at a raffle were as good as anybody else's. In regard to what he called "tecnique" of your landscape, his criticism was less favorable. He said that you didn't know as much about "technique" as a double nose pointer knew about the refraction of light; and he suggested that you devote your time to painting signs, fences, wagon bodies and the like. He also said that if you worked hard, and improved a great deal, you might become an amateur artist in about ten years.

I hope you will not find it unpleasant to take this advice. Very often advice is like castor oil—easy enough to give, but hard to take. However, console yourself with the idea that possibly the professor is actuated by motives of professional jealousy, and he is merely trying to discourage you from coming to New York.

Before closing this letter I desire to call your attention to the dollar and a half unpaid express charges that were almost wrenched from me by the expressman who delivered your pictures. Shall I draw on you for the amount? Your failure to reimburse me is calculated to set me back about six months in my finances.

It is true that my toes do not protrude through my boots into the atmosphere as copiously as they did when I first started in journalism, and my meals are assimilated with much greater regularity now than formerly; but, nevertheless, I feel the loss of that dollar and a half keenly. I should prefer to feel the dollar and a half itself.

You must remember that we New Yorkers have to be very economical in order to complete the Grant monument during the present century. At present, one of the first things that strikes the eye of the visitor is the atmosphere in which the Grant monument is going to rise—as soon as we have got the money.

All that we need to complete the one million dollar monument is the money. We have any number of designs of the monument, but the design to pay for it is much needed.

You would be surprised, my dear artist friend, and debtor to the tune of a dollar and a half, at the numerousness of people in New York who say Grant needs no monument, that they carry his memory in their hearts. They seem to have a working majority in both houses. They are the same people who never have but one cigar about them when you want to smoke.

Every thing progresses in New York except the Grant monument fund, but if you will promptly remit the dollar and a half unpaid express charges I will give it a boom.

Prof. Mahlstick has examined your landscape again, and requests me to ask you to send him your photograph. He says he wants to see what the man looks like who painted that picture. You can send it when you remit the dollar and a half unpaid express charges. Send it at once. Hoping to hear from you soon, I remain, Yours truly,
ALEX. E. SWEET

THE oldest known manuscript is part of the Iliad, found in Upper Egypt.

IT was not an uncommon practice for the poor in the middle ages to sell themselves into slavery, or to become slaves by debt.

THE Hohenzollerns, the reigning family of Prussia, refers its origin to Thasillo, who, about 800, built the castle of Hohenzollern in Suabia.

A STANDARD dictionary of the Chinese language, containing about forty thousand characters, was perfected by Pa-out-she, who lived about 1100 B. C.

THE Plymouth colony remained a commonwealth district until 1691, a period of seventy-one years, when, greatly to the chagrin of the colonists, they were included under the new royal charter for Massachusetts.

THE battle of the Nile was fought August 1, 1798, between the French fleet under Brueys and the English under Nelson. It was at the commencement of this battle that Nelson exclaimed: "Victory or Westminster Abbey!"

BALLOONING, although the subject as a theory had engaged attention for many years, received its greatest influence from the discovery by Henry Cavendish in 1776 that hydrogen gas is 10.8 lighter than common air. Joseph Mongolfier originated the use of hot air in balloons in 1792. Charles Green introduced coal gas and used it in an ascent made July 19, 1821.

AN INGENIOUS SETTEE.

How to Make It and Where to Put It—A Good Suggestion.

A mantel-piece without a fire-place always gives the appearance that something is wanting. This air of vacancy is practically dispelled in the construction of a settee under the mantel-piece.

For this purpose take an ordinary pine box about four feet long, one and one-half feet high and two feet wide. On the top tack a cushion filled with excelsior packing. Along the wall, which serves as the back fasten a piece of an old comforter or blanket

THE SETTEE.

Also make two large, square pillows stuffed with feathers or packing. Beginning close under the mantel-piece, the whole is neatly covered with a knit afghan of bright yarns, or with a crazy-patchwork quilt. The pillows are covered to match. Each end of the box may be finished with a puff of plush, fastened in the center with cord and tassels.
ANNA HINRICHS.

Donn Piatt.

"Donn Piatt is a double nature," says one of his old admirers in Washington City. "He has the faculty of sense, common sense, clear reason, highly developed. Then, when he chooses to assume it, he is as complete a specimen of nonsense as ever lived. He seems equally able to assume either faculty and permit it to dominate him in all of his writings and sayings. He is a nervous, excitable man, but that is owing to impaired health and his army experience. But, after all, there is no warmer heart, no truer friend, anywhere on earth."

M'LAUGHLIN RULED OFF.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 10.—The sensation of the day's races here was the jockeying of Terra Cotta by McLaughlin, but though he was ruled off the general sentiment is that it was an error of judgment on his part rather than an attempt at intentional fraud.

It was in the fourth race, the Rock City Handicap. Hamlet got off first, but Clara C. was in front passing the stand. She was in the lead all the way around and won by a neck from Santalene, Terra Cotta three length away. McLaughlin rode like a demon down the stretch and could have won on Terra Cotta easily, but thinking Leavy could win on his stable companion Santalene, he pulled Terra Cotta almost double, but Leavy failed to come to the front and Clara C. took the race.

The crowd set up a yell of foul, and after some delay the judges gave the purse to Clara C. but ruled Jockey McLaughlin and Terra Cotta off the track, reserving their decision as to the place horses.

THE NATIONAL GAME

Gossip of the League and Association Clubs.

MANY NEW YORKERS DISGUSTED

Fault Found with the Showing Thus Far Made by the Giants.

Washington, Chicago and Louisville Also Come in for a Share of the Fault-Finding—Something Wrong with the Cincinnati Club—The Clevelands Playing a Rattling Game of Ball—The East is Stronger than the West in the League.

NEW YORK, May 11.—At present the New York team is reaping the penalties of adversity. When the team started on their first Eastern trip, Manager Mutrie promised to win at least two-thirds of the games in Philadelphia and Boston. He has not only failed to fulfill that promise, but on the contrary his team fell easy victims to the "Phillies," and its inability to get a run with Clarkson in the box for the Hubites made many New Yorkers disgusted.

The defeats they attributed to the absence of Tim Keefe from the team, and a howl went up from many lovers of the game commanding the New York Club to sign the king twirler at any price, and a satisfactory interview followed between President Day and the popular pitcher. But even if Keefe had been with the club this trip, which has been far from satisfactory, he could not have pitched all the games, and there is no assurance that he could win all those he would have officiated in.

Nor is the New York team the only one in the land at which the faultfinders are aiming their darts. Look at the Washington team, which had up to Wednesday not won a game. Chicago, too, is being ridiculed by the Windy City press and public because it is not mounting the victorious column. In the Association the ill-success of the Louisvilles has filled the heart of President Davidson with disgust and he is longing for retirement from the diamond.

Cincinnati is another of the clubs whose lot has been far from a happy one. There is something wrong with the team, but where the trouble lies no one will venture to say. It is much stronger individually than it was a year ago and the men are all on the best of terms and anxious to win; yet they have been defeated seven times out of eight by the Browns, and have also fallen easy victims frequently to the Kansas City and Louisville aggregations.

The Clevelands are playing a rattling game of ball, and if they continue their good work they will be good drawing cards in every League city, for most of their faces are new. The team has so far held its own against its rivals of the West, and if it continues to do so will be an important factor in the pennant race.

At present it appears as though the East was somewhat stronger than the West. Philadelphia is superior to Pittsburg, Boston is far superior to Cleveland, Anson's reconstructed team is weak compared to the Giants, but Washington can scarcely be called the superior of the Hoosiers.

In the American Association the determination of President Davidson to quit the baseball business on account of the lack of success of his team and the disruption in the St. Louis Club have been the principal features during the week.

The games played by the American Association clubs yesterday resulted as follows: Brooklyn 10, Cincinnati, 7; Athletic 2, Louisville 0. At St. Louis and Kansas City—Rain.

Do the Dwyers Want Ivy City?

WASHINGTON, May 13.—For the past several days there have been many mysterious rumors concerning the National Jockey club, and the burden of them was that the Dwyer Brothers were endeavoring to obtain possession of the Ivy City track. President Olmstead gives emphatic denial to these stories, and says that the club is now making extensive preparations for the fall meeting.

The Francklyn Cottage to be Sold.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., May 13.—The Cottage hotel at Elberon and the cottage of Charles G. Francklyn, in which President Garfield died, are to be sold at public sale this afternoon. The sale has been ordered under a foreclosure suit brought against Mr. Francklyn by Mrs. McEvers Gosling, the wife of Col. Gosling, of the English army. The mortgage is for $100,000, which Mr. Francklyn borrowed in 1883. It covers the hotel and cottage furniture and 281,094 square feet of land. The furniture used by President Garfield is still in the cottage.

Minister Whitelaw Reid in Paris.

PARIS, May 13.—Mr. Whitelaw Reid, the new American Minister, arrived here yesterday. He was welcomed at the railway station by the staff of the United States Legation.

ON FIRE AT SEA.

The Fearful Experience of the Passengers on the Steamer Rugia.

LONDON, May 13.—The steamer Rugia, which sailed from New York May 2 for Hamburg, put into Plymouth at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

On the night of May 8 the cotton which was stowed in her after hold took fire from spontaneous combustion and in spite of the efforts made to subdue the flames the fire spread rapidly. When the iron bulkhead doors were opened the heat was intense and many of the passengers were scorched. The cotton bales stowed around the passengers luggage room ignited and the flames were fed by casks of lard near by. The cabins were flooded and the passengers were compelled to remain on deck forty-eight hours.

Five hours before the flames were extinguished everything was put in readiness to take to the boats and leave the vessel to her fate. Certain men, passengers and members of the crew made an attempt to desert the ship prematurely, but the captain prevented them from doing so by pointing his revolver at them and declaring he would kill the first man who left the ship until he gave the order.

Finally all hope of saving the ship was abandoned, and the order was given to lower the boats, when the idea occurred to the captain to try steam instead of water. The order to lower the boats was countermanded and volumes of steam were poured into the fire-stricken portion of the ship, with the result of extinguishing the flames and assuring the safety of all on board.

One hundred and thirty burning bales of cotton were thrown overboard. When the confidence of the passengers in their safety was restored, they presented the captain and crew with an address expressing their thankfulness and admiration of the bravery of the officers and men, and also distributed among them gifts in remembrance of the perilous experience through which they had passed.

SUSPENDED FOR FIVE YEARS.

Men Who Have Been Labor Leaders Are Shut Out of the Central Union.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The Central Labor union has at last completed its organization, and although it did not make as clean a sweep as some labor men desired, what it did do, will, it is said, prove satisfactory to a large number of workingmen in and around New York.

The Union unanimously agreed to the report of the Credentials committee, whereby Edward Finkelstone, of the Barbers' union; Isaac Wood, ex-secretary of the Central Labor union; John G. Jones, ex-walking delegate of the Operative Painters union, and John Morrison, president of the Carpet Workers' National union, are debarred from being delegates in the Union or its sections for five years. The cause of their suspension was alleged to be their connection with the pool beer "boodle" case. The committee wanted James P. Archibald, Paper Hangers' union; Matthew Barr, Tin and Sheet Iron workers; Walter Keech, Carpenters' union; P. J. Heybyrne, Barbers', and Joseph Harris, Brushmakers' unions, kept out because of their "pernicious activity" in politics last Fall in both the old parties. This the Union thought was going too far, and it disagreed with the report and the delegates were seated. So were the delegates from the Ale and Porter Brewery employes and Gotham Association of Knife Garment cutters.

IT WAS BOOK AGENT LYNCH.

UTICA, N. Y., May 13.—The mutilated body of the man found in the Erie canal Friday, has been identified as that of J. T. Lynch, a canvasser for a book concern in Rochester. He left that city about the 1st of May for a visit to his mother at Glens Falls, to which place he bought a through ticket. It is punched as far as Utica.

Nothing has yet been learned as to his whereabouts after arriving here. It appears he was addicted to the use of liquor and occasionally drank to excess. Whether he accidentally fell into the canal or was thrown in the coroner has been unable to determine. The fact that part of his clothing was missing and that his pockets were turned inside out looks suspicious, but his relatives say he had little money.

Lynch was about 36 years and had received a college education. He leaves a wife living at Rochester. The body will be taken to Glens Falls for burial.

Kilrain's Opinion of Sullivan.

BALTIMORE, May 13.—A friend of Jake Kilrain has received a letter from the pugilist. It is dated London. Among other things he says: "I am feeling fairly well. I see by some of the papers that John L. looks well. That's good. He will want to be well on July 8, but I saw him look good when he was to meet Charlie Mitchell in New York, but he got out of it by saying he was too sick to fight. He looked well in France but got the shivers soon after he got in the ring. Now, if I can get as fit as when I fought Jem Smith I don't care a darned bit how he looks and feels. All I ask is a fair fight and the best man wins."

That Assembly Ceiling.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 13.—The Capitol Commissioners, Governor Hill, Lieutenant-Governor Jones and Speaker Cole will meet on Wednesday next to consider the recommendations contained in the Fish report of the Assembly Ceiling matter, and the probable action of the Assembly. It is understood that Charles Andrews, Superintendent of Public Buildings, will be removed, and that J. W. Van Valkenburg, of this city, who is reported to be the choice of Governor Hill, will be appointed in Mr. Andrews' place. Mr. Van Valkenburg was formerly superintendent of the Delaware and Hudson Canal company.

To Help His Partner.

BOSTON, May 13.—S. F. Woodman, of Hatch & Woodman, insurance agents, this city, has started for Burlington, Colorado, to assist his partner, Mr. Hatch, who is under arrest there charged with the murder of an uncle. Mr. Woodman says there is no doubt that Mr. Hatch is the victim of false swearing and circumstantial evidence. He was on friendly terms with [illegible] and intended to assist him [illegible]

Some Light on the Butler-Porter Controversy.

THE HARRIET LANE'S LOG-BOOK.

The Admiral Says It Is Missing Because the Confederates Captured the Vessel.

Why the Charleston's Trial Trip Was a Failure—The Colombian Republic as Eldorado for Emigrants from This Country—Gossip About the Appointment of a Minister to Germany—Notes from the National Capital.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—The log-book of the Harriet Lane, which was Admiral Porter's flagship at the time when General Butler says the Admiral ran away, became for a brief period a document of great importance in the Butler-Porter controversy, because it could not be found.

General Butler in his hunt for evidence looked in the files and records of the Navy department for this log-book. He could not find it and reported the fact to Secretary Tracy, who set a force of clerks at work, searching for it.

When Admiral Porter was told the book was missing, he said: "You know that the Harriet Lane was captured by the Confederates under General Magruder in Galveston harbor, several months after the fight at Fort Jackson. The enemy were not in the habit, when they captured one of our vessels, of sending her log-book and her signal-book and other papers to Washington for safe keeping. No, I don't wonder that they didn't find the log-book, but I wish they had. I think it would have shown some things Butler would not like to see."

Santa Barbara, Cal., May 11. Secretary of the Navy, Washington. Trial of Charleston made to-day a failure owing to starboard engine slides heating. No trouble with port engine. Average revolutions for 15 minutes 107; maximum horse power 5,500; speed 18½ knots. At speeds up to 90 revolutions, vacuum 27 inches. Vacuum decreased as speed increased, falling at highest speed to 23 inches. Boiler supplied steam freely. Benham, Commander.

Secretary Tracy said to your representative in explanation of this report that the announcement that the trial was a failure was perhaps susceptible of wrong interpretation. It was a failure owing to certain conditions which could, no doubt, be remedied easily.

Edmund W. P. Smith, for eight years United States Consul at Carthagena, Colombia, and now a merchant of that city, is in Washington on a visit.

"There is a great field for American enterprise in the Republic of Colombia," said Mr. Smith to your representative. "Electric lights, water works and ice machines are particularly wanted. The Government is disposed to be particularly liberal. Concessions will be given to bonafide capitalists for twenty-five years, and in the case of the water works the Government will guarantee 7 per cent. on the capital invested for twenty-five years. Emigration is particularly desired, and in order to infuse new blood into the Republic the Government will pay the passage of an emigrant, give him six dollars a month, 200 acres of land, a cow, two pigs, a plow and help him build his house, and transport him free from the seaport to the point where he desires to locate.

"Dr. Nunez, the President of the Republic, is doing all in his power to develop the resources of the country, and has decided to completely change his policy towards the United States and to favor, as much as he possibly can, commercial and other friendly intercourse between the two Republics. He will send representatives to the Pan-American Conference here.

"There has been a great change of feeling on the part of Colombians toward the United States. Formerly they were very suspicious, and it was all because they totally misunderstood the Monroe doctrine. They thought that 'America for Americans' really meant America for the United States, and suspicion and jealousy were industriously fanned by the English, German and French merchants, to whose interest it was to control their trade. The foreign trade of Colombia amounts to $36,000,000 annually, and the United States gets very little of it. The English and Germans control most of it. The United States ought to have it. Carthagena is only distant four and a half days from New Orleans and seven days from New York."

A private letter from Berlin relates that the question who is to be the American minister at that court is a matter of much interest among the German officials.

It says: "The general belief is that when the Samoan Conference has done its work one of the commissioners, William Walter Phelps, will receive the appointment as minister. The London Times, of April 22 asserted that it is so understood, and it is a curious fact which I learned at the American Legation, that Prince Bismarck sent the other day to the legation to make inquiries about the particulars of Mr. Phelps' public career. It looked as though the Chancellor had had some private intimation that Mr. Phelps was to be made minister."

The funeral of the late Major-General Harney took place yesterday from the Pennsylvania Railroad depot. The remains were escorted to Arlington cemetery by the two troops of cavalry from Fort Myer under the command of Col. Carpenter. Mrs. Harney accompanied the remains, and the eight body-bearers were selected from the oldest sergeants of the Third artillery from the artillery barracks here.

A $15,000 COLLECTION.

The Plates Were Passed in the Crescent Avenue Church With Unprecedented Result—A Large Sum Subscribed for the Asking.

At the close of a sermon that dwelt upon the righteousness of erecting and devoting to God and his service, the best houses that money could buy, the pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, the Rev. Wm. R. Richards, yesterday morning, told his congregation that the sum of $15,000 was necessary to make the alterations and extensions to church and chapel that had been decided on.

"A little while ago," he said, "I asked you for $4,000 for a similar purpose, but with so little faith that if you had subscribed three-quarters of the amount, I would have given out the doxology with satisfaction." This time he asked for almost four times that amount.

The trustees first distributed subscription cards through the pews on which those who had not the amount then and there, could write what they would give and the date payable. The plates were subsequently passed to gather in these cards, and it was found that without counting the subscriptions of some who were not present, but had stated their desire to give, $12,339 had been collected.

The pastor then confessed that again had he been lacking in faith. Besides the amount collected, it is now known that Messrs Chas. Hyde, Lawrence Myers and James Closson had offered to make up any deficiency in the sum needed.

Below is the report of the church for the year, giving its contributions to religious and charitable work abroad and at home:

Memorial Day Exercises.

The city officials and various organizations in this city have been invited by the Memorial Day detail from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., to join with the Post in the Decoration Day celebration. The members of the detail will meet again on Tuesday evening, the 21st inst., to hear from the several organizations and societies which may decide to take part in the exercises.

In the morning the Post will go to Westfield in a body, accompanied by the Plainfield Cornet Band, and take part in the dedication ceremonies of the new soldiers' monument in Fairview cemetery. In the afternoon at three o'clock the usual exercises will take place in Music Hall, and will include singing by the children, Post exercises and an oration by Rev. Dr. Yerkes.

Capt. DeHart, in command of Co. C., Third Regiment, of Elizabeth, may perhaps stop over with his Company in this city on their return from Somervile, where the regiment will be inspected on Memorial Day.

The Memorial Day detail will leave nothing undone that will interfere with the successful carrying out of their plans, and the public in general should give the veterans their hearty support and co-operation for so worthy an undertaking.

Their May Walk.

About forty of the members of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein Society met at Blatz's Hotel, in North Plainfield, early yesterday morning, and at five o'clock started out on their annual May walk. The party walked to Washington Rock, and to a point about a mile West of there, where a halt was made. During the day refreshments were served, and the regular May festival was observed by the society. The return was made early in the evening.

THAT'S THE WAY!

The Crescent Y. M. C. A.'s Defeat Themselves.

Twenty-two errors by the Crescents as shown in the detailed score below—most of which were made in the first two innings of the game—tell the reason of the shameful defeat that was administered to the local nine by the Rutgers College team, on Saturday afternoon.

Every man on the Plainfield team who had a chance, made an error; and, in fact, not one missed the chance except Nearing who ran no risk himself because he let Demarest cover all the field. "Bill-lee-Lee," and "Dave" Condon, the pets of the crowd, even, made the worst kind of errors and the most costly. Everybody was off, and the big attendance that crowded both grand stands and the fences was the most disgusted and disappointed lot that ever assembled at a ball game in Plainfield. Dilts took Nearing's place in the ninth inning.

If any credit is due any one, it is due Cornwell for his plucky playing in spite of hard luck. After the life had been knocked out of him by a Rutgers base-stealer, and he had been hit in the eye by a ball from his own bat, he assisted the whole three men out in one inning and made a home run off a foul ball.

All were to blame for Saturday's defeat, but it is probable it will never occur again. The Plainfield Y. M. C. A's have a strong team this year, although the loss of Dilts and McCutchen is not yet repaired. It has been proven, however, that Nearing is not a necessity. Demarest is just as effective a pitcher without practice, and Condon went in the box himself, Saturday, and struck out three men in one inning.

The manager's attention should be given to strengthening his field and not so much to the battery. Under this year's rules there will be more batting no matter who the pitcher is. Consequently a hundred-dollar-pitcher with a four-dollar nine won't win a game.

LOCAL OBITUARY.

REV. JOHN SIMONSON.

At his home on Park avenue, this city, at about eleven o'clock on Saturday evening, occurred the death of Rev. John Simonson, at one time pastor of the First Reformed Dutch church here. The deceased was in the 73d year of his age, and his illness dated back for a considerable period. His death resulted from bronchial trouble superinduced by general debility. The deceased's wife died a few years since.

The First Reformed Dutch church (now known as Trinity Reformed) was erected by a denomination of people calling themselves the Union Baptists, in 1861, with Rev. Mr. Mason as the first pastor. A few years later, a split in the First Presbyterian church resulted in one portion of the congregation forming themselves into a body of worshippers known as the Baptists. This body at first held their services in the old Seventh Day Baptist church, and subsequently joined with the Union Baptists and took possession of the First Reformed Dutch church. It was then that Rev. Dr. Simonson was called to the pastorate, and he continued in that capacity for about five years.

At the end of that time, Rev. Dr. Simonson was obliged to give up active work in the pulpit on account of ill health and he has since lived a retired life. At his retirement, a part of the church consistory resigned and organized what subsequently merged into the Congregational church, with Rev. Dr. Smith as the first pastor.

The deceased was a man of considerable means. During his connection with the church he contributed liberally toward charitable and benevolent institutions, some of his donations to the church being a handsome communion service, the pew racks and chandeliers.

The funeral will take place from the deceased's late residence, No. 104 Park avenue, to-morrow at 4:30 P. M. Interment at Newtown, Long Island, on Wednesday.

—The Union County Freeholders will meet on Thursday afternoon of this week.

...HE SECRETARY'S REPORT.

...years have passed since first a ...nd of ladies met to form this ..., which now numbers 50 active members.

Although during the year we have had but three new members, yet unusual interest has been shown. We have had an average attendance of twenty-three members at our regular meetings for business which have been held once a month. The social meetings have been held quite frequently and under the direction of the Sewing Committee, much work has been accomplished at these meetings, as was shown by the box of clothing sent to a Western minister's family at Christmas. A barrel of clothing has been sent to a ...ister in the South. Bedding has been ...de and sent to the Muhlenberg ...pital.

...or different committees show much ...k accomplished during the year. ...e receptions have been given. Flow... have been furnished for all the special ...rvices of the church.

The Boards of Foreign and Domestic ...issions have each received our annual ...donations. Reports have been received ...rom the committees in charge, from the ...Relief Association, the Children's Home, the Muhlenberg Hospital and the temperance organizations, and when help has been asked we have answered the appeal.

The Debt Committee are in active work with the Consistory, and we hope will do much toward liquidating the church debt.

During the year each new member of the congregation has been called upon. The sick have been visited—in one case a nurse was provided, and one patient was sent to the hospital for two weeks.

The poor of the church have been cared for. At Thanksgiving seven families were provided with provisions.

During the year past the angel of death has again been in our midst. we know not where the summons will come to us. May each one of us do the work nearest, then in the end may we hear: "Well done, good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many, enter thou into the joys of the Lord."

MRS. CHAS. P. LEGGETT, Sec.

Nature Unadorned.

A great display of nature unadorned was exhibited along Cedar Brook in the vicinity of Richmond street, during the humidity of the weather, last week. On Thursday groups of small boys were seen in bathing without the formality of bathing suits which is in direct violation of the City ordinance. While the boys were thus amusing themselves, one of the neighbors appeared on the spot, and gathering up all the loose wearing apparel, carried it home. The boys were indeed in a sad predicament.

THIRTY NEW LAWS.

Governor Green Disposes of a Batch of Bills.

Governor Green, Friday, had thirty approved laws filed at the office of the Secretary of State. Among them were the following:

Senate 170, prohibits any person except in his own case or that of an infant from prosecuting or defending any action in a court unless he be a licensed attorney. The act does not apply to Justices of the Peace.

Senate 241, gives Boards of Freeholders power to appropriate a sum not exceeding $5,000 for the erection of monuments in commemoration of the soldiers and sailors of the late war, when the organization of veteran soldiers in that county shall raise by voluntary contribution a sum equal to at least 50 per cent. of the amount appropriated.

House 94, authorizes the sale of any article upon which any workmen may have a lien or any lien may be placed thereon for labor or materials and the same be sold in ten months after the debt therefor became due.

House 210, construes the law relating to the publishing of laws so that regular newspapers shall be given preference over those non-political.

House 219, authorizes all boards of health to license cleaners of cesspools, etc., and fix a fee of $20 therefor.

Joint Resolution No. 2, asks Congress to pass a law granting pensions to every honorably discharged Union soldier who was confined in rebel prisons.

Song Bird Killers.

Last week Mr. Percy C. Ohl, who resides just inside the city limits on Central avenue, arrested four young men, at two different times, for shooting song and insectivorous birds in the swamp adjoining his residence. The parties all claimed they did not know they were violating any law as they were shooting birds for scientific purposes. Mr. Ohl allowed them to go after administering a rebuking lesson to them.

One of the parties is an amateur taxidermist, who sells his specimens after mounting them. It is said that other parties, young sons of prominent citizens of this city, are in the habit of killing song birds with the deadly Flobert rifle and shot gun. It may be well for the parents of these youngsters to know that the laws of New Jersey impose a fine of fifty dollars on any person caught killing a song or insectivorous bird, and that no person can give another the privilege to kill these birds for scientific purposes.

The New Jersey Game and Fish Protective Society have placed detectives in various parts of the teritory where mob depredations as above mentioned have occurred and propose to arrest and fine every violator of Chapter CCVII, Laws of New Jersey, passed April 30, 1885. The names of the parties arrested by Mr. Ohl, who is President of the Game Society, are withheld for the present. A repetition of their acts will bring them before a court of justice.

Sweet Music, and a Sermon by Robert Collyer.

Camp stools in the side aisles were necessary to accomodate the congregation of all sects that assembled in the Seventh Day Baptist church, last evening, to hear the Rev. Robert Collyer, pastor of the Church of the Messiah, New York city.

He gave an interesting and entertaining discourse that in a very tempting way placed before his hearers the broadness of the Unitarian church. The need of such a church in every community was explained, and the speaker finally stated that it was the intention of members of the sect in Plainfield to establish such a society.

The music was particularly pleasing. Mr. W. J. McClymont, organist of the Church of the Holy Cross, and Mr. Eli Long, Jr., violinist, were the instrumental performers.

Reform Hall.

At the meeting in Reform Hall, last evening, the President being absent, Vice President Harper occupied the chair. Prayer was offered by Mr. Angleman, Jr., and all the members of Mr. Vanderbeek's choir were at their posts of duty.

The speaker, as announced, was Samuel A. Haines, Esq., of Netherwood. His text was "What next?" and ably and eloquently did he argue against the evils of liquor, and for that glorious day when the liquor traffic would be entirely suppressed. Mr. Haines wields great platform power. There is no compromise about him, he discards the license system in every shape, and goes straight forward for prohibition. His remarks commanded, as they always do, profound attention.

S. P. C. A. Meeting.

The Plainfield Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will hold a meeting to-night at the office of the Chief of Police, T. J. Carey, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of framing constitution and by-laws for the Society. All members are requested to be present.

WM. A. CODDINGTON, Sec.

Union County Indictments.

It is rumored that important indictments have been found by the Grand Jury of Union County, now in session at Elizabeth. It is whispered that a surprise is in store for certain well-known individuals in that city.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

OUR FAST WARSHIP.

The New Charleston Shows Herself One of the Fastest War Vessels Afloat.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., May 13.—The cruiser Charleston left port Saturday morning, steaming south for sixty miles, and, turning north again, went ahead under a full head of steam, making an average speed of eighteen and one-quarter knots, with a development of 5,500-horse power and 107 revolutions of her engines. This record was maintained for seventeen minutes, and establishes the fact that as the Charleston stands she is one of the fastest modern fighting machines afloat, not only of her type but inclusive of the entire class of cruisers in American or foreign navies. The starboard, high-pressure side, which developed some hard spots in the steel on the trip outward from San Francisco, and which it was hoped had been eliminated, compelled the starboard engines to lower its speed, and highest development of steam power for four continuous hours was therefore made impossible. The port engine continued to run at full speed for more than an hour, behaving perfectly, but was then allowed to decrease to about 90 revolutions, under which speed both engines were driven till the ship had returned to her anchorage off this port Saturday night.

FIVE BREWERIES COMBINE.

A Big Corporation Formed with a Capital Stock of $4,750,000.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Three big lagar beer breweries in Newark, one in this city and one in Albany were combined last week in a great brewing corporation, with a capital stock of $4,750,000. The owners of the plant are Gottfried Krueger, the brewer king of Newark; Mrs. Christiana Trefz, of Newark, Peter Hauck, of East Newark, Adolph Hupfel, of this city, and the Albany Brewing comoany. Lawyer Robert Bliss, of 120 Broadway, aided in forming the corporation, and it is understood that Alexander Gibbs & Co. are its financial agents. Krueger's brewery is the largest in the scheme, and it is understood that it has been taken at a valuation of $2,000,000, and that he is to receive half in cash and the other half in stock. The valuation upon Hauck's brewery is said to be $1,000,000, and he gets the same terms. Mrs. Trefz's is valued at $600,000, Hupfel's at $600,000, and the Albany Brewing company's at $500,000. The management of the breweries is to remain entirely in the hands of the former owners, and the money to pay these owners fifty per cent. in cash will be raised by the sale of stock, and will amount to about $2,500,000.

SEE-SAW FOR THE POSTOFFICE.

Parties May Come and Go, but Barker and Fowler Hold the Fort.

NORWICH, Conn., May 13.—"N. O. Barker, of Lebanon, has just received his commission as postmaster for that place, vice F. P. Fowler, removed."

Under this apparently unimportant bit of news is concealed an interesting little story of the past, present and future location of the Lebanon postoffice. Mr. Fowler was appointed postmaster by President Cleveland nearly four years ago, to succeed Mr. Barker, who had held the office for sixteen years. Now Mr. Barker has been reinstated. The point of the story is that Messrs. Barker and Fowler are the members of a grocery firm, and the change in postmasters has made no change in the location of the office or the personnel of the officials, except that in one case Mr. Barker has been assistant to Mr. Fowler, and in the other case Mr. Fowler will now become assistant to Mr. Barker.

The Lebanon postoffice has, therefore, occupied the same location for the past twenty years, and has been operated by the same people in spite of partisan changes of postmasters by Republican and Democratic administrations.

Accused of Killing Kessinger.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 13.—M. H. Henderson, general freight and passenger agent of the Raritan River railroad, was arrested at his house in South Amboy yesterday and lodged in jail in this city. He is accused of the murder of George Kessinger, who was killed last Sunday in the riot at Sayreville. The charge was preferred by Edwin Furman, whose lands Henderson and his men trespass upon to lay track. Henderson says he was not present when the man met his death. It has been stated that Henderson led the railroad men but fled when the fighting began. He is held without bail.

Bishop Vincent's Brother Dead.

CLIFTON SPRINGS, N. Y., May 13.—Dr. Frank L. Vincent, brother of Bishop Vincent of the M. E. Church was found dead in his office at the Sanitarium. He had been suffering for a few days from nervous troubles and was testing the tripod suspension treatment on himself, evidently became helpless in self treatment and died while in the act of testing the remedy.

The Big Strike in Germany's Mining District.

GREAT EXCITEMENT PREVAILS.

The Record of the Fatalities Resulting from the Encounters with the Troops.

Dealers Have Sold Out Their Coal at Unheard-of Prices—Popular Sympathy with the Strikers Results in a Great Outcry Against the Anti-Socialist Bill. Mine Owners Ready to Give the Increase in Wages Asked For.

BERLIN, May 13.—The excitement in the Dortmund district rapidly increases and the strikers, despite the fact that the region is overrun with troops ready to obey an order to fire on the disorderly crowds, are becoming bolder as the strike progresses. The hatred of the miners for the troops has reached the boiling point and the soldiery, perhaps in view of the fact that the orders given by the military authorities in Berlin to the local commanders do not extend beyond their prevention of disorder, are openly defied. Everywhere they are goaded to exasperation by taunts of cowardice and their temper has been clearly shown in the number of fatalities resulting from their obedience to orders to fire on the mob. Nor have the rioters stopped at this, but have resorted to every conceivable means of provoking the troops into aggressive action with the object of creating popular sympathy with themselves.

The number of killed and wounded in the several collisions which have taken place is unknown and it is impossible even to form an approximate estimate as a great many of the dead and injured have been removed from the scene of battle by their friends and secreted in out of the way places.

Colonel Michaelis is in supreme command of the troops in the disordered districts, and is literally carrying out the orders he received from Berlin, otherwise the destruction of life would be greater than it has been.

The Dortmund dealers, owing to the increasing scarcity of coal, have sold out all of their stock at the unheard of price of nineteen marks a ton.

Herr Herrfurth, the Prussian Minister of the Interior, has returned to Berlin from Gelsenkirchen, and the gravity of the situation, as reported by him, is shown in the fact that the government immediately telegraphed orders to prohibit the gigantic mass-meeting which was to have taken place at Gelsenkirchen yesterday.

The popular sympathy with the strikers has resulted in raising a great outcry against the anti-Socialist bill, which public opinion now deems, or professes to think, entirely too drastic and altogether impolitic.

FATAL ENCOUNTER WITH THE TROOPS.

The entire military garrison of Dusseldorf is now in the district disturbed by the miners' strikes. At midnight last night the rioters set fire to an oil factory at Lirenfeld, causing the complete destruction of the works.

The miners at Muelhern and Duisburg have joined the strikers and the strike is still spreading.

The pitmen at Schleswig attacked their foremen with daggers last night and drove them from the works. The military was sent for and arrived at 8 o'clock this morning. The rioters separated into two bodies and took refuge behind a railway embankment where they hooted and jeered at the troops. The commander of the soldiers thrice demanded that the rioters disperse and upon their third refusal ordered his men to fire. The order was obeyed and six persons were killed, including a child four years of age. A woman was wounded. The rioters then dispersed.

The first consignment of coal from Belgium arrived in the disturbed district today. There was no disorder in consequence of its arrival, as the whole region bristles with bayonets.

The mine owners held a meeting at Essen to-day, which was also attended by Government officials, and passed a resolution to increase the wages of the miners to the extent of their demands, but firmly refused to concede the demand of eight hours per day.

THE SOUTHAMPTON DOCK COLLAPSES.

A portion of the wall of the new dock at Southampton, 430 feet long, collapsed today, damaging the structure to the amount of £30,000, and delaying the completion and opening of the dock at least a year. This is the second accident of the kind that has occurred since the work began.

RAID ON WEST END GAMBLERS.

The West End was all excitement yesterday when it became known that the police at an early hour had raided the Adelphi and Field clubs, as well as several others, and captured a large number of persons in the act of gambling.

At the Adelphi club forty-six persons, including sporting men, actors, lawyers, etc., were arrested, all of whom were taken to the Bow Street station.

At the Field club the police made another large haul of English gentlemen and noblemen, including one sitting peer.

The prisoners were supplied with food by friends, and with the exception of a few of the club officials, were subsequently released on bail.

The Earl of Dudley, the Earl of Poulett, Lord Lurgan and Baron Ferraro were among those arrested at the Field club.

PITTSBURG, May 13.—Henry Hartman, a prominent steel manufacturer of this city, has purchased from the Economites their Marginal Beaver Falls railroad together with all of the franchises, real estate, etc., belonging to it. It was claimed that the bill was designed to replace the Yates bill passed last year and workingmen were urged to flood the Governor with protests against it.

The Legislative committee, with a special committee of three, was instructed to take the necessary action expressing the Union's unfavorable opinion of the bill.

DARCY'S JEANNIE.

WE were speeding East from the frontier, fast as the express train could rattle.

He was seated facing me, grizzled and gray, old, but erect and hard-fleshed. He sat well forward, as though to make room for accoutrements, the poise of his head and body, the passing of his sinewy hand over his clean-shaven lip where the mustache ought to have been, told me at once of the "old saber."

Several times I caught his eye closely scanning me; at last, with hand to forehead, in quick salute, he spoke:

"Beg pardon, sir; but ar'nt you in the service?"

I replied that I had that honor, and further said that I recognized the soldier in him.

"Proud to know that it ain't rubbed off yet, sir. I could tell you from your set up the moment I clapped eyes on you."

Well, we talked and talked, at least he did and with the simple honesty of the soldier; recognizing my interest, he told me much of his life, and here's part of it:

"I 'listed when I was but a boy, not twelve months from the old sod, sir, and boy and man I ate Uncle Sam's rations and burnt his powder for nigh forty year.

"Wounded? Oh, yes! Off and on I'd get a shot or a hack, but all that goes with the fun you have; and sure it's part of the trade, ain't it? I was a wild slip of a boy at first, but I married young, as good luck 'd have it, and married well, a better soldier's wife never stepped than the girl I won. She kept me up to the mark, sir, and made all the man that was in me tell for all it was worth, and it's me that's proud to say that there are few officers, high or low, of the old army, that ain't glad to give the good word and honest grip to First Sergeant Bernard Darcy of the ould dragoons.

"Why did I leave the service? Because me heart was broke, and it broke again to carry the coat sleeve without the stripes. But I'll tell you of it.

"It was just after the war, in sixty-six, and we were quartered at —— Barracks. The wife and Jeannie, that's our daughter, sir, had come to join the command again; they had left when we took the field, Jeannie was then just short fourteen; but my! when she came back, she was that of a beauty and a lady that, faith! she took the breath out me mouth.

"We had fine accomodations at the barracks, for the wife and myself were favorites, and yet I misdoubted that it was the right place for such a diamond jewel as our girl. So when with her independent spirit she would go into the city to learn the dress-making, I forced myself to give consent. But off and on, two or three times a week, and always of a Sunday, the darling was with us.

"There was one Liftinint in our troop that I had learned to love as a son; brave and true a lad he was as ever threw leg over saddle. I knew, or thought I knew, that he was all good, yet I could not but worry when I found him making chances and excuses to see our Jeannie, and watched the face of my girl when he came near her. His people were millionaires and aristocrats, and what could be between the son of such and an old sergeant's daughter?

"There came one day, in the evening, when I were looking about in the stables, and in not an over-pleasant humor, when up comes the Liftinint, holding out his hand to me. Charles Foster his name was.

"'I must bid you good-bye in a hurry, Sergeant Darcy,' says he. 'I want to catch the train in the city.'

"'And where might I ask would you be going of the suddint, sir?' said I, taken all aback.

"'Oh, I'm going—going away,' said he, kind of confused like. 'I sent in my resignation some time ago, but we kept it quiet. The acceptance and order has just come, and now I'm off. Remember me always and kindly, sergeant,' and he was gone.

"Well, 'at upset me entirely and I went to my quarters, wondering how Jeannie would like that news, for it was her regular evening to come to us.

"So when I walked in and slammed the door, I looked for her, but no Jeannie there. 'Where's the girl?' I said to the wife. 'How's I to know,' says she, 'she'll be here presently I've no doubt. There's your supper,' says she, 'liver and onions, that ye're so fond of gormondizin'.'

"'Divil fly away with yer liver an' onions, Mrs. Darcy,' says I; 'I want my daughter or I want to know where she is,' says I.

"'Ate your supper, man, and don't be cursin' me, for I won't stand it from you,' says the wife; she's a proper hot temper of her own, sir. 'Sure Jeannie can't be always on your coat-tails, she'll be here before your good humor comes back, I'm thinkin',' says she.

"Well, I couldn't take no satisfaction out of my supper, and a better no man ever had. I lit my pipe and stepped out to behind the stables. Soon I saw a carriage drive up, very quiet, and it was my Jeannie, in silks and satins, and with her was Liftinint Foster. I stood petrified to the spot while I see her slip out and make her way to our door and open it.

"Then I followed and found the child on her knees before her crying mother. I'm a vile tempered man, and unraisonable to the last degree when once I'am off. I stepped between the wife and our Jeannie. The poor little one tried to speak to me. 'Go!' I said, 'go with the man who has deceived me and you. Go! before I curse you! Go! before I forget that I am a man, a soldier, and strike you.'

"God knows I must have looked as crazy as I was at that moment. The wife was frightened to death of me and the child just gave me one long, loving look, sighed out some little word I could not hear—and went from us, from her home and pa-

"'Twas a hard life I led and led others them times. I swore I'd kill the first man that mentioned my disgrace to me, and I'd a-done it. I couldn't live with the reminders about me, and I asked for my discharge and got it.

"An ould soldier's worth nothing out of the service and without discipline. I kept the upper hand of the wife then, and she was good as ever to me and far more than patient, for we came to scant living those days in the city where I hid my face and shame. On our birthdays and on Christmas used to come letters with money in them, a full thousand dollars each year in all; they came from foreign parts. I'd open them, bank the money and burn the letters, without ever reading a line of them; it 'd nigh kill me to do it, but I were that stubborn.

"Five years that went on, and us a-getting poorer every day, when one evening I comes home and the wife says to me: 'Dress yerself in your best and go at once to the Continentle,' says she; 'you've been sent for twice in this hour,' says she.

"'Who is it and what is it?' says I.

"'Never a one of me knows,' says she. 'You go and find out.'

"'May be it's the railroad job,' says I, for you see I was trying to get signal man on the new line.

"So up I goes to the hotel, and marches to the clerk, bold as a sheep. 'My name's Bernard Darcy,' says I. 'There's some one here's been sending for me.'

"With that he touches a bell, and he tells the black man: 'Take this gentleman to Parlor B,' says he.

"'Gentleman!' says I to myself, as I follows the darkey up the marble stairs. 'Parlor B!' says I; 'set you up, Sergeant Darcy! may be it's president of the road they'll be making you.' I was joking myself to quiet my narves, you see.

"Well, in I goes to Parlor B, and was there for a minute alone, admiring the fine curtains and the like, when I hears the swish of a woman's dress to the side of me. I faced about instanter.

"There stood Jeannie, our Jeannie, only more beautiful, more sweet than ever, with the tears in her grand eyes looking the love her tongue couldn't speak.

"I stepped back. 'Oh daddy! daddy!' she cried, just like when she wore a little baby. "Daddy! don't drive me from you again!"

"'I'm no father of yours, your no daughter of mine, you are—'

"'My wife!" said a man's clear voice, right behind me. I turned my head and there stood my Liftinint Foster.

"'My wife now, as she was my wife the night you drove her from you,' said he, putting his strong arm about her.

"I saw it all then, my pride, my temper, my dishonest suspicion, had made me blind to the truth that I could have learned at any time. All that saved me from dropping to the floor or turning like a coward and bolting, was a little grasp about my knees and a little voice saying: 'Kiss me, gran'papa.'

"I looked down, and there was my darling, my Jeannie herself, a child again.

"We talked, God forgive us, without ever thinking of the poor mother at home until Jeannie begged to be taken to her; then we went, babby and all, fast as a carriage could roll.

"I left the two on the staircase while I went into our poor place.

"'Is that you, Bernard?' says the wife from the bed-room; 'I hope you had good luck—I was tired waiting. Your supper's behind the stove; I got liver and onions for a treat for you.'

"'Divil fly away with your liver and onions, Mrs. Darcy!' says I. 'Come out of that and see the treat I have here in my arms for you,' says I.

"But Jeannie was past me and in the mother's arms before the words were all out of my mouth, and the crying and hugging and kissing made them nigh as big lunatics as I were just then myself.

"We talked all of that blessed night, the little Jeannie sleeping in the arms of her ould grandaddy. The Liftinint had married my girl before bringing her to ask our consent. When I drove her from me they went to Europe so she could be educated to do credit to his people. When they met her they fell in love with her. Who wouldn't?

"So it was settled that I was to turn farmer near their country place. 'May be,' says I, 'you young people want a little small change,' says I; 'there's a trifle of five thousand dollars or so in the bank that I've been saving up for somebody these years past.'

"'Oh, you proud, stubborn old daddy,' sobbed my girl, 'and you wouldn't touch our money, thinking what you did of me, even if you starved. I might have known it.'

"'Whist, darling!' says I, 'It's all right now, anyway.' And so it is, sir. The wife and I are on the fine place bought with their money, and we're not too proud to be beholden to them, though they don't think of such a thing; and the youngsters—there's more of them now—boast of their old soldier grandad."

We were near the city by this time. I brought out my flask. "Will you join me, sergeant?" I asked.

"I'd be proud and happy to some other time, sir," he replied; "but I'm going to meet them; there's a fine boy, sir, to be christened Darcy Foster; the old grandmother can't come, but I had to, and I'd rather have the kisses of my children without any dilutin'. You'll excuse me this time, I'm sure."

As I sprang from the cars I spied the old soldier in the midst of a ring of happy, noisy youngsters, with a noble man trying to control their overwhelming welcome to their grandfather, and I breathed low: "God bless Sergeant Darcy's Jeannie and all blessed by her love."

Has Paine Resigned?

ALBANY, N. Y., May 13.—It is reported on reliable authority last evening and today that State Superintendent of Banks Willis S. Paine had placed his signature in the hands of Gov. Hill. There was an inclination to distrust the report. Mr. Paine was an ardent supporter of President Cleveland. Chamberlain Coker, the Tammany leader, was alleged to be the man who had prevailed upon Mr. Paine to tender his resignation.

WHY

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WHERE:

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

WASHINGTON NEWS

A Decision at Last in the Famous Gaines Case.

AN HISTORICAL LITIGATION.

It Has Been in One Court or Another for Over Fifty Years.

The Suit Against the City of New Orleans is Decided in Favor of the Heiress of Myra Clark Gaines—The Decision of the United States Supreme Court. Items of Interest from the National Capital.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The United States Supreme Court, in an opinion by Justice Bradley, has awarded the executors of the will of Myra Clark Gaines the sum of $576,000 against the city of New Orleans for the use of property sold by the city but recovered by Mrs. Gaines after long litigation. The judgment of the lower court, awarding the executor $130,000 for the use of the unimproved pooperty sold by the city was not concurred in.

This case probably has been the most interesting, the hardest contested and the most prolonged known to the judicial history of this country. Over thirty years ago Justice Wayne, of the United States Supreme Court, said that when the historian of the American bar should come to write up the case, it would be registered as the most remarkable in the history of our courts.

The case had then been before the Supreme Court five times in one form and another, and has now been decided as many times again. The first suit in the case was brought by Mrs. Gaines (then the wife of General Whitney) in 1834, and since that time decision has followed decision in regard to it, until it has become a by-word that there was always a Gaines case pending.

It is probable that the President will issue a proclamation granting pardons to all deserters from the United States army whether under confinement or at large.

Senator Plumb has urged this action on him for some time and it is rumored that the proclamation will soon be forthcoming.

President Grant in 1873 granted pardons to all deserters from the Army and Navy. Since that time 40,800 enlisted men in the Army alone have deserted and only about 8,000 have been captured.

The pardoning of these will save the Government the great expense constantly entailed in capturing those at large and convicting them.

Secretary Proctor evidently favors the plan. He has ordered the release of numbers of deserters confined in the military prisons.

Judges Cooley, Morrison and Bragg, members of the Interstate Commerce Commission, have left for Titusville, Pa., where they will give a hearing in the Pennsylvania oil cases on the 16th and 17th instants. The Commission will also hold a session in Toledo, Ohio, on the 24th inst., and later in Chicago.

The following named fourth-class postmasters have been appointed in New York: M. C. Foster, Guilderland; Philip Pettinger, Guilderland Centre; T. Lashier, Hooper; V. Snyder, Indianfields; Smith Jones, Jerusalem; E. L. Barkley, Knox; F. C. Curlhair, Maine; W. M. Henderson, Morrisville; C. H. McNaughton, Schuylersville, J. Douglas, Sempronus; T. Coleman, Sheldrake; T. L. Smith, Smithtown; W. B. Jaynes, Smithtown Branch; C. E. Keogh, Smithville Flats; Mrs. M. E. Johnson, Speedsville; J. W. Copley, Stony Brook; J. A. Pratt, Stuyvesant. H. B. Hudler, The Corner; J. L. Howard, Tracy Creek; W. C. Howe, Union Mills; L. P. Hough, Venice Centre. G. W. Florence, Washington Hollow; Henry Felts, West Copake; I. L. Tolbert, Weston; W. H. Peck, Ancram; Jefferson Ellis, Big Brook; E. A. Campbell, Big Flats; E. D. Burgess, Breesport; W. Shurter, Brookton; John Dycker, Callicoon Depot; J. H. Messenger, Canogo; L. C. Judd, Castorland; W. P. Finch, Cooksburg; Albert Williams, Craryville. Clara P. Hinman, Delmar; F. Harrington, Delta; A. J. Warner, East Berne; F. B. Morse, Eaton.

Guy Sold for $29,750.

CLEVELAND, O., May 14.—At W. B. Fasig's horse sale Guy, the phenomenal trotter was sold to H. A Stevens of Cleveland for $29,750. Nobby went to John Splan for $2,000 and Mambrino Sparkle was bought by E. M. Clough, of Minneapolis, for $3,950. Clingstone will be sold to-day.

READY FOR THE GREAT RACE.

Crack Runners in Training for the Brooklyn Handicap To-morrow.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The interest in the great Brooklyn handicap, which will be run to-morrow, grows apace as the hour for the struggle approaches. That it will be one of the greatest races ever run on the turf few, if any, will be found to question. The withdrawal of The Bard has been more than compensated for by the arrival of Terra Cotta.

That he has had that special preparation no one who looked upon him as he stood in his stood in his stall yesterday could doubt. Notwithstanding his severe trip on the train he was looking the picture of health and animation. "Brick" Bell and Gaines, the lad who gives the horse his exercise work, accompanied him. They left Nashville on Friday night last, but did not arrive in Cincinnati in time to make connections, and were delayed over eight hours.

Naturally the chances of the horse were canvassed very freely by the people who haunt the Brooklyn track from daylight until dark in search of a tip, and the opinions went with great regularity into one channel—namely, that he would be the horse who would fight it out with the leader.

Jockey McLaughlin, looking much better than rumors have painted him, was one of the early ones on the track. He had not come on the same train with the horse, and was anxious about him. He found him occupying the very best stall at the track, and expressed his surprise that he had stood the journey so well. McLaughlin said he was feeling fairly well, and thought he would be able to reduce very close to the weight. He would offer no opinion on the result more than to say that it ought to turn out to be a race worth remembering.

Hanover never looked better nor brighter than when George Taylor got into the saddle yesterday morning after the horse had been warmed up by a slow canter and a little dash through the stretch. "Just some strong work" was the direction given the jockey, but it was easier given than obeyed. The moment the horse left the group at the head of which he had been standing he shot out like a bolt and was nearly around the turn before Taylor could bring him down to the pace wanted. He fought for his head all through the backstretch, but could not get it. He ran the distance, a mile and a quarter, in 2.14, and satisfied the most skeptical that he is fit. He pulled up proud and lusty, and the Messrs. Philip and Michael Dwyer, who were watching him, bore a look of pardonable pride. He certainly seems toned right up to perfect pitch.

The United Brethren Conference.

YORK, Pa., May 14.—At the session of the general conference of the United Brethren church, the Board of Bishops issued a proclamation that the new confession of faith and the revised constitution has been adopted and is now in full force. Twenty-five members of the conference withdrew from the body and organized a separate general conference at the Park Opera House. Bishop Wright presided. Revs. C. L. Wood and H. J. Becker were elected reading and recording secretary respectively, and standing committees were appointed.

Bolak to Hang July 16.

BELVIDERE, N. J., May 14.—Michael Bolak, the Hungarian murderer, has been sentenced by Chief Justice Beasley to be hanged July 16. Before sentence was passed he was asked if he had anything to say. He replied: "As the jury pleases." After the sentence he stated to the Court that he would prefer to have the sentence changed to imprisonment for life. He was informed that this was impossible. Bolak killed Michael Bollinshire, of Oxford, a friend, to obtain his money, about $80.

Dies By His Own Hand.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Captain Frederick W. Whittaker, who was well known in this city, was instantly killed in his home in Mt. Vernon yesterday morning by a bullet from his own pistol. It is not known whether the shooting was accidental or intentional. He was a contributor to many weekly publications. During the war he was in a crvalry regiment. Deceased was an Englishman by birth and about 50 years of age. He leaves a wife and several children.

Stopped by the Contractors' Failure.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The construction work on the Cleveland, St. Louis and Kansas railway has temporarily stopped on account of the failure of the contractors, William Baird & Co., of Pittsburg, to meet their obligations to the sub-contractors, and it is said that the firm is financially embarrassed. The road is intended to form a short line connection from Alton, Ill., to Booneville, Mo., between the southwestern roads and the eastern systems which centre at Alton.

Train Wreckers Confess.

CANTON, O., May 14.—Frank Ryan and Harry Sadler, arrested Saturday night for making repeated attempts to wreck the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago limited express near Louisville, this county, were arraigned before the Mayor last night and pleaded not guilty. This morning they broke down and signed a confession of guilt. Detective Andrews, of Pittsburg, and Perkins, of Chicago, will probably make other arrests.

Gen. Edward M. Biddle Dead.

CARLISLE, Pa., May 14.—Gen. Edward M. Biddle, secretary and treasurer of the Cumberland Valley railroad, died yesterday at the age of 81 years. He was a graduate of Princeton College, a member of the Carlisle bar, Major-General of the 15th Pennsylvania Volunteers, Division Adjutant-General of Pennsylvania, appointed by Governor Curtin, and was the oldest railroad official in the United States.

A Priest Committed to Jail.

RALEIGH, N. C., May 14.—Father J. J. Boyle, the Catholic priest arrested last Saturday on a charge of rape, was yesterday arraigned, bound over to court [illegible]

ON THE BALL FIELD

The New Yorks Lose a Game to Cleveland.

BOSTON WINS AT PITTSBURG.

Chicago Dies Hard in Quakerdom—The Senators in Rare Luck.

Rain Prevents Two of the Association Games—Louisville Takes a Game from the Athletics—Kansas City Beats Columbus—Only Two Games in the Atlantic Association—Wilkesbarre Wins from New Haven—The Scores.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Boston and Philadelphia still remain tied in first place in the League race. The victory Cleveland gained helped her to change places with New York.

Two of the Association games were prevented by rain. Consequently the competing clubs remain in pretty much the same positions they were in yesterday, with the exception of the Kansas Citys going ahead of the Athletics.

VERY LUSTY "BABIES."

Fresh from their campaign in Boston, in which they broke even with the Titanic Beaneaters, New York's champions met Cleveland's "Babies," as the new League team is called, at Staten Island yesterday afternoon, and seccummed to them in the most graceful manner.

THIS WAS A BATTLE ROYAL.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—It took Philadelphia eleven innings to defeat Chicago yesterday.

PITTSBURG BEGAN TOO LATE.

BOSTON, May 14.—Boston made six runs yesterday before Pittsburg had made one. The latter then made matters exceedingly interesting by knocking in five runs.

THE SENATORS LUCKY FOR ONCE.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—When the home club went to the bat in the ninth inning the score stood 10 to 9 against them, and without making a hit they scored three runs.

LOUISVILLE WINS IN THE MUD.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14.—Louisville and Athletics played a game in the mud yesterday afternoon and Louisville won.

PRINTING THE NEWS NOT A LIBEL.

So a Jury Decides in a Suit for Damages Against "The World."

The libel suit of Charles W. Hodges of Plainfield, against the Press Publishing Company, on trial for five days past before Judge Ingraham in New York, resulted yesterday in a verdict for the defendent, with an allowance of $200 for counsel fees. A similar suit on the same complaint is pending against the proprietors of The Constitutionalist of this city who are also the owners of THE PRESS.

The suits grew out of the publication in the New Jersey edition of The World and in the Constitutionalist, in July, 1886, involving Hodges in the sale of a saloon in New York to one Moncton, who wrote to a friend named Mockerson, in Elizabeth, N. J., that he had been deceived by Hodges and had lost $600, the earnings of a lifetime. The publication of this letter constituted the libel of which Hodges complained. Evidence showing the facts of the saloon purchase, the behavior of Hodges and Moncton's frequent abuse of him for swindling him was produced by the defense, together with the depositions of the Mayor, City Judge and Chief of Police of this city, testifying to Hodges' bad character. Hodges denied any desire to swindle Moncton, and proclaimed his letter to Mockerson to be false.

DeLancey Nicoll and W. R. Bronk appeared for The World. Mr. Nicoll said there was not the slightest pretense of malice. There was no purpose in publishing it except the duty of a correspondent to his newspaper in furnishing it with the current news. The newspaper owes to the public a great duty—that of printing the news—which if not performed faithfully will result in the loss of its circulation and standing. A newspaper that will not retract when it has done wrong to a citizen should not be permitted to exist, but a newspaper that cowardly makes a retraction when it feels it has done its duty in exposing a man who is engaged in dangerous practices, should be blotted out.

In his charge Judge Ingraham said: "The importance of the newspaper in the detection and prevention of crime cannot be overestimated. The schemes to enable men to obtain dishonestly the savings of a lifetime are numerous, and it is to the newspapers almost entirely that we must look for the detection of these crimes. If, in this case, the defendant can satisfy the jury that the published story is true substantially, he has committed no offense and is entitled to a verdict."

A Reception by the "King's Daughters."

The "King's Daughters" will hold a reception, to-morrow afternoon, from 4 till 7 o'clock, at the residence of Miss Musgrave, on Mercer avenue, corner of Rock View.

On these occasions the small sum of 25 cents is charged for admission, and in this way the ladies of the organization are enabled to realize funds to assist them in their noble work. Some 200 ladies from Plainfield and the Borough were present at the last reception given, and it is hoped and expected that fully that number, if not more, will be in attendance tomorrow. The object is a most worthy one and deserving of the greatest success.

The officers of the "King's Daughters" are: President—Mrs. Samuel St. John McCutchen; Vice President—Mrs. Morgan S. Taylor; Treasurer—Miss Ida Musgrave; Secretary—Mrs. Fannie G. Foster.

An Honest and a Dishonest Way.

The honest Elizabeth Journal says: "It is denied by the Plainfield Press that ex-Gov. Abbett and lawyer Winfield advised the liquor dealers of that city to apply once again for licenses and open their saloons if they did not get them. They are certainly entitled to the denial if they did not give such advice."

The dishonest Plainfield news, which started the false report, tries to get out of it with another batch that is just as false, and says: "The news obtained its information direct from one of the liquor-dealers, indirect from another, and direct from two leading city officials; and had reasons to believe that it was correct."

Election of Officers.

At a regular meeting of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society, held in T. A. B. Hall, last evening, the following officers were elected and installed into their respective offices for the ensuing year:

President—Michael Flynn.
Vice President—John Welsh.
Cor. Secretary—John O'Rourke.
Financial Secretary—John C. Carney.
Treasurer—A. E. Kenney.
Delegates to State Convention—Messrs A. J. Nolan, John McNally, Michael Nugent, and P. Divver.

The appointment of an Executive Committee was deferred until a future meeting.

Maj. Anderson Post.

A detail has been appointed from Major Anderson Post, No. 109, G. A. R., to arrange for a fitting observance of Memorial Day. The Post will observe the day in an unostentatious manner, by holding appropriate exercises in the First Presbyterian cemetery in North Plainfield. The orator for the day has not yet been announced, but all the final arrangements of the detail will be reported at the next meeting of the Post.

—The cold storm of the past day or two is likely to be followed by a hot wave.

Prof. W. D. McClintock, of this city, formerly Registrar of the C. L. S. C., and now Professor of English Literature in the Chautauqua University, has received a call to the pastorate of the Christian church at Walnut Hill, Cincinnati. Stewards—Chas. Collins, P. O'Keefe.

The Noon-Day Meeting.

The first noon-day prayer meeting, conducted by Mr. Seely Edsall, was held at the rooms of the W. C. T. U., yesterday. The attendance was fairly good. A great deal of interest was manifested by all present and each seemed to receive a special blessing. There will be a different leader for each day in the week. Every body welcome.

Exciting Jealousy.

The Standard of Westfield, says: "The Plainfield club cars for commuters are now the rage and bid fair to excite considerable jealousy among towns less fortunate. Westfield should not let her little sister get beyond her reach like this! Come now, who will chip in for a Westfield car?"

Will Go on a Strawride.

On Friday evening the members of Olive Branch Lodge, 78, Knights of Pythias, of Elizabeth, will enjoy a strawride to Scotch Plains. They will visit Goodwill Lodge of that village.

ANNUAL ELECTION OF MUSIC HALL MANAGERS.

The Present Board Re-elected With One Exception—The Treasurer's Report Shows a Loss on the Year's Business.

The annual election of a Board of Managers of the Music Hall Association, takes place on the second Monday in May of each year, and results in the re-election of the Board of the past. There is no interest taken in the election, and the stockholders' annual meeting which is called for the same time and place, has never been held because the necessary attendance of a majority of the stockholders in person, has never occurred.

The election of Directors last evening, was held in the Music Hall parlors. The polls were open from 5 to 6 P. M., and from 7:45 to 8:45 P. M. The tellers were Messrs Robert H. Cook, B. Frank Coriell and Wm. H. Voorhees. Last year the total number of shares voted on, was 210 out of 800. This year the total was 283. Such seeming increase of interest, was probably brought about by a change in the Board. The name of Mr. Wm. J. Roome was substituted for that of Mr. George A. Chapman. Otherwise last year's Board was re-elected as follows:

|---|---|
| W. R. Pottis, | L. V. F. Randolph, |
| W. J. Roome, | J. B. Dumont, |
| W. E. Lowe, | A. Gilbert, |
| O. T. Waring, | B. A. Hegeman, |
| M. W. Tyler, | J. W. Murray. |

C. A. Marsh.

At eight o'clock there being only a half-dozen present out of a required quorum of about 45, the annual stockholders' meeting was as usual laid over

The Treasurer's report for the past year sent to each stockholder, shows a loss during the year of almost $500. In detail it is as follows:

The Requests of the New Market People Ignored by Wanamaker.

The removal of the New Market post office was effected on Saturday night.

Notwithstanding the protests sent by at least three-fourths of those using this office, against its being again located North of the railroad track, no notice has been taken in any shape, manner or form by the Post Office Department. No objection was raised or made to the appointee.

Probably, when some animal takes fright, runs away, kills or maims somebody, or a passing train at a forty-mile gait hurls some citizen into eternity, our Post Office Department will wake up to the urgent necessity of attention to the people of a small benighted village.

From what is known of "Wanamaker" as a merchant and business man, the people of New Market had hopes of better things; but "Wanamaker" the business man, is now "Wanamaker" the politician, willing to obey the political ring.

Increase in the Muhlenberg Hospital Facilities.

An addition is being completed to Muhlenberg Hospital that will provide a retired ward for the needs of patients whom it is not convenient to have in the regular wards.

Patients who may be noisy, or afflicted with diseases that might frighten or be offensive to the others, can thus be kept and treated entirely apart. A place for autopsies will also be provided in the new addition.

Twenty-five Years a Priest.

On Thursday of this week Rev. Father Smyth, pastor of St. Mary's church in this city, will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of his priesthood. In the morning Father Smyth will celebrate solemn high mass in honor of the event.

—The case of the City vs. James Dady for disorderly conduct, is set down for a hearing to-morrow.

The Closing Attraction at Music Hall.

McKee Rankin, one of the best known and most capable actors of the American stage, will be seen at the Music Hall, on Thursday evening, in the great society success "The Runaway Wife," which lately scored a great hit in New York and Chicago.

This beautiful drama will be brought directly from the Arch street theatre—where it was played all last week to a series of crowded houses despite the warm weather—to the Music Hall in this city. "The Runaway Wife" is the work of Mr. McKee Rankin and Mr. Fred G. Maeder cojointly, and is conceded by the dramatic critics of the cities in which it has been produced, to be one of the strongest plays ever written.

Mr. Rankin is supported by an excellent company, including Miss Mabel Bert, a lady of great emotional powers, and who is also considered to be one of the most beautiful women on the American stage, and Mr. Rankin's daughter, Dido, who made such a great hit on the occasion of her debut short time since in New York. This is certainly a very strong attraction and should draw a crowded house.

A Sad Event.

Isaac Sebring, who died at his home in Ricefield, near Somerville, April 25, at the age of 84 years and 5 months, left about $50,000 to be divided according to the provisions of his will among the seven children who survive him. Mr. Sebring was a native of Greenbrook, but had occupied his late home over 50 years.

The deceased was a brother of Mrs. Lettie Eggleston, a widow, living on West Fourth street, this city. Mrs. Eggleston did not know of her brother's illness and subsequent death, a telegram sent to Plainfield announcing the fact, having never reached her. About ten days ago she set out to visit her brother, and on the way to the deceased's late home, she first learned of his death. Mrs. Eggleston was indeed very much surprised; she was also overcome with sorrow.

Of Interest to Odd Fellows.

During the past week the nominations for Grand Lodge officers, I. O. O. F., have been made by the various subordinate lodges throughout the State. The election will take place in October next. The following have received a unanimous nomination: For Grand Master, Henry M. Jewett; Deputy Grand Master, Howard Sutphin; Grand Secretary, Lewis Parker; Grand Treasurer, Joseph L. Lamb. For Grand Warden there are several candidates, Grand Marshal J. W. Trenchard and Grand Conductor William Allen leading. For Grand Representative August Grassman, the present incumbent, received a large majority of the lodges for re-nomination.

Election of Officers.

The Fanwood Club held its annual meeting and election of officers Tuesday evening, electing as President, John S. Moore; Vice President, Clarence Smith; Secretary, A. P. Downer; Treasurer, Walter S. Force; Trustees for three years, Geo. Kyte and James Baker and to fill a vacancy, F. B. Anderson. Financially and socially the Trustees report a most marked improvement over that of a year ago and under a continuance of the same just management, the club can not fail to prosper.

THE "COMMUTER."

A new and enterprising New York journal, in "writing up" Plainfield, has the following in its issue of May the 11th:

CARPETS, DRY GOODS, ETC.

Mr. Seely Edsall conducts the largest and most popular Dry and Fancy Goods establishment in Plainfield at number 20 West Front street. The first or main floor is one hundred and seventy feet deep, airy and well lighted by a number of skylights. The arrangement of the various departments, such as foreign and domestic dry goods, underwear, hosiery, kid and fabric gloves, laces, ribbons, embroideries, handkerchiefs, corsets, notions, buttons, trimmings, etc., is most complete and attractive. The appearance of the interior very much resembles metropolitan stores. The floor below is devoted to an extensive line of carpets, oil cloths, mattings, linoleums, art squares, lace and chenille curtains, etc. Electricity is used for lights and the Lamson cash system employed for transmission of cash. Mr. Edsall having an experience of twenty-five years in the business, part of which time was spent in the wholesale trade, he is indeed well qualified to conduct a successful business. The quality of his goods is the best the market affords, and his prices are always the lowest. His aim is to give every patron who buys an article at his store the full value of the money paid him, and by otherwise courteous treatment insure another call. By this popular system or principle, he has succeeded in building up a large and prosperous business, the honesty and reliability of the house being beyond question not only in Plainfield, but in surrounding towns. Former residents of New York and Brooklyn will actually find here all they can possibly desire.

—Myself and daughter have used Dr. Dam's Remedy for that weak, tired feeling and headache, and find it excellent.—Mrs. M. E. Taylor, E. Front street.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

GRIMES' TRIAL OPENED.

Charged With the Murder of Mate John Martin at Atlantic City.

MAYS LANDING, N. J., May 14.—The trial of Andrew Grimes, a brutal looking colored seaman, for the murder of Mate John Martin, of the New York schooner Annie S. Carr at Atlantic City last Christmas day, opened yesterday before Supreme Justice Reed and Judges Byrnes, Cordery and Scull, and a crowd which overflowed the court room. Grimes sat behind his counsel J. R. Abbott and Hon. J. B. Mixon, sullenly staring at the witnesses.

County Physician Riley described the six ghastly stab wounds, and testified that the mate bled to death.

Captain Gilbert E. Newton, of Brooklyn, said Grimes was surly and disobedient, and had boasted of stabbing men in North Carolina. The weapon and the door which Grimes splintered with his knife in getting at his victim, were exhibited. After Grimes stabbed the mate he threw the body overboard.

Seaman Stokes, the only witness of the tragedy, testified that the murderous assault was unprovoked. When the mate called for help Grimes threatened to kill Stokes if he moved.

Albert Edward Narrowly Escaped Arrest

IN THE RAID ON THE CLUBS.

England's Heir Apparent Got the Tip that the Police Were Coming.

Much Comment Over the Enormous Size of the Stakes—Chips Were Worth from $25 to $2,500—An Attempt on the Czar's Life—Germany's Big Strike—A Delegation of Miners to Visit the Emperor.

LONDON, May 14.—The police raid on the Adelphi and Field clubs Sunday morning is still the absorbing topic of conversation and discussion in clubs and other circles and many narrow escapes from arrest on the part of persons much higher in rank than any of those bagged are recounted. Among those who, it is asserted, barely missed being caught in the police trap is the Prince of Wales who, it is said, was forewarned of the coming of the officers and left the Field club only a few minutes before their arrival.

Whether the friendly tip was given by the police themselves in order to avoid th unpleasant and probably fatal (to them) duty of interrupting their future sovereign in the pursuit of his frequent pastime is a question that remains unanswered; nor is it probable that he would have been included in the number arrested had he been found there, though the fact of his presence would have made it very disagreeable for him in certain quarters.

Another instance of favoritism is given in the case of Magistrate Montague Williams, who was among the prisoners taken to the police station. He was immediately released and every possible endeavor was made to hush the fact of his capture, but it has leaked out and much indignation is expressed that he should have been more favored than his equally guilty companions.

Much excitement has been occasioned by the enormity of the stakes played for at the Field club, the counters found on the tables by the police ranging in value from £5 to £500.

Telegrams received from Paris state that at the Gatschina palace last Friday night an officer of high rank in the Russian army suddenly drew his revolver and fired it at the Czar. He missed the object of his deadly assault by a few inches, and before he could fire a second shot he was seized and taken to prison.

The wholesale arrest of Russo-German officers in the Baltic provinces and their transportation to St. Petersburg for trial indicates that there have recently been several serious attempts to kill the Czar, and that the authorities have been uncommonly active in the discovery of plots.

Mr. W. H. Smith said the Government would consider both questions, but would not pledge itself to any course in the matter.

GOVERNOR HILL'S VETO.

He Refuses to Sign the Saxton Electoral Reform Bill.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 14.—Governor Hill transmitted to the Assembly last night his veto of the Saxton Electoral Reform bill, which provides for official ballots printed at public expense, and for secret voting.

The Governor says he is in favor of the provision which requires ballots to be cast secretly; that is, while the voter is screened from observation; but the other two provisions he opposes, on numerous grounds. He would consent to an official ballot printed at public expense, provided its use was made permissive only, not obligatory. This, he says, would leave candidates at liberty to print their own ballots if they pleased, while it would relieve impecunious candidates from the necessity of doing so.

The Governor thinks that the official ballot as proposed, will not secure secrecy, because by collusion with a ballot clerk and an inspector both of whom may be of the same party, the vote-buyer may obtain a ballot with the stub properly marked, and a system can then be devised by which the vote-buyer can learn how his man votes.

He also objects to the bill because if a candidate dies or withdraws within eight days of the election his place will practically have to be unfilled, as the majority of people will not take the trouble to paste or write in another name.

A still more serious objection, he says, is that if parties from any cause fail to certify nominations, and the official ballots are therefore not made up, no election at all can be had. Another fault is that there is no way to determine which of two factions is the party, and to print the names of candidates of all factions would add to the cumbersomeness of an already unwieldy ballot.

The Governor denies that the system embodied in this bill has ever been successfully tried in practice. He says that in Australia, Canada and England the ballots, as a rule, contain the names of candidates for one office only. More States have rejected the plan than have adopted it, and none of the latter have yet actually tried it. The only actual trial has been in one municipal election at Louisville, and the result was the throwing out of a large number of imperfect ballots.

The Governor goes into a long constitutional argument against the bill, and insists that the ballot it proposes is not the ballot that is provided for in the State constitution, which defines the ballot as a slip of paper containing the names of the persons for whom the elector intends to vote—and by implication, no other names.

The Governor concludes by exercising the duty imposed upon him by the constitution, of recommending legislation which he deems expedient. He recommends the immediate passage of a bill embodying the features of electoral reform upon which the Legislature and Executive are in entire accord.

IN THE SENATE.

In the Senate last evening, Mr. Fassett, from the committee to confer with the Assembly committee relative to the differences in the matter of amendments to the Fassett Prison bill, reported that it had been agreed upon to recommend to the Assembly the adoption of all the amendments made by the Senate, and also to recommend that provisions be inserted providing that not more than one hundred prisoners in all the State prisons shall be employed at one time in the manufacture of stoves and hollow-ware, and not more than one hundred in the manufacture of boots and shoes, and providing further that no prisoners shall be employed upon any one of said specified industries in any of the penitentiaries, reformatories or houses of correction in the State, except in making articles for the use of the public institutions of the State.

The report was agreed to.

The Langbein Canal Improvement bill, appropriating $750,000, of which $455,000 is for the Erie Canal, was passed.

IN THE ASSEMBLY.

Speaker Cole having been called home by the death of his sister, ex-Speaker Husted occupied the chair.

Mr. Blumenthal's bill, enabling the New York Catholic Protectory and Sheltering Arms to participate in the division of the $100,000 common school fund of New York city was defeated by a vote of 53 to 43.

Mr. Crosby opposed the bill in a vigorous speech. He entertained no prejudice against the Catholic denomination, but they opposed the common school systen and, he said, it would be very poor policy to give them part of such fund.

Judge Lynch Was Foiled.

LA CROSSE, Wis., May 15.—Paul Kuss, a young man employed on the farm of Arthur Tripp near this city, attempted to assault Mrs. Tripp during her husband's absence. The lady eluded her assailant and ran to the house of John Johnson a neighbor, who overtook Kuss and landed him in jail here. At 11:30 last night the farmers and residents of the town of Campbell to the number of two hundred surrounded the jail and demanded the prisoner intending to lynch him. The Sheriff was fully aware of their intention and had quietly removed the prisoner to safe quarters some two hours previously. When the crowd became aware of this they quietly dispersed.

New Brunswick's Women Vote.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 14.—There was considerable excitement here yesterday in connection with the election for members of the Board of Education. Three hundred women voted. The count has not yet been completed, but the Citizens' ticket will have about 550 majority, thus defeating the present Board, against which charges of incompetency have been made. Religious issues were introduced into the campaign, the result being the defeat of the Catholic element.

Out of the Frying-Pan Into the Fire.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 14.—William Tash, brother of Jacob Tash, who was shot and killed by Acker while standing at the door of the Princeton postoffice last Saturday afternoon, has been arrested and lodged in jail. He was the man whom Ackert meant to kill.

THE END.

THE old doctor was dying. There was no doubt about that. He himself knew that his life was surging away with the short, quick gasps that seemed to rack his body with pain. Yet he fought sturdily against the approach of death. To the silent attendants at his bedside it seemed as if he was trying to gather strength to say something ere his lips should be sealed forever. He tried to speak, but the words were not audible. Again he strove and this time the nurse, bending over the bed, heard him say:

"Has the doctor come yet?"

The nurse was about to reply when a light, quick step was heard and the doctor came in. The vacant stare left the face of the dying man. By a supreme effort he raised himself up, reached under the pillow, drew forth a neatly-folded manuscript, placed it in the doctor's hands, and fell back exhausted. He did not speak again and in a few minutes he was dead.

It was a strange affair, the eccentric young Doctor Mechlin thought, as he assisted in performing the last offices for the dead man, a very strange affair. His thoughts reverted to the past, to the time when he had first met him whose silent form lay stretched on the rickety bed in the small, plainly-furnished room. He had returned from a visit to a country patient one day about six months previous and upon returning found the old doctor seated on a chair in his office pouring over a medical work. His visitor apologized for his intrusion and went away without an explanation, and Dr. Mechlin soon forgot the incident. The next day upon going to his office (the outer door was never locked) the old man was to be seen as before, studying a medical book and apparently oblivious to his surroundings. Dr. Mechlin demanded an explanation. The old man was very non-committal at first. Finally, when he was told he must leave the office and keep away under penalty of arrest, he looked appealingly at the other and gave the following meager and hardly satisfactory account of his peculiar actions.

He said that he was a physician by profession; that he had practiced in the large cities both in this country and in Europe. In his old age he had been reduced almost to want by unfortunate investments, and was finally forced to retire. He had come to Ostin because he could live cheaply and quietly.

"This is all I can tell you," the old man said, in an appealing tone, "and I ask that you will place faith in my words. All I desire is that I may be permitted to spend a few hours occasionally in your office where I can be near the profession that in my old age I have been forced to relinquish."

The young doctor looked sharply at the aged stranger and pondered upon the strange request. The visitor had apparently relapsed into unconsciousness of his surroundings, and Dr. Mechlin had an opportunity to carefully scrutinize him. The stranger was attired in conventional, but well-worn garments. He had that indefinable air that marks the physician, that was evident. There was nothing in his appearance to indicate insanity even to the practiced eye of his observer.

"Pshaw!" muttered Dr. Mechlin to himself, "he is nothing but an eccentric. It can certainly do no harm to accede to his request."

And so the young and the old doctor reached an understanding, and every day the old man came to his young friend's office and remained hours at a time. At first he only sat and read and pondered. But one day the young doctor came in greatly perplexed. A change for the worse had taken place in one of his patients who had been ill for some time with a complicated and occult disease. The old man noticed his anxiety and questioned him. The case was explained. The eccentric seized a prescription blank and rapidly wrote out several prescriptions.

"Try these," he said, and turned to his book again. Dr. Mechlin hesitated. The prescriptions followed no ordinary law of medicine. But the case was a desperate one; his patient would die unless he could afford immediate relief. He seized the prescriptions, had them filled and hurried to the house of his patient and administered them. The strange medicine wrought a wonderful change. In an hour an improvement was noticeable, and in three days the sick one was out of danger.

Dr. Mechlin's respect for his eccentric visitor increased greatly after this occurrence, and he allowed him to come and go as he pleased, and many times did the old man's suggestions bring him success and reputation.

One day the aged doctor was not to be found in his accustomed chair in Dr. Mechlin's office. The latter thought it strange, but the entrance of a visitor banished the subject from his mind. Another day, and again did the eccentric fail to appear. Dr. Mechlin became alarmed and was about to set out in search of him when a ragged little boy brought the news that the stranger was dying, and urgently desired his presence.

The old doctor had been given Christian burial. No friends had appeared to mourn his loss, and Dr. Mechlin sat in his office, the bequest in his hand, hoping that its perusal might cast some light upon the mystery of his life. It was only a package of manuscript, carefully written and neatly folded. The doctor never lifted his eyes until he had read the last line. These were the words of the manuscript:

"I am a physician in good standing. Indeed, there are few of my profession who have been fortunate enough to attain the rank that was mine when I retired from active work a few years ago. I have told you that I have practiced in the leading cities of the [illegible] Old World. This is true, and [illegible] years before I had spent a summer in the beautiful little village of St. Johnsbury, in Vermont. Hither I repaired to regain, in a measure, if I could, my impaired physical faculties.

"Soon I began to gain rapidly, and, too restless to remain entirely idle, I pursued the study of my profession into its most intricate branches. Not that I ever expected to practice again, but because I so loved the healing art. I had, in earlier years, brought out several remedial agents that had proved quite successful, and my studies were naturally in that direction. I had become much interested in the known and probable properties of nitro-glycerine. I believed that that powerful explosive could be made a power against the inroads of certain kinds of disease, Bright's disease, that dreaded curse of modern times, in particular. Spring lapsed into summer and summer into early winter before I had solved the problem, but finally success was mine.

"I had discovered a process by which the explosive properties of nitro-glycerine could be removed, the residue, peculiarly prepared, forming a compound that was a certain cure for the most complicated and chronic cases of Bright's disease. I have no hesitation now in explaining in a measure the process. According to the formula it is prepared in alcohol in the proportion of one per cent. in tablet form, one of these containing the one hundredth part of a grain. It is called trinitrin, and is nitro-glycerine of a pure quality, possessing at first all the explosive power of that article. The last is removed by its mixture with alcohol, and the tablet is formed of sugar, milk or other inert substances.

"I had discovered the remedy, but where was the patient? Who would allow himself to be treated with nitro-glycerine, even though I should assure him that its explosive properties had been removed? I had no patients in the little town. One day shortly after I had made my wonderful discovery I was accosted by a tramp, who begged for a coin to purchase a meal. I was about to turn him away when a brilliant thought struck me. I said to him: 'Follow me,' and he went with me, to my room. I locked the door.

"He was an ordinary-looking tramp, but the demon of recklessness was plainly shown in his 'devil-may-care' eye. Why had I invited him to my room? He had Bright's disease; my professional eye detected that.

"'My man,' I said to him, 'do you want to earn a hundred dollars and leave here a month hence a well man? You have Bright's disease and I can cure you.'

"The tramp accepted my proposal before I had ceased talking. But I told him just what I wanted of him. He was to take my nitro-glycerine tablets, as I should direct, for thirty days. I would feed him, clothe him, and when the time was up give him one hundred dollars. I warned him that it was but an experiment, of which he was the subject, and that the consequences might be good; if not, he might bid farewell to life; but I knew my medicine was all right. I only wanted to be fair with him.

"The explanation made no difference. If the experiment was successful he was that much better off. If not, why, who cared about a tramp, any way? It was evident that I had gained a prize.

"An hour later the tramp came to me, refreshed and rehabilitated. I had made some of the precious tablets in a portable laboratory, and gave him the first dose. The next few hours were anxious ones. But no harm came. Three times a day did the tramp come to my room and swallow one of the tablets. In a few days a wonderful improvement became evident. My discovery was sure to prove the greatest remedial agent of the age.

"The thirty days had passed. I was walking with a gentleman upon a high and steep bluff that overlooks the charming valley of the Passumpsic. It was my tramp! Clothed in the garb of a gentleman, his countenance radiant with the flush of health, none would have recognized him as the miserable creature that besought me to give him a coin but a month ago. He was a living monument of the success of my great remedial discovery.

"It was very slippery upon the bluff. Sleet had fallen the day before and the path was icy and treacherous. My companion stepped too near the edge, and I warned him, but he laughed and continued on his perilous way. Suddenly he slipped and disappeared. The bluff was over a hundred feet high.

"He would be killed.

"One or two awful seconds that seemed like ages followed. I could not move.

"Then I heard an awful explosion that shook the precipice. What had happened? I looked over the bluff, but could see nothing more than a thin smoke curling slowly upward. I ran to the foot of the bluff by a circuitous route available to a man of my years and strength. Where was the tramp? He must have fallen right here. I could see nothing but riven rock. The awful truth flashed upon me. He had exploded.

"I never found so much as a hair of him. He must have become thoroughly impregnated with nitro-glycerine. My formula had failed. I had not succeeded in destroying the explosive property of the deadly agent. The tramp was never missed. No, that is not true. I missed him. I wanted to find out just how the human body received and retained explosive properties."

Ford's Old Theater.

Abraham Lincoln was assassinated in Ford's Theater, and the building is now occupied by a branch of the Surgeon-General's office. Originally the edifice was erected for a church, a Baptist society, and for many years they worshiped there. Since the great tragedy the building has been converted into a Government office and a medical museum. As a Government office, it is a travesty upon hygiene. The Surgeon-General is the chief medical officer of the army, and yet that branch of his office is almost a National disgrace. It was the same under former Surgeon-Generals, and will be under the successor of the present incumbent, who will soon be retired on account of age. The building is dark and noisome. It is without a cellar, and the floor rests upon the ground. The records of the med[illegible] of the armies are shelved in [illegible] the light of day never [illegible] to reach those [illegible] This [illegible]

WHY

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

The Daily Press.

WHERE

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

TO WED A PRINCESS

The American Consul to Tahiti in Great Luck.

THE DAUGHTER OF LORD DARCY.

She Is Beautiful, a Perfect Blonde, and Is Highly Accomplished.

Favorable Reports from Oklahoma—The Land Office Well Up in Its Work—The New York Sub-Treasury Finds Some Counterfeit Money Among Its Assets. Many Postmasters Appointed—Change in the Civil Service Commission.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—About a year ago President Cleveland transferred Jacob L. Doty from the Consulate at Bermuda to that of Tahita, Society Islands. Mr. Doty has fallen in love with the beautiful and charming Princess Polona, of Tahiti. His love has been reciprocated. The formal betrothal has taken place and the approaching nuptials are the all-absorbing theme in high social circles in the beautiful island. The Princess is a beautiful and accomplished lady about eighteen years of age and a perfect blonde. She is the daughter of Lord and Lady Darcy, her mother being a native Tahitian Princess and her father an English nobleman of distinguished ancestry. She has had all the advantages of education in France, Germany and England. She is the possessor of immense wealth in her own right and receives a large annuity from France under treaty stipulations.

As may naturally be supposed, the Princess has not lacked suitors for her fair hand, all of whom, including the Earl of Dudley, she has persistently refused. Lord Darcy was himself anxious to have his daughter marry a scion of the English peerage, but gracefully yielded to the wishes of his lovely and only child to accept as a son-in-law a sovereign American citizen.

Postmaster Van Cott, of New York, was at the Postoffice department to-day and had interviews with Postmaster-General Wanamaker and First Assistant Postmaster General Clarkson in regard to an increase of force in the New York office. He desires $250,000 additional money during the next fiscal year for clerical and and letter carrier force, in order to give the public proper postal service.

The clerks sent to Oklahoma from the General Land office to assist in recording the entries have returned to Washington. They all speak favorably of the country, but complain of the lack of water, the penetrating sand and the general lack of order.

Mr. Pike who was at Kingfisher said when he left, 800 entries had been made at that office, out of a possible 5,000. The office was up in its work and the force there was sufficient to keep up with current business. Wells were being sunk and bored and good water was being obtained. About 75 houses had been erected. Gambling was in full blast, and the gamblers were charged $100 per month for the privilege of running their establishments. They were run openly and there seemed to be no end of them. Some few of the settlers around Kingfisher had begun to break land, but the most of them were returning to their old homes to settle their affairs with the intention of returning to Oklahoma in the fall. There would be, he said, many contests sent to Washington for settlement, but in some instances the settlers were compromising their differences. There were, so far as he knew, no charges of fraud against Government officials at Kingfisher.

Mr. Henry Wahly was at Guthrie. When he left Friday, 1,000 entries had been received, out of a possible 5,000, making a possible total of 10,000 entries for the entire Territory. The work was all up and could be easily handled by the force now there. Like Mr. Pike, he reports a great scarcity of water. At first it could with difficulty be had at 10 cents a glass. The water in the Cottonwood river was blackish and hardly fit to drink. There were but few fish in that stream and they were not fit to eat. Some few houses had been erected and gradually the place was assuming the aspect of a town. The gamblers were as numerous as the settlers. They paid $10 per day for the privilege of running their places.

Both Mr. Pike and Mr. Wahly say there were no vegetables to be had in Oklahoma, but plenty of meat. The order keeping whisky out of the territory was, in their opinion, a good one, for if it had been plentiful, in the absence of good water, great disorders must have prevailed.

Mr. Wahly says he had heard frequent charges of fraud against Government officials at Guthrie, but had no personal knowledge of them and in view of the fact that Secretary Noble was now investigating them, he, as a mere clerk, would rather not make public his impressions and suspicions

The President has appointed thirty-five postmasters, among them the following:

Connecticut—David L. Clinton, Clintonville.

New York—C. F. Shelland, Oneonta.

New Jersey—Edward H. Vanarsdale, Arlington.

Massachusetts—Carey L. Bournest, Auburndale.

The following named fourth-class post masters have been appointed for New York state: D. Howard, Castle Creek; W. J Lathrop, Cato; G. Hall, Chenango; P Tyler, Gilberts Mills; E. P. Tonrot, Hastings; R. C. Clark, Hurffville; O. J. Strong Jenksville; C. W. Dexter, Munnsville; A M. Evans, Port Dickinson; F. J. Westcott, Sheds Corners; F. J. Mack, Vermillion.

The recent count of money at the New York sub-Treasury revealed a discrepancy of $35 out of a total sum of $184,000,000 to be accounted for. The shortage resulted from the acceptance of a few counterfeit notes in the hurry of business, and by the loss of a few pieces of silver. The deficiency was promptly made good, and a receipt given in full to ex-Treasurer Hyatt, who was responsible under his [illegible] entire amount.

There has been a change in the office of the Civil Service commission. Mr. Lyman has been elected president of the Board. When the Civil Service commission was first organized the Commissioners in rotation presided at board meetings. Under the last administration Mr. Edgerton was chosen president. The three Commissioners yesterday called on the President and paid their rerpects. The Commission has heard from Oklahoma. One of the applications that came in the mail yesterday was from an Oklahoma man, who wants to know when an examination will be held at Guthrie. The mail brings several hundred letters a day to the Commission. Yesterday the record reached 800 letters.

NEY YORK LEGISLATORS.

Matters of General Interest Before the Assemby and Senate.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 15.—Among the bills passed in the Assembly yesterday, were the following:

Amending the act authorizing street railroads to contract with each other.

Providing any street surface railroad may operate any other portion of its road by other than steam or horse power, with the approval of the State Board of Railroad Commissioners and consent of the majority of property owners.

The report of the Conference Committee on the Prison bill and the Annual Supply bill were adopted and the bills now go to the Governor.

Mr. Murphy's bill preventing the sale of adulterated wheat was passed.

The Vedder Liquor Tax bill was called up by Mr. Husted, who moved to suspend Rule 44, so as to place the bill on final passage. After a short debate the bill was passed.

In the Senate Mr. Cantor asked to have the Cities Committee discharged from further consideration of Mr. Crosby's bill providing for enlarging the area of New York City and that it be ordered to third reading.

Mr. O'Connor objected.

Mr. Roesch's bill providing for cash payment of salaries was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Pierce introduce a bill amending the code of civil procedure relative to the perpetuating of testimony.

Bills passed: Amending the act relative to the incorporation of socities for serial or recreative purposes.

Amending the act requiring scientific and eleemosynary societies to make annual reports. Also amending the code of civil procedure relative to jurors in justices courts.

Prohibiting the granting of licenses for the sale of liquor within 300 yards of any insane or inebriate asylum.

Amending the act authorizing the formation of corporations for the maintenance of hospitals, infirmaries, homes, etc.

The Railroad Commission bill preventing the use of centre bearing rails by street surface companies with an amendment by Mr. Grady providing that only in cities of 500,000 and upwards shall railways annually remove 20 per cent. of all centre bearing rails and replace them with tram or other kind of rail.

RATES ON OIL.

To-days Session of the Interstate Commerce Commission at Titusville.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., May 15.—The Interstate Commerce Commission which meets here to-day, will take up cases 153, 154 and 163, of the Independent Oil Refinery association, of Titusville, Oil City and Franklin. Subpœnas have been served upon a large number of railroad officials, including representatives of the New York Central, Erie, Pennsylvania, Boston and Albany, Lake Shore, Northwestern and other roads.

The principal point at issue is an equitable adjustment of tank oil and barrel oil rates, east and west.

It is claimed that though Titusville is one of the largest refining centres, barrel rates are 20 cents per barrel more than Cleveland, on shipments to Chicago, while Cleveland pays only 2 cents more per barrel than Titusville on shipments to New York or Boston. Buffalo has the same Chicago rate, but 13 cents per barrel less to New York and 24 cents less to Boston than Titusville.

Unless rates are equitably adjusted, it is claimed that all independent refiners in the oil region will be bankrupt.

F. B. Gowen is counsel for the refiners.

Professor Russell's Resignation.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 15.—Rev. John E. Russell, Professor of Biblical Theology at Yale has resigned, on account, it is supposed, of a differance of opinion in regard to the "Andover controversy," the Professor siding with the Andover professors. The resignation causes surprise and general regret. The Senior theological class, on learning of it, met and adopted resolutions of regret, and appointed a committee to convey the resolutions to the President of the University. Professor Russell has been very popular as an instructor.

Grimes Sentenced to Be Hanged.

MAY'S LANDING, May 15.—The trial of Andrew Grimes, the colored seaman who murdered mate John Martin, was resumed yesterday. The defense only called two of the State's witnesses and then made an eloquent appeal to the jury not to take a fellow creature's life. The jury retired, and after being out about two hours returned with a verdict of murder in the first degree. Grimes was sentenced to be hung Thursday June 20.

Lump-Jawed Cattle.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 15.—Two lump-jawed cattle were discovered in a load consigned to M. Goldsmith of Jersey City by the Buffalo inspectors at the East Buffalo yards. As there was some doubt whether the Board of Health had the power to stop cattle consigned through, they were allowed to go on and the Jersey City inspectors were telegraphed to be on the lookout for them.

Lutherans in Session.

ROCKVILLE, Conn., May 15.—The semi-annual convention of the New York and New England district of the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran church began a three-day session here yesterday afternoon, forty delegates being present, representing churches in Albany, Paterson, New Haven Boston and other cities. Rev. Mr. Bierand of Boston, was chosen Moderator, [illegible]

BY THE WAY.

—Use "Pride of the Pantry."

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—McKee Rankin, in "The Runaway Wife," at Music Hall, to-morrow evening.

—The case of the City vs. James Dady has been postponed until the 25th instant.

—"Pigs in clover" and all kindred games seem to have all been put in the pen.

—The lawns about the city look very pretty, robed in green and dotted with early flowers.

—Nearing will pitch no more for the Crescents. Nicholson will be in the box again next Saturday, probably.

—Services are held in St. Mary's church every Wednesday and Friday evening at 8 o'clock, during the present month.

—Some housewives peel onions under water. A better plan, however, is to peel them in the next township, far away from those you love.

—Mr. Adam Fritz of North Plainfield, will soon start West again, for the purpose of buying horses and shipping them to Plainfield.

—A competent watchman would like a few private residences to guard during the Summer, while the occupants are absent from the city. See adv. in another column.

—A meeting will be held at Hope chapel, this evening, to explain the benefits of building loan associations and coöperative banks. All are invited to attend and ask questions.

—On to-morrow evening, Mr. J. Purcell Baker, Past Grand Dictator of New Jersey, will lecture in the rooms of Wetumpka Lodge, No. 3,401, K. of H., in this city. Subject—"Queer Customers."

—The newspapers in various parts of the State are advocating open air concerts by the local bands. Why not start the ball a rolling in this city, by the citizens "chipping in" to help pay the expense.

—The game that was booked for Saturday between the Crescents and the Bloomfield nine, is off through some misunderstanding. There will be a game here, however, to be announced in a day or two.

—A ladies pocketbook, containing a considerable amount of money and other articles, was picked up on Front street near Somerset, early on Monday evening. Owner can recover the same by calling at this office.

—Messrs Dilts and McCutchen have been requested to hereafter select the nine of Crescent Y. M. C. A's, to play in the match games arranged. Manager Gavett has all he can do in attending to the other details.

—A report was current at Rahway this morning, that another young woman had been foully murdered there last night. There's nothing in it. The truth of the matter is that a young woman was drugged and assaulted.

—As the warm weather has arrived, it may not be out of place to remind the City Council that a few dollars could be judiciously expended in improving and beautifying Plainfield's Central Park. The City Park should be fenced in or some one may carry off the seats,

G. A. R. Meeting.

A regular encampment of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R. of this city, was held in the Post room on East Front street, last evening. Besides the usual routine business of the Post, the Memorial Day detail reported progress. The members of the Post also accepted an invitation to attend divine services in Trinity Reformed church, on Sunday evening, the 26th instant. The members will attend church in a body.

A Pansy Tea.

The Young Ladies' Mission Band connected with the Crescent Avenue and First Presbyterian churches, will give a "Pansy Tea" in the chapel of the latter church, Thursday, May 16, from 5 to 10 P. M. The decorations will be of a novel and appropriate character and music will form a featur[illegible] charge for admiss[illegible] refreshments for [illegible]

THE WHY AND WHEREFORE.

WHICH OF THE TWO PAPERS IS THE MOST SENSATIONAL?

The Other Paper Betrays its Trust, Re-Hashes and Clips What it Has Printed Before, and the Whole Thing is a Farce From Beginning to End—Why Don't They Give the Men an Opportunity to Establish Their Innocence or Else Prove Them Guilty.

The false-faced sheet printed in another Ward, and edited in another county, comes out last evening under the glaring headline of "A Fugitive's Escape" and dared to present to its few readers a sensational, and embellished story concerning what occurred nearly half a year ago. The whole account is sensational in the extreme, and was evidently written for the sole purpose of catering to the one who furnishes the sheet with its little news. The whole truth of the matter is this, as told by one of the parties concerned—the husband of the woman who it is alleged was knocked down and criminally assaulted:

It appears that during last Fall—the exact date we did not record, for reasons hereinafter stated—Thomas Kennedy and his wife, Kate, both of whom worked for a "Mrs. Brown," at the extreme Southern end of Plainfield avenue, spent a Wednesday afternoon drinking and carousing among the saloons in this city. About six o'clock P. M., according to Kennedy's story, his wife and himself left a Park avenue saloon, both more or less under the influence of intoxicants. The wife carried a market basket on her arm in which was a bottle of whiskey and a few other articles.

Kennedy told a PRESS reporter the next day that he noticed two or three men following him all the way from the saloon in Park avenue the night before, but supposed that they lived in that neighborhood, and consequently paid little attention to them. He said that while his wife and himself were passing the strip of woodland known as "Stelle's woods," two or three men (he was unable to state whether it was two or three) approached them from the rear, and grabbed the market basket his wife was carrying evidently knowing that it contained a bottle of rum. He remonstrated with the intruders, or highwaymen, he says, and for his trouble he was knocked down and kicked. Kennedy said, further, that he got home, that night, but his wife failed to materialize; in consequence he thought she might have been assaulted.

The above story was told a PRESS representative, the day after the alleged assault occurred, and the scribe was ready to print about a "stick" referring to the matter, when "our excellent Chief of Police" requested that nothing be said, in the hope that the offenders might be apprehended. The same demand was made on the other paper. THE PRESS, although in full possession of all of the facts, lived up to the agreement, and today for the first time the facts in the case are presented to the public.

Young Dady and another man who were arrested as being accomplices, are, it is said, yet confined in the County Jail, at Elizabeth, but it simply requires the services of a lawyer to have them brought to trial or liberated.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Charles W. Wilkisson of West 7th street, left Plainfield, yesterday for the far West, where he will remain some time or probably locate definitely.

On Monday night Brunswick Lodge, Knights of Honor of New Brunswick, entertained Grand Dictator Louis Burke of Paterson and Deputy C. J. Feytel of North Plainfield.

Messrs T. H. Keller, Charles Smith and other Plainfield members of the Middlesex Gun Club, left for Trenton, this morning, where they will take part in a two-days' shooting tournament.

At the annual Convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of New Jersey, held at Trenton, yesterday, Mr. Andrew J. Nolan of this city was elected a Vice President from Union county.

The following persons constitute the memorial detail appointed from among the members of Major Anderson Post, No. 109, G. A. R. of this city: Adjutant, Edward J. Olssen, Senior Vice Commander, Chas. H. Randolph, Surgeon, Abel S. Titsworth, Serg't Major, John R. Naylor and Comrades Daniel W. Sofield, Renne B. Manning, Asa Collier.

Master Willie Pearson of Vine street, North Plainfield, is mourning the loss of a beautiful tame squirrel, and all the neighbors and his friends who knew the little pet, are sympathising with him. The animal would play around the neighborhood all day and be fed by those living in the vicinity, but it was always at home every night. It has now been missing two weeks.

At her home on Plainfield avenue, about ten o'clock today, occurred the death of Sarah, wife of Mr. James Maynard. The deceased was sixty years of age, and for the past three months she has been confined to the house suffering from dropsy. Besides the husband, one daughter and three sons survive her. The funeral will probably take place from the house on Friday, at 2 P. M.

THE CITY'S SHAME.

Not the "Stuff of Which Plainfield Men are Composed."

A newly born sheet called "The Commuter," which plainly shows it has not yet had its eyes open, seems intent in its current issue to cast a slur upon Plainfield people by the ironical statement that "the evening news amply shows the stuff of which Plainfield men are composed."

The men of this city will appreciate the insolence of such remarks, when they remember that the news has twice been presented before the grand juries of Union county for outrageous slander and criminal libel, and twice for atrocious assault, and that its proprietor has been arrested by the police, prosecuted by the city and fined $50 by the Court for being a street rowdy.

"The Commuter" must learn to tell a gentleman from an insect, and to judge a city by its good works rather than its disgraces, before it can hope to make its way into the approval of the people or win their patronage.

Broke Open the Safe.

A safe was broken open at the residence of Mrs. Wm. L. Jones, corner of Park avenue and Seventh street, yesterday afternoon, and the contents was transferred to the law offices of Messrs Clark & Reed. The work was not done by professional safe breakers, however, but by a locksmith of this city. The safe was an old fashioned one of the Lilly make, and was made in 1851. It contained papers and other personal effects of the late William L. Jones, and the executors in settling up the large estate, were obliged to get at the papers inside the safe. The key to the combination had been lost, moreover, the lock itself was rusty and useless, having remained silent for the past dozen or fifteen years.

The services of a locksmith were required to open the safe, and this feat was not accomplished until the door was battered in. The contents were found to be in a good state of preservation.

The Firemen's Tax Exemption.

The firemen of New Jersey will hold the Legislature of 1889 in grateful remembrance. Gov. Green has signed the bill passed at the last session relieving firemen from the payment of poll tax and granting an exemption from State and municipal taxes to the amount of $500.

The duty of the firemen is to save property, and he performs his duty at the risk of life and limb and at the expense of comfort and health. A man thus employed has peculiar claims on the community, and the exemption of a few dollars taxes on his household goods is a concession which should gladly be made.

It remained for a Democratic Legislature to make this concession to the fidelity and valor which stand guard over property and life in the community.—Newark Journal.

Rev. Dr. Simonson's Funeral.

The funeral obsequies following the death of the late Rev. Dr. John Simonson, were enacted at the deceased's late home on Park avenue, at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The funeral was attended by many of the clergymen and representative men of the city. Rev. Cornelius Schenck opened the service with Scripture reading; he also gave a biographical sketch of Dr. Simonson from the latter's childhood up to the time of his death.

Rev. Dr. Yerkes also eulogized the deceased whom he characterized as a man of sterling worth. Rev. W. R. Richards offered prayer, and Rev. Mr. Schenck pronounced the benediction. The floral display consisted of a sheaf of wheat and a bunch of lillies. This morning the remains were taken to Newtown, L. I., for interment.

A Birthday Tea.

Miss Beatrice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Serin P. Craig, and grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Doane, gave a tea to fifteen of her young friends, last evening, at her home corner of Church and Fourth streets, upon the occasion of her 13th birthday anniversary.

Bunches of lilies of the valley, tied with white ribbon, were laid at each plate. The presents included a lawn-tennis racket, baskets and bouquets of flowers, potted plants and books. The young hostess entertained her guests in a most cordial and pleasing way, and they overwhelmed her with good wishes for her future.

Metuchen's Election.

The election at Metuchen on Monday, on the proposition to form itself into a borough, was very exciting. The opposition to the formation of the borough was intense, and the voting was brisk.

All but about a score of the voters cast ballots. When the count was made at 8 o'clock it was found that there were 255 votes cast, of which 150 were against a borough organization, and 105 for it. The scene at the polls was very exciting.

Mr. Grant's Lecture.

Mr. F. W. Grant's lecture at Reform Hall, last evening, on the "Rule of Life for the Christian," was well attended. The lecture was thoroughly entertaining throughout its delivery. The next and last lecture in the series will take place on Tuesday evening next.

Tickling the Palate.

The only trouble with HAMBURG FIGS is that they are so pleasant to the palate that children are apt to eat them when not absolutely necessary, if they can get hold of them surreptitiously. They will injure no one, but medicine should not be taken unless needed. 25 cents. Dose, one fig. J. G. Miller, Agent, [illegible]

BASE BALL.

How the School Boys Defeated One Another, Yesterday.

In a game of base ball on the Y. M. C. A. grounds, yesterday, the 4th Class High school, defeated the Junior Class team with ease. At the end of the seventh innings, the score stood 21 to 8 in favor of the former.

Yesterday the First Class of the Franklin school were jumped on with both feet by the Third Class of the same school. The game was played in the afternoon and took two hours and five minutes. Three umpires, Messrs C. Sutphen, W. Cornell and W. Wyckoff, were necessary for the occasion, yet the Third Class made 19 runs in one inning.

The score was:

Condoling the Death of a Clergyman.

At a regular meeting of the minister's association of this city, held at the residence of Rev. W. R. Richards on Monday Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes and Archdeacon Rodman were appointed a committee to prepare a paper upon the late Rev. Dr. John Simonson, whose funeral took place yesterday afternoon. Following is a copy of the paper:

REV. JOHN SIMONSON.

As members of the Ministers' Conference of Plainfield of which Mr. Simonson was a member, we would hereby give expression to a sense of the loss we have sustained in his death and to our high appreciation of his character and worth. Brother Simonson was the first pastor of the Reformed church of this city and to his labors is largely due its organization. His pastorate here was marked by great wisdom, rare fidelity and a spirit of true catholicity, and those of us who knew him then can say that he won the respect and confidence of the entire Christian community.

After an absence of some years in other fields of labor, and when compelled to retire from the active duties of the ministry on account of failing health, he returned with his estimable wife to Plainfield. Here they made their home among a people who loved them, until they were called to their better home in the "Father's House" in Heaven.

Some of us knew him only in these years of retirement when he suffered much from the disease which at last proved fatal, and he was on this account prevented from enjoying frequent intercourse or anything like active co-operation with his brethren in Christian work. But we all knew him so as to respect and honor him for solid qualities of mind and heart. He was humble and yet manly, gentle as a child, but as firm as a rock in his adherence to his convictions. He was an earnest, devout, conscientious, faithful servant of God. His knowledge of Bible truth was clear. His grasp on it and its hold on him were so strong that his faith was firmly grounded and his preaching was with the authority of one who knew and belived what he preached.

He was a pre-eminently good man and the memory which he leaves of a noble character, a pure life and an unselfish service for Christ still preaches the gospel he preached while living. "He being dead yet speaketh."

We extend our sincere condolence to the relatives and friends of the deceased.

By order of the Conference,

D. J. YERKES,
E. M. RODMAN.

A Plainfield Lady Sings to the Soldiers at Cornwall.

The Cromwell Guards of New York State, attended church in a body at Cornwall-on-Hudson, Sunday. The Newburgh Journal, in speaking of the service says:

"A special musical programme was excellently rendered by the choir, a marked feature of which was the singing of Paul Rodney's "Calvary" by Miss Julia J. Ketcham, of Plainfield, N. J., who was present by invitation of the pastor and chorister of the church. Miss Ketcham is a fine musician and her voice seemed wonderfully adapted to the pathetic sweetness of the piece she rendered. The thanks of the Guards and of the congregation are due her and those whose thoughtfulness secured her services."

Taking Advantage of the New Law.

Already those desiring to have the bonds of matrimony canceled are taking advantage of the new law which makes two years' desertion a ground for divorce when the parties are actual residents of the State. Under the old law the time was three years. The bill, which passed the Legislature this year, has only recently been approved, and the two first petitions for divorce under it were filed in the Court of Chancery last Monday.

PLAINFIELD'S MILK O. K.

The State Inspector Pronounces the Supply Rich and Fine.

As the different dairymen and drivers who supply the Plainfield families with milk from their wagons, drove into the city this morning, they were unexpectedly met by State Inspector McGuire and an assistant.

They were all caught on the fly without warning, and required to open their cans then and there for inspection. Between twenty and thirty wagons were thus stopped, and a test made of the supply of milk they contained. Not a sample was condemned, and before leaving Plainfield, the Inspector left the following official report for publication in THE PRESS for the satisfaction of the community:

I have made a thorough inspection of the milk supply of Plainfield, and find it very rich and very fine

The Century Run Through Plainfield.

The second annual "Great Century Bicycle Run" will take place on Saturday, June 8, and the following schedule will be strictly adhered to. Rendezvous Friday evening, June 7, at Mountain House, So. Orange:

| MILES | PLACE | LEAVE | A. M. |
|---|---|---|---|
| | Orange | 4 | " |
| 5 | Newark | 4.30 | " |
| 11 | Elizabeth | 5.15 | " |
| 18 | Westfield | 6.15 | " |

| 53 | Princeton (rest ½ hour) | 11.30 | " |
| | | | P. M. |
| 65 | Trenton (arrive | 1.30 | " |
| | Trenton (leave | 2.30 | " |
| 100 | Philadelphia | 7.00 | " |

This will not be a race, the average riding time being only about 7 miles an hour. Capt. F. L. C. Martin started at 6:15 A. M. on the 12th inst., and rode over the route as far as Trenton, returning in the afternoon by way of Pennington, Belle Meade and Somerville, and reports the roads as being in very good condition excepting between New Market and New Brunswick, which will probably be good by June 8. All wheelmen are cordially invited to participate in this run, and will be furnished with any further information by application to any of the following Committee who have the run in charge:

A New Depot at Elizabeth.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company have proposed to the city of Elizabeth to close up certain streets in order that the company may build a new depot to accommodate the people. The railroad company now owns all the property on both sides of the railroad tracks from Broad street up to Magnolia avenue, having acquired it by paying very liberally for it, with the exception of one plot of about fifty feet which the company is desirous of buying, but cannot yet agree with the owner as to price.

The proposition is, in brief, to close up Pennsylvania Railroad avenue, which is practically only a dirt road alongside the tracks, and open in its stead a macadamized driveway back of the depot, from Broad and East Broad streets to Chestnut street; then to build platforms on either side of the tracks with a handsome depot near Chestnut street on the East side, and a shelter on the West side These two will be connected by a passageway under the tracks, so that passengers will not be obliged to cross the railroad to catch trains in either direction.

McKee Rankin and Mabel Bert.

To-morrow evening that celebrated actor, Mr. McKee Rankin, who stands at the head of his profession as an exponent of melodramatic impersonations, will appear at Music Hall in the latest society success, "The Runaway Wife." This beautiful drama is the joint work of Mr. McKee Rankin and Mr. Fred G. Maeder, and is conceded by the press of New York, Philadelphia and Chicago to be one of the strongest emotional dramas ever written.

Mr. Rankin will be supported by an exceedingly fine company, including Miss Mabel Bert, a lady of great emotional powers and exceeding beauty, and his daughter, Miss Dido, who created such a furore among those interested in theatricals on the occasion of her debut in New York recently.

The Rev. Mr. Cleaver's Class Negotiating for a Place of Worship.

The Berean Class that has been holding gospel meetings in Cutter's Hall, for the past many months under the leadership of the Rev. J. B. Cleaver, has grown so large that its present 'quarters will not hold the numbers of its members that assemble.

The class has grown large enough to form a church of its own and have a proper place of worship. Consequently negotiations are now going on for the leasing of Reform Hall to be used on Sundays and certain evenings in the week, by the Rev. Mr. Cleaver and his congregation.

If these arrangements are made, the society will then give itself a name—probably the "Church of Christ."

—The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders will meet in adjourned session at Elizabeth, to-morrow afternoon.

—Myself and daughter have used Dr. Dam's Remedy for that weak, tired feeling and headache, and find it excellent.—MRS. M. E. TAYLOR, E. Front street.

On the Ragged Edge of Bliss.

"And you bought this for me, Mr. Harrison? And am I to wear it, really and truly from you?"

"Yes, sweet Arabella, that ring will seal our troth; and this will seal your lips," and he kissed her.

The coy, shy creature was indignantly surprised as she drew away from him, and said:

"Mr. Harrison, how dare you insult me! I have always regarded you as a brother; and now, I see, you are infatuated like all the rest, and our friendship must cease."

"But, Arabella, you encouraged me to hope—"

"I never encouraged you to hope for anything but the affection of a sister. Besides, you have this evening done that which is unpardonable. Begone, sir!"

As he despondently started for the door she called him, with tears in her voice:

"Stay a moment. Let me think. I must not be too hasty. Came you honestly by this ring!"

"Most unkindest cut of all. Do you suspect my honesty!"

"No, Mr. Harrison; but whence comes this ring. What did it cost!"

"It came from Galt's, and cost $2,000. Every gem there is a precious stone. It is valuable, intrinsically; but it is useless now to me."

"Well, Mr. Harrison, what startled me was to think that you cared enough for me to purchase such a ring to seal our troth, and then to let me slip from your arms so easily."

He took fresh courage, took a better hold, held her in his manly arms—and they are sitting there yet, probably, on the ragged edge of bliss.

What Whisky Will Do.

The utter abandonment of judgment by excessive use of whisky and the heavier wines is well illustrated by the following incident.

In the autumn of 1885 there stood at the bar of the National Hotel, in Washington, a distinguished United States Senator. He is a man of great courage, sagacity and prudence. But he had spent the day entertaining a couple of prominent gentlemen from his State, and the trio were well advanced into the hilarious stage of exhilaration. The Senator pulled from his pocket an autograph letter from the President, saying:

"Here is what the old rooster says. Think of it, asking me to prove offensive partisanship against that old political reprobate, before he will remove him. I'm going to the White House to-morrow morning and if he don't appoint you, or promise to appoint you soon, I'll just let into him and have a row right there. He is a stiff-necked, hard-headed man, but he must learn that Senators have rights which he shall be compelled to respect."

Every man in the bar-room, and there were a score at least, heard the words; many saw the letter and recognized the handwriting of Mr. Cleveland. There were two newspaper men there, too. One of them walked up to the Senator, whispered and warned him to be quiet. Instantly he realized his position and left the room. Neither one of the reporters used that item, which would have been sensational at the time; but they kept themselves, because the Senator was and is "a good fellow" whom everybody likes.

Beating the Theater Bennets.

Man at the theater box-office.

"Have you any front seats in the upper gallery!"

"Yes, sir."

"How high is that above the parquet!"

"About seventy feet."

"Do you think I could see over the millinery down stairs!"

"I think so."

"Gimme two."—Louisville Courier Journal.

NEWS FROM ABROAD

The Great Strike in the German Coal Regions.

THE RIOTERS ARE DISPERSED.

A Delegation of the Striking Miners Calls Upon the Emperor.

The Kaiser Gravely Listens to the Recital of Their Grievances and After Warning Them Against Violence, Says He Will Protect Them in Their Rights—Trouble Encountered in Finding a Lord Lieutenant for Ireland.

BERLIN, May 15.—The rioters who took possession of the Prince Regent's pit in Westphalia yesterday and prevented men who wished to resume work from doing so were finally overawed and dispersed by the troops.

The mining masters have sent a deputation to lay their case before the Emperor, who will receive them this afternoon. Large quantities of English and Belgian coal arrived at Essen to-day and further shipments are expected.

The Kaiser this morning received the strikers' committee, Schroeder, Bunte and Siegel, granting them an audience of fifteen minutes' duration. Herr Herrfurth, Prussian Minister of the Interior, who returned to Berlin from a tour of inquiry at Getsenkirchen and other places in the disordered region on Sunday was present.

The Emperor gravely listened to the recital of the grievances of the strikers by the delegates and occasionally put questions to them to inform himself upon certain points.

In reply to their statement he said: "I have a deep personal interest in the welfare of my subjects in Westphalia, as elsewhere. I have carefully followed the progress of the struggle and have ordered a thorough inquiry to be made. I have been warned of the plottings of political and especially Socialist agitators and am grieved that the strikers should have indulged in rioting, which it is impossible for me to tolerate. Tell your fellows that the Emperor himself, if necessary, will order the troops to bayonet and shoot rioters, but if the men are quiet and orderly the Emperor will protect them."

In conclusion the Kaiser expressed hope that the employers and employes would be able to settle their differences without the necessity for the interference of the Government.

The Berlin Post urges the Government to arbitrate the questions at issue between the masters and the miners as a means of preventing further bloodshed.

NEWS FROM LONDON.

Trouble Encountered in Finding a Lord Lieutenant for Ireland.

LONDON, May 15.—It is now regarded as almost absolutely certain that the Government will make no proposals with reference to the office of Viceroy of Ireland until the Ministry moves a Local Government bill for Ireland in the House of Commons next year. The office will probably be abolished and the government of the country placed in the hands of the Chief Secretary for Ireland, who will be promoted to the dignity of a Secretary of State.

Meanwhile efforts are continued to induce a member of the royal family to accept the position of Lord Lieutenant of Ireland for a year and there is every likelihood of their being successful.

It is said that the Prince of Wales has intimated that he would not be averse to residing in Dublin half the time and this hint has been widely circulated as evidence that His Royal Highness will be the next Viceroy of Ireland.

All of the Irish leaders who have as yet publicly expressed their opinions on the subject avow their belief that the Prince of Wales would exercise his power with more fairness and generosity toward the Irish peasantry than any man who has yet served or is likely to be asked by the Tories to serve in the capacity of Viceroy, and his acceptance of the office, even for the brief period mentioned, would give general satisfaction.

[THE ATTEMPT ON THE CZAR'S LIFE.

A despatch from Vienna gives another version of the attempt to take the life of Czar, news of which was telegraphed from Paris yesterday.

The story in circulation in Vienna is that the Czar was walking in the garden of the palace when he was approached by an officer, who fired a revolver at him, slightly wounding him in the forearm. The guards near at hand rushed forward to seize the assassin, but before they could reach him he placed the pistol to his temple and killed himself.

A RELIGIOUS MISSION FOR M. DE GIERS.

The Czar has ordered M. de Giers, brother of the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, to proceed to Livonia and report to him personally the attitude of the Lutherans in that district and the causes of their discontent with the religious administration in that region.

OUTCRY AGAINST AN ATHEIST MAYOR.

Herr Gnauth, a prominent councillor of Giessen, and widely known as a leading Atheist, has been elected Mayor of that city. The religious element have made a great outcry against his taking his seat and it is doubtful whether the Government will confirm his election. He was elected by his fellow councillors without a dissenting vote and solely upon the ground of his administrative fitness.

FOR INSULTING A SEVEN-YEAR-OLD PRINCE.

A potter at Gross Lichterfelde has been sentenced to a month's imprisonment at hard labor for insulting Crown Prince William, aged seven years.

The young Prince, accompanied by his nurse and one of his brothers, was passing the potteries in a carriage when the potter, standing by the roadside, applied an insulting epithet to him.

FORTIFIED HARBORS FOR GERMANY.

The Cologne Gazette says that Count von Waldersee is going almost immediately to Cuxhaven to choose the positions of two new fortified harbors at the mouth of the Elbe. The paper also states that a system of mines is projected in connection with the new harbors which will enable the garrison to close the entrance to the river against any vessel.

The North German Gazette denies the truth of these statements and adds that even if they were true their announcement to the world would be impolite.

Can't Convict Boulanger.

PARIS, May 15.—The Court of Senators empowered to try General Boulanger cannot frame a specific charge against him, and it is proposed to enter a nolle prosequi in his case. It is believed that the [illegible] against the General will fail and the prosecution of M. Henri Ro[illegible] abandoned.

SPOKANE WINS AGAIN.

Proctor Knott Beaten a Second Time at Louisville Yesterday.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 15.—A very large crowd witnessed yesterday's races. The sun shone brightly after 1 o'clock and the track, which had been harrowed, was only slightly heavy and by the time the bell tapped for the third race, the Clark Stakes, which was the event of the day, the track was free of water and the going was fair in parts.

The betting in the ring was very heavy, but the odds on Proctor Knott remained very steady from 1 to 3, to 2 to 5, some 1 to 2 being offered just before the post bell. The talent were not well pleased when Ritchie, Bryant's big black stable boy's name, went up to ride the great gelding, as there were several good weighty jockeys in the dressing room, any one of whom would have gladly taken the mount. Spokane and Once Again were at 3 and 4 to 1 respectively. Both received good support, probably more money going on the latter as he was more generally liked for the distance.

When the horses came from the paddock Spokane showed just the faintest sign of tenderness in his left hind foot and his cooling out walk after the preliminary gallop was in deep grass away from the paths. This would strengthen the suspicion that he is a little weak in the white hind foot, but, however, he showed no signs of weakness in the race, or after pulling up. Proctor Knott had but very little galloping and was led to the post under blankets with his mount walking behind him.

After three breakaways the flag fell to an even start. Knott quickly assumed a short lead and with the others abreast they passed the stand, Knott under a very strong, choking pull. Going around the lower turn, Knott increased his length to nearly two lengths, Spokane and Come-to-Taw together in second place. Once Again lagged in third place.

Half way up the stretch Knott was suddenly pulled back and for half a furlong the others closed around him. Then the big gelding came away again and led by a short length to the middle of the lower turn.

Here Spokane began creeping up on the outside. When they rounded into the stretch Knott swung very wide to the outside and Spokane cut inside and led him by a half length, Once Again and Taw a length away.

Half way down the stretch Spokane had a length the lead and Knott, whose boy was not apparently particular about getting the best going available, had not yet been called.

At the distance stand Spokane had nearly two lengths lead and then Ritchie brought the whip down on Knott, but the latter could not close the gap and Spokane passed under the wire winner by over a length.

Both horses pulled up in good condition, the favorite not showing any signs of having had a race. The time was very slow, 2:12¼.

Murderer Cleary's Trial.

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., May 15.—The trial of Charles Cleary for the murder of Chief of Police Paul at Renovo, March 12 last, was commenced here yesterday before Judge Mayer. A jury was secured by noon. Indictments have also been found against Spotts and McVicker, the saloon keepers who sold young Cleary drink before the shooting, for selling liquor to minors. The State will insist on a verdict of murder in the first degree, while the defense will be devoted to saving Cleary from hanging.

One Killed, Three Dying.

DETROIT, Mich., May 15.—A terrible accident occurred at the Michigan Car works yesterday afternoon by which one man lost his life and three others were fatally injured. A gang of laborers were unloading a car of iron when some part of the brace holding the load broke, and several tons of iron fell on the men, completely burying them. When the victims were liberated Joe Benscotte was dead and his three companions were mortally injured. All are Germans and leave large families.

The Babe Had Been Strangled.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

A Glimpse of Life Among the Government Clerks—Some Good Reasons Why a Place in the Employ of the Government Is Not to Be Desired.

[Special Correspondence.]

The Senate closed its doors and put up the shutters, when the extra session was adjourned, but legislative business did not wholly cease. The offices of the Secretary and Sergeant-at-arms of the Senate are open on every working day of the year. The Secretary, General McCook, and the Sergeant-at-arms, Colonel Canaday, are seldom in the city during a recess, but their employes are on hand daily to attend to business. "Ours is an office of record," said one of the clerks in the office of the Secretary. "We are liable to be called upon any day or any hour for a certified copy of a bill, resolution or petition which has been filed away, possibly for years. Senators drop in here at all sorts of unexpected, and I had almost said unseasonable, hours. I remember one summer having read in the papers that Senator Palmer, of Michigan, had started for California for an extended trip; and two days later that gentleman walked into this office and asked for a copy of a bill which had been introduced by him during the previous session. True, when Congress has adjourned, we do not have the daily rush of work, but there is always something to do, and upon no day could we safely leave the office closed. Ordinarily, however, the work is so light, in fact so near nothing during a long vacation, that we take leaves of absence in pairs, always leaving about one-half of the clerical force on duty. Each of us gets about sixty days' leave during the vacation of the Senate, and that is all that a reasonable lover of hard work ought to ask. The chief clerk grants us our leaves, and is quite considerate. Our pay continues, no matter what the condition of the work may be. We don't suffer for funds when work is slack."

"How long does your term of office last?" I inquired, with a peculiar itching feeling of covetousness creeping over me; for these are surely desirable places to have.

"We hold our offices at the pleasure of the Senate. That is, so long as any one of us can retain the influence of the Senators from our States, we can remain here. When our Senators die or resign, or serve out their terms, we must bow to the inevitable, make friends with the newly-installed Senator, through our friends at home, and solicit his favor for our retention. Some of us have been here for very many years. Indeed, the spirit of Civil-Service reform is permeating the Senate, and there may come a day when, after being given a place here, a man may hold it indefinitely if he attends to his duties faithfully, and does not become offensively partisan."

"There are eight months before you with practically no work. What pay do you get for coming here daily?"

"The salaries vary. For my own part, I only get $200 per month while others get more. That is a bare living in Washington, you know, and the salaries ought to be raised. It is true that there is no work to do now, no bills being introduced, passed or defeated, but the irksomeness of being obliged to come here is a terrible strain on a man, and it becomes awfully tiresome. You just try going to a law office every day, and sitting down in idleness from morning until night, and you'll see what a bore it is?

The reader may draw on his imagination for the terrible condition of vassalage in which an employe of the Senate finds himself, with a small salary of only $200 per month, and nothing to do. Think of it; eight months with nothing to do, and an income of $50 per week to spend. The Government pays $1,500 for the hard work of walking or riding to the Capitol, entering a well-carpeted, airy, light, wholesome room, and affiliating there with kindred spirits. But it is not so extravagant, after all. These Senate employes are gentlemen of ability and experience. If they were given vacations or discharged when the Senate adjourns, it would be difficult to fill their places with skilled and trained hands next winter. The Government might lose many times the sum paid in salaries by the awkwardness or clumsiness of untrained men. But to the average reader, this little statement of fact will seem appalling; especially when in every neighborhood there are to be found honorable, honest, capable men who can not find employment which will pay them $50 per month on which to support families.

The office of the First Assistant Postmaster General is in striking contrast with that of the Secretary of the Senate at the present time. The employes of the Post-office Department are at their desks with pen in hand promptly at eight o'clock every morning, and there remain until half-past six in the evening. The Senate clerks reach their desks anywhere between ten o'clock and noon, and leave with commendable promptitude by four o'clock in the afternoon. The First Assistant Postmaster-General is surrounded by visitors all day long listening to their stories of the desolation of woe unless certain offices be parceled out immediately. He is constantly on duty communing with the dear people or their Representatives and Senators until five o'clock, and after that, sometimes until midnight, he is busy with his stenographers and confidential clerks vainly trying to keep pace with an immense correspondence. I have known people throughout the country who have objected to receiving letters marked "dictated," because they have thought that the officials should write them with their own hands. It may be as well to state here that the First Assistant Postmaster-General sometimes dictates as many as three hundred letters daily, and even then is unable to answer all communications addressed to him, but delegates that work upon less important matters to his subordinates. Imagine, if you can, a man writing three hundred letters with a pen in one day. If the reader will allow his private correspondence to accumulate for two months, and then try to write thirty letters in one day, he will see how utterly impossible it is for a prominent official to write letters with his own hand.

Senate Clerk. Big Salary. No Work.

handed over to Mr. Nathan Smith, another experienced clerk, and he goes through all that mass of papers to find if there be any discoverable error in any of the work.

When he is assured that the case is ready for consideration he lays it on the Postmaster-General's table, and that hard-working official must take time to read over that Presidential brief. If he finds any thing which attracts his special attention, he turns to the paper in the case which has been carefully numbered by Mr. Rea, in order to enable him to find it easily, and reads the original paper. After studying the case carefully the Postmaster-General takes the entire bundle to the White House, and there with the President goes over it again, and finally decides who shall have the appointment, and writes the name in the proper place, and sends it back to the department with orders for the commission to issue. Meantime, there are papers coming into the department relating to every fourth-class office in the land, and there are fifty-seven thousand of them. In each case there are numerous letters and petitions which have to be handled as carefully as the New York case. Every mail brings into the department whole armfuls of communications concerning the offices. Many of them relate to accounts of postmasters, defaultings, rents, clerk hire, and almost innumerable subjects, besides the appointments. It will be so for the next year or more, and then business will settle down to regular routine again. But, even then, it will be a hard-working office, and every employe in it earns his or her bread and butter. The salaries in this department range from nine hundred to eighteen hundred dollars per annum.

The average reader will consider this something desirable. But after one has held a clerkship in one of the executive departments in Washington and inevitably acquired the expensive habits of life in this city, the salary shrinks into insignificance. The young man who is wise, or who will listen to the words of wisdom, will never seek a Government position in the civil service, nor accept it if tendered unsought. It is vanity of vanities. People who live at a distance from the National capital will do well to understand that the glamor with which their imaginations surround Government positions is usually figmentary and more creditable to their powers of mental eccentricity than to their mature judgment. It is far better to have a salary of six hundred dollars per annum in a town or city of the interior or on the coast, than to have an income of twelve hundred dollars from the Government at Washington. The chief clerkships and heads of bureaus go to those who have distinguished themselves in the political walks of life. The real wage-workers become familiar with the business and are almost invaluable in their several positions; but they can never rise. There are several men in the office of the First Assistant Postmaster-General who are competent to manage the department, fully as competent as any prominent citizen who might at any time be called to the Postmaster-Generalship, but they are serfs of the Republic, with no power to rise, and they never will rise during their lifetimes. The days may come and the days may go, but they will be Government clerks. Occasionally one of them, unable to control a natural and commendable spirit of ambition, lifts his head and aspires to a chief clerkship, but usually he is marked thereafter by his superior officer as a good man to keep down, and he is relentlessly suppressed. The average Government clerk is poor, and to be poor is to be friendless generally.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Dr. W. H. ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

EXILE WINS EASILY

Mortemer's Son Captures the Brooklyn Handicap.

PRINCE ROYAL RUNS SECOND.

Terra Cotta, the Favorite, Ridden by McLaughlin, Finishes Third.

Fifteen Thousand People Witness the Greatest Turf Event of the Season—A Perfect Day and a Perfect Track—Hanover Out of the Race in the First Half. Time, 2:07 1-2, Within Half a Second of the Record.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Over 15,000 people went to the Gravesend race track yesterday to witness the race for the Brooklyn Handicap. A finer day for racing purposes could not have been had. The early arrivals at the track found that the course was in excellent condition, though a little lumpy underneath. It was dusty on top, and many pronounced it fast, while a few thought it a second or so slow.

In the auction pools Terra Cotta sold at $380, Hanover $360, Prince Royal $340, field $190.

At the call of the trumpet Prince Royal was the first to take the track. He was closely followed by Juggler and Terra Cotta. They looked fit to run for a kingdom. All the steeds were given splendid receptions, especially the old favorite, Hanover.

There was quite a delay at the post, Exile and Prince Royal being rather fractious. They were ranged in the following order: Juggler, having the rail, Terra Cotta next, and Richmond, Exile, Elkwood, Prince Royal and Hanover stringing to the outer rail in the order named.

They broke away four times before getting the flag. When the banner fell, Juggler was first away, followed by Terra Cotta, Elkwood, Richmond, Prince Royal, Hanover and Exile in the order named. The latter had much the worst of the start.

Coming down the stretch Hanover and Juggler were racing side by side three lengths before Prince Royal and Exile. The others were in a ruck tailed by Richmond, and in this way they went by the stand. At the lower end Juggler showed a little in front and he was first past the quarter post a nose in front of Hanover.

Going up the backstretch Juggler improved his lead and the others closed up on Hanover. Half way up the stretch Hanover began to fall back, and a cry of "Hanover is beaten!" issued from 10,000 throats. It was true. He was soon passed by Prince Royal and Exile.

Juggler was still in front at the half-mile post, half a length before Prince Royal, who was the same distance before Exile, Hanover being a bad fourth.

On the upper turn Exile went to the front and came into the home stretch half a length before Prince Royal, who was two lengths before Juggler. The struggle from this point was very exciting. Garrison rode Prince Royal like a demon, but in vain; he could not catch Exile, who in the last furlong increased his advantage, and amid tremendous cheering he won the race by two lengths. Prince Royal, second, was a dozen lengths before Terra Cotta, third. Elkwood, Juggler and Hanover finished as named. Richmond was last.

The time by fractions was: 0:25, 0:50, 1:03, 1:16, 1:28½, 1:41¼ and 2:07½.

Mutuals paid $33.30 straight and $23.30 for place.

The other races were won as follows:

First race, five furlongs—Britannic, 1; King Crab, 2; Reveller, 3. Time, 1:01¼.

Second race, 1 1-16 miles—Tea Tray, 1; Ballston, 2; Brother Ban, 3. Time, 1:48¾.

Third race, Expectation Stakes, ½ mile—Banquet, 1; Belisarius, 2; Houston, 3. Time, 49¾ sec.

Fifth race, ½ mile—Reclare, 1; John Atwood, 2; St. James, 3. Time, 50 sec.

Sixth race, mile selling—Frolic, 1; Singlestone, 2; Satisfaction, 3. Time, 1:43½.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

Ferryboats on the Delaware River Come Together.

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—In a collision on the Delaware River between two ferryboats yesterday half a dozen people, mostly residents of Camden, were injured.

The accident took place about 6:30 o'clock, near the South street dock on the Jersey side of the river.

The Kaighn's Point boat General Schultz was coming into her dock and the Gloucester boat Peerless was just leaving the adjoining dock.

It is said that there was a new pilot on the Schultz.

Just how the accident happened is not yet known, but the boats came together with terrific force. The overhang of the Schultz was carried away, the railing shattered as though made of toothpicks and part of the ladies' cabin smashed in.

The boat was well filled with passengers and there was a panic.

It is known that several people were injured, but so far as learned, none seriously.

Among the injured are Mary Behnerholtz, Fourth and Atlantic avenues, Minnie Springer, Annie Quimby and Ophelia Johnson, all of Camden. One or two others whose names were not learned were also slightly injured.

Miss Frelinghuysen to be Married.

NEWARK, N. J., May 16.—Miss Tillie Frelinghuysen, daughter of the late ex-Senator and ex-Secretary of State Frederick Frelinghuysen, and who, it was understood, was engaged to be married to the late ex-President Arthur, will be married this afternoon to Mr. H. Winne Gray, the divorced husband of the daughter of the late W. R. Travers, of New York.

JERSEY CITY, 11; LOWELL, 4.

LOWELL, May 16.—Jersey City won yesterday from Lowell by superior ball playing. Morgan Murphy was badly injured in a collision with Friel at the home plate.

WORCESTER, 3; NEWARK, 1.

WORCESTER, May 15.—Burkett's pitching and the fielding of Annis and Cudworth were the features of the thirteen-inning game between the Worcesters and Newarks yesterday. Scheffler's home run in the thirteenth inning was one of the hardest hits ever made on the grounds.

HARTFORD, 13; EASTON, 6.

HARTFORD, May 16.—The game was long drawn out and the pitchers were wild. Henry made a home-run hit when three men were on bases. The fielding was good but the battery work poor.

The Awful Crimes of a Bigamist.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 16.—A special from Cincinnati says: Moritz J. Black, the murderer and suicide who was buried yesterday with his little girl, turns out to have been a bigamist and professional libertine. His present wife alleges to have positive information that he has a wife and six children living in the West Indies and another wife in London. He buried a young wife under suspicous circumstances at Newton, Mass., two years ago and was married again in four months to Lilly A. Taylor, a Boston widow, from whom he obtained a fraudulent divorce. The friends of the latest widow assert that he committed murder and suicide to save himself from prosecution for bigamy.

Charged with Infanticide.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., May 16.—The trial of Thomas Rivers and his wife for infanticide began here yesterday. The evidence showed that the accused started on foot from Cheshire, September 15, 1887, with a 14-months old boy, and reached Adams without him. Rivers, when arrested, said the child had died in a spasm, and showed its grave in the woods. The autopsy, it is understood, disclosed signs of strangulation. Mrs. Rivers, who is robust, comely and 25, was married in March, 1886, to Simon Light of Cohoes, N. Y., the father of the child. They separated, and in September, 1887, she married Rivers, a painter.

Outrages by White Caps.

GREENSBURGH, Pa., May 16.—An outrage was committed by White Caps upon the property of S. J. Coffman, whom they had ordered to leave the country. The other morning his barn was burned. Hastening to the building to rescue live stock Mr. Coffman found that the White Caps had cut the throat of a valuable horse. Later in the day a rudely drawn picture of a coffin was sent to his house with renewed orders to leave the country.

Millionaire Paul's Body Found.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., May 16.—Heywood Paul, the young millionaire of Philadelphia who recently graduated at Harvard, and who became insane while arranging for his marriage to a young woman of Boston, and for whose apprehension $1,000 reward had been offered, was found drowned yesterday. His body was found floating in the Delaware River by some shad fisherman in a cove in front of the residence of General E. Burd Grubb. Young Paul broke away from his attendants on Saturday last.

Railroad Projectors Meet.

GILMANTOWN, N. H., May 16.—A conference of the officials of the Concord and the Merrimack Valley Railroads, and a public meeting were held here yesterday in the interest of the proposed line from Pittsfield to Alton Bay, a distance of sixteen miles, to connect the Merrimack Valley with the Boston and Maine and Lake systems. It was stated that the probable cost would [illegible]

WASHINGTON TOPICS

Secretary Proctor Returns from the West.

WILL VISIT WEST POINT NEXT.

He Denies that the President Has Thought of Pardoning Deserters.

Solicitor-General Jenks' Resignation Accepted—Too Much Work at the Norfolk Navy Yard—Senator Hale Not So Seriously Injured as Reported—A Peculiar Reason for Granting a Pension—Fourth-Class Postmasters Appointed.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Secretary Proctor has returned to Washington from his western trip looking refreshed and in good health. He is satisfied with the results of his observations, although from the hasty manner in which the trip was made the examinations were necessarily cursory. One post and sometimes two were visited each day, and the trip extended as far west as Denver. In a few days Secretary Proctor will visit West Point, N. Y. He says that the subject of issuing a proclamation of amnesty to deserters has not been discussed or considered by the President and himself.

Hon. Samuel J. Randall, who has been confined to the house for several days, is convalescing rapidly, and expects to be out shortly.

His appetite is good, and a gentleman who saw him yesterday says he looks as well as at any time during the last session of Congress.

Mr. Randall will probably spend the summer at the seashore.

The President has accepted the resignation of Judge George A. Jenks as Solicitor-General of the Department of Justice to take effect to-day. Mr. Jenks resigned upon the change of administration but was requested to remain in office until the close of the existing term of the Supreme Court. Judge Jenks will be retained in the service of the Government as counsel in the telephone cases. It is expected that an appointment as Solicitor-General will be made this week.

Secretary Tracy has re-established the office of General Inspector of the Naval Pay Corps, which was abolished by Secretary Whitney. Pay Director Thomas A. Looker has been appointed to the position. His duties will consist in making the quarterly inspections of officers accounts on the Atlantic coast.

The steamer Boston at New York has been ordered to Norfolk for the purpose of towing the monitor Puritan to the navy yard at Brooklyn. The monitor was towed from Philadelphia to Norfolk by order of Secretary Whitney, who intended to have her completed there, but it now appears that the Norfolk yard is so busy that the work can be done to better advantage at New York.

Major Charles B. Throckmorton of the Second Artillery has been directed to inspect the encampment of the New Hampshire National Guard at Concord from the 3d to the 7th of June.

Secretary Blaine has received a telegram from Senator Hale who was reported seriously injured in a railway collision near Los Angeles, Cal., on Monday, stating that his injury is slight. The Senator also said in his despatch that the Senate committee of which he is a member would leave Los Angeles to-day for northern California.

Assistant Secretary Bussey has directed that a pension be granted to R. M. Montgomery for aggravation of disease while in the service. The evidence in the case showed that Montgomery had a weak back before he entered the service, but that while on duty carrying rations from a lower to an upper deck of a vessel he fell down a stairway and incurred pensionable injuries. His claim has been the subject of several examinations and was always decided adversely. Mr. Bussey says, however, that Montgomery's ailment was aggravated by the fall and that a liberal and just construction of the pension laws make the Government responsible and he therefore directs that Montgomery's name be placed on the pension roll.

Application was recently made to the Secretary of State for authority for the return to the United States of a Chinaman named Derton Beng, now in Hong Kong, who was formerly a pupil of Mrs. Mary K. Scott in a mission school in Baltimore. The matter was referred to the Treasury Department, and Assistant Secretary Tichenor has informed the applicant that the Chinaman in question will be allowed to return to this country provided he be not a laborer and provided also that he can satisfy the customs officer at the port of arrival of his social position.

Fourth-class postmasters have been appointed as follows: H. J. Bear, Delta, Pa.; C. D. Beans, Fallsington, Pa.; J. E. McGrew, Finleyville, Pa.; E. F. Hackman, Hatfield, Pa.; D. W. Rank, Limestoneville, Pa.; Charles Rue, Maud, Pa.; W. R. Van Degrift, Newportville, Pa.; H. F. Groff, Perkasie, Pa.; E. W. Snyder, Point Marion, Pa.; J. M. Perrin, Putnam, Pa.; J. E. McNaldy, Schwenksville, Pa.; Philo Tuller, Tioga, Pa.; Alvin Collins, Barnegat Park, N. J.; Thomas Palmer, Frenchtown, N. J.

"The Plainfield Stolen News."

The following items in Wednesday's news were stolen bodily from THE PRESS of Tuesday.

The celebration of the 25th anniversary of Father Smyth's ordination to the priesthood;

The addition being erected to Muhlenberg Hospital;

Can Anything Be Done to Save Music Hall?

Music Hall stock, in small blocks, has been offered for the past two years at fifty cents on the dollar. The stockholders have never been paid in the past a cent of interest or dividend, but now it seems that possibly in future seasons in the face of the competition of the new Opera House on Second street, the stockholders of Music Hall may be assessed to keep their building cleaned, lighted and warmed.

Friends and Temperance.

A meeting of the Friends' Temperance and Literary Society, was held in the Friends' Meeting house, corner of Peace and Third streets, last evening, with Vice President Col. John Dettrich in the chair. The warm weather probably interfered to some extent with the attendance, which was smaller than usual. Papers on temperance [illegible] several of the members, [illegible] meeting adjourned.

ANOTHER CLOSE CALL.

A Collision Just West of the Park Avenue Bridge on Monday Night, Which Fortunately Injured No One and Did But Little Damage.

Thanks to kind Providence that a serious and perhaps fatal railroad accident in this city was averted, on Monday evening, through the heroic efforts of one engineer on the Central Railroad, and the presence of mind of another.

The 9:13 P. M. passenger train from New York drew up at the station on time that evening, and its cargo of living freight was being deposited on the platform, when the shrill whistle of a locomotive told of approaching danger. The passengers were, of course, dumbfounded, but the more collected of the railroad employes, took in the situation at a glance. The Baltimore and Ohio fast freight was following closely behind the passenger train, and the engineer was unable to control his train. The proper signals were displayed, but onward thundered the fast freight. By-standers notified the engineer on the passenger train of the danger, and with presence of mind he opened the throttle and his train moved. It was too late, however, and just west of the Park avenue railroad crossing a collision occurred, which resulted in shattering the lamps and globes in the rear car of the passenger train, knocking a brakeman "off his pins," and damaging the coach to a considerable extent.

Fortunately there were but a few passengers on the train when it left the station here, or the accident might have proved more disastrous. So far as can be ascertained, no one is directly responsible for the collision. The engineer of each train displayed both nerve and courage, and stuck like a leech to his post of duty.

SILVER JUBILEE.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS IN THE MINISTRY.

Rev. Father Smyth Celebrates the Twenty-Fifth Anniversary of His Ordination to the Priesthood—Impressive Services in St. Mary's Church Today. Followed by a Banquet.

St. Mary's church, in this city, was today the scene of a silver wedding, so to speak, the occasion being the twenty-fifth anniversary of Rev. P. E. Smyth's ordination to the ministry. At 10 o'clock, Rev. Father Smyth was the celebrant of a solemn high mass, assisted by Rev. Father Glennon of Asbury Park, as deacon, Rev. Father O'Connor, a professor in Seton Hall College, as sub-deacon, and Rev. Father O'Connell of Bound Brook, as master of ceremonies. Rev. Father O'Connor followed with an eloquent sermon on the Priesthood, in which he alluded in touching terms to Father Smyth's labors here.

During the service Rev. Father Stafford sang "Ave Marie" at the offertory, and the boy choir rendered special music, under the leadership of Mr. David Lyon, the organist.

After the service in the church a banquet was held at the pastor's residence, at which there were present a number of invited guests including the following: Messrs James, Benjamin and Michael Coleman of New York, Dr. Brown and wife of Yonkers, Miss Fannie Reilly and the Misses Farrelly of Morristown, Miss Rose Tighe and Miss Annie Coleman of New York, Rev. Father Freeman of North Plainfield, and several others from this city. Father Smyth was the recipient of many elegant and costly gifts.

Twenty five years ago, or in 1864, Rev. P. E. Smyth was ordained in Maynooth College, Ireland. Several years later he came to this country and was adopted by the Bishop of Newark. At one time he was on the mission in Washington, N. J., where he was instrumental in erecting two churches. Later he was pastor of St. Bridget's church in Jersey City.

He came to Plainfield about six years ago, and the result of his labors here is apparent to almost every one. During his pastorate here the church debt has been reduced at the rate of $4,000 annually, the membership has increased to 2,000 with a total of about 375 in the Sunday school. Father Smyth has also erected the new parochial school in this city, which has been forever dedicated to the dissemination and spread of knowledge. Surely he has labored faithfully since he came to Plainfield.

The Rev. and Mrs. Mitchell's Tour.

The Rev. Charles B. Mitchell of the M. E. church, and Mrs. Mitchell, will leave this city to-morrow morning for New York, where they will meet the five others who will make up their European traveling party. They sail Saturday morning at 8 o'clock on the Servia, of the Cunard Line, and will return the first of September on the Etruria of the same line.

The following places will be visited in the order named: Cork, Killarney Lakes, Dublin, Giant's Causeway, Belfast, Glasgow, Trossachs, Edinboro, London, Rotterdam, Hague, Amsterdam, Hanover, Berlin, Leipsic, Dresden, Vienna, Venice, Bologna, Florence, Naples, Rome, Pisa, Genoa, Milan, Italian Lakes, over Simplon Pass to Brieg, Martigny, Chamouni, Geneva, Lusanne, Berne, Thun, Interlachen, Lucerne, Righi, Basle, Strassburg, Heidleberg, Wiesbaden, down the Rhine to Cologne, Brussels, Paris, Canterburg Warwick, Stratford on Avon, Shrewsbury, Chester, Liverpool.

200 Baptists to Meet.

The East New Jersey Baptist Association will hold its annual meeting in this city, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 4 and 5, at the Park Avenue Baptist church.

It is expected that 200 delegates will be present. Most of them will arrive on Tuesday morning. Delegates will be entertained at private homes, but lunch and supper will be served Tuesday and lunch will be served Wednesday in the church, and all provisions required will be furnished by the ladies of the church.

A committee has been appointed by the First church of Elizabeth to co-operate with the Park Avenue Baptist church.

In Place of Sewers.

Mayor Male thinks that before the city's streets are torn up and sewers laid that are liable to back up their deadly gases in the houses, an investigation should be made of the "Engle Furnace" that is being used in other places for the comsumption of all refuse and sewage matter.

The newspapers record that one of these furnaces recently consumed in one hour and 30 minutes, with one-half cord of wood, 69 dead dogs, 1 horse, 5 barrels of night soil, 5 barrels bad eggs, 50 spoiled cheeses, 40 barrels decayed vegetables, 2 loads of refuse and 15 barrels of mixed street gatherings.

Special to Ladies Training Class.

Mr. E. L. Suffern desires to meet every member of his Training Class, at the Y. M. C. A., to-morrow, Friday, at 3:45 o'clock, when a matter of importance will be presented.

Palpitation of the Heart.

Persons who suffer from occasional palpitation of the heart are often unaware that they are the victims of heart disease, and are liable to die without warning. They should banish this alarming symptom, and cure the disease by using Dr. [illegible] Cure. J. G. Miller, Agent.

PLAINFIELD'S NEW OPERA HOUSE.

A Building to Contain Stores, Flats, Lodge Rooms and Music Hall.

Plans and specifications are completed for a new Opera House to be erected on Second street, West of Park avenue, as soon as the contracts are signed.

It will occupy the large lot at the corner of Pruden's alley, where the house formerly occupied by the Rev. N. E. Smith, has just been torn down.

The building, 65 by 100 feet, of which Mr. Jessee Oakley is the architect, is to have two stores facing on Second street, with apartments directly over them, and lodge rooms above of which two are already leased.

The Opera House will be back of the stores on the ground level, and will have three exits into Pruden's alley. The main entrance will be on Second street through a spacious hall between the stores.

A commodious stage will be built. The auditorium will seat about 700. The chairs will be movable so that the room can be cleared and rented for fairs, festivals, balls and many other entertainments. Mr. Charles H. Hand is the owner and builder.

Officer Giesse Speeds Through the Borough at a Three-minute Gait.

Officer Charles Giesse of the city police force, had an experience on Sunday night which he will not soon forget.

About nine o'clock on that evening, as Mr. Samuel Allen and his wife were driving along East Front street, on their return from Scotch Plains, a crowd of loafers followed in a carriage and heaped insults upon Mr. Allen. The latter stood their abuse until he reached Plainfield, where he left his wife, and taking Officer Giesse in the vehicle the two started in pursuit of the offenders.

"Sam" held the reins, while the Officer held fast to the seat. The vehicle turned into Grove street on two wheels and sped along that thoroughfare at a three-minute gait. Officer Giesse lost his hold and grasped first in the air and then at the reins; he thought alternately of a life insurance policy and his family.

But the chase continued through Washington Park without success, although the carriage containing the inebriated men who had insulted Mr. Allen, was sighted several times. Finally the race was given up, and it is safe to say that when the Officer alighted at the corner of Front and Somerset streets, that moment was the happiest he had experienced since he put on long pants.

Public School Notes.

(From the Central Times.)

The high school commencement occurs this year on Thursday, June 27. The graduating class of '89 numbers 13, of which 11 are young ladies and 2 young gentlemen. Gold and white constitute the class colors of the graduating class of '89.

Just at present several of the pupils are selecting their subject for the prize composition, of which quite a list has been announced. From this number each writer chooses the subject that suits the taste of the competitor. The essays are to be submitted for the prize on June 3. The following are the themes from which a selection is to be made: Arctic Explorations and their Effect on Science; Review of Ben Hur; Have we too many National Holidays? Flowers; Scott and Scotland; Should Immigration be Restricted? Butterflies; Home life in the Time of Elizabeth; A Memorable Day in Rome; "Turn, Turn my Wheel;" Railways, and their Effect upon Civilization; Advertisements; A Journey; April 30, 1789.

Base Ball.

A game of ball was played on the Sixth street grounds, yesterday afternoon, between a nine from Miss Bullock's class, and the nine from the 1st Division of the Franklin school, that was so badly beaten by the 3d Division on Tuesday.

Yesterday's score ended at the close of the seventh innings, with a total of 17 to 15 in favor of Miss Bullock's class. The batteries were C. Sutphen and W. Littell for Miss Bullock's class, and M. Brokaw and L. Chase for the 1st Division. The umpires were Masters Simmons and Demarest.

The Young Crescents will play another return game with the Dunellen Stars, on Saturday morning. This will be the fourth game this season between these closely matched teams.

When Plainfield Will Begin to Grow Again.

The renting of houses in Plainfield was never so dull as this season. There are more empty houses today than usual, and the real estate business by comparison with any year for the past five, is stagnated.

Water works, a street railway, and a proper system of sewage, are all necessary before Plainfield can recover herself and begin to grow again. Let these improvements come as soon as possible—or sooner.

A Pansy Tea.

The Young Ladies' Mission Band connected with the Crescent Avenue and First Presbyterian churches, will give a "Pansy Tea" in the chapel of the latter church, Thursday, May 16, from 5 to 10 P. M. The decorations will be of a novel and appropriate character, and music will form a feature of the evening. No charge for admission. Supper, 50c. Other refreshments for sale.

—Myself and daughter have used Dr. Dam's Remedy for that weak, tired feeling and headache, and find it excellent.—Mrs. M. E. Taylor, E. Front street.

THE NETHERWOOD.

The Season's Prospects and the Hotel's New Staff.

After two Summers of unqualified success in every particular, the Hotel Netherwood is opened this season one month earlier than usual, and its May patronage has proved very encouraging. About forty guests have already arrived, some of whom have engaged their rooms until the close of the season.

When Mr. Frank E. Miller, the owner of The Netherwood, purchased it two years ago, he found he must begin at the very bottom and not only build up a new reputation but blot out all bad memories of the past. This he accomplished in one short Summer by his personality, endurance, judgment and liberality.

He has attracted to the hotel purely a class of people that cannot be excelled by any other resort in the country, for wealth, refinement and social position. They fill his house every Summer, because their wide experience has taught them that nowhere do they find more courteous attention, better service in every way, nor such a table.

This season Mr. Miller has aimed to even surpass this reputation in every respect. Each department is in new hands and his staff has been picked from the best and most experienced in their respective professions and lines.

Mr. Frank H. Whiting, of Baltimore, a most affable gentleman, and one with a thorough knowledge of a guest's wants and how they should be provided, is Chief Clerk. Mr. Wm. L. Fearns will be night clerk, and Mr. Norman Dunn retains his position as bookkeeper.

The Netherwood Chef this Summer is Mr. Petro Lang, from The Burlington, New York; the head waiter is Mr. G. Pananci, of Delmonico's, and the Steward, Mr. W. C. White, from the Brighton Beach Hotel. Miss Clark, of the Parker House, Boston, is housekeeper. Surely with such a picked corps, the satisfaction of the Netherwood guests this season will be entire, and the hotel's success and increased reputation will be something unprecedented.

Bees Take Possession of a Store.

During yesterday afternoon a hive of bees swarmed into Mr. R. O. Howell's grocery store on North avenue, and took possession of one of the show windows. The bees began to arrive about noon, and an hour or two later there were thousands of them in the store. The bees settled around a quantity of comb honey, Mr Howell had in the window, and swarmed on the plate glass in the show window. When night came the treacherous little bees became settled, and the clerks in the store began to massacre them. Fully a water pail full of bees were drowned, and the hive was not broken up until after ten o'clock at night. Mr. Howell and his clerks were badly stung on the hands.

The bees would have proved very productive, if some experienced man could have successfully hived them.

A Hungarian Couple's Novel Journey.

In one of the coal cars on an empty West-bound coal train, which passed through this city at an early hour on Sunday morning, were seated a man and woman. When the train stopped at a station West of here, while some cars were being side-tracked, one of the employees about the station saw a woman's head rise out of one of the cars. On looking in the car the railroader saw a Hungarian man and woman. The woman spoke English and said they were going to Olyphant, having come all the way from New York in the car. They were supplied with several loaves of bread and a jug of water. The couple were allowed to continue their journey.

The "news" Thief Again.

Yesterday's news contained a notice of Mr. George H. Babcock's gift of land and money for the new Seventh Day Baptist chapel, which item was stolen from THE PRESS of the day before.

It also contained a blundering account of the extension and alterations that are to be made to the Crescent Avenue church and chapel, which account was given in detail and correctly a month ago in THE PRESS the day immediately following the evening when the plans were decided on.

A North Plainfield Homing Wins the Race.

Last night's news states that "a number of Plainfield carrier pigeons were flown from Manassas, today," and that "at half-past two o'clock only one bird had returned."

The fact of the matter was, at least fifteen of the birds were home by half-past two o'clock, and 20 of the 23 sent were all in before night. One of Mr. Charles Faber's birds won the race.

Were the Lawyers Frightened off?

An effort was made yesterday to arrange a bowling match between the doctors and lawyers of this city. The match was to have taken place at the Olympia Bowling Alley, last evening, but there were not enough present on either side to form a strictly professional team. Two "scrub" teams were selected, however, and two games were played, each side winning one game.

Across the Continent.

State Senator James L. Miller of Westfield, started last night for a two months' trip to Portland, Ore. Senator Miller goes purely on a pleasure tour, and expects to have a good time hunting in the far West.

—Having been troubled with headache, pains in my limbs, and no appetite, I used Dr. Dam's Remedy. It increased my appetite and relieved me from pains and headache.—Wm. Pryer, W. 3d street.

Building Loan Associations the Best.

(Contributed.)

You remember the old fashioned saw pit, with one man on top of the log and the other below, and the long cross-cut saw plying up and down till after long time, the log is sawn through. A great improvement came with the circular saw and the horse power, even if the horse did have to rest occasionally. But best of all was when you could harness steam to the circular, and then how rapidly the planks ran out.

The first may represent a man's unaided efforts to save with the old stocking or teapot as the repository, and the occasional chance of lending a few dollars to a neighbor. The second is the Savings Bank, with the great increase of power derived from co-operation, the opportunity of making larger and more frequent loans, and the semi-annual addition of interest to principal.

The third is the Building Loan Association with the added power of systematic savings, and interest compounded monthly. Will you saw your own planks or take them to the steam saw mill?

A large delegation from Alpha Lodge, No. 4, of this city, Independent Order of Good Templars, was present at the meeting of the district lodges in Newark, Tuesday, and Mr. J. R. Naylor of the Plainfield lodge, Asst. State Deputy, made one of the addresses.

The convention was held in the W. C. T. U. rooms, and attended by representatives from eight lodges of Union and Essex counties. Addresses were also delivered by Chief Templar H. C. Humphrey of Lakewood, and State Deputy, W. A. Riley of Newark.

Governor Green Vindicated.

It was well for Maj. Geo. B. Halstead, late of Elizabeth, that he was not at the meeting of the New Jersey Sons of the Revolution held in Newark yesterday. As soon as the proceedings opened Gen. Stryker presented his resignation as President and Gov. Green was unanimously chosen to succeed him. The members made it clear that they took this way of answering the remarks made at the meeting in New York several weeks ago.

Stole a Suicide's Body.

The people of Mount Bethel, in Somerset county, are excited over the stealing of the body of a young man named Tyndall from the Centreville graveyard. Tyndall, some weeks ago, committed suicide by hanging. His body was buried in the cemetery, and nothing more was thought of the occurrence until some friends visited the grave and found that it had been opened and the body stolen. The Grand Jury will investigate the matter.

Less Medicine, Smaller Doctor Bills.

"No one who has sold drugs for the last twenty years," says a pharmacist, "can fail to have noticed the great change that has taken place in the amount and style of medicines called for by prescriptions sent us by physicians. Not one-fifth of the medicine is administered now that was prescribed ten years ago, and no physician ever thinks of giving the doses now that were common in 1867."

Counterfeiters Abroad.

New Jersey towns are being flooded with dangerous counterfeits, admirably executed. There are two five dollar treasury notes, one having General Grant's portrait, the other Garfield's. Also a one-dollar note having Martha Washington's portrait.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

NEW YORK'S LEGISLATORS.

Work Done by the Senators and Assemblymen at Albany.

ALBANY, May 16.—At yesterday's session of the Assembly a number of minor bills were passed.

The $3/2,000 appropriation for capitol repairs was received from the Senate with amendments. Mr. Husted moved to concur. Mr. Fish insisted on the rule, and the bill went to committee. Afterward Mr. Husted asked for a conference committee on the amendments and it was so ordered.

Messrs. Peck, Saxton and Hitt were appointed House members of the State Normal School Investigating committee.

Mr. Sheehan called up the $750,000 Canal Improvement bill. Mr. Gallup moved to reduce the appropriation to $600,000. Mr. Ainsworth favored the motion, and said $750,000 was fixed on as the result of a deal, part of which was the passage of seven normal school bills in the Senate.

This was denied by Messrs. Andrews and Sheehan. The latter said a hitch in this necessary appropriation at this time would result in an extra session.

Mr. Gallup's amendment making the amount $600,000 was adopted, and the bill was passed.

IN THE SENATE.

Mr. Laughlin, after a hard struggle, secured the return from the Judiciary committee and the final passage of the bill providing that adopted children who inherited property between 1855 and 1887 should be placed on the same footing as those who have inherited under the amended law of 1887. The opponents of the bill warned the Senate that it was a measure to allow a wealthy Buffalo woman to resist taxation. The bill was passed.

Mr. Husted's bill for a commission to consider the advisability of removing Sing Sing prison was passed.

The following nominations were received from the Governor:

To be Commissioners to propose general statutory acts in accordance with the Fassett resolution—Isaac H. Maynard, of Dansford; Charles A. Collins, of Ithaca; Eli C. Belknap, of Unadilla.

To be Commissioners in Lunacy—Carlos F. McDonald, physician, Auburn; Goodwin Brown, lawyer, Albany, and Henry A. Reeves, Greenport.

They were confirmed.

General Criticism of the German Emperor's Speech

TO THE WESTPHALIA MINERS.

An Autocratic Policy Which Might Have Been Successful in the Middle Ages.

The Session of the Parnell Commission. Interesting Testimony from a Priest. The Clergy Stirred Up by the Action of the London Police in Raiding the Club Gamblers—Items of Interest from European Capitals.

LONDON, May 16.—The speech of the Emperor of Germany to the committee representing the striking miners of Westphalia yesterday wherein he avowed his intention of shooting down Socialists and disorderly strikers without remorse in the event of their persistent agitation and formulation of disturbances, has aroused general criticism, not by any means confined to Socialistic circles, both in Germany and England.

It is suggested that the autocratic policy enunciated by the Emperor, which could hardly be put in force by the Czar of Russia, might have been successful in the middle ages, but its success in the present age is almost universally regarded as impossible.

The report that the Reichstag will adjourn within a few weeks is denied in official circles in Berlin. These authorities declare that the Imperial body will not dissolve until next February, and give cogent reasons for the continuance of the session until that time. The present disturbances in Westphalia, the threatening attitude of workingmen in other parts of the Empire, and the active aid given to the strikers by outside Socialists, have made imperative the necessity for the immediate discussion by the Reichstag of a definite anti-Socialist measure to replace the acts at present in force, embodying all of the provisions affecting Socialism in one law. This legislation, it is asserted, will occupy the greater part of the time of the Reichstag's working days until mid-winter.

At the session of the Parnell Commission, Father Egan, a Roman Catholic priest from Loughrea, County Galway, testified that the leading men of Loughrea belonged to the National League. No serious crime had been committed in that district from the formation of the Loughrea branch of the League to its suppression by the Government, with the single exception of the murder of a policeman, named Lynton. This murder was condemned by a meeting of the League, and the witnesses of the crime denounced from the altar.

The action of the police in the matter of club gambling in London has stirred the usually apathetic clergy into activity.

A committee of the lower house of Canterbury Convocation has submitted an exhaustive report on the evils of gambling, accompanied by a profusion of suggestions the adoption of which would tend to the ultimate suppression of the vicious practic. Chief among these suggestions is one showing what great strides could be made toward the happy result aimed at if the nobility would take sufficient interest in the welfare of their inferiors in rank to set the needed example.

This circumstance is amusing in view of the circumstance leading to the raids on the Adelphi and Field clubs Sunday morning. The eldest son of one of the Cabinet ministers recently confessed to his father that he had been in the habit of gambling at his club, the result of his ventures being that besides losing all his ready cash fellow members of the club held his notes for the aggregate sum of £30,000. These notes had become due and the young man besought his father to pay them in order to save his honor. The parent yielded to his son's entreaties and paid the notes. He then took the matter in hand on his own account and ordered the police to suppress the games at the clubs his son had indicated as the ones in which he had lost his money. The result was that many of the young man's intimate friends were arrested and they are naturally very bitter in their characterization of the callow nobleman's conduct.

The Health committee of Dublin is conducting a stubborn fight with the Government authorities over the case of a patient afflicted with leprosy. The leper, who was formerly a soldier, is in the last stages of the disease at Hardwick hospital. The committee is desirous of securing his removal to Netley hospital or to Canada, but the authorities object to his being taken to either place and thus the matter stands.

The public prosecutor at Bilboa, Spain, is conducting an inquiry concerning the recent demonstration at the Jesuit University at Bilboa. It is stated that the students and faculty of the institution are actively advancing the interests of the cause of the pretender, Don Carlos.

GERMANY'S BIG STRIKE.

The Committee of the Miners Urge the Maintenance of Peace.

BERLIN, May 16.—The committee of the Westphalia strikers has caused the posting of placards throughout the districts affected by the strike, urging the maintenance of peace. The walls of the various towns are also placarded with warnings to peaceful citizens to remain in-doors after sunset. A number of placards which have been posted in conspicuous places inciting the strikers to acts of violence, are variously attributed to the mining masters and the Socialists.

The women throughout the disturbed districts are generally opposed to the strikes, and their influence has induced a few men to attempt to resume work.

Distress is beginning to be felt in the families of the strikers, and the committee has issued an appeal for funds for their relief. The Westphalian newspapers have nearly all opened subscription lists to obtain money for the strikers' families.

It is estimated that the strikers and those dependent upon them for support number 180,000 persons. Hundreds of men have resumed work under the protection of a strong military force, and many others are wavering.

The employers in the Witten district have offered to increase the wages of their employees, but express their unalterable determination to resist to the end the demand for shorter hours. The offer will possibly be accepted. One hundred and twenty cargoes of coal were ordered from England to-day.

DISCRIMINATION IN OIL RATES.

The Inter-State Commerce Commission's Investigation Commenced.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., May 16.—The Inter-State Commerce commission began the hearing in the oil rate discrimination matter yesterday, Chairman Cooley and Messrs. Bragg and Morrison being present.

The independent oil refiners of Oil City and Titusville and various railroads were represented by counsel.

Complainants' counsel opened the case by requesting the production before the Commission, at a future hearing in Washington, of a contract alleged to have been made in 1879 between the Pennsylvania railway and the National Transit company, by which the railway was to be guaranteed 26 per cent. of all traffic from these regions, and the rates were to be the same for pipe lines and railroads.

Counsel for the road opposed the motion, and the Commissioners refused to make the order at present, the chairman saying this hearing was for local testimony. Further testimony would be taken at Washington, and argument would be then heard as to the relevancy of the alleged contract. Perhaps the Commission would then want to inspect it.

Hon. F. B. Gowen then made an opening statement of the petitioners' case. He said barrel-oil rates had been increased because of the Commission's ruling in the Rice and the Scofield cases, that rates should be based on 100 pounds weight including packages, irrespective of the nature of the package. This decision was inapplicable to the present conditions of the export trade.

The first witness, S. Y. Lange, testified that the new rates of which complaint is made were claimed by the road to be based on the aforesaid decision. Under this decision and these rates the complainants are unable to carry on business at a profit in competition with seabord refiners for export.

Witness stated that the present cost of refining oil, exclusive of interest, insurance depreciation, etc., was 21 to 35 cents per barrel, and at present freight rates refiners cannot, under the most favorable circumstances, make a fair living. Rates to Boston are also excessive, irrespective of the question of bulk differences. He had corresponded with the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Lehigh Valley and other roads and had been informed that the advance in rates was made in compliance with the decision in the Scofield case. The roads said they were satisfied with the former rates and that the refiners had only themselves or the commission to thank for the increase. He also testified that it was more profitable for the roads to haul oil in packages than in tanks; though a higher rate was charged for the former because the railroads could use the cars for western shipments on their return, whild 95 per cent. of the tank cars were returned empty.

The Hon. John Schwartz, owner of the Crescent Oil Refinery, was next called and gave testimony as to the production of the oil fields and the effect of the recent decrease in stocks. Adjourned.

Darling, of New York; treasurer, J. Stapleton, of New York; spiritual adviser, Father Rigney, of Staten Island; orator, A. Kelly, of Troy; chancellor, D. Bradley, of Brooklyn; marshal, F. La Faierre, of Cohoes.

Died from His Injuries.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 16.—James Kelly, of Kentucky, narrowly escaped death by falling under a train Tuesday. He seemed very nervous, and yesterday he was found unconscious in his room at a hotel, the gas having been left partially turned on. He died last evening. From papers in his pocket it is thought that he came North to see a New York "green goods" man named Gray.

Trial of the Sayreville Rioters.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 16.—Freight agent Henderson and foreman Hussey, charged with causing the Sayreville riot and the death of the brickyard workman, Kissenger, were before Judge Scudder on habeas corpus proceedings. After hearing conflicting evidence as to the responsibility of the prisoners for what occurred, the court reserved its decision until Saturday.

FACES OF CRIMINALS.

Inspector Byrnes Discards the Science of Physiognomy

What Features Disclose—How to Study the Eyes—Characteristics of the Mouth, Jaws and Ears—The Deceptiveness of Appearances.

It is a wise man who knows his own ignorance, observes Inspector Thomas Byrnes, of New York, in the Philadelphia Times.

I am moved to smile when I hear of men who can not have met one-tenth as many people as I have, or under such various and peculiar circumstances, asserting that they understand human nature. I doubt if even one man is thoroughly understood by any body, least of all by himself. For the purposes of my business, long experience in dealing with men and women is of incalculable value; it enables the detective to judge quickly concerning the individuals and acquaints him with many general characteristics of the human family; but after all this valuable experience teaches one most important lesson—that it will never do to jump to conclusions on appearances. It leads the detective to distrust all generalizations, all rules for discovering a man's tendencies, all that so-called science, physiognomy, and to depend solely upon facts and evidence, meaning by the latter term things that will hold good in a law court.

It is true that the cast of a man's features may be of service, and that no detective will examine a supposed criminal with his eyes shut; but physiognomy is merely a factor in the work, not a guide to it. If all men were savages, if they grew from infancy to manhood and old age with no artificial influences to bend their natures, physiognomy might be reduced to an exact science. I do not assert that it could, but admit that it might. In the complex civilization of to-day it never can be. For education modifies the lines of the face to a remarkable degree. The growth of intelligence imparts not only a new, softened expression to the face, but actually changes its appearance to an extent that will inevitably throw the rules of physiognomy into confusion. Not that a crooked nose may become straight, or a large mouth small; but wise habits and the desire to appear well in the world may erase the ugly, vice-born wrinkles about the eyes and on the forehead, and effect other changes of a similar nature.

While the lines may be modified and the nature refined, the brutal or criminal tendencies are not, unhappily, eradicated. They may lie dormant throughout a lifetime, and they may break out, if the provocation arises, at any moment. If this happens the criminal is a hard case for the detectives. His education has taught him some things that his less fortunate brother in the dives can not make available. It sometimes happens that vicious tendencies remain dormant for generations, during which the lines of a man's face have been subject to constant improvement. In cases, however, when a boy of vicious parentage grows up in vicious surroundings, where his animal nature is given full swing, he grows to manhood a marked criminal and can be picked out at sight. Just what direction his nature takes, however, whether to burglary, swindling, murder, licentiousness or petty thieving, can not be determined with accuracy at a glance.

I have said that physiognomy may be regarded as a factor in criminal detecting. Even then it must be applied with caution, and never be depended on without evidence. It is a good plan to get evidence first and then back it up, if you like the diversion, with an analysis of the features of the criminal. In dealing with suspects I try to get hints of their character by observing the mouth, the eyes, jaws and ears. From the mouth a fair estimate may be obtained of the subject's character as to determination or weak will power, brute courage or timidity, chastity or licentiousness, generosity or selfishness, cruelty or kindness.

It will be observed that this does not go so far as to make a suspect flatly a criminal or honest man; it simply suggests his tendencies. In seeking to determine whether a person is telling the truth I depend a good deal upon the eyes; not, however, upon their general appearance, for the most evil-eyed person in the world may tell the truth at times, and some of the best of men may prevaricate upon occasions of great temptation. It is rather the action of the eyes that tells the secret. I try to place the person who is in question so that the light shines fully into his face. Then I can see the pupils, and if they waver or contract more than the light would call for I feel pretty confident that I am dealing with a liar. It is practically impossible to control the pupil. One whose eyes do not waver when he is deceiving a detective usually betrays himself by the very effort, which gives to his face an appearance of over-confidence, and his assumption of innocent candor becomes a calm stare.

There is not a great deal to be learned from an inspection of the jaws and ears, but I have noticed that heavy, wide jaws usually go with small ears that lie close to the head. Criminals of this class are generally desperate characters, hard to handle, who are little amenable to reason, and appreciate only the argument of force. On the other hand, men with lantern jaws and flappy ears present little difficulty.

A striking proof of the uncertainty of physiognomy in determining a man's character, to say nothing of the nature of his deeds, may be seen at a glance at the rogue's gallery in this city. Three pictures were placed before a visitor one day. He knew from the circumstances that they were criminals. One he fixed upon unhesitatingly as a brutal murderer, another as a swindler, and the third looked so much like a benevolent clergyman that the visitor disliked to rate him any where, but finally put him down as a thief.

"He might have a mania for stealing books from libraries," said the visitor, apologetically.

Turning to the backs of the photographs the visitor read the summarized records of the three. The "murderer's" worst crime had been the snatching of money from a lady's hand as she was carelessly displaying it in the street; the "swindler" had committed an atrocious murder, and the benevolent-looking "thief" was the keeper of an infamous resort. And the visitor thought he knew something about physiognomy and human nature, too.

Equine Hospitality.

Billy, a horse attached to a police patrol station in Boston, has become known throughout the Hub by its liberality. A member of the mounted squad while answering roll-call ties his horse to the post forming one corner at the head of Billy's stall, and as soon as the animal is fastened Billy picks up a mouthful of hay, forces it through the iron grating about his stall, and waits until his guest has eaten it. Then he repeats the operation and continues his hospitality until the officer returns for his horse. Billy began to do this early in the fall, without any suggestion from the men, and he does it twice a day, much to the satisfaction of his visitor.

UNFAMILIAR GEMS.

Green Garnets, Beryl, Sun-Stones, Chrysolites and Other Precious Stones.

The list of precious stones with which we are familiar is after all a very small one, says a writer in the San Francisco Chronicle, embracing simply the diamond, emerald, sapphire, ruby, opal, topaz, carbuncle, amethyst and pearl. This, however, is a very small part of the actual list. Readers of the Bible will, of course, remember that two lists of precious stones are given in that book. The first is given in the description of the Jewish high priest's breastplate, and is as follows:

"And thou shalt set it (the breastplate) in setting of stones, four rows of stones; a row of sardius, topaz and carbuncle shall be the first row; and the second row an emerald, a sapphire and a diamond; and the third row a jacinth, an agate and an amethyst; and the fourth row a beryl and an onyx and a jasper."

The second list is given in the description of the New Jerusalem:

"The foundations of the walls of the city were adorned with all manner of precious stones. The first foundation was jasper, the second sapphire, the third chalcedony, the fourth emerald, the fifth sardonyx, the sixth sardius, the seventh chrysolite, the eighth beryl, the ninth topaz, the tenth chrysoprase, the eleventh jacinth, the twelfth amethyst, and the twelve gates were twelve pearls."

In these two lists there are six stones, the sardius, chalcedony, chrysolite, beryl, chrysoprase and jacinth, that may be called unknown; and two, the jasper and sardonyx, which we are not accustomed to put in lists of gems.

Before going any further it will be interesting to find out something about the unused half dozen, and this, it will be found, can be comparatively done by first considering the chalcedony, which is the mother stone of a large family. Chalcedony is a semi-transparent kind of quartz, apparently produced by the infiltration of water holding silicious matters in solution. The name is that of the locality, Chalcedon, in Asia Minor, where it is said to have been originally found. Chalcedony, in some of its many varieties, is found in Tuscany, Iceland, the Faroe Islands, Saxony, Hungary, India, Arabia, Surinam, Siberia, Cornwall, Scotland, the Giants' Causeway and in California, near Vallejo. Beautiful chalcedonic pebbles may be picked up on some of the southern English beaches, at Pescadero, in California, and at Lake Tahoe. Chalcedony is usually milk white, but it assumes a number of colors and markings. When it is of a light red or yellow color it is called carnelian, because of its flesh color. Carnelian was formerly much used for beads and seal-stones, but now it is seldom seen as an ornament except in the shape of cheap rings sold at country fairs. When it is of a deep brown it is called sardius, or sard; when it shows alternating parallel bands of different colors without any pronounced contrast it is called onyx; and when these layers are of very dark sard and nearly opaque white chalcedony it is called sardonyx, a stone that was and is still held in great esteem for engraving into cameos.

Lastly, flint, horn-stone and plasma are all baser forms of this same chalcedony.

Though so closely alike in name the beryl and chrysoberyl have little else in common. The beryl is a variety of the emerald, and is found in six-sided prisms of variable dimensions. The colors are generally blue or yellow, but some are colorless. When of clear tints or sea-green or sky-blue they are called by the jewelers aqua-marines. Beryl crystals are found in New Hampshire and Massachusetts, China, Brazil, Siberia, Cornwall, Ireland and Scotland, the Irish specimens being of a fine blue color and sometimes quite transparent.

The chrysoberyl is found in small rounded masses about the size of a pea, which on being cut show various tints of greenish yellow, with clear, translucent and very hard body. Sometimes they show a bluish opalescence internally. The finer chrysoberyls are equal in appearance to the yellow diamond. They are found in Ireland, Brazil and Ceylon.

The chrysolite, like the chalcedony, is a silicate. It is rarely found in crystals, but generally in angular pieces of greenish or golden-yellow color, embedded in basalt or lava. The principal localities are Vesuvius and the Isle of Bourbon, in lava; Real del Monte in Mexico, Upper Egypt, Constantinople, and in pale green transparent crystals among the sand of a stream in Auvergne. Inferior varieties of the chrysolite are called olivines, and are found in the basalt of the Giant's Causeway, the lavas of Unkel, on the Rhine, and those of the Sandwich Islands. It is sometimes found, too, in meteoric stones.

Jacinth is only another name for hyacinth, and the hyacinth is a variety of another silicate called zircon, found in Ceylon, Norway, some of the islands of Scotland and certain Irish streams. Zircon occurs in crystals, generally square, four-sided prisms terminated by four-sided pyramids, and also in grains, sometimes white, but more frequently red, yellow, green or gray. The colorless or slightly smoky kinds are called jargoon; the bright red hyacinth and the grayish or brownish zirconite.

Another precious silicate is the more perfect form of schorl called tourmaline. The red tourmaline or rubellite, which is brought from Brazil, Ceylon, Avar and Siberia, possesses considerable beauty. The transparent colored varieties are sometimes still cut into ring stones, etc., and when reduced to thin slices are much valued for making experiments in the polarization of light.

The list of precious silicates is not yet exhausted. There is, for instance, that known as jasper. It is found in various colors—spotted, banded or variegated. It takes a fine polish, and the variety and richness of its colors render it still useful in the ornamental arts. Allied to this is the bloodstone, a jaspery variety of quartz, of a dark-green color, variegated with red spots, and was once quite a fashionable material for seals and ring stones. When the spots are yellow, instead of red, this stone is called the heliotrope. Still another silicate that takes rank among the precious stones is the lapis lazuli or lazulite. It is of a beautiful color, often speckled with yellow grains, and is still made use of in mosaic and inlaid work, as well as for making vases and other costly ornaments.

Quartz, except where it contains rich gold deposits, is not generally considered a precious stone, but there is a variety called the rose quartz, which certainly comes under that head. It is of a beautiful rose red or pink color, and nearly transparent. It is found in Ceylon and Bavaria, and is often sold for much more precious stones. Adularia, or felspar, likewise is not of much value, but that resplendent variety found in Siberia and Norway of a pale yellowish color and called the sunstone is certainly a jewel among stones. The play of color on a gold sunstone is simply beautiful.

There are scores of other precious stones that are not found in the every-day list, but this article must be brought to a close with the statement that the red garnets so commonly seen are but one of very many varieties, which include the cinnamon stone of an orange-yellow, the water garnet, which is colorless; the grossula, which is olive, and the black.

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WHERE:

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

AROUND THE BASES

All the Western Leaguers Were Beaten Yesterday.

NEW YORK DOWNS CLEVELAND.

Boston Beats Pittsburg; Philadelphia, Chicago; Washington Indianapolis.

Brooklyn's Colors Lowered to St. Louis. Kansas City Beats the Athletics and Takes Second Place—Cincinnati Whips Baltimore—Louisville Beaten by Columbus—Games in Which the Bat Was Used Wickedly—The Score.

NEW YORK, May 17.—By defeating Cleveland again New York pulled up to third place, but as both Boston and Philadelphia won the champions could get no nearer the head of the list. The other four clubs in the race are jogging along at their ordinary pace.

The defeat the Brooklyns sustained at the hands of St. Louis enabled Kansas City to take second place. The Columbus club was the only Eastern club that met with success.

ANOTHER FOR THE CHAMPIONS.

The New Yorks won from the Clevelands with ease yesterday. Ewing pitched for the champions and but few base-hits were made off his delivery.

BOSTON BATTED FREELY.

BOSTON, May 17.—Boston pounded Maul in every direction yesterday and took their fourth straight game from Pittsburg.

AN OLD-TIME SLUGGING MATCH.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—The Phillies and Chicagos engaged in an old-time slugging match yesterday afternoon in which the former excelled. Both teams fielded in a miserable manner which partly accounted for the large score.

REJUVENATED SENATORS.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The Senators yesterday played in marked contrast to their recent exhibitions. They outplayed the Hoosiers everywhere.

BROOKLYN'S UPHILL FIGHT.

ST. LOUIS, May 17.—The Brooklyns gave up a game to the Browns to-day, but it was only after a contest more stubborn than any seen at Sportsman's park this year.

VERY LIGHT WORK.

CINCINNATI, May 17.—The batting in yesterday's Baltimore-Cincinnati game was very light, the Cincinnatis winning by the fortunate bunching of hits.

COSTLY BATTERY ERRORS.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 17.—Vaughan and Ewing presented the Columbus team a game yesterday afternoon. Vaughan's work was especially loose and nearly every one of his passed balls cost a run.

SLUGGED BY THE COWBOYS.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 17.—Yesterday's game was a slugging match, in which the Kansas Citys got the best of it, pounding Weyhing all over the field for twenty hits, with a total of thirty-one bases. Stearns made two home runs and Mattimore one.

JERSEY CITY, 6; WORCESTER, 3.

WORCESTER, May 17.—By a lucky bunching of hits Jersy City won yesterday's game. Lang's fielding was the feature of the game, and the Worcesters were sharply criticised for reckless base running.

NEWARK, 18; LOWELL, 2.

LOWELL, May 17.—The Lowells were no match for the Newarks and went down easy. The Lowell patrons are getting tired of their team and crying for a change.

EASTON, 9; NEW HAVEN, 5.

NEW HAVEN, May 17.—The Eastons gave the New Havens an unexpected defeat yesterday. Costly errors by the New Havens lost them the game.

Stone Masons Return to Work.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 17.—The striking stone masons have returned to work at the old wages pending arbitration.

MINISTER RICE DEAD.

The Newly-Appointed Envoy to Russia Passes Suddenly Away.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Mr. Allan Thorndike Rice, the newly appointed Minister to Russia, died at the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday.

The disease from which he died was œdemaglottis, more commonly known as "quinsy sore throat," which attacked Mr. Rice in an aggravated form.

Mr. Rice has not been in good health for some time past and has been under the care of Dr. Keyes.

Allen Thorndike Rice was born in Boston June 18, 1853. At the age of nine years he was taken abroad, and for five years lived in Europe. In 1867 he returned to the United States and remained here until 1871, when he went to England and was graduated at Oxford in 1875. On his return to the United States he entered as a student at the Columbia law school.

In 1876 he bought the North American Review, of which he has since been the editor.

He organized, in 1879, and subsequently directed the Charnay expedition, which was despatched under the joint auspices of the United States and France, to investigate systematically the remains of ancient civilization in Central America and Mexico.

In 1884 he bought a controlling interest in Le Matin, one of the chief papers of Paris, of which he was still a proprietor.

Mr. Rice possessed an inherited fortune that was estimated at several millions.

He was nominated to be Minister to Russia by President Harrison, and was to have sailed for Europe yesterday in the steamer City of Paris. Monday afternoon the soreness in Mr. Rice's throat developed into a very severe attack of tonsilitis, the ulcerations being of such a character that his physician forbade all thought of a sea voyage.

THE QUEBEC FIRE.

Seven Hundred Houses Burned—Many Families Homeless.

QUEBEC, Que., May 17.—The St. Sauveur fire has burned itself out. The district north and west of Massue and St. Ambroise streets was swept clean with the exception of a portion of Valiers street. Seven hundred houses were burned and as a large number were tenements, occupied by more than one family, the number of families rendered homeless will reach twelve hundred, comprising about six thousand souls.

Prominent business men are interesting themselves in behalf of the destitute. Application has been made for the use of the government buildings to shelter those who are camped out in the fields.

Food is being distributed liberally by the clergy.

A majority of the homeless belong to the working class and as insurance rates were almost prohibitive, very few have anything to fall back on. The total loss is estimated at $600,000; insurance $130,000.

A Dedication at Gettysburg.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 17.—The corner stone of Bruna Memorial chapel, donated by the late Colonel John B. Bruna, was laid yesterday afternoon before a large audience. Hon. Edward McPherson presided. Rev. M. Valentine, D. D., ex-president of the college offered the opening prayer after which Mr. Charles Emory Smith of the Philadelphia Press delivered the oration. He drew lessons from the bravery displayed by both armies in this battle. Rev. P. C. Caroll, of Schuylkill Haven, read a poem; President McKnight placed the box in the stone, and Rev. C. A. Hay, D. D., closed with the benediction. Hon. Wayne MacVeigh, who was on the programme for an address sent a letter of regret.

The Rev. Bishop Tuigg is Dying.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 17.—A special despatch from Altoona, Pa., states that Right Rev. Bishop Tuigg, of the Pittsburg Diocese, Roman Catholic church, is thought to be dying. He is lying at the parsonage of St. John's church, Altoona, surrounded by many priests of the diocese. The last rites of the church have been administered to him. He has been unconscious for the past two days, and all hopes for his recovery have been abandoned. Bishop Tuigg was ordained a priest forty years ago and was consecrated Bishop of Pittsburg in 1876. In November, 1882, he was stricken with paralysis.

Chief Justice Fuller's Southern Trip.

NORFOLK, Va., May 17.—Chief Justice Fuller of the United States Supreme court, arrived in this city yesterday and was met by a committe of members from the Norfolk bar, and escorted to the Atlantic hotel. Later in the day he embarked on the steam yacht Viva owned by Col. Franklin Weld, and was taken to the Navy Yard, the United States revenue steamer Franklin giving a salute of 15 guns. At the yard he was handsomely entertained by Commodore George Brown, and last night attended an elaborate banquet at the Atlantic hotel as guest of the Norfolk and Portsmouth Bar association. He continued his trip South to-day.

Two Monstrous Checks.

WASHINGTON NEWS

The President Makes Some Diplomatic Appointments.

TO GO TO TURKEY AND DENMARK.

Solomon Hirsch to Succeed Oliver Straus at the Ottoman Capital.

Clark Carr May Go to the Danish Court if He Pleases—Blaine's Private Secretary Gets the Liverpool Consulship—Marshal Needle's Report Concerning the Charges of Land Grabbing by Government Officials in Oklahoma.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The President has made the following appointments:

Solomon Hirsch, of Oregon, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Turkey.

Clark E. Carr, of Illinois, to be Minister resident and Consul-General of the United States in Denmark.

Henry W. Severance, of California, to be Consul-General of the United States at Honolulu.

John Jarrett, of Pennsylvania, to be Consul of the United States at Birmingham.

Thomas H. Sherman, of the District of Columbia, to be Consul of the United States at Liverpool.

The Attorney-General has received the report of United States Marshal T. R. Needle concerning the charges against his deputies in Oklahoma. He states that before the receipt of the Attorney-General's letter at Guthrie, he had been called to Nashville, Ill., by a telegram announcing the serious illness of his wife. This is what caused the delay in answering the letter citing the charges. He further states that he has not entered any land or lands, town lot or lots in the Oklahoma district, and has no interest whatever, directly or indirectly, near or remote, of any kind or nature, in any land or lots in the territory.

"I do not know positively as to the deputies," the marshal goes on to say, "but have had an intimation that one of them has secured a town lot in Guthrie, and one or two have entered a quarter section of land apiece. I am not positive as to this, and at once will ascertain the facts and report to you. If there are any other violations of the law by my deputies I have not heard of them. No person or persons, other than the parties reported by me to you in my letter of the 30th ult., had any authority whatever from me to enter the territory on or before April 22. I have not inquired into the matter of these deputies entering town lots or land, because of the fact that the Interior department have had two specials on the ground for two or three weeks investigating the whole matter in every particular, to whom I rendered every assistance in my power to aid them in arriving at a proper and true conclusion. Knowing that the acts and doings of myself and deputies are being thoroughly investigated by them, I presumed, and in fact had been informed, that you would be fully informed and advised as to their report. I am satisfied that said report will give you all the information you desire in the premises, and would suggest that you possess yourself of the same. If you still desire the particular information from me, I will proceed from Muskogee to Guthrie at once and make a thorough examination as to land and lots upon which any deputy may have a claim. I will be at Muskogee by the time your order can reach me."

The is some talk in this city that Attorney General W. H. H. Miller will be appointed Justice of the Supreme Court, vice Matthews, deceased; Secretary Noble to become Attorney-General, and Assistant Postmaster-General Clarkson to become Secretary of the Interior.

NO END TO THEIR TROUBLES.

Clark & Co., of Pittsburg, Embarrassed by Another Strike.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 17.—Between former strikes at the Solar Iron mills and the present dificulty at the Duquesne works, in which the firm of Clark & Co. are largely interested, their experience has not been altogether pleasant. Yesterday the management were very much surprised at the unexpected absence of 200 of their employes. The only men at work were the 80 colored puddlers, and it needs but a word to draw them out also. After 18 months outside of the union the men expressed a wish to re-enter the Amalgamated association ranks. Meetings were held from time to time at which president Weihe of the Amalgamated association was present. The strikers were readmitted to the association yesterday.

Said one of the strikers: "Preparations for this step have been in progress for two months. We want more wages. That is our only object in coming out. What we want is right, and that is all we expect to get.

Shot in a Justice's Office.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 17.—Yesterday afternoon in the office of Justice of Peace Brown, James Turner shot and mortally wounded T. A. Holton, a merchant. The firm of which Holton is a member had brought suit to recover goods sold to Turner who keeps a grocery. In a dispute over the suit Turner called Holton a liar. The latter quietly said: "You must take that back," and while walking into the open space of the court room, Turner pulled a pistol and shot him through the abdomen. Turner was at once arrested and is now in jail. Holton cannot recover.

Death of a Pennsylvania Veteran.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 17.—Samuel Harper a prominent attorney of this city, and Department Commander G. A. R., died last evening after an illness of five weeks from typhoid malaria. Mr. Harper served throughout the late war in the One hundred and Thirty-ninth regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers. He was 52 years of age and leaves a widow and five children. Mr. Harper was a prominent member of a number of secret organizations.

ANNUAL MEETING.

$25,000 FOR THE BUILDING.

Reports for the Year of the Y. M. C. A., and Election of Officers.

The annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association, was held in the Hall of the Asocation, last evening, and was attended by a fair proportion of the members.

The annual reports of the various Committees were presented, and it is to be regretted that the opportunity thus afforded to estimate the work of the association, what it has undertaken, and what it has accomplished, could not have been enjoyed by all the friends of the association in our city.

The educational work during the past year has been specially encouraging, while its devotional work, both through the meetings and workers' training classes, has resulted in definite and lasting good to many. It was noticed that many of the reports mentioned the difficulties which were continually met with, through the inadequate accommodations now at the disposal of the association, and it was most obvious that the new building will be ready none too soon for the association's needs.

The Treasurer's report showed:

|---|---|
| Balance on hand | $84 98 |
| Receipts from all sources | 2,440 46 |
| | $2,525 44 |
| Disbursements, every kind | 2,517 03 |
| Balance on hand | $8 41 |

The Building Committee reported that $27,921 had been subscribed towards the new building, for which a site has already been purchased, as has previously been reported, and the members were urged to use their best efforts towards the enlargement of this fund.

The President's report showed a gratifying growth in the number of the membership, and the high character of the services rendered by the various Committees during the past year.

The new constitution which had already been approved by the Board of Directors, was presented to the meeting and adopted.

The election of officers resulted in the unanimous election of:

President—W. D. Murray.
Vice President—D. E. Titsworth.
Treasurer—E. St. John.
Rec. Secretary—Townsend Rushmore.
Cor. Secretary—J. R. Joy.
Directors—E. L. Bonney, Wm. Thompson, L. H. Bigelow, Jr., H. J. Runyon, S. Cahoone, J. W. Gavett, Geo. B. Cornwell, Geo. C. Martin, Jas. W. Jackson, Seeley Edsall, Jos. A. Robinson, R. R. Ackerman, C. P. Bull.

The following gentlemen were elected as Trustees, who under the new constitution are to hold the property of the association: E. St. John, H. R. Munger, Chas. W. McCutchen, Jas. W. Jackson.

The following is the report of the President:

To the Young Men's Christian Association of Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Brethren:

We recognise in our work of the past year the presence of the Holy Spirit and the benediction of Almighty God; and we render thanks to Him for permitting us to be His co-workers among the young men of this city. For whatever success may be attributed to human agencies the credit belongs, first, to our general secretary, Mr. Manning, whose labor has been unceasing, and, second, to the fifty-three men who are serving on committees. The good committee work is due largely to efficient chairmen, and in some measure to a profitable committee reunion at the residence of Mr. E. B. Clark, on the 28th day of September last. A conference of workers at Mr. H. B. Newhall's, on April 9th resulted in much good to our young men's meeting.

The full reports rendered to you by your committees have given you in detail the work of the year; it only remains for me to mention some of the things which seem to be of most importance.

While the statistics of our work show that six men at least have united with the church, that over 15,000 visited the rooms, that 2,200 have attended our young men's meeting, etc., it is true with us, as with others, that the unrecorded results are the most important taken as a whole. Among such results are employment secured for men, visits to the sick, men introduced to pastors, letters of introduction to other associations to men leaving town, seed sown in good ground which will bring forth fruit, joy coming from the study of the Word, young men conversed with regarding their soul's welfare and much work of a similar nature which can hardly be reported by statistic.

The report of the Membership Committee shows a very satisfactory increase in our membership—from 399 to 527—a gain of 128. This means not only increased income, but an additional force of workers, both of which are needed. It might be noted that during the year our sustaining members have waived their right to free admission to all entertainments of the Association.

The members of the Association are becoming more and more familiar with the essentials of association methods, and our work is becoming more and more definite. This is due largely to the attendance of our members at the conventions of the Association. The first of those was the District Convention, held at Asbury Park, on January 25th to 27th., in which ten of our members participated. The State Convention, although held at an inconvenient place for us, Bridgeton, was attended March 14 to 17 by eleven of our members. It is gratifying to note that the report of our work was received by the convention as a very good one. We were very fortunate in having the International Convention held so near home—Philadelphia, on May 8th to 12th. We sent to that convention four delegates, all we were entitled to, and five of our members attended as visitors. We received from that convention a great spiritual blessing, and we trust that good will result to the Association from the fuller consecration of the delegates. I wish to take this opportunity to urge all who can to attend these conventions in the future; not only to get a sweet communion with the Master, but to learn better and newer methods of Christian work, so that we may do the King's business better than ever before.

A few of us had an association tent at Northfield, Mass., at Dr. Moody's Bible School, last Summer.

The faithfulness of the Board of Directors has been very gratifying, although on one or two occasions it was difficult to get a quorum. The average attendance at our meetings was eleven. Among other questions considered is that of the new constitution, which have been approved by the board is presented for your action to-night.

Our religious work has been kept strictly in the foreground. The Training Classes which have made our Association known not only at home but in many place away from home, have continued to be sources of power in every part of our work, and have brought to us the kindest words from pastors and Christian workers. The educational work has been well-cared for by the committee whose report you have heard. The reception committee under its active chairman, has contributed much to our success, and is demonstrating very plainly the need of better quarters. But it is hardly necessary to mention each committee especially. May those of the coming year be as faithful as those of the past.

Financially we have been in the healthy condition of the small boy who is continually out growing his clothes. Our estimate for the year was $2,540, our expenses have been $2,460. During the year we have paid off $350 of a debt of $845, which existed at the beginning of the year. Let me call your attention to this fact, that we are dependent entirely upon your generosity for our support. Our expenses continue from day to day and it is therefore important that membership dues be paid promptly. It is very little from each one but the aggregate supports the association. Some of our members forget this; let us do better during the coming year.

Our report would be incomplete did we not mention the subject of so much interest to us just now—the building. But the report of the committee has given you the details of the work. The amount now subscribed, $27,921, insures the erection of the building. Let us, one and all, labor abundantly to make it a reality.

As the vigor of a church is measured largely by its missionary spirit, so the strength of an association is determined in some measure by what it does for the work away from home. I desire, therefore, to call your attention to the work of our association in the State at large. We employ a man who devotes his entire time to association work throughout the State, advising and assisting associations already organized and organising new ones when needed. $3,000 are needed for this work this year, of which $2,000 are already subscribed. If any of you desire to aid in this important part of our work, a work which in its sacrifices is truly missionary, we shall be glad to receive your subscription.

Finally, my brothers, let us remember during the year the power of united prayer, and while we are making known our wants at the throne of grace, let us bring to Him with whom all things are possible, the needs of our association, asking from Him a better understanding of His will and more wisdom to do it. A wonderful field lies before us. Shall we not go up, weak as we are, but in the power of the Holy Spirit, and possess it? The God of Hosts has said "Not by might nor by power, but by my spirit." "Have not I commanded thee? Be strong and of good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed, for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest." And the words of the Master are, "Labor not for the meat that perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life." Let us take as our watchword to-night the words of the apostle, "He which converteth a sinner from the error of his way shall save a soul from death and shall hide a multitude of sins," together with ringing words of Paul, "My beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, for as much as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

Plainfield, N. J., May 16, 1889.

Respectfully submitted,
W. D. MURRAY, President.

"Dime Sociable."

The ladies of the M. E. church at Dunellen held their regular monthly Dime Sociable at the residence of their pastor, J. W. Seran, last evening.

The programme consisted of six numbers, arranged by the pastor's daughter, who did herself great credit, as the large audience who were present, testified.

The first was a piano duett, (from Faust) by Miss Seran, accompanied by Miss Blanche Marlow, which was finely executed.

The second was a recitation by Miss Louie Apgar, who recited "Asleep at the Switch," in a manner that showed her elocutionary talent to a great advantage, and afforded great pleasure to her appreciative audience who were charmed with her powers.

Third was a piano solo by Miss Seran, "A Hungarian Song," which was finely rendered.

Fourth was a recitation, "The Three Lovers," by Miss Ella Fisher, who did her part well.

Fifth, a piano duett by Miss Seran and Miss Apgar, "The British Guards."

Sixth, "Chopsticks," Emma Marlow and Clarence Marlow, which delighted the audience.

After this most enjoyable programme, cake and lemonade was served, after which the company departed, well pleased with the entertainment, which reflected great credit on all the performers.

Tea, Pansies and Music.

The inside walls of the First Presbyterian chapel were decorated with enormous pansies, last evening, and the room was comfortably filled with the city's best people, including such distinguished guests as Miss Shephard, daughter of Col. Elliott F. Shepard, Mr. John Howells, son of Wm. Dean Howells, the Rev. and Mrs. Karner, of Manchester, and others.

The occasion was a "Pansy Tea" given by the members of the Young Ladies Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue and First Presbyterian churches. The financial profit realized will be over fifty dollars.

During the evening the following enjoyable programme was rendered:

Polonaise—Chopin.....Miss Dewey
Song—"A Gude cup o' tea"—(In character)
Misses Holmes, Dunn, Anna and Josie Petrie.
Violin solo—LaReve.....Mr. Joseph Sattells.

FAREWELL TO THEIR PASTOR.

A Reception Given to Rev. Chas. B. Mitchell and His Wife Who are Now on Their Way to Europe.

The pretty little, or rather commodious, Vincent chapel, never looked more stately than it did last evening, when Rev. Chas. B. Mitchell, the pastor, and his wife entered, perhaps, for the last time, previous to their ocean voyage to points named in yesterday's PRESS. The reverend gentleman's face was wreathed in smiles, as he flitted about among his vast congregation, stopping now and then to exchange a few words with those he met. Mrs. Mitchell was the centre of attraction from the time she entered the building, until the moment she left, and the gallant little woman was the recipient of many a hearty hand-shake during the evening.

The scribe who attended the reception in the interest of THE PRESS, is not far advanced in botany, and it is therefore hard to describe the floral decorations. Suffice it to say that on the wall in the rear of the speaker's desk was a "branch of white flowers." The attendance was large.

Councilman H. A. McGee of North Plainfield, presided, and announced the hymn, "Blest be the tie that Binds," as the first number on the informal programme. Mr. McGee followed with a touching prayer, in which he asked for the pastor's safe return and renewed strength.

Miss Laura Baker followed with a delightful soprano solo, accompanied on the piano by Mr. A. Mulford. The Misses Emma and Adelaide, and Master Clifford McGee then favored the audience with a beautiful vocal and instrumental duett, Miss McGee being the accompanist.

The chairman, or, rather master of ceremonies, had said early in the evening that fifteen minutes would be allowed between each number on the programme, for social enjoyment, and the time was well occupied between talking and patronizing the refreshment tables.

The next number on the programme was styled "Emotive Gestures," arranged by Mme. Alberti, the well-known elocutionist, and performed by Miss Humpston and Miss Morrison. Like the rest of the programme it was well received and warmly applauded. A vocal solo by Miss Baker brought the musical and instrumental portion of the programme to a close, and for an hour or so afterward general sociability prevailed.

Rev. Mr. Mitchell and his wife will sail to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock on the Servia, of the Cunard Line, and will return the first of September on the Etruria of the same line.

LEVY'S WIFE HAS THE UNDER HOLD.

Solomon Must Stay in Jail Till His Worthless Check is Cashed.

Solomon Levy is in trouble, and, likewise, in Ludlow Street Jail, New York, where he was cast upon his return from an absence of nearly two years in Europe.

It was in June, 1887, that Solomon married Rachel Dreier of this city. Before the end of July he had borrowed from her $1,500, for the alleged purpose of extending his oilcloth business. When his borrowings had reached this amount she mentioned the transactions to her parents. They advised her to get back the money. Her husband gave her a check for $1,500 on the First National bank of Plainfield, which proved worthless, Mr. Levy having never had an account there.

Charles Steckler was retained to bring a suit for the money, and Mrs. Levy, fearing desertion, an order of arrest was granted in August 1887, by Judge Ernest Hall of the City Court. Levy eluded the Sheriff and went to Europe. He returned a few days ago, and the order of arrest was resurrected.

Yesterday J. J. Walsh asked Judge Holme to vacate the order of arrest on the alleged ground that Levy had not given the check. Judge Holme compared Levy's signature to his affidavit with the disputed signature of the check and concluded not to grant the motion. Judge Holme also decided that under the law permitting a married woman to sue as a single woman, Mrs. Levy's suit against her husband must stand.

Mrs. Levy was granted a divorce by Judge VanBrunt in December, 1887. She has since resided with her parents in this city.

An Everyday Record.

Counting over a column of stuff in last night's news about who wrote that hoary chestnut song, "Ben Bolt"—THE PRESS of yesterday had thirty-four inches more of space devoted to local matter than the news.

Among the exclusive news THE PRESS contained, were accounts of: The railroad collision near the Park avenue bridge;

The route of the Rev. Mr. Mitchell's tour in Europe;

Plainfield's new Opera House;

Opening of The Netherwood, and its staff;

Plainfield's representation at the I. O. G. T. Convention;

The meeting of the Friends' Temperance and Literary Society;

A dozen items of gossip about persons you know, and a score of other interesting items.

—James Murray who last week pleaded guilty to using foul language, was on Wednesday fined ten dollars, including costs, by Justice V. W. Nash.

—Myself and daughter have used Dr. Dam's Remedy for that weak, tired feeling and headache, and find it excellent.—Mrs. M. E. Taylor, E. Front street.

CHURCH GOSSIP.

Items of Interest to the Methodists Especially.

We clip the items below from this week's Visitor—the farewell number published by the Rev. C. B. Mitchell of the M. E. church, previous to his departure for Europe.

This will be the last VISITOR until the pastor's return.

Mr. John Weir and wife sail next week for Scotland. They will visit the Paris Exhibition before their return.

Mr. Charles E. Cokefair, wife and son Frank, have been visiting friends here. They will return permanently in the Autumn.

Mr. Harry French will take charge of Mrs. Chas. B. Mitchell's Sunday school class during the Summer.

Rev. J. B. VanMeter, D. D., is very happy in his college work, and his host of friends in this city rejoice to learn of his eminent success in Baltimore.

Dr. Hurlbut will soon be gone for the Summer, attending the various Chautauquas with which he is prominently connected.

Rev. G. T. Reynolds, of the Pittsburgh Conference, stationed at Wellsburg, W. Va., will fill the pulpit during July and August. He and wife will occupy the parsonage. Mr. Reynolds will conduct the prayer meetings, and make pastoral calls on the sick when so requested. He is a young minister of high standing in his Conference, and his ministry has been unusually successful. The pastor rejoices in securing so good a supply during his absence. Mr. Reynolds is expecting a pleasant and useful Summer in Plainfield, and he will not be disappointed.

Mr. George Angleman, Jr., was licensed to preach at our last Quarterty Conference. He will leave soon to take charge of a circuit in Kansas. Many wishes and prayers for his success in the ministry will follow him to his new field in the West.

Next Sunday morning and evening Dr. Freeman will preach. The following Sunday, Dr. Buttz. June 2, Dr. Hurlbut, and June 9, Dr. Brice. It is expected that Dr. Payne and Bishop Andrews will also preach in June. The other supplies up to the first Sunday in July will be duly announced.

The Sunday school last Sunday with waving handkerchiefs tendered Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell a beautiful farewell. The kind faces and "white lilies" of that Sunday afternoon will follow them in memory through their long pilgrimage.

Rev. A. H. Tuttle, D. D., has made a fine impression at Mt. Vernon Place M. E. church, Baltimore. The large church is crowded, and he is attracting the leading thinkers of that city. This will be no surprise to his many friends and admirers in Plainfield.

Entertainment by the Young Masters.

The young Masters in St. Mary's Parochical school, gave an entertainment in the new school building, last evening, which was largely attended, the spacious hall being crowded to overflowing. The programme was varied and interesting, and was most acceptably rendered. Mr. William Dresseler, late organist of St. Peter's church, Jersey City, presided at the piano.

The programme, as arranged, is as follows:

We Might Have Kept it a Week Longer.

One of the persons who was an eye-witness to the collision on the Central Railroad in this city on Monday evening, called at THE PRESS office on the following evening, and asked why this paper did not record the accident. He was told that inasmuch as no one was injured, and there was no possible chance of the Rip VanWinkle of Somerset street getting hold of it, more important matter crowded it out.

Reformed Presbyterians Meet.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 17.—The General Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian church met at Tarentum, Pa., yesterday. Rev. H. H. Brownell, of Vinton, Pa., was elected Moderator, and Rev. J. T. Boyce, of Philadelphia, was continued State clerk. The question of the church's title to a valuable church property in Xenia, Ohio, was referred to the Board of Church Extension with power to prosecute the claim to this property. Monday evening was fixed for a public meeting to discuss the Prohibition amendment to the State constitution.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

HE CHALLENGED VILLARD.

Richard Boeckh, of Albany, Wants to Kill the Railroad Magnate.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 17.—Detective Stark, of Pinkerton's New York agency, applied to Justice Conway to-day for a warrant for Richard Boeckh, of this city, on the charge of having sent a duelling challenge to Mr. Henry Villard, the well known railroad man of New York. The warrant was issued and Boeckh was arrested at his boarding house, No. 12 Central avenue. On being arraigned before Justice Conway he admitted having sent the challenge, written in German, to Mr. Villard, a translation of which is as follows.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 26, 1889.

MR. VILLARD:

Since my last appearance in New York, where you saw me in an invalid condition after a sickness of several months. A considerable time has elapsed—a time which I had solely to employ to regain my former health while pursuing an occupation yielding but little. It had been my intention long ago to settle with you as well as with my father, in order to reciprocate the good you and he have done me—you the sharp swindler, and my father the old liar and intriguer. The plan you two had concocted against me has fallen to the ground. Your manner toward me compels me to demand a pistol duel with you at a place suitable to you, and as for me it may be your office. I give you three weeks time. In case you should decline to fight such a duel, I warn you to leave America after the elapsed time, as my meeting you might result seriously for you. Any distance will suit me as long as it is not over ten steps as I consider it nonsense to fire into the air. Let me know by return mail, the place where we can settle our little matter.

(Signed) Boeckh."

P. S.—In case you do not answer my letter I will call on you personally.

Boeckh's manner, appearance and language when he spoke in his native tongue indicated that he belonged to the educated and higher order of Germans. He declined to say why he had conceived an enmity for Mr. Villard. He was committed in default of bail for the grand jury.

POUNDED BY WALTON'S SONS.

They Violently Assault Young Lawyer Welch, of Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 17.—Frank and Charles Waltan, sons of "Plunger" Theodore Walton, would have gone to jail today had they not been bailed in the sum of $1,000 each to answer at court for assaulting, until he became insensible, J. Armstrong Welch, a young lawyer, and son of Aristides Welch. Welch was attacked at midnight, while asleep in his bed, and was unconscious for two hours.

Charles Walton and Welch have boarded for a long time at Mrs. Devinney's, No. 247 South Fifteenth street, and were always good friends. On Monday Welch moved up one story and took Walton's blacking-brush. The latter asked for it and Welch threw it into his room. It struck Walton and hot personalities followed. On Tuesday night Welch came in at 9 o'clock and went to bed. At midnight Frank Walton joined his brother Charles, and together they broke open Welch's door and pounced on him before he became awake. After lying insensible for two hours he aroused the landlady. His face was badly battered. Frank Walton lives with his father on South Twenty-first street, near Chestnut. Charles works in the city tax office as clerk.

A Hero Fatally Injured.

TEN IRISH MEMBERS IN JAIL.

A Sharp Debate in the House of Commons Over Perpetual Pensions.

Mr. Morley Condemns the Utterances of General Wolseley—Rumors that Queen Victoria Will Visit Ireland—Preparations for a Reception for Minister Lincoln—Nihilists Will Settle in England and France—Germany's Big Strike.

LONDON, May 17.—In the House of Commons last night Mr. Balfour, Chief Secretary for Ireland, said in reply to a question that there were now ten Irish members of Parliament imprisoned in Ireland and that all were in good health.

Sir James Fergusson, Political Foreign Secretary, declared that the Government had no official information that France was hostile to the sugar convention.

Mr. Charles Bradlaugh, (Radical,) made a motion opposing the Government's proposal to commute perpetual pensions. He urged the total abolition of such pensions as were of unworthy origin, and cited as examples of this class the pensions of the Dukes of Grafton and Richmond.

Hon. Frederick Hanbury-Tracy, (Gladstonian,) seconded Mr. Bradlaugh's motion, said it was a monstrous disgrace that the families of Nelson and Nell Gwynne should receive equal favors at the hands of the nation.

During the debate the Radicals took occasion to thoroughly expose the absurdities and even scandals of the pension system. The result of the division was to enable the Government to commute perpetual pensions on a basis of 27 years purchase.

Last night at Shoreditch, Mr. John Morley, who addressed a meeting of Liberals there, condemned a speech made recently by General Wolseley, at Oxford, in which the latter said many harsh things about the Liberals.

Mr. Morley said: "It is a bad sign for the welfare of the country when an officer of Her Majesty's army stoops to do the dirty work of the Primrose League. It is indecent that a servant of the Crown should impute bad motives to men who have been, and may again be, his colleagues and superiors."

Mr. Morley also declared that the Government must be hard pressed when they were forced to employ the Army and Government employes to defend their wavering cause.

It is again rumored that the Queen will visit Ireland and remain there a week, with the hope of creating a reaction in favor of the Government by her royal presence. The same report says that she will hold a drawing-room at Dublin Castle and review the Irish troops at the Curragh of Kildare.

The Curragh of Kildare is a tract of Crown land where reviews yearly take place and where races are run.

The Queen's presence in Ireland will undoubtedly give an impetus to loyal Toryism there, but Irishmen generally are of the opinion that a little royal interest shown in the sufferings of the Queen's starving subjects would effect more good than a drawing-room at the Castle, at which only the aristocrats will be represented.

GERMANY'S BIG STRIKE.

Satisfactory Efforts for a Compromise—A General Resumption Probable.

BERLIN, May 17.—Efforts to arrive at a compromise in the miner's strike are proceeding so satisfactorily that it is thought probable a general resumption of work will take place by Tuesday.

The Emperor, in an address to a delegation of employers, said that the main point seemed to him to be to bring the strikes to an end, leaving the questions at issue to be settled while peace and order prevailed and while production was proceeding. He had spoken plainly to the workmen on the subject, warning them to hold aloof from Socialist intrigues.

"Telegrams from Westphalia," he added, "announce that my words have been favorably received. The healthy patriotic feeling manifested by the workmen's delegation inspires me with confidence that they will do all possible to bring their comrades back to work as soon as possible. I have urged the mining companies to maintain henceforth as close touch as possible with their workmen. I am anxious that the dispute be brought to a favorable issue."

The Emperor also evinced a very kind disposition toward the workmen, and said he hoped the companies would consider their welfare.

After the audience a conference was held between delegates of the miners and Herr Hammacher, member of the Reichstag, who represented the mine owners. The result was a provisional agreement on a basis of eight hours' work per day, exclusive of time occupied in descending and ascending pits; the abolition of compulsory over time, and an increase of wages according to local circumstances.

The directors of the Welmer collieries have convened a meeting for Saturday to consider the proposed settlement.

THE FACTORY INSURANCE BILL.

Governor Beaver Listens to the Arguments of Two Delegations.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 17.—Governor Beaver heard two delegations yesterday on the Factory Insurance bill. One was in favor of the measure and the other is unalterably opposed to it.

Many large manufacturers want the bill to become a law, so that they can get the benefit of the foreign insurance on their mills and shops; but the insurance men of Pennsylvania are against it, for the reason that it gives outside insurance concerns great advantages without commensurate returns to the State.

Governor Beaver heard a delegation of insurance men Wednesday against the bill, including Thomas H. Montgomery, president of the American Fire association; R. Dale Benson, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Insurance company, and others. Yesterday the manufacturers were represented by J. H. Converse, of the Baldwin Locomotive works; Thomas Dolan, of the firm of Dolan & Co.; John T. Bailey, of Bailey & Co.; Cyrus Elder and William Robinson, of the Cambria Iron company; Hugh McCallum, of McCallum & Co., of Wayne Junction; W. A. Dunshee, of the National Tube works, McKeesport; W. A. Ingham, of the Rockhill Iron and Coal company; C. N. Thorpe, of the Keystone Watch Case company, Philadelphia; Col. James Biddle, Dark Run mills, Philadelphia; Geo. Wood, of R. D. Wood & Co., Philadelphia.

The insurance men, who assert that the act is special legislation and in direct violation of the provisions of the Constitution providing that every foreign corporation doing business in Pennsylvania must have an agency here, were represented by George E. Wagner, president of the Philadelphia Firemen's Underwriters; E. C. Irvin, vice-president of the Firemen's association; George G. Cromwell, president of the Insurance company of Pennsylvania; Charles Platt, Jr., and Francis W. Whiting, secretary of the Underwriters' association.

Ex-District Attorney McCarroll, of Harrisburg, was the spokesman for the insurance men. The argument consumed the greater part of the afternoon.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE.

Last Day's Work—Adjourned Sine Die at Noon Yesterday.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 17.—The Legislature of 1889 passed away quietly yesterday.

In the Senate business went on as though it were an ordinary morning and there were yet many days of activity before it.

The first kick came when the bill for the annual tax levy came up.

Senator Canton refused to vote for the tax levy on the ground that the people of New York city were taxed without adequate representation, since the Republicans had refused to pass proper bills for a redistricting of the State.

Senator Sloan answered that the Republicans had passed such a bill, but the Governor had set up his opinion against that of the majority of the 160 members of the Legislature and refused to sign it.

The tax rate next year will be 3.53 mills per dollar of valuation.

In the Assembly there was not as much quietness as in the Senate, but the members were hard at work voting on bills.

Very many chairs were unoccupied, for the members had been spending the night in celebrating their coming emancipation.

Gen. Husted succeeded in having Senator Cantor's Naval Militia bill passed, and it now goes to the Governor for signature.

There was a great fight in the Assembly over the bill appropriating $372,000 for the Capitol.

Messrs. Sheehan and others delivered strong speeches against it, and when the roll call was begun it looked very much as though it would be defeated; but after a good deal of scratching it went through by a vote of 79 to 40.

Assemblyman Sheehan's motion to progress the Rapid Transit bill was lost, 50 to 60.

The Haggerty Brooklyn L Road bill was passed in the Senate, 18 to 9.

A Newbury's Suit for $10,000.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 17.—A. S. Sulzberger, who says he is a commercial traveller for Max Marx & Co., of New York, importers of cigars, was arrested here yesterday on complaint of Morris N. Ferguson, a newsboy, who alleges that the defendant called him a swindler and addressed a letter to the Union News company, on account of which the plaintiff was discharged from the employ of the company. He charges slander and asks for $10,000 damages. The boy had exchanged a New York paper for a Syracuse paper read by Mr. Sulzberger, and the New York paper was four days old. Sulzberger was released on bail.

An Incendiary Hotel Fire at Bethlehem.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., May 17.—The large hotel at Broadhead station, near here, was destroyed by an incendiary fire. Landlord Ziegenfuss and wife and two little children and two old women barely escaped with their lives. The cellar of the building was saturated with coal oil and the entire first floor was ablaze before the fire was discovered. A man was seen running from the building but he made his escape. Loss, $7,000; stock partially covered by insurance.

The Pattern Makers' League.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 17.—At the convention of the Pattern Makers' league of North America in session in this city resolutions were adopted endorsing the eight-hour question. It was agreed to hereafter abolish all piece work. This decision has been embodied in the league's constitution and will go into effect as soon as subordinate lodges endorse the measure.

A Woman Terribly Burned.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 17.—Mrs. George Small, residing near this city, was terribly burned this morning by her clothes catching fire while she was engaged in burning out worms' nests in an apple orchard with a torch, and it is thought that she cannot recover. Either a part of a burning nest or oil from the torch dropped upon her and set fire to her clothes.

Arrested in Canada.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 17.—H. J. Cook has been arrested in London, Ont., for robbing the Portersville Savings bank in Mercer county, Pa., of $2,000, two weeks ago. He confessed, and implicates others in the robbery.

Was Bishop Cut Up Before Dead?

NEW YORK, May 17.—Coroner Levy has ordered the funeral of mind reader Bishop postponed until an official inquiry is made as to whether death had occurred before the autopsy was begun.

Trenton Oil-Cloth Works Burned.

TRENTON, N. J., May 17.—The Trenton Oil-cloth works were partially burned yesterday, entailing a loss of $30,000, partly covered by insurance. The works were the largest of the kind in the East.

AN ANGEL UNAWARES.

TTO RANSOM crouched low on the curbing and shivered.

What did it matter that the snow was falling fast and that the sharp winds came quietly around the corner? The fierce, impulsive pain at his heart that hurt him so made him forget his threadbare clothes and the February weather alike.

His mother had been dead for years, and to-day the clods had rattled down on the box hiding his unnatural, intemperate father from sight. And now he was a homeless, penniless orphan, starving in a city of plenty and prosperity.

"Move along here; don't sit mumping until you freeze to death." A rough hand shook him out of his reverie and he looked up. It was dark now, and the wind continued to whip around the corners.

Well, he would "move on." It didn't matter where he moved to so he kept moving.

Otto started, but his limbs ached so that he staggered rather than walked, and the emptiness of his stomach created a dizziness that added to the difficulty.

"A glass less, sir, and you'd walk better," and a finely-dressed fop passed him.

"I never drank a drop of liquor in my life, sir; I'm ill and—starving, if you must know," retorted the boy, with all the strength he could muster, stung by the reference to the hateful habit.

"Aw, yes," sneered the dude; "that's what they all twy to make out; vewy respectable, an' and badly tweated."

Otto shut his lips tightly to check the murderous feeling within his heart, and kept "moving."

Ah! here was an unpretentious little grocery. May be he could step inside and get warm, at least; his foot was on the sill and his hand on the door-handle.

Some one inside, evidently in a hurry, opened the door with a jerk, sending Otto sprawling on the floor. His head struck a projecting showcase in the fall, and, stunned and senseless, he lay with the blood trickling from his temple.

"Gott in himmel!" exclaimed the proprietor, springing around the counter. "Why, Lennox, you've gone and murdered somepody!"

"Let 'em get out of my way, then," snorted the customer addressed, as he strode off, caring little for what he had done.

"I shudged Lennox to haf some heart," said the old German, lifting Otto and examining his head, "but I finds he haf none."

He carried the boy to a couch in the rear room and applied restoratives. Otto opened his eyes. Where was he? He was warm, at any rate; but his head—he put up his hand. O, yes; he remembered somebody pushed him over.

"Thank Gott you be's alive!" and a round, good-natured face bent over him. "Jenks, he says as how you vas trunk, but I knows better. I smell no visky an' I says no; but you be's sick, I reckon!"

"I'm starving," replied Otto, "and I wish I were dead."

"Sh—h: don't gif oop like dot. You vas goot as ten dead men already. Ond if you be's hungry, why, I'll gif you a right goot supper. It's awful to get so done ofer ven you vas young, my lad."

"I've no money to pay for the supper," said Otto, faintly, shutting his eyes with a sigh.

"Vell, vell; as I'm a Gristian, I don't ask bennies where none ish. You shall haf somedings to eat, all the same."

After Otto had eaten his bountiful lunch he felt his strength returning speedily. His head had been bound up and the pain at his heart was growing less. "I wish I could repay you," said he to the old German, who sat looking intently at him, evidently taking mental notes.

"O, dot ish all right, vhere ish your fader?"

"He was buried to-day, sir," answered Otto, "and as mother died long ago, I've no home, nor friends—but you, sir."

"Vell, vell! hadn't your fader no broperty?"

"No, sir; he—drank." And Otto turned his head away to hide his tears.

"Ah! I see. I see! said the old man. "I see shust how it ish. Moder died of neglect; fader died of visky, and te poy turned oud to die 'cause he haf no money to bay rents. I see. I see! I haf lifed so long as you and a leetle longer, and I know the world pooty vell now, I tell ye. Now, vat you going to do mit yourself after to-night?"

"I want to find work," and Otto looked pleadingly into the good-natured face.

The old fellow drummed on the counter with his fingers a moment in silence. Then he said: "How vas it if you vatch mine sthore for purglars? Somepody preaky in vhen I schleeps and runs avay mit mine cash-trawer.

HE REACHED THE CLOSET DOOR.

"Mine glerk he schleeps mit the pack room; but he no vakes oop ven de purglars takes de money. Some vay he awful sound shust den.

"Now, how vas it you vatch dis nicht? Mine glerk ish gone avay mit some peeshness of his own ond leafs me alone."

"I will do the very best I can, sir; but I'm no match in strength for a burglar, yet I could use firearms if you have them."

"Oh, vell! I don't gif a cendt how you keep 'em off. Here's a first-class revolver; load her opp ond traw de color on 'em if you wants to. Mine glerk, he nefer shoots, 'cause he no vake; but he ish gone avay to see somepody vot don't keer to see 'im, ond if you'll vatch, why! it's a bargain."

"All right," exclaimed Otto, "you may trust me to wake up."

"Goot!" and forthwith the old fellow began showing him around his establishment. "Now, here," said he, pausing at a small door, "here ish mine safe. Since they runs away mit mine cash-drawer I puts every cendt in here at night ond locks it oop. The gloset ish shust pig enough for the safe, cleverly, ond I shuts the door and locks it, ond nopody ish any wiser."

"No, I suppose not," said Otto.

"Ond oop there ish a bath vhen vater vasten the door before I locks it, but it's of no consequence now."

So Otto was left in charge of the grocery for the night armed with the revolver and an injunction to "shust pull the button mit the vall if any dings mysterious come 'round."

Otto lay down on the couch in the back room, after locking the outer door and noticing that every thing was in order for the night. There was a good coal fire in the stove, and the impromptu bed-room was comfortable; much more so than Mrs. O'Flaherty's dingy apartments.

"GOTT IN HIMMEL!"

He placed the weapon under his pillow and lay quite still. He could not sleep; the newness of the responsibility coming so suddenly as it did, together with an outlook for a friend, seemed such grand, good news that it drove repose far from him.

After some time had elapsed Otto thought he heard some one at the door. Presently it was unlocked and some person came in very quietly.

The boy slipped off the couch with the revolver in his hand, and crept to the middle door. The burglar was busy rummaging in the darkness at the counter. Presently he came down the room toward Otto. No; he was going to the closet. "He must know where the safe is," mused the boy, as he heard him turn the key in the lock.

Then the burglar struck a match, and Otto peeped around to see what he was doing. Why, he had gone into the closet and was already at the safe.

The boy's heart throbbed wildly. Would he kill him now? No, he would do better. He would slip up to the door, push it shut, shove the bolt above quickly, and have him. Otto could scarcely repress a shout of triumph at the prospect of corralling a real, live burglar.

Cautiously creeping along, guided by the light from the stove, he reached the closet door, threw himself against it, and shot the bolt above his head into place.

A muttered curse came from the inside, and the occupant of the closet tried the door, but the stout bolt held him fast.

"O, I've got you!" shouted Otto, in a frenzy of delight, as he put down the revolver and lighted the gas. Then he touched the button in the wall. In a few minutes the old German rushed in.

"Mein Gott! me poy; and now vhere ish he," and he swung around so fast Otto came nearly being knocked down again.

"In the closet," answered he, dodging the roly-poly waits of the excited grocery-man.

"Call der berlice," cried the old fellow, popping his head out of the front door and screeching something Otto never could remember.

It was enough, however, to bring a trio of "blue-coats," and the old man pointed to the closet exclaiming: "De poy, he vatch for him, ond coop him oop mit de gloset. Bully! for de poy."

One broad-shouldered policeman nodded his approval on Otto, as he leisurely pulled back the bolt and let the light into the closet.

Away back in the corner, squeezed in between the end of the safe and the wall, all shivering, sat the identical clerk who couldn't "vake oop vhen de purglars come."

"Ash I lif, it be's you, Hans. Vell, vell!" and the old Teuton, completely collapsed, sank back on the end of a store-box to recuperate.

"You thought when you vent away on peeshness the coast would be clear, ond you'd haf some goot times getting some more cash-trawers ond somedings. I see now vhy you couldn't vake oop!"

The policemen whisked of the guilty, quaking Hans in a trice, leaving the astonished grocery-keeper and Otto to speculate alone together.

"Vell, vell!" said the old man, after dwelling on the rascality of Hans for some time, "it seems I haf no glerk shust now. Now, mine poy, would you mind sthaying mit me for avile?"

"And clerk for you!" asked Otto, putting his hands together prayerfully.

"Can you cipher somedings if somepody pays, ond don't get cheated!"

"I think I can figure to suit you, sir; let me try."

"Vell, I'se no objections. I'm all oppset mit this rascally Hans."

So Otto staid. And the old German never tired of telling "shust how he took in an angel unavares, vhen his glerk vas avay on peeshness." MANDA L. CROCKER.

WHY

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WHERE:

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

THE NATIONAL GAME

No Change in the Positions of the Clubs.

NEW YORK BEATS PITTSBURG.

Boston's Easy Victory Over Cleveland—A Long Game in Philadelphia.

Chicago Whips Washington in One Inning—The Browns Again Defeat the Bridegrooms—Hard Batting at Cincinnati—Columbus Wins a Good Game from Louisville—The Contests in the Atlantic Association—The Scores.

NEW YORK, May 18.—There is no change in the positions occupied by the clubs competing for supremacy in either the League or Association further than the winners strengthening their relative positions a trifle. Chicago, by defeating Washington, tied Cleveland, and Baltimore, defeated by Cincinnati, fell back to a tie with the Athletics, who did not play.

NEW YORK BEATS PITTSBURG.

The Pittsburgs yesterday made their first appearance here this season and lost a game to the Giants at St. George. The result was largely due to the unsteadiness of the Smoky City pitcher.

BOSTON'S EASY VICTORY.

BOSTON, May 18.—Boston made thirteen runs in the first two innings yesterday against Cleveland, and interest in the game at once went below par.

HOOSIERS DIE HARD.

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—It took ten innings to decide yesterday's game. Both teams played sharply. The visitors' stupid base running practically lost them the game.

ONE INNING SETTLED IT.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Up to the eighth inning the game yesterday was exciting and well contested, the home club having a slight advantage, but in this inning the visitors pounded the ball viciously, and before they were put out eight runs had been scored, of which six were earned.

ANOTHER FOR ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 18.—The Brooklyns failed to come up to expectations yesterday, for although they played an almost errorless game, they did not hit King to any extent.

RATHER BAD FOR MR. CUNNINGHAM.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 18.—The batting of the Cincinnatis in yesterday's game was about the best and cleanest that has been done here this season. Cunningham's pitching was batted terrifically in the second and eighth innings.

THIS IS A LIVELY "BABY," TOO.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 18.—Heavy batting characterized the game between Louisville and Columbus yesterday. The visitors had the advantage all around and won the game on its merits.

HARTFORD, 11; WILKESBARRE, 3.

HARTFORD, May 18.—The game yesterday was a pretty one until the seventh inning, when Wilkesbarre became rattled and went to pieces.

THE SCORES OF YESTERDAY'S GAMES.

At St. George—New York, 11; Pittsburg, 7.
At Boston—Boston, 14; Cleveland, 4.

Cleary is Guilty of Murder.

LOCKHAVEN, Pa., May 18.—The jury in the case of Charles Cleary, on trial for the murder of policeman Paul at Renovo in March last, to-day rendered a verdict of murder in the first degree.

Killed His Wife and Himself.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 18.—James Doran, of Maltby, cut his wife's head open with an axe last night, killing her instantly. He then made an unsuccessful attempt to kill his daughter, and finally committed suicide by cutting his throat. Domestic trouble led to the tragedy.

A Prohibition Fire.

CHICAGO, May 18.—Information has been received here that a freight train was wrecked yesterday morning on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, about fifteen miles from this city; that the wreck took fire and that ten car loads of whisky were consumed.

STEVENSON IS DEAD.

The Swede Dies at the Almshouse and His Story Dies With Him.

BLACKWOOD, N. J., May 18.—John Stevenson, the Swede who was found lying on the platform at Fisher's crossing on the Camden and Atlantic railroad a week ago yesterday morning in an unconscious state, with his arm broken in several places and his skull crushed, after remaining in an unconscious state for nine days, died at the Almshouse hospital yesterday. If Stevenson died from injuries at the hands of an assassin his secret dies with him. He never regained consciousness, but lay in a stupor until he died from the injuries sustained.

The residents of Camden county are indignant because Prosecutor Jenkins has made no attempt to investigate the circumstances of Stevenson's death. There are many who believe he was a victim of foul play, and suspicion rests on a tramp who was with him and who is alleged to have quarrelled with him on the night he received the injuries, and upon whom other suspicious circumstances rest.

The facts have been laid before Prosecutor Jenkins, but thus far no action has been taken, the Prosecutor declaring that in his opinion Stevenson was killed by a railroad train. In the meantime Stevenson's companion of Wednesday night, the 8th inst., has disappeared. The last seen of him was on the day when Stevenson's insensible form was found under a cedar tree at Fisher's Crossing. The man, who was a Swiss, looked at the unconscious body and then disappeared. A coroner's inquest will be held over the remains of the old Swede, and by this the facts of whether or not the case was one of foul play will be established.

BISHOP'S DOCTOR'S GIVE BAIL.

They Will Have to Answer for the Performance of the Autopsy.

NEW YORK, May 18.—An informal examination of Drs. Ferguson, Hance and Irwin, who are accused by the wife and mother of the late mind reader, Bishop, with performing an autopsy on the living body of the mind reader, thereby causing his death, was held before Coroner Levy at noon yesterday. While the examination was in progress Lawyer T. A. Atchison appeared as special counsel for Mrs. Bishop, the widow of the deceased, whom he was allowed to represent at the examination by courtesy of District Attorney Fellows.

During the examination it was developed that there was no case similar to this one on record, and also that the accused physicians had never looked up the law relating to autopsies. Doctor Ferguson, when questioned by Coroner Levy, said he had simply been called to perform the autopsy. As to the time supposed by law to elapse between death and the autopsy, he testified that he knew nothing about it, but always made an autopsy at any time he was requested to do so.

A Battle on the Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, May 18.—The battle on the Stock Exchange yesterday for control of the Oregon & Trans-Continental railroad was one of the most exciting ever known on the floor, and after the close of business Mr. Villard walked over to Elijah Smith and said: "I have won. I have 201,000 shares locked up in my boxes." Mr. Smith did not admit his defeat, but did not claim victory. There are 400,000 shares altogether. The price was run up by big jumps from 37 to 64½, amid great excitement. The war for control was between the Villard party, who are said to include the Standard Oil people, the big Berlin banker, Baron Bleichroder, W. L. Colby and others, and the Smith party, including the Union Pacific people and other capitalists interested in Pacific roads outside of the Northern Pacific.

Miners Uneasy About Wages.

PHILLIPSBURG, Pa., May 18.—The acceptance of a reduction of ten cents a ton for mining coal by the miners of the Gallitzin or Mountain region is causing a good deal of uneasiness on the part of the miners of the Clearfield and Beech Creek regions. Efforts are to be at once made by the officers of N. T. D. 135, Knights of Labor, to restore the rate at Gallitzin and along the Bell's Gap railroad in order to prevent any possibility of a reduction in Clearfield and Centre counties. The rate paid in these counties is 50 cents a gross ton, at Gallitzin 45 cents and along the Bell's Gap railroad 40 cents. The leading operators in the Clearfield region are well satisfied to pay the 50 cent rate provided the operators in the other regions pay as much.

Eleven Moulders Badly Injured.

CHICAGO, May 11.—A despatch from San Francisco says: An accident occurred at the Union Iron works by which eleven moulders were badly injured. The men had poured hot iron into a mould, and the escaping steam, which could find no vent through the holes which were clogged, burst the entire mould and scattered red hot metal over the men. Several were so badly burned that they could not walk. It is feared that one of the injured will die.

Three Laborers Drowned.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 18.—At 6 o'clock last night a violent thunder storm struck this city, rain falling in a perfect deluge. A force of men at work in the tunnel running to the river under Commerce street were overwhelmed by the flood from a bursting sewer, which filled the tunnel. Three Polish laborers were drowned. The bodies cannot be recovered without a steam pump to empty the tunnel when the flood abates.

To Ransom General Gordon.

NEW YORK, May 18.—It is rumored that James Gordon Bennett has gone to Khartoum to ransom General Gordon from the new Mahdi for a million francs. The story is that Gordon was not killed by the Mahdi's people, as has been supposed, but made prisoner, and that an offer to release him for the sum named has been made. Mr. Bennett has certainly been in Egypt of late, but nothing further can be learned.

Work Has Been Resumed.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 18.—The National Tube works at McKeesport, have granted the demand for a restoration of last year's wages, and the 2,000 men in all departments have resumed work. The concession means an advance of 10 to 15 per cent. in the wages of skilled men, and 5 per cent. in those of laborers.

Interstate Commerce Commission Wants Information.

RAILROAD SAFETY APPLIANCES

A General Discussion of the Federal Regulations to Be Started.

The Apprehensions Felt for the Safety of the Man-of-War Palos Set at Rest by Admiral Belknap's Report—The President Wouldn't Let Marshal Jones Resign—Action in Marshal Needle's Case Suspended.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 18.—The Interstate Commerce Commission to-day addressed a circular letter to officials of the different railroads throughout the country intended to call out full information and discussion upon the question of Federal regulation of safety appliances on railroads.

The Commission in their letter said: "The large number of accidents to employes and passengers occuring on the railroads of this country, and the public belief that a great part of these might be avoided by the use of proper appliances, have led many States to make the mechanical features of railroad working the subject of statutory regulation.

It is well known, however, that in respect to some, at least, of the features, the conditions are such that regulation, if attempted, can neither secure adequate benefit to the public nor be just to the railroads themselves unless it be uniform over the whole country."

The Commissioners urge thorough consideration and immediate attention to the matter.

Richard L. Walker, of Kansas, who has been appointed United States Marshal for the district of Kansas, succeeds Marshal Jones, against whom charges of misconduct in office during the time of the opening of Oklahoma to settlement, had been made. The President and the Attorney-General decided not to allow Jones to resign, and the order for his removal was made to-day.

Attorney-General Miller said to your representative that action in Marshal Needles' case had been suspended until more information concerning the charges against him could be procured.

Mr. Miller added that, so far, there was nothing to show that Marshal Needles was guilty of the charges preferred against him.

The apprehensions felt about the safety of the United States steamer Palos were set at rest at the Navy department to-day by the receipt of one of the semi-occasional reports from Admiral Belknap, the Commandant of the Asiatic Station. The report stated on April 24 the Palos was at Chemulpo. The advices bringing reports of the rumored loss of the Palos were only up to this date.

Admiral Belknap also reports that the Omaha and Monocacy were at Yokohama and the Marion on her way from Yokohama to Kobe and Nagasaki.

The following named New York fourth-class postmasters have been appointed: E. R. Clinton, Gilbertsville; S. D. Pratt, Killaway; B. A. Dixon, Mayfield.

A Sliding Scale of Wages.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 18.—Notice of a new sliding scale of wages was posted this morning at Carnegie's Homestead Steel plant. It is made up on a basis of $27.50 per ton for steel blooms, with the minimum at $25, and it is practically a reduction averaging 20 per cent. It falls heaviest on the best paid men, and cuts them in some cases 50 or 60 per cent. The employees had notified the firm that an advance in wages would be demanded July 1. The reduction will probably cause a strike of the 2,500 employes. If the strike is defeated, the scale will probably be adopted in all the other steel mills.

Tabooed for Defending a Lady.

JERSEY CITY, May 18.—The Carteret club is threatened with a storm which may split it into two factions. The trouble is over a question of membership. Recently Charles B. Thornton, a prominent member of the club, proposed a certain gentleman for membership. Opposition was made to his name, and the candidate was rejected. The trouble arose from an affair which took place at a wedding in New York city some years ago after most of the guests had gone. It is said that a lady's name was used slightingly, and that the recently rejected candidate defended her very zealously.

Dr. Depew Presided.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Chauncy M. Depew presided and spoke at the annual meeting of the Yale Alumni Association last night at Delmonico's. Prof. A. T. Hadley of Yale delivered an oration address on "American and European Railroad Service."

Thirty Cents on the Dollar.

MERIDEN, Conn., May 18.—The committee of creditors of the Meriden Malleable Iron company, recommended the acceptance of thirty cents on the dollar. The larger creditors have agreed to this and the others will probably do so.

—In order to give better street lighting the shade trees in North Plainfield's streets are being trimmed to a height of ten feet from the ground.

—A bargain is offered in an advertisement elsewhere. Three new six-room houses, well rented, are for sale. They would make a good paying investment.

—Olive Branch Lodge, K. of P. of Elizabeth, went on a straw ride to Scotch Plains, last evening. An enjoyable evening was spent with Goodwill Lodge of the latter place.

The Drawing Classes.

The examples of the work of the Drawing Classes, which were exhibited at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Thursday evening, on the occasion of the annual meeting, will be left on the wall for a few days longer.

It should be understood, however, as was explained Thursday evening, that "These drawings are not copies, but problems given orally by the teachers, and worked out by the pupils." Only a part of the drawings are shown, and only a few of these are finished in ink, as it was not understood that they were to be exhibited.

"THE SOMERSET."

THAT QUARTER-OF-A-MILLION HOTEL ON WASHINGTON ROCK.

The Owner of the Property With Another Wealthy Brooklynite Spend Thursday on the Proposed Site and are Interviewed Afterwards by THE PRESS Reporter.

Mr. James O. Carpenter, a very wealthy Brooklynite, and Mr. Charles W. Davis, one of the largest property owners in that city, were in Plainfield Thursday. They drove to Washington Rock in the morning—taking a luncheon with them—and spent a large part of the day at that most beautiful and healthful mountain spot.

Mr. Carpenter is the owner of Washington Rock, having given $4,000 for it and all the ground about the summit. The purchase was made only a short time ago, comparatively, and THE PRESS readers will remember the exclusive detailed account given them at the time of Mr. Carpenter's intentions regarding the future disposition he would make of the place.

Subsequently costly plans were prepared by one of the most celebrated architects of New York, for a mammoth and elegant hotel, 400 feet in length, that was to crown the mountain top above the rock. A photograph of this hotel now hangs in THE PRESS office for the inspection of the public.

As the presence of Mr. Carpenter in town the other day with Mr. Davis, betokened something of public interest, and their visit to the Rock assured it, they were immediately interviewed by a PRESS reporter. Mr. Carpenter said that Mr. Davis and other wealthy capitalists had become interested in his project of a quarter-of-a-million dollar hotel on the Rock, and possibly a move in the matter might be made at any time.

He would not say that the digging for the foundation would be begun this Summer, and he would not deny that work might commence within a month. In the reporter's presence, however, Mr. Carpenter asked a contractor what a road up the face of the mountain from Somerset street could be built for. Upon being told "$3,000," Mr. Carpenter asked if it would not be better to pay $10,000.

Young Ladies Entertainment.

Wilkinson—Fellows.

(From the Bound Brook Chronicle.)

Dr. Jenkins' home in Plainfield was the scene of a quiet wedding Thursday night, the contracting parties being Miss Sarah Fellows, daughter of Edward Fellows, and Mr. Robert M. Wilkinson, the popular railroad engineer, both of this place. Rev. Mr. Schenck performed the ceremony. Miss Margaretta Wilkinson, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Samuel Thackerey acted as the groom's best man. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson expect to make their home in Bloomington. Their many friends, including all the jolly railroad boys, extend to them hearty congratulations and best wishes for a long and prosperous married life.

To-Morrow's Unitarian Sermon.

The next sermon in the Unitarian course will be preached by Rev. Mr. Morehouse, to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the Seventh Day Baptist church. Mr. Morehouse is a scholarly clergyman. He was spoken of very highly by Rev. Edward Everett Hale, D. D., when the latter was in Plainfield a few days ago. His subject will be, "The changed aspects of religious thought."

The Suspects Still Held.

The examination of Inspector Byrnes two prisoners in New York, suspected of being the Plainfield post office burglars, was set down for yesterday before Commissioner Shields, but again postponed.

The Commissioner told the witnesses who were subpœnaed and present from this city, that the hearing would positively come off next Wednesday, if it took all night.

—Mr. J. Purcell Baker lectured on "Queer Customers" in the rooms of Wetumpka Lodge, No. 3,401, K. of H., of this city, on Thursday evening. The lecture was good, but the attendance was small owing to the several other attractions in the city.

KILLED BY A FALL.

Mrs. William Allen of North Plainfield Falls Headforemost Down a Flight of Stairs and Receives Injuries Which Result in Her Death.

About four o'clock yesterday afternoon Mrs. William Allen of North Plainfield, fell down a flight of stairs leading to the cellar of her residence on Somerset street, and received injuries which resulted in her death an hour later. Mrs. Allen carried a porcelain jar in her hands. She started to decend the cellar stairs, when she tripped, and fell headlong to the landing below, where she was found some time afterward in a semi-conscious state, by Mr. Warren Townley who occupies apartments in the upper story of the house. The jar was broken into fragments, and the woman's face was horribly cut and disfigured. Among the first to arrive were Father Freeman of St. Joseph's church, and Doctors Endicott and Davis of this city.

The unfortunate woman was carried into the house, blood streaming from the wounds on the head. The doctors labored faithfully with her, but she died soon afterward in great agony.

The deceased's husband was at work in an adjoining field, and when notified he hurried to the scene of the accident, but his wife was too weak from loss of blood to explain in detail the occurrence and all she could say was "Will! Will!"

Mrs. Allen's maiden name was Eliza J. Flannigan, and she was a resident of New York. Eight years previous to her marriage to Mr. Allen in 1884 she became the widow of a man named Fisher. The deceased was 37 years of age last Sunday.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM A. WHITEHEAD.

Wm. A. Whitehead, son of the late Frazee Whitehead of this city, died at his residence in Newark, on Wednesday morning, in the 65th year of his age.

Mr. Whitehead was one of Newark's active business men up to two and a half years ago, when he was suddenly stricken with paralysis and has ever since, up to the time of his death, been an invalid.

He was well known in Newark, where he has lived for over forty years, and was a Deacon and President of the Board of Trustees of the Sherman Avenue Baptist church of that city. He was highly respected by all classes for his extraordinary Christian character and genial manners.

The funeral will be held to-morrow at the Sherman Avenue Baptist church, Newark, at 10:30 A. M., and the interment will be at Evergreen cemetery in this city.

Mr. Whitehead leaves a wife, three sons and two daughters. His aged mother survives him, and still lives at the old homestead on Front street.

The members of the Somerset County Teacher's Association met in the public school building in North Plainfield, today and carried out in detail the programme first announced in THE PRESS.

Mr. A. Lyatt has recently purchased the well-known Guerrier Hotel property back of Scotch Plains, and it is rumored that he has leased it to a New York man who will again open it as a Summer resort for theatrical people.

The funeral of Sarah Maynard, who died on Wednesday, took place from the deceased's late residence on Plainfield avenue, yesterday afternoon, Rev. J. W. Mitchell officiating. Interment was made in the family plot in the Methodist cemetery.

Mr. J. J. Sharp of New street has just got back with renewed health from a trip to Charleston and Jacksonville. He went and returned on the steamer "Iroquois," of the Clyde line, and has nothing but good things to say of the service and accommodations provided him aboard that elegant and comfortable ship.

A Bigamist in the Toils.

Wm. Livingston, aged 26, was arrested at Cranford Thursday night on a charge of bigamy made by two Brooklyn women, both of whom he had deserted. He coolly acknowledged his guilt and was committed to jail without bail. He is a decorator and painter.

Missionary Volunteers To-morrow.

LOOK OUT FOR THIS CONFIDENCE OPERATOR!

Mr. Noah W. Pike Robbed by a Clever Sneak Thief.

Learning that the home of Mr. N. W. Pike on East Front street, had been robbed, a PRESS reporter interviewed Mr. Pike and received the following story:

During the early Spring a stranger ingratiated himself in the confidence of the officers of the Y. M. C. A., through prayer and exhortation and a zealous intent to live a strictly religious life.

Armed with a recommendation from the Secretary he applied for employment with Street Commissioner Geo. Angleman, and he sent him to work for Mr. N. W. Pike.

The man attentively did his task the first day, and the following morning Mr. Pike paid him and directed him to do certain work in his absence, and handed him a key to be given to the house cleaners when they came. Mr. Pike went to New York, and his family being absent for recreation and health, the man entered the house, dressed himself in a suit of fine clothes, took an extra pair of pants, Mr. Pike's watch, and in all about one hundred and twenty dollars worth of clothing and jewelry and a new derby hat, leaving his own in the cellar where he made the change.

Mr. Pike returned and found the house locked on the inside and having his suspicions aroused, entered by the lower door and discovered the above facts and informed the police.

MRS. W. L. PATTON'S NOTES.

Upon the occasion of the Sixth Annual Meeting of the McAll Association, held in Philadelphia during April 10 and 11, there were present as delegates from the Plainfield Branch, Mrs. A. C. Baldwin, President; Mrs. Fannie G. Foster, Treasurer; Mrs. W. L. Patton, Secretary, and Mrs. Wadsworth.

Mrs. Patton's notes of the meeting were subsequently embodied by her in a report that she read before the members of the Auxiliary of this city, in the parlors of the public library, last Tuesday. THE PRESS takes pleasure in giving that report in full as follows:

As we entered the commodious church, arranged for the Sixth Annual meeting, French lilies and LaFrance roses greeted us, with their pure white and exquisite pink, and had we pierced the vault to the sky beyond, we might have found the "twin stars," France and America.

Of our President, Mrs. Marine J. Chase, a spark here, means a light there. This light is diffusing—124 stations in Paris; auxiliaries all over Canada, and the Queen of Sweden sends this year $3,000. Against the cry in France of "buy indulgences," "those with silver, buy dispensations," comes the cry of Isaiah, "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come; buy without money and without price." Those whose wages are love, are scattering God's treasures free. The French, too, appreciate our efforts, as is shown by the people of Rheims helping to the extent of $2,000.

This Summer a new ship will go up all the waters and all the canals, so that all the villages can hear the gospel freely, freely, freely! Money is not all the need. If we do succeed in getting our hands into people's pockets, and by manipulating the purse strings draw out the dollars, yet the difficulty is not over. They need prayers.

Work, money, prayers, influence, new religion, new psalms. In France a new literature is started. They are ashamed of what is written in their country, and a new society for literature—not religious, but pure—is started, and the idea came from what the people greedily receive at the McAll stations. Twenty times what is received could be spent. The tools are poor, but there is a mighty power behind. The greatest power of the nineteenth century is the dynamite of God, as Paul discovered it long ago. The gospel is the dynamite of God and "it is mighty to the blowing down of all delusions and of the strong fortresses of evil." As our faith expands, their's expands, and with the expansion will come nine twin stars—England, France, America, are revolving luminaries, showing a light, which is, as a beacon, to all nations. As a salvo of united faith and friendship, the delegates arose, and with the President uttered in unison: "England, France, America, for Christ!"

Reports from auxiliaries came as follows—Indiana, with the cry, "make way! make way! for the Indiana auxiliary;" telling how President Harrison had been ensnared by Mr. Bracq, and how they claimed a share in the Plume.

Newark—"Not on fire."

Portland, Me,—"We wanted a thin, spirituelle looking lady, as delegate, for we thought she would better represent our work, and when the delegates were asked by Mrs. Chase to take front seats, we felt as though a seat back in the gallery would be more fitting."

Dear managers of our Plainfield Auxiliary, we did not hesitate to appear with beaming faces, and our pride rose higher when, in a solid phalanx, our four delegates arose in the front pews to answer to the call; we also felt proud when we volunteered through our President $50 more for the extra stations in the Exposition buildings, this Summer, in Paris, and we knew that our managers, with a "zeal according to knowledge" would sanction this enthusiasm of their delegates. We felt we were "in His presence," and our hearts melted as the dear delegate from Salem, the sister with her silver hairs of 76 Winters, repeated to us from the platform, with her calm, sweet, impressive manner, the sacred lines, "in the secret of His presence." Her benediction of last year was fresh in our souls, and we, who went the second time, felt honored in meeting her once more.

Our hearts were filled with fervor for the grand theme, but mirth and enjoyment took their places to keep us in tune. As a visitor to Paris remarked, he was struck with the show of fondness in Paris for the name Salle and with the frequent mention of Salle Baltimore, Salle New York, he saw that this was a favorite name. Well, whether Salle Baltimore or Sally Baltimore, we wish them more of them.

After the mental tension to which we were continually strained, the announcement from the President that the Committee of the Interior and the Committee on Repairs would meet with us, you may imagine the pleasantest reception that awaited us in the parlors each day! We were entertained in every respect.

Anson's Verdict.

Said Anson, when he'd crossed the sea,
And felt home hospitality—
"America will do for me,
I'll cross the brook no more.
Tho' one may travel everywhere,
And sight of Old World wonders share,
He'll nothing see that does compare
With goods in Collier's store."

Paymaster Hess Hurt in a Collision.

The pay-car of the Central Railroad collided with a freight train at Wareton, Thursday, and Paymaster Hess was badly cut about the head.

Facts About the Rev. Mr. Bristol.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Allow me to make a correction of an excusable error in your issue of the 13th. You speak of my friend Mr. Cornelius G. Bristol as about to graduate from the Yale Theological School this June. Mr. Bristol is already a graduate of Yale University, having taken his degree with the class of '86, and he is now about to take orders for the Episcopal church from the theological seminary at Middletown, Conn., the ordination exercises having been arranged for June 5.

Mr. Bristol has already received a very enviable position as rector of the church at Danielsonville, Conn. He is one of the few men the poet referred to, when he says:

"He bears the grand old name of gentleman, without a blush."

Yours truly,
HERBERT W. PECK.

A Careless Servant Almost Destroys the House.

The interior of the kitchen of the residence of Mr. Samuel Huntington, on Franklin place, was badly burned last Wednesday, and the way the door casings are charred proves that before the fire was put out by the inmates, the house was in great danger of being entirely consumed.

It is said that the cause of it all was a can of turpentine that was to be used on the kitchen floor. It was put on the range to heat, the bottom melted out, and the oil caught fire and flowed off on the floor.

After a hard fight, it is supposed, the flames were quenched without alarming anyone outside of the house. No alarm was telephoned, and THE PRESS alone, besides the family, knew of it.

The Next Governor's Appointments.

The Governor to be elected this year will have many of the most important appointments in the State. These appointments include the Secretary of State, Attorney General, Supreme Court and Chancery Clerks, the Chief Justice and two Associate Justices, three Lay Judges of the Court of Errors, three State Assessors, eight Law Judges in counties, twenty Lay Judges and nine Prosecutors of the Pleas.

ALL THROUGH A $5 DIVORCE.

Two of the "Red Rabbi's" Victims Get Into Trouble In Newark.

NEW YORK, May 18.—The second case within six months of Russian Hebrews coming from Newark to this city and procuring divorces for $5 apiece from a man who is known as the "Red Rabbi" cropped out in Justice Doctor's office in Newark yesterday.

Mrs. Yetta Zuis, who is now 18 years old, was married in Russia five years ago. Her husband is now 23 years old. A few months ago they asked Justice Doctor's advice about getting a divorce from the rabbi. He pointed out the dangers of such a course, but nevertheless they paid the rabbi the necessary $5 and took unto themselves other partners.

Recently a man and woman were sent to jail for bigamy, the charge being based on just such proceedings as the Zuis had taken. This frightened the latter, and they again went to live together. Then Mrs. Gluckfeld, with whom Zuis had been living, quarreled with Mrs. Zuis, and the result was the arrest of Mrs. Gluckfeld on a charge of breach of the peace, and she was bound over to keep the peace, and then had Mrs. Zuis arrested for assault and battery. All parties are now under bail, with good prospects of going to jail on charges of bigamy.

She is 102 Years Old and Smokes.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 18.—Mrs. Mary Bruner lives with her son-in-law, Christian Kegerees, near this city. Yesterday she celebrated her one hundred and second birthday anniversary, and was visited by many people. The venerable lady is still in the enjoyment of health, and possesses in a remarkable degree the enjoyment of all her faculties. Her hair is black as the raven, with only here and there a silver thread. She is an inveterate smoker, and has been for years.

A Receiver Appointed.

BELVIDERE, N. J., May 18.—Chester Van Syckle has been appointed receiver for the West End Mining company, a corporation owning iron mines in Hunterdon county, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. The liabilities of the company are reported to be from $300,000 to $50,000 greater than its assets.

To Meet in a Glove Contest.

BOSTON, May 18.—Representatives of Denny Kelleher, the champion middleweight of New England, and Joe Lannon the heavyweight, have completed arrangements for a twenty-five round glove contest between the men for a purse of $1,000, the winner to take all.

Flames in a Planing Mill.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 18.—The planing mill of S. J. Lovecraft, who does the planing for Craig's lumber yard, one of the largest yards in the city, was damaged to the extent of $40,000 by fire last evening. The insurance will amount to about three-fourths of the damage.

The President's Thanks Received.

YORK, Pa., May 18.—At the afternoon session of the United Brethren conference a telegram from President Harrison acknowledging receipt of the telegram from the Conference expressing Christian greeting, etc., and returning his thanks, was read amid applause.

Barton Is Safe and Sound.

NEW YORK, May 18.—Francis Barton, the wealthy Frenchman who disappeared from his hotel in this city and for whom the police were looking, has been found safe and well in Philadelphia.

Stabbed His Former Housekeeper.

NEWARK, N. J., May 18.—Henry Herkel, aged 35, stabbed Mrs. Sabilla Scherer at her husband's house yesterday and then cut his own throat. Both are dying. The woman was formerly Henkel's housekeeper, and married Mr. Scherer two weeks ago.

The Settlement of the Irish Question.

WHAT HARTINGTON SUGGESTS.

Not At All Acceptable to the Liberals and Nationalists.

Home Rule and the Land Question Must Be Fought Out Together—The Strikes in Westphalia and Silesia Purposely Stirred Up—Prince Bismarck Doesn't Want to See Signor Crispi at Berlin—Continental Jottings.

LONDON, May 18.—The suggestion of Lord Hartington in his speech at Bury, that the time had arrived for all parties to join hands in settling the Irish question, is scouted by the Liberals and Nationalists, who are stronger than ever in their joint belief that the land question cannot be settled as a separate matter. Concerning Lord Hartington's declarations, Mr. Parnell said in an interview this afternoon, that it would be impossible to separate the land and national questions, and that they must must both be fought out together. This declaration expresses the sentiments of his colleagues as well as their liberal allies, and disposes of all probability that the home rule question can be dropped pending the endeavors of the government to throw a sop to the Irish in the shape of a patched up land bill.

The latest report credits General Boulanger with preparing a new surprise for the world. According to good authority, he now intends, since the Senate is likely to abandon his prosecution, to return to Paris.

The report says that his followers have been communicated with and the most elaborate preparations are making for his triumphal return to the Franco Capital.

The General is disgusted at his treatment in London and has declared to a friend that he would rather trust to the tender mercies of his own nation and the defence of his friends than to longer trespass on the cool courtesy of the English with whom he has gained neither fame nor position.

The General complains especially of his treatment by the newspapers many of which have derided him. It is owing, no doubt, for the most part to the papers that Boulanger has been practically boycotted in England.

He commenced his London career more like a showman than a statesman and has selected as his companions a certain class of public men who are not usually accepted as the aides-de-camp of society.

The Parnell Commission resumed its settings to-day. Father O'Donovan of Tulla, Ireland testified that the moonlighters of that place were opposed to the National League. They had threatened witness, who was under police protection, while he was connected with the National League there. He attributed the increase in crime in Ireland during the National League's existence, to the action of the landlords in enforcing evictions. Witness had denounced all resorts to violence from the alter for forty successive Sundays. The Commission, it is announced, will not report until February, 1890.

The press are indulging in a great deal of grumbling at the tardiness of the government in fortifying the port of Esquimault, Vancouver Island. What there is to fear as a result of the delay is not apparent, but the necessity for a speedy fortification of the port is, from their point of view, very great.

Telegrams received from Brussels assert that the strikes in Westphalia and Silesia are due entirely to the agitation started by German provocateurs in the hope of causing trouble among the workingmen in France, Belgium and Switzerland, in which they were certain the Socialists would join. These worthies carried their machinations too far and the result is that Wohlgemuth and others of his kind are hoist with their own petard. The German authorities will not of course admit this, but there is abundant evidence that they are aware of the true course of the disturbances, hence their sympathy with the strikers in the endeavor to restore order.

Prince Bismarck is said to be very much annoyed at the positive announcement that Signor Crispi, the Italian Premier, will accompany King Humbert on his visit to Berlin. It is announced that the chancellor only a few days ago expressed to a friend his hope that Signor Crispi's parliamentary duties at Rome would make it necessary for him to remain at home.

The work of demolishing the fortress at Rastadt, Baden, has been suddenly stopped. It is understood that the fortress is to be remodeled upon more modern lines, and the sudden stoppage of the work, the immediate completion of which has several times lately been declared by military experts to be absolutely necessary has caused much surprise.

The annual spring manoeuvres of the Austrian army will begin on the Russian frontier about the end of May and continue for a month.

The municipal council of Berlin has voted $37,500 for the purpose of decorating the streets of the city on the occasion of King Humbert's visit to the Kaiser. The Emperor will send an envoy to meet the King at Bale and escort him to Berlin.

The marriage of Mr. B. K. Jamieson, a prominent Philadelphia banker, to Miss Jean Willard, of Washington, is announced to take place at the Chapel Royal, in Savoy street, on May 23. The Reverend Mr. White, the Queen's Chaplain, will officiate on the occasion.

The Kaiser Had Posted Himself.

BERLIN, May 18.—It transpires that Emperor William sent an envoy to Westphalia a few days ago to make a private inquiry into the strikes prevailing there, which accounts for the intimate knowledge of the existing state of affairs displayed on the occasions of his receiving the strikers and employers deputations. Seventeen thousand men are on strike in Silesia and the situation is threatening.

Turks Massacreing Christians.

VIENNA, May 18.—It is stated at Cetlinge that the Turks are massacreing Christians on the frontier of Montenegro.

SHOT IN FRONT OF HER PUPILS.

A Washington School-Teacher Killed by Her Husband.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Mrs. Sarah E. Allen, a school-teacher in the Jefferson school building, in South Washington, was shot and killed by her husband, Oswald C. Allen, about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Allen then shot and killed himself.

There had been some difficulty between the pair, and they had not lived together for some time. The tragedy occurred in the school building. Allen hired a cab on Pennsylvania avenue and told the driver to take him to the Jefferson building. Upon arriving there he alighted and told the driver to wait until he wanted him. Then he walked up the stone steps and passed through the hall into the cloak room adjoining the room where his wife was engaged as a teacher. He showed himself to her and beckoned her to the door. She came toward him. As she reached the threshold of the cloak-room he drew a pistol and shot her in the left temple. Turning the pistol then upon himself, he shot himself through the right temple. Both fell to the floor in the cloak-room. The children in the school room who had witnessed the frightful scene, rushed from the room in a panic and spread the alarm.

WORDS FROM WANAMAKER.

He Addresses His Employes and Gives Them a Share of His Profits.

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—Postmaster-General Wanamaker addressed over 3,000 of his employes last night. He talked to them for over half an hour with frequent outbursts of applause. The occasion was the second annual distribution of the profits of the immense establishment among its employes, and the big gathering was held in the carpet department of the store.

Among other things Mr. Wanamaker said: "The sum paid out in monthly payments to salespeople and above regular salaries was $58,263.29, With what has been already paid, and what shall be paid to-night, there will be added $46,082.29; total, $104,345.68. Last year's distribution, $109,-439.68. Total distribution for two years, $213,785.36. We have paid the usual salaries and exactly $104,345.68 more by this free will distribution. Not one person to the best of my knowledge and belief would have had any larger salaries had this plan of distribution not been in force."

Carnegie's Employes on Strike.

PITTSBURG, May 18.—Forty employes a Carnegie's Thirty-third street mill went on a strike yesterday refusing to work the material furnished by the firm. There is every prospect of a general strike at the Balck Diamond Steel works for an advance in wages. The situation of affairs at Clark & Co's. Star Iron works remains unchanged. It is reported that all the employes of the National Tube works Co., at McKeesport are out on strike to-day and work is entirely suspended. There are 5,000 men employed by the company. There is no change in the strike situation at Duquesne.

A Turpentine Well.

DONALDSON, Ga., May 18.—Laurens county is greatly excited over the discovery of spirits of turpentine in a well on Peacock's farm. A peculiar gas has been observed coming from the well ever since it was dug two years ago. More than a month ago the water became so impregnated with turpentine that it could not be used for drinking purposes. A few days ago a bucket of colored turpentine was hauled out. An investigation was made and fourteen barrels were drawn off. In a few hours the spirits had risen to some height.

Too Proud to Beg.

MERIDEN, Conn., May 18.—The body of Cornelius Vanderkieft, formerly a soldier, was found in the woods with a laudanum bottle beside it. Letters on the body indicated that the man had slept in the open fields ten nights and was starving, but killed himself rather than beg. He had seen better days. One of the letters was addressed to a cousin, J. W. Vanderkieft, at Orange, N. J.

Run Down in a Fog.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 18.—On Wednesday night off Cornfield Light, the steamer Pequot, sister ship to the Nashua, which sank the unknown schooner off Whale Rock, ran down and sunk the 300-ton schooner Victor Puigh, coal laden and for Booth Bay, Me. The weather was thick, and no horn was blown aboard the schooner. The crew took the yawl and were picked up by the steamer and landed at New York.

OUR NEIGHBOR'S TWINS.

Four little pattering feet
 Trotting here and there,
Four little restless hands
 Waving in the air;
Dancing eyes of dark blue,
 Lovely pouting lips
Like the dewy roses
 The busy bee sips.

Two little knowing heads,
 Brimming o'er with fun,
Two little tender hearts
 Loving every one.
Darling little maidens,
 With their dimpled chins,
I should love to kiss them.
 But—they're not my twins.

SENSIBLE SUGGESTIONS.

Various Articles for Home Adornment—How to Make Them.

Dainty work-baskets are almost indispensable in "my lady's" boudoir as well as in the sewing-room. Charming creations are fashioned of plush, satin and ribbons.

A pretty square basket is made of a pasteboard box, six by six inches. Smoothly cover with plush and line with surah or satin. This is best done by cutting the box apart and covering piece by piece. Around the upper edge plait a full frill of satin-lined plush, edged with a silk cord. Tie down each corner with a bow of ribbon. For the handle take a piece of heavy copper picture-wire—which readily bends—and cover by wrapping silk cord or ribbon round and round. Finish with a bow of ribbon.

Another style of basket, which also serves as a wall pocket, is made of a woven straw hat. Line and drape with Chinese silk. Edge the rim with loops of ribbon or ball fringe and for the handles take silk cord or ribbon. The effect is very graceful.

A beautiful wall pocket is made of two shades of brocaded satin in the following manner. For the foundation back cut a piece of heavy pasteboard thirteen inches long and nine inches at the upper edge tapering down to five inches at the lower end. Make a pocket of crimson satin, line with cotton wadding and face with silesia. In the middle of the upper edge cut in four inches deep. Each side turned back forms a revere, which is faced with old gold satin.

TOILET TABLE.

BASKET MADE OF A BOX.

The whole is finished with silk fringe and cord.

An artistic cover for a large flower-pot, containing a fine foliage or other plant, is made of a peach basket ornamented in rural mosaic.

The entire surface of the basket is covered with the many fruits of the forest—mosses, pressed ferns, bright berries and nuts. These are glued on, arranged in any fanciful manner, the nuts forming an upper and a lower border. Finally it may be brightened here and there—the nuts particularly—with metallic paints in copper, bronze, silver and gilt.

Every housewife should have a tablet of some sort at hand on which to note the numerous items requiring attention from day to day. These "mute reminders" may be ornamental as well as useful and grace the sitting-room wall or any place of convenience.

Take a small child's slate; bronze the frame, and in oil, on the outer side, paint any simple design—a bunch of Black-Eyed Susans or a landscape. Attach a pencil and suspend by means of a ribbon. Of course, the memoranda is kept on the under side. These tablets may also be made of painted placques or bright Japanese fans. In this case a small block of paper is fastened to the under side.

A toilet table is almost indispensable in a lady's apartment. A decidedly pretty table of this kind may readily be constructed at home. Procure two apple or cracker barrels—they cost but ten cents apiece—and of light pine cut a top, curved in front and straight along the back. From the middle of the back nail a thin board, about four feet long. At the upper extremity of this board nail crosswise, in the shape of a T, a light board one and one-half feet long. This frame work has now to be draped. For this purpose may be used dotted Swiss, edged with lace, scrimm, or flowered chintz, which does not soil so easily. The drapery when soiled can be taken off and washed, or, at a trifling expense, it may be renewed.

BRAIN REST.

An Interesting Incident—A Man's Brain Needs Rest and Takes It Without His Knowledge.

The suspension of self-consciousness is illustrated by the incident related by Dr Kemster, the expert who has been so long resident in Washington, as physician in charge of the invalid wife and daughter of Senator Sawyer. Dr. Kemster says: "One of the best authenticated cases of absolute loss of self-consciousness was that of a citizen of Neenah, Wis., a business man, who was lost and not heard from for ten days. He went to a political meeting, heard speeches, and started for home, after having argued with a friend near the hall door concerning the right and wrong of local parties. He did not go home and his family became distracted as the days went by and no tidings came from the missing man. At last a telegram came to his wife, dated Washington City, and stating that he would be home soon. The fact is, that gentleman had gone to Chicago, and thence to Washington, without knowing where he was going or what he was doing, until he regained self-consciousness in the rotunda of the capitol, under the dome, where he stood looking at the immense paintings that adorn the walls. When he realized that he was there the shock was so sudden that he fainted, was carried off in a police ambulance and treated by physicians who thought the man insane. Finally he assured them of his condition and sent the telegram to his wife.

He found in his pockets one hundred and twenty dollars in cash. Yet he knew that when he went to that political meeting in Neenah, he had about forty dollars only on his person. That annoyed him more than all else. He couldn't account for the possession of that money. Well, he returned home and was under my care for a long time and fully recovered. There was nothing the matter with him but over-work. His brain needed rest, and took a rest in spite of him. Three months passed, and a gentleman in Chicago wrote my patient asking him to return the two hundred dollars which he had borrowed and which was long overdue; because he had only expressed a desire to have the money for a few weeks when he borrowed it. Wasn't that singular! There was unconscious but correct cerebration. He was going on a trip, knew he did not have enough money, went to a friend and borrowed it, and yet was not personally conscious of any thing done by him. This is indeed a celebrated case, among medical men, but the gentleman does not like to have his name used in the public prints. He thinks it reflects upon his sanity; but it does not. He was never before, nor has he at any time since, been afflicted in that manner. His brain was tired out and took an enforced rest.

UP to July 27, 1794, when Robespierre was deposed, the Revolutionary Tribunal, established in Paris in 1792, had put to death 2,774 persons, including Queen Marie Antoinette and the Princess Elizabeth.

Brooklyn Storemen on Strike.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 18.—Over 1,000 storemen working along the water front in Brooklyn are out on a strike. They demand 25 cents an hour in lieu of 20 cents, which for the last ten months has been the rate at which they have been paid. The strike is expected to extend and include all the storemen working along the river front. A number of vessels are laying at some of the stores waiting to be unloaded and others are partially unloaded. The utmost quietness has been preserved. A strong police force are on duty at the stores.

Two Parts of a Train Collide.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 18.—The second section of a freight train ran into the first section, which had stalled on the grade near Bessemer, on the Pittsburg and Western road yesterday. The engine and a number of cars were completely wrecked. Brakeman Frank Cameron had his back, head and face terribly cut. Conductor John Scott had an ear torn off and was otherwise seriously injured. Another brakeman, whose name was not learned, was also badly used up.

Riot Among Italian Laborers.

WHY

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WHERE!

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

AROUND THE BASES.

Record of a Week in the Baseball World.

SURPRISES ARE PLENTIFUL.

Boston is First in the Struggle for the League Pennant.

Philadelphia Still Retains Second Place and New York Ranks Third, Closely Followed by Chicago—The American Association Club's First Series End This Week—St. Louis Heads the List for the Pennant and Brooklyn is Second.

NEW YORK, May 20.—It is now just one month since the American Association took the field for the season's campaign, and during that short period there has been no lack of interest in the national game. Surprises have been plentiful in this as well as in all the other organizations and many disappointing features have played important parts on the diamond field. The new rules have been given a fair test and while, as a whole, they have proven satisfactory, there are a few that may well have been left out of consideration. The four ball rule has the desired effect of increasing the batting and has robbed the game of nothing that would otherwise have tended to spread its popularity. It has, if anything, increased interest in the sport, as greater opportunities are afforded for brilliant fielding and it prevents the game from being played almost entirely by the pitcher and catcher, as frequently occurred in former years. But while the batting has been much heavier and the scores larger, it is doubtful if the fielding has been as perfect. This can, however, scarcely be expected when it is remembered that the chances for misplays are now considerably greater than in former years.

In the struggle for the pennant Boston is now first, with the Phillies second. The Bostons have had an easy week, playing the crippled Pittsburg team. The injury to Galvin and the suspension of Conway and Morris left virtually only one man to fill the box and Maul had to be pressed into service. Kuhne has also been off the team, which necessitated the playing of Carroll and Miller, alternately on third base. When all their men are in condition Pittsburg will be heard from. New men are being signed wherever they can be secured and enterprise is not lacking. From this team the Bostons got four straight, while the "Phillies" knocked the Chicagos out three times and the New Yorks broke even with the Clevelands.

From these figures it will be seen that the Western teams of the League have not made a very favorable debut in the East. Cleveland did the best work for the West, their playing against the New Yorks giving perfect satisfaction. They are, however, believed by many to be playing too strong a game to continue. They play Pittsburg on Monday and Tuesday and Anson's team the remainder of the week.

With all the weakness alluded to in Anson's team, it has not shown itself at Philadelphia. The club is batting harder than the majority of those in the League. Anson's team has had a little hard luck, which will be overcome if his men keep up their present batting streak and the pitchers settle down to work. Washington also seems to be getting out of the hole into which it fell. Its young pitching material is coming up to time in fine shape. The Washingtons have a number of new men and most of them have been nervous while facing the hitters of the Boston and New York nines, but now the young element in the team is gaining courage, and a vast improvement may be looked for when they face Pittsburg, Chicago and Cleveland. If Washington wins half the games from these clubs, the team will not be very far behind when they take their departure for the West after their first Eastern trip.

There has been great rejoicing in Brooklyn over the team's work in the West. Not until the Grooms reached St. Louis did they lose a game. They won all the contests in Louisville and Cincinnati. Their improvement in style of playing has been the cause of the rejoicing, however. The pitchers are doing well, and the batters are hitting the ball. In the first St. Louis game Hughe's wildness alone was responsible for its loss. In every other point the Browns, even on their own grounds, produced no evidence of superiority. With such an upward game as the Grooms played they deserved the contest, and will yet make the Browns crawl if they continue their present work.

In contrast to the Brooklyns' play is that of the Athletics. Their weakness in the box has had a tendency to discourage the men and they are not battling to any extent. Cincinnati, Louisville and Kansas City have defeated them on this trip. The management will have to get more pitchers or the excellent chances they have of getting a place in the races will soon be lost. Baltimore and Kansas City are playing a fairly good game, everything considered. The coming week will see the end of the first series between the Western and Eastern clubs, and the latter come to this part of the country accompanied by their rivals.

Tenement Houses Burned.

NEW ORLEANS, May 20.—Several double tenement houses on Josephine street and five on Rousseau street were destroyed yesterday by a fire that started in Hoehn's bakery. Loss $20,000, fully insured.

No Fatal Results Feared.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., May 20.—All the passengers who were injured in the accident on the Grand Junction railway are progressing favorably and no fatal results are apprehended.

It Was Not Yellow Jack.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 20.—Dr. Porter, State Health officer, has examined a reported case of yellow fever at Palmetto, and pronounces it typhoid malarial fever.

WAS PROCTOR KNOTT DOSED?

The Great Three-Year-Old Very Ill and a Rumor of Poisoning.

LOUISVILLE, May 20.—There is a startling report in circulation here that Proctor Knott, Bryant's mighty three-year-old, was dosed just before the race for the Clark Stakes was run, and in many quarters it is given a good deal of credit.

The animal has taken barely any nourishment since his severe race against Spokane. For the last few days he has laid in his stall, being almost constantly watched by either his trainer or stable boy. Nausea has been one of his symptoms; his eyes are dull, and he raises his head only with an effort.

A number of sporting men declared their belief in the poison story. They assert stoutly that it was the only way the great horse could have been beaten. They say that they recall now his action in the Clark Stakes clearly indicated that if he was not poisoned he was certainly not in good condition.

Both Mr. Bryant and his trainer denied indignahtly that the horse's indisposition was due to any other than natural causes, and they said that he went to the post for the Clark Stakes in good form.

Still it is a fact that he was taken ill directly after the race, and it is apprehended that Mr. Bryant will lose the most valuable horse he has ever owned. The stable boys, who looked upon Knott as the greatest animal that has ever been bred, are heart-broken over his sickness.

BRAVE POLICE OFFICERS.

Two Men Break Up a Drunken Carousal Despite a Mob.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., May 20.—Police officers White and Vance attempted to break up a drunken carousal on West street, Florence, about 1 o'clock this morning. They had arrested two men, when they were set upon by a crowd of ruffians, who beat and cut the officers unmercifully, White's ear being almost severed from his head.

The officers started for help and were pursued by the mob. Vance and White took refuge in the house of Ralph Bardwell, which was soon surrounded by the roughs, who demanded that Bardwell should surrender the officers to them.

At Policeman White's request, Bardwell loaded his gun with bird shot. White then warned the men to leave, but they responded with a shower of stones. He then fired into the crowd.

Patrick Tobin was shot in the abdomen and probably fatally injured. Thomas Anderson and John Alvord were also shot, but are not seriously hurt. The mob then dispersed without further trouble.

Officer White is in a critical condition.

For many months past these toughs have caused disturbances in the street, and the officers had determined to break up the gang. They had no weapons, however, except their clubs, and these were taken from them in the fight.

Getting Ready for the Commission.

PIERRE, Dak., May 20.—The Indians at the Cheyenne Agency at the recent big council decided on the manner of treatment with the Sioux Commission. They have appointed out of the different tribes a council of fifty, and twelve were elected judges. The council decided upon a plan of action for the entire tribe, who are bound by their action. The judges will report to the Commission and have all dealings with them. At the meeting of the council the past week many speeches were made on the Sioux bill and a large majority favored accepting its provisions at once.

Another Ocean Greyhound.

NEW YORK, May 20.—The Hamburg-American line's new twin-screw steamer Augusta Victoria arrived at her Hoboken dock yesterday, after a remarkably fast trip of eight days and one hour from Hamburg. Her time from Fastnet to New York was six days two and a half hours, but four hours was lost on account of heated journals, the actual running time being five days, twenty-two hours, thirty minutes. She made 474 knots on the 16th inst. She has 12,500 horse-power, and her machinery is all in duplicate.

Thought to Be the Nelson Harvey.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., May 20.—It is thought the vessel sunk by the steamer Nashua Saturday was the schooner Nelson Harvey of this port. The vessel's masts are visible above water, and agree with the description of the Harvey's masts. A diver will examine the hull. There were five men aboard the Harvey.

Destruction by Lightning.

OIL CITY, May 20.—A heavy rain storm accompanied by thunder and lightning, passed over this place yesterday morning. A tank full of oil on the Hancock farm, near Norway, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed. At Ranseville the Methodist church was struck by lightning and burned. Loss $2,000.

Not a Case of Murder.

BALTIMORE, May 20.—A jury of inquest summoned in the case of William Lauersen oller on the steamship Allegheny, whose body was found floating in the harbor on Friday, and who was supposed to have been murdered, met and rendered a verdict of accidental drowning.

Robert Garrett Sail Away.

Shot and Killed His Wife.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Charles Wilson shot and instantly killed his wife Louise, aged nineteen years, last night on the Boulevard at Eighty-first street, near which corner the couple lived. Wilson escaped.

Cars Blown From the Track.

TIFFIN, O., May 20.—A disastrous wind and hail storm swept over part of this county yesterday, doing thousands of dollars damage to buildings and fences. Freight cars were blown from the track at New Riegel. Crops were badly cut by the hail.

WASHINGTON NEWS

More Rumors of Changes in the Cabinet.

THE PROGRAMME AT PRESENT.

Attorney-General Miller to Be Promoted to the Supreme Court Bench.

Secretary Tracy to Take Charge of the Department of Justice and Ex-Senator Platt to Become Secretary of the Navy. A Would-Be Consul Locked Up as a Vagrant—Jottings from the National Capital.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Rumor is again afloat to the effect that changes in the Cabinet are about to take place as follows: The present Attorney-General, Mr. Miller, is to be appointed Associate Justice to fill the vacancy made by the death of Stanley Matthews; Mr. Tracy to be transferred from the Navy to the Department of Justice, and ex-Senator Tom C. Platt to be appointed Secretary of the Navy.

The Attorney-General last evening denied any knowledge of a plan to put him on the Supreme Bench.

Mrs. Harrison is understood to be packing up preparatory to her sojourn at Deer Park. It is quite likely that the family of the President will be in occupancy of their cottage in the mountains the early part of week.

Henry W. Rogers, a middle-aged man, came here on the 4th of March for a consulate. He was locked up last night in the Twelfth street station house as a vagrant. He had nearly twenty dollars in coppers and five-cent pieces in his clothes, the result of his solicitations on the streets. He was taken before Judge Miller in the police court one day last week, and gave his personal bonds to get out of town. But he was sure of getting his position in a few days more and so he stayed.

It is now believed by many that Col. W. D. Whipple, at present Adjutant-General of the Military Division of the Atlantic, with headquarters at Governor's Island, New York harbor, will succeed Adjutant-General Drum when the latter retires next Saturday. Col. J. C. Kelton, the present Assistant Adjutant-General, is also strongly urged for the place, and within a few days it was the opinion of army people that he would be selected for the place. The fight seems now to be between these two officers. The record and indorsements of the candidates are now before the President. He will make his selection early this week.

Mrs. Harrison's mail contains every day appeals from office-seekers to use her influence with her husband in favor of the writers. Some of the correspondents request Mrs. Harrison to remind the President that their applications remain unanswered, they have heard nothing about them and fear the President has inadvertently neglected to act upon them. They beg Mrs. Harrison to look around the office for the letters or petitions, and put them where General Harrison will be sure to see them. Some of them are from women.

The resignation of the following named cadets at the Naval Academy have been accepted by Secretary Tracy:—Charles L. Kunfman, G. F. Scott, W. L. Murray, L. C. Baird, R. L. Douglass, and H. W. Wilderming.

These young officers were found deficient at the recent semi-annuali examination, and upon the recommendation of the Academic board were turned back one class. Attorney-General Miller, however, decided that this was illegal, and Secretary Tracy had to drop the young men from the service. He allowed them to resign. In the case of those named above as soon as their resignations were accepted they were re-designated for examination in September. The Congressmen in whose districts these vacancies occurred availed themselves of the law by filling the vacancies with the same young men, just as though they had never been in the service.

The present excitement in society is the prospective amateur circus which a number of well known society people are arranging to take place next month at the Country club. The success of this species of entertainment in New York, given by Mr. and Mrs. Waterbury, has stimulated the leaders of the haut ton and an imitation of what was done in New York is perfectly proper here.

A number of the ladies who have posed as cross-country riders in the fox hunts will take part, and the positions of clowns and ringmaster will be supplied by well known society men whose qualifications for the positions are undisputed. A public rehearsal for the members of the peers and the friends and families of the participants will shortly take place.

Boston Favors the Canadian Trade.

BOSTON, May 20.—At the regular meeting of the Oil Trade association of New England resolutions were adopted, addressed to the Senate Committee on Trade with Canada, stating that the existence of a route through Canada had greatly benefitted commerce between New England and the Western States, had prevented exorbitant charges by the all American lines, and had drawn large amounts of Canadian products to Boston for export. The association therefore hope that there will be no restrictions placed upon this commercial route.

Cora Wants $250,000.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Cora Belle Knapp has brought suit against the estate of Demas Barnes, the late millionaire patent medicine manufacturer, for $250,000. She alleges that Mr. Barnes lived with her two years as his wife, and on her discovery that he was married to another, he promised to leave her $250,000 in his will if she would refrain from exposing him. His will contained no provision for her, hence the suit. The estate is valued at $11,000,000, a good part of which came from the sale of the once famous "St. Leon X." bitters.

A SWEET REVENGE.

The Crescents Wipe Out Last Saturday's Disgrace and the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A's—Mr. Gately May be Mute But He Gets There Just the Same.

Smarting under the shame of the previous week's defeat, the Crescent Y. M. C. A's stepped into the field last Saturday with blood in their eye and a new pitcher in the box, determined to wipe out the disgrace that had been put upon them. And they did it.

For eight consecutive innings the representatives of the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A., clad in all the cast-off raiment of their gymnasium and swimming baths, were not allowed to get around the bases nor score a single run to their credit, while the Crescents had rolled up eighteen of them.

Gately, the Crescents' new pitcher, proved himself a match for these Brooklyn boys at least. He cannot hear nor speak a word, but he could smile a most aggravating smile Saturday, as he struck out man after man from the City of Churches. For eight innings he held the visitors down to three little hits, and assisted in putting sixteen of them out. Then in the ninth pity seized him—or else he was afraid to travel home on the same train if he didn't give the Brooklynites a run—and this is the way he presented them with a tally.

Sammis was first to the bat, and although Gately had struck him out every time before and had not yet given a man his base on balls, he sent Sammis purposely to first with four wide pitches. But Condon was not so kind, and he subsequently lined the ball down to Voehl in time to catch the Brooklyn second baseman four feet short of that bag. Buekner who had also been struck out every time, was then given an easy one that he took advantage of and soaked out into centre field for two bases. But Demarest got up from his camp stool, pulled the ball down out of the atmosphere, and there was no run for Brooklyn yet. Gately then gave Prentiss his first on balls, and he subsequently got home assisted by Tilton's base hit and Cornwell's error.

A detailed account of how the Crescents made their runs would be monotonous. Of course Brooklyn's 23 errors helped them, and then the ease with which they hit Packard was an unusual factor in the Crescents' victory. Of the individual playing much might be said. Condon put up a good game as usual, and Carter's was equal to it. The rest of the Brooklyns were no good, however, and Edgar especially. Mr. Tee Kay umpired the game very satisfactorily to the Crescents.

The score was:

DOWN A FLIGHT OF STAIRS.

George Weaver of North Plainfield, Pitches Headlong Down a Stairway on North Avenue, and Sustains Serious Injury.

A little after nine o'clock of last evening, Mr. George Weaver, a carpenter, residing in North Plainfield, met with a serious mishap in this city, which will confine him to the house for several days to come. At that time Mr. Weaver alighted from a buggy in front of Moore's butcher shop on North avenue, to call on his daughter who is stopping with a family over the store.

In some unaccountable manner he got into the wrong doorway and ascended the stairway leading to the flats in the Paoli building, adjoining. The hallway was dark, and becoming confused Mr. Weaver pitched headforemost down the back stairs, where he was found soon afterward, unconscious and lying in a pool of blood. Willing hands raised the prostrate form and carried the unfortunate man to the landing above. Dr. Andrew Manning was at once summoned.

The doctor made a hasty examination and found that three ribs on the left side, and in front had been broken, besides an ugly, deep cut on the forehead, over the left eye. The wounds were dressed and the patient was taken home in a carriage.

To a PRESS reporter, last evening, Dr. Manning stated that the wounds were of such a serious nature that the patient would at least be confined to the house for several days to come.

A CHALLENGE FOR CHARITY'S SAKE.

THE PRESS Makes a Standing Offer to the "news."

A notice that the East New Jersey Baptists would meet here in June, was recently circulated among all the papers of the State. The news, having nothing else, put it in at once, while THE PRESS only found room for it some days later.

Saturday the news devoted a quarter-column of its valuable space to prove that THE PRESS copied the item from the news. It fairly glowed, because never before in the two year's existence of THE PRESS, had the news a chance to even fake up such a charge.

The robbery of Mr. N. W. Pike's house, the account of the Washington Rock $250,000 hotel, the fire at Mr. Sam'l Huntington's residence, the election of Savings Bank officers, the report of Mrs. Patton's read before the Plainfield McAll Auxiliary, the death of Mr. Wm. Whitehead, the examination of the Plainfield post office burglars, and a dozen other items published exclusively in THE PRESS of Saturday, the news was ignorant of. It was trying to persuade the servant girls who read its incorrect grammar and stale matter, that an official notice of a Baptist convention sent to all papers, originated in the news.

THE PRESS makes this standing offer—retroactive as well as prospective—that it will donate to the Children's Home or any other charitable association, one hundred dollars for each item it ever has or ever does copy from the news, if the latter will give just one dollar in the same way for each item the news has ever copied from THE PRESS or does hereafter.

Reform Hall!

The audience in Reform Hall last evening was not large. President French being absent in consequence of a severe cold, Vice President Harper occupied the chair. Mr. Edward Titsworth conducted the devotional services, and the music was rendered by Mr. Vanderbeek and a full choir.

There being no regularly appointed speaker for the evening, Vice President Harper filled the gap, and in a short address portrayed the terrible effects of liquor drinking, and called upon all, as a duty to humanity, to dedicate unceasing efforts for the suppression of the devastating evil.

It was announced that ex-Mayor Randolph would be the speaker next Sunday evening; also that a mother's meeting would be held in the Hall Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The meeting closed with the doxology.

Beware of the Crooks.

The following received through the mail, today, will explain itself:

HADDONFIELD, N. J., May 17, 1889.

MR. EDITOR, DEAR SIR:—There is a gang of men traveling your way, selling tea and giving away soap. Their method of working is they claim that they intend opening a store in town and claim to be advertising. They promise everyone to whom they sell, a present of crockery or silverware. They purchase the tea, which is worthless, from N. Y. houses, at 6c a pound and the scrapings. The crockery, etc., never comes.

Yours, etc.
J. P. SMITH.

The Last Lecture.

The concluding lecture in the Doctrines of the Plymouth Brethren, in Mr. F. W. Grant's course, will take place at Reform Hall, to-morrow evening. Subject: "The Church. What is it?" These lectures have been found very instructive and should be heard to be appreciated.

THE REV. AND MRS. MITCHELL DELAYED.

"Leander" Comes Out of the Fog With the News that the "Servia's" Aground.

The hosts of friends of the Rev. and Mrs. Mitchell, who during Saturday often thought of that couple who sailed from New York at 8 A. M., as steaming on their way to Liverpool, will be surprised to learn that the "Servia" on which were the Methodist pastor and his wife, was stuck on a sand bank in a fog off Sandy Hook all day and until after 10 o'clock of Saturday night.

The news was brought to this city by Mr. Charles E. Doane's homing pigeon, "Leander." This brave bird is one of the very few in the State with a 400 mile record. He flew from Martinsville, Va., last year, a distance of 400 miles, to his loft in this city, when many others lost their way home.

His fly Saturday was in an entirely different direction, and when it is considered—as the message proves—that he was let off in a dense fog out in the ocean, his return home is more that marvelous. Mr Mitchell took three homings with him. Two, "Leander" and "Aerial," belonging to Mr. C. E. Doane, and one, "Schiedam," belonging to Mr. J. Hervey Doane.

"Leander" got home at six o'clock Saturday evening, with the message written on tissue paper and wound around one of his tail feathers with silk. "Schiedam" arrived at 7:30 Sunday morning, and "Aerial" at 3:30 in the afternoon. Neither of the last two birds carried messages, so it is supposed that they were all released at once.

Following is "Leander's" message, a copy of which Mr. Doane sent at once to the gentleman addressed:

SERVIA, 3.45 P. M.
OFF SANDY HOOK.

We arrived at the bar in a dense fog and are on a sand bank and will not get off till high tide to-night at 10:30.

I send this message by a carrier pigeon which Mr. Mitchell brought with him. It will return to Plainfield, N. J., and this will be mailed to you. Of course we are all well. No sea sickness yet. I would rather be moving. We will be 12 hours late at Queenstown. Good bye.

JOHN GRAZIER.

We've Got Better Sense.

The news thinks it's got a scalder on this paper. Saturday it puckered up courage enough to say that THE PRESS was guilty of purloining from its columns the account of the Baptist ministers' meeting, which is to take place in this city, next month. "Who'd a thunk it?" The news is the last paper in the world to look to for reliability, as the following will attest:

(From the news of Friday, May 17.)

Miss Fannie S. Halt, daughter of Mr. Seymour Halt of West Seventh street, was married yesterday afternoon to Mr. Wallace Serrell of West Front street, by the Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes. Only intimate friends and relatives were present. After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs Halt will go to Tacoma, W. T., where they will make their home.

We presume by this that Mr. and Mrs. Serrell will spend their honeymoon at home, while Mr. and Mrs. Halt go on a wedding tour to Washington Territory. A chart should accompany the news' item.

THE PRESS got its account of the ministers' meeting from the Elizabeth Journal, and the news' account was sent to the latter paper on a postal card.

Most Deserved Appreciation.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted at the annual meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association, Thursday evening last:

Resolved, That this Association hereby publicly expresses its sincere and hearty appreciation of the faithful labors of our beloved General Secretary, J. H. Manning, to whom to so great a degree, under God's blessing, the success of our Association during the past year has depended, and to whom we extend our fraternal greeting and Christian encouragement.

J. A. ROBINSON, Secretary.

Rats!

Witness the following from an influential Newark paper on Saturday:

Three large hives of bees took possession of R. O. Howell's grocery at New Brunswick, on Thursday afternoon, swarming upon a quantity of comb honey in one of the large show windows. Trade was spoiled for the day. At nightfall, when the bees were quiet, Mr. Howell and his clerks burned sulphur in the store and killed the honey makers.

A Gift to St. Mary's Church.

Members of the Verdon family in North Plainfield have generously donated a handsome black walnut pulpit, which is to be located in St. Mary's church, this city. On Sunday afternoon next at three o'clock, Bishop O'Farrell of Trenton, will bless the new pulpit and preach an appropriate sermon. This latest donation to St. Mary's church is a valuable addition to the pulpit furniture.

Noonday Prayers.

Don't forget the noon prayer meeting every day from 12 to 1 o'clock, at the W. C. T. U. rooms. Every one welcome and a blessing for all who come.

The Monday meetings conducted by Mr. Seely Edsall. The Rev. Mr. Goodrich, Mr. George Morrison, Rev. Mr. Schenck, Rev. Asa R. Dilts, and Mr. Harry Manning, leaders successively through the week.

The Cathers & Shallcross Shows and Wild West.

The above named shows will exhibit in this city to-morrow afternoon and evening. In connection with their circus performance they give a Wild West show, in which they introduce Indians, cowboys, sharpshooters, Mexican vaqueros, etc., altogether offering a wealth of enjoyment. They show at "popular prices"—25c.

MR. BONNEY'S REPORT.

The Year's Work of One Committee.

The following is the report of the Devotional Committee of the Y. M. C. A., for the year 1888-89, as read at the annual meeting, last Thursday evening:

This Committee has charge of all the religious work of the Association, and at present consists of fourteen members, not including the "Invitation Committee" whose work of inviting young men to our meetings by personal word or printed invitation given on the street before our meetings has been the means of drawing many into our rooms.

During the year the work of the Devotional Committee has been subdivided among its members. Some looking after the interests of the meeting for young men only, held at our rooms every Monday evening. Variety has been secured in these meetings by addresses, song services, testimony and prayer meetings. Sometimes a large number of singers, and again an orchestra have been means of attracting men. Leaders from other places, our own city ministers and young men have conducted these services. Many have confessed Christ here, and very much good is believed to have been done in winning back and building up others.

A Sunday morning prayer meeting was held during the Summer and Fall, July to December, at 9 o'clock.

The week of prayer for young men recommended by the International Committee was observed, and five meetings held at the rooms.

On Tuesday evening, April 9, a conference was held at the residence of Mr. H. B. Newhall. Different phases of the work were discussed, plans suggested for improvement, and new resolves made to do greater things for the Master. An increase in the attendance at the young men's meeting is one of the results immediately noted.

The Workers' Training Classes, now acknowledged to be one of the most important branches of our work, have increased in interest, number and attendance. By this means it is sought to prepare earnest young Christians to be helpful to others, particularly by the use of God's word in leading others to Christ. Those engaged in the classes give warm testimony of rich blessings which they have received from the study and drill. On the evening of December 8, a public session or sample class was held at the rooms to illustrate the manner of conducting the class exercises. It was attended by a large and interested audience of both sexes.

Meetings have been conducted at Mt. Pleasant school house, about four miles from the city on the road to Rahway, and at Washingtonville, two miles from the city in the Valley. These meetings are held every Sunday evening unless very stormy, and have been conducted on the same general plan as our young men's meeting. A marked interest has been shown at the latter place.

For about two months meetings were held at Union Village two miles beyond Washingtonville, at the invitation of the people residing in that section.

The Sunday school at Washingtonville under our care has increased in size and interest. The General Secretary conducts an interesting class of men every Sunday afternoon. It is expected that by the Fall of this year services at this place will be held in a neat stone chapel largely the gift of Mr. J. F. Wilson.

While many have professed conversion at our various meetings, we know of six men and one young girl who have united with our churches through our instrumentality.

At the begining of the year we estimated our expenses at $205, and receipts at $125. There have been expenses $257, receipts $126, exceeding our estimate $56. Usually the many storm days and bad roads prevent meetings being held with regularity at the outposts, but the very open Winter has enabled us to conduct them with very few interruptions, and more money has been expended on the invitation work than was estimated at the beginning of the year.

Take Your Choice.

Wiggins has broken out with the prediction of a dry, hot Summer, and what little rain occurs is to come from a northerly direction. On the contrary DeVoe predicts a wet Summer, with plenty of rain until August. Take your choice.

—Myself and daughter have used Dr. Dam's Remedy for that weak, tired feeling and headache, and find it excellent.—Mrs. M. B. Taylor, E. Front street.

The New Liquor Law.

The Werts Liquor law will go into effect today, and hereafter all drug stores, wholesale liquor shops and any other establishments selling liquors, wines or ale by the quart, without a license, will have to cease such sale under penalty of the law. Druggists can only sell on the prescription of a physician, and nobody else without a license.

Under the instructions of Chief Justice Beasley, no retail dealer may sell any quantity of liquor to be drunk off the premises. This, of course, makes it illegal to sell beer to those who come with pitchers or kettles.

The law has a provision with reference to the transfer of licenses that it may be well for those who contemplate the buying or selling of established hotels or saloons to bear in mind. This is to the effect that no one shall take charge of any saloon or hotel that he has bought until the transfer of the license is effected. It further provides that no one who buys a saloon or hotel may act as an agent for the man who sells to him between the time of the purchase and the granting of the transfer.

—No more charming place to spend the Summer can be found than at Mount Pocono, Pa. The "Brunswick House" there opens on June 1, with farm and dairy connected and livery attached. Write for circular and terms.

The Encounter Between MM. Rochefort and Pilotel.

THE SENSATION OF THE HOUR.

Widely Varying Statements of the Affair Given by the Gentlemen.

Rochefort Says the Pistol Was in a Case, and that Pilotel Ran Away—Pilotel Says the Weapon Was Out and Cocked, and Claims that He Stood His Ground—News From London and the Continental Capitals.

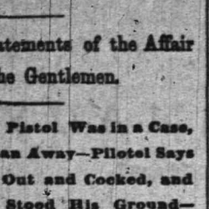
LONDON, May 20.—The encounter between MM. Rochefort and Pilotel, on Regent street, is the sensation of the hour. Both gentlemen have been besieged by interviewers and their statements concerning the affair are widely at variance with one another.

M. Rochefort, who was first seen, gave the following version of the encounter: "I was walking along Regent street about 7 o'clock in the evening when suddenly I saw Pilotel walking towark me. He stopped in front of me and struck a pugilistic attitude, at the same time threatening to 'punch' my head. Now, fisticuffs are not in my line, although I am not a timid man as my dueling experience attests. Pilotel continued his threatening language and, merely for the purpose of frightening ing him, I drew a revolver from my breast pocket and pointed it at him. The pistol was in a leather case, tightly clasped, so that I could not possibly have fired it, had I wished to do so. When Pilotel saw the harmless weapon he dropped his hands and ran away at top speed bellowing 'murder.' In spite of the serious view taken of the affair by the police and bystanders, they could not control their laughter at the fellow's cowardice any more than they could conceal their contempt for his conduct."

ROCHEFORT.



PILOTEL.

The version given by M. Pilotel differs in almost every particular from that of the fiery editor. He insists that the pistol was not only without a case, but that it wes cooked and manifestly intended to be discharged. M. Pilotel indignantly denies that he ran away, and strictly speaking he didn't, for he had scarcely turned his back upon his antagonist and started to run when he was seized by the police. The belief is general that the magistrate before whom the two will be brought will treat both prisoners, and especially Rochefort, with all the severity warranted by the circumstances.

The Bulgarian government has decided that it will no longer pay the Roumelian tribute to the Porte, and has so notified the authorities at Constantinople. The Ottoman government will immediately send commissioners to Sofia to combat the decision and in the event of failure to overthrow it will appeal to the Powers to take cognizance of the deliberate violation of the treaty of Berlin.

It is believed in Berlin that Prince Bismarck's exhibition of temper in the Reichstag was due much more to the fact that the Conservatives did not support him than to the gibes of Herr Richter. The strikes in Westphalia and Silesia have completely upset the Chancellor's calculations with regard to the Aged Workman's Insurance bill and he feels the increased opposition to the measure keenly.

The North German Gazette in an inspired article refutes the assertion made by the Cologne Gazette that the condition of the miners' strike in Westphalia did not warrant the proclamaton of a state of siege there and says the Proclamation Act does not apply in the present case but from motives of expediency the Government has not enforced the Act. The Gazette also declares that the Emperor is empowered to proclaim martial law in any district if the public safety demands it.

The Westphalia Mining Masters' association has accepted the whole of the proposals of the striking miners with the exception of those relating to overtime. The committee of mine owners and the delegates of the Bochum strikers met to-day and decided to resume work in the deserted pits on Tuesday. The strike still continues at Wurm, the owner refusing to concede anything to their employes. At a meeting of the owners at Zwickau, a large majority oppose the suggestion of making the concessions granted by the masters' association, though eighteen of the masters present were willing to negotiate with a committee of their employes on a different basis. A magisterial warning against the intimidation of those willing to resume work has been issued.

Mr. Balfour, it is announced, will repropose the Irish Drainage bill in the House of Commons on Thursday and the Scotch Government bill will come before the House on the question of its second reading a fortnight later.

Mr. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will speak at Sheffield on Wednesday, when it is expected he will divulge the intentions of the Ministry regarding the office of Viceroy of Ireland.

King Humbert of Italy, the Prince of Naples and Premier Crispi started for Berlin yesterday. A large procession of civic societies accompanied by bands of music and bearing a profusion of banners marched to the railway station to see them off. Behind these was congregated an immense crowd, whose cheers mingled with those of the societies were almost incessant. Within the station was a large gathering of Ministers, Deputies, etc.

Murder in Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., May 20.—James Daly, aged 24, was fatally shot last night by Gustav Willringhaus. Daly had assisted a saloon keeper to eject Willringhaus from a saloon. The two men afterward met on the street, when Willringhous drew a revolver and shot Daly twice in the abdomen, causing death within two hours. The police found the murderer hiding in a secret.

WESTINGHOUSE VS. EDISON.

An Interesting Electric Light Suit Begun in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 20.—Justice Bradley, of the United States Supreme court, and Judges McKennan and Atchison this morning began the hearing of the Cass Consolidated Electric Light Company vs. the McKeesport Light Company, a patent infringement case.

The case in reality is Westinghouse vs. Edison. Several years ago Mr. Westinghouse purchased the Sawyer carbon burner, the little loop that furnishes the light in incandescent burners. Mr. Sawyer's patent gives him the right to use exclusively all fibrous vegatable matters as carbons. For several years Mr. Edison employed paper as a carbon and now is using bamboo, and it is to prevent this infringement that this suit is brought.

The Westinghouse people will set up the general allegation of infringemeut and talk it up by the submission of several thousand pages of testimony, expert and general, to show that in the use of either paper or bamboo, Mr. Edison transgresses their rights and franchises under the Sawyer patent.

On the other hand, the Edison people will set up two claims: first, that the patent is too comprehensive and exclusive, covering as it does the whole vegetable kingdom and excluding from it all who are not interested in the patent. In the second place, they will set up the general allegation of fraud in the manner of obtaining the patent. They have also fortified themselves with a mass of testimony, technical, expert and all around fully as great, if not greater, than that gathered by the Westinghouse attorneys. This will occupy every day of this week, and it is not improbable that the case may run far into next week.

Three Men Killed at an Election.

FOREST CITY, Ark., May 20.—Three people were killed here in an election affray yesterday. It was an election for school directors. S. M. Neely, a colored editor, became involved in a fight with a white man and ran toward ex-Sheriff John H. Parkham, apparently for protection. In a flash a dozen revolvers were drawn and a volley was poured after the fleeing negro. When the fire ceased Thomas H. Parkham, son of the ex-Sheriff, Frank Fæbre, Marshal, and D. M. Wilson, Sheriff, were found dead on the ground. Neely escaped, but is believed to be wounded. He is the editor of the Advocate, and was endorsed by the Republicans for the office of Land Commissioner.

Captain Jack Again Out of Jail.

COLUMBUS, O., May 20.—Captain Jack and several other Indians who have been confined in the penitentiary for several months having been granted a new trial, were released from the institution yesterday on an order of the Attorney-General and delivered to the military authorities. An officer of the barracks left with the party to-day for Arizona, where it is believed they will be given their freedom. The party is very happy at release from confinement. But one of the many Indians who have been sent here by the United States authorities remains at the institution, and he bewails his misfortune greatly

They Blew Out the Gas.

NEW YORK, May 20.—A young man and woman who registered at Barrow's hotel, 159 Bleecker street, last night, as Thomas F. Conner and wife, left the gas turned on when they retired, and about midnight the clerk of the hotel found Conner dead in the room and his companion was unconscious. The girl was taken to a hospital where it was learned that her name is Mary Fallon She may recover.

A Strike Considered Inevitable.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 20.—At a meeting of the Homestead Steel mill employes the sentiment was strongly against accepting the sliding scale posted by Carnegie & Company. Resolutions denouncing the proposed reduction and referring the matter to the head officials of the Amalgamated association were adopted. A strike is considered inevitable if the scale is insisted on.

They Will Elect Their Postmaster.

FREDERICK, Md., May 27.—The people of Creagerstown and Middletown, this county, have decided to hold elections for their respective postmasters. The names of the successful candidates will be sent to Washington, calling the attention of the President to the fact that they are the choice of the people of those boroughs, and that their appointment is requested.

Another Strike Probable.

BRAZIL, Ind., May 20.—The delegates to the convention of miners held here voted in favor of a strike and will so report to the miners at the various mines when the strike will be formally declared. The operators declare that they are unable to pay more than 70 cents. If a strike follows, as now seems likely, the outcome will be the introduction of additional machines.

It Was a Close Race.

CHICAGO, May 20.—The six-day bicycle race for professionals, eight hours a day, at the Exposition building, was won by Reading with only one lap to spare. The final score was as follows: Reading, 685 miles, 4 laps; Knapp, 685 miles, 3 laps; Prince, 685 miles, 2 laps; Morgan, 685 miles, 2 laps; Schock, 678 miles, 2 laps.

The Sheriff Foiled the Mob.

A LIMITED VOCABULARY.

Belinda was a maiden
Divinely picturesque
As any child of "Aidenn,"
(See Poe, in "Tales Grotesque");
Her manners were most gentle,
Her voice was music sweet,
And I grew sentimental
When first we chanced to meet.

We danced a waltz together,
And oh, the way she danced!
Each little foot a feather
Across the carpet glanced;
We ogled o'er the ices,
Until my heart said: "This Must be what paradise is—
Superlatively bliss."

In all our conversation,
We cordially agreed.
Her highest commendation
Was always: "Yes, indeed!"
I criticised, I queried,
It grieves me to confess,
I actually grew wearied
With "Yes," and "Yes, Oh, Yes."

But girls that are so stupid
Oft have a pretty face:
They get the help of Cupid,
And win us by their grace.
Thought I, since she's so willing,
Forever to agree,
Some day, I'll bet a shilling,
She'll answer "Yes" to me.

So at the beach last summer,
Beneath the moonlight clear,
I sought to capture from her
That affirmation dear;
But her vocabulary—
'Twas limited, and so,
Her language just to vary,
She tenderly said "No!"

—Paul Mederst, in Munsey's Weekly.

LOSING HER HOLD.

A Summer Sermon and the Fruits It Bore.

The schoolmaster and his wife, after morning meeting was over, took their way as usual down Prout's Lane and across the hill homeward. The path was narrow; the dominie walked first. He made a remark at long intervals to his wife behind him, but without looking back.

"Squire wasn't out. Reckon his lumbago's worse?"

"'S likely."

"The doctor had his little grandchild with him. I suppose his daughter has come for the summer?"

"I reckon she has."

There was a long silence after that, broken only by the buzz of the bees in the red clover and the ck'k-k of the grasshoppers through the hot grass. The old man stopped, as he always did on Sunday, to see how much the corn in the lower field had grown during the week, and to gaze meditatively at the pigs in their pen. But Mrs. Holmes had no thought to-day for the pigs or corn. She walked with her head bent on her breast, almost forgetting to hold up the skirt of her Sunday merino out of the grass. There had been a strange preacher that day—an old man with a quick, sharp tone like the call of a horn to wandering sheep—very different from Father Langley's prolonged, drowsy hum. One or two of his sentences rang in Ann Holmes' ears.

"While you live, live! You wrap yourselves in selfishness and fat content as in grave-clothes before you are dead. The world is full of your brothers, starving, cold, ignorant. Go to them! You owe them service to the last breath of your life."

Mrs. Holmes had asked the doctor's wife anxiously what she thought of the sermon as they came out of the church-yard.

Mrs. Perry shook her head contemptuously.

"He's one of these half-cracked, sensation preachers. What has Amity township to do with the starving poor? We keep up our almshouse well. Let the big towns see to their own paupers!"

Ann was comforted for the moment, but she remained uneasy. That hint about the grave clothes seemed a personal hit at herself. Could the man know—?

She hurried past the schoolmaster when they reached their own gate, going up the spotless board walk, with beds of geraniums and roses on either side, to the side door. She could not resist a complacent glance at those beds. Not a weed; the brown earth sifted fine and smooth. There was no such garden in the village; no kitchen was so exquisitely neat, no parlor so speckless and prim. Surely her conscience told her she was a good Christian woman, fulfilling her duty, and had no cause for the wrench and misery of soul which she felt just now.

She went up the stairs to her own chamber, laid off her bonnet carefully, and then unlocked a drawer in the press. She did not need to lift the white towels. She knew perfectly well what was pinned up in them. The underclothing of snowy linen, the worked flannels, the fine woolen shroud. She had put in every stitch in them. Could the man have known!

Every matron in Amity had her "funeral suit" provided. It was a matter of pride to them, just as Mrs. B., in Boston, would delight in her old satsuma or her Corot. The Amity people gloried in their new cemetery. The Holmeses had their lot like the rest; a narrow one, for there were only two to be buried in it. Ann had her choicest roses set out there. She had directed in her will every detail of the trimming on her coffin.

She thrust her hand under the shroud now and pulled out a little bag of gold coin. They were the savings of years; pennies scrimped out of clothes, milk, meat. They were to pay for the handsome granite monument "Erected to the memory of Daniel Holmes and Ann his wife."

"While you live—live!"

She dropped the bag as if some one spoke at her back, locked the drawer and went down stairs.

The "piece" was spread as usual on Sunday noons; flaky bread, clover-scented honey, delicious pies. Ann, as she cut the pie, was comforted by a sense of spiritual well being. No woman made such crust in Amity. No woman was more faithful at meeting, at Sunday-school, at missionary society. In what had she come short? Her starved soul demanded of its Maker. Every duty, great and small, had been well finished.

Mrs. Holmes was fifty-five years of age, but she used to speak of herself as near her grave. She twisted up her hair in a wisp, and wore the scuttle bonnets proper to old age. The work of life, she held, was finished for her and Daniel. They had paid for the farm, so that when one died the other was sure of maintenance; the farm and house were in perfect order, the cemetery lot was bought. The money for the monument was a kind of frilling embroidery on this perfected life, the handsome flourish to the signature which closed the deed.

As she sat pouring out the tea, thinking these things over, her husband "reckoned" again that the squire's lumbago was bad, and that the doctor's daughter was at home. Then he yawned drearily and fell asleep in his chair in the sun.

How much of his time he spent in yawning and sleeping! Yet thirty years ago Daniel Holmes was an eager teacher, keeping well abreast with the knowledge and ideas of his time, living in the world of books, newspapers, music and pictures. She, too, had been a live woman then. But they had come out of town into this village, and set themselves to scrape together money to buy this farm. What was this change that had come to them? Had they been really spinning their grave clothes out of selfishness?

Ann went to afternoon service; but she did not hear a word of Father Langley's discourse. She was back in the town; long-forgotten voices sounded in her ears. There was Dan's brother, Jack, poor fellow! She saw him plainly in the crowd. A gay, affectionate lad who might have turned out well if he had been guided! But he had married a feather-headed girl, and Ann, out of patience, had turned them both adrift.

As they walked home that evening she said to the schoolmaster: "How long is it since we heard from John, Daniel?"

He did not reply at first, and when he did it was with a strained, annoyed voice.

"Twenty-six year."

"I wish I and Abby could have hit it off together. I am 'feared that it was not right to shove them off, with neither money nor religion 'for a staff.'"

Daniel made no reply, but Ann understood his silence as a more bitter reproach than words.

The next morning she brought to him a small canvas bag.

"There is some money I had saved for buryin' expenses, Daniel," she said. "I'd like to take it instead for us to spend a week in Philadelphia."

"What tomfoolery's that!"

"There's no poor folk in Amity, 'n may be we might see some there as we could give—advice to. And you could look up the libraries and museums."

"Nonsense!"

But his eye paused, attentive.

"And may be we might meet John."

"Here, put the money away! I'll bank it," he growled.

But four days later Amity was shaken to its center by the news that the schoolmaster and his wife had gone for an outing to Philadelphia.

"There's a queer customer," whispered one of the attendants in the old Franklin Library to another a week afterwards. "He comes every day, and goes from shelf to shelf breathless, as if he had not touched a book for years. Been buried in the country, I suppose."

"And why should anybody who can live out of doors and dig want to smell this musty leather?" grumbled the other lad, who was lean and stooped, with an ugly cough.

He went up to Daniel, however, and helped him in his explorations.

Our country pilgrims put up at an old-fashioned inn in the lower part of the city. Daniel came back to it at night fairly panting with the triumphs of his researches. He had visited kindergartens, industrial schools and museums, where art and science were taught without charge to the poorest.

"As for the libraries, whole continents of knowledge have been discovered while I was dozing and snoring in Amity," he exclaimed.

Ann had made her rounds among the asylums, the hospitals for children, the free classes, the creches. Her cold, gray eyes were dim and wet.

"Half the world seem to be cold and hungry, and the other half are working to warm and feed them," she said. "And I could find nothing to do but to make fine my shroud and gravestone! But have you got any trace of John or Abby, Daniel?"

"No; I doubt it's no use, Ann."

But as Ann woke day by day, and got her hold upon the world again, her search became more energetic. One day she came in at noon red with excitement.

"I've found them, Daniel! That is to say, John and Abby are dead; but they've left three children. The oldest boy supports them, and he is that consumptive lad in the library you took such a fancy to. Come right along! Don't stop for dinner! Come! Three children! And the Lord never before gave us one!"

Mrs. Ann Holmes' house is no longer the neatest in Amity. The chubby little girl of fourteen who helps her in the kitchen leaves her work and school books here and there, and the baby who tags after Ann from morning until night drops her greasy bread and butter even in the sacred parlor, unrebuked.

"What's a clean floor compared with the flesh coming on to their bones!" she asks, triumphantly. "Look at Albert! He's another boy. He's a born farmer. That library was killing him."

"I'll have no abuse of libraries," Daniel says. "I'm going up for study twice a year. It doesn't do to lose your hold on the world. You've got to keep step while you live."

"Y-es," Ann replies, absently. She is looking out a hymn simple enough for Abby to understand, and after that she is going to make some flannel petticoats for baby before the cold weather comes. They are cut out and folded neatly in her basket, and the drawer up-stairs which held her fine shroud is empty.—Rebecca Harding Davis, in Congregationalist.

GUM-CHEWING GIRLS.

The Amount of Power Wasted Every Day by Each One of Them.

The gum-chewing mania having become a question of National importance, like that of the utilization of the water-power of Niagara Falls, one of the Chicago public-school principals has, according to a Chicago journal, recently taken the necessary time from his arduous duties to compute statistics on the loss of power daily expended—wasted, I may say—in the gum-chewing practice. In arriving at correct mathematical conclusions as to the energy required to keep the gum-mills grinding, our learned friend estimates the gum-raising capacity of the fair gum-chewer at the rate of eight ounces per "chaw." This is on the supposition that the mouth is opened half an inch each time in the act of chewing, and that the gum is of the elastic or non-sticky variety, thereby giving the minimum of power required in the operation. With this basis as a starting-point, the professor easily deducts a startling series of tables of rates, weights and measures, which can be epitomized. In the first place, if the jaw be raised one-half an inch with each effort in the act of gum-chewing, with the process kept up on an average of ten hours a day—some chewers chew till late at night, and others, even, when asleep—each individual motion of the jaw consuming a second of time, the aggregated opening of a gum-chewer's jaws in one day alone would represent a mouth fifteen hundred feet across, measuring the abyss in its widest diameter. But, since the jaw travels back with every motion, retracing each successive stretch, the space traveled in a day on the ten-hour plan is double the foregoing figures, or three thousand feet—something like three-fifths of a mile. Again, if the force expended per "chaw" represents a lifting capacity of eight ounces, in the average day, as Mr. Principal figures it, enough muscular energy is exerted—wasted—to enable each individual gum-chewer to have hoisted from a cellar seven and a half feet deep thirty buckets of coal each weighing thirty pounds. In some future article I may—and I may not—pursue the interesting subject, and quote from the professor's work the amazing possibilities in store for home and society when the gum-chewing craze shall have been brought into subjugation and made to serve humanity in channels of usefulness and progress.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The presents sent by the Sultan of Turkey to the Emperor of Germany are valued at $200,000 and the necklace sent to the Empress at $150,000.

An earthquake shock was felt throughout middle California about 3:15 o'clock Sunday morning.

Mr. Gladstone has received addresses of sympathy signed by the Govenors, Senators, Members of Legislature and other officials of the States of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The promulgation of the sentence in the court-martial case of Captain Armes still hangs fire at the White House. It is understood that President Harrison is giving the matter careful attention, and is not inclined to accept the verdict of the court, which, it is stated, is dismissal from the service.

In an interview to-day, Representative Perkins, of Kansas, expressed the opinion that the next Congress would pass a bill for the regulation of Congressional elections. This measure, he said, would be aimed at the South, but its provisions would, of course, apply equally to all sections of the country.

WHY

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WHERE:

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

Rain Prevents Most of the Ball Games.

THE LEAGUE CLUBS PLAY NONE.

The Brooklyns Get a Severe Drubbing at Kansas City.

St. Louis Wins from the Athletics, and Columbus Beats Cincinnati—Hindoocraft Wins the Latonia Derby, Leading All the Way from Start to Finish—Come-to-Taw Second and King Regent Third. Winners at Gravesend.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The storm yesterday prevented the New York-Pittsburg game at Staten Island, and also the League games at Washington and Philadelphia.

In the Boston-Cleveland game the score stood 5 to 3 in favor of Boston at the end of the third inning, when play was stopped.

All the Atlantic League games were also stopped by the rain.

In the Association, however, there were three games played. The victory Kansas City gained over Brooklyn enabled the Cowboys to take second place. The other clubs in the race are in pretty much the same position as they were yesterday.

A DRUBBING FOR BROOKLYN.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 21.—The Brooklyns met with a Waterloo here yesterday afternoon. It was a slugging match from start to finish, and Hughes was hit for twenty-one safe hits, with a total of twenty-four bases, while McCarthy fared but little better, but scattered them. The feature of the game was "Hub" Collins' work at second, where he cut off several base hits.

ST. LOUIS WINS.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 21.—The field was damp and slippery yesterday, and neither side fielded well. The Browns won by bunching their hits in the fourth inning.

GOOSE EGGS FOR THE REDS.

COLUMBUS, O., May 21.—The game between Columbus and Cincinnati closed at the end of the fifth inning on account of rain. Frank Arnold, one of the substitutes, umpired.

THE SCORE OF YESTERDAY'S GAMES.

At Columbus—Columbus, 2; Cincinnati, 0. Game called at the end of fifth inning on account of rain.

At St. Louis—St. Louis, 4; Athletic, 1.

At Kansas City—Kansas City, 18; Brooklyn, 12.

At Buffalo—Buffalo, 2; Detroit, 8.

At Rochester—Rochester, 9; Toronto, 4.

At Hamilton—Hamilton, 9; Toledo, 4.

THE LATONIA DERBY.

Won by Hindoocraft, with Come-to-Taw Second, King Regent Third.

CINCINNATI, May 21.—In spite of the cloudy condition of the sky and the moist condition of the earth, which grew more pronounced as the pattering rain continued to fall, the opening of the spring Latonia races yesterday were not marred in the least. The track was covered with two or three inches of dust until the rain came.

There were five races on the programme, the most important and attractive of which was the Latonia Derby, at a mile and a half, for three-year-old colts and fillies. The stake was worth $3,000 to the winner. The attendance was fair.

At the last moment four of the flyers were scratched, leaving only three to start. They were King Regent, with Stoval up; Hindoocraft, with Hollis as his jockey, and Come-to-Taw, with Taral on his back. In the auctions they sold, Hindocraft, $80; King Regent, $16, and Come-to-Taw, $10. Book odds: Hindoocraft, 6 to 5; King Regent, 8 to 5; Come-to-Taw, 3 to 1.

The flag fell on the first attempt, and Hindoocraft got off in front, with Come-to-Taw second and King Regent third. The race was as good as over, for neither one of the other flyers ever got to Hindoocraft's tail. He showed them his heels the whole of the distance, and was never pushed. Hollis sat easy on him, and without a break or a wobble he covered the distance and won by a length. Come-to-Taw and King Regent both got the whip just after entering the stretch. They could not catch the game son of Hindoo, who won in a big gallop. Come-to-Taw got the place, a neck in front of King Regent.

An Obstruction to Navigation.

BOSTON, May 21.—Captain Abbey, of the revenue steamer Gallatin, reports an obstruction, either a rock or a wreck, dangerous to navigation, in the channel at the entrance of Gloucester Harbor, Mass. It lies about 200 yards S. by W., from Ten Pound Island ledge and has but ten feet of water on it at low tide, while all around it there are from five to ten fathoms.

SAM PATCH OUTDONE.

Bridge Jumper Steve Brodie Makes Another Perilous Leap.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Steve Brodie, the Bridge jumper, jumped over Passaic Falls, yesterday, and came off without damage.

For the past three months Brodie has entertained an insane idea that it was necessary, in order to perfect his record as a jumper from high elevations, to rival the late lamented Sam Patch by jumping from some of the places which the latter gentleman had honored by his presence. This whim culminated about March 1 in an expensive trip to Rochester, where he was only deterred from jumping over the Genesee Falls, by the fact that there was only five feet of water under them.

It will be remembered that Patch lost his life at this place by jumping from a platform erected at one side of the falls and that his body was not recovered for several days.

After failing in this endeavor Steve looked with longing eyes toward the Passaic Falls, over which Patch jumped with safety a short time previous to his leap at Rochester.

He made an investigation of the falls and decided that it could be done, and yesterday he did it.

A MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

A Hotel-Keeper Leaves Home Secretly Six Weeks Ago.

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J., May 21.—Six weeks ago Alexander Stitt, proprietor of the hotel here, left his home. It was given out that he had gone away for a few days. It was observed, however, that as time wore on and he failed to return his family and a few friends began to grow uneasy.

Now it turns out that six weeks ago Stitt disappeared one morning without taking even a change of clothing or any money with him and that though his friends have been secretly searching for him high and low no trace of him has been discovered yet. Stitt was formerly a conductor on the West Jersey railroad and was very popular with every one. It is feared that he has become mentally deranged or has either wandered away or committed suicide. The affair creates considerable of a sensation in this pretty seashore town.

A Reward for Dr. Cronin's Murderers.

CHICAGO, May 21.—The friends of Dr. Cronin, who so mysteriously disappeared two weeks ago, are so firmly convinced now that Cronin has been made a victim of a conspiracy and foul play and that he has been murdered, that they have offered a reward of $5,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any of his murderers, principals or accessories. To disabuse the public mind of the impression that the Doctor is still alive and that his disappearance was voluntary. His friends have offered a further reward of $2,000 for any satisfactory evidence that will prove that he is not dead and that would lead to the discovery of his whereabouts.

Revision of the Scriptures.

BOSTON, May 21.—At the meeting of the the Baptist Publication society it was announced that the work of revising the Bible Union New Testament is approaching completion, and that work on the revision of the Old Testament is proceeding satisfactorily. Samuel A. Crozer was elected President, Thomas Armitage of New York, H. H. Tucker of Georgia, Edward Goodman of Illinois, Joshua Levering of Maryland, Vice-Presidents; Benjamin Griffith, Secretary, and Charles H. Banes, Treasurer. Rev. Harvey Johnson, of Baltimore, spoke on "Work Among the Freedmen."

A Cyclone in Pennsylvania.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 21.—Shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon a destructive cyclone passed over the northwestern section of Lackawanna county. The greatest fury of the storm was about midway between the villages of Clark's Green and Clark's Summit, where the farm-house of Simon Montgomery and several barns were blown to pieces. Whole orchards were destroyed by the force of the wind, and trees were uprooted all along the path of the storm, which was of but short duration. So far as known no lives were lost.

Grand Encampment, I. O. O. F.

YORK, Pa., May 21.—The Grand Encampment, I. O. O. F. of Pennsylvania met here yesterday. The proposal to admit members at the age of 18 years was defeated. This is understood to also indicate the sentiment of the Grand Lodge which meets to-day. Right Worthy Grand Chief Patriarch Amos Hall, of Philadelphia, and the other newly elected officers were installed.

His Resignation Was Compulsory.

NEW YORK, May 21.—William Pitt Shearman, formerly Commissioner of Accounts, and recently appointed by Controller Myers Supervisor of the Finance department, has resigned that office. It is said that Mayor Grant alleged some irregularity in Mr. Shearman's appointment and compelled his resignation. The salary of the position is $5,000 a year.

Winners at Gravesend.

GRAVESEND, L. I., May 21.—First race, ¾ mile—Jay F. Dee, 1; Guarantee, 2; Fordham, 3. Time, 1:16¾.

Second race, handicap sweepstakes, 1⅛ miles—Diablo, 1; Bordelaise, 2; Barrister, 3. Time, 2:01.

Third race, ¾ mile—Mucilage, 1; Tormentor, 2; Onward, 3. Time, 1:05.

Sixth race, selling, 1 1-16 miles—Inspector B, 1; Gusrantee, 2; Fenelon, 3. Time, 1:53¼.

Wrecked Sailors Brought Home.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—Yesterday the steamer Rockton, Captain Farguhan arrived from Apia Samoa. She brings eight officers and 150 men of the Vandalia and twelve officers and 300 men from the Trenton. Admiral Kimberley ten officers and seventy-five remain at Apia.

WHEN HE IS AT HOME

President Harrison's New Hours of Reception.

SAVING TIME FOR HIS WORK.

The Change Which Has Been Made Will Give Him Many Extra Hours.

Visitors at the White House Yesterday. Senator Farwell Hurrying Up Captain Meredith's Commission—A Number of Fourth-Class Postmasters Appointed. Secretary Noble Visits the Indian School at Carlisle, Pa.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Commencing today the hours of reception at the White House will be changed. Instead of commencing at 11 o'clock the President will remain in Executive session until 11 and on Cabinet days will close promptly at 12. On Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays the time for hearings will be extended to 12:30. On Mondays there will be no reception at all, except the regular public affairs, which will, as in the past, take place at 1 o'clock.

The result of this change, which was announced yesterday by Secretary Halford, will be a saving to the President of at least 6 or 7 working hours in a week and a corresponding degree of increase in the number of appointments made. The diminution of the reception hours will not, therefore, as the office seekers will at first imagine, be an unmixed evil.

The only visitors who saw the President yesterday were Senator Farwell, First Controller Asa Matthews and the venerable Paul Selby, who was for so long the editor of the Illinois State Journal. The Senator was especially interested in Captain Meredith, and wanted to know why his commission as Chief of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing had not been signed. It is believed now that the appointment of Meredith will be announced to-morrow.

The following fourth-class postmasters in New York state have been appointed: John A. Hanna, Dover Plains; H. Stevens, East Campbell; A. Hasner, East Hamlin; Henry Dolan, McDonough; Austin White, New Berlin; William A. Towner, Patterson; S. Pearsall, Pearsalls; J. H. Parker, Pekin; J. B. Anthony, Plymouth; F. R. Nash, Poolville; A. W. Mitchell, Rapids; F. S. Titus, Roslyn; S. C. Ransom, Scriff; F. J. Knapp, Smithsborough; W. H. Comstock, Smyrna; Sidney Smith, Somerset; Scott B. Lewis, South New Berlin.

These have been appointed for Pennsylvania: M. K. Trexeler, Albany; John C. Brown, Allenwood; Jacob Wanner, Cocoosing; J. D. Rockwell, Cole's Creek; J. E. Shope, Cora; Charles Michener, Dewart; C. A. Barney, East Green; S. H. Rhodes, Goldboro Station; W. W. Crotzley, Hayes' Valley; H. W. Ulsh, McClure; Clark W. Brown, Marchand; James L. Trexeler, Mertztown; A. W. Harning, Metal; W. S. Renn, Mile Run; J. B. McManigal, Milroy; John Houston, Penn Run; P. L. Brown, Powell; J. W. Kline, Spring Mount; W. J. Peddicore, Spruce; D. W. Mortar, Thistle; W. F. Loux, Tradesville; J. P. Chaffee, Warren Centre; W. B. Dewey, Wayland; A. B. Lacy, West Auburn.

The following candidates have passed their examination for admission to the Naval Academy: R. F. T. Chains, District of Columbia; R. F. Boyd, Alabama; W. G. Powell, New Jersey.

Secretary and Mrs. Noble are visiting to day the Indian schools at Caslisle, Pa., in which the Secretary is greatly interested.

The statement having been telegraphed over the country that the pension appropriation has become exhausted, Commissioner Tanner expresses the hope that the pensioners will not be unduly alarmed thereby. The fact is that he has simply made the usual requisition which sends the money from the Treasury into the various United States depositories, where it will be subject to the checks of the Pension agents for the June payment.

The Controller of the Currency has authorized the First National bank of Mifflintown, Pa., to begin business with a capital of $50,000.

MRS. FOLSOM MARRIED.

To Mr. Henry E. Perrin, of Buffalo—The Ceremony Performed at Jackson, Mich.

BUFFALO, May 21.—Mrs. Oscar Folsom, the mother of Mrs. Grover Cleveland, was united in marriage last evening at Jackson, Mich., to Mr. Henry E. Perrin, the Secretary of the Buffalo City Cemetery Association.

Mrs. Folsom has been living at Jackson for some time, going there a short time after Mr. Cleveland retired from the White House.

Mr. Perrin is a prominent citizen here and is the father-in-law of J. Barrett Rich, of the Bank of Attica.

Mr. Perrin has been in Jackson for a few days past.

Mrs. Cleveland accompanied by a few friends passed through Buffalo this morning on her way to Jackson

The wedding was a quiet one, and Mr. and Mrs. Perrine will be at home at 39 North Pearl street, this city after this week.

Bank Burglars Boldly Baffled.

FLUSHING, L. I., May 21.—Burglars attempted to force an entrance into the Queens County Savings bank yesterday morning. Their noise aroused the janitor. He was asleep in the upper part of the building. He hastened down stairs to the quarters occupied by the bank and saw three men trying to pry open a window. He opened fire at once, firing three shots from his revolver, but none took effect. The men fled and were pursued by Captain Hance of the village police, who was in the vicinity and was attracted by the firing. He fired upon the fleeing burglars, but they succeeded in reaching a boat awaiting them in Flushing bay and escaped.

—The old name of Ocean Beach has been changed to Belmar, and the question now is how many Summer boarders would rather go to Belmar than to Ocean Beach? The coming season will tell.—Elizabeth Journal.

—South avenue, East of the Netherwood station is in a horrible condition, and needs repairing at once. The late rains have washed the top dressing from the road-bed, leaving the coarse or second size stone exposed.

—There is advertised elsewhere a warning all parents should read to their children. The Trustees of the First Presbyterian cemetery intend to make an example hereafter of those who are caught stealing flowers from the graves.

—Since the Council of 1889 has said that Plainfield should be "dry," Otto Arend, who formerly kept a saloon on East Second street, has moved to "pastures new," and opened a place known as the "Plainfield House," at No. 146 Mulberry street, Newark.

—In the midst of the singing of one of the choir selections, in the Crescent Avenue church, Sunday evening, the electric lights died out but revived again before the organist lost her place. Also during the address of one of the missionaries the lights gasped for life.

—Some of the congregation of the Seventh Day Baptist church, having strongly objected to the future use of that church for the Sunday Unitarian meetings, the Trustees have notified those in charge of such meetings that they cannot have the church again.

—"Pigs in the pen," has had its "run," and it is suggested that the puzzle now be hung on the gate posts and door-knobs for the entertainment of tramps and book agents, so that either may amuse themselves while the mistress is examining the work, or the servant is getting ready the frugal meal.

—After a lengthy engagement in Mr. J.S. Cutter's grocery store, Mr. Wm. H. Bachman has severed his connection with that institution, and is now serving the interests of the Silver Bell Baking Powder Co. Mr. Bachman is well qualified for the business he represents, and all predict for him large sales.

—A young clerk in a New York house, who lives in the Borough, was noticed hurrying from the 11:30 train, the other morning, towards his home. "Hello!" said a friend who met him on Park avenue; "Did you get the bounce?" The sad reply was: "No! but I guess I will when I get back. I left the safe key home."

—The season for Sunday school festivals has arrived, but the scarcity of ice this Summer will have nothing to do with the size of the plates of iced-cream, weighed out by the dainty little waitresses at said festivals.

—Under a new law the salary of the superintendent of public schools for Union county has been increased from $500 to $800. The salary of the same office in Somerset county has also been increased from $691.90 to $907.62.

—A number of boys amused themselves by playing base ball, on the little three-cornered plot of ground in front of the Crescent Avenue church, last evening. This practice should be stopped before the grass is trodden down and killed.

—Mellville P. Hendrickson, general freight and passenger agent, and James Hussey, constructing foreman of the Raritan River Railroad, both of New Brunswick, were released on $10,000 bail each on Saturday. The men were charged with the murder of Geo. Kissinger, in the Sayreville riot on May 5.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Jean Erickson, daughter of Councilman Erickson, is visiting relatives in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. John Weir of Washington Park, North Plainfield, sailed today for Europe, and will be absent about six weeks.

At the close of the morning service in the Congregational church on Sunday, one infant was christened. The ceremony was beautiful and impressive.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Rockhill Potts, of New York, formerly of Plainfield, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. Arrowsmith Hegeman, Jr., of Grove street, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wann of No. 9 West 30th street, New York, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chas Wann and Miss Luther, of Washington Park, on Sunday.

Miss May Tomlinson of LaGrande avenue, has just returned from a visit to Texas where she was the guest of Mrs. Edwin Chamberlin, formerly Miss Addie Gillette of this city.

Among the thousand Presbyterians who sailed down the Bay on a big iron steamer, Saturday, as guests of Col. Elliott F. Shepard, were Councilman and Mrs. J. K. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. I. C Pierson, and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Baynon, of this city.

Rev. Dr. Livermore, of New Market, occupied the desk of the Central Baptist church, at Elizabeth, on Sunday, in the absence from the city of the pastor, Rev. E. T. Tomlinson, Ph.D. In the morning he preached on "Forgiveness." The evening sermon was in regard to "Conscience."

Invitations are out for the marriage of Marie Champion Ohl and John L. Toppin, at the Church of the Reformation, Brooklyn, June 3, at eight o'clock in the evening. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. William H. Ohl, formerly of this city and brother of Mr. Percy C. Ohl of Pemberton avenue.

For the first Sunday in eleven years, Henry Kline, sexton of the Crescent Avenue church, was absent from his post last Sunday. After twenty years faithful service to the church, old age and illness have seemingly broken him down, although his friends hope to see him about the church once more.

Mr. George Wotherspoon of this city, has been engaged as the Director of the Australian tour of "Little Lord Fauntleroy." Mr. Wotherspoon has long been recognized as one of the foremost of New York's musical and dramatic critics, and is chock full of just the experience and ability that will make that tour a success.

Mrs. Matilda Hoagland of Council Bluffs, Iowa, accompanied by her husband, are visiting at the residence of Mrs. Hoagland's brother, Mr. Peter Hoagland, on West Front street, this city. ## "THE IRVING."

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The Meeting Last Evening — Miss Bulkley Reports on the Night School—Plainfield to Receive Over $13,000 of the State School Tax—Other Important Measures Considered.

The City Board of Education held a meeting in the Franklin School building on West Fourth street, last evening.

All the members being present. The Board unanimously decided to name the new school "The Irving Building."

Mr. J. W. Murray reported on the matter of fences, and he was also appointed a Committee of one to look after the diplomas for the forthcoming commencement.

The Committee on wells and flagging reported that such work had been completed at the Monroe street school; also that the well at the Bryant building had been examined and found to be all right.

Sundry claims were presented and ordered paid. Among them was a claim from Street Commissioner Angleman of $50 for extra grading around the "Irving Building." This was returned.

Miss Bulkley made a lengthy report on the matter of night schools, which were discontinued a few weeks ago. The report told of the work accomplished while the night school was in session, the attendance, expense, etc. She stated that the scholars were anxious to have the night sessions resumed next season. Miss Bulkley was given a vote of thanks by the Board.

The State Superintendent reported that Plainfield's share of the State school tax for this year is $13,782.85.

Mr. Murray was appointed a Committee of one to secure music for the commencement exercises. The Board also decided to offer the same prizes or awards of merit as in former years.

Judge Wadsworth was appointed to wait upon Governor Green and extend to him an invitation to be present at the graduating exercises.

The teachers in the various schools were requested to send in their application for reappointment to the Committee on Teachers, after which the meeting adjourned.

That New Pitcher.

Gately, the new pitcher of the Y. M. C. A. Crescents, is a rising one and gives promise of being one day famous. He is steadily improving, and already possesses some of the most marvelous curves. In one original curve of his own, the ball after leaving his hand takes a shoot out towards the batter and appears about to strike him in the side, but as it reaches him and he dodges, the ball turns in and cuts a straight line directly over the plate.

Gately is only 20 years of age, and is now attending school at Washington Heights, in the upper part of New York city. He is practicing pitching every day and hopes to be skillful enough when he is graduated to secure a position in the box of a league club. He is a batter, also, which is unusual in a pitcher.

The Dog Catcher at Work.

Dog-catcher Babbitt has again undertaken the work of gathering in unmuzzled dogs, and judging from the large number of canines which roam the streets, he has a broad field of labor before him. The dog pound is located in the yard at the city jail, but the neighbors have lodged a complaint with the Mayor, claiming that the dog pound is a nuisance, and it is likely that a more desirable place will be selected. Thus far about a dozen dogs have been gathered in.

Our Daily Record Continued.

The news again was beaten yesterday. Every day for a month, now, THE PRESS has published a number of local items of interest of which the news had not a word.

Yesterday's PRESS contained exclusive accounts of the terrible accident to Mr. George Weaver, the gift the Verdon family has made to St. Mary's church, and the coming of Bishop Scarborough and the reception to be tendered him at Councilman Dumont's residence.

At Warren Mission Chapel.

The inclement weather did not materially decrease the attendance at the evening service in Warren Mission chapel on Sunday evening. Councilman Dunham's choristers opened the meeting with a short service of song, after which Mr. Winifred S. Powell, who recently took up his residence in North Plainfield, conducted the devotional exercises.

A Word to the Wise is Sufficient.

In attending a circus be sure to steer clear of the thieves who usually travel with such institutions armed with all sorts of skin games and tricks to rob the unwary. Another way is for the proper authorities to arrest the rascals as soon as they start up any of their schemes.

—Wm. Livingston of Brooklyn, who was arrested at Cranford on a charge of bigamy, was visited in the Elizabeth jail yesterday by May Brown and Minnie Willis, the two young women who claim to be his wives.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER.

How One News-Filcher Loves Another.

To the people of Plainfield who months ago learned that the news in the Plainfield news of each evening is copied from THE PRESS of the days before, it will be a matter of surprise to learn that although only a catch-penny, short-lived advertising sheet, The Commuter of New York mentioned the news as a "newspaper."

The cause of it all is that birds of a feather flock together. One news-filcher likes another. THE PRESS has not the space to spare so unworthy an object, or it could publish much proof of from where The Commuter steals its matter, but the following communication tells part of the story:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I note your animadversion upon The Commuter. A copy of their issue of the 11th inst., came into my hands, and glancing over its contents, I read the description of Dunellen. The familiarity of the language forcibly reminded me of a notice I wrote about a year ago for a gentleman who was engaged in the compilation of a work entitled "Out of Town," and which was published by the Central Railroad of New Jersey and from which this description has been evidently copied entire.

You will perceive what expense and great effort has been necessary to accomplish the "write up" claimed by The Commuter by comparing the same with the work quoted, the main capital required evidently being "scissors and paste."

Yours faithfully,
STANLEY DAY.

New Market, N. J., May 18, 1889.

[We find the article in The Commuter referred to is copied word for word from the Central railroad guide of 1888—Ed.]

Next Saturday's Nine.

The Crescent Y. M. C. A., nine of next Saturday, will be the best that can be put up. They will play the celebrated Tenth Ward club of Newark, one of the strongest amateur teams in this State.

The Crescents will have their hands full but are confident of winning. Gately will pitch and Condon will catch, which is the strongest battery, probably, that Plainfield has ever had.

Then, besides, Mr. Dilts will play and that will promote confidence all through the nine and help stiffen the backs of the players.

McMurray will cover first, and Lee third; Cornwell will play short stop, and Ashworth, Demarest and McLoughlin will fill the field.

A Few Words of Warning.

Two young girls of this city were discovered on Sunday last stealing flowers from the graves of one of the city's cemeteries, and their names are in the possession of THE PRESS. They are respectable girls and, consequently, probably entirely unaware of the enormity of the offence they committed.

It would be a terrible disgrace to them and their families if THE PRESS did not withhold their names, but it is hoped that these few words alone will serve to warn them and everyone else tempted in the same way.

New Jersey's Soldiers.

Old soldiers credited to New Jersey who have their homes in public institutions, number 570. There are 281 of these provided with quarters at the National Soldiers' Home, 36 are cared for in the institutions of other States, while 253 are supported in the institutions of our own State. Old age and disease have made nearly one-half of them unfit to perform manual labor; a small proportion when we reflect that nearly a quarter of a century has elapsed since the surrender at Appomatox.—Ex.

Home Building Loan Association.

The members of the above Association held their regular monthly meeting in their new rooms in the Manning building on West Front street, last evening. The attendance was large, and the business transacted was of a routine nature. Mr. R. B. Keys, the Vice President, resigned, and Mr. J. W. Jackson was elected in his place.

The Association is in a flourishing condition and bids fair to become one of the foremost of its kind in the State.

Plainfield Outdid the State in Rain.

Plainfield's temperature and weather for April, as reported to the State Bureau by M. S. Simpson, M. D., shows the following records of interest:

The fall of rain in this city for the month was 7.25 inches, which was greater than at any other place in New Jersey. Average temperature, 49.2; highest on the 19th, 80.0; lowest on the 5th, 27.0. Number of rainy days, 12; cloudy, 10. Last deadly frost, 23d. Last frozen ground, 14th.

The Opening Bowling Game.

The opening game of the Middlesex Bowling Green Club, for the season of 1889, will take place at the Bowling Court, on Thursday, at 2 p. m. "sharp," when a friendly contest will take place between the Middlesex and Dunellen Clubs. A full attendance and plenty of courage is desired.

The Last Lecture.

The last of the interesting and instructive course of lectures on the doctrines of the Plymouth Brethren, will be delivered by Mr. F. W. Grant in Reform Hall, this evening. Subject: "The church; what is it?" Admission free.

A Valuable Work.

James Crosby of Oneida county, New York, is now in Plainfield showing Johnson's Universal-Cyclopædia, a work of real merit. It has 33 Departments, with an editor of the highest scholarly standing for each. Thousands of distinguished persons have declared it to be the best Cyclopædia for general reference.

It is not only the best Cyclopædia but it is a whole library of "universal knowledge" from the pens of the greatest scholars the world has produced. 2,000 of the most eminent scholars living have become responsible for the accuracy and thoroughness of the work, by signing their names to their contributions. Do not fail to examine "Johnson's" before purchasing any other.

Mr. Crosby has a number of testimonials from our best citizens, who have the work. The following speaks for itself:

Mr. James Crosby:

DEAR SIR:—I have looked over the encyclopædia you left with me, and can unhesitatingly say that to my mind for all laymen, Johnson's Encyclopædia is the best I have yet seen. It is a library in itself. It contains one special article, (I believe) worth the price of the entire work! I should be pleased to avail myself of your offer did I not already have a set.

Plainfield, May 13, 1889.

J. E. MARTINE.

The Amphion Society of Elizabeth.

The tickets for the second concert of the Amphion Society of Elizabeth, to be given at the Opera House in that city, next Monday evening, will be placed on sale in Plainfield, in a day or two.

The Elizabeth Journal says: "Only once before has an oratorio ever been attempted in Elizabeth and so the progress made in rehearsing Haydn's "Creation" has been watched very closely by some of the best musical critics, and they now say that no one need go to New York to hear an oratorio while there is at home a society so capable of singing such a difficult and grand piece as the "Creation." Some say the society aim high in attempting such a work, but those who attend the concert next Monday will see that under the excellent training of Mr. W. C. Williams the society will do all and more than has been expected of them."

The soloists of the evening will be: Miss Lizzie Webb Cary, soprano; Mr. Charles E. Rice, tenor; Dr. Carl E. Martin, bass.

Memorial Day at Somerville.

May 30th promises to be a lively day in Somerville. In the morning the Third Regiment, N. G. N. J., will have an inspection and drill, which will be participated in by about five hundred citizen soldiery, and will be a sight worth seeing.

In the afternoon the G. A. R. will hold appropriate services. There will be an oration by General James F. Rusling, of Trenton, music by the Crescent Band of Raritan, and the vocal music will be in charge of A. P. Sutphen, Esq. Afterward the graves will be strewn with flowers, in which the Third Regiment will participate.

Governor Green and staff, and Gen. Bird W. Spencer have accepted invitations to be present.

We Know Just Such a Man.

An exchange publishes the following: "WANTED—An editor who can read, write and argue politics, and at the same time be religious, funny, scientific and historical at will; write to displease everybody, know everything without asking or being told, always have something bad to say about somebody else, live on wind, and make more enemies than money. For such a man a good opening will be made—in the graveyard."

For the State Championship.

Frank Class, of Pine Brook, having challenged any pigeon shot in the State, his "defi" has been accepted by Mr. John Riggott, of Rockaway, and a match for $100 a side, at fifty birds each, has been arranged to take place on the Dover ball grounds on Saturday, June 1. The boundary has been fixed at 50 yards and Hurlingham rules will govern. The loser is to defray all expenses.

Thrown From His Machine.

Walter Long, a young son of Dr. M. B. Long, was speeding along Park avenue on his velocipede, in the neighborhood of Sixth street, last evening, when one of the wheels on the machine came off, and the little fellow narrowly escaped a serious accident by colliding with a tree. The boy was thrown from the velocipede, but jumped up and at once began to make repairs.

A Conductor Killed.

William Miller, aged 25, a conductor of a freight train on the Central Railroad, fell between the cars of his train at Elizabethport, N. J., last evening and sustained injuries from which he died in the City Hospital. Miller leaves a wife and one child.

—Myself and daughter have used Dr. Dam's Remedy for that weak, tired feeling and headache, and find it excellent.—Mrs. M. E. Taylor, E. Front street.

Weather Indications.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

Farmer Weatherby the Defendant in a Charge Made by a Colored Girl.

WILTON, N. J., May 21.—Benjamin Weatherby, a well-known farmer residing near here, is in trouble and the affair creates a sensation for miles around this neighborhood.

Minnie Jones, a colored girl, the daughter of Rev. Benjamin Jones, has been living with Mrs. Weatherby. Recently the girl gave birth to a child. Her mother appeared before Justice Cassady in Camden and made a complaint against Weatherby on a charge of ruining her daughter, who is not yet fourteen years of age. The matter is before the present grand jury. To add to the sensational part of the affair, this is the second child this child-mother has had. She gave birth to the first one when just a trifle past twelve years of age. At that time she accused two well-known young men with its paternity. Now she avers that she was compelled to keep silent by Weatherby, and declares he accomplished her ruin at that time.

Attacked by an Armed Mob.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 21.—A Parkersburg, W. Va., special says that the detectives who have been seeking evidence in Tyler county regarding the recent murder of Jacob Morgan, were attacked by an armed mob who surrounded the house where they were stopping. The detectives refused a demand to surrender, and fired on the mob, who returned the fire, riddling the house with bullets. Detective Gale was wounded in the arm. One of the assailants was reported to be mortally wounded and two others badly hurt. The mob finally withdrew. The detectives have sent for reenforcements, and are preparing for another attack. There is much excitement in the vicinity. The mob are supposed to be partisans of relatives of Morgan who are under suspicion of being the murderers.

Hard Cider Induces Murder.

CLEVELAND, O., May 21.—A special from Boston, O., states that some tank builders working on the Standard Oil pipe line, procured several jugs of hard cider from farmers, yesterday, and got intoxicated. Two brothers named Winger became involved in a quarrel with John Portelle and clubbed him so severely that he died to-day of his injuries. They were arrested and placed in jail at Akron.

A Reduction in Wages.

The funeral services over the remains of the dead mind reader, Washington Irving Bishop, were solemnized in Grace Church, New York, Monday afternoon.

The American burglars, Guerin and Dennin, who were convicted in Paris of robbing the Societe Lyonnaise, have been sentenced to ten years imprisonment each.

The body of Timothy Starr, aged 75 of Rutland, who wandered away on May 13 was found Monday in Otter Creek, Proctor, Vt. He had probably been dead several days.

A fire Sunday afternoon at Howard City, Mich., destroyed the Baptist Church, the Opera House, Nather's bank, besides several grocers and other business places, and eleven dwelling houses.

Mrs. Warren Rowland, a middle-aged woman, residing at Five Mile River, was run over by a freight train at Washington street crossing, South Norwalk, Conn. Both her legs were severed. She died instantly.

Henry Irving has announced his intention to shortly revive at Lyceum theatre, in London, Philipps' drama "The Dead Heart," which was produced by Webster at the Adelphi theatre in 1859. Mr. Bancroft has consented to act the part of Abbe Latour.

The London manager of the English and Scottish Law Life Assurance company states that there remains in the hands of the concern a surplus of £830, which would ordinarily be due to the heirs of Pigott. The suicide of the informer nullifies the policies on his life, but owing to the distressing circumstances of his children the full amount will be paid to the orphans.

A Double Tragedy.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—At Presidio today Donald McDonald, a sergeant in the regular army, shot and killed Ethel Anderson, a young woman with whom he had been living, and then shot himself dead. Jealousy is supposed to have led to the tragedy.

The Visit of King Humbert to Berlin.

GRAND PREPARATIONS MADE.

Magnificent Arches Erected and All Berlin Decorated in Gala Style.

British Caterers Dismayed Because No Barmaids Are Allowed to Serve at the Paris Exposition—Henri Rochefort Under Bonds to Keep the Peace—London Physicians Think that the Bishop Autopsy Was Premature.

LONDON, May 21.—The decoration of Berlin in honor of the visit of King Humbert of Italy and his son, the Prince of Naples, is of the most elaborate description.

The railway station at which he will alight from the special train in which he is travelling is profusely draped with Italian and German flags, banners, streamers, etc., and upon the square adjoining the station a magnificent arch has been erected, under which the Italian delegations will greet the royal visitor. Directly in front of the arch stands a colossal figure of Berolina. In the Potsdamer platz a superb temple has been erected, and in Opera square, between the Imperial Opera house and the Palace has been placed an allegorical group representing Germany and Italy in the closest bonds of friendship.

The directors of the Italian Benevolent society of Berlin desired to figure prominently in the reception of the King, as did also the heads of several other Italian associations, but in pursuance of a suggestion from Rome the police will only permit delegates representing these societies to present addresses. The decision is a sad blow to the vanity of several would-be orators who had prepared and rehearsed speeches of welcome.

As all of the principal streets will be closed after 9 o'clock in the morning, traffic will necessarily be suspended during the day.

The British caterers are stricken with dismay at the unlooked for oppositon of the Prefect of Police of Paris to the employment of female attendants at the cafes, bars and brasseries at the Exposition.

The British barmaid has long been a standard attraction at the "publics" of her native land and an object of admiration to the British swell of loud tendencies, and this class of visitors will feel sadly chagrined that there may be no opportunity to contrast the charms of the haughty native dispenser of bitter beer or sherry with those of the Hebes of other countries.

It is understood, however, that the movement is not due to the Prefect's being afflicted with a sudden spasm of morality, which might arouse grave doubts as to his sanity, but to the representations of the powerful male waiters' union.

M. Henri Rochefort was arraigned this morning at the Vine Street Police Court, charged with assaulting the artist M. Pilotel Saturday on Regent street. It was proved that M. Rochefort had pointed a revolver at M. Pilotel, and threatened to shoot him. The Magistrate bound M. Rochefort in the sum of £150 to keep the peace for six months.

Ex-Minister McLane was received to-day by President Carnot. Mr. McLane presented his letters of recall.

The President will receive Mr. Reid, the new Minister to-morrow.

Further hearing was given to-day to the case of the persons arrested at the Field club for gambling last week. Mr. Seaton, the proprietor of the club was fined £500. The others were discharged.

It is denied that the mother of Lord Dudley, who was among those arrested, gave the police information which led to the raid.

The authorities are determined to suppress the numerous gambling clubs of London.

There is no little doubt that the Aged Workmen's Insurance bill will be passed by the Reichstag. It is understood that the members of the parties usually supporting the Government, but opposed to this particular measure, will absent themselves when a vote is taken on the question of passing the bill and its success is therefore virtually assured.

The striking miners of Westphalia resumed work to-day at increased wages and the strike is therefore over. The strikers' committee however, will remain on permanent watch to see that the agreements of the employes are carried out and the strike will be renewed if faith is not kept. The situation in Silesia is unchanged.

While an immense crowd of people were assembled to witness the landing of a new cruiser at Trieste to-day, three petards were thrown at the palace of the Stadthalter by Irridentists. The noise caused by the explosion of the bombs created a panic under cover of which the miscreants escaped.

Two prominent physicians of London, who were personally well acquainted with the late Washington Irving Bishop, the mind reader, and who have received from New York a detailed account of his presumed death at the Lambs club, unhesitatingly express their opinion that the subsequent autopsy was prematurely performed.

As a result of the absolute divorce recently granted to Mrs. Agnes Boucicault from her husband, Dion Boucicault, the Sheriff will almost immediately sell the English copyrights of nineteen of Boucicault's plays and turn over the proceeds to his former wife.

Mrs. Weldon is about to bring a legal action for damages against Henri Rochefort, claiming that he libeled her in his comments in L'Intransigeant on her contention that she was the author of an opera which Gounod claimed to have written.

The Naval Defense bill passed its third reading in the House of Commons last night by a vote of 183 to 101.

The Parisians are greatly annoyed at the fact that the American and part of the British section of the Exhibition was closed on Sunday.

A Boston Cashier in Limbo.

BOSTON, May 21.—William B. Darby, cashier of the Mutual District Messenger Company, of this city, is now under arrest at Police Headquarters on a charge of embezzling $10,000 from the Western Union Telegraph Company.

BRITAIN'S STRONG ARM.

To Be Extended to the Defense of the Pacific Coast of Canada.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 21.—The Canadian Government has received a cablegram from the Imperial authorities stating that work on the Pacific coast defenses will be commenced this summer.

The Home Government have always been keenly alive to the importance of coast fortifications on the Pacific coast, especially at and about the Esquimault terminus of the Canadian Pacific railway as well as the arsenal of the British Navy on the Pacific. Last year the British Admiralty detailed an officer to make a careful examination of the coast of British Columbia between Vancouver and Esquimault with the object of deciding upon sites for the erection of batteries commanding entrances to Puget Sound and protecting Esquimault. Recommendations were made but nothing was done until lately when the British Government, stirred up to activity by the renewal of negotiations by the Government at Washington regarding the Behring Sea question, decided that the work on coast defenses should be commenced at once.

Hon. G. E. Foster, Minister of Finance, speaking to a reporter to-day regarding a statement published in a San Francisco paper, to the effect that the British Government were contemplating a scheme for the transformation of the entrances to Puget Sound into a second Gibraltar, said the expression "second Gibraltar" was too strong, but it was the intention of the Canadian and Imperial authorities to make great improvements in the defenses of the Pacific seaboard ports, especially Esquimault. If the Americans object, he said, to our establishing batteries commanding the entrances to Puget Sound, why let them build forts on the opposite side of the straits.

MRS. AYER'S PLAINT.

She Says that She Is Conspired Against and Defrauded.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Mrs. Harriet Hubbard Ayer has brought suit against the Recamier Manuacturing company, its officials, including the banker James M. Seymour's treasurer, also her daughter Harriet, who is the wife of Seymour's son; alleging that they conspired to defraud her of a majority interest in the stock of the company, for which she had given value in the shape of recipes etc., She charges that Seymour falsfied his accounts; that he led her daughter to believe her insane; that he caused dangerous drugs to be given her by physicians in order to ruin her bodily and mental healte: that he brok intoe her rooms in her absence and stole letters and recipes; that he forged her name to documents, and otherwise defrauded her.

The defendants claim that the stock in question never belonged to Mrs. Ayer; and that she is suffering from the effects of alcohol and the morphine habit.

Judge Daly reserved decision on a motion to restrain Seymour from voting the disputed stock at the coming election of the company.

She Threw Him and He Died.

CLEVELAND, O., May 21.—Arthur Frazier, captain of an Ohio canal boat, with his wife, called on Edward Howe and wife, near Hawkins, yesterday. In the course of conversation Mrs. Howe said: "There has never been a man here that I couldn't throw." Frazier told her that she couldn't throw him. They clinched and after a few moments' tug Mrs. Howe threw Mr. Frazier on his back on a lounge and the next minute he was a corpse, supposedly from rupture of an artery.

The Difficulty to Be Arbitrated.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 21.—Rathborne Sard, & Co., have agreed to submit the difficulty existing between them and their molders to a committee of arbitration to be selected by the Mayor of the city. Pending the action of the arbitrators the company agreed to resume operations to day in shops 4 and 5 and in the others as soon as they can be made ready. By the opening of these shops about 400 men will be set to work at once.

The Neversink Sets Sail.

BOSTON, May 21.—The life-boat yacht Neversink sailed yesterday for Paris where she will be placed on exhibition. She is commanded by Captain Josiah Lawler, who is accompanied by Hans Hansen and Edward S. McKinley. She is a keel boat, 36 feet over all, 30 feet on the water line, 12 feet beam, and 5 feet 6 inches draught with plum stem and a yard rig, and carries enough provisions for fifty days.

A Big Worsted Syndicate.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The German syndicate composing the Botany Worsted Mills company has finally decided to locate its new works at Passaic, N. Y., on the Dundee canal near the line of the Erie railroad. A tract of thirty acres has been purchased which it is proposed to cover with buildings, one of which, while only one story high, will be 1,000 feet long by 1,000 feet wide.

"Boodler" McQuade's Trial.

BALLSTON, N. Y., May 21.—All motions in the boodle Alderman McQuade case have been reserved till the 27th inst. Col. Fellows gave notice that he would then move to set the case down for some day before the next term of the court. The defendant's attorney, Mr. Newcombe, said that he would ask that the case go over to the next term.

It Will Cause Trouble.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 21.—The nailers at Jones & Laughlin's American Iron works have accepted a reduction of 35 per cent. on cold nails and 12½ per cent on hot nails. This is against the Amalgamated association rules and will probably cause trouble. The feeders refused to accept the reduction, and are on strike.

Wife-Murderer Wilson in Custody.

NEW YORK, May 21.—Charles Wilson, who shot and killed his young wife Sunday night, has been arrested.

IN SHARP CONTRAST.

The Model as Painted by an Artist and as Seen in Real Life.

"Womanhood"—a background of misty gray, shadows soft and dreamy, a woman floating through the shadows, with white arms raised high above her head, clothed only in thin, gray draperies, trailing and fading into the clouds in which she floated. Every curve of the gleaming white limbs, every line of the slender body was revealed by the clinging, transparent folds, which only heightened the loveliness they could not conceal, and fell away softly from the full, white throat and snowy breast. The face was uplifted and turned slightly away, in an exquisite pose, but something in the chaste lines of the beautiful figure revealed all the purity, sacredness and ideality of womanhood. Men, says the New York Sun, looked at the picture with earnest faces, women's chatter hushed as they approached it. "It almost makes me cry, it is so pure and beautiful," said a pretty, impulsive girl. "I could be always good if it hung in my room." The artist stood in the angle of the railing as the people crowded up to see his work, and some one said: "Is it an ideal figure?" to which he answered: "I painted it from life, except the face, which is idealized a little."

High up in an old tenement-house with dark passages, and up tumble-down stairs, in a tiny room a woman sat crouching over a smoking fire, endeavoring to coax its coals into life and warmth. Her dress was old and faded and soiled, a tear on the shoulder revealing the white flesh; her shoes were ragged and down at the heel, fastened by one or two buttons; her hands were smirched with coal dust. A frowsy boy came banging into the room with a bun in one hand and a greasy newspaper in the other. "Here's the paper the boss sent up to your man, and is he any better, he says."

"He is worse," answered the woman, apathetically, as she took up the paper and went into another tiny room where, on a ragged couch, a man with consumption was watching her with burning eyes. She turned the paper to the art notes, and, after a little search, said: "The picture has sold for $1,000, and I only had $20 for the pose, and it was so hard and made my arms ache so I couldn't fix 'em in the night so I could go to sleep. The coal's nearly out and the rent isn't paid, and your medicine is all gone."

"What was the pose, Annie?"

"This. See!" She raised slowly on one toe and threw her hands above her head. The clinging, limp, faded dress outlined curves of gracious beauty, the soiled sleeves fell back from dimpled white arms; the hands, save where the coal smirches blackened them, were white as snow, and they were faultless in shape. Through the rent in her dress the bare shoulder gleamed like marble, and the loosely-fastened collar slipped back from a full, beautiful throat, the gray dusk of the twilight shrouded her with dreamy shadows and the uplifted face was turned away.

A FEMALE LOBBYIST.

How She Manages to Gather Honey from Every Honey-Bearing Flower.

"A fine figure of a woman," as Joe Gargery observes in "Great Expectations," passes by into the Capitol, sweeping undergarniture of silk and genuine seal fur with as broad spread of canvas as the yachts Puritan or Volunteer. Her age ranges probably between forty and forty-five, her figure is practicaly embonpoint, but her face is rosy with health and her features still preserve the stamp of beauty. Her eyes are big and gray, scintillating under the flashes of dark eyelashes and brows, and were her attire less pronounced she would be styled elegant. This lady enters the reception room, and sends her card to several members, who at once respond; and soon she is surrounded by a coterie of conscript fathers, vieing with each other in playing the gallant. She jests and jokes with them all, inviting them to call at her residence, and, having played her cards adroitly, leaves the Capitol in a well-appointed coupe, with the driver in livery. Sometimes she is accompanied by her daughter, a pretty girl of eighteen, and a splendid type of the blonde.

This lady is a professional lobbyist, and plies her vocation with marked success. Whispers in the air are heard occasionally in criticism of her private character from those of her own sex, but, says the gallant correspondent of the Kansas City Times, neither man nor woman has ever brought forward an accusation direct and positive so far as it is generally known. She has had her fingers, however, in many a Congressional pie, whereof she received a slice of greater or lesser proportions, and no one is more thoroughly posted in the avenues and channels of legislation. She obtains a copy of every bill introduced and of the reports thereon, and if the game be worth the candle, hunts up its history and parentage. Then when the case is thoroughly digested she offers to make or mar, as the case may be, wherever the best financial opportunity is presented, and her efforts are usually attended with success. She is shrewd, and gathers honey from every honey-bearing flower.

RATS CARRYING EGGS.

An Omaha Man Watches the Performance and Describes It.

L. L. Cloud, of Omaha, in a Chicago paper says: Last summer the girl kept complaining that she could never find any eggs in the barn. I did not think much of it at first, but finally when the complaint was repeated almost every day I began to think it was rather strange that we should not get more than three or four eggs when we had at least five dozen hens, and so determined to look into the matter. It was more than a week, though, before I solved the mystery, and then it was merely by accident. I was standing in the barn one Sunday morning when a hen came cackling from her nest in the manger, and a few minutes after a big rat came from his hole, ran across the barn and climbed into the manger. I could hear him, and was idly watching to see what he was doing, when you can imagine my surprise to see him rolling the egg in front of him toward the edge of the manger. After a good many efforts he finally succeeded. He paused there, gathering the egg up under his "chin;" he rolled himself completely around it, resembling the form of a hedgehog when alarmed, then he deliberately rolled over the edge of the manger, and dropped squarely on his back on the floor, two feet below, thus saving the egg whole. Immediately he began to squeal with all his strength, and just as I was starting to put him out of his misery, thinking he had broken his back in the fall, two other rats appeared on the scene. They ran up to the first one, as he lay on the floor, and each seizing hold of a hind leg began to drag him, egg and all, across the barn. Just as they reached the hole, and the first old grizzled follow disappeared, pushing the egg in front of him, it dawned on me that I had at last found out where our eggs had been going.

Journalism in Missouri.

A Missouri weekly asks its readers to excuse lack of editorial matter by explaining that the editor is "now lying in bed, with one foot in the grave, while four of the best physicians of the town surround our couch and sew up the gaping wounds which disfigure us." He fell over a cow which was lying on the sidewalk.

MRS. BAKER'S ARREST.

How a Landlady Got Rid of a Burglar Attired in Feminine Apparel.

I had just been reading in an evening paper the account of a bold daylight burglary that had occurred that day only a block or so from my boarding-place, writes C. M. Rockwell in the Woman's Journal. The thief was a notorious one, and his ingenious manner of operation and the details of his capture occupied a prominent place in the evening papers.

As I finished, my landlady entered the parlor, and I said: "This affair was unpleasantly near us, wasn't it, Mrs. Emery?"

"Yes," she replied; "it reminds me of an adventure I had with a burglar, though I got rid of mine more easily."

I suppose she saw by my face that I wanted to hear about it, for after giving the fire a few cheering pokes, she took out her knitting and sat down, while I, who prefer my dolce far niente without fancy work, settled myself to listen, feeling that I merited entertainment after my day's work.

"About five years ago," she said, beginning on story and brilliant hosiery at the same time, "one Saturday evening, my son and I were alone in the house, my one boarder having left that day, and my husband being out of the city for a week. Joe was only twelve, but I wasn't timid at all, and about half-past seven we were sitting in here, reading, when the door-bell rang. Joe went to the door, and in a moment showed a lady in. She was very nice looking, medium size, dressed quite elegantly in black, and with a pleasant face, and dark brown hair, which she wore in curls. She was apparently about thirty. She asked if I was Mrs. Emery, and I said I was. She said she had come in that afternoon from Reading to attend the Temperance convention then going on in —— Hall, and as she was not acquainted in the city, she had asked one of the ladies to tell her of a good boarding-place near the hall where she could stay over Sunday, and she had been directed here. She also mentioned that a lady connected with the K—— Mission Sunday-school had asked her to deliver an address there in the morning. This sounded all right, and I told Mrs. Baker, as she called herself, my terms for the room, which she said were satisfactory; and then she said she would first go to the evening session of the convention, and come back and take it.

"So she started out, but came back in about ten minutes, saying that she found herself too tired to walk to the hall, and that she would go right to bed. I took her up to the room—the same one you have now, Miss Leslie—and then I came down and thought it over. It was queer, I thought, and I felt a little uneasy, but a bright idea struck me.

"One of the ladies connected with the K—— Mission lived right in the next block, and I was slightly acquainted with her. I knew nothing concerning the school happened without her knowledge; so, telling Joe to be on the watch a little, I went around and inquired about Mrs. Baker. Miss Greene knew nothing about any such person, and was sure the school had had nothing to do with her—in fact, they had engaged a gentleman from Germantown to address the school. This didn't make me feel any more comfortable. I next thought I would interview Mrs. Baker again, and get a little more definite information about her. So I went up and knocked, but got no answer, tried the door and found it locked.

"You know my room is just behind that one, and communicates with it by a door in the end of the closet, papered over, and hooked on my side. I next opened that door and entered her room, as her closet door was wide open.

"The gas was turned low, and Mrs. Baker in bed, evidently asleep. I walked toward the bed, and as I passed the bureau, noticed a big bunch of brown curls on it, and her black dress near by on a chair. As I went on, rather amused at the quantity of false hair, I stumbled against something, which on investigation proved to be a bona fide pair of masculine trousers, suspenders and all. I was rather startled, and looked at the bed. Only Mrs. Baker's head and one arm were visible, but the hair on that head was a light auburn and cut very short, and the sleeve on that arm was of dark gray flannel, and buttoned at the wrist. This was remarkable, to say the least, and I went down-stairs again without waking her, and after holding a little council of war with Joe—a sensible little chap, if I do say it—I sent him for a policeman. The station isn't far, so Joe was back in a few minutes. After hearing his story, they sent a skillful detective, and I took him up to the room.

"We both went in, and I walked over and turned up the gas, and said 'Mrs Baker!' pretty loud. The person in bed waked up, looked confused a moment, then said: 'Oh, is that you, Mrs. Emery?' in what sounded like an assumed falsetto to my suspicious ears. But just then the officer came in sight, and Mrs. Baker's voice dropped suddenly to an excited bass and made some remarks that were unladylike, to say the least, while the owner made a quick motion toward the little valise on a chair by the bed. But the detective was quicker, and snatched it first. I retired then, and as I went out heard the officer say: 'Now, Mr. Jim Warren, I shall have to trouble you to dress yourself and come with me.'

"I went down and told Joe, who was on the stairs, wild with excitement, how the thing had turned out, and in about five minutes the officer and his prisoner went out at the front door.

"After landing him securely in the station, the detective came back after the valise which he had forgotten. He said that he had recognized the man as soon as he saw him, and that he was well known to the police, who had been looking for him for several months.

"The valise contained a revolver, a small, dark lantern, some skeleton keys, and a few other small articles, which I don't remember.

"I don't know how the fellow happened to be caught napping, so nicely, but he probably felt so safe that he was off his guard. Perhaps he didn't mean any mischief, and only wanted a little needed rest; but I'm very glad I got rid of him as I did."

Japanese Kindness.

A picture of Japanese life drawn by Prof Morse shows such a pleasant relation existing between the human and the brute creation that no Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is needed: Birds build their nests in the city houses, wild fowl, geese and ducks alight in the public parks, wild deer trot about the street. He had actually been followed by wild deer in the streets, nibbling melon rind out of his hand, as tame as calves and lambs on our Michigan farms. A dog goes to sleep in the busiest streets; men turn aside so as not to disturb him. One day a beautiful heron alighted on the limb of a tree, and the busy, jostling throng stopped. Every man's hand went into his pocket, just as they would with us, but instead of bringing out a "popper," out came pencil and sketching paper.

A Little Mixed in Speech.

"Mamma," said little Harold, as he stood by the window one day, "there goes Mrs. Smif wiv an umbersol over his head and his rubber gothamer and it isn't waning. Isn't he a funny woman? I think she are."

Unfermented Wine in the Sacrament.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 21.—The Reformed Presbyterian General Synod at Tarentum yesterday, discussed with considerable warmth a proposal to use unfermented wine in the sacrament, and finally postponed the question indefinitely.

WITH BAT AND BALL

The Races of the Clubs for the Pennants.

NEW YORK BEATS PITTSBURG.

Chicago Drops a Game to the Team from the National Capital.

Louisville Gets the Best of Baltimore and Cincinnati Downs Columbus—St. Louis Loses to the Athletics and Brooklyn Turns the Tables on Kansas City—The Atlantic Association Games—Many Contests Prevented by Rain—The Scores.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Boston still leads in the League race, with Philadelphia second and New York third. There were only two League games yesterday. Pittsburg has gone ahead of Indianapolis.

Brooklyn's victory over Kansas City enabled the Bridegrooms to again take second place in the Association race. The Cincinnatis have tied the Athletics.

NEW YORKS WIN IN THE MUD.

There was no fog at St. George yesterday, but the ball teams had plenty of mud, which was in some respects worse than the fog. The Giants played in good luck, and as they put up a little better game at the bat than their opponents they came off victors.

WASHINGTON DEFEATS CHICAGO.

WASHINGTON, May 22. — The Senators braced up yesterday and played ball in championship style, defeating Anson's men in a decisive manner.

BROOKLYN WINS AT KANSAS CITY.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 22.—The Brooklyns won a hard-fought game from the Cowboys yesterday by a lucky bunching of hits and erratic fielding of the home team at critical points of the game, assisted by a rank decision of Goldsmith's in the fifth inning when he called Foutz safe at the home plate on a clean put out.

WHIPPED IN TEN INNINGS.

ST. LOUIS, May 22.—The Athletics, after ten innings of hard fighting, captured a game from the Browns yesterday. Both King and Weyhing pitched effectively, but the former was sized up by Cross in the tenth inning for a long drive to the bulletin board sending Fennelly, who had reached first on balls, across the plate with the winning run.

AND THE REDS WON IT.

COLUMBUS, May 22.—The second game between Columbus and Cincinnati yesterday was a medley of hits and errors.

NOT AN ERROR FOR LOUISVILLE.

LOUISVILLE, May 21.—Louisville won yesterday afternoon by good playing. Kilroy was batted hard, while Stratton was a puzzler to the visitors. Louisville played without an error.

JERSEY CITY, 10; HARTFORD, 0.

HARTFORD, May 22.—The Hartfords played a very loose game yesterday and were shut out. Both teams batted lightly. Daley struck out ten men.

WORCESTER, 11; EASTON, 4.

WORCESTER, May 22.—Rain fell at intervals during yesterday's game, and the ball was wet and difficult to handle.

WESTINGHOUSE VS. EDISON.

The Arguments in the Great Electric Light Suit Begun.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 22.—Associate Justice Bradley, of the United States Supreme Court began the hearings in the Circuit Court yesterday of arguments in the suit for infringement of patents between the Westinghouse and Edison companies. He was accompanied on the bench by Judge McKennan.

There was a good-sized audience present, which included any amount of legal and scientific knowledge, such as has seldom been congregated in the dingy old court room.

Mr. Whetmore, for the plaintiffs, stated that Hon. John Dalzell would open the case for his side, and that Mr. Broadnax and himself would speak in reply to the arguments of the defense. Mr. Lowrie, for the defense, stated that there would be three speeches on that side.

Mr. Dalzell then opened the arguments for the complainants.

All the testimony to be submitted and commented on is printed and has been in process of collection for years.

The arguments in the case will occupy nearly, if not quite, one week.

During Mr. Dalzell's speech he stated that Mr. Lowry, one of Mr. Edison's attorneys, had personally visited the Sawyer-Mann works, and had subsequently informed Mr. Edison of the plans of their lamp.

Mr. Lowry opened the case for the defense and claimed that the Edison patent was entirely different from the Sawyer-Mann patent, that Edison used bamboo carbons shaped like a horseshoe, whereas the other was simply a straight carbon.

He was very indignant at what he termed "Mr. Dalzell's imputation against his character," and denounced his personal remarks as "ungentlemanly and without cause and a thing for which he would not accept an apology."

A SEARCH FOR CHEAP FUEL.

Erastus Wiman Controls a Method of Utilizing Coal Dust.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 22.—The interest felt here in cheap fuel is intensified by the experiments now going on at the establishment of Moorhead & Bros., by which pulverized coal is brought into actual competition by the process controlled by Erastus Wiman of New York. It has been running for a week at these works with remarkable results.

It is claimed that 4,600 pounds of iron were drawn in an hour with a charge of 700 pounds of coal, which is alleged to be the cheapest run ever made, because the refuse coal which is used costs less than fifty cents per ton.

A public test is to be made on the 27th, at which Mr. Wiman and his associates are to be present. Mr. Wiman is to be the guest of the Chamber of Commerce in the afternoon, having been invited to address the members at their regular meeting, the subject being "A Commerce that Should be Continental."

Pittsburg's May Festival.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 22.—The opening of the May festival in the new Exposition building last night was a brilliant success in every particular. The artists engaged are among the best in the world while the chorus was both large and perfectly trained. The concert is under the management of Mr. Carl Retter. The performances will continue throughout the week with two matinees. The advance sale of boxes and seats is very large.

Little Evidence Against Him.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 22.—In the Criminal court this morning John and Gale Wyly, charged with being accessories to the Hawes murderers last December, were released on their own recognizance. They have been in jail since January. There is very little evidence against them and witnesses could not be found. The case against Albert Patterson, colored, on the same charge was nolle prossed.

To Visit His Mother's Birth-place.

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., May 22.—United States Treasurer Huston, while on a visit here, stated that President Harrison intends this summer to make a visit to his mother's birth-place, ten miles from here, in Franklin county. The old stone house in which she was born is still standing. She was Elizabeth Irwin, daughter of Archibald Irwin.

To Furnish News to Fishermen.

OTTAWA, Ont., May 22.—An intelligence department for the purpose of supplying fishermen with information as to the movements of feed and bait fishes is to be established at Halifax. The reports received daily will be mapped, so that the movements of the fish can be seen at a glance and bulletins will be issued as occasion may require.

A Victory for Magee.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 22.—The contest for the control of the Republican County committee between the Magee, Flinn and Quay factions, has resulted in a victory for Magee, who, at the County convention, secured 58 votes against 22 cast for the Quay men.

A Street-Car Driver Killed.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 22.—Austin H. Reed, a street-car driver, was killed on Modroe avenue avenue yesterday afternoon. He leaned out to look at a runaway when his head came in contact with a telegraph pole fracturing his skull.

Firebugs in Clinton.

ROME, N. Y., May 22.—The Miller block in Clinton was burned yesterday. Other buildings were damaged. Loss $12,000; insurance $6,300. The origin of the fire is supposed to be incendiary.

$25,000 for Rutger's College.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 22.—President Gates, of Rutger's college, has received from an unnamed friend of the institution in New York a gift of $25,000 for the endowment fund.

On the Field of Honor.

PARIS, May 22.—M. Lockroy and M. de la Berge, members of the Chamber of Deputies, fought a duel to-day, in which the former was slightly injured.

WASHINGTON TOPICS

Treasury Subordinates Welcome Their Colored Chief.

NO SHOW OF RESERVE MADE.

Ex-Representative Lynch Greeted by a Hearty Reception.

There Are Two Robert F. Porters—One Is the Superintendent of the Census and the Other Is a Crank—A New Classification for Bar-Room Bitters—The President's Visitors—Many Postmasters Appointed—Jottings from the Capital.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Ex-Representative Lynch, the newly-appointed Fourth Auditor of the Treasury, took charge of his office yesterday. There was no show of reserve on the part of the clerks and sub-officials of the office in welcoming a colored man as chief. General Sheiley, before retiring, assembled the entire force of the office in his room and introduced them to Mr. Lynch.

MR. PORTER HAS A DOUBLE.

Mr. Porter, the Superintendent of the Census, has discovered that he has a namesake living in Indiana. In fact his attention was called to the matter by the gentleman himself, who wrote to inform Superintendent Porter that the President evidently intended to appoint him, but that he would waive all claim to the position, providing that the emoluments of the office were equally divided with him. The Indiana Porter says that he was in the Sixty-ninth Indiana regiment. He mentions this fact and others as a reason for believing that he was the man whom the President intended to have the office of Superintendent of Census.

HOW THEY CLASSIFY BAR-ROOM BITTERS.

The Treasury department has decided that imported bitters, containing distilled spirits, commonly used and sold in bar-rooms and not in drug stores, are subject to duty at the rate of $2 per proof gallon under paragraph 313 T. I. new. This restores the practice of the department which prevailed prior to January 11, 1889. Since that date bitters of this class have been classified as proprietary preparations (T. I. 99 new) dutiable at the rate of 50 per cent. ad valorem.

THE PRESIDENT'S VISITORS.

Among those who saw the President yesterday were Senator Quay, Senator Evarts, with Henry Phillips, of London, Senator Cullom and friends, Treasurer Huston, Representatives Bingham, Ewart, Cannon and Rife, of Pennsylvania, and M. L. Mott, of North Carolina.

POSTMASTERS APPOINTED.

The President has appointed thirty postmasters, among them the following:

Maine—F. A. D. Singhi, Camden.
Massachusetts—F. E. Nichols, Warren; Martin Hickey, Grafton.
Connecticut—M. E. White, Manchester.
New York—Hieronymous Hubig, College Point; J. F. Taylor, Whitestone.
New Jersey—W. H. Smith, Newton: C. A. Slack, Lambertville.

The following named fourth class postmasters have also been appointed:

New York—M. Morrison, Jr., Canarsie; A. L. Sergeant, Columbus; John Aylor, East Granger; R. B. Demarets, Enterprise; J. H. Clark, Fulmer Valley; F. M. Waite, Hamlet; R. T. Merchant, Lakewood; A. G. Miller, Leyden; Mrs. M. M. Burdick, Lincoln Centre; A. C. Stewart, Mariposa; G. H. Hurlbut, Newport; W. L. Smith, Portland; James Judson, Prattsville; G. Ball, Searsburgh; S. W. Cohen, Sprakers; H. A. Van Deusen, Sprout Brook; R. Bliven, South Worcester; Elvin Keene, Trumbull Corners.

Pennsylvania—N. A. Walker, Ararat; John McCahan, Birmingham; John Strong, Columbus Cross Roads; Belle Dyer, Covington; William M. Shriver, Dickinson; Alexander Duff, Duffs; H. S. Thompson, East Watesford; B. F. Jones, Fitzhenry; Theodore D. Quick, Garland; A. M. Hoey, Harrison City; Edward Granger, Rush; E. F. Shaffer, Smicksburg; I. Carnwalt, Trout Run; H. A. Davenny, Yorkville.

Died in the Surf.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 22.—Warren Tecch, of Newark, N. J., died to-day while bathing in the surf at Pablo Beach. He was seen to throw up his arms and sink while in water up to his neck. He was hastily gotten out but died in a few minutes. He was subject to fainting fits and it is supposed death was due to heart disease.

The Stove-Car Must Go.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Judge O'Brien has decided that the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad must comply with the New York State law requiring passenger cars to be heated otherwise than by stoves or furnaces. The road claimed that as only 24 miles of its track was in this state, the law did not apply to it.

Killed His Wife's Lover.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 22.—A special from Lafin, Ohio, says: John Martz, of Republic returned home unexpectedly last night and found Howard J. Kennaman, a well known married man of this city, in his wife's apartment. Martz seized an old bayonet kept in the house as a relic, and fatally stabbed Kennaman.

The Cost of Abolishing Grade Crossings.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 22.—In response to a Legislative resolution of inquiry, the Railroad Commissioners have reported that, leaving the question of consequential damages aside, the cost of eliminating the 1,320 railroad grade crossings in Connecticut will be $30,638,627.

To Reduce the Rate on Iron Ore.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 22.—The Western freight agents, at a meeting here yesterday, resolved to reduce the rate on iron ore from the lake ports to this city to $1.05 instead of $1.25 per ton. This action is the result of a consideration of the subject extending over several months.

—Painters and paper hangers have had plenty of work this Spring. Most of them have had all the work they could conveniently attend to.

—The Borough Board of Health met last evening at the residence of Dr. J. H. Carman, secretary. No complaints were received by the Board.

—The Tenth Ward club of Newark that is to play the Crescents, Saturday, won 19 of the 24 games it played last season with some of the best nines.

—On account of increased orders the employes in Mr. Edward Lovè's wall-paper designing establishment were obliged to work "over time." last evening.

—The chief fear of the strawberry growers is now said to be that the strawberry crop will be so enormous as to glut the market. But this does not worry the consumers.

—Two teams of colored base ball players, composed of married and unmarried men, will play a match game of ball on the grounds near Blatz's Hotel, to-morrow, beginning at 3 P. M.

—The Unitarian services will hereafter be held in Mr. Henry Shepherd's music rooms, 17 East Front street. Next Sunday's meeting will be at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Morehouse may be the speaker again.

—The seductive iced cream lair now yawns voraciously for the misguided youth who goeth abroad at eventide with a damsel hanging to his sleeve. It will cost him 20 cents to take her in, but this doesn't include strawberries.

—For the information of those persons who are holding Notary Public commissions in this city, it may be of interest to know that the Governor did not sign the bill making their re-appointment necessary. The old Commissioners will therefore hold over.

—Plainfield will be honored by the presence of two bishops on Sunday next. Bishop O'Farrell of Trenton will preach in St. Mary's church during the afternoon and Bishop Scarborough will administer the rite of confirmation in Holy Cross church in the morning and in Grace church in the evening.

At all times of the day and evening numbers of ladies and gentlemen are noticed seated around the marble counter refreshing themselves with frosted cream, sherbert and other original delicacies drawn only at that place.

OH! FOR A Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

The Rise and Progress of the Project—How the Fund for it was Started—How Much has been Raised—The Location and Its Cost—Ground to be Broken, Probably in the Summer—"Most of the Canvassers, Negligent."

The following report of the Building Committee of the Y. M. C. A., for the year ending May 9, was read at the annual meeting of the Association held Thursday evening of last week. THE PRESS takes pleasure in finding room for the report in full, as it is creditable to the Committee, a source of pride to the city's best people, and most interesting reading to the community in general.

To the Young Men's Christian Association of Plainfield, N. J.

Your Building Committee respectfully report: On the 2nd day of February 1888 the board of Directors authorized the president to appoint a Building Committee, and a few weeks later the following were appointed to act with the president as such committee: Charles W. McCutchen, H. O. Newman, Henry A. McGee, E. St. John, D. E. Titsworth, and Charles T. Kissam. The State Convention was held in our City on April 19-21, 1888. The delegates were placed so that they could instruct our people in the building question, and the closing business session was devoted to the subject of buildings.

On May 8, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Potter entertained the friends of the association and the different phases of the question were presented by Mr. Richard C. Morse, Secretary of the International Committee, Mr. D. F. More, State Secretary, Rev. W. R. Richards, Mr. C. W. McCutchen and the President of the Association. No subscriptions were asked for at this conference, but our committee began their canvass immediately after the meeting and easily secured $11,000, before June 15. On that date the campaign was discontinued for the Summer. The work was taken up again at a committee meeting on September 18. A members' tea was held at the rooms on Oct. 16, when about eighty of our younger menbers subscribed $3,400. On the 18th day of October, a second parlor conference was held at the residence of James W. Jackson, when the fund was increased to $18,000.

Canvassers having been selected and a list of names compiled from poll lists, church rolls and other sources, certain men were assigned to each canvasser and regular meetings were held at which reports were rendered. Such meetings were held as follows: Nov. 17, 1888, at the residence of W. D. Murray; Nov. 27, 1888, at the residence of H. A. McGee; Dec. 11, 1888, at the residence of George C. Martin; Dec. 22, 1888, at the residence of H. R. Munger; Jan. 15, 1889, at the residence of A. B. Beers; Jan. 29, 1889, at the residence of G. W. Rockfellow; April 23, 1889, at the residence of S. F. Kimball, Oct. 16, and Feb. 8, at the Association rooms.

We now have $27,921 subscribed, by 251 persons, of which sum $4,767 have been paid in, and $1,014.60 expended, leaving a balance in a bank of $3,752.40.

After careful investigation, your committee decided to purchase the lot known as Nos. 55 and 57 East Front street, nearly opposite Peace street. This lot measures eighty-one feet front by two hundred and fifty feet in depth. The price agreed upon is $7,000, of which $1,000 have been paid. $3,000 are to be paid on or before July 1st, 1889. The remainder, $3,000 is to be paid by taking the property subject to a mortgage for that amount. This mortgage will be paid off at once, so that our property may be free and clear. Your committee desire to express publicly their appreciation of the kindness of Mr. Wm. M. Stillman, who has searched the title of the premises for us, and has undertaken to attend to all legal matters connected with the building, free of charge.

A letter has been prepared to be sent to those who have promised to subscribe but who refuse to say how much they will give. This letter will be followed by a visit from the committee, and we hope in this way to secure sufficient by July 1st, to enable us to break ground during the Summer.

Sometime ago by invitation of the young ladies, the president met with the Y. W. C. T. U. and suggested to them a plan by which they could assist us in securing a home. The plan was adopted and we understand that substantial progress is being made by them. We wish to thank them for their help.

While the results so far are considered fair by us, and are regarded as very good by association men, we still feel that our canvassers have not done their duty towards the association. A few have been faithful; most have been negligent. We are convinced that the money can be raised; and we are equally sure that the only method is personal, individual solicitation. If we can only appreciate that ground must be broken in the Summer or another year allowed to go by, we can see how important it is for each one of us to work hard during the next month.

While we are thus telling of our success and congratulating ourselves on the bright prospect of soon having a permanent abiding place, we do not forget to render thanks to Him from whom comes "every good and every perfect gift," and we urge our members to continue their daily supplication to Him that it may be His will for our city to have a building in which the young men of Plainfield shall glorify and honor His Son, Our Savior, Jesus Christ.

Respectfully submitted,
BY THE COMMITTEE.

Plainfield, N. J., May 16, 1889.

LUCIUS W. POND, DEAD.

His Business Career Ruined, but the Respect of Old Friends and His Church, Regained.

The death of Lucius W. Pond, father of David W. Pond of this city, occurred at Worcester, Mass., yesterday.

Mr. Pond was born at Hubbardston on April 20, 1826. For many years he was a prosperous manufacturer of machinists' tools, and a leading churchman. He served in the Common Council and the Board of Aldermen, and was three years a State Senator. He was generally looked upon as a prosperous business man and a model of integrity, until he suddenly disappeared, in October, 1875.

In spite of the ruin he made of his business career, Mr. Pond retained a great hold upon the affections of many of his church and business friends. He returned to Worcester and was welcomed back by some of the best known citizens, who, after he had worked at his old trade for a few months, put in money behind him and established the L. W. Pond Machine Tool Company, of which he was made Superintendent. He was also taken back into a full fellowship.

Mr. Pond leaves a wife, a married daughter and one son, D. W. Pond, who is at the head of the Pond Machine Tool Company of this city.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Charles Krewson broke the record at the Olympia Bowling alley yesterday. He scored 234.

Mrs. Patrick Motley of West Second street, died yesterday of consumption and dropsy.

Mrs. Phoebe Vail and daughter, Miss Chellie, have returned to Plainfield after an extended trip through Canada.

A young son of Dr. Edward Rushmore of Park avenue, entertained a few of his associates at his parents' residence, last evening.

The arrangements—all but signing the lease—have been completed for the occupancy of Reform Hall by the Rev. J. B. Cleaver and his earnest and growing congregation of righteous workers.

The wedding is to take place in a few weeks, of Mr. Albert Winter, formerly of the firm of Schepflin, Baldwin, Tweedy & Co., of this city, and Miss Benson, niece of the late ex-Mayor Wm. B. Maxson. Mr. and Mrs. Winter will go to Europe on their wedding trip.

The comfortable grand stand for ladies and others who do not snore, and the annex just built this season on the Y. M. C. A. grounds, for smokers, will probably be filled next Saturday. It may be the closest game of the season, and a great credit to Plainfield if its nine wins.

The Circus Attached.

Three of the canvassmen connected with the Cather & Shallcross show, went before Justice Nash yesterday morning and swore out a writ of attachment against the proprietors of the concern for alleged wages due them. The men hired with the show at the rate of twelve and sixteen dollars a month—twelve dollars if they only worked a portion of the season, and sixteen if they remained until the close. The men claimed various amounts from six to eight dollars, which they said was due them for wages. The proprietors produced their books to prove that the men's claims were exorbitant. One of them said that he had eight dollars coming to him, but it was clearly proven that the whole amount due him was $3.05.

The owners of the show amicably adjusted the claims of two of the men, but the third one they claimed that they did not know, and produced witnesses to prove that he had never been employed by the show. In the latter instance, Justice Nash adjourned the case until next week.

A Warning to the "news."

The grand jury finished their labors yesterday, and were discharged. Thirty-four bills of indictment were found including one against the Netherwood Hotel servant girl thief.

Editor Drake of the Elizabeth Leader was also indicted, and it will go hard with him. THE PRESS trusts this will serve as a warning to the Plainfield news.

Plainfield Browning Club.

The members of the Plainfield Browning club will discuss "The Statue and the Bust," at the Chautauqua rooms, on Tuesday, June 11, at 8 P. M. Among those who will take part are the following: Miss Stout, Miss Sutphen, Mr. Larrabee, Mrs. Scribner, Miss French, Mrs. Goddard, Miss Bulkley, Mr. Goodrich and Mr. Joy.

The Annual Election.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pond Machine Tool Company, will be held at the company's office in this city on Monday, June 3, at 3 P. M. The meeting is called for the election of seven directors to serve for the ensuing year, and also to transact such other business as may come before the meeting.

WHY TO OWN A HOME, AND HOW.

A Clear and Concise Answer by an Officer of a Plainfield Building and Loan Association.

(Contributed to The Press.)

A man's daily needs fall under three heads: food, clothing and shelter. Food is perishable, and a certain portion is daily provided and consumed for the needs of the body. Clothing is of a more permanent nature, and once provided and paid for his wants in that direction are supplied for a considerable time. But clothes will wear out. Shelter is still more permanent; the necessary ground always remains, and the house if properly built will cover more than one generation.

Food and clothing must become our property before we use them; but our shelter we usually hire. We go to that useful class of people called landlords, and for the temporary use of our homes pay them at such a rate that within ten to fifteen years they receive from us the whole value of their property. And then it does not become ours, but the landlords continue the same process ad infinitum. There is nothing wrong in this; in fact we are getting our shelter on the same terms as our food and clothing, and paying for them according to our daily needs.

On the other hand, all these needs must be met by the proceeds of our daily labor. A prudent man will divide his earnings so as to meet these daily wants. His rent is a fixed quantity and that must first be laid aside. Then the supply of clothing must be looked to and kept within the bounds of decency and comfort. The balance pays for food, and if there be anything left, it is laid by for a "rainy day." To how many of our out-of-door laborers is this "rainy day" a reality? And with all the expression has become proverbial for the time when because of sickness or accident or for any other reason the wages are stopped, or when unusual demands are made for actual necessities. Now we can readily see that if the rent question was once out of the way; if we could in some way own the roof that shelters us, the "rainy day" question would take care of itself and we might even have a little surplus to help others into the same good way, and to provide ourselves with better clothing or more palatable and nourishing food or anything else that might suit our fancy. The problem is how to use the shelter fund and the "rainy day" fund to the best advantage, so as to become the owners instead of the tenants of a home.

Our Building Loan Associations and co-operative banks are doing wonders in the solution of this problem. Philadelphia is a city of homes, largely through the operation of these institutions. There it is a common thing for a workingman, on comparatively small wages, to own his dwelling, while in New York such a man would be looked upon as a capitalist. The system is simple; its principles: co-operation, a reasonable payment for the privileges gained, and a frequent compounding of interest. The members of such an Association subscribe each according to his wish or his need. The agreement is that for each share subscribed, the member shall pay to the Association one dollar per month, and shall be entitled to borrow from its funds to the amount of $200 for each share owned. As the dues are paid each month, the money on hand is sold at auction to the highest bidder, the borrower paying six per cent. interest for the money advanced, together with whatever premium he has bid for the prior use of the money. This process goes on from month to month. All the money, dues, interest and premium, less expenses, being loaned as soon as possible after receipt, until the whole sum received shall amount to $200 per share. All the money loaned is secured to the Association by bond and mortgage on the property bought or the house built. When the "ultimate value"—$200 per share is reached—the borrowers receive full title and the non-borrowers are paid their deposits.

Associations as a general rule require that the borrower shall pay at least the value of the lot on which his house stands, or from one-fifth to one-fourth of the whole value of the property. It follows that the most prudent and thrifty are the first who can make full use of these advantages. And having once purchased the home, the difference between rent and payment to the loan association is comparatively small. Let us suppose that a house worth $2,000 rents for $16 per month or $192 a year. A borrower through an Association would pay $400 cash and subscribe for 8 shares. The monthly payments would be, for

|---|---|---|
| Dues | $ 8 | |
| Interest | 8 | |
| Premium, $1 to $4; say | 3 | $19 |
| In addition to which there would be taxes, interest and repairs; say per month | | 3 |
| | | $22 |

The whole difference between living in a hired house and being your own landlord being $6 per month or 24 cents for each working day. But the greater part of even this payment would come to an end. At the rate above shown, the series would last, without losses, from ten to ten and a half years. At the end of which time the borrower would come into full possession of the property, without debt. After that, $10 per month invested to help others to the same good results, would give him in another eleven years the value of his house again.

To sum up, the advantages claimed for this form of co-operation, are the comparative smallness of the cash payment required, the incentive to systematic saving and the opportunity of making small and regular payments, with no loss of interest in accumulating for payments on account.

S. R. STRUTHERS.

HEALTH SUGGESTIONS.

The Plainfield Board Offer the Following, That Everybody Should Read.

The rapid advance of warm weather should lead every person to put the house and premises in good sanitary condition without delay.

1. Ashes and rubbish should immediately be removed from the premises, especially the cellar.

2. Whitewash and ventilate thoroughly; do not have dampness or dirt anywhere around the house.

3. Be sure the cesspool and the vault are in order and properly ventilated.

4. Do not have any defective plumbing; see that water pipes, sewer pipes and traps are in good order. A bucket of boiling water, with two or three tablespoons full of potash is excellent for cleaning waste pipes from basins, baths and closets.

5. Open wells should be cleaned by a proper person, and driven wells should be sunk deeper if the water is the least objectionable.

6. Sheds, stables and out buildings should be cleaned and whitewashed when practicable. Accumulations of manure should not remain near any dwellings.

7. Cesspools and all vaults must be cleaned when necessary; never cover up an old one and dig another.

8. Stagnant water and rotting vegetable matter must not exist on the premises.

The inspector of the Board of Health will give advice and assistance freely in all cases of nuisances, and where assistance is wanted.

Royal Arcanum.

The seventh annual session of the Grand Council of the Royal Arcanum of New Jersey, met at Trenton, yesterday. Eighty delegates were present—including Past Regent R. M. Stover of Plainfield Council—representing, with but four exceptions, all the Councils in the State. Grand Regent William E. Hellenbeck presided.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Grand Regent, W. S. Douglass, of Newark; Vice Grand Regent, W. A. Tompkins, of Passaic; Grand Orator, C. D. McDowel, of Bloomfield; Grand Secretary, R. H. Alberts, Hoboken; Grand Treasurer, William T. West, Trenton; Grand Trustee, J. J. Kallmann, Jersey City; Representative to Supreme Council, W. E. Hellenbeck, Past Grand Regent, Jersey City; Alternate, P. J. Griffith, Orange; Grand Chaplain, F. S. Peter, Jersey City; Grand Guide, Samuel Drummond, Jersey City; Grand Warden, W. Pintard, Red Bank; Grand Secretary, John C. Bouton, Bayonne.

Weather Crop Bulletin.

Reports received from nearly all portions of New Jersey show that the weather conditions during the past seven days have been very favorable to all crops. Fruits, vegetables, grain and grass have made a remarkable growth. Frequent showers in the Southeastern and Southwestern sections have been especially favorable for transplanting. The condition of all crops is decidedly improved, and at this date is above the average of a number of years. The temperature during the week has been about the normal and more than the average amount of sunshine has prevailed.

Trotting at Waverly.

The opening day festival of the Mutual Driving Association was announced to take place at Waverly today. Two thousand invitations were issued for this event.

The trotting contest between Cleon, 2:22, owned by Mr. Charles R. Hedden, of East Orange, and David L., 2:19½, owned by Mr. J. C. Shaw, of Finderne, has no connection with the opening day at Waverly. This event will take place on the 30th inst., and is to decide the championship of the State, now held by David L., who wrested it from Billy Button two years ago.

County Freeholders.

At the last meeting of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, County Physician Westcott submitted his annual report for the year ending May 1, 1889. The places where mysterious deaths occurred are as follows: Cranford, 1; Clark, 1; Elizabeth, 62; Fanwood, 2; Linden, 4; New Providence, 2; Plainfield, 6; Rahway, 11; Summit, 1; Union, 2; Westfield, 3. Total, 95.

The causes of death were: Diseases, 27; railroad accident, 34; drowned, 14; premature birth, 4; accident, 12; suicide, 4.

A Great Temperance Convention.

The representatives of the Sons of Temperance of this city are making arrangements to attend the annual session of the National Division of North America to be held at Saratoga early in June. The different railroads have made special rates for the occasion and thousands are expected to be present.

—Dog-catcher Babbitt, this morning, accidentally gathered in an unmuzzled dog belonging to one of the special police. This was a mistake, and the dog-catcher should be more careful in the future.

—Myself and daughter have used Dr. Dam's Remedy for that weak, tired feeling and headache, and find it excellent.—Mrs. M. E. Taylor, E. Front street.

HISSES FOR KYRLE BELLEW.

An Uproarious Reception for the Gay Actor in Chicago Last Night.

CHICAGO, May 22.—When Marc Antony, in the person of Kyrle Bellew, assisted Queen Cleopatra, personified by Mrs. James Brown Potter, to alight from the deck of the royal barge to the stage of McVicker's theatre, last night, one-third of the occupants on the ground floor and nearly all those in the balcony and gallery hissed to their hearts' content. These expressions of disapprobation were answered with stamping of feet and clapping of hands by those who occupied the twelve boxes and the front rows of the parquet. When the applause had died away the hissing was continued and a third time were the marks of disapprobation and greeting renewed. Then the play was allowed to proceed without further interruption until the close of the Terrace scene in the second act, when the occupants of the front of the house called Bellew before the curtain. His appearance was the occasion of mingled cheers and hisses, and he precipitately retired. Faint cries of Eva Sothern and Mrs. Carter came from the back of the house.

The expected demonstration on the part of members of the Chicago club, to which Mr. Henry E. Abbey referred in his interview of last night in New York, failed to materialize. There were more hisses, however, than have been heard in all the Chicago theatres combined for many years.

Fatal Ride on a Buckboard.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., May 22.—Lewis E. Wait, a leading citizen of this place and who had done much to beautify and build up the town, was killed near Indian River, in the Adirondacks, being thrown from a buckboard by the running away of a team. Mr. Wait was a prominent Mason, and will be buried with Masonic honors to-morrow.

A New Pennsylvania Railroad.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 22.—A charter has been granted to the Pittsburg, Beech Creek and Eastern Railway company—capital $1,500,000. The company will build a railroad 150 miles long from Mill Hill, Clinton County, to Butler, Pa. Samuel Nevins is president of the company.

EDITOR O'BRIEN ON THE STAND.

The Great Irish Journalist Faces the Parnell Commission.

He Describes the Woes of His Fellow-Countrymen — Brutal and Oppressive Landlords Graphically Depicted—King Humbert's Visit to Berlin—Very Cordially Welcomed by the German Emperor—All Berlin Gaily Decorated.

LONDON, May 22.—Mr. William O'Brien testified before the Parnell Commission yesterday.

Owing to Mr. O'Brien's weak condition, the result of his long imprisonment, he was allowed to remain seated.

In a low weak voice, which it was difficult to hear beyond the counsel's table, the witness gave a detailed account of agrarian outrages perpetrated in County Tipperary prior to the formation of the National League in that district.

The League, said the witness, after it was established, prevented a wholesale famine and a fearful war in the West of Ireland in 1870.

The witness declared that no murders had been committed in Tipperary since the League had formed a branch there.

Mr. O'Brien described the wretched condition of the people in Tipperary and other counties prior to the formation of the National League. The poor tenants were in debt up to their necks and had absolutely no redress against oppressive and brutal landlords.

Mr. O'Brien said that he fully approved the practice of boycotting and declared that it had had the effect of preventing crime.

Mr. Reid read an article from Mr. O'Brien's paper, United Ireland, denouncing the Phœnix Park murderers.

Mr. O'Brien said that the Government should pursue a policy of conciliation and thus obtain the sympathies of the people. The Government in 1882 suppressed United Ireland because he (the witness) had charged the Ministry with having manufactured crimes, a charge he was prepared to prove. Mr. O'Brien then proceeded to detail the alleged manufactured outrage, but Sir Richard Webster objected and the court sustained his objection.

REID AND CARNOT.

United States' Representative Visits France's Executive.

PARIS, May 22.—Minister Whitelaw Reid, the new American Minister, yesterday presented his credentials to President Carnot. In his speech to the President Mr. Reid alluded to the pleasure he experienced as the United States representative to France during the latter's centenary celebration, and assured the President that the most cordial feelings were maintained in the United States for France.

President Carnot replying to Mr. Reid, said that there existed between France and the United States traditions which imparted relations of an especially agreeable character. The coincidence of the celebration of the centenaries of the celebration of the inauguration of Washington and the revolution which gave birth to republicanism in France, both occurring in 1889, added another link to those relations.

In conclusion M. Carnot said: "Mr. Reid; you will find from the French Government and from all Frenchmen a cordial greeting. Pursuing the common idea of democratic progress and social justice the two nations understand each another. On grounds of international relations your task is therefore an easy one. Monsieur Minister you are welcome among us."

GERMANY AND ITALY.

King Humbert and Party Arrive at Berlin.

BERLIN, May 22.—King Humbert, the Prince of Naples and Premier Crispi arrived here yesterday.

The visitors were cordially welcomed by the Emperor who embraced King Humbert and the Crown Prince.

Every building on the route was profusely decorated with German and Italian emblems mingled.

The Tageblatt, referring to King Humbert's visit, declares that a military convention between Germany and Italy will be signed by the King and Kaiser during the former's stay in Berlin, with a view to the possibility of the occurrence of war between one of the signatory parties and France.

In connection with this statement it is significant that several Italian military officers of high rank have arrived in Berlin incognito, presumably to discuss the details of the convention.

Mistress of the Sea.

QUEENSTOWN, May 22.—The Inman line steamship City of Paris, which left New York on Wednesday, May 15, passed Brow Head at 10:15 p. m. last night, having crossed the ocean in the phenomenal time of five days and twenty-two hours, beating her westward trip by one hour and seven minutes. An effort will be made to land her passengers in London Wednesday evening—one week after leaving New York.

SEVEN BLACK FIENDS.

They Bind an Old Colored Man and then Outrage His Wife and Daughter.

CULPEPPER COURT HOUSE, Va., May 22.—Seven negroes, near Richardsville, this county, went to the residence of a highly respectable and educated colored man and bound him hand and foot and then proceeded to outrage his wife. After partaking of whisky they had brought, they discovered the little ten-year-old daughter in the third story of the house, to which she had fled. They brought her down stairs and there accomplished their purpose. They left the old man bound and his wife and child in a most pitiful condition. They threatened to burn the house and cut out the tongues of their victims if they divulged the perpetrators of the crime.

The helpless victims were soon found by a passing friend and the alarm was given. A posse of whites and blacks started in pursuit and captured the villains near the scene of the assault. They were taken to the county jail where they are guarded by a strong force.

An attempt was made to break the jail and lynch them, but the guards frightened the party off.

The wife is in a critical condition. She may recover but the little child is dying. The militia has been asked for as it is hourly expected that another attempt will be made to force the jail and lynch the men.

PROHIBITION IS A FAILURE.

Some Startling Figures from the State of Iowa.

CHICAGO, May 22.—A special from Dubuque, Iowa, says: "In an interview yesterday Internal Revenue Collector Webster stated that the prohibitory law increased the sale of liquor in Iowa. This year he has issued 232 more liquor licenses than last year. The number of wholesale dealers is slightly less than before the prohibitory law, but the sales are larger and the quality of liquor sold is poorer. Not only have the sales increased, but since the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the case of Bowman Bros., the Marshalltown brewers, the importations by express of original packages of liquor has been enormous. Wholesale liquor houses have sprung up all along the borders of the State, and are supported mainly by Iowa trade."

LEGITIME'S POWERFUL ALLY.

The Haytian President Gets France's Help in Downing Hippolyte.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Mail advices from Cape Haytien contain a copy of a treaty entered into between the Legitime Government and France, by the terms of which the French secure valuable land concessions, the right of free entry, and a reduction of 25 per cent. in customs duties.

French capitalists are also to be given the preference in all railroad and other public enterprises.

In return the French Republic agrees to assist in suppressing the Haytian rebellion and accords Hayti a subsidy of five and a half million of francs, and two war vessels.

Hayti is also granted the right to purchase arms and ammunition in France.

THE ROTHSCHILDS.

An Old and Remarkable Story of Enterprise and Success.

Mayer Amschel and the Great Banking-House He Founded—Nathan and His Four Brothers—Baron James and His Experience with Vernet, the Artist.

[Special Correspondence.]

FRANKFORT, GERMANY.—I notice in recent American papers that various syndicates have lately been formed in the United States by the Belmont banking-house of New York. Readers, even though they be but superficially acquainted with financial affairs, know that the capital so invested is controlled by the Rothschilds (pronounced Rote-schild), who, many years ago, appointed August Belmont, once a prominent Democratic politician, their American representative. America was too inviting a field for enterprise to be neglected by the greatest money power of the world, and, although it may not be generally known, it is nevertheless a fact that some of the most promising railroad, electrical and mining properties in the United States are managed by way of the London, Paris and Frankfort houses of the great Rothschild family syndicate.

When this city (Frankfort-on-the-Main) gave birth to Mayer Amschel in 1743, no one dreamed that the founder of a family of financial monarchs had been given to the world. Young Mayer, with the trading instinct which seems to be the birthright of the Jews, showed more than ordinary commercial sagacity, and while yet a very young man entered the services of the wealthy banking house of the Oppenheims. Although he was rapidly advanced, the young man soon went into business on his own account. By chance he formed the acquaintance of the Landgrave of Hesse-Cassel, who appointed him his financial agent and entrusted him with the management of his private means. About this time the French invaded the dominions of the Landgrave, who had made himself obnoxious to every body by the sale of his soldiers into the Prussian and English military service. The princeling was compelled to fly, but before his departure gave his treasures into Rothschild's hands. By exercising great caution the financier succeeded in remitting the money to his son Nathan, who was already in business in London. During the time England was waging war with France circumstances enabled the bankers to carry out a singularly bold and lucrative speculation which redounded to their credit even more than the probity displayed by them in their dealings with Landgrave William. During the Peninsular campaign the Duke of Wellington was suffering greatly from the irregularity of specie supplies. The Government of England was greatly embarrassed, for no banking firm would undertake the responsibility of their transmission.

BARON JAMES VON ROTHSCHILD.

MAYER AMSCHEL ROTHSCHILD, FOUNDER OF THE ROTHSCHILD BANKING-HOUSE.

Then Rothschild came forward and formally undertook the contract on a commission which is said to have amounted to $750,000 annually for a period of eight years. Mayer Amschel died in the year 1812, leaving a widow and five sons. The widow died thirty-seven years later, aged ninety-six years, in the old house in Jew alley which had witnessed the growth and expansion of her husband's wealth and influence. When Mayer Amschel died, he summoned his five sons to his death-bed to give them his last advice. The advice was to remain true to the Jewish law, to remain united to the end and to do nothing without consulting their mother. "Observe these three points," said the dying financier, "and you will be rich among the richest, and the world will belong to you."

The five sons fulfilled the precepts inculcated by their father. Until very recently they kept all the money in the family by intermarrying. To achieve financial supremacy the brothers separated, however, the eldest son remaining in Frankfort, the four younger ones directing houses in London, Vienna, Paris and Naples. In accordance with the father's wishes, all large operations were conducted by the several firms in common, and are so conducted even at this day. In 1815, on account of their support of the allied armies by their generous supplies of money and credit, the whole family was raised to the ranks of the nobility, and in 1822 received the baronial dignity.

Nathan Mayer, the first head of the English firm, was the ablest of the five sons, and also the greediest. His hot pursuit of money gave him neither leisure nor rest. In 1814 he had staked every thing on the permanence of peace, and during the "hundred days" his anxiety was intense. "Eager to know the best or the worst," says a contemporary writer, "he had driven to an eminence commanding the battle-field. In the joyful reaction after the decisive repulse of the French, his over-strained strength was ready to succumb. But he hurried back to Brussels, and thence to England, bribing the Boulogne fishermen to put to sea in dangerously tempestuous weather. He had had his times of anxiety, but worn out as he was, he was resolved to recoup himself for it. Next morning he was standing in the London Stock Exchange under the familiar pillar. His face was sad to a degree, and to those who ventured to question him he did not hesitate to confide the defeat of the Prussian forces at Ligny. His known brokers were selling freely, and alarm soon passed into panic. Meantime secret agents were busily buying, and the sums he cleared must have been almost in proportion to the number of victims his strategy ruined." Nathan Mayer, consider him as you may, was any thing but an attractive character. He abused his employes in the most shameful manner, permitted himself almost brutal license of speech, and lived in perpetual terror of assassination. He died in the year 1836, aged fifty-nine years.

LIONEL ROTHSCHILD.

His son, Baron Lionel, born in 1808, inherited much of his father's shrewdness, and but few of his vices. He was benevolent in the best sense of the word, and gave munificently with both hands, and it is believed that most of his beneficence was anonymous.

Anselm Mayer, the oldest son of Mayer Amschel, was born in 1773 and died in 1855, aged eighty-two. The next son, Solomon, was born in 1773, and died in 1855, eighty-one years of age. He founded the Vienna house. Karl, the fourth son, born 1788 and died 1855, aged sixty-seven years, founded the house in Naples. The youngest son, Baron James, was born 1792, and died in 1868, at the age of seventy-six years. He established the house at Paris. The present senior member of the family, Baron Willy, is a quiet, unobtrusive old gentleman, who lives in great seclusion at his castle of Grueneberg, where he is said to keep three rabbis constantly praying for his soul's safety. He goes regularly every day to the synagogue before going to his office, which, by the way, is closed on Saturdays as well as on Sundays.

Baron James, the founder of the Paris house, was one of the shrewdest members of the family. When floating the bonds of the Northern Railroad of France he provoked the most formidable combination ever formed against the Rothschilds, and the only one that was ever completely successful, and ended with the formation of an anti-Rothschild syndicate for the control of the Russian railways. To illustrate his closeness, an anecdote tells that once upon a time Baron James went to Horace Vernet, the artist, to have his portrait painted. Vernet named 4,000 francs as the price. The banker tried for some time to beat the painter down, till at last Vernet threatened to treble his charge if there was another word said on the subject. "Am I to paint it, or am I not?"

The financier bolted from the studio, thinking, the artist mad. "Wait a moment," cried Vernet, after him, "I will do your portrait for nothing." And he did paint him on the gigantic canvas of "La Smala" as "a hideous-looking Jew running away with a casket of jewels and money, his face expressive of the most sordid avarice."

A somewhat different story is told by the same authority. Baron James consented to pose to Eugene Delacroix for the head of a beggar. One of Delacroix's pupils, mistaking the ragged model for what he seemed to be, slipped a trifle in his hand. Rothschild thanked him, kept the money and made inquiries. He learned that the young man was a genius, but poor, and had to labor hard for the means of educating himself. Shortly afterward the young fellow received a letter stating that charity pays interest, and that the accumulated interest on the amount he had so generously given to the beggar was represented by the sum of ten thousand francs, which was lying at his disposal at the office of the Rothschilds.

NATHAN MAIER ROTHSCHILD.

Any attempt to give an idea of the wealth of the Rothschild family would be mere guesswork. The affairs of the syndicate are conducted with the strictest secrecy, and a system of book-keeping has been devised by the heads of the various houses which leaves clerks as much in the dark concerning the affairs of their employers as the public at large. Every body knows, however, that the Rothschilds are an influence in the political affairs of Europe, and that they can dictate war or peace whenever it may suit their interests. Whether their purchase of American securities must be considered a benefit or a curse to the United States remains to be seen, inasmuch as the family have always taken a lively interest in the political affairs of countries in which they had invested funds, and the Rothschilds as a political factor in American affairs is a prospect which may well be viewed with misgivings by all patriotic citizens of the glorious Republic.

WILLIAM WALTER WELLS.

He Must Be a Noble Man.

Secretary-of-the-Interior Noble has a habit of making friends of his enemies. A Congressman recently told him that he ought to dismiss a certain clerk, because, as he said: "I heard him say that you were cross, ill-natured and given to invective, and all that sort o' thing." Secretary Noble thanked the Congressman, bade him good day and then sent for the clerk. When that worthy came tremblingly into the presence of his superior, General Noble said: "I offended you recently, didn't I? Please tell me when and how." The man was so abashed that his teeth chattered, and he was unable to answer. With kindly inquiry, the Secretary ascertained that one afternoon just as the department was closing he had impatiently made a hurried and seemingly petulant demand upon the young man which hurt his feelings. When he had learned the facts, which had wholly escaped his memory, Secretary Noble said: "I felt that something was wrong, and I sent for you to say that I beg your pardon for any word or deed which might have hurt your feelings, because I didn't mean to trouble you, and I know how much a little thing in a superior officer may annoy and fret a subordinate." That man's great-grandchildren will sing the praises of Noble when monuments are crumbled or forgotten.

It Was Gold.

"What do you see in that old Pasonby, Edith?" asked young De Smyth of his sister; "he hasn't a single redeeming feature."

"I admire his heir," answered Miss De Smyth, promptly.

A MYSTERIOUS ASSAULT.

A Young Farmer Badly Done Up Refuses to Name His Assailant.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., May 22.—A farmer named Shaw, living in the town of Carroll, started with his son, aged 20 years, for a drive. On returning the son left him and started to come home across the fields. When the father got home the son did not appear and it was not until 4 o'clock the next morning that he crawled into the house unable to walk. There were several bad cuts on his head and other injuries. He is not expected to live.

During brief lucid intervals he refused to tell who inflicted the injuries. His boots, hat and whip were found under the porch of the house where some one had placed them. The case is very mysterious and is being investigated.

Strangled Himself With a Shoe-String.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., May 22.—Oscar Logan, aged 45, was found dead in his cell at the jail this morning, having committed suicide by tying a shoe-string attached to a short piece of rope around his neck and then fastening the rope to the grating with his face not more than three inches from the floor and strangled to death.

Killed by a Highbinder.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—Chen You, a Chinese cigarmaker, was literally hacked to pieces to-day by a hatchet in the hands of another Chinaman. The cause is unknown.

WHY

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WHERE:

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

WASHINGTON TOPICS

A Sensational Report About the Cabinet.

RUMORS ABOUT RESIGNATIONS.

The Gentlemen Concerned, However, Deny the Rumors.

President Harrison Said to Be Considering the Name of Justice Woods, of Indiana, in Connection with the Supreme Court Vacancy—England Said to Be Determined to Send a Cruiser to Alaska with Warlike Intentions.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The following despatch has been received from New York: "An afternoon paper says that at yesterday's Cabinet meeting Secretaries Blaine, Windom and Proctor informed the President that they would resign unless their wishes were consulted more than hitherto in regard to appointments in and management of their departments. They declared that they did not wish to occupy merely clerical positions."

When Private Secretary Halford was shown the story alleging that there was trouble in the Cabinet he laughed very heartily and remarked: "The President has always taken the ground that he cannot undertake to deny newspaper publications, and I am quite sure that he will not deviate from that rule."

At the Arlington hotel it was learned that Secretary Proctor left here on Saturday last to go to his home in Vermont. He has not been in the city since that day and was not at the Cabinet meeting yesterday. Secretary Blaine was not at home when your representative called to see him. Walker Blaine gave a very short, sharp answer to a query concerning the rumored resignation of the Secretary. The question was sent in to him on a card and he returned the card with the word "nonsense" printed across its face in bold black letters.

Secretary Windom was seen at his home. He presumed the story ridiculous.

"There is not a bit of truth in it," he said. "Has there been any difference of opinion between you and the President in relation to appointments, or any complaint of delays in filling places in your department?"

"Not in the slightest," said the Secretary. "There has been most perfect harmony in the Cabinet. There is no truth in this story. I don't know how to make my denial strong enough. There is not even foundation for the imagination of a liar to build upon."

President Harrison is said to be considering seriously in connection with the vacancy on the Supreme Bench the name of Justice Woods, of the United States District Court of Indiana.

The story is afloat that England has determined to send a man-of-war to Alaska to protect the illicit sealing vessels flying the British flag from seizure and condemnation by the United States under the provisions of the recent proclamation issued by President Harrison, and that there is great excitement in consequence.

The report goes that the Thetis, of the Navy, and the Bear and the Rush of the Revenue marine, have been ordered to proceed at once to Alaskan waters to head off the intruder, and to keep peace or enforce the proclamation at all hazards.

This story is discredited at the Treasury department, and Captain Bennett, Chief of the Revenue Marine bureau, states that he has no official knowledge of any effort on the part of England to circumvent the strict carrying out of the proclamation. The Thetis has been ordered to cruise around Point Barrow to give all possible aid in the establishment of the refuge station there, and the Bear and the Rush will start on their regular cruises as soon as they are in condition.

FISH BILLS SIGNED.

Governor Beaver Approves Several Measures of Protective Legislation.

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 23.—Governor Beaver went to Carlisle yesterday afternoon to attend the commencement exercises of the Indian Training school. Before going he signed several bills relating to the protection of fish as follows:

The bills for the protection of shad and game fish in the river Delaware. These were the bills introduced by Representative Baker, of Delaware county, at the request of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission.

The bill for the protection of fish in the waters of lake Erie within the jurisdiction of the State.

The bill for the protection of shad and game fish in the State.

Secret Ballots for Connecticut.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 23.—The House has passed the Secret Ballot bill. It provides for the adoption of the Australian system with one apartment for every 100 voters, the ballots to be furnished by the State. There was no discussion of the matter, the previous question having been ordered as soon as the chairman of the committee had explained the provisions of the bill. The Democrats complain that the bill was passed by a resort to gag law. The House then voted to reconsider. After an hour's discussion the House again passed the bill, the only amendment adopted being one increasing the time allowed a voter to prepare his ballot in the private apartment to five minutes.

The Community Is Indignant.

MAYSVILLE, Ky., May 23.—The examining trial of Henrietta McDaniel for the killing of F. J. Cross, the late business manager of Stowe's London circus, was concluded at 12 o'clock last night. The woman was held in $1,000 bail to answer the charge of murder at the next July term of the Circuit Court. The community is indignant.

New Superintendent of Public Buildings.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 23.—Edwin K. Burnham, of Wayne county, has been appointed to succeed Charles B. Andrews as Superintendent of Public Buildings.

MOURNED AS DEAD.

Annie Griffiths Mysteriously Returns to Her Pennsylvania Home.

FRANKLIN, Pa., May 23.—While our citizens are still trying to solve the mystery of the death of pretty Mary Tobin another sensation has been created by the arrival in this city of Miss Annie Griffiths. Two years ago the relatives of Miss Griffiths in this city received a despatch giving an account of Annie's death by foul means in Kansas. The dead body of a woman was found in Kansas City, in whose dress pocket was found a letter addressed to Miss Annie Griffiths, Franklin, Pa., and whose cuffs were marked with that lady's initials. As Miss Griffiths was in the West her friends telegraphed on to have the remains sent here, but they had already been buried, and it was thought best by her relatives not to disturb them.

For over two years Annie has been mourned as dead, and the sensation she created among her relatives by suddenly appearing before them can better be imagined than described. But she is here just the same, and is at a loss to account for the finding of the letter in the pocket of the dead woman, and don't give much account of herself, only saying she has been in the West.

THE WIZARD WAS PRESENT.

Mr. Edison Listens to the Defense in the Big Electric Light Case.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 23.—The defense in the Westinghouse-Edison case took its first inning yesterday. The court room was well filled with interested spectators. Mr. Edison's presence added much to the interest of the proceedings.

Attorney Lowry lost no time in introduction but jumped directly into his defense by a comparison of the Sawyer-Mann with the Edison lights. Evidence was produced in the shape of letters written by Sawyer in 1879, in which he said Edison's invention which had just been examined was similar to a lamp he and Mr. Mann had made a year before but had abandoned because they did not think it worth the price of a patent. Other written testimony of a like order seemed to show that neither Sawyer nor Mann really knew in 1878 whether their lamp could be made a success or not.

Archbishop Ryan Investigating.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 23.—Archbishop Ryan is in this city in obedience to orders recently received from Rome. His mission is a thorough investigation of the trouble in the Ursuline convent in this city. The trouble is of long standing and the outgrowth of jealousy. Some time ago Madame Alphonse, who was Superioress of the convent, was deposed, and Madame Gertrude placed in charge. A committee of the dissatisfied sisters went to Rome and made a personal appeal to the Pope. Archbishop Ryan, who is conducting the investigation, is accompanied by Bishop Phelan, Father Wall and Dr. Hartzman, of Philadelphia.

Dead in His Bed.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Col. George F. Gardiner, a well known lawyer, was found dead in his bead in the Coleman house having died of heart disease. He was 62 years old a native of Washington, D. C. His father was Captain G. F. Gardiner, who was killed in the Seminole massacre, and his mother was a daughter of Commodore Barnett, U. S. N. He was a page in the United States Senate, afterwards went through West Point, studied law in New Haven, served as Colonel of the Seventh Connecticut during the war, was subsequently Prosecuting Attorney of New Haven, and for many years and practiced law in this city.

A Railroad's Petition Rejected.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 23.—The Senate has rejected by a vote of 20 to 4, the Housatonic railroad's petition for leave to build a road from New Haven to New York. The House had already rejected the petition. The Senate also passed the House bill allowing any railroad to build branches whenever a Superior Court judge decides that public convenience demands it. The question of grade crossings remains undisposed of. Senator McNeill introduced a substitute putting part of the cost of abolishing the crossings on the towns, instead of all on the railroads, as provided in the pending bill.

Notables Will Feast.

HADDONFIELD, N. J., May 23.—Col. Jesse E. Peyton, the Centennial projector, will give a supper at his residence here this evening to a number of prominent guests, among whom will be Governor Beaver, of Pennsylvania; Governor Biggs, of Delaware; Governor Green, of New Jersey; Gen. William J. Sewell, of Camden; Col. Muckle and Charles Emory Smith, of Philadelphia, and a number of other prominent gentlemen. It will be the annual planked shad banquet of Colonel Peyton's, but the plans for the memorial arch to be erected in Fairmount Park will be perfected.

Fight at a Funeral.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 23.—An Akron, O., special says that at the funeral of John Frazier, who died Sunday while wrestling with Mrs. Howe, five brothers of the deceased caused a disturbance, demanding that the body be given them for interment at Kent, while the widow and her friends desired the burial to take place at Akron. The brothers were unsuccessful, but threaten to steal the body, and a guard has been placed over the grave.

A Reduction in Wages.

SHARON, Pa., May 23.—A general reduction of 10 per cent. has been made in the wages of furnace employes throughout the Chenango Valley. This effects 500 men at Sharpsville, 400 at Sharon and 300 at West Middlesex. The men have accepted the reduction, but manufacturers seem doubtful whether work can be continued even at the reduced expense, as they claim that trade is very dull and prices unsatisfactory.

A Millionaire's Widow Shot at.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—Mrs. Donahue, widow of the late millionaire Peter Donahue, was shot at yesterday while out driving, by Michael Hawkins, Peter's cousin, who was lately defeated in a lawsuit to obtain a share of the estate. Mrs. Donahue escaped injury and her assailant was arrested.

Editor O'Brien Continues His Testimony.

HE NEVER INCITED TO OUTRAGE.

Impossible to Say What Is Legal or What Is Illegal in Ireland.

Mr. Parnell Has a Consultation With the Judges of the Commission—The Testimony for the Defense Will Be Greatly Abridged—Mr. O'Brien Will Conclude To-Day and There Will Be But Few Other Witnesses.—Items of Interest.

LONDON, May 23.—Mr. William O'Brien resumed his testimony yesterday before the Parnell Commission.

He denied that he had ever incited people to commit outrages through his paper, United Ireland. The National League, he said, was formed chiefly to oppose secret combinations of the landlords, made for the purpose of carrying out wholesale evictions and replacing the ousted tenants with farmers from other counties.

He drew a distinction between criminality and illegality. The Irish had an earnest and healthy repulsion of criminality. "As to illegality meaning irreverence for law as law," said Mr. O'Brien, "illegality is bred in us."

The witness declared that it was impossible to say what was legal or what was illegal in Ireland. Anything that two resident magistrates said was law was law. The League, he said, tended to lessen the commission of outrages, but no human power could prevent crime in such a crisis as prevailed in 1879.

The consultation which was held yesterday between the judges of the Parnell Commission and Mr. Parnell and Solicitors Lewis and Reid resulted in the conclusion of an arrangement greatly abridging the evidence to be introduced by the Parnellites and consequently shortening the session of the Commission by several weeks under the time estimated by the defense as the minimum period which they would occupy in presenting their case.

The testimony of Mr. O'Brien will be concluded to-day, after which a few witnesses will be brought forward to testify as to the alleged outrages in Clare.

The testimony of these witnesses will require but a short time and be followed by the evidence of Mr. Matthew Harris, member of Parliament for East Galway. After Mr. Harris Archbishop Croke, Canon Keller and Father Sheehy will be called, and the evidence will be concluded with the examination of Michael Davitt.

The Conservatives are organizing a series of meetings to offset the effect of Mr. Gladstone's speeches during the Whitsuntide recess. Speakers will go to each of the places where Mr. Gladstone delivers addresses and speak on the following day.

It is said that the Samoan Conference has agreed upon all the points at issue.

IRON WORKMEN'S CONVENTION.

The Amalgamated Association Will Hold an Important Assembly.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 23.—The annual convention of the Amalgamated association of Iron and Steel workers will open in this city, beginning Tuesday, June 4, and will be one of the most important gatherings of that body ever held. Some significant suggestions have been made by the different lodges, and one of them will be especially considered. A proposition has been made to make a scale which will continue for two or three years, but will be based on the manufacturers' card-rate for bar iron.

It is also proposed to change the scale in the steel mills in accordance with Andrew Carnegie's ideas; but his scale is not acceptable and will not be agreed to by the organization.

Dr. Cronin's Body Found.

CHICAGO, May 23.—At 5 o'clock last evening the body of a man was discovered lying at the bottom of a man-hole in a large sewer in the vicinity of the place where the blood-stained trunk was found on the morning of the mysterious disappearance of Dr. Patrick H. Cronin. The body was removed to the Lake View police station, where the remains were positively identified as those of Dr. Cronin. The skull had been fractured, and the police believe that he was foully murdered.

Two Girls Fight with Knives.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 23.—A Huntington, W. Va., special says: "Miss Rucker and Miss Bettie Kyle, two young ladies, engaged in a bloody battle with knives, and after a desperate encounter Miss Kyle fell to the ground exhausted. Both girls were terribly wounded, and Miss Kyle is in a dangerous condition. Miss Rucker was arrested but released by Justice Bowen, who decided it was a case of self defense. The trouble was about a young man.

Here's Another Mystery.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Actor Walter Hubbell has written a letter to Coroner Levy stating that Louis Aldrich, the actor, told him in presence of several witnesses that at the time of mind-reader Bishop's death the physicians took from the dead man's effects a document which they destroyed.

Too Large a Business.

BOSTON, May 23.—Brooks & Wells, boot and shoe manufacturers at Westboro, with an office at 103 Bedford street, Boston, have failed. Liabilities are reported at $80,000 nominal assets, $90,000. The firm, it is stated, has been doing too large a business for its capital, which is $50,000, while the transactions aggregated $400,000 yearly.

Rev. Dr. Wilson Dead.

—The last sociable of the season of the First Baptist church, will be held in the lecture room, Tuesday evening of next week, and not Thursday evening as stated in the Central Times.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss "Lou" Tyler of New York city is visiting among friends here.

Miss May Rodman, a daughter of Archdeacon Rodman, is confined to the house by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Jasper G. Cadmus leave Plainfield today for the Summer, making their first stop at West New Brighton, Staten Island.

Mr. Theo. Kurzhals of West Second street, is receiving the congratulations of his friends over the arrival of a boy—the tenth child which has blessed his home.

Miss Sarah Manning, soprano, and Miss Harriet Manning, contralto, of this city, sang in Calvary church, Newark, last evening, to a cultured and appreciative audience.

Officer Flannigan looks more dignified than ever, since he parted with his moustache. It is stated that his wife did not know him when he first entered the house after the operation was performed.

Miss Harriet Worthington Newton, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth P. Newton, formerly of this city, will be married on Wednesday evening, June 5, to Dr. Arthur Bosanko. The ceremony will take place in St. Luke's church, St. Albans, Vt.

The Messenger of Somerville says: "John M. Hatfield of Plainfield, spent Thursday night in White House, with his friend, J. A. Suydam. Mr. H. is introducing a patent coal-car covering, which is received with general favor among coal dealers."

After a very serious sickness which the young patient bore with courage and resignation, followed by a relapse that was full of dangerous symptoms, Miss Minnie Ammerman is now so much better that her relatives and friends feel much encouraged, and hopeful of her thorough recovery.

Frank Wilson's Sumptuous Entertainment.

"The Oolah" at the Broadway theatre has developed into three hours of delightfully uproarious laughter, and Francis Wilson has permanently resumed his position as the principal fun-manufacturer of the Metropolis. The opera may be set down as occupying a very enviable position on the border line between opera-bouffe and comic opera proper, and in this field it will prove more than welcome wherever and whenever it may be seen. It is generally conceded that no operatic production has ever been so magnificently mounted and costumed, and the stage pictures are a constant glow of Persian splendor and sumptuousness. Mr. Wilson is seen at his best as the Oolah, and the support he receives from Miss Marie Jansen, Laura Moore, Elma Delaro, and Hubert Wilke is of the most acceptable character. "The Oolah" is filling the big Broadway theatre nightly, and will continue to do so all Summer.

More Buildings Begun.

Mr. L E. Hart has increased his force of men engaged in excavating the lots at the corner of Park avenue and Fourth street, and the work is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible.

Plans are completed and the specifications issued for the $15,000 building that is to occupy the corner and all along Park avenue to the line of the adjoining property of Dr. M. B. Long. Mr. W. H. Clum is the architect, and very handsome buildings they are to be with fronts of plate glass, brick and elaborate terra cotta trimmings.

Three stores, 23 feet front and 60 feet deep, will face on Park avenue. Above each will be a second and third story suite of apartments, each consisting of 6 rooms, commodious, and conveniently arranged.

Saturday's Ball Game.

The Crescent Y. M. C. A., nine, as already published in THE PRESS, will consist next Saturday of—Condon, catcher; Gately, pitcher; McMurray, first base; Dilts, second base; Lee, third base; Cornwell, short stop; Ashworth, left field; Demarest, centre field and McLaughlin, right field.

Such a team ought to put up a strong game, and it probably will. Consequently, if the 10th Ward Club of Newark, the opposing nine, are playing as well as they did last year, Saturday's contest will be interesting and exciting.

North Plainfield's Proposed New School House.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Johnson celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their residence on Park avenue, last evening, the occasion being one to be long remembered by those who were present. Guests to the extent of about thirty were present, including the three sons, Peter C., Alfred C., and J. Wesley Johnson, together with their repective families. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were the recipients of many elegant and costly gifts, including a purse of gold coin. The aged couple wore the same neck-wear they were married in fifty years ago.

A Heartfelt Tribute.

The following from the Christian Intelligencer of yesterday, is the sincere tribute of the Rev. Cornelius Schenck to his dead brother, the Rev. John Simonson:

"Very suddenly at his home, Plainfield, N. J., Saturday evening, May 11, 1889, in his 73d year, the Rev John Simonson died of heart failure. He was born near Somerville, N. J. He graduated at Rutgers College in 1842 and from the New Brunswick Seminary in 1845. He was licensed to preach the same year by the Classis of Philadelphia. His first charge was at West Farms, N. Y., 1845-52. His next settlement was at Bethlehem, N. Y., 1852-64. His labor here was signally owned by God. In addition to a revival of spirituality, Christian benevolence and activity in the church, there was a remarkable work of grace in the hearts of sinners, continuing for months and resulting in an ingathering of two hundred souls. In 1864 he organized and assumed the pastorate of the Central Reformed church of Plainfield, N. J. Here he labored with acceptance and fidelity until 1869, when he returned to his first charge, West Farms, where he labored for several years, until failing health compelled him to relinquish all active service. In 1882, he again took up his residence in Plainfield, where he continued to live in comparative retirement to the time of his death. April 9th, 1884, his wife, Catharine Paynter Simonson, a most excellent Christian and most estimable lady, died.

"Mr. Simonson was one of God's noblemen. The hoary head was a crown of glory because it was found in the way of righteousness. As a preacher he was earnest, evangelical, Scriptural. As a Christian, modest, unassuming, sincere. As a man, honest, honorable, high-minded. His character was transparent. His faith in God was unswerving and his hope firm unto the end. He lived and breathed the spirit of Christ. He was conscientious and consistent. There was a delightful harmony between his profession and practice, his words and works. His spirit is now with Christ, his body peacefully rests in the family plot at Newtown, L. I, but his beautiful example, his fragrant memory, his Christian influence still abide. 'He being dead, yet speaketh.'" C. S.

Marshal MacDonald, the Latest Victim of the "news."

Everybody knows Borough Marshal Thomas MacDonald and appreciates the faithful service that brave soldier is doing North Plainfield in watching after its peace and good order. Never before has the Borough had a Marshal so efficient—day and night he makes his careful round of all the streets, and looks into every saloon to see that quietness reigns.

But no matter how upright a man may be—how faithful a public servant or how honored a veteran—the news is bound to openly traduce him if he is small, or slyly slur at him if he is large, whenever it feels that way. The news of Monday stated:

There was another disgraceful fracas at a Borough saloon Saturday night, resulting in one man having his head cut and in another receiving a slight stab on his body. This morning the Borough Marshal knew nothing about the affair.

The above is false in every particular, and only published to do the Marshal harm in the opinion of the people and the authorities. There was no fracas of the kind in any saloon in the Borough, Saturday night nor any other night.

Memorial Day Arrangements.

The Memorial Day Detail appointed by Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R. of this city, met in the post room on Tuesday evening, to further complete their arrangements for the observance of Decoration Day, and to hear from the various societies which have been invited to participate in the celebration. Only one society, the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein, accepted the invitation.

According to the plans now arranged, the graves of the dead soldiers in this city and North Plainfield, will be decorated early in the day, after which the Post will go to Westfield in stages and take part in the exercises there, arriving in Plainfield on the return trip about 12:30 P. M. At two o'clock in the afternoon a short parade will be made, over a route not yet selected, after which the usual post excercises, the oration by Rev. Dr. Yerkes, and other appropriate services will be held in Music Hall at three o'clock.

Blessing of Sleep.

DR. FLINT'S REMEDY, for the man or woman who finds himself or herself unable to sleep nights, is an invaluable medicine, which will not only procure the blessing of sleep, but will prevent a general breaking down of the system. Descriptive treatise with each bottle. J. G. Miller, Agent, Plainfield.

DON'T BOND THE CITY.

A Correspondent Tells Very Clearly Why the Water Works System Should be Built on the Franchise Plan.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—A correspondent under date of May 16, signed "X. X. X.," criticises Mayor Male's remark that "Bonding the city to construct water works and sewers would be detrimental to the City's interests." Well, a great many residents and others are of the same opinion, admitting, too, that the bonds of the City would be looked upon as gilt-edged, and sell much above par, with the interest rate at 4 per cent.

The objections to bonding this City are many and varied, and if determined upon it will open the way to make issue after issue for needed improvements and imaginary benefits as well. Now in this matter of water works it has not as yet been stated officially what amount of bonds will be needed to construct a system. 'Tis true, a mechanical engineer, but scarcely a water works expert, has made a statement that a system of water works alone can be built for $100,000; but he probably means that the improvement can be started with that sum in hand and when once begun the City would be obliged to see it through to completion at any cost.

You remember, Mr. Editor, only a few years ago the Council employed a water works engineer to draw up plans and make a report for the construction of a system of water works and sewers. The Council then learned at a cost to the City of $700 or $800, that it would require $125,000 at least to put in a plant for water alone, and the City has extended considerably since. And then after estimating on three different plans, this engineer admitted that it would be necessary to make a series of tests by boring for water in various localities as it was not absolutely certain that water in sufficient quantity and of the proper quality could be obtained. He further says, in this report, that perhaps when the water was discovered it would answer the needs of the City for a time only, and then after all it might be necessary to supplement this supply with brook water. The report was reviewed and recommended by Randolph Herring, an expert, then of Chicago, now of New York city.

Now who is to meet the expense of testing by boring and the risk of failure to discover a sufficient supply of pure and wholesome water? Why the City of course, under the bonding plan as suggested. And then in the event of a failure of water entirely by this plan, or a contamination of the supply by the growth of the City or from other causes, works of a different character would have to be provided at an additional expense which would possibly be enormously out of proportion to the original cost. This is evidently what the mayor had in mind when he gave currency to his views.

Private corporations stand ready to undertake the building of water works, run all the risks of failure of water and disasters of any nature. This class of works are usually economically managed, free from politics and after it has been demonstrated that they are a success, it is provided that the City may purchase them at a figure previously agreed upon. Let us have a system built on the franchise plan. RESIDENT.

Probably One Will be Held and the Other Released

The examination of Michael Smith and James McDonald, who were arrested on a Bleecker street car in New York, May 4, charged with burglarizing the post office safe in this city, was held yesterday before United States Commissioner Shields.

The jewelry supposed to be taken from the registered package addressed to Annie Keating, the steel drills that fitted the holes in the safe, and some matches exactly like the half-burned ones found upon the scene, were produced at the examination. All these things had been found upon McDonald.

The summing up was adjourned to next Monday, when it is probable that McDonald will be held but that Smith must be released for want of evidence.

Arraigned for Libel.

Gen. J. Madison Drake, Commander of the Veteran Zouaves of Elizabeth, was arraigned in the Union County Court, yesterday morning, for criminal libel. He pleaded not guilty to three indictments. Two of the libels are the outgrowth of the Elizabeth centennial. Drake had trouble with the committee, and in his attack on them in his paper, the Sunday Leader, he published alleged libelous cuts representing Hon. Amos Clark and Grand Marshal Halsey. The third alleged libel is against W. B. Deland, a merchant of Elizabeth. Drake was bailed by ex-County Collector Patrick Sheridan in the sum of $1,500.

Starting a New Business Street.

Mr. Edward Love has just purchased a piece of land adjoining his property at North avenue and Peace street, which gives him a lot 25 feet front on the latter street by 22 feet deep. He will erect thereon a building that will have a desirable store below and be connected in its upper stories with Mr. Love's new factory now in course of erection.

The opening of Peace street as a business thoroughfare is thus beginning, and Mr. Love will have the credit of building the first of the many stores that will line the street in a few years.

—Myself and daughter have used Dr. Dam's Remedy for that weak, tired feeling and headache, and find it excellent.—Mrs. M. E. Taylor, E. Front street.

DUNELLEN BRIEFS.

Personal Points About Our Neighbors.

Miss Sarah Rogers has returned from Brooklyn, and taken up her residence at New Market for the Summer.

Mrs. Philip Smith died at her home here on Monday of consumption. The funeral took place from the house, today. Interment at High Bridge, N. J.

Mr. A. F. Sampson is one of the proudest men in Dunellen, the cause of which is the arrival of a female heir, who came to brighten his household a few days ago.

Mr. Daniel W. Gaskill who has been confined to the house for a long time past by illness, is now slowly recovering, and his friends now hope to soon see him out again.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Rider of Brooklyn, who have taken poeseession of Mr. J. W. Handren's house, on Sunday entertained Mr. and Mrs. Simpson, the parents of Mrs. Rider.

The voters of this School District will meet at Dunellen this evening, to consider and vote for or against an appropriation of $6,000, for the purpose of erecting a new school building North of the railroad. Considerable opposition is likely to be raised against the project, particularly by those people who do not care to have the place improved.

Somerset County Teachers Association.

The above named association held its annual meeting in North Plainfield, on Saturday.

After the usual preliminary exercises, Miss C. B. Claypoole gave an excellent talk on "Penmanship." She proved its claim as a science, and urged its treatment as such, at least that it be given the attention accorded other studies and the same thorough grading.

"Language taking the place of Grammar" was treated by Mr. Elliott in a manner showing careful study of the subject, and knowledge of the natural development of language.

Miss Stremmell's class in Phonics was decidedly entertaining and instructive. The little ones' familiarity with the macron, dieresis, and breve, might easily have put older heads to shame.

The Grube method was very clearly presented by Miss Adair, who proved by her treatment of the subject its power to develope positive knowledge on the part of the child.

Miss Beekman and Miss Compton showed the respective importance of printed and drawn maps. Both papers evinced appreciation of the value of these geographical aids.

The question "Recess or no Recess?" opened by Mr. Whittin, was warmly debated.

The following officers were elected: President—Mr. E. E. Cooley; Vice President—Miss M. J. Purdue; Secretary—Miss Lila Bishop; Treasurer—Miss Hattie Dilts.

Resolutions were adopted as follows:

Resolved, That the thanks of the teachers of Somerset county, here assembled, be tendered—

First, To the teachers of the North Plainfield school for their kind entertainment;

Second, To the Programme Committee for the interesting order of exercises provided;

Third, To the teachers who have so kindly carried out this programme.

—That copies of these resolutions be printed in the county papers.

LILA BISHOP,
EMMA BEEKMAN,
O. C. BARTOLETTE.

Robbing Its Own Files, Now.

Our daily record of the items stolen by the news from THE PRESS, has been too strong a dose for that sheet to take continuously, so yesterday it copied from these columns of Tuesday but one little bit of news—the election of Mr. James W. Jackson as Vice President of the Home B. & L. Association.

But its ruling passion must find exercise some way, so the news yesterday turned on its heel and stole from its own columns of over a week ago:

From the news of May 14.

—It was a Boulevard lad—one of the stamp who constantly contribute to the list of dead on the rail—and he was stealing a ride on a passenger train from Dunellen to Plainfield. When it became time for him to evade the conductor he sneaked out on the platform, went down on the steps, grasped the rail with one hand and swung his body on the outer side of the car, where he remained holding himself by only one hand until the conductor had crossed the platforms and had passed into the next car. The train meanwhile was running at a high rate of speed.

Real Estate Transfers.

Among the recent real estate transfers in this locality are the following:

May 10—Fred Rose et ux, to L. E. Barkalew, property in North Plainfield, $1,150. Nelson Runyon, M. C. to F. A. Coudert, 169.26 acres in Union and Somerset, $8,400.

Both Can't be Right.

The Central Times tells of Tier's lake and what a delightful place it is "to go and enjoy iced refreshments;" and that "Mr. Wm. Tier is caring for the ice cream department."

If "ice cream," why not "ice refreshments."

—Soda water and milk shakes are now on tap, and our druggists can furnish the best in the land.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

Queer Allegations About A Church.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—It is claimed by many Russians here that the Russian church which was destroyed by fire yesterday was the work of an incendiary with the object of concealing the misappropriation of the funds and getting rid of Bishop Vladimir, who had a narrow escape from burning to death. Many of the members claim that clergymen of the churches are acting as spies for the Russian government; that the affairs of the church are in the hands of an unscrupulous ring and that two bishops have already been murdered.

Bids for Buffalo's New Reservoir.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 23.—Contractor John O'Brien of New York is the lowest bidder for the construction of the new reservoir to be built in this city. His bid was $353,898. D. F. Minahan of Springfield, O., whose bid was $370,658, contests Mr. O'Brien's bid on the ground that it did not provide for a cement bottom while his did. The Commissioners will settle it.

Miss Van Dominie Seen.

BOSTON, May 23.—A young man employed in this city who was well acquainted with Miss Van Dominie, lately reported missing, says he saw her here last week in company with a man. The girl recognized the young man but seemed embarrassed. Miss Van Dominie was seen at the railway station in Lowell, where she has a sister, last Thursday.

Hung Himself in a Car.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., May 23.—John C. Case, a well known railroad employe hung himself in an empty car yesterday. He has been slightly demented for a year the result of a blow on the head. He was a son of the Rev. S. Case.

An Advance in Coal Prices.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The sales agents of the six leading coal companies have decided to advance prices 15 cents per ton for stove coal, and 10 cents for grate and egg, on June 1. Another advance next month is expected.

Cigar Manufacturers Meet.

NEW YORK, May 23.—A large meeting of cigar manufacturers was held last night to discuss the question of manufacturing cigars in bond for export. A committee was appointed to visit Washington and endeavor to secure the necessary relief from duties and taxes to carry out the plan successfully.

Ups and Downs in the Great Pennant Race.

CHICAGO DROPS TO NEW YORK.

Clarkson Loses His First Game of the Season at Boston Yesterday.

Philadelphia Takes a Game from Cleveland—Brooklyn Wins Small Glory at Kansas City—Louisville Barely Saved from a Shut-Out—The Browns in Clover. The Athletics Badly Beaten—Games in the Atlantic Association.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The defeat the Bostons sustained at the hands of the Indianapolis club and Philadelphia's victory over Cleveland enabled the Philadelphias to tie Boston in first place in the League championship race. New York strengthened its lead over Chicago and Indianapolis went ahead of Pittsburg.

Brooklyn took a firmer hold on second place in the Association race by defeating their most formidable rivals—the Kansas City club. The Cincinnati, Athletic and Baltimore clubs are making a strong fight for fourth place, and while they remain so close to each other changes may take place frequently.

Day by day the Jersey City club is bettering its hold on first place in the Atlantic Association race.

PAPA ANSON IN HARD LUCK.

The New Yorks pleased their many admirers yesterday by defeating the Chicagos on the occasion of their first appearance at St. George, Staten Island.

O'BRIEN WAS WILD.

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—O'Brien's inability to get the ball across the plate and a clever exhibition of sacrifice hitting gave the Phillies the first game with Cleveland yesterday afternoon.

CLOSE PLAY AT BOSTON.

BOSTON, May 23.—The Indianapolis defeated the Bostons in an exciting game yesterday that was full of fine plays. The batting was about even. This was Clarkson's first defeat this season.

SMALL GLORY FOR BROOKLYN.

KANSAS CITY, May 23.—Yesterday's game was easily taken by the men from Brooklyn. The Kansas City fielders did poor work and made costly errors.

SAVED BY ERRORS.

LOUISVILLE, May 23.—Louisville was barely saved a shut out by the errors of Baltimore in the eighth inning. Ewing's pitching was fairly good, but Baltimore batted strong and without any brilliant work hit safe.

THE BROWNS IN CLOVER.

ST. LOUIS, May 23.—The Browns won a jug handled game from the Athletics yesterday in the presence of a good crowd.

NEW HAVEN LOSES AGAIN.

NEW HAVEN, May 23.—The home team were again defeated by the Jersey Citys. The game was without feature, except to show the inferiority of the New Havens.

A PERFECT FIELDING GAME.

HARTFORD, May 23.—The Hartfords played a perfect fielding game. Winkelman fooled the Newarks in great shape, and only one of them got beyond second base. For five innings the Newarks went out in striking order.

WILKESBARRE DROPS A GAME.

WORCESTER, May 23.—The Worcesters played all around the Wilkesbarres yesterday. Pettit, of the latter team, was out of form.

BATTED HARD BUT WAS BEATEN.

LOWELL, May 23.—Easton batted Germaine for sixteen safe hits, with a total of twenty-six bases, and lost the game. The fielding was very bad. Hamilton put in five singles out of five times at the bat and Humphreys played in great form.

THE CHICAGO SCANDAL.

Mr. Leslie Carter Awarded the Verdict by the Jury.

CHICAGO, May 23.—The notable divorce case of Carter vs. Carter, which has been on trial for several weeks in the Circuit Court before Judge Jamieson, was finished yesterday when the jury came in with its verdict in favor of Mr. Carter, and refusing to grant a divorce to Mrs. Carter.

The verdict was to the effect that Mrs. Carter was guilty of adultery as charged in the cross bill and that Leslie Carter was not guilty of the charges preferred against him in his wife's bill for divorce.

It is not thought likely that the verdict of the jury will end the matter.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Leslie Carter, who charged her husband with unnamable offences. Mr. Carter filed a cross-bill charging his wife with adultery.

The prominence of the parties, the unusual beauty of Mrs. Carter and other matters unusual in such hearings, made it a celebrated case, and the court-room has been crowded since the trial began.

During its progress the testimony took the listeners in imagination over a good part of Europe; gave them glimpses of the royal prodigality with which Mrs. Carter lavished money on personal adornments and equipages, though her husband was by no means a rich man; traced the payment to her of several large checks drawn by a prominent merchant of New York; made evident her friendship for Kyrie Bellew, the actor; touched upon her relations with her physician, and, in short, developed a series of sensations to satisfy the expectations of the most pruriently inclined.

INDIAN INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

Graduating Exercises at the Carlisle Institution—Secretary Noble Present.

CARLISLE, Pa., May 23.—The tenth anniversary and graduating exercises of the Indian Industrial school took place yesterday. The morning's exercises included the inspection of industries and schools, gymnasium and parade drill.

The afternoon exercises consisted of "Greeting," Lily Cornelius, "The Common Chord" by Esther Miller, "Civilization or Barbarism" by Edwin Schanandere, "It is Alway Morning Somewhere" by Evan Johnson, "Five Years at Carlisle" by Nish Hawkins, "The Legend of Bregenz" by Clara Faber, "Give the World Assurance of a Man" by William F. Campbell.

Valedictory address, "From the Old Landmarks, to the New Milestones" by Cecilia Londroshi.

Secretary Noble presented the diplomas and in his address declared that the President has laid down the policy that the Indian tribes should be treated with justice. He was followed by Senator Colquitt and Governor Beaver.

The Reservoir Gave Way.

LITTLETON, N. H., May 23.—The heavy rains of the past two nights caused the upper reservoir of the Littleton Water and Electric Light company, situated 650 feet above the village, to burst last night. The reservoir covered about eight acres and the great body of water came tearing down Palmer brook, gullying it into a large river bed, uprooting trees and piling up debris. The bridge at Mann's Hill road was destroyed and one family compelled to run for safety. One barn was demolished and a dwelling seriously damaged. The bridge across Union street was washed away and the fields along the brook are flooded. The village water supply is not affected, as the two lower reservoirs remain intact. The damage is being rapidly repaired.

The Liquor Dealers Smiled.

BOSTON, May 23.—In obedience to a notification from the Police commissioners about fifty proprietors of hotels in Boston met the commissioners yesterday to consider the proper interpretation of the clause in the license law referring to the sale of liquor to guests. The commissioners said that the practice of selling liquor to people who simply registered must be discontinued and that nobody will be considered a guest unless he hired a room. The practice of closing the doors and blinds at 11 o'clock, seating the customers who happen to be inside and allowing them to drink must also be abandoned. The hotel men smilingly acquiesced in all that the commissioners said.

It Has Created a Row.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 23.—The notice of P. J. McGuire, Secretary of the National Brotherhood of Carpenters, that any of the members who are attached to the Kights of Labor cannot receive either sick or death benefits, has created a row here among the local unions. The carpenters' officials claim if a split occurs between the Knights of Labor and the Brotherhood, contractors and planing mill owners will take advantage of the trouble and reduce wages and increase the working hours. Members of the Knights of Labor here think it's an open fight by the American Federation of Labor against the Knights of Labor for scpremacy.

Cruelty to Philadelphia's Insane.

PHILADELPHIA, May 32.—Warrents have been issued for the arrest of three men, keepers in the insane department of the Philadelphia Hospital, who are charged with cruelty to insane patients. The affidavit was made by reporter George W. Symonds, who had himself committed to the institution. There will be a hearing in the case at 11 o'clock a. m. Tuesday next.

Henzel is Out of Danger.

NEWARK, N. J., May 23.—Henry Henzel, who on Friday last stabbed Mrs. Scherzer and afterward attempted suicide, is pronounced out of danger. Mrs. Scherzer's recovery is doubtful. Henzel is held on a charge of attempted murder.

Rolling Mills Resume.

READING, Pa., May 23.—It has been announced that the Keystone Rolling mill, which employed over 250 men before the Reading Iron works' failure and since which has been idle will resume work on Monday next. The Seyferts Rolling mill has also resumed operations.

Nearly Two Hundred Men Lost.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 23.—Advices from St. Pierre, Miquelon, state that two fishing vessels, the Ella and Quatre Freres, which left France some time ago for the Newfoundland fisheries with 175 men on board, have been lost, and that all hands have doubtless been drowned.

Chiefs for the Red Men.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., May 23.—The Improved Order of Red Men, at yesterday's session, elected Wm. J. Cain of Philadelphia Great Bashaba. Henry Ommert of Pittsburg was elected Great Guard of the Forest.

Death of a Stock Broker.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The death of J. M. Noyes of the brokerage firm of J. M. Noyes & Co., was announced in the Stock Exchange yesterday. He had been a member of the Board since July, 1872.

AN HONORABLE MAN.

AFTER many years of close application to the business of my employers (a great express company) I was promoted to the position of general traveling agent. George Weeks and I had started out together. We had been graduated from the same modest institution of learning, and had, at the same time, accepted rather humble positions as express agents at obscure railway stations. I don't know why, but I began at once to attract the favorable attention of my superiors. I say that I don't know why, for George in every way excelled me. From time to time I was promoted until one day the following Associated Press dispatch was sent out from Chicago:

"Mr. William Balis has been appointed general traveling agent of the K. L. T. Express Company."

The rapid advancement thus given me did not in the least tend to interrupt the warm, the old-time friendship existing between George Weeks and me. Many a man would have been envious, would in some sly way have reproached me, but George seemed to be delighted.

"My dear fellow," said he, when he had met me one day on the railway platform at a little town where he was stationed, "you don't know how thoroughly pleased I am to see you climbing up this way. Why, you'll be the president of the whole concern after awhile, and then you can appoint me as your private secretary, don't you see. Let us go into the office and sit down. I want to have a talk with you."

George had but little work to do—his station was far from being a busy one—and we sat down to the genuine enjoyment of cob pipes and natural-leaf tobacco.

"I suppose I am a sort of slow coach or, better, perhaps, it can be said, a balky horse; no, that won't do, for a balky horse won't pull, whereas I pull all I can. Guess I should be termed a weak horse. You may not know it, Bill, but I have done every thing I can to merit promotion, but to save my life I can not attract advantageous attention; but I am not complaining, for I have a deep-rooted belief that I may after awhile get the agency at a town of some size and at a salary of some consequence. I've got an idea. I thing of asking for a transfer to some station away out on some new railroad—out at some place which may now be in the woods, but which has the promise of becoming a city."

"I have a better plan for you than that, George."

"What is it?"

"Well, I am going to use every ounce of my influence in favor of your advancement."

"No, I won't have it that way."

"Why!"

"Why!" he repeated with emphasis. "Hang it! did you have anybody to shove you forward!"

"No, but—"

"But nothing!" he broke in. "There is no use in arguing with me, Bill, for I will not accept such a favor at your hands. I admit that the position I take is whimsical, but a whim is, nine times out of ten, stronger than a principle; for, like a firmly-fixed habit, a whim holds you with a sort of morbid clutch. See here now, old fellow, don't try to come any underhand business with me, for if you take pitying advantage of me and attempt to stand in the dark and assist me, I will resign my position under your grinding monopoly and become a howling anarchist."

"You will at least let me assist in getting you transferred to a post that has bright prospects?"

"Yes, I'll do that, but nothing more."

A few weeks from that time George was express agent at Balcath, a new station on a new road. His prospects, he wrote me, were good. "New houses," said he, "are springing up like May-apple stalks, and before long we shall have street railways and electric lights. Come out, when you feel that you are overworked, and see me."

I was overworked, or fancied that I was, and shortly after receiving George's letter I started for Balcath, having telegraphed my friend that I was coming. He met me with a cordial and generous grab rather than a grasp, and in his exuberance shoved me back against the depot-house and shook me until I bumped against the wall.

"WHERE IS YOUR CITY?"

"Where is your city, George?" I asked, when we had sat down in his office.

"Oh, it's coming, coming as sure as you live. The road over which it is coming is a trifle steep and is rather rough in places, but the city will get here after awhile, wearing a silk dress and ear-bobs six inches long. Well, old fellow," he went on, giving me a hearty slap on the shoulder, "I am always glad to see you, but am particularly delighted this time."

"Why so?"

He leaned toward me. "Several days ago," said he, "I received twelve thousand dollars, sent to a large lumberman whose place of business is some ten miles from here. I sent word out to him, but he had gone away from home, and now, as there is no bank at this place—no vault or any thing—I am forced to keep the money here in the safe. Your coming has lifted a load off my mind, for I have many reasons for believing that it is pretty well known in this neighborhood that the money has been received, and I am afraid that an attempt may be made to rob the office."

"Have you seen any thing suspicious?" I asked.

"It may have been a fancy, aroused by overwrought alertness, but the actions of three rough-looking men who hung about here this morning were far from being agreeable. They poked about, and seemed to be examining the windows."

"I'll tell you what we'll do," I answered. "We'll take turn about keeping watch, and in the event an attempt is made to rob us we'll introduce into the programme an inspiriting feature."

The next night was wild with wind and terrific with thunder. I was to watch until twelve o'clock and then arouse George. The bed-room was very small, and between it and the office where the large safe was kept there was only a thin partition, through which a door had been cut. The hour was growing late. The wind had increased, and the thunder and lightning were playing a fearful game. I looked at my watch and was just on the point of calling George to take his post of duty, when there came a terrific report—a report that seemed to lift the house from its foundation. George sprang up.

"What was that?" he exclaimed.

"I don't know whether it was thunder or not," I replied.

"I don't think it was," he anxiously rejoined. "Let us look in the other room."

George preceded me with the lamp. "Great Cæsar!" he exclaimed, "the safe is blown all to pieces."

So it was. One side of the house had even been blown out. Fragments of the safe were scattered about, and on the floor we found fragments of money. The robbers, we soon discovered, had entered at a small window.

"This settles me, I suppose," said George, raking together with his foot some of the fragments of the safe.

"I don't know why it should," I replied.

"No, I don't either, for that matter. Here come a lot of people. Now we'll have to answer ten thousand questions."

I communicated at once with headquarters, and it was not long until we had a number of detectives nosing about. George and I worked day and night, and although we accomplished nothing, did quite as much as the detectives who did nothing.

"THIS SETTLES ME."

George was not even censured; indeed I don't see how he could have been, for he had taken every possible precaution. My friend remained at Balcath two years longer, and then finding that the town did not intend to fulfill the promises which it at one time so generously made, he secured an appointment at a flourishing town in Kansas, but shortly afterwards he married the daughter of a wealthy saw-mill man and entered the real-estate business in Kansas City, having been assisted by the old gentleman.

We met frequently, and on no occasion did we ever fail to speak of that stormy night. It did not seem to me that he had ever recovered his old-time spirits, and many a time I heard him mutter against his stupidity.

"Stupidity!" I once asked.

"Yes, stupidity; I thought of the fact that the bed-room was too small to admit of the safe, but why didn't I think that the office was large enough to hold the bed?"

"Ah, well, I wouldn't worry over it. The company has never attached any blame to you and I don't see why you should blame yourself."

I went to Europe the next year, and after remaining abroad about eighteen months, returned home expecting to find George waiting for me at the pier, but he was not there. I went to my hotel and there found a letter from my friend.

"My Dear Bill," the letter ran, "you will be deeply shocked when you read this, not so much because it informs you that ere it reaches you I shall be dead, but an account of—well, I will tell you. After I had gone out to that town where the robbery occurred I became sick at heart.

"I had gone out there with the most honorable of intentions—in fact, my intentions remained honorable, with a momentary exception, until you came. Is this not an absurd statement? I will show you.

"Two days before you came I received the package of money. I was tempted. But how could I secure it? I could steal it, but that, I knew, would cause you pain, and the thought that you should ever regard me as a thief was maddening to me. Then I put aside all such thoughts and became my old honest self until you arrived. In a moment a devilish thought struck me. Under the very eye of the general traveling agent of the express company I would steal the money. But how? Ah! I settled that in a moment. With confederates? oh no, I must do it all myself. You know that I have studied many things and that odd experiments was a hobby of mine. Well, I would practice one of my odd experiments on that safe. I would blow it up with a slow match. I took the money out of the safe and hid it. I arranged my match. The first night every thing was too still. The next night was favorable. The thunder was fearful. I carefully removed the sash of a small window just before I went to bed.

"My match was arranged to go off at twelve o'clock, and I lighted it. I lay down about eight, you remember. Sleep? Not a wink. I lay there thinking, wondering if time had ceased to move onward. I counted the ticking of the clock in the office. How I wished it were a striker. The storm increased. Once I was about to spring up. There had come a loud crash. It was only the thunder. Could it be that the thing had gone out? I heard you moving around, and I fancied that I heard the snap of your watch as you closed it. Just then the explosion occurred. You know the rest.

"Bill, I have never seen a moment of peace since that time. My lungs were never strong. I am dying now. While you are far away believe me to be one of the most honorable of men. I am not quite so bad as I might be. I have placed twelve thousand dollars with interest in a package and have donated it to the express company. In a disguised hand I have made a false statement. But my name is not signed to it. What need they know so long as they get their money. Good-bye, old fellow."

George had died several weeks before my return. Shortly after I had gotten back to my business the president remarked:

"A very strange thing has happened. You remember the robbery out at Balcath?"

"Yes."

"Well, the man who committed the robbery has returned the money with interest. His name was John Blucher, and we have, of course, made no effort to find him. Singular things happen in this world."

"Very."

"By the way, your old friend is dead."

"Yes."

"There was an honorable man."

I made no reply. OPIE P. READ.

New York Politicians Excited.

NEW YORK, May 23.—There is much excitement in local, political and social circles over the arrest of Frank Templeman who was formerly connected with Wilkinson's private detective agency. He recently charged that his former employer, J. E. Wilkinson, was in league with District-Attorney Fellows and Inspector Byrnes to defraud the city out of $5,047 for alleged services in the boodle aldermen cases. Templeman was arrested and indicted on a charge of perjury in having sworn to a statement setting forth the above facts. As will be arraigned to-day.

Collieries Starting Up.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., May 23.—The Thomaston, Otto and Phœnix Park collieries, of the Reading Coal and Iron company, which have been idle for several months, started up again yesterday. Other idle collieries will probably be put in operation very soon, though an immediate resumption is not anticipated.

Brice Is Not a Candidate.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 23.—Calvin S. Brice, who was here to-day on his way to Lima, said he was not a candidate for Chairman of the National Democratic committee, but his friends were urging him to become so, and he did not know what the committee would do. At any rate, there would be no contest between Senator Gorman and himself, as there was perfect accord between them on all matters of party policy.

WHY

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WHERE:

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

Yesterday's Games on Many Diamonds.

BOSTON FIRST IN THE LEAGUE.

Chicago Turns the Tables on New York in a Loose Game.

Washington Whips Pittsburg and Cleveland Does Up Philadelphia—Brooklyn Again Downs Kansas City—Athletics Beat the Association Leaders—Louisville Succumbs to Baltimore, and Columbus to Cincinnati—The Scores.

NEW YORK, May 24.—The defeat the Philadelphia club sustained from the Clevelands gave the Bostons first place in the League championship race. The Chicagos gained considerable ground on the New Yorks, as did Washingtons on the Pittsburgs.

St. Louis is still in the lead in the Association race, but the Brooklyns are rapidly gaining upon them. The Cincinnati, Athletic and Baltimore clubs are doing well and making a strong fight.

The Jersey City club continues to hold its own at the top of the list in the Atlantic Association race, while the Newarks are losing ground.

SLUGGING AND ERRORS GALORE.

Chicago turned the tables on New York at St. George yesterday in a game that was almost unequalled for heavy hitting and redolent of errors. Thirty-five safe hits were made, with a total of forty-eight bases. Chicago scored a dozen errors and New York half that number.

PITTSBURG WASN'T IN IT.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The Smoky City team was not in the game at all yesterday, and the Senators ran things to suit their own pleasure.

RATHER LIVELY FOR BABIES.

PHILADELPHIA, May 24.—The Phillies fell easy victims to the League baby yesterday afternoon through inability to hit Beatin.

COWBOYS GET A DRUBBING.

KANSAS CITY, May 24.—The Cowboys met with an awful drubbing in a six-inning game here yesterday afternoon, which was stopped by a severe hail storm.

BUCKEYES MAKE A HOT FIGHT.

COLUMBUS, O., May 24.—The game between Columbus and Cincinnati yesterday was closely contested.

LOOSE PLAYING IN THE SOUTH.

LOUISVILLE, May 24.—The Louisville and Baltimore nines played a tiresome game yesterday afternoon. Fielding on both sides was wretched.

GOOD FEATURES IN THIS GAME.

ST. LOUIS, May 24.—The Athletics beat the Browns in the ninth inning yesterday in one of the prettiest slugging matches seen here this season.

JERSEY CITY WINS AGAIN.

NEW HAVEN, May 24.—The Jersey Citys defeated the New Havens again yesterday. The game was well played, and barring the fact that Sworback was wild in the first inning, it was hotly contested. Neither side were able to hit the ball, and all runs scored by the visitors were brought in by men who had gone to first on called balls.

HARTFORD MOVES UP ONE.

HARTFORD, May 24.—The Hartfords won again yesterday. McDermott was injured before the game, and Sullivan took his place at second base. This had an important bearing on the game.

WILKESBARRES BADLY RATTLED.

WORCESTER, May 24.—The Wilkesbarres were badly rattled in the ninth inning and allowed the Worcesters to make eight unearned runs.

LOWELLS BUNCH THEIR HITS.

LOWELL, May 24.—Lowell bunched their hits off Sullivan yesterday, and he became rattled. Humphreys is playing a great game and will not be released as intended.

THE SCORES OF YESTERDAY'S GAMES.

WRITTEN IN BLOOD.

Details of a Ghastly Domestic Tragedy in West Pittston, Pa.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 24.—The home of Frank Compton, in West Pittston, was yesterday the scene of a bloody tragey, equalling in atrocity the Doran murder and suicide at Maltby last week.

As in that case a man and wife are the victims. Frank Compton, the husband, is a young man of thirty years, who, with his wife, has been looked upon as worthy of all respect.

Recently, from some unknown cause, Compton has become jealous, and yesterday at breakfast he brok out in a fit of rage and seizing a knife, he slashed his wife repeatedly, inflicting wounds from which she died in a short time.

Seeing the accomplishment of his fatal purpose, he then used the knife upon himself, severing the artries of his arm, and cutting his throat so that he speedily bled to death. The tragedy took place in the bedroom and is believed to have been the outcome of a quarrel between the couple, Compton charging his wife with receiving the attention of other men. After killing his wife and cutting his own throat he walked down stairs, and, with his bloody fingers, wrote the word "jealousy" upon the sitting-room wall. He also left on a slate a message which read: "Give my watch to my brother. I am going to heaven." He then went up stairs and fell beside his wife's body where he died.

Compton was a gardner by occupation. He has two brothers' one living at Harrisburg and the other at Pottsville. The wife, who was formerly Dora Roselle, was 28 years old and very pretty, having been before her marriage a society belle in Scranton. Before coming to this place the couple lived near Dunnings, in Lackawana county, where the brother referred to in the message on the slate is hotel-keeper. The couple had no children.

The family of George Young, living next door in the same building, were alarmed over some shrieks they had heard, and starting an investigation the terrible crime was revealed to them. Compton was then alive, but died about 5 o'clock. The Coroner has taken charge of the bodies.

Five People Roasted to Death.

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va., May 24.—The house of Rev. T. C. Clarke, five miles from this place, was burned at 1 o'clock this morning. Mr. Clarke, his two daughters, son, and a niece were roasted to death in the burning building. Mrs. Clarke and two children and the governess, Miss Ella Bidgood, escaped by jumping from the windows in their night clothes. The fire is thought to have been of incendiary origin. Mr. Clarke was pastor of the London Bridge Baptist church, in Princess Anne county, and a preacher of great ability. There is much excitement here and if the incendiary is discovered there is little doubt of his being strung to the nearest tree.

To Arrange the Wage Scale.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 24.—The Western Association of Window Glass manufacturers, at a special meeting here, appointed a committee to meet the workmen and arrange the wage scale for the ensuing year. It was decided that factories can be closed at any time desired at or near the end of June. Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and other States were represented. Trade was declared to be good, with a bright outlook. The new scale will probably differ little from the present one, and no strike is anticipated this year as both employers and workmen seem satisfied.

Molders Again Quit Work.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 24.—The molders who returned to work at Rathbone, & Co.'s shops yesterday, pending arbitration of their difficulty—a proposed reduction of 10 per cent.—quit work again to-day because the firm wanted to withhold the 10 per cent. reduction from the men's wages pending the decision of the arbitration. This the men refused to agree to and quit work until the arbitrators agree upon a basis of settlement.

The O. N. T. Strike at an End.

NEWARK, N. J., May 24.—A committee of the striking O. N. T. spinners waited upon General Manager Clark and Treasurer Clark at the Kearney mills yesterday. The result of the conference will not be made public until the meeting of the spinners, but it is understood that arbitration was successfully accomplished and the strike is virtually at an end. Over 400 persons will return to work on Monday.

Stricken with Paralysis.

HADDONFIELD, N. J., May 24.—Rev. Noah Edwards, a superannuated Methodist clergyman, very prominent in Methodist circles, and especially in the conferences of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, was struck with paralysis yesterday, and is not expected to recover. Mr. Edwards has preached in some of the best churches in the country. He is 83 years of age.

A Granite Company Insolvent.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE

The President Has a Busy Time with Callers.

MANY VISITORS PAY RESPECTS.

Some Talk About Offices, Others Indulge in Social Calls.

The Cruiser Boston to Be Sent to Hayti with a Commission to Investigate European Interference in the Black Republic Three New Unarmored War-Vessels to be Built—Interesting Jottings from the National Capital.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The rush of visitors to the White House continued yesterday, and the President had quite a busy time during the hour and a half devoted to general callers.

Senator Hiscock escorted a delegation from Brooklyn and Representative Farquhar a large excursion party from Buffalo. The former talked about offices and the latter merely to pay their respects. Ex-Representative Deuster brought a number of friends from Wisconsin and ex-Representative Flaherty called with Mr. Egan, Minister to Chili.

Among the other callers were Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage; John T. Wilson, of Pittsburg; Col. Ellward Best, of West Virginia; S. A. Harrison, of Milwaukee; Col. W. B. Crooks, of Philadelphia; B. C. Hobbs, of Indiana; Captain C. F. Porter, of New York; James J. Templeton, of Chicago; J. F. J. Tresch, of New York city; T. Sanford Beatty; L. E. Parsons, Jr., of Alabama, and John W. Fisher and Otis H. Russell, of Richmond; ex-Representative Thomas Boles; of Arkansas; R. E. Lawder, of Missouri; E. Y. Goldsborough, of Maryland; E. M. Brayton, of South Carolina.

Rev. T. H. B. Browne headed a delegation from Fredericksburg, Va., who invited the President to attend their agricultural fair in October next. The President said he would think the matter over.

It is understood that the Boston is to be sent to Hayti. It is said she was selected because she had the yellow fever on her former trip, and less risk would be run on that account.

According to reports which are believed to be entirely correct, a commission under the authority of the State department will sail in the Boston, invested with the power to ascertain and report upon the condition of affairs in Hayti—whether there is a disposition on the part of any European governments to interfere in Haytian matters, and what, if any, action is required on behalf of the United States.

Your representative applied to Secretary Blaine for information, but the Secretary was very emphatic in the declaration that the subject was one which he could not under any circumstances discuss at present.

It is reported that the Secretary has tendered a place on the Commission to Representative Hitt, of Illinois.

Advertisements for bids for building three new 2,000 ton unarmored cruisers for the Navy are being prepared at the Navy department. The vessels will be known as cruisers 9, 10, and 11, and are to be built at a cost not exceeding $700,000 each.

It was left discretionary by Congress with the Navy department to build either gunboats or cruisers, and the latter were chosen.

The Secretary of the Treasury has appointed J. W. Knowlton custodian of the public building site at Bridgeport, Conn.; Alexander C. Yard, custodian of the public building at Trenton, N. J., and Samuel M. Houry custodian of the public building at Oxford, Miss.

It is authoritatively stated that the appointment of two internal revenue collectors, one for Philadelphia; a Second Controller, and one auditor of the Treasury will be made this week.

The names of the persons to be appointed, were agreed upon, at a conference between the President and Secretary Windom on Wednesday.

Fourth-class postmasters have been appointed as follows:

PENNSYLVANIA—T. P. Cosgrave, Archbald; C. Van Buskirk, Bald Mount; M. R. Brown, Cansal; J. B. Harding, Centre Moreland; C. L. Bartleson, Clifton Heights; R. F. Cochran, Cochranville; W. A. ## ASSAULTED THE OFFICER.

Borough Marshal Pangborn Attempts to Disburse a Crowd of Colored Base Ballists, When He is Knocked Down and Beaten and His Club Stolen.

An incipient riot occurred in North Plainfield, about dusk last evening, during which Special Marshal Pangborn was knocked down, kicked and his club was wrenched from his grasp and stolen. It appears that the base ball game between the married and single men in North Plainfield, yesterday afternoon, attracted an unusually large number of colored people from this city. After the game some of the players spent an hour or so unloading schooners, and about seven o'clock the crowd started for home. In front of the Somerset House the gang became noisy, and obstructed the sidewalk.

Special Marshal Pangborn was in the vicinity at the time, and he ordered the mob to disperse. Some of the more sober ones obeyed the Marshal's order, but one of the number whose name is said to be Randolph, refused to move, and the Marshal threatened him with arrest. The mob then set upon the officer and during the melee the latter's club was stolen.

The Marshal overtook the fellow who grabbed his club and arrested him, but the mob followed and by force released the prisoner. Pangborn was knocked down and kicked, but displayed remarkable bravery, and the crowd finally dispersed and escaped into this city. It is said that a special policeman of this city was one of the ringleaders in the affair. The names of the persons implicated have been furnished the officer, and they will be apprehended and made to answer.

Today Marshal Pangborn feels quite sore from the effects of the beating he received.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. John Taylor Johnston and family are at their Summer home in this city.

Mrs. Dayton of New Haven, Conn., is visiting her mother, Mrs. R. C. Potter of Mt. Pleasant.

Mr. J. Oscar Stevens purchased the Cane property on Clinton avenue and Fourth street, at auction, yesterday, for $6,500.

Mr. Jas. Middledith of Washington, D. C., has leased from Mrs. D. C. Green her house at No. 38 West Eighth street, and with his family will take possession about June 1.

Mr. A. M. Layot, whose purchase of the Guerrier hotel property was recorded in THE PRESS a few days ago, does not intend to lease it but will retain it for his own private use.

At the annual election to the Yale senior societies, held yesterday afternoon, Mr. Percy Hamilton Stewart of this city, was elected to the "Skull & Bones," and Mr. Albert Arthur Tilney to the "Wolf's Head."

Messrs. William and George Craig will leave Plainfield to-morrow for Texas, but will not spend the Winter there as the Central Times states. Mr. George Craig will be back at the opening in the Fall of the New York College of Physicians and Surgeons, from which he will soon graduate.

So delightful to the taste are HAMBURG FIGS that they could be placed upon the table for dessert, and no one would suspect that they were more than very superior crystalized fruit. ## PLAINFIELD WINS AGAIN.

The Crescent Club Was Crippled by Absentees and Fell Victims to New Blood.

The return game between bowling teams of the "Plainfield" and "Crescent" clubs, took place in Olympia alley, last evening, and again the Plainfield ten won.

Captain 'Bert Stover of the Crescents had picked a strong team and was naturally confident of victory, but when game was called McMurray, Demarest and Moore were absent, and R. Murray, W. Lowry and Corwin were substituted. Murray, however, did the best work on the team, and finished high man.

Captain Jim Davis of the Plainfield club, also tried some new blood. Half of his men had never bowled in a match before, but it was thought fair for Kieb and other big scorers to sit among the spectators and let the new men get some experience. This proved to be no mistake of judgment. Thiers, the freshest man in the club, bowled the highest score, while VanWinkle and Haven were far ahead of older hands like H. Teel and Andrews.

Although both clubs scored larger totals than at the previous game, yet as a general thing very poor bowling was done. The first frame opened the game alike for both teams—four strikes and six breaks. But when it was rolled off the Crescents dropped 19 pins behind. This lead the Plainfields added to on each frame, as shown below. Mr. Dome Willetts was umpire. The game closed at 10:30, when both teams cheered for one another, and woke up the neighborhood.

THE SCORE:

PLAINFIELD.

Fully uniformed comrades are expected to appear in same; those not uniformed will parade in dark clothing with uniform hats and gloves, wearing the Memorial Badge and carrying cane. The Commander expects every comrade to be in line whether fully uniformed or not.

By order,
Official: ISAAC BROKAW,
JOHN E. STEWART, Commander.
Adjutant.

To-morrow's Teams.

Below are the names and positions of the two nines who will contest to-morrow's game on the Y. M. C. A., grounds, at LaGrande avenue and Richmond street:

| | CRESCENTS. | TENTH WARD. |
|---|---|---|
| Catcher | Condon. | Ball. |
| Pitcher | Gately. | Hammill. |
| 1st base | McMurray. | Comesky. |
| 2d base | Dilts. | Hornish. |
| 3d base | Lee. | Elliott. |
| Short stop | Cornwell. | Mullin. |
| Left field | Ashworth. | VanNess. |
| Centre field | Demarest. | O'Neill. |
| Right field | McLaughlin. | Blumstein. |

It will be a hard fight for the Plainfield boys, but they have great confidence in Gately. Much depends, however, on whether he will prove effective against so strong a team of batters as the Newark men.

Game will be called at 3:30 o'clock. Admission to the grand stands is only 15 cts, and as such receipts alone will assist the Association in keeping up the grounds and furnishing the people attractive outdoor entertainment, it is trusted the stands will always be liberally patronized.

—The Dunellen Bowling Alley will be occupied by two local teams on Monday afternoon next.

THE GALLANT DRAGOONS.

Some of the Adonises of New York's Crack Cavalry, Who are Well Known in Plainfield.

After many futile attempts on the part of New York's leading horsemen to organize a representative cavalry regiment, the old First Hussars has recently been transformed into Troop A, First Dragoons. The regiment was mustered into the State service a few weeks ago.

THE PRESS copies from a New York paper the following descriptions of some of those known in Plainfield who belong to this regiment of troopers as capable in storming the hearts of women as they are in charging the enemies of the State.

First Corporal John I. Holly is the president of a big life insurance company and one of the richest sub-officers in the dragoons. Corporal Holly is as brave as a lion, generous to a fault and as handsome as an Apollo Belvidere. He is immensely popular in society, and few men are more widely or more favorably known in Wall street than Corporal Holly.

Charles L. Hyde, the banker, is another valuable acquisition to the regiment, and one that the soldier boys are not slow in appreciating. Trooper Hyde is tall and fair, and wears his beard a la Boulanger. The banker is known to his comrades as the "Solid Trooper," not so much on account of his physique as on account of his wealth, which runs up into the millions.

Percy C. Ohl is a new and valuable acquisition to the dragoons. The handsome broker now takes as much stock in military affairs as he does on the Exchange, which is saying a great deal, considering that he is one of the largest operators in the board. Trooper Ohl is the proud owner of the finest specimen of horseflesh in the regiment, and he invariably puts in an appearance on the Central Park drive after banking hours.

Second Lieutenant Oliver B. Bridgman, who spends his Summer at The Netherwood, the talented and handsome son of the Rev. Dr. Bridgman, comes next in rank and good looks. The young lieutenant is a daring rider and a crack shot. He is also a fine disciplinarian, and he is rapidly "licking" the raw recruits of the First Troop into shape. Lieutenant Bridgman was one of the original members of the New York Hussars.

Two handsome and popular troopers are the Eckert brothers, also Netherwood residents, both of whom are in the telephone business and who live in grand style on Madison avenue.

Since this crack cavalry regiment was mustered into the National Guard hundreds of applications for membership have been received; but as the number of troopers is limited to 100, considerable judgment is necessary in accepting the applicants, all of whom must need be properly recommended before they can expect to be elected.

When the First Dragoons go into camp for the Summer at the State encampment at Peekskill, the troopers will ride there and return, choosing the most picturesque roads along the Hudson for their jaunt.

New Jersey Pharmacists.

Sixty druggists were present at the 19th annual meeting of the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association at Bridgeton, on Wednesday. Thirty-one persons were elected to membership during the day. Messrs H. P. Reynolds and R. J. Shaw were present from this city.

The Committee on the Sale of Liquor by Pharmacists presented an opinion which they had secured from Cortlandt Parker, which was in substance that the law did not prohibit pharmacists from selling liquor as a medicine, but did as a beverage. The committee's advice from Senator Werts was that in framing the new law it was not his intention to prohibit the selling of liquor for medicinal purposes.

Resolutions were passed favorable to the removal of the special tax on the sale of liquor and of the reduction of the tax on alcohol. A prominent druggist stated that he violated the letter of the law daily that every other druggist in the State did openly violate it, and that they must continue to do so, as they were often called upon to sell liquor to relieve suffering, upon their own judgment without a prescription.

A Temperance Drama.

"The Social Glass," a temperance drama, was produced at St. Mary's T. A. B. Hall, last evening, under the auspices of St. Joseph's Cadets of North Plainfield. The attendance was large and the play was acceptably rendered. It concluded with a laughable farce entitled: "The Haunted House." Following was the cast of the drama:

A Plainfield Engineer Appointed.

The Union County Board of Freeholders yesterday appointed Surveyor F. A. Dunham of this city, engineer to superintend the construction of the county roads. His salary was fixed at $8 a day, and the Board will allow him to employ two assistants at a salary of $2.50 a day each.

It will take Engineer Dunham between two and three months to complete the work laid out by the Board.

AN ENJOYABLE VACATION.

Where Some Plainfielders Spent Last Summer, in an Attractive, Novel and Economical Way.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—In the old time almanacs there used to be notations to the effect that at such and such a time certain events would take place. For instance: "About this time the birds begin to fly Southward," "About this time snow begins to fall," and so forth.

If we were editing one of the old style almanacs in these days we would note that "About this time (Spring) the fancy of the average young man lightly turns to thoughts of vacation."

While this thought is uppermost in the mind of so many Christian young men, we would like to present for their consideration a plan of spending a week or two that would not only be exceedingly pleasurable but very profitable as well.

It has been shown that recreation and culture in these days can go hand in hand, each one giving zest to the other. Recognizing this, Mr. Moody brings together each Summer, Christian college students, workers in Young Men's Christian Associations, churches and schools, at his home in Northfield, where nature has been so lavish with her charms. There are to be found mountain and river, fields and woods, delightful and enchanting glens, deep ravines, babbling brooks, rushing streams, and, indeed, almost everything in nature that charms the fancy or tempts to recreation. Young men can enjoy themselves to the full with swimming and rowing, base ball and tennis, walking and driving and field sports of all kinds. From these they can go with refreshed bodies and clear and vigorous minds to enjoy the no less varied attractions which Mr. Moody provides for the mind and heart and soul. Men who are widely known for their great learning, deep piety and noble enthusiasm respond to the call of Mr. Moody and all this learning and piety and enthusiasm are used to inspire in the hearts of their young auditors a deeper reverence for the Word of God, a greater determination to delve into its depths of truth, and a lofty and longing desire to be of service to God and man.

After personal experience, the writer of this asserts that no better place can be found to spend a vacation.

In regard to the accommodations they are good. All the Northfield Seminary buildings—5 in number—are placed at the disposal of Mr. Moody's guests, and they are provided with almost every convenience and comfort. There are separate rooms and beds and bath rooms, fine parlors, books, etc., together with good board, and all the whole things costs is $1.00 per day. It may be mentioned that married men can take their wives or families with them to Northfield, and we venture to say that the ladies will be delighted with it as a place to spend a vacation. To those who would not be enclosed within walls of brick and mortar, tents are provided at even smaller cost. This is novel and attractive to many. Four or five friends can tent together and eat at the Halls, or if they choose can prepare their own meals. Let such a club be organized to go from Plainfield. The President or General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will receive applications. The encampment this year will begin June 29, and extend to July 14, inclusive.

Washington Park to be Glorified Through the World.

The New York World of next Sunday will contain a column article on the beauties of Washington Park, North Plainfield, and its surroundings. The names of those who have within a few years added so much to the attraction of the Park by the erection of new and handsome dwellings, will appear, also the young ladies who hold high positions in the Park society, the families who represent the elite, and all who dwell in the Park.

By request of the World the article was written by a well known and popular resident of Washington Park, and one who has always taken a deep interest in its progress. No better selection could have been made by the World to fairly represent the aristocratic people of this beautiful place of residence.

Bishop Wigger's Health.

There are many people in this city who will doubtless be glad to learn that Bishop Wigger of this diocese is in Rome, and perfectly restored to health. A dispatch says that he has been ordered to Pau, in the South of France, by his physician, but went instead to the seashore, near Ancona, Italy, with the result already stated. He leaves today for Genoa, and will meet Bishop Rademacher, of Nashville, Tenn., at Lucerne, and with him will visit many places in Germany.

Must Vote Again on the Mayoralty.

Judge VanSyckle, having declined to grant ex-Mayor Hyer the privilege of recounting the votes, the Rahway Common Council has named June 18, as the day to hold a special election. It will be remembered the vote for the Mayoralty in the Spring election was a tie. Both candidates will stand as in the election of April.

Always on the Alert.

Governor Green spent Wednesday with the State Board of Assessors on one of the Pennsylvania Railroad tugs, inspecting the termini of the various railroads of the State about Jersey City and Hokoken.

General Telegraphic Despatches.

THE CRONIN MURDER.

The Police on the Trail of the Assassins. One Man Arrested.

CHICAGO, May 24.—The very latest developments in the Cronin murder case justify the belief that the guilty parties will soon be apprehended. The police are now holding an important secret conference in Captain Wing's office in Lake View and there is no doubt that something important is under discussion.

Judge Longenecker said that the police were on the trail of one of the principals in the crime and he believed the whole conspiracy would be laid bare within a few hours.

It was rumored that the police had placed under arrest the young man who drove up to the Conklin residence on the night of Saturday, May 4, and carried away the doctor to his doom. This, however, could not be confirmed. It was said that the fellow was in custody at the East Chicago Avenue station.

LATER—It is now said that the man was locked up at the Larabee Street station by Lieutenant Schmuttler.

Coroner Hertz empaneled a jury for the inquest. After the jury had viewed the body the inquest was postponed till next Tuesday at 10 o'clock.

Will Exhume the Body.

BROCKTON, Mass., May 24.—Lloyd B. Chamberlain, council for the New York Mutual Reserve Fund Insurance Company, has petitioned for permission to exhume and hold an autopsy on the body of Henry Lincoln who died in October, 1887, as was believed by suicide. The hearing has been set for to-morrow. The widow sues the Company for the amount of a policy and the conflicting evidence at the trial as to where the bullet entered occasioned the petition.

Distiller Johnson Settled.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., May 24.—B. K. Johnston, a large and wealthy distiller, living near this city, who was arrested some months since upon a charge of violating the internal revenue laws, has settled with the Government and the charges are now withdrawn. Mr. Johnston has always borne a high character and the settlement with the Government in no wise reflects upon his previous good character.

Mr. Tilden's Doctor Bill.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Judge Ingraham, in Supreme Court Chambers, has decided that the suit of Dr. Charles Simmons against the estate of Samuel J. Tilden, must be tried before a jury. Dr. Simmons desired that his claim of $143,350 for professional services should go before a referee, but the executors demanded a trial by jury.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by the official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

The Irish Editor Scores the Tory Government.

HIS TESTIMONY CONCLUDED.

"United Ireland" Advocates Nothing but Peaceful Means.

Queen Victoria Only Known to Ireland by Her Scarcely Decently Disguised Hatred of the Irish and Her Inordinate Salary—Mr. O'Brien Says the Manchester Murderers Were Martyrs. Cheers from the Spectators.

LONDON, May 24.—Mr. Gladstone was present at yesterday's session of the Parnell Commission. The cross-examination of Mr. William O'Brien was continued. The witness stated that United Ireland had advocated nothing but peaceful means in Ireland's struggle against landlordism.

Mr. O'Brien admitted writing and printing in his paper that Queen Victoria was only known to Ireland by her scarcely decently disguised hatred of Ireland and by her inordinate salary; also that Earl

EDITOR WILLIAM O'BRIEN.

Spencer would be the last strong Englishman who would "attempt to rule Ireland by means of barbarism, paid perjury, butchery and the use of the sacred rope."

The Attorney General referred to a speech of Mr. O'Brien's in which he said: "We are in a state of civil war which is tempered only by a scarcity of firearms."

This speech, the witness explained, was due to exasperation at his expulsion from the House of Commons. He spoke under strong feeling and with a keen appreciation of the fearful hatred felt by English Commoners for Irish members of Parliament. "If it was ever right to rebel," said Mr. O'Brien, "the Irish people had that right, if there had been any chance of success."

Attorney General Webster—"You only objected to rebellion then because it was hopeless?"

Mr. O'Brien—"Under the circumstances at that time, unquestionably."

The Attorney General then referred to the Manchester murders and mentioned Messrs. Allen, Larkin and O'Brien as the murderers of the police killed in the riot at Manchester.

Mr. O'Brien—"They were not murderers, but were engaged in open warfare and shot the policemen by accident."

The Attorney General—"Is shooting a policeman legitimate warfare?"

Mr. O'Brien—"It was not criminal in that case. Men who openly take risks to release their comrades are no more murderers than anyone present here who would have acted from the noblest motives."

The witness then stated that he wrote an article in which he said that the Martyrs, Allen, Larkin and O'Brien were honors to their Chicago kindred. This statement was greeted with rousing cheers from the spectators present.

Presiding Justice Hannen thereupon threatened to clear the court room if such a demonstration was repeated. He reminded Mr. O'Brien that the Court regarded the Manchester shooting as murder, and the men who were hanged for the crime as murderers.

The Attorney General then declared that he had finished his cross-examination of the witness, and Mr. O'Brien was allowed to leave the stand.

The general public is bemoaning the prospect that confronts it of having Sir Morell Mackenzie's quarrel with the German doctors over the late Emperor Frederick's case, and the interminable disputes and wranglings that grew out of it, repeated in the libel suits that Dr. Mackenzie has brought against the Times and Mr. Steinkoph, the proprietor of the St. James' Gazette.

The libel claimed by the doctor is contained in the letters that have figured in the Greenwood case, in which it was stated that Sir Morell conspired against the German throne by declaring his august patient free from cancer and thus making him the successor to the throne of his father, which he would not have been according to German law, if it had been known that he had cancer.

Only a portion of these letters were read in court, but the Times managed to possess itself of the entire lot of the letters and printed them in full without any warrant for doing so.

Dr. Mackenzie now sues Mr. Steinkoph for writing the letters and the Times for printing them.

These libel suits will add to the celebrated law cases of the last year that have occupied the English courts. Doubtless there will be great interest shown in these cases, and many new and interesting bits of testimony will undoubtedly be brought out.

The disturbances among the agricultural laborers in various districts of Italy continue. Numbers of women laborers in the ricefields near Medicina, province of Bologna, pillaged the bakeshops of the town to-day to relieve the hunger of their families. Troops have been ordered to the spot.

Watching Their Men.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 24.—It is reported that Carnegie, Phipps & Co. have sworn in twenty special officers and that they are now on duty in the big steel works at Homestead. The object, it is said, is to keep the firm posted as to the actions of the the men, and their movements relative to the proposed reduction of wages which is to take effect on June 1. Every move so far made indicates that the firm will insist upon the reduction at all hazards. The workmen declare they will strike if the notice of reduction is not withdrawn.

PLENTY OF SPECTATORS,

At the Trial of the Great Electric Suit in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 24.—Interest in the great electric suit between the Westinghouse and Edison companies in the United States court is constantly increasing. The court room yesterday was crowded, quite a number of ladies being present.

The argument on the complainant's side was resumed, Mr. Broadnax taking up the subject where Mr. Dalzell left off on Tuesday. Mr. Broadnax read from a carefully prepared brief the history of the Sawyer-Mann inventions; their failures and successes until triumphant in 1878. Mr. Broadnax contended that the lamps constructed by Sawyer-Mann, at that time had a far greater luminosity than the ordinary lamp of to-day. The carbons were of many forms, but those commonly used of paper or wood.

The arguments were finished last night. The decision will probably not be rendered for some weeks to come.

Narrow Escape from Disaster.

CORRY, Pa., May 24.—There was a narrow escape from a disaster on the Western New York and Pennsylvania railroad yesterday at "Goose Hollow" trestle between Brocton and Preston. The trestle is 500 feet long and 92 feet high. The operator at Brocton forgot to deliver an order to hold a train until another had arrived. The two trains were approaching the trestle from opposite directions around the curve, when a farmer's little boy, who was working near by, saw the danger, ran up the track and flagged one of the trains. The train was unable to stop until it reached the end of the trestle. The engineer of the other train also managed to stop his train before reaching the trestle.

Has He Ended His Life?

READING, Pa., May 24.—A man's coat, vest and shoes and a vial of laudanum were found on the banks of the Schuylkill here. They proved to be those of Oswald S. Shearer, of Philadelphia, who left several letters saying that he was going to commit suicide, because his wife had entered upon a life of shame. He directs the coroner to hold an inquest on his body, and says that he is going to die entirely for love. Accompanying the letters is a fifty-line poem on "Suicide." The river has been dragged, but no body found. Shearer had a clerkship in Philadelphia and his wife formerly lived in Manheim, Lancaster county.

The Valkyrie Won With Ease.

LONDON, May 24.—The Valkyrie raced again yesterday with the Irex and Yarana. The course was intended to be from Gravesend to and around the Mouse Lightship and back, but the wind was so light that the race only extended to the Nore and back. The finish was a drifting match, the Valkyrie coming in an easy winner. The result of the race is to show that the Valkyrie is capable of magnificent speed in light weather.

Pennsylvania's Odd Fellows.

YORK, Pa., May 24.—The Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows yesterday adopted a resolution permitting members to wear their regalia on Memorial and Independence days. The resolution to admit members at the age of eighteen was defeated. The officers, including Grand Master Rev. David Craft, of Pittsburg, were installed and the Grand Lodge adjourned to meet in Pittsburg in May, 1890.

An Oil Fire at Bayonne.

BAYONNE, N. J., May 24.—A fire broke out last night in the paraffine department of the Tidewater Oil Company works. The building contained valuable machinery used in operating the oil vats. There were 200,000 pounds of wax in the building and eighteen vats or bleachers, each containing sixty barrels of oil. This, with three tanks of oil, was entirely consumed. Loss, $70,000.

He Died on a Train.

NORWALK, Conn., May 24.—D. W. Odiorne, the New York umbrella merchant, who died of heart desease on a train between Norwalk and Stamford, was a prominent G. A. R. man, and was on Gen. Butterfield's staff in the Centennial Industrial parade. His home was at Elizabeth, N. J. He had been to Unionville, Conn., attending to some business.

A New Line to the Seaboard.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 24.—It is said that the incorporation yesterday of the Pittsburg, Beech Creek & Eastern railroad is a step toward the formation of a new line to the seaboard, in the interest of the Lehigh Valley road, the new line and the Pittsburg & Western road supplying the necessary links to complete the system.

Tried Death Two Ways.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 24.—A special from Alliance, O., says: Daniel Collins, aged 75 years, attempted suicide this morning by cutting his throat and hanging himself. He was nearly dead when cut down and there is no possible hope of recovery. Family troubles are given as the cause for the rash act.

The Fly-Casting Tournament.

NEW YORK, May 24.—The national fly-casting tournament was begun yesterday in Central Park, one of the lakes in the upper part of the park being used for the trials. R. C. Hewitt in the single handed fly-casting event won first prize, a gold medal, with a cast of 73 feet.

Sold His Father's Hat to Buy Whisky.

JERSEY CITY, May 24.—John Sheridan, the son of a hard working carpenter, of 490 Third avenue, was arrested yesterday, charged with stealing his father's high silk hat and selling it for $3, with which he bought whisky and went on a long spree.

Peace Secured by Dollars.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 24.—It is understood that Archbishop Ryan has settled the trouble at the Ursuline convent by allowing the five dissatisfied sisters $10,000 apiece, on receipt of which they will sail for France, and never return to this country.

Dr. Mayo Cut His Throat.

WEST RANDOLPH, Vt., May 24.—Dr. J. H. Mayo, who was held for trial after examination on a charge of forging a note for $100, obtained leave to enter a closet, and while there cut his throat with a pocket-knife, inflicting a fatal wound.

Five Score Years and One.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 24.—Charles Clendenning, the oldest resident of Alleghany county, died yesterday, aged 101 years. He never used whisky or tobacco, and enjoyed good health until within a few weeks of his death.

It May Extend Its Line.

BOSTON, May 24.—The Legislature has passed the bill authorizing the extension of the Hartford and Connecticut Western railway to Springfield.

THE PROFESSOR.

The Widow Spencer's Experience with Electric Spectacles.

"THERE'S somebody knockin' at the door, Mrs. Spencer," gasped the widow's little maid, Norah, bursting into the kitchen one summer morning.

"La, me! what shall I do?" exclaimed the mistress, who, with her hands in the dough, was surely unfit to greet company.

"Go an' tell 'em I'm busy," she finally commanded, hurriedly putting away the bread-pan and going to the sink to wash her plump hands.

Norah languidly started for the front door, but she did not relish her task, and before she had reached her destination she was overtaken and passed by the energetic widow, who opened the door herself.

On the threshold stood a man whose appearance indicated that he was a Count or member of Congress at least. Tall, distinguished, with heavy black side-whiskers and an eye-glass, he was really a being to command attention.

"Ah, permit me to introduce myself," he said, as the hostess appeared, and bowing low he handed her a heavy beveled-edged card, which said:

PROF. DE MAUKE,
OCULIST
AND ELECTRICIAN.

The printing was very fine, and the widow could no more read it than she could fly.

He saw her embarrassment, and haughtily took the pasteboard from her.

"Permit me, mademoiselle, to decipher the very minute printing," and he read the words with a rising inflection on "electrician."

Before there was time for the lady, astounded at so much greatness, to speak, he continued: "Have I the honor of addressing Mlle. Spencer, ah?"

"My name is Spencer," responded the widow, at last finding her tongue, "but there is Mrs. before it. Won't you come in?"

"Thanks; I will, for I have important business to transact with Mademoi——; beg pardon, madam. It is so easy to mistake youth and beauty."

This last compliment was so broad that the widow, who was "fat, fair and forty," could not help blushing, and the faintest semblance of a pleased smile was visible on her face when she sat down with her guest in the parlor.

Many men had called on Mrs. Spencer since the year of mourning was over, nearly a half decade ago, but none had had the air and bearing of this one. Her impressible mind, ignorant of the great world's ways, and easily influenced by the arrogance of the stranger, was all in a whirl, and she hardly knew how to demean herself.

"Pardon my mentioning the subject," said the professor, urbanely; "but I noticed when I handed you my card that you had trouble reading it. May I ask if your eyes trouble you?"

"Not a—that is, only a little sometimes when the sun shines in them," answered Mrs. Spencer, evasively.

"O, I see, madam. You need not be at all diffident about it. Frequently girls of fourteen are compelled to remain at home constantly on account of weak sight, and you need have no compunctions because you who are probably ten years older than that begin to be troubled."

"To be honest," admitted she, mollified by the remark, "I am beginning to be a little—just a little—near-sighted. But I won't wear glasses, though."

"Quite right, although a great many people do. However, as to my reason for calling. I am a professor of the eye, an oculist. I stopped to inquire the way to the next town, but when I saw your difficulty in reading my card, I concluded to aid you. I stop usually in large cities only, but this summer I am taking a vacation trip and am almost tempted to stay a few weeks in this beautiful valley. Do you know of any farmhouse where I could find lodgings for a short spell?"

"AH, PERMIT ME TO INTRODUCE MYSELF."

Without giving her time to answer he rattled on with the following proposition: "Why not let me board here and treat your eyes for payment? You would not, I presume, care to go to a bungling country physician to have your orbs of vision permanently spoiled."

The proposal was startling, but the upshot of the matter was that it was accepted and the professor was escorted to the best chamber.

How pleasant he appeared when he came down to dinner! He talked of art and science, and told her of his life, how he had begun poor and worked his way up until he was worth a quarter of a million, with no one to share it.

The widow thought she had never met such a fine gentleman, and in turn confided to him a history of the late Spencer and how he had left her the two-hundred-acre farm upon which she lived and which joined that of her brother Jonas.

The boarder grew more confidential after this, and, dinner being finished, he explained how he had made so much money. It was through electricity.

"I have applied the electric current to medicine in such a way as to produce the most startling results. You have no idea of the wonders I have performed. Why, the deaf are made to hear, the halt and lame to walk and the blind see."

"La! that is mighty wonderful!" exclaimed the widow.

"Yes, and you shall see for yourself, madam, what I can do."

"Oh, professor, how?"

"By treating your own eyes."

"With electricity?"

"Yes; I will begin in the morning."

He was as good as his word and came upon the porch in the morning with a mysterious package in his hand.

"Here are a pair of electric spectacles, Mme. Spencer," he said, opening the bundle. "They are very expensive, but are simply wonderful in their effect."

"But I don't want to wear glasses."

"It will be necessary to wear these only a short time—say a month and then you will be free from glasses or spectacles of any kind forever."

The patient looked a little dubious, but she took the wonderful spectacles and put them on.

"You will notice the electric balls on the ends of the wires," explained the professor, putting his hands on either side of her head as if to place the wires straight.

"WAX, B'GOSH!"

"Oh! oh! you hurt me!" exclaimed the widow, jumping back.

"Ha! ha!" laughed the professor; "that was the electricity acting on your nerves."

"Why, I thought you had pins in your fingers or something."

"No, madam, it was the magnetic current's action, and you must not be surprised if it is even more severe at times."

He took off the spectacles and showed her two black balls as large as peas on the ends of the frames and two more on the wires that clasped her head. Then he explained, though she did not understand the explanation, how the current passed from one to another and completed a circuit, thus curing the most stubborn case of nearsightedness.

For ten days he continued his residence at the farm-house, and his "treatment" of his hostess' eyes. It was the busy season, and it so happened that none of the relations of Mrs. Spencer had called. The whole village, though, knew of her aristocratic boarder and the ladies were wild to see him.

He seemed to care to know nobody, however, but paid assiduous attention to the widow.

Morning, noon and night he was at her side. He praised her farm, her house, her garden, and even praised Norah. He fixed the electric spectacles many times a day, and when after a week he one evening allowed an arm to drop around his patient's neck, she was too preoccupied to notice it, or at least suffered it to remain. Then he went a step farther and actually proposed.

The widow was not quite ready to take such a monstrous step without thinking it over, and promised to give him an answer in three days.

On the third day the sewing society met at the Spencer home. She knew Jonas and his wife would be there, and thought she would talk the matter of Prof. De Mauke over with her brother that afternoon when he came to take his wife home.

"How long have ye been wearin' glasses, Mis' Spencer?" asked the minister's wife, as they were sitting around the dining-room table after supper, discussing various little matters of interest to the community and waiting for the members' husbands.

Jonas was already there, and he and the professor were talking on the porch outside.

"Oh, only a short time," answered Mrs. Spencer. "I ain't agoin' to wear these long. They're jest a little short-cure experiment."

"Short cure! What d'ye mean?" inquired Mrs. 'Squire Beanse, "air they some new-fangled things?"

The inquisitive matron came nearer and peered at the strange articles.

"What be them balls on the ends?" she queried.

"Ahem!" came from the porch, but Mrs. Spencer, proud of her possession, did not notice it.

"They are 'lectric balls to cure the nerves," was her somewhat ambiguous answer.

"How do they work?" asked half a dozen ladies, coming forward, all agog with curiosity.

The professor hemmed and hawed upon the porch but he was not heeded.

Mrs. Spencer took off the wonderful spectacles and handed them to Mrs. Beanse.

"How strange they be!" exclaimed that lady, advancing toward the lamp. "Do they help your sight yet?"

"Ya-a-s, I think they do some good, though I can't see much difference. The 'lectricity, you know, goes through—"

"Why, Mrs. Beanse, what air ye doin'?" "Look, the balls is meltin' an' droppin' off!" "What air they made of?" were some of the expressions that interrupted the explanation.

Jonas coming from the porch pushed aside the women and snatched the spectacles from the holder's grasp.

Bringing them near to the lamp again, he watched another "electric" ball melt and fall sizzling to the table.

"Wax, b'gosh!" he muttered, in deep disdain. "Jerusha, where'd ye git these blamed things?"

"The professor," Mrs. Spencer answered in a frightened tone.

Jonas made one long stride which carried him almost to the porch—the professor was gone.

And he did not appear again.

The spectacles were confiscated by the angry Jonas, who vowed he would horsewhip the rascal if he caught him.

The Widow Spencer is still a widow. She never confided her proposal to Jonas, and she dislikes very much the word "electric." Though she has hard work sometimes to read even very coarse print, she has not yet, and declares she never will, wear another pair of spectacles.

A Nautical Joke.

"So your husband has gone to Europe. How lovely!" chirruped Mrs. Sweet Clatter to her dear friend Mrs. Olive Green at the last reception.

"My husband hasn't gone to Europe and isn't thinking of such a thing," responded Mrs. Sweet Clatter. "Who could have started such a story?"

"Why," answered Mrs. Olive Green, with a look of well-bred surprise, "I was told this very evening that he was half-seas over."

A Wise Answer.

"A penny for your thoughts, dear," said a young mother to her little daughter who sat steadily regarding the sunset.

"I can not sell them, mamma," answered the child, sweetly; "they are God's thoughts."

THE Mills bill had nothing whatever to do with prize-fights.

Bishop Stevens, of Canada, and Rev. Philip Eldridge, of London, England, presented reports of the condition of churches in their district. Various amendments to the Canons were adopted. The General committee held an executive session last evening.

WHY

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

THE DAILY PRESS.

WHERE?

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. THE CHIEF ELEMENT IN JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING IS THE USE OF THAT MEDIUM WHICH WILL PLACE THE ADVERTISER IN COMMUNICATION WITH THE LARGEST NUMBER OF THE PEOPLE. THAT MEDIUM IS THE PRESS.

DR. CRONIN'S MURDER

Did Scotland Yard Have a Finger in It?

SOME SAY THIS IS PROBABLE.

Those Interested Trying to Fasten the Crime on Agents of the British.

Many Facts Cited to Show the Probability of This Theory—Cronin Disappeared on the Anniversary of the Phœnix Park Assassination—Nothing New Developed Up to a Late Hour Although the Detectives Are Working Hard.

CHICAGO, May 25.—The possibility that the English Government, through its secret agents, may have had something to do with the Cronin mystery is not being lost sight of.

Irish-Americans generally, with this thought in view, have been closely watching developments. One well-posted gentleman said yesterday:

"Scotland Yard has a finger in every Irish pie. It would be queer, indeed, if the Cronin business proved the first exception Improbable you say—not a bit of it. Who would have believed beforehand for a moment in the horrible truth about Pigott? There was an instance where, with the funds of the British exchequer, the highest Tory officials joined in a far-reaching, cunningly devised plot to destroy the Irish movement by ruining the leader, Parnell.

"Now," said the speaker warmly. "Who is the beneficiary in this Cronin business—who is the loser? Let it help or hurt what single person it may, the chief gain, immeasurably, is to the Tory Government of England. The main harm far exceeding the disgrace of any individual is to the Irish National movement in America.

"Let me tell you something peculiar or perhaps not a little significant. The very date of Cronin's disappearance was the anniversary of the Phœnix Park assassination, the identical odious event with which it was sought to connect Parnell.

"The London Times conspiracy to destroy the Irish movement at home was opportunely sprung in a time of sore need for the Tories. If the Irish movement could be ruined in America at such a crisis as the present would not the Pigott fiasco be retrieved and with a vengeance? Granting the possibility of another Pigott affair. No better intended victim would have been chosen than the ex-President of the Irish National League of America.

"An incident, well-known in his career, once put him on trial for murder. Placed under suspicion of a similar crime, the man would be fearfully handicapped.

"Cronin had for years boasted openly and often of possessing proof of rottenness in Irish organizations and alleged misconduct by the ex-President. If anything has happened to Cronin, who delighted to pose as a mighty antagonist of the Land League official, what would be easier than to have it appear that the latter was responsible?

"This phase of the mystery will not escape attention, I assure you, and to Irishmen who bitterly remember Pigott and LeCaron and hundreds of lesser demons working systematically for years, the idea is no mere theory."

Up to a late hour last night nothing new had been developed. The detectives having charge of the case are reticent, and what statements they give out are guarded or evasive.

With the exception of a few moments in the morning the body was sealed up all day in a zinc-lined air-tight box undergoing a new embalming process which the undertakers called a vapor bath, and believe will prevent any further decomposition. The body was taken from the box during the morning to allow a Lake View photographer an opportunity to photograph the head.

Captain O'Connor was the only one of Dr. Cronin's friends who called during the day. He said the remains would be taken to St. Catharines, Ont.

State's Attorney Longnecker was seen at his office late this afternoon. He had just returned from Lake View and was in a satified mood.

"Lieut. Scheuteller and Capt. Wing have been doing some very successful work on the case, and have some very important clues. I think it will only be a short time before some of those directly implicated in the murder of Dr. Cronin will be arrested," said Mr. Longnecker.

The cottage on Ashland avenue where it is believed Dr. Cronin was murdered is the centre of attraction, and is guarded by the police. Thousands of curious people visited the location but were kept outside the yard by the officers.

Under Surveillance of the Police.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 25.—John C. Bradley, cashier of the Merchants National bank, is said to have been under the surveillance of officers of the law at his residence in Fair Haven since yesterday afternoon. He is charged with embezzlement, the shortage being discovered by Bank Examiner Dooley in his examination of the bank. The officers refuse any information. The loss to the Merchants bank may reach $100,000. It is said that Bradley and Chas. W. Palmer discounted notes without the knowledge of the directors, and it has covered a period of several years. Palmer has been arrested.

The Volunteer May Not Race.

BOSTON, May 25.—General Paine said yesterday: "As far as I know now the Volunteer will not go into commission this season as far as I am concerned. Of course if she should be sold it is another thing. Should she go into commission it would take at least a month to get her in proper form for racing."

All Ready to Break Jail.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 25.—The Warden of Hudson County penitentiary, at Snake Hill, yesterday discovered a plot for a general delivery of convicts confined in that institution. Suspicious conferences of five long-termed prisoners caused a search of their cells being made when ten files, six knives, five saws, ten drills, a pair of compasses and other articles were discovered. The five convicts whose names are Butler, Karmanhaus, Kallaher, Connelly and Brodell were then searched. A set of keys of lead was found in Butler's pocket which would readily open the doors of the cells and the corridor. The five men were put in close confinement on bread and water. An investigation is now going on.

DEAD MANY A TIME

Strange Story of Mind-Reader Bishop.

HE HAD A HABIT OF DYING.

No Uncommon Thing for Him to Pass Away and Come to Life Again.

His Mother Testifies that He Frequently Went Into Trances During Which Physicians Couldn't Tell Whether He Was Living or Dead—He Carried a Written Warning that He Should Never Be Dissected—An Extraordinary Case.

NEW YORK, May 25.—In the inquest into the death of Washington Irving Bishop, the mind-reader's mother testified that as early as his sixth year her son had been pronounced dead by physicians while in a trance. The mother could not believe him dead, and kept the body seven days, at the end of which time life reappeared. A similar attack occurred when the boy was nine years old, and thereafter such experiences were frequent.

In 1872 Dr. Briggs pronounced Bishop dead. This trance lasted nearly three days.

During these trances the limbs were rigid, the fingers blue under the nails, the eyes like those of a dead person.

Her son had a constant fear that he would be dissected alive or buried during a trance. He always bore on his person a written warning against this contingency. She saw this document in his possession on the Saturday evening before he left Philadelphia for his fatal visit to New York. It was in an envelope addressed "To Physicians and Friends." It was put in one of his pockets, and forbade an autopsy or the use of electricity or ice, and contained the address of relatives who were to be notified in case of illness.

The next witness was Ida Orme Jones, the poetess, who said she had known Bishop fifteen years, and had three times been in his company when he had trances resembling death. The first time was at the Metropolitan hotel, in Boston, eight years ago. This was not a serious attack. The next attack was also of short duration. The third occurred two years ago at Cincinnati, after a peculiarly trying experience at mind-reading. Bishop at that time exhibited precisely the same physical symptoms as those accompanying his attack at the Lambs' club, and a physician finally pronounced him dead. Witness believed him dead, and tied up his lower jaw, which had fallen, and crossed his hands on his breast. She retired to her room, and on returning half an hour later saw that the arms had changed position. While she was looking at him Bishop opened his eyes and spoke. This was in the Burnett house.

Louis Aldrich, the actor, testified that after the autopsy Dr. Irwin, Mr. Stewart and himself searched the dead man's effects, and witness found a paper apparently written in Latin. Dr. Irwin looked at it and said it was something not nice to be seen, and suggested tearing it up. Witness said there might be some objection to that, and the Doctor put the paper in his pocket.

At this point Dr. Irwin produced the paper. It proved to be a prescription written in Latin.

Dr. J. E. Briggs, of Thirty-second street, testified that in 1872 he attended Bishop in this city in company with two other physicians. His two colleagues pronounced the patient dead, but witness had seen similar cases and was doubtful about life being extinct, though all the conventional signs of death were there. Twelve hours later reanimation occurred. One of the two physicians referred to is now dead. The other is abroad.

Mrs. Martinot, mother of Sadie Martinot, the singer, testified that it was Bishop's habit to carry a warning against hasty autopsy or burial, but she had not seen the document for eight years past.

Mrs. Mary A. Swett, of Brooklyn, testified to seeing Bishop in a trance fifteen years ago. The physicians that were called in declared him dead.

The inquest will proceed on Monday.

Two Fashionable Swindlers.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Two fashionably-dressed and stylish women, who have been swindling such firms as Tiffany's, Lord & Taylor, Brooks Brothers and others, out of sums ranging from $50 to $550 by the use of forged checks in payment for purchases, have been arrested. They have been living at a fashionable boarding house in Madison avenue, and go by the names of Dollie Verner and Mrs. Beck.

Krupp Couldn't, Carnegie Could.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 25.—Carnegie, Phillips and Co. have just finished two sine plates each nine inches wide, 180 inches long and 3 inches thick. The finished weight of each plate is 9,000 pounds and the test shows 60,000 pounds tensile strength. Krupp, of Germany, was first asked to manufacture the plates but had no rolls large enough to turn out such steel plates.

Doesn't Want to Be Dissolved.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Arguments have been begun in the General Term of the Supreme court on the appeal of the North River Sugar Refining company from the decision of Judge Barrett dissolving the corporation because of its alliance with the Sugar Trust. Attorney-General Tabor and others represent the People and John E. Parsons and others the company.

BY THE WAY.

—O! for a Y. M. C. A. building.

—Next Thursday is Ascension Day.

—The Lehigh Valley Railroad Co., is fixing up the grounds about the station at New Market.

—Young people from Plainfield, Westfield and Summit say the fishing in Glenside Lake is fine.

—Mr. C. W. Hillman will conduct the young men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, Monday evening.

—All unmuzzled dogs are liable to be killed on sight, as the new law authorizes this summary proceeding.

—The Plainfield Drum Corps will furnish the martial music for the Decoration Day exercises at Bound Brook.

—The case of the city vs. James Dady, which was to have been tried in the City Court today, has been indefinitely postponed.

—An amateur bicyclist amused a number of spectators on Park avenue, last evening, by alternately sitting on and falling off a bicycle.

—Prosecutor Wilson will hasten the trial of indictments this term as much as possible, as he has arranged to go to Europe about the 1st of June.

—A fair for the benefit of St. Joseph's church will open in the Gesang and Turner Hall, North Plainfield, on Monday evening, and continue throughout the week.

—Messrs. J. Barton Kline and Stephen O. Staats have opened an establishment at the corner of Front street and Grant avenue for the sale of coal, wood, flour, feed, etc. They also have a branch office on North avenue, opposite the station.

—A game of ball was played on the "Young Arlingtons'" grounds, this morning, between that club and a picked nine. The batteries were, C. Smith and C. Sutphen, and G. Mattox and R. Dunn. The score was 21 to 1 in favor of the Young Arlingtons.

—The board walk on the East side of Washington avenue, between the property line of Mr. John W. Moore and the bridge, is in a dangerous condition, and should receive immediate attention. The matter belongs to the Plainfield authorities. The trees should also be trimmed up to ten feet, to admit of better light from the bridge lamp.

—The trio of handsome, affable and skillful artists who so satisfactorily perform the tonsorial part of a gentleman's toilet at No. 28 Park avenue, are Messrs Edwin Maynard, Wm. Randolph and Chas. Mann. They serve all the better people of the city, and the cutting and dressing of ladies' hair is a specialty in which Mr. Maynard himself has no rival.

—The Memorial Day exercises at Music Hall, this year, will far surpass anything of the kind that has ever taken place before in Plainfield. Great preparations are being made by the various committees to make the affair instructive as well as entertaining. Music Hall will no doubt be filled to its utmost capacity when the nature of the exercises are made known.

—The Advisory Masters in Chancery in New Jersey are closing up their business, and the offices will soon be no more. The act passed by the Legislature last Winter authorizing the appointment of two or more Vice Chancellors has superseded the Advisory Masters. Only one Vice Chancellor has thus far been appointed, and it is believed as he sits continuously he can handle all the business.

A Series of Mishaps Among Mr. Dupee's Stock.

A very valuable cow belonging to Mr. George Dupee of Rock View avenue, died yesterday from fever, leaving a calf two days old.

One of Mr. Dupee's horses ran a nail into its foot, yesterday, and the William goat that five-year-old Master Dupee drives before a buck-board, broke off one of its horns.

The services of a veterinary were required to attend the horse and goat.

A PLAINFIELDER IN A MILLION-DOLLAR SYNDICATE.

Mr. H. G. Runkle, of West Eighth Street, Joins With His Father and Others in the Purchase of Rochester's Lightning Plants.

Notwithstanding the activity in the stock market and the immense sums that are being daily invested in new buildings in New York, vast amounts of capital from that city are being invested almost daily in other cities.

Only recently a New York banking firm bought all the gas companies in St. Louis, and now comes the news that a syndicate from that city has grabbed up the lightning plants of Rochester, N. Y.

This syndicate includes Messrs. Daniel Runkle, of Phillipsburg, N. J., his son H. G. Runkle, Treasurer of the Plainfield Gas Light Co., and William Runkle, R. A. C. Smith, Vice President Potts, of the Park National Bank; T. F. Woods, Treasurer of the United States Express Company, and M. Chauncey of Brooklyn, and the price paid for the property was $700,000.

The parties to the transaction are rather reticent, but it is learned that they had secured all the gas plants in Rochester, except those owned by the Citizens' company, and that their intention was to use them eventually in distributing natural gas. Rochester is about one hundred miles from the nearest natural gas field in Pennsylvania, and the projectors of this scheme are confident that they can successfully carry it out.

It is thought that before long Buffalo, Syracuse, Elmira and other cities within easy distance of the natural gas supply will get their light from this source, but of this none of the syndicate had anything to say.

THE NEW CRESCENT AVENUE CHAPEL.

Ground to be Broken With Appropriate Ceremonies on June 4.

Refreshments will be served to order. Admission will be 25 cents, and the proceeds are to go toward the building fund.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

On Tuesday evening at Seminary Hall, Mrs. Genevieve Stebbins Thompson will give an exposition of the art of esthetic gymnastics, including the Delsarte system, statue poses and recitation.

Bishop Scarborough will make his annual visit to Holy Cross church to-morrow at 11 A. M., when he will administer the rite of Confirmation. A most beautiful and impressive service is promised.

Dr. H. K. Carroll of the New York Independent, and a resident of North Plainfield, will preach in the Methodist church to-morrow morning and evening. Dr. Carroll is an able man and a forcible speaker.

Dr. J. F. McWilliams of Somerville, Dr. J. F. Berg of this city, and Dr. A. Parrish of Flemington, have been appointed Examining Pension Surgeons for the Somerville station. We congratulate Dr. Berg upon his appointment.

Among the persons, residents of this State, who were fortunate to secure patents during the past week were the following from this city: Mr. John Brooks for a rotary printing machine, and Mr. Sinclair Stuart for a separator.

Run a Meat Hook in His Wrist.

Mr. Will Smalley of North Plainfield, while at work in his brother's butcher shop on Somerset street, yesterday afternoon, received injuries of such a serious nature that Dr. Carmon was called in to dress the wounds. In attempting to hang a quarter of beef on a hook in the ice box, the hook accidentally penetrated the flesh on the left wrist, inflicting painful injuries.

A BAD WRECK.

Thirteen Coal Cars Piled Up and Splintered Near the Richmond Street Crossing This Morning—All Travel Delayed for Some Time.

A serious wreck occurred on the Central Railroad, just West of the Richmond street crossing at 7:53 o'clock this morning, which resulted in piling up and splintering thirteen coal cars, and delaying travel over the road at that point for some time.

At that time a Central coal train, Engine No. 191, bound West, slowed up so as to allow the Flemington express due here at 7:58 A. M., to discharge and take on passengers at the station. The rear brakeman on the coal train did not display the proper signals.

Following the coal train was another West-bound train drawn by Philadelphia and Reading Engine, No. 938, in charge of Engineer Patrick Dugan and fireman David Halligan. Engineer Dugan told a PRESS reporter that the forward train was a full train's length ahead of him when he reversed his engine, but he struck the caboose of the forward train with disastrous results. Three cars on the Central "cooler" were derailed and the caboose was considerably damaged. Ten coal cars on the Philadelphia and Reading train were completely wrecked, the debris being piled up twenty feet in the air. A brakeman was standing in one of the wrecked cars when the crash came, but he escaped injury by jumping. Engineer Dugan remained at the throttle, but fireman Halligan jumped from the engine.

The wreck was the most complete of any that has taken place on the Central Railroad in a long time. Both of the main tracks and the North siding were blocked, and all trains were obliged to pass the wreck on the third track, or South siding. A wrecking crew arrived an hour or so afterwards, and it required the entire forenoon to remove the broken cars and open the road for traffic again.

There is no doubt that the cause of wrecking the cars on the Philadelphia and Reading train was due to Engineer Dugan suddenly reversing his engine so as to prevent a collision with the forward train. But the crash came, nevertheless, and four coal cars were lifted bodily from the track and deposited on a flat car, while five other cars were scattered along the track.

The Teachers Appointed.

Messrs Kirkner, Hurlbut and Babcock, composing the Committee on Teachers from the City Board of Education met at the residence of the last named, on Thursday evening, and re-appointed all but two of the teachers in the High school, Franklin, Bryant and Washington buildings for the ensuing year. Two of the teachers resigned, one of them, Miss Moran, it is said, sent in her resignation because she was about to be transferred to the "Irving" school.

Following is a list of the appointments for the "Irving" Building:

Miss Susan Gilbert, Vice Principal, Miss Eleanor Beal, Miss Jennie Owen, Miss Lucia Wood, Miss Genevieve Petrie, Miss Jennie Tabor.

Mr. Daft's Motor Exploded by a Vindictive Employee.

The enormous electric motor in the cellar of the Daft electric motor works in Marion was shattered into thousands of pieces a day or so ago. This motor furnishes the power for the building. It was no sooner started than it flew into fragments. Belting and machinery were injured, but, almost miraculously, not a man was hurt. An investigation showed that the wires had been twisted together so as to turn the strong current back to the motor. It is supposed that some discharged workman did the work. Mr. Daft has offered a reward for the discovery of the man. Several thousand dollars' damage was done.

Must be Interesting Reading.

The Frazee Lee will case "bobs up serenely" in different courts at different places. On Tuesday it was in the Prerogative Court at Trenton, for argument. Jackson & Codington of this city, and Judge Cleaver, of Newark, appeared for the executors and R. V. Lindabury and Garret Berry for contestants. The printed book of testimony contains about 1,100 pages, and it is estimated that it will take two days and a-half to read it, without comment. As Mr. Lindabury had been sick since receiving his copy, and Mr. Berry having just received his, they were not prepared to enter into argument, and it was postponed until June 11.

H. P. Reynolds Nominated.

At the final session of the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association, held at Bridgeton, Thursday, as told in THE PRESS of yesterday, officers were elected and other business transacted. The Board of Pharmacy showed 1,600 registered pharmacists.

NO NEWS TO PRESS READERS.

A New York Paper Goes Chestnutting and Picks Last Year's Crop.

The New York Post of last Wednesday devotes a quarter-column to a re-hash of certain rumors and indefinite schemes and projects that have been in circulation for months past in THE PRESS and its exchanges, regarding a railroad that may some day, within the next twenty years, be constructed.

There is absolutely nothing new in the matter, and our metropolitan contemporary has merely been loaded by a country reporter who can't see news under his nose and must depend on his imagination for bread and butter.

The article goes on to say that plans are being perfected to build a new railroad at the base of the Watchung Mountain, from Bound Brook, N. J., through Dunellen, North Plainfield, Scotch Plains, Springfield, Orange, and other smaller places along the route to Hoboken, with ferry entrances to New York city at Fourteenth and Twenty-third streets. A charter authorizing the projectors to build and operate the proposed new railway was granted several years ago, and since then agents for the company have been quietly at work to secure the right of way.

The last objection of private property owners has just been overcome, and only one difficulty remains. At Orange it will be necessary to cross the Morris and Essex railroad tracks, and until recently considerable obstinacy met the proposition to effect a junction at that grade. The President of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, Samuel Sloan, has said that no other road should cross his if he knew it. Negotiations are pending, however, for a settlement of this one trouble, and a railroad man well informed of the plans says that work on the new road will soon be begun and speedily pushed to completion.

"An outcome of the new line," says the Post, "would be the erection of a fine hotel on the heights at Washington Rock, from whence may be surveyed a vast extent of country, as far as the Amboys and New York Bay—the East River bridge-towers and the statue of Liberty being visible." This is also nonsense. The owner of Washington Rock and the projector of the Hotel, is not taking into consideration the proposed road, at all.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad is understood to be back of the scheme, and the Orange and Watchung Mountain Railroad would connect with the Lehigh tracks at Bound Brook.

"There are many commutors in North Plainfield who find the Central Railroad station at Plainfield very inconvenient," continues the article. "These would hail the building of the new road with delight, and it is expected that the building of many new Summer homes in the borough would follow that event."

BLACK BACHELORS AGAINST BLACK BENEDICTS.

A Razzle-Dazzle Game of Ball Among the Colored Populace.

When the sun sunk towards the Blue Ridge mountains, at six o'clock of Thursday afternoon, its declining rays glinted down on eighteen cullud pussons holding a scrapping match with their tongues in the vacant field opposite Blatz's Mountain View Hotel on Somerset street. Seven innings of the long expected base ball contest between the bachelors and the benedicts of colored persuasion had just been completed, and as the single men had scrubbed the bases with the married folks, they were ready to quit. The latter, however, wanted a chance to "git eben," but the game went no further and all adjourned to tap a keg, with the score standing as below.

The married folks were early on the ground and laughed with derision at the efforts of Captain Jack Carey to get together a team of single boys. Jim Scott was loud in his assertions that "lessen er man's married he ain't no good nohow." He felt bad later, but not so bad as Tom Martin the short-legged short-stop of the Benedicts, who saw the cold dollar he bet melt away in the eighth inning.

The Crescents played a "yellow" game with the Rutgers college boys, but Thursday's game was a "black" one, and at times very "woolly." The single men had a professional catcher imported from Somerville, but he was too gallus to catch anything. He looked like the late lamented Crowley in captivity, when he got the mask on, and was as stiff in the chest as if he chewed glue.

Gamey Nelson—Pop Nelson, of Westfield's, boy—could catch all around the other fellow, and stood up behind the bat for the married folks like a sun-burned statue of Ajax defying a cigarette. He made a clean score himself and some of his nine also played hard, but it was no use. Up to the sixth the married folks led, but in that inning the single men quit 'em. Even Atkinson on second base got rattled, and the boys without wives and babies rolled up eight tallies. Even Henry Frisby made a run that inning, with a load on his stomach of molasses cake and beer.

Mr. Peter Winn, the Crescent club's caterer, umpired the razzle-dazzle competition and escaped without a razzer cut. The only man whom disaster stared in the face, was Mr. Fred Clark, the scorer, who seemed slightly stung. At the close of the first inning he announced the score as standing two to two, whereupon the entire nine of husbands rushed in from the field shouting "too-ter-too" like an asmatic Reading-coaler, and surrounded the unfortunate Mr. Clark. The spectators started for the mountains, and the umpire "clum" a tree, but no explosion came. But Freddy dropped that score sheet very suddenly and lit out. His successor kept the following:

Earned runs—Single men, 3; Married men, 3. Struck out—by Schenck, 5; by Lowry, 5; by Freeman, 2. Left on bases—Single men, 8; Married men, 10. Time of game—2 hours. Umpire, Mr. Winn.

Each participant in the game, previously chipped fifteen cents towards a keg, and it was tapped at the close of the contest. Its effect is referred to in the following editorial of this morning's New York World:

"The intoxicating influence of base ball upon the married and single colored men of North Plainfield, N. J., led them to defy the authorities of that town on Thursday evening and wellnigh brought on a riot. If our national game continues to agitate emotional natures as it has of late in various parts of the country, scientists, philosophers and law-makers will have to combine in an effort to remove some of its perniciously exciting features. Perhaps 'a nickel-in-the-slot umpire or a new rule making a home run a misdemeanor would make the game more of a sedative."

The Dog Question.

Should all the unmuzzled dogs running about our streets be so unfortunate as to be captured by the dog catcher, it would be necessary to secure a ten-acre lot in which to keep the brutes pending their execution. Why not employ more dog catchers; also secure ample accommodations for the captured canines, and relieve the public of this nuisance.

The Popular Resort.

"O where shall we go for the Summer?"
Is now the most popular cry.
And "where shall we go for the Winter?"
Will the utterance, be by and by.
But natives, by birth level-headed,
Diverse from this variant race,
In Spring, Summer, Autumn and Winter—
Make Collier's the popular place.

—M. M. Dunham says: "I have used Dr. Dam's Remedy in my family, and find it excellent."

COWARDLY ROBBERS

They Wreck a Train on a Western Road.

NOT A PASSENGER ESCAPED.

Not One Was Unhurt and Forty-Five Were Seriously Injured.

The Spikes Had Been Removed from the Rails on a Curve—A Clear Case of Train-Wrecking—People Thrown in All Directions—Some Thrown Down an Embankment—One Man Hurled the Whole Length of a Car.

ST. LOUIS, May 25.—The west-bound train on the St. Louis and San Francisco road, which left St. Louis last night at 9:15 was wrecked at a point three miles west of Sullivan, Mo., which place is sixty-eight miles west of St. Louis. Not a passenger escaped unhurt, and forty-five are known to have been seriously injured, though no deaths are yet reported.

The train was running at a high rate of speed when suddenly without warning the track gave way and the locomotive, baggage car and five coaches went over the embankment, the two sleepers remaining on the track. Fortunately there were no fires in any of the cars and the jolt extinguished the lights immediately. Otherwise a conflagration would have been caused, and there is no telling how many lives might have been lost. As it was, most of the forward cars were badly wrecked.

The explanation of the accident given by the trainmen was that the spikes and fishplates had been removed from the rail at the curve, thus leaving the rail too loose on the ties.

Who removed the spikes and plates is not known, but the supposition is the work was done by train robbers, although no robbers put in an appearance. The road officials claim it is a clear case of train-wrecking.

There is a curve in the road about three miles west of Sullivan, and when this point was reached a sudden jolt and jar was felt all over the train. In an instant all the coaches, except the two sleeping-cars, had been thrown from the rails. People were thrown about in the cars in all directions, and some of them were thrown from the coaches and down the embankment.

One man, Walter Davidson, who travels for the Westinghouse Air Brake company, was thrown right out of a window on the opposite side of the coach from which he was sitting and sent rolling down the embankment to the edge of the creek. His feet were in the water.

Another passenger in the same coach was thrown from the rear end of the car to the forward end; and, in fact, men, women and children were thrown about promiscuously.

The trainmen and those only slightly injured turned their attention to the more unfortunate injured, and in a very short short time forty-five passengers, all badly hurt, had been released from the debris.

A temporary hospital was improvised at Sullivan, and the most seriously injured were taken there, while others were brought to St. Louis on the relief train which was hurried to the scene of the disaster.

The wounded are under the care of Dr. McIntyre, Chief Surgeon of the road.

On the train were a party of physicians returning from Springfield, where the State Medical convention is being held, and they also rendered valuable assistance in caring for the injured. Among the physicians was Dr. Russell, who received very serious injuries.

Following is a list of the badly injured:

D. S. WRIGHT, Wentsville, Mo., both legs broken; may lose one of them.

GEN. S. SIMPSON, Hancock county, Illinois, shock, one cut on left side of face.

PATRICK O'DAY, aged 7 years, fracture of skull; will probably die.

MRS. KATE O'DAY, bruised about head, neck and side, and injured internally.

MARTIN O'DAY, cut and bruised on the face, also cut in the right foot and bruised about the breast.

WILLIAM DOHERTY, left hand cut and bruised.

MRS. MARY GRIFFITH, Fair Creek, Illinois, injured on forehead and right elbow broken.

Walter Davidson describes his experience as follows:

"I couldn't get a berth, and took a chair car. I heard the engine and the first coaches crashing some time before the car in which I was seated jumped the track and I knew what was coming. I knew it was a wreck and that the car I was in would also go over, but I thought it was a bridge which gave way and that we would all be dumped into the water, and I prepared myself for it. Instead of catching the arm of the chair I grabbed it by the back, and when I was thrown I guess the back must have come with me. At any rate, I went. I was seated on the left hand side of the car, and was hurled across the coach and right through a window on the opposite side. The window was closed, and I suppose it was the glass which cut me about the head. Through the window I went and down the bank. I thought the car was coming after me and that I would certainly be killed, but it did not, although it tilted to an angle of about 60 degrees. Down this embankment I rolled, going over and over. It seemed to me that I went down fully one hundred feet, but I suppose it was really not more than about one-fourth that heighth. It was so dark that I could see nothing and had no way of judging. There must be a little creek or something of the sort at that point, as I could hear the water running and when I picked myself up my feet were in water. The first thing I did was to climb back to the embankment and I did it in a hurry, too. I could see a dim light in the chair car and I made for it. I knew I was bleeding freely as I could feel the blood trickling all over me and was almost blinded by it. People were screaming and friends were looking for each other in the darkness. It was fully ten minutes before the work of rescue was begun."

The O'Day family are relatives of Vice-President John O'Day of the St. Louis and San Francisco railway, and the boy and his mother are fatally hurt. General Manager Morrill has offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of the fiends who wrecked the train. Nearly all of the injured are still at Sullivan under charge of the medical corps of the road.

Gray Makes New Records.

BARRIE, Ont., May 25.—At an athletic exhibition here G. R. Gray, of New York, champion shot putter of the world, beat his previous record by putting the sixteen-pound shot 45 feet, 9 inches, and made a new record for putting the fifty-six-pound weight by throwing the shot 26 feet, 1½ inches.

GLADSTONE KNOCKED DOWN.

The Grand Old Man Upset by a Cab-Driver on a London Street.

LONDON, May 25.—Mr. Gladstone, while walking in Piccadilly yesterday afternoon, attempted to cross the street and was knocked down by a cab. The driver did not stop his horse, but endeavored to escape.

Mr. Gladstone regained his feet and ran after the vehicle. He caught up with it and stopped it until the police arrived and arrested the driver.

Mr. Gladstone was not hurt and was in his seat in the House of Commons last evening none the worse for his tumble.

A rumor in circulation that the ex-Premier was seriously injured created great excitement until it became known that it was groundless.

To Help the Aged Workmen.

BERLIN, May 25.—The Aged Workmen's Insurance bill was passed in the Reichstag to day. Herr Bottticher, in behalf of the Emperor, thanked the members who voted for the bill. The House then adjourned. The bill provides that a small monthly amount be deducted from the wages of all working people and the money thus collected laid aside for insurance against old age and sickness. The State adds to the insurance fund one-third the amount collected.

Desperate Resistance to Evictors.

DUBLIN, May 25.—The Olphert evictions to-day were characterized by desperate resistance on the part of the tenants. During one of the many melees Police Inspector Duff was severely wounded and several policemen and bailiffs were painfully scalded by the showers of hot water thrown upon them by the inmates of various houses. Fourteen persons were arrested.

The Valkyrie Wins Again.

Honoring an Old Lawyer.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Hon. Benjamin D. Silliman was tendered a banquet last night by his fellow lawyers in honor of the sixteenth anniversary of his admission to the bar. Joseph H. Choate presided, and among the speakers who congratulated Mr. Silliman were: David Dudley Field, James C. Carter, C. M. Depew, Stephen H. Olin. Letters of regret were read from ex-President Cleveland, Hamilton Fish, Alexander Hamilton, General Sherman, Bishop Potter, Rev. R. S. Storrs and John Jacob Astor. Many eminent members of the bar were among the guests. Mr. Silliman, in an address, full of appreciation of the honor done him, gave many interesting reminiscences of the bar as it was in his youth, when there yet remained on the scene such lawyers of the last century as Chancellor Kent, Aaron Burr, Richard Varick, Egbert Benson, Morgan Lewis and others.

Killed by a Falling Bucket.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 25.—While a bucket of broken rock, weighing over a ton, was being hoisted to the surface in the new Pettibone shaft of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, near Kingston, the wire rope broke, letting the bucket fall nearly 1,000 feet upon ten men engaged in blasting at the bottom. Edward Jones was instantly killed, and James Coyle, Samuel Gessman, Cornelius Conn, George Veet and George Gresley mangled so that they will die. The other men were less seriously injured.

Opened to Women.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 25.—The trustees of the Hartford Theological Seminary have voted to open all courses of the institution to women on the same terms as to men. The action is taken to meet the special needs of women who desire to prepare for Christian teaching, for missionary work and for any religious work other than pastoral. This is the first institution of the kind in the country to undertake theological training for women.

Mormons Colonizing in the Northwest.

HELENA, Mont., May 25.—For a month past Mormons from Utah and Idaho have been journeying through Montana by wagon for the Northwest territory, where a large tract of land has been purchased from the Alberta Railway and Coal company by the Mormon Church for colonization purposes. The movement seems to be an extensive one. The colony is on the line of the Galt railway.

For Removing General Shaler.

NEW YORK, May 25.—The General Term of the Supreme court has refused the application for a writ of certiorari to review the proceedings of Mayor Grace in removing Gen. Alexander Shaler from the presidency of the Board of Health some years ago.

C. T. M. Mellen Coming East.

CONCORD, N. H., May 25.—It is reported that C. S. Mellen, General Traffic Manager of the Union Pacific railroad, is on his way here to enter upon the duties of General Manager of the Concord Railroad system.

Rose Terry Cooke Seriously Ill.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., May 25.—Rose Terry Cooke, the authoress, is seriously ill, and her physicians fear neuralgia of the heart. She is more comfortable to-day, however, than for a day or two past.

WHERE GOD'S HAND IS SEEN.

Do I like the city? Stranger, 'tisn't likely that I would;
'Tisn't likely that a ranger from the border ever could
Git accustomed to the flurry an' the loud, concarthly noise—
Every body in a hurry, men and wimmin, gals an' boys,
All a-rushin' like the Nation 'mid the rumble an' the jar,
Jes' as if their souls' salvation hung upon their gittin' thar'.

Like it? No. I love to wander
'Mid the vales and mountains green,
In the border land out yonder,
Whar' the hand o' God is seen.

Nothin' 'yar but bricks and mortar, towerin' overhead so high,
That you never see a quarter o' the over-hangin' sky.
Not a tree or grassy medder, not a runnin' brook in sight;
Nothin' but the buildin's shadder makin' gloom o' heaven's light.
E'en the birds are all imported from away across the sea—
Faces meet me all distorted with the hand o' misery.

Like it? No. I love to wander
'Mid the vales an' mountains green,
In the border land out yonder,
Whar' the hand o' God is seen.

Roarin' railroad trains above you, streets by workmen all defaced,
Every body tryin' to shove you in the gutter is their haste;
Cars an' carts an' wagons rumblin' through the streets with deafenin' roar,
Drivers yellin', swearin', grumblin', jes' like imps from sheol's shore;
Factories j'inin' in the chorus, helpin' of the din to swell;
Auctioneers in tones sonorous lyin' 'bout the goods they sell.

Like it? No. I love to wander
'Mid the vales an' mountains green,
In the border land out yonder,
Whar' the hand o' God is seen.

Yes, I love the Western border; pine trees wavin' in the air,
Rocks piled up in rough disorder; birds a-singin' everywhere;
Deer a-playin' in their gladness; elk a-feedin' in the glen;
Not a trace o' pain or sadness campin' on the trail o' men.
Brooks o' crystal clearness flowin' o'er the rocks an' lovely flowers
In their tinted beauty growin' in the mountain dells and bowers.

Fairer pictur' the Creator
Never threw on earthly screen
Than this lovely home o' natur',
Whar' the hand o' God is seen.

—Captain Jack Crawford, in Outing.

A GREAT SNAKE STORY.

That Is, the Snake and the Story Are Both Whoppers.

This Tale, Which Is Imported, Treats of the Sanguinary Life and Tragic Death of a Serpent That Swallowed Horses, Mules and Men.

The Port of Spain (Trinidad) Gazette publishes the following extraordinary account of the depredations and capture of a monster snake:

"During the last two months it has been a matter of frequent complaint among the inhabitants of the districts east and north of Arima that their domestic animals of all kinds were being lost in a strange, unexplained manner, usually at night. Scarcely a day seemed to pass without a goat or a pig, a calf or a donkey being reported missing, and latterly even larger animals, some valuable mules and horses, had gone to join the smaller domestic fry that had disappeared. A strange feature of these depredations was that no trace of blood was ever found at the spot visited, or in its neighborhood, to show sign of some struggle with a giant cayman or carnivorous beast, which the monster was at first supposed to be. Besides, no animal of the size required to carry off a horse or mule was known to exist in the island.

"In many of the cases, however, it was noticed that the ground under the cocoa trees and the forest undergrowth showed signs of having been crushed, not trampled upon, by the body of some smooth but gigantic beast. The people began to watch at night, no alarm as yet making known the passage of the monster on his raids, save the barking of dogs, a few of which had also disappeared with dismal howls. It was also noticed that the traces through the vegetation always stopped at streams, and seemed to vanish altogether after that. This feature was clearly established in the case of the Aripo, Turure and Arima rivers.

"One Sunday morning the inhabitants of Arima were thrown into consternation by the news that three children had disappeared in the ward of Guanapo during the past week and they were supposed to have become the victims of the raiding monster. The grief of the parents and relatives of the missing children was described as heartrending in the extreme. Mr. Harragin, the Warden, accompanied by the magistrate and others, hastened at once to visit the scenes of the casualties. The news was telegraphed to Port of Spain, and the Warden was instructed by the Governor to continue his efforts to track the monster, especially by collecting an armed posse and instituting energetic pursuit.

"Later in the afternoon news was brought from Aripo that two children, Paul and Rose Legrand, brother and sister, had been lost, one on Saturday and one on that very morning. In this instance the mother while sitting in a state of semi-stupor, mourning the loss of her little daughter Rose, five years old, who had disappeared in the grounds round her hut Saturday at noon without any traces being found of her, was startled by the screams of her child Paul, who was playing a few yards from her. Rooted with horror, she then saw her child enveloped in the coils of the upper part of the body of a colossal snake, which glided away with its prey into the depths of the forests. A number of residents of the district, armed with guns, to whose ranks new accessories were continually coming, began to scour the country after the snake, among them Jose Concepcion and Paul Legrand, Sr., fathers of two child victims, on whose grim features was written a quenchless determination to wreak vengeance deep and dire on the fiendish serpent. Dogs were liberally used in the hunt, but as often as the scent was obtained and followed for a short distance some stream would disconcert the hopes of the pursuers. A tendency was noticed, however, on the part of the many tracks to show an unmistakable direction toward the mountains north of Arima.

"The excitement in Arima was raised to the highest pitch on Tuesday when news was brought that the great serpent had been seen on the Arima heights, and that two more children had been carried off by him. The report of the occurrences stated that the snake had been distinctly seen on the two occasions; that, consequent on the alarm given on the first occasion, the people were on the qui vive, and that a hunter, Emmanuel Calderon, had twice fired with shot into the beast as he had half swallowed the crushed body, but with the only effect of hastening his progress in the direction of the Blue mountain. The Warden thought the news serious enough to request, through the Colonial Secretary, some assistance from Port of Spain, with rifles of greater penetrating power than the guns used by the majority of the pursuers. Accordingly Sergeant Giblan was sent to Arima by the afternoon train with six policemen, armed with Martini-Henry rifles.

"Dr. de Verteuil stated as his opinion that the snake was evidently a Huillia, or as the old native name in full used to be, Temecullicahulia, with the strength of five men. It had probably, after feeding on deer and other forest prey, become acquainted with domestic animals in the opening of the country by cultivation, and from that point to becoming a man-eater was only a step in its amphibious existence. Its wariness was no doubt due to the instinct in avoiding danger, as denoted by watchful preparations on the part of man, so observable in the case of other well-known pests. He thought the shooting down of the monster at the earliest opportunity the clear course to be pursued on the occasion.

"Thursday morning a motley cavalcade was seen issuing out of Arima in a northerly direction. They were the Warden and his party on their way to the Blue mountain, in the neighborhood of which search parties had located the snake the day before. He had been seen by one of the hunters to enter the Guacharo caves in the hill separated by a hollow from the mountain, and a cordon had gradually been formed round the hill to prevent his sallying out. Other parties were also on the war-path, and the party received several additions on the way. From all reports it was now clear that the Huillia was at bay. But how best to engage him and destroy him in the deep cavities of the hill, where there was even a rushing stream and a kind of Stygian pool, was the excited subject of discussion on the way.

"The following plan of campaign was, however, finally agreed upon. He was to be shot down when and where to be seen, and dogs would be used to trace his exact haunt and give notice of his coming in case of a rush onward. The guides were well acquainted with the immense caves where, besides the weird Guacharo, the great serpent had now taken up his abode.

"The Warden's party having reached the caves and another large party holding the entrance on the valley in the northern side, a sort of forlorn hope by the Warden and principal for members of his party was organized for gradual entrance into the caverns as far as the light of day penetrated, preceded by a couple of dogs held in leash by guides. Nothing was noticed for some minutes as the party stumbled their way over the rough rocks, save the murmur of the fall and the mournful half screech of the disma) Guacharo bird. But as they drew nearer the pool at the foot of the waterfall the dogs began to get excited and to evince a decided inclination to run back. There was sufficient light streaming through the entrances to distinguish pretty clearly all objects in the interior in the direct line of the entrances. The party halted, both on account of the unruly disposition of the dogs and because one of the guides stated he had seen something moving in the pool.

"With rifles cocked, all eyes were now fixed upon the pool. The dogs now began to howl, and whether the noise roused the terrible occupant of the caves or he otherwise became aware of the existence of the party, the head of a monstrous snake suddenly appeared on the surface of the pool, and two large and lustrous eyes became fixed with a diabolical gleam on the intruders. An angry hiss, like the plunging of a red-hot beam into the pool, issued from the hideous head. A muttered signal, and a volley rang with reverberating echoes through the caves. Large stones fell upon the jagged roof, and the startled Guacharos flew wildly in all directions, uttering their dismal screech. The Huilla had not been killed by the bullets aimed at his head. With great rapidity he seemed to uncoil his length from the depths of the pool, and with fully twenty-five feet of his body raised and curved forward as if to dart at his assailers he seemed to be emerging from the pool.

"A few whispered words notified half the party to aim at his head and the other half at the central part of his body. The second volley produced the desired effect. The colossal snake leaped wholly out of the pool, and with a few terrible convulsions, in which he lashed the water and the floor of the cavern, he sank quivering to the ground, a third volley for a quietus insuring his certain death. This fact was then made sure of, and the caves were soon invaded by the pursuers.

"The monster was dragged out into the level and found to measure forty-seven feet, the thickest part of his body having a diametor of two and a half feet. In color he was yellow in the under part of his body, dark above, with dark rings encircling the body, between which semi-lunar gray disks served as spots to variegate the skin. He was opened by the machetas of some cocoa pruners. In him there were found the half-digested body of a deer, and a number of forma pauperis forms, probably swallowed by him, with the body of some unknown and unfortunate cocoa contractor.

"The joyful concourse, dragging the monster, reached Arima, where the necessary steps were taken to preserve the carcass for display in the Council Hall of Port of Spain. The exciting occurrences connected with this monster are still the subject of general discussion and gossip."

A Sample of Chicago Humor.

A Chicago man was married recently, and, prior to his marriage, his friends indulged in a little pleasantry at his expense. Some weeks ago he announced to them the date of the ceremony, and they at once held a consultation and resolved to help him out of the crisis of his life. Accordingly they wrote all over the country to dealers in toys, baby carriages, infant food, etc., and the result was that during the two weeks just prior to his marriage he was deluged with all sorts of advertising matter in those particular lines. He received bushels of circulars calling attention to instalment plan furniture, life insurance, flats for rent, private boarding-houses, private schools, infants' clothing, etc., and he has studied all of them carefully so that he enters into married life with a full understanding of his duties. If friends of other prospective bridegrooms would be as thoughtful there would be more happiness in the world.

An Economical Millionaire.

John I. Blair, of Blairstown, N. J., is reputed to be worth $50,000,000, yet such is his strong sense of merely holding his wealth in trust for the benefit of his fellow men that he spends upon himself less almost than is paid to his humblest workman. When Mr. Blair stops at the hotel, if he intends to stay over night, he usually asks for a small inside room on the parlor floor. If it is in the winter, and too cold to sit without a fire, he sits in the public lobby. If he intends to leave before midnight he does not take a room at all, but occupies the public room down-stairs, and if he wishes to change his shirt he slips into the little wash-room behind the offices. "I never offer or refuse," he said jokingly one day to a gentleman who offered him a cigar.

The Fly-Casting Tournament.

NEW YORK, May 25.—The annual fly-casting tournament of the Rod and Reel association, at Harlem Mere, Central Park, closed yesterday. R. C. Leonard won first prize in the single-handed fly-casting and also in the light rod contest. The heavy bass casting was won by Mr. Roosevelt and the black bass casting by T. L. Breeze.

The Huns and Poles Were Fleeced.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Over one hundred Hungarians and Poles, who had deposited their savings for years with banker Max Goldberger, who, it is alleged, disappeared from his office at 163 Bridge street two weeks with $20,000 of their money, crowded around the doors of the bank this morning clamoring for admittance. The doors were bolted from the inside and no admittance could be gained. It is believed that Goldberger has either fled to Canada or Hungary.

The Reformed Episcopalians.

BOSTON, May 25.—At the session of the General Council of the Reformed Episcopal church it was voted that when the Council adjourn it be to meet in the Church of the Epiphany, Cleveland, Ohio, two years hence. A resolution was adopted that no person who has held the office of Bishop in another church coming into this church shall perform any other act of the Episcopal office in this church until so authorized by the whole council.

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. # THE CRONIN MURDER

No New Developments in the Celebrated Case.

DETECTIVE WHALEN SUSPENDED

The Chicago Authorities Decide to Hold Coughlin as a Witness.

The Accused Officers Make Unsatisfactory Statements—"A Man from Michigan" a Prominent Figure—It Is Now Known that an Attempt to Decoy Dr. Cronin to a Lonely Spot Was Made a Short Time Before He Was Killed.

CHICAGO, May 27.—The Mayor and Chief Hubbard, accompanied by Attorney Hynes, who is assisting in the pursuit of the Cronin assassins, went to Chicago Avenue station at 11 o'clock last night, and held a long conference with Captain Schaack, regarding Dan Coughlin's connection with the case.

In discussing the case the point was made in favor of Coughlin that had he wanted this rig for any improper purpose he would not have said "any rig will do," but would have been very particular as to the kind to be used for such purpose. On the other hand the point was made against Coughlin that his story given in explanation was ridiculous.

The Mayor and the Chief held that he might as well have given the name of "John Doe" to anyone else as "Thomas Smith." Summing it all up, they decided to hold Coughlin as a "witness." After the consultation, it is understood that Detective Whalen was promptly suspended to await further investigation.

Whalen said to-day that after Coughlin and himself were detailed on the Cronin case from the White House episode, they wandered about the streets for two days without meeting the man from Michigan, and were about to report their failure when Schaack told them of his interview with Mrs. Conklin.

Whelan and Coughlin were then ordered to drop the Cronin case altogether and report for general work.

A day or two after that while they were strolling down Clark street, in the vicinity of Illinois, Coughlin met a man who appeared to know him.

"I didn't pay any attention to the fellow," said Whelan last night, "because he appeared to be a friend of Dan's. Dan didn't offer to introduce me so I strolled along a little way north and waited for Dan to get through. When he got through he came over, where I was standing and we walked north about a block. Then he told me that the man he met was his friend from Michigan who had driven Dinan's horse. I turned around to see if I could see the fellow but he was too far away. If I had known at the time who he was I would have taken him to the station to see the captain. But as we were not on the case then I soon forgot the incident."

"What sort of a-looking man was he?"

"I don't believe I looked at him, so the only description I can give I got from Dinan and his men."

"Didn't you think it rather peculiar that Coughlin did not introduce you to a man for whom you had been hunting two days?"

"I didn't think much about it then because I wasn't paying any attention to the case."

It is known that an attempt to decoy Dr. Cronin to a very lonely spot was made a short time before the night he was killed.

The story of the attempted but unsuccessful effort to get Cronin to a lonely neighborhood to see an imaginary sick man is interwoven with other incidents that lead back to the Carlson cottage.

One night about 11:30 o'clock shortly after the cottage was leased to the two strange men a telephone message was sent to the Doctor asking him to call at Butterfield and Fortieth streets on the South Side where it was said a man was badly hurt.

The person who telephoned gave explicit instructions as to the locality and urged that the Doctor make all possible haste.

Dr. Cronin was absent from home at the time and did not return until nearly morning. After it was light he went to the place where it was said he was wanted in such haste.

The spot was a vacant lot. He made careful and exhaustive inquiries in the neighborhood, going from house to house. After spending several hours in the search he found that no one had been injured in that vicinity. The messsage was undoubtedly a decoy. There is little doubt that had he gone there during the night he would have been assassinated.

FUNERAL OF DR. CRONIN.

CHICAGO, May 27.—People began to gather early about the First cavalry armory in Michigan avenue yesterday morning, anxious to pay the last tribute to the memory of Dr. P. H. Cronin, whose remains reposed in state within. The catafalque remained as it had been arranged on the previous day.

Of those who crowded up to cast a last glance at the departed, a line was formed and a continuous procession, averaging fully seventy-five a minute, passed in at the front entrance and around the catafalque. The lid of the casket was not removed, but a large crayon portrait of the murdered man leaned against a bank of hydrangeas in a corner of the catafalque.

The great body of the edifice was crowded to its utmost capacity, there being not less than 3,000 persons present. The funeral sermon was delivered by Rev. Father Muldoon, Chancellor of the Diocese.

After the solemn ceremonies of the church had been performed the great procession again fell into line, and took up the march for the Milwaukee & St. Paul depot. It took over an hour to seat the processionists. The run out was accomplished without incident, and occupied some thirty minutes.

The body, after being disembarked, was conveyed into the cemetery upon a carriage, and was placed in the receiving vault without any ceremonies of any kind.

BISHOP RYAN TALKS ABOUT IT.

BUFFALO, May 27.—Right Rev. Stephen Vincent Ryan, Roman Catholic Bishop of this diocese, has this to say of the murder of Dr. Cronin in Chicago: "If this be the act of a man or set of men belonging to secret societies, particularly I would say that it is the most outrageous act that any one can conceive of, and that it is the most shocking and scandalous act that has been committed in this country within my knowledge. I only hope the perpetrator or perpetrators, whoever they may be, may be brought to strictest justice. I never supposed that the Clan-na-Gael could be capable of such an act. I was always opposed to it as a secret society, but that it would go to such lengths or authorize any such act I could not have believed. I had supposed it was radical, but not criminal in that sense. This crime only shows anew the wisdom of the church in condemning all secret societies."

WASHINGTON INTELLIGENCE.

News and Gossip of General Interest from the National Capital.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The Commissioners appointed to visit Hayti, Gen. Lew Wallace and Col. Beverly Tucker, will leave during the latter part of the week for Port-au-Prince.

It was expected that they would leave sooner, but as the State department has not finished their instructions some delay in their departure will occur.

It has not been settled as yet whether they will go in the mail steamer or a war vessel of the Government. Their departure will depend entirely upon the action President Harrison and his Cabinet may take when they come to consider the instructions in Cabinet meeting.

The question of a coaling station for the United States in Haytien waters, and the prospect of acquisition of territory is one of the primary motives of Secretary Blaine in this matter.

The State department still refuses to confirm the statement that a commission will be sent to Hayti.

Two consular appointments which are thought to be assured are those of W. H. Wallace, of Missouri, to be Consul-General at Melbourne, and Dr. H. W. Starkloff, of Missouri, to be Consul at Hamburg. How soon they may be made, however, nobody knows.

Congressman Butterworth and others are interesting themselves again in behalf of General Swain. The sentence of the court, twelve years suspension from rank and duty, is regarded as a very severe one. President Harrison has promised to give the matter his personal attention. The power of mitigating the sentence rests alone with the President.

To-morrow General Drum, the Adjutant-General of the Army, retires to private life. He has attained the age of 62 years, has been a most excellent soldier, and lays down the cares and troubles of office with as brilliant a record as any army officer could possibly have.

J. R. McKee, the President's son-in-law, arrived at the White House from Indianapolis yesterday. He will return home next week, accompanied by Mrs. McKee.

The reported strained relations between President Harrison and United States Treasurer Huston, in reference to the distribution of offices to Hoosiers is emphatically denied by friends of both the President and Mr. Huston.

Sir Julian Pauncefote will return to England in July for the purpose of bringing Lady Pauncefote and daughters to Washington. It is expected that they will spend a part of September at Lenox.

Locomotive Engineers in Session.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 27.—A union meeting of locomotive engineers of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania was held in the Academy of Music yesterday morning and afternoon. Large numbers of special trains came into the city from all sections at an early hour yesterday morning, and when the morning session was called to order it is estimated that there were present over 800 engineers. The sessions were presided over by Grand Chief Engineer P. M. Arthur, of Cleveland, O. The sessions were secret, and judging by the remarks dropped by different engineers, was a very important one. The order in this section has been losing ground since the Reading strike, and it is said that this meeting was for the purpose of devising means to increase the order's strength.

Railroad Thieves in Pennsylvania.

ERIE, Pa., May 27.—It has just been reported that car thieves on Friday night last robbed twenty-one cars of the Pennsylvania company, that came over the Pittsburg and Lake Erie railroad, and that a large amount of valuable property was stolen but no exact figures can be given. Railroad officials say that this is the greatest steal of the kind on record. No arrests have yet been made.

To Form an International Organization.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 27.—Secretary Martin, of the Amalgamated Association, has received a circular inviting all labor organizations to participate in a convention at Paris, from July 14 to 21, for the purpose of forming an international organization to secure united action on the subject of wages and hours of labor, and surveillance of workshops and of domestic industry. Mr. Martin suspects that the movement savors of Socialism, and does not think American labor organizations will be represented at the meeting.

Murdered in a Saloon.

BALTIMORE, May 27.—James T. Birby, a moulder employed in the foundry of the Washington navy yard and living at 14 South Carrollton avenue, Baltimore, was murdered last night at the saloon of Edward Walsh, corner of Schrooder and Lemon streets. Ben Steinman, Edward McCubbin and Michael Mahon are locked up charged with the crime. The tragedy was the result of a political discussion, but it is not known which of the three fired the fatal shot.

A Young Minister Suicides.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 27.—Rev. Henry Greenfield Schorr, assistant rector of St. Paul's P. E. Church, corner of Charles and Saratoga streets, committed suicide yesterday morning by blowing his brains out with a pistol. Mr. Schorr was 29 years of age and has been in his present position since last October.

SETTLING THE SAMOAN MATTER

A Rumor that There Is a Serious Hitch in the Negotiations.

Appalling Accounts of the Ravages of Disease Among the English and German Ships—Many of the Sailors Down With Fever—Several Men Died—King Humbert Returns to Italy—Items of Interest from London and the Continent.

LONDON, May 27.—The sessions of the American, British and German diplomats engaged in the effort to straiten out the Samoan troubles in Berlin, have up to this time assumed the appearance of a veritable love feast. There are reports, however, that this serenity is not likely to continue. It is difficult to even conjecture what trouble is brewing now in the Conference, but it is rumored in diplomatic circles that there is a serious hitch in the negotiations.

Advices from Zanzibar bring appalling accounts of the ravages of disease among the English and German ships in those waters. There are many cases of dysentery and fever on the English ships and the German vessels are in even a worse condition. The Corvette Carvalla is rendered entirely helpless, having half her crew down with fever. Three of the men died in twenty-four hours.

King Humbert attended mass in the Hedwigs-Kirche yesterday. He entered the church alone and not even the clergy were aware of his presence. Hitherto visiting sovereigns who have worshipped there have been received with great ceremony, but it is understood that the Italian King chose to be unrecognized. King Humbert and the Prince of Naples started on their journey home at 9:30 last evening. There was a large crowd at the railway station to witness their departure.

Pastre Broussier, the chemist's assistant, whose arrest at Havre, France, in December last, charged with poisoning sixteen persons created such a sensation, has been acquitted. The motive for the crime attributed to him at the time of his arrest was a desire to ruin his employer, and he so doing to succeed to his business, but the evidence adduced at the trial failed to support this theory.

The Official State Banquet in honor of the Queen's birthday, was given yesterday. Lord Salisbury had among his guests at the official residence in Arlington street, the Prince of Wales and most of the Foreign Ambassadors. Lady Salisbury entertained a large and distinguished party at her reception at the Foreign Office.

Minister of Justice Thevenet replying to a question in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, said that he thought the rise in the price of sugar was due to natural causes, and declared that the Government would prosecute any combination in the trade.

The Emperor of Germany talked for some time with Chairman Kasson of the American Samoan Delegates last evening at the soiree. Mr. Kasson was also presented to the Empress.

Against Prohibition.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 27.—Rev. Henry C. Swentzel, pastor of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, and a leading clergyman of this region, preached against the proposed prohibition amendment to the constitution yesterday. He argued that prohibitory legislation in other States has not prevented the liquor traffic, but has added clandestinism and hypocrisy to its evils. Until men master their appetites it is better to have the traffic carried on openly, where it can be watched and regulated.

Wholesale Discharge of Conductors.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 27.—A number of conductors on the upper divisions of the Louisville and Nashville railroad were recently discharged, and yesterday three on the Montgomery and Decatur division were dismissed. No reason is assigned.

Laura Bridgman's Funeral.

BOSTON, May 27.—The funeral of Laura Bridgeman took place yesterday at the Perkins Institute for the Blind, and was attended by the pupils of the institute and many personal friends of the deceased. Addresses were delivered by Rev. E. E. Hale, Rev. D. B. Jutten, of the South Boston Baptist Church, and Rev. Dr. Fay, of the Deaf Mute school at Hartford.

For the Justice's Family.

NEW YORK, May 27.—The concert at the Academy of Music last night for the benefit of the family of Civil Justice Michael Norton, realized $18,000.

An Old Circus Press Agent Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 27.—Crete Pulver, who has had charge for several years of the advertising department of Barnum, Bailey & Hutchinson show, died yesterday at his home in this city, aged 41 years. He had been in the show business for nineteen years.

Fire at Bellows Falls, Vt.

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., May 27.—The Bellows Falls Times building and a number of stores were burned yesterday. Loss $30,000, partially insured.

FISH FOR NEWARK.

How the Crescent Y. M. C. A., Ball Nine was Defeated by the Tenth Ward Team of Newark and Their Umpire.

Fifteen hundred people turned out last Saturday afternoon to see the overmatched Cresents defeated with ease by the stalwart 10th Ward nine of Newark. Pitcher Hammill struck out eighteen of the Plainfield boys—including every man on the team but Lee—and the rest were put out by the infielders with little exertion.

Smiling Pat Gately did his best to save his nine from disaster and succeeded in striking out all the Newark men excepting VanNess, S. Hammill and Comesky. But the Crescents could bat no more than usual, while Ashworth and Dilts stepped up to the plate eight times and fanned the atmosphere with preposterous monotony.

The visitors, headed by Hornish, were a most discorteous set. They were ready to kick on anything, but as the umpire's decision in two instances alone declared the third-out of the Newarks as safe, and added six runs to their score, there was no kicking so far as he was concerned. The visitors would not play unless they could have the umpire, John Conners, that they had brought with them. Then they would not let another player run for Dilts unless they picked the runner themselves, but they asked no one's permission when they substituted one runner for another on their own team.

A number of unfortunate occurrences also transpired to bring ill-luck to the Crescents. Collisions in the out field between Demarest and McLoughlin, and Demarest and Ashworth, spoilt fly catches and added runs to the Newarks' score. McMurray's general inability to get a move or a reach on him, caused him to lose a couple of chances and also help along the visitors' total. The Crescent's first baseman had a fine opportunity—if he availed himself of it, Saturday—of learning from Comesky's, play how to fasten on a ball that may not be right over the bag.

The Crescents game at the bat was as follows: Lee stepped first to the plate and flew out to Mullen, and Gately and Ashworth promptly struck out.

Second inning: Dilts struck out; Condon was given his base on balls and reached home on some wild throwing; McMurray and McLoughlin were thrown out at first.

Third inning: Cornwell was thrown out at first; Demarest struck out; Lee made a base hit and reached second on Hornish's error, but was left there as Gately again failed to find the ball.

Fourth inning: Ashworth, Dilts and Condon, all fanned the air.

Fifth inning: McMurray struck out; McLoughlin made a hit for first base but was thrown out trying to steal second without a slide; and Cornwell completed the thing with three strikes and out.

Sixth inning: Demarest reached first on O'Neill's error, stole second and third and was left there; Lee knocked a foul fly to Comesky; Gately flew out to S. Hammill, and Ashworth struck out for the third time.

The seventh inning added the other two runs to the Crescent's score that made up the day's total of three. Dilts struck out, but was followed by Condon and McMurray with a base hit each, and both got home before McLoughlin and Cornwell had struck out.

Eighth inning: Demarest made a base hit, stole second and third, and Lee reached first on Hornish's error, but both were left, as Gately, Ashworth and Dilts successfully and successively struck out.

Ninth inning: Condon knocked a foul fly to Comesky; McMurray got his first on balls, and stole second; McLoughlin struck out; Cornwell was hit in the face by a pitched ball that glanced off his bat and was given his base; and Demarest finished the game by striking out.

The score in detail was as follows:

A Still Alarm.

A lamp in the second story hall-way of ex-Senator Livingston's residence on Broadway, set fire to the wood work a little after seven o'clock, last evening, and about fifty dollars damage was done to the building before the flames were extinguished. A "still alarm" was sent out, and Gazelle Engine and the Truck were soon on the spot. Fortunately, however, the fire was put out, before it became necessary to turn a stream on the building, and in this way a heavy loss by water was averted.

NOLAN GOT EIGHTEEN YEARS.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS.]

SOMERVILLE, May 27.—Motion for a new trial in the Nolan murder case, was denied by Judge Magie this morning, and Morris Nolan was sentenced to eighteen years in State Prison at hard labor. In passing sentence Judge Magie said to Nolan "You have been three times tried and at last convicted of murder in the second degree. The counsel assigned you by the Court have defended you with great zeal and marked ability, and I must say that they have been inadequately paid, but had you been able to employ any counsel you might wish your case could not have been more ably defended. Everything possible has been done by them in your behalf, and now the Court see no reason why you should not receive a sentence." The sentence of eighteen years at hard labor was then imposed. Nolan was apparently unmoved.

Messrs Clark & Reed of this city, were Nolan's counsel.

The above cut of Nolan is loaned us through the courtesy of Postmaster Mason of Bound Brook, who is also editor of the Chronicle of that place.

BEFORE THE G. A. R.

Rev. Mr. Schenck Preaches a Memorial Sermon to the Veterans Last Evening.

About forty of the members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of this city, attended divine service in a body at Trinity Reformed church, last evening. According to the usual custom, May 30 is designated as Memorial Day, and the Sunday preceding Memorial Day is set apart for the veterans to attend church in a body. The church was crowded on this occasion, and the service was both solemn and impressive. Rev. Mr. Schenck took his text from Exodus 17:14—"And the Lord said unto Moses, write this for a memorial in a book, and rehearse it in the ears of Joshua."

The preacher said it was an old custom to establish memorial events; in ancient times pillars, obelisks, etc., were designated as memorials, but in modern times Easter, Thanksgiving, Christmas and Decoration Day are memorials. The 30th of May speaks of the second birth; it recalls the struggle and death and the freedom from slavery; it recalls the battles fought in behalf of the integrity of the union, the treason and triumph, the victory and defeat of those terrible days. In honor and esteem we hold the loyal dead, and the annual pilgrimage to their graves brings to mind the fact that their memory is still green.

Rev. Mr. Schenck went on to compare the civil war with the conflict between the Amalekites and Israelites in the Rephidem. When Sumpter was fired upon, it was a terrible shock to the nation; the actual separation of the North and South was unlooked for. The civil war, the most bitter of any that has ever raged, was a conflict between kindred of common ancestry; it was Anglo-Saxon in death struggle with Anglo-Saxon.

"Third," continued the preacher, "The late war was protractive and obstinate, covering a period of four years, but the clouds were finally dispersed and there was peace. The victory was not achieved by sword or bayonet or strategem alone, but by the union of God and man; while you were fighting in the valley, your wives and children were praying on the mount."

The speaker paid a loyal tribute to Grant, Sheridan, Sherman and Hancock, adding that all honor is due to the brave man who threw himself in the trench and said: "My body as a sacrifice, if you please, but a divided flag shall never be."

Finally, concluded Mr. Schenck, another similarity is the obligation of the living to the dead—to the present and past; we are not only heirs to those who have gone before us, but we are debtors; Memorial Day is in recognition of our duties to call from oblivion the names of the dead heroes. We should have written on the tablet of our heart the record of the civil war, and thus become living memorials. Twenty-five years have elapsed since the last gun was fired, and today peace reigns—one country, one constitution is our destiny forever.

The congregation joined in singing "My Country 'Tis of Thee," and the audience dispersed with the benediction.

OBITUARY.

ANDREW LOVE.

Andrew Love, Sr., died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Duncan Walker at Short Hills, N. J., yesterday morning. The deceased was born in Beith, Ayrshire, Scotland, and came to this country thirty-five years ago. He followed his trade as a stone setter in New York for ten years, then moving to this city. Among other work he assisted in the building of the First Baptist and Crescent Avenue churches. For several years past he has resided on his farm at Short Hills. The deceased had reached his eighty-sixth year, and is survived by five sons and one daughter as follows: Robert Love, who resides in Hull, England, Andrew Love, ex-Councilman of this city, Thomas Love of Westfield, N. J., James Love of Jersey City, William Love of Roseland, Essex Co., and Martha, wife of Duncan Walker of Short Hills, N. J., in whose house he was tenderly cared for until he passed away yesterday morning. Mr. Love's wife died about three years ago.

Grace Church.

The Bishop of the Diocese of New Jersey made his annual visitation to this parish on Sunday night. The evening prayer service was conducted by the Rector, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Taylor. Bishop Scarborough preached from the text: "I have finished the work which Thou gavest me to do."

During his address the Bishop spoke in sincere commendation of Archdeacon Rodman and his work in the Diocese, and confessed how sorry he was over the resignation of Dr. Rodman as Dean, which office he had filled for fifteen years past with such gain to the Diocese and assistance to the Bishop.

He then confirmed twenty persons presented by the Rector. The offerings were devoted to the Missionary work of the Diocese.

The Noon-Day Prayer Meeting.

Don't forget the noon prayer meeting, every day from 12 to 1, at the W. C. T. U. rooms.

BLESSING ST. MARY'S PULPIT.

Impressive Services at St. Mary's Church, Yesterday Afternoon, Followed by a Sermon by Bishop O'Farrell.

The commodious St. Mary's church was not large enough to seat all who applied for admission, yesterday afternoon, on the occasion of Bishop O'Farrell's visit to the church. The Bishop was present to bless the memorial pulpit donated to the church by the Verdon family of North Plainfield, and to occupy the new pulpit for the first time.

The handsome pulpit is the work of Messrs J. & R. Lamb, one of the finest ecclesiastical art working firms in New York city, and is a marked compliment to the oldest Catholic family in Plainfield, the late Judge Verdon being one of the pioneers of the Catholic faith in this vicinity.

The regular church choir furnished the music, Father Stafford rendering the solo parts. The service of blessing the pulpit was short and impressive. Besides the Bishop and Father Smyth, the latter the rector, Fathers O'Connor of Bound Brook and Freeman of St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, were in attendance at the altar. Following the service of blessing, Bishop O'Farrell delivered an eloquent and interesting sermon on "The Pulpit." In beginning he said:

There are two things to be considered in connection with the sermon. First—"Why is the pulpit given?" Second—"What is the meaning of the pulpit?" In the first place, said the learned Bishop, the pulpit is an offering to God. Here he eulogized the late 'Squire Verdon, in whose memory the pulpit is erected, and spoke of the deceased as one of the founders of Catholicism in Plainfield. The Catholic church, he said, has grown to large proportions.

To us, the Bishop continued, the pulpit is a sacrament; it is the home of our Father, the palace of our King, where the heart of our Saviour is burning with infinite love. The church of God has its centre in the altar; the altar is centred in the tabernacle, and the tabernacle is the home of God, where sermons are preached and the seed passed out, according to God's words: "Go, I command you, and preach the Gospel."

The speaker went on to state how the New Testament was formulated and enumerated from the epistles of the Apostles in the third century, adding that it took seventy years after the ascension of the Lord to complete the work. The church will go on for all time, he said, not to teach our doctrines, but to teach what we were taught by the Apostles. God's works do not change; the church, like the sun, will continue to shine until all things end with God's eternal kingdom; as Christ was yesterday, is today and tomorrow, so is the church, for God hath said: "Behold, I am with you always, even to the end of the World."

In conclusion the Bishop made congratulatory remarks concerning what has been done in the parish; he also alluded to the new parochial school as a union of religion and education. No people, he declared, loved education more than the Catholics, and none were more willing to make sacrifices to attain it. His closing words were: "May God continue to bless you, and as the parish has grown, continue to grow in the Catholic faith; the day will come when all will gather around the throne of our God."

After the sermon by the Bishop, Father Stafford sang the "Veni Creator," followed by the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, which couciuded the ceremonies of the afternoon.

The Bishop at Holy Cross.

The annual visit of Bishop Scarborough to Holy Cross church, North Plainfield, yesterday morning, brought out a large congregation, notwithstanding the threatening appearance of the weather. The church was very tastefully decorated with flowers for the occasion. The Bishop preached a most excellent sermon and afterwards administered the rite of confimation to 21 persons, 15 of whom were males.

Before announcing his text the Bishop congratulated the rector and congregation upon the great prosperity of the parish, and their generous contributions to the church at large, especially to missions in this Diocese, and to his own private charity fund—they having given him the largest contribution of the year.

He spoke in praise of the ladies of the parish who interested themselves in securing this fund; nor did he neglect to speak of the vested choir which he regarded as sure evidence of progressiveness. It was particularly pleasing to him.

He also spoke very feelingly and earnestly of the pleasure that the rector, Rev. T. Logan Murphy, must have enjoyed in presenting so large a class for confirmation, and hoped that all would be steadfast and encourage their rector. The services were most impressive, at the close of which a large number of the congregation remained to partake of the Holy Communion.

—Persons who throw newspapers and handbills in the street or roadway ought to stop it. Nothing will frighten a horse like a sheet of paper carried about by the wind.

—Some idea of the quantity of beer drank in North Plainfield, can be had from the fact that on a Saturday a year ago, four kegs of beer was the average number put on tap in a borough barroom. Last Saturday 24 kegs were unloaded in one barroom before ten o'clock at night. Quite a number of nickles.

—Use Dr. Dam's Remedy.

Coal Going Up.

Notwithstanding the fact that the coal mines in Pennsylvania are in full operation, representatives of the various coal companies in New York have advanced the prices.

The price of grate is to be advanced from $3.75 to $3.85; of egg from $3.90 to $4, and of stove from $4.15 to $4.30. The price of chestnut remains unchanged at $4. These prices go into effect June 1.

—It is said that "matchmaking" goes slow at this season, as there is frequently a coldness between lovers. This can be proved in almost any iced cream saloon—as being all nonsence!

Matters of Interest in the National Game.

HOW THE CLUBS ARE STANDING

Close Contests Among the League and Association Players.

Clubs that Started Poorly Are Now Doing Better—The New Yorks Begin to Pick Up—Chicago's Lack of Team Work—Brooklyn's Good Showing in the West—Cincinnati Plays Well—General Intelligence of the Clubs.

NEW YORK, May 27.—That the race is not always to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, has been illustrated time and again on the diamond as well as on fields of deadly conflict. Coolness, strategy and grit have been known to wrench many a game from seemingly victorious rivals and real giants on the diamond have been sent to the dust with triumph in view. Clubs that for weeks had been defeated everywhere have occasionally been favored by Dame Fortune, and the smile from that goddess has inspired the men with a determination to win. Crippled players have bobbed up serenely and made plays that have been simply astonishing, while their antagonists have played as though they just came from the nursery. With the encouragement of an impartial attendance men have been known to field balls that under ordinary circumstances would proceed on their course without even the slightest attempt at interruption. Such events as these have occurred on the various baseball grounds already this season, although it is scarcely more than a month advanced.

Washington, whom the New Yorks and Bostons defeated with such ease a few weeks ago, has proven strong enough to deceive the Chicago, Indianapolis and Philadelphia teams when they were apparently in their best form. Louisville had been losing game after game with their Western colleagues, but when Baltimore and the Athletics came before them they braced up with remarkable rapidity and fought a strong, winning battle. These uncertainties it is that puzzle people who know nothing of the national pastime, and lead them to believe that baseball, like other games, is controlled by gamblers, whereas the students of America's great sport know different.

This was illustrated here the past week. When the Pittsburgs took the field against the Giants both teams were in sad plight. Both were weak at the same spot, and great anxiety was felt to see which was in the worst predicament. The visitors were minus their third baseman, Keuhne, and all but one of their regular pitchers, while the home team, in one game at least, had Richardson and Ewing off the diamond. Yet notwithstanding these drawbacks they gave satisfactory exhibitions of the game, and at times the pretty plays made on both sides created excitement and enthusiasm.

The Chicago Club has not produced the feeling here as in the past. It is not the same club, either behind the plate, in the field or on the bases, and notwithstanding Anson's statement that he has a winning team there is decided room for doubt. His pitchers are weak in comparison with former years and are admired more for the number he has than for their good qualities. In regard to their batting, however, it is only fair to say that they are among the League's leaders in team work. Their work altogether has been far from perfect and it will require months of careful training to make champions out of them, if it is possible at all. But as Anson is not a quitter he can be counted in the race until it is impossible for him to even see the flag. Then and only then will he give up hope.

The Boston Club has been pushing to the front at a rate that would charm people had they not been playing on their own grounds against weaker clubs and others ordinarily worthy foemen, but at present badly crippled. In batting the Beaneaters are excelled by the Chicagos and in fielding they are surpassed by most of the League teams. They have also been enjoying extraordinary good luck in having most of their best players in prime condition.

Philadelphia is low down in batting and only playing a moderate fielding game, but on the whole its team work has been better than that of the Boston Club. Manager Wright has been having some trouble with his pitchers. In other words, judged by the record they have made thus far, the Phillies are playing n arer a championship game than the Hubbites and the prospects of the club are brighter. Cleveland is still holding up well with the assistance of Blakely and O'Brien, who have enjoyed a good deal of good luck and much better support. The cranks still place this team about seventh place and some concede that it might even get up into sixth place.

The Pittsburgs are, with the aid of new pitchers, doing about as well as without them, but this raw material may be put to good account later on, should misfortune overtake the regular twirler, as during the past few weeks. In fielding they are only surpassed as a team by the Indianapolis club.

Indianapolis, which comes here next week, has had its ups and downs in the race. The great trouble with this team has been weakness in the pitcher's box. The club has been batting very hard, indeed, but the opposing teams have been doing superior work with the bat.

The Association has just concluded its first tour of the West. They played in all fifty-four games, of which they won two short of half. The Brooklyns have done the best work all around. They won 11 of the 14 games played, defeating the Cincinnatis, Louisvilles and Kansas City teams each three times, and breaking even with their great rivals of St. Louis. They proved in every way equal to the Browns, and had the Athletics and Baltimores played as strong a game in the West as they did before going, the Grooms would have been nearer first place.

In the series just concluded Cincinnati kept the Eastern clubs well down, winning nine of the fourteen games played. While these figures are interesting, they in no way indicate the real strength of the competing clubs. Until the Western clubs have been here for a series their real treagth can scarcely be fairly judged. On Thursday the clubs will open in the East and will play for three weeks.

JESSUP STOOD TO WIN.

His Little Coal Land Speculation Would Have Netted Him $300,000.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 27.—The failure of the City bank and the arrest of Vice-President and Cashier Jessup, charged with the embezzlement of bank funds amounting to not less than $135,000, excited the citizens of the city throughout the day, especially the announcement of new developments. The most startling of these is that all of the directors with the exception of President Throop, as soon as they were convinced of the enormity of Jessup's shortage, withdrew to the last penny every cent they had on deposit during the morning banking hours. Dr. Throop, who is worth $3,000,000, and had $68,000 on deposit, alone of the directors allowed his money to go in the general crash. Dr. Throop held one-fourth of the stock of the bank.

Another well-authenticated story is that on Friday a customer had paper discounted for $5,000. Cashier Jessup immediately thereafter re-discounted it at the Merchants and Mechanics Bank.

The crash of the City bank promises that runs will be made on the other banks tomorrow, but all of these banks are prepared and all demands will be met in full.

Cashier Jessup stated to-day that he was utterly astonished when put under arrest on the charge of embezzlement. He denies the charge and says that he has not used, illegally the bank's funds, nor did he purpose going to Canada. If he had made mistakes in loans or investments he was personally liable and had ample property to make good the losses. This property was within the reach of creditors.

Director Merrifield said to-day that the yearly auditing committee was the only check on the cashier that the bank had, and while examining the cashier's statement for the week ending May 16th, which gave $10,000 surplus, it was discovered that there was no surplus. On the contrary, there was discovered a deficit sufficiently large to swallow the hundred thousand dollars capital stock, but there was nothing to show by what methods the money was taken.

This evening Dr. Throop stated that the bank's embarrassment was caused by Jessup using its funds to promote a contract with the New York Ontario and Western railway, by which the latter was to develop coal lands containing two million tons of coal, held by Jessup under leasehold, the road now being under contract. Jessup spent week before last in New York and Boston looking after the project, but the matter being deferred he returned to Scranton disheartened. Had the project carried Jessup would have realized $200,000, and this would have carried him safely over.

President Throop also stated that depositors will be paid in full, and if the bank resumes at all it will be reorganized under the National Banking system.

AFTER A RING.

Charges of Wholesale Thieving Against Long Branch Officials.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., May 27.—A committee of twenty-seven taxpayers have waited upon Judge Scudder of the Supreme Court and have presented seven charges against the Board of Freeholders, charging them jointly with County Clerk James H. Patterson, County Auditor John P. Applegate and Public Prosecutor Charles Haight with misappropriating the public funds of the county.

The principal charge is against County Clerk Patterson, of having retained license fees, amounting to nearly $8,000, in his possession for nearly four years.

The Freeholders are charged with giving a contract to bridge builders for $34,000, when they only put in a bid for $27,000, which amount was much higher than put in by other bridge builders who bid. The ex-Mayor of Long Branch, Wilbur A. Heisley, is counsel for the petitioning taxpayers.

Archbishop Gross in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, May 26.—Archbishop William H. Gross of Oregon is spending a few days here, the guest of Cardinal Gibbons. After a short visit to friends in Philadelphia, New York and Boston, he will sail for Rome in the early part of June.

High License in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, May 27.—There is a movement on foot to obtain a high license system for saloons in Baltimore, and to establish a police court for the trial of petty offences. The proposed reform is commenced by citizens irrespective of party.

Strung Herself Up in the Cell.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 27.—Nelly Gray, 20 years old, was arrested last night on a charge of intoxication. Half an hour after midnight she was found hanging by the neck to the iron bars of her cell door. The roundsman cut her down. She was insensible, but recovered before morning.

FAMILY PLEASURES.

How to Make Home Life Enjoyable to the Old and Young.

Recreations and Amusements for Leisure Hours—How Parents Can Create a Close Bond of Sympathy Between Themselves and Their Children.

Perhaps the greatest general need of the American people is a better provision for recreations, or amusements, in the home circle. We live too much in public, truthfully remarks the editress of the Ladies' Home Journal. Our men, absorbed in money-getting or politics, regard their domestic life as a secondary matter. Our women, if not domestic drudges, and these are comparatively rare, are devoted to the verge of dissipation to benevolent and religious work, or to the claims of society. Even children are led to regard every phase of life more important, and fuller of enjoyment, than any thing connected with the privacy of home.

American character is thus to a great extent developed in an atmosphere of excitement, and nourished with the artificiality pertaining to an existence carried on before the eyes of the world. It is to this many faults in American manners, and perhaps also in American morals, are no doubt due.

We need the peculiar refining influence to be obtained only from a simple, yet elevated and attractive, home life.

Enjoyment pure and simple or relaxation from serious occupations is an inherent demand of human nature. And it is needed by men and women, as well as by children. All work and no play makes John a dull man as inevitably as it makes Jack a dull boy. Most people realize this fact, only to look away and beyond them for pleasures which are either impossible for them to obtain, or having been obtained, prove unsatisfactory. At the same time the best of all delights may lie unnoticed at their feet.

Again circumstances compel some families to live lives isolated from what is called "society." In their "idle hours" they must do without the joys of companionship, or find them in their own home circles. Blessed is the family that is able to discover the pure happiness which even apparently narrow lives afford.

Home pleasures as a rule should be those in which every member of the family can partake. They should be emphatically simple pleasures, such as require loving care and thought for others, rather than the expenditure of wearisome labor or much money. They should be pleasures which keep the mind active, bringing healthy satisfaction without danger of dissipation or of enervating satiety. Finally they should be sufficiently varied to suit human nature's love of change.

A pleasure easily obtained, and almost universally agreeable, is to be found in reading aloud from an entertaining book of travels, an interesting story, or a book in which humor is largely intermingled. Nor is it strictly necessary that a book should be well read in order to give pleasure. Yet on the other hand a good reader can make a comparatively uninteresting book attractive. And there are probably few families containing no member sufficiently talented to become a good reader through practice. If parents would only encourage their children from earliest childhood to read aloud from books and papers they understand and find interesting, good readers would no longer be rare, and an unfailing source of pleasure would be provided for many homes. This pleasure is dwelt upon because it is so commonly overlooked and unappreciated. To read well will some day no doubt be considered as valuable an accomplishment as to sing, or to play upon some musical instrument well. And as much pains will be taken to develop a talent for reading—not elocution—as are now given to the cultivation of musical talent.

Music is somewhat universally recognized as an amusement, or more properly an enjoyment, suitable for the home circle. Yet as a rule, the piano or organ is opened, and the voice is used in singing many more times for the entertainment of guests than for the exclusive pleasure of a family. Story books often make it one of their heroine's special virtues, that she plays or sings some simple music occasionally to please an old father.

Every home ought to be furnished with a backgammon board, a set of checkers or chess-men, a box of dominoes, a game of authors or something similar. And these games should not be laid away on a shelf until company comes, but should be used principally as an innocent means of relaxation for the different members of the household. It should perhaps be said, for the sake of those conscientiously opposed to all games of chance, that they never do harm until united with a sordid spirit, which values only money or material rewards.

The cultivation of flowers, "gardening for pleasure," is usually an unending source of delight to the girls, and not unfrequently to the boys, of the household.

Out-of-door sports in which all of the family can engage should be encouraged. Croquet, tennis, archery, etc., where they are feasible, and the family circle large enough, can generally be entered into with as much zest by fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters, as by a large mixed company, and without the addition of the many social features too often supposed to be indispensable.

Family picnics, walks in the woods, fishing excursions, rides and drives, are pleasures especially enjoyed by the younger members of the family.

Besides bringing parents and children nearer together, home pleasures increase the affection of brothers and sisters toward each other. They have thus not only a commonality of interests in childhood and youth, but in after life a tie of pleasant memories connects them closely in each others thoughts. To be comrades and friends, as well as brothers and sisters, form a three-fold cord not easily broken.

Finally the tendency of these simple, easily obtained pleasures as a part of daily life, heartily enjoyed, is to encourage a noble simplicity of character. They give a dignity to little things, and add a fullness to life. They develop man's ability to obtain good wherever it may be found. They prevent, to a great extent, a craving for unhealthy excitements and less innocent pastimes. And by keeping the mind fresh, and the senses alert and active, they prepare the way for the higher enjoyments possible for people of education and culture.

Simple pleasures, perhaps, come the nearest of any thing to being the thornless roses in the pathway of our earthly pilgrimage, and their fragrance sweetens the atmosphere in which we move, keeping our natures wholesome, our dispositions cheerful, and our perceptions of the beauty and value of life keen.

Where Is the West?

Where is the West, anyway? Here are the Chicago papers commenting on the Western ideas of justice that obtain in Omaha, while doubtless Omaha locates the West in Montana or Colorado. And when you get to these localities you find somehow or other that the West has eluded you altogether, while the Pacific slope looms before you as the ultima thule.

NOT TO BE FOOLED.

How Honest Matthew Riley Protected His Mistress' Premises.

Mrs. Hallowell was a very pretty and amiable widow, but, says the Detroit Commercial Advertiser, she had a sorrow. She had arrived at a critical period when age shows its marks upon the face, and especially in the frost it sprinkles upon the hair. She resolved to dye the latter, and for that purpose made arrangements with a certain tonsorial artist, Mr. Donegan, who, at her request, was to meet her at ten o'clock at night, to avoid observation, and, in the privacy of her own boudoir, restore her hair to a jet-black hue.

She had agreed to attend a party that night, and, of course, was anxious to have her hair-dyer prompt. At ten o'clock she was awaiting him, eager for his appearance.

The bell rang, but the hair-dresser did not present himself before her. She sent down her maid to make inquiries of Matthew Riley, the Irish footman, who also officiated as attendant at the door.

"Who was it rang?" asked Charlton, the maid.

"A blackguard," replied Matthew Riley.

"Who?" said Charlton.

"An impudent blackguard," said the footman. "Bedad, if it wasn't for fear of the police, I'd tache him better."

"What did he want?" continued the maid.

"Want, is it? Want? Sure, I'll be after telling ye, as ye'er so curious, for it's meself asked him the question," replied Riley.

"Well," said Charlton, "go on."

"'Well,' says I, 'what do you want at this time o' night, my fine fellow?' 'I'll tell your missus,' said he. 'Divil a bit,' says I, 'till ye've told me first.' 'My business is with the lady,' says he. 'It will keep warm till to-morrow, then,' says I, 'for divil an inch you'll get in till I know what you want.' 'Can you keep a saycret?' says he. 'Can a duck swim?' says I. "Upon that he came close to me, and says he—. But, arrah, you won't belave me."

"Indeed I will," said the maid.

"'Well, then,' says he, 'I come to die hare.' 'Die hare!' says I. 'Yes,' says he 'And whare would you wish to die?' says I 'In your missus' room,' says he. So with that I kicked him down-stairs."

"Indeed, then you have done wrong!" said Charlton, ready to die with laughing.

"But, bedad, he came back again just now," resumed Riley, "and says again, as part as may be: 'Tell your missus I'm come to die hare.'"

"Well, and what did you say?" asked Charlton.

"What did I say!" exclaimed Matthew. "Sure I said what every honest man would."

"And what was that?" she asked.

"'Be jabers,' said I, 'ye're nothin' but an idiot, and yo'll not die hare. Go somewhere else and die, you scamp of the world! Die hare, indeed!' So, for the second time, I knocked him down the stoop, and, bedad, I'm thinking he'll niver come here again to die."

The mistake was so ludicrous that even Mrs. Hallowell laughed at it, although to her it was a serious disappointment.

BARN-STORMING DAYS.

A Story of Edwin Booth That Is Good Enough to Be True.

Once during the days of his early struggles, says the Baltimore American, Booth was "barn-storming" down in Virginia at a place called Lee's Landing. The improvised theater was a tobacco warehouse, and it was crowded by the planters from miles around. Booth and his companions had arranged to take the weekly steamer expected to call late at night, and between the acts were busy packing up. The play was "The Merchant of Venice," and they were just going on for the trial scene when they heard a whistle and the manager came running in to say the steamer had arrived and would leave again in ten minutes. As that was their only chance for a week of getting away, they were in a terrible quandary. The narrative proceeds:

"If we explain matters," said the manager, "they will think they are being cheated and we shall have a free fight. The only thing is for you fellows to get up some sort of a natural-like impromptu ending of the piece, and ring down the curtain. Go right ahead, ladies and gentlemen, and take your cue from Ned here," and he hurried away to get the luggage aboard. Ned, of course, was Bassanio, and he resolved to rely on the ignorance of the Virginians of those days to pull him through all right. So, when old George Ruggles, who was doing Shylock, began to sharpen his knife on his boot, Booth walked straight up to him and solemnly said: "You are bound to have your pound of flesh, are you?"

"You bet your life!" said Ruggles.

"Now, I'll make you one more offer," continued Booth. "In addition to this big bag of ducats, I'll throw in two kegs of nigger-head terback, a shot-gun and two of the best coon dogs in the State."

"I'm blarmed if I don't do it!" responded Shylock, much to the approbation of the audience, who were tobacco-raisers and coon-hunters to a man.

"And to show that there's no ill-feeling," put in Portia, "we'll wind up with a Virginny reel."

When they got on board of the steamer, the captain, who had witnessed the conclusion of the play, remarked:

"I'd like to see the whole of that play some time, gentlemen. I'm blarmed if I thought that fellow Shakespeare had so much snap in him."

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT.

A Woman's Pen Picture of the Wealthiest of American Millionaires.

Here is a woman's idea of Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt: "He is," she declared to a New York reporter, "by far the best-looking and best-dressed of our millionaires. This young man is decidedly attractive to the eye. He is of excellent height and figure, and his clothes, while never foppish, are immaculate, and exhibit plainly the work of as good a tailor as can be found in New York. At the theater Mr. Vanderbilt is invariably in perfect evening dress, and the effect of cleanness that he always produces is truly noticeable. I don't suppose there is a better groomed man in the city. His firm, solid chin and mouth always have the newly shaved look of a gentleman of leisure, his tiny whiskers just in front of his ears are trimmed with exquisite exactness, his linen is like snow, and his patent leather shoes look as though they had never been worn before. Mr. Vanderbilt has the face of a thoroughly trustworthy and shrewd man of business. The forehead is broad and smooth, the eyes kindle with pronounced intelligence of expression. The mouth is set with the gentle strength of a man accustomed to rule and to succeed. He inherits all that shrewd and courageous brightness of visage that you can find in a portrait of the old Commodore. I never see Cornelius Vanderbilt but what I appreciate his capacity for being very rich. It does not bewilder him or dazzle him. Any man with his personal appearance must perforce be at least sensible and decent. I have seen such faces in serious and industrious physicians, lawyers and ministers. I never saw a man with such a face who was not to a great degree successful in a worldly way. Serious, courtly, well-dressed, clean and solidly handsome, this is Cornelius Vanderbilt, still young, but with a well-grown family and millions of dollars."

Imprisonment for Life.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 27.—Louis Claire and John Gibson were found guilty of killing Hon. Patrick Mealey on New Year's morning, 1888, and the jury assessed punishment at imprisonment for life. Claire shouted "I am innocent, so help me God," and continued shrieking while attempting to attack the jurors, but was quickly overpowered. Sentence was deferred. This was the second trial, a former verdict of guilty having been set aside on a technicality as to evidence.

Opposed to Sunday Papers.

NEW YORK, May 27.—A large meeting was held in Dr. Crosby's church yesterday under the auspices of the Presbyterian General Assembly, the subject for discussion being "Sunday Observance." Moderator Roberts presided. Col. E. F. Shepard, editor of the Mail and Express, who was the principal speaker, advised every Christian to boycott not only Sunday newspapers but merchants who advertised in them. He believed railroads were inclined to reduce the amount of work done on Sunday.

Presented to the State College.

BANGOR, Me., May 27.—J. G. Clark, of this city, has presented to the Maine State College his herbarium, one of the finest in the country, containing about 30,000 specimens. It was collected by the late Rev. Joseph Blake, of Andover, Mass., and was purchased by Mr. Clark for $10,000.

HIS TANGLED LIFE

Why the Rev. Mr. Schorr Shot and Killed Himself.

REJECTED BY HER HE LOVED.

Death Ended the Tortures of an Enamoured Celibate's Life.

Sorrowful Details of the Tragedy That Has Excited All Baltimore Society. The Unhappy Clergyman Blew Out His Brains on Account of a Widow—Last Letter of the Heart-Broken Lover and Minister.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 28.—It was not because he was involved in financial difficulties that the young assistant pastor of St. Paul's church, the Rev. H. Greenfield Schorr, killed himself Sunday morning; it was not because of the suicide of his friend in McKeesport, Pa., for whom he had indorsed a note for $1,000, that he quietly turned his back on the world and entered the hereafter, about which he had so often preached. Money was a minor consideration with him, and if he complained of worriment on that account, as it is said he did, it was only to cover his real feelings, the deep trouble that was driving him slowly to the grave. He died because he loved and could not marry the woman for whom he was ready and willing to forsake the church—he died for love of her for whom he had shirked his duty and because dismissal from the assistant pastorship of the church stared him in the face. Had he lived he would have been a lover without a companion, a pastor without a charge.

From papers and letters it is evident that the young pastor had made up his mind to die at least a day before he killed himself, and in these papers is revealed the secret of his despondency and death.

Some months ago, while pursuing his duties as an assistant pastor to one of the most fashionable churches in Baltimore, the young minister met a woman of the congregation, a handsome woman, wealthy and refined, to whom he took a strong fancy. They saw each other off and on, and the fancy grew into an admiration—the admiration to an infatuation that expanded into a love as deep and as sincere apparently as it is possible for love to be. His affection was reciprocated and nothing remained to make him supremely happy but a marriage with the handsome communicant at St. Paul's, and it soon became whispered about that the young pastor and Mrs. Margaret M. Smith were engaged.

The Rev. Mr. Schorr was a frequent visitor at Mrs. Smith's home at No 1219 North Charles street, Baltimore, and they were often seen together. The mails and the rapid district messengers of Baltimore carried tender messages of love between the two every day, and the sun seldom sunk to rest but that it had seen the pair together. And they were happy. The minister was light-hearted and went about his work with a cheerfulness that he had never before shown. The days were full of that sweet happiness which only lovers know about; the nights of dreams which only lovers dream.

He loved Mrs. Smith and wanted to marry her, and she, as he claims in letters sent to friends, consented. For a while he was happier than he ever dared think of being, and though Mrs. Smith insisted on the engagement being kept secret, he fondly hoped that it might be made public soon. They were to be married in the autumn, so his letters say, and to that end he wrote to his friend, the Rev. G. H. Kinsoloning, of No. 128 South Nineteenth street, Philadelphia, informing him of his engagement, saying the lady he was to marry was a widow, and expressing a wish for a parish of his own. In reply Mr. Kinsoloning wrote a letter of congratulations, concluding with the promise to look for a parish for the young pastor. This was on May 13.

In his letters to Mrs. Smith after that he told her what he had written to his friend and she upbraided him for telling of the engagement. That was the beginning of the end. Mr. Schorr chafed under the secrecy of the engagement and demanded that it be made public. Mrs. Smith objected and said she could not marry him and could not consent to an engagement.

Just before taking his life he wrote this letter:

SATURDAY, May 25, 1889.

It is nearly Sunday morning. I am a desperate man, because Mrs. Margaret M. Smith, of 1219 N. Charles street, Baltimore, Md., has deceived me. She became engaged to me, and when I objected to certain liberties she took with men not gentlemen she was mad and said she was independent of me. She is a miserable, deceptive woman. She treated Rev. Mr. Pond, of Philadelphia, in the same way—indeed, claiming that she loved me, she persuaded me to write the letter of rejection to him. He considered himself as her engaged lover for five years, and yet in all that time, in Westminster, Md., and in Baltimore, Md., she has been a gay woman. She will talk about the untruth I told of Mr. J. H. Flagler of her in the presence of C. W. Benedict, but she made me promise I would lie to Mr. Benedict about Mr. Flagler's relation to me, so she could get Benedict in her power. (I expect). Like a fool I did.

He opened his Bible which lay on the table, and placed the note on it, laying a paper-weight on it to keep it in place. Then he removed all his clothes, laid them carefully across the back of a chair in the study, took out all his other clothes and placed them on a lounge, and put on his night shirt. Thus prepared for death he stood directly in front of the looking-glass, put the muzzle of the pistol close to his right temple and fired. The ball went directly through his head in an upward direction, and, coming out just back of the left ear, crashed through the transom, and was lost in the other room. He had apparently been dead twenty minutes when Dr. Hodges and Mr. Glenn entered the room, and in all probability death was instantaneous. Dr. Hodges at once sent to Dr. Robert W. Johnson, who came immediately and pronounced him dead.

HER LIGHTNING CAR RIDE.

Lizzie Cullen's Fearful Journey Down a Mountain on a Hand Car.

MOUNTAIN STATION, N. J., May 28.—Lizzie J. Cullen, aged 16 years, is lying at the residence of Peter Bryan, near here, recovering from the effects of an experience which she will never forget.

See rode from Summit to a point near the Maplewood Station of the Morris and Essex railroad, a distance of four miles, on a trackman's runaway hand car, and when rescued was unconscious.

The story of her awful ride was not made public until last night, when word was received by her affianced, Frank L. Shaen, of Stanley, that she would be unable to keep her part of an agreement to accompany him to a clergyman and become his wife at the time previously agreed upon—last night. Shaen went to Mr. Bryan's house, where he found Miss Cullen seated in an invalid's chair, weak but smiling. She told him that she paid a visit in Short Hills to friends. In the afternoon, with her cousin and another girl, she went out for a ramble on the mountains toward Summit, and they walked along the railroad track.

The Summit grade is the steepest on the line of the Morris and Essex railroad, and two locomotives are usually required to draw a train of cars up the heavy grade. About half a mile east of the round-house at Summit a number of boys were tugging at a hand-car in an endeavor to place it on the rails. The girls watched the boys, and after the car was placed in position one of the youngsters invited the girls to take a ride and they boarded the car. For a time all went well, and the jaunts were very pleasant. Finally Miss Cullen's companion gave up the sport, but she insisted on taking another ride. She requested the boys to shove the car along faster, and they were only to ready to obey.

They lost sight of the fact that the awkward thing was gaining strong headway until they neared the verge of the hill. Around the curve shot the car and sent four or five boys rolling down an embankment, leaving only the girl and two youngsters aboard. Realizing their danger, the two boys sprang off, leaving the girl to take the flying trip down the mountain alone. Down went the car with frightful velocity. Miss Cullen threw herself face downward on the car and held on with the desperation of despair. She says that she experienced great difficulty in breathing and that her body tingled as if electric currents were shooting through her system. Her deadly peril gave her a power and determination to maintain her grip on the car, although the strain on her hands and arms was terrible.

A level stretch was at last struck and the car's speed began to diminish. A rise in the track assisted materially in expending the force given by the lightning-like descent of the Summit Mountain and the car slowly came to a stand still. Then Miss Cullen gave way to the reaction and swooned. She was found by Frank Coddington and George Hand, and was recognized by the latter. The fact that Sunday trains are not run over the Morris and Essex division probably saved the girl's life.

TO FRIGHTEN HIS WIFE.

A Queer Way of Securing Her Property. But the Suicide's Freak Was Fatal.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., May 28.—It seems probable that Cornelius Donnelly, of this city, who was found by his wife with a rope around his neck and in the last struggles of strangulation, did not intend to kill himself and only wanted to frighten Mrs. Donnelly, to whom he had been married only about four months, into giving him possession of her property amounting to about $16,000. On Thursday he took up his razor and told her he would cut his throat, but was easily persuaded not to do so, and on Friday afternoon he pretended to try to hang himself in the manner in which he finally ended his life. The second attempt was apparently frustrated by his wife. Yesterday he tried it again, but his wife, believing him to be feigning, was not so prompt in rescuing him, and when she did arrive he was past saving. He took a clothesline, put a noose about his neck and throwing the line over some clothes hooks on the wall leaned forward, holding the other end of the rope in his hands, with a looking-glass leaned against the window opposite, so that he might see the progress of events. He was a handsome fellow, had a good trade, and his wife was dutiful in everything except the giving up of her wealth. About $100 were found in his pocket.

Congratulations for Mrs. Howe.

BOSTON, May 28.—Mrs. Julia Ward Howe received many congratulations and evidences of esteem yesterday, the seventieth anniversary of her birth. Her house was overwhelmed with floral gifts, and many friends called in person, while many others sent letters and telegrams. Among the latter were O. W. Holmes, G. W. Curtis, R. W. Gilder, and W. W. Story. A reception was held last evening to which a limited number of friends were invited, Mrs. Howe's age precluding a larger entertainment. To-day the New England Woman's Club, of which she is president, holds a reception in Mrs. Howe's honor, leading literary and artistic people being invited. Mrs. Howe will be presented by the club with a massive vase.

The Body Was That of a Stranger.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 28.—James White, aged 21, disappeared in April from his home in Hyde Park, and was lost track of at Pittsburg. On Saturday his brother received a telegram stating that James was dead in Cleveland. He ordered the body forwarded. The family and relatives assembled to-day to receive the body. When the coffin was opened at the house it was found to contain the body of a stranger. A few hours later James arrived home safe and well. He says he knew nothing of what had happened.

The Governor's Veto Sustained.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 28.—In the Senate the Governor's veto of the oleomargarine bill was sustained by a vote of 14 to 67. In the House the Committee on Constitutional Amendments reported favorably on an amendment to return to the annual system of legislative session after 1892; also in favor of an amendment increasing the number of senators, now 24, to not less than 51 and not more than 81. The same committee reported adversely on an amendment providing for the election of Governor and other state officials by a plurality vote.

DR. CROSBY'S FIGHT

He Didn't Want Prohibition to Be Endorsed.

BUT THE PRESBYTERIANS DID.

General Pandemonium Reigns in the General Assembly.

Almost Every One of the Presbyterian Delegates Wanted to Say Something but Aspiring Orators Were Cut Short—When the Vote Was Announced Dr. Crosby Got Up from His Seat and Left the Church.

NEW YORK, May 28.—The eleventh day of the General Assembly of Presbyterian Churches opened with the usual devotional exercises.

The regular business opened with a call by Moderator Roberts for a report of the Publication Committee. Drs. J. B. Childlaw and Craren responded with brief statements.

The afternoon session was devoted almost entirely to the discussion of the temperance question.

Resolutions declaring for prohibition were adopted at the evening session.

Dr. Crosby and several others bitterly opposed the passage of these resolutions, saying it would be virtually indorsing a political party.

"I most strenuously object," said Mr. Crosby. "The word prohibition in 1889 meant an entirely different thing than it does now. To-day it means a third party. [Cries of 'No! No!'] If we pass the resolution, the organs of this third party will boast to-morrow that the Presbyterian ministers have joined their ranks. That third party has been the greatest hindrance to the cause. I have been twenty times to Albany to advocate measures that would have reduced the saloons, and found there not only the saloons to oppose me but the representatives of the third party."

General pandemonium reigned after the subject got well entered into. Almost every delegate wanted to say something, but many aspiring orators were cut short by the announcement that the time for adjourning had arrived. Twice was the time extended, but at the end the matter was still as mixed up as before, and cries of "Question!" "Question!" assailed the moderator at every hand. Finally the motion was put, and each side, in voting, used its lung power to such good effect that the moderator was unable to decide which had won the fight. The voters were asked to stand, and it was counted—193 yeas and 82 nays.

"The motion is carried," announced the moderator, and Dr. Crosby got up from his seat and left the church before the meeting adjourned.

ASSOCIATION DAY.

Three American Games Put Brooklyn Nearer the Top.

NEW YORK, May 28.—As there were no League games played yesterday the record remains the same as that published on Saturday.

In the Association, however, Brooklyn took a better hold on second place, as did Cincinnati on third, while Kansas City, by defeating the St. Louis Browns, went ahead of the Athletics.

MANY GAMES POSTPONED.

Rhode Island's Inauguration.

NEWPORT, R. I., May 28.—The annual ceremonies preceding the inauguration of the new Governor and other State officers were observed last evening except the parade, which was prevented by rain. The Governor and staff were escorted by military from the wharf where they arrived from Providence to the Aquidneck hotel. The Hon. T. Perry afterward tendered a reception to the Governor-elect. The Democratic caucus last night selected Augustus F. Muller, of Providence, for Speaker of the House. The Republican caucus selected Eugene F. Warner for Clerk of the Senate.

Crippled by Speculation.

LOWELL, Mass., May 28.—F. R. Barnes of Barnes & Mitchell, brokers, has left town, and it is said the firm has been crippled by speculation. About $25,000 has been sunk, but the actual shortage is said to be less than $2,000.

—Old-fashioned people say that, in spite of the great abundance of bloom on the apple trees this Spring, the crop will be a poor one for the reason that the trees put on their pretty blossoms "in the wrong time of the moon," and before the leaves had attained any development worth speaking of. They say that the fruit will mostly drop off before it matures.

ORIGINAL PRESS BRICKS.

(Contributed.)

"When the swallows homeward fly," it's doubtless because they prefer not to walk.

The lowest type of humanity—the Coney Island tin-type, four for a quarter.

Plainfield is infested with tramps, probably because here they can always find food—for reflection.

It is reported that the servants of Geo. Washington are going to hold an indignation meeting because they were not invited to take part in the recent Centennial celebration.

There is great danger at the present time in reading certain newspapers; danger that when you undertake to read an article on, for instance, "The Ancient Philosophy of the Modern Patagonians," you will run headlong into an advertisement of some Log Hut remedy for swelled heads or other ailments to which flesh is heir, and which are too tedious to mention.

The latest "fake" in the clothing business is "The Great Bankrupt Sale—30 cts on the dollar." Give 'em a wide berth, and patronize your home merchants who advertise in THE PRESS, and you'll get the worth of your money.

If the merchant who offers to sell an article for $3.99, "worth" $15, would only reverse the figures, people would take more stock in his sincerity.

Middlesex Gun Club.

At a meeting of the Middlesex Gun Club held at Force's Hotel, this city, Saturday evening, May 25, a communication was read from the State Sportsmen's Association, tendering to the Middlesex Club the management of the State tournament the coming Fall, which it was not deemed expedient to accept, as the Middlesex Club have decided to hold their annual tournament at Dunellen, on Oct. 8, 9, 10 and 11 next, which would interfere with their acceptance of the management of the State shoot, which will now probably go to the Suburban Shooting Association at Claremont, N. J.

In the coming tournament of the Middlesex Club, one of the features will be a guaranteed purse of $1,000, 50 live birds each, $112.50 entrance fee. Without doubt all the crack shots of the country will be in attendance on the dates above named, and no efforts will be spared by the management to make the event a success, as the Middlesex boys always do.

Mr. Harper Presides as Usual.

Owing to the continued sickness of President French, the duty of presiding in Reform Hall on Sunday evening again devolved upon Vice President Harper. Mr. Angleman offered prayer, and, as usual, the music was led by Mr. Vanderbeek.

Ex-Mayor Randolph made the address of the evening, which was a production of high literary merit and delivered in first-class oratorical style. Although the speaker did not exactly follow the beaten track of total abstinence advocates, his remarks elicited close attention throughout.

After the given notice of a regular business meeting of the Woman's Temperance Aid Society in Reform Hall, this afternoon at 4 o'clock, the meeting concluded with the doxology.

An Unintentional Error.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Your report of Bishop O'Farrell's sermon at the dedication of the Verdon pulpit in St. Mary's church, contains one sentence that is so decidedly incorrect that it calls for correction. The Bishop did not say that the "Pulpit is a sacrament." In the Protestant church preaching is the foremost office of the pastor, but with Catholics it is in the Tabernacle that they find the chief object of their attention. Hence what the Bishop did say was that the Tabernacle is first—the Pulpit is secondary. R. M. V.

The handsome grounds of the Washington Park tennis club on Rock View avenue are staked out and ready for use. The club displayed good judgment in selecting this pretty location from which an unobstructed view of the mountains is had for miles. ### TO STOP THE RUNNING OF SUNDAY TRAINS.

An Appeal of the State Committee of the Y. M. C. A. to Put an End to the Desecration of the Sabbath.

An appeal has been made by the State Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, of New Jersey, of which Mr. Elkanah Drake is Chairman. THE PRESS has been requested by the committee to publish it in full as follows:

If there is any one subject upon which all right thinking citizens should be agreed, it is that of the maintenance of the Christian Sabbath as a day of rest and worship. Not only the law of God but the necessities of human nature demand that this day shall be sacredly preserved. There can be no safety for any community in which the Sabbath is habitually profaned. It is the bulwark of individual security and of the social order. Licentiousness, vice and the decay of personal and public virtue follow inevitably upon its wholesale desecration.

These considerations are so obvious that they might be supposed to command universal assent, but as a matter of fact they are practically denied by the customs and practices of thousands of our people; while we claim to be a Christian, law-abiding commonwealth, there is not a populous community in the State in which the Sabbath is not more or less openly desecrated. In all our large towns and cities secular traffic of one form or another is carried on without pretence of concealment. In one of our cities statistics show that over 11,000 persons are engaged every Sunday in illegitimate employment. The saloon, either with open doors or behind closed shutters, prosecutes its deadly trade with contemptuous disregard alike of law and decency.

In some localities, theatre and amusement halls are open, offering their seductive entertainments to the young and thoughtless, and in others Sunday is unnoticed by all the characteristics of the Continental Sabbath. Nor is this all; on many of our railroads passenger and freight trains are run as on other days, and in the Summer months tens of thousands of excursionists, many of whom are lawless and disorderly, are dumped down in a rural neighborhood or at our public resorts, to the utter destruction of that Sunday quiet to which every citizen is rightfully entitled. As a result of all these violations of law, and these invasions of the sanctity of the Sabbath, thousands of workingmen are deprived of the rest which belongs to them, the public morals are debauched, the obstacles in the way of evangelizing the masses are augmented and what is worst of all, the rising generation is being educated in the belief that God's law may be violated with impunity, and that human law founded upon the Divine where it interferes with lust, or appetite, or greed, has no claims whatever to respect.

Against this growing degeneracy of opinion and of practice, or to the rightful place of the Christian Sabbath in the social economy, the Executive Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of New Jersey desire to array themselves with all possible emphasis and decision. They cannot regard with complacency any tendency which aggravates the perils of the young or impairs the sanction of the Divine authority whose supremacy, alike in the inviduals and communities, they desire to promote. It is no doubt true that the growing disregard of the Sabbath is in some sense due to the laxity and flabbiness of sentiment which has prevailed among church members themselves, and to the cowardice which for personal, or business or political reasons has acquiesced in, instead of resenting flagrant encroachments upon the character of the day; but the infidelity to conscience on the part of some only heightens the duty and constitutes a motive for increased faithfulness on the part of those who believe that God's law is imperative, and the Lord's day is the most precious of all existing institutions. We appeal, therefore, to all members of Young Men's Christians Associations everywhere to place themselves abreast of the best and most advanced sentiment of this subject. Stand up for the literal enforcement of all Sabbath laws. Discourage and oppose all practices calculated to weaken their force or bring them into contempt. Have nothing to do with any man or set of men who for any reason would compromise away the rights of any individual or class on this question. Do everything in your power to educate the public mind up to a right standard of thought concerning it. Keep the day yourself as it ought to be kept, abstaining from all conduct which cannot be justified out of God's word. Every Young Men's Christian Association should be a focus and centre of zealous activity in behalf of the cause of Sabbath observance. Every member of such association should be found in the front of every conflict urged in furtherance of sound Sabbath views.

Blessed greatly hitherto in the work in which we are engaged, we may expect larger blessings still if we shall by unity and energy of action hasten the overthrow of the forces which now menace the Lord's day, for, to those who keep His Sabbath, He has promised special and peculiar favor, and all history attests His fidelity to every Divine engagement.

—M. M. Dunham says: "I have used Dr. Dam's Remedy in my family, and find it excellent."

—An exchange thus eloquently apostrophizes the coming of the flannel shirt: "Garment through which the Summer winds loves to stray, you are thrice welcome! Come with your soft folds, which irritate not; come with your wide, comfortable collar and general rollicking air. Next to a vacation itself is the pleasure and comfort to be derived from a vacation garment, the flannel shirt."

M'QUADE'S TRIAL GOES OVER.

His Lawyers Successful in Their Motion at Ballston.

BALLSTON, N. Y., May 28.—At the opening of court Assistant District-Attorney Semple moved that the Court designate June 18 for the trial of McQuade.

R. S. Newcomb and John Foley, of counsel for McQuade, made a motion to put the trial over the term, on the ground that there was an agreement with District-Attorney Fellows not to try this case until after the Cleary, Kerr and Richmond cases were tried, and that Mrs. McLaughlin and Miss Fox were necessary and material witnesses for the defendant and were out of the State.

The question was discussed by Messrs. Semple and Hamilton and Newcomb and Foley.

The Court decided to put the case over the term.

A Shortage in His Accounts.

Deputy Postmaster Morton has been placed in charge of the office. It is understood that the shortage has been made good by Whittaker's bondsmen.

LIGHT ON THE CASE

Dispelling the Darkness of the Cronin Mystery.

DETECTIVES HARD AT WORK.

Several Important Arrests Made by the Chicago Police.

Ice Dealer Sullivan No Longer at Liberty—Peter McGeehan, the Philadelphian, Declared to Be an Accomplice in the Murder—Cronin's Friends Claim that He Decoyed the Unfortunate Doctor to His Death.

CHICAGO, May 28.—The police, it is said, have made another important move in the Cronin case. Harry Jordan, a man who came from Philadelphia some time ago and who is said to have been an intimate friend of Peter McGeehan's, was placed in custody to "be held as a witness." It is suspected that he knows something of McGeehan's movements that may prove of value. The police do not charge him with being one of the principals in the murder.

Harry Jordan, who was at one time a bar-tender at the McCoy hotel, is described as a low, thickset fellow of rather excitable disposition. He is said to have belonged to the Clan-na Gael faction which was opposed to Cronin, and it is charged that he had frequently denounced the doctor in public.

P. O. Sullivan, the ice man, has been placed under arrest. Chief Hubbard and Captain Schaack held a conference in the chief's office, and at the close of the conference the Chief instructed Captain Schaack to arrest Sullivan.

It is reported that McGeehan has been identified as the occupant of the Clark street flat, and purchaser of the furniture from Revells. Neither the police nor the furniture men will talk. If this is correct one half of the mystery is cleared up and the only questions to be solved are who were the other participants and who is behind the gang.

The arrest of McGeehan, it is believed, will eventually land all of the participants in this foul crime.

Where the prisoner is located could not be learned, but it is believed that he is buried in one of the deepest dungeons under headquarters in the City Hall.

There were many visits made to that quarter to-day by police officials and several by Assistant Superintendent Frank Murray of the Pinkerton agency.

On one of his visits to the Central station Mr. Murray was accompanied by "Bill" Gallagher, whose extensive acquaintance with all classes and characters in Philadelphia is well known.

Certain friends of Dr. Cronin who claim to have been instrumental in bringing about the arrest say that the prisoner is no other than the missing J. B. Simonds, who rented the rooms at 117 Clark street, opposite to Cronin's office in the Chicago Opera House building, purchased the furniture and trunk at Revells, and after keeping them in the rooms for a while disappeared with all the traps found last week in the Carlson Cottage in Lake View.

They further claim that he decoyed Dr. Cronin away, assisted in the awful struggle that resulted in Cronin's death and then aided in the disposal of the doctor's body.

There was some mysterious telephoning going on between the police station and Capt. Schaack shortly after the visit of Murray and Gallagher.

The dectective are said to be in possession of the real names and actual identities of three of the men implicated in the assassination. They are the two Williams' and Simonds.

They also know that the three men skipped to three different parts of the country and three officers have been sent to locate them. But so far no encouraging reports have been received. There are also under constant detective espionage six or eight people in Chicago.

The police profess to know that McGeehan is neither Simonds nor the man Williams, who rented the Carlson Cottage, but admit that they know nothing about his being the alleged "Smith" named by Detective Coughlin.

All the suspects will be rounded up for the Coroner's inquest.

HIPPOLYTE ON TOP.

The Haytian Insurgent Has the Best of It in the Civil War.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Reports brought from Port-au-Prince, Hayti, by the Dutch steamer Orange Nassau, say that on May 20 Hippolyte with his entire army was encamped only four miles from Port-au-Prince. Hippolyte was getting ready to move his artillery into position and several gunboats were on their way from Gonaives to bombard Port-au-Prince. They were headed by the Mercedes.

At the office of Kunhardt & Co. steamship agents in this city the firm stated that their correspondent at Port-au-Prince had spoken of the war as practically ended inasmuch as Legitime was too badly crippled to protect even the public buildings occupied by the officials of State. It is generally suspected that Legitime quietly left Port-au-Prince sometime between May 15 and May 20. No one has seen him in the city since the 15th.

The representative of Hippolyte here said: "It is quite true that Legitime is defeated. Hippolyte has had astonishing success for the past two weeks, capturing town after town in southern Hayti."

The Haytian Consul denies the story of Hippolyte's agent that Legitime's government is getting the worst of the Haytian war. He declares that Legitime is gaining ground every day.

The Reformed Episcopalians.

BOSTON, May 28.—In the convention of the Reformed Episcopal church, reports were read showing the present membership of the church to be 9,341, a gain of 162 since the last convention. The assignment of bishops was made as follows: Fallows, of Chicago, to jurisdiction of Northwest and West; Latane, of Baltimore, South; Stevens, special South, Cridge, Pacific. Adjourned to meet at Cleveland in May, 1891.

Mr. Wiman on Commercial Union.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 28.—Mr. Erastus Wiman addressed the Chamber of Commerce yesterday by special invitation, on the subject of commercial union with Canada. At the close of the address Mr. Wiman received a vote of thanks.

A Secret Ballot for Connecticut.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 28.—The Senate has passed the House bill for a secret ballot, the Republicans voting for and the Democrats against the measure.

THE EX-PRESIDENT DINED.

Last Night's Grand Banquet Tendered to Mr. Cleveland.

NEW YORK, May 28.—The banquet at the Fifth Avenue hotel last evening, tendered ex-President Cleveland by the Young Men's Democratic Club of this city, was in every way a successful and enjoyable event. The committee on arrangements included representatives from all the Democratic clubs and organizations in New York and Brooklyn, who joined with the first-named club in doing honor to the ex-President. The guests included many scores of the leading Democrats of the nation.

Among them were: Gov. Hill, Mayor Grant, ex-Minister Phelps, W. L. Scott, Chauncy F. Black, J. E. Russell, of Massachusetts, Bourke Cockran, ex-Secretary Fairchild, F. R. Coudert, W. C. P. Breckenridge, ex-Gov. Hoadly, P. A. Collins, D. S. Lamont, O. B. Potter, C. J. Canda, E. Ellery Anderson, W. R. Grace, E. P. Wheeler, F. S. Bangs, F. L. Stetson, Geo. F. Peabody, E. T. Gerry, Wm. Steinway, Gen. John Newton, and many others.

Letters of regret were received from ex-Secretary Bayard, Don M. Dickinson, Fitz Hugh Lee, John W. Daniels, and others.

The order of toasts was as follows: "Our Guest," response by President Arnold of the Club. "The Administration of Grover Cleveland," response by W. C. P. Breckenridge. "The Democracy of the State of New York," response by Gov. Hill. "Party Supremacy, desirable only while the party redeems its pledges," response by ex-Gov. Hoadly. "The Lawyer in Public Life," response by F. R. Coudert. "Our Congress," response by Hon. Ashbel P. Fitch. "Democracy," response by Bourke Cockran.

LATE FOREIGN NEWS.

England Knows of No Treaty Between France and Hayti.

LONDON, May 28.—In the Commons last night Sir James Fergeerson, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs stated that the Government had no information of a treaty with Hayti giving France commercial privileges.

Mr. Thomas P. Gill, member for South Louth, asked Mr. Balfour, whether it was true that a league was being formed for the purpose of establishing Protestants in possession of farms in Ireland from which Catholic tenants have been or may be evicted.

Mr. Balfour in reply, said he saw nothing worthy of blame in finding tenants for vacant land even if they were Protestants.

Mr. Timothy Healy called the attention to the Speaker to a dinner given in the dining room of the House of Commons to which Mr. Matthews, Home Secretary, had invited the Judges of the Parnell Commission to meet Sir Rolland Blennerhassett, who was implicated in the Piggott forgeries through having supplied money to defame the Parnellites. Mr. Healy asked if the members of the House of Commons were not protected against the use of the rooms of the House by such persons. (Parnellite cheers and Conservative cries of "Oh! Oh!")

The Speaker said he had no authority to ask who the guests of members were.

In the House of Lords last evening the Naval Defense bill was read a second time without division.

BIG MAIL ROBBERY.

Eighty-Six Registered Packages Stolen from the Chicago Postoffice.

CHICAGO, May 28.—When Postmaster Sexton came to his office yesterday he was met by a surbordinate official who told him the details of one of the largest robberies of registered mail ever committed in the Chicago postoffice.

The vault in Superintendent A. R. Howard's division had been entered, evidently by an employe, and eighty-six registered packages, all ready to put in pouches for their destinations, had been abstracted and no trace left. An investigation was at once begun, when it was learned that the night clerk coming on duty Sunday night, did not receipt for the packages to the day clerk, whom he relieved, the latter being in a hurry to get away, and deferred taking a receipt till this morning, when he, in turn, relieved the night clerk. It was then found that eighty-six registered packages were missing and could not be accounted for. The robbery was committed Sunday night, but the amount of money contained in the packages can not be ascertained for some days.

Two employes of the postoffice are suspected of the theft, but Postmaster Sexton declines to make public their names pending further investigation.

Supt. Richardson's Murderers.

DENVER, Col., May 28.—A special from Childers, Texas, says: Harry Ginn and C. J. Watson were arrested at Matador ranch for the murder of Superintendent Richardson of the San Pedro Coal & Coke Co., of Carthage, May 15. The murder occurred while Richardson was paying off, and the murderers secured $4,000, of which they still had $3,200 when arrested.

Mrs. Ayer Sustained.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Judge Daly's decision in the Harriet Hubbard Ayer case sustains Mrs. Ayer on all points, and severely criticises the actions of J. W. Seymour and his associates in the Recamier company. Seymour's application for dismissal of the proceedings is denied, and the injunction obtained by Mrs. Ayer is continued.

Officers of the Pilgrims.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., May 2.—At the annual meeting of the Pilgrim society, John D. Long was chosen President; Henry Strickney of Baltimore, William M. Evarts, Frederick L. Ames and H. M. Dexter, Vice Presidents; W. S. Danforth of Plymouth, Secretary, and Isaac N. Stoddard of Plymouth, Treasurer.

It Was Deacon Gleason's Body.

WORCESTER Mass., May 28.—The body found in Wickeboag pond at West Brookfield has been recognized as that of Joseph Gleason, deacon of the Congregational church. He has been ill for some time and is supposed to have committed suicide while insane. He leaves three children.

A State Board of Agriculture.

HARTFORD, Conn., May 28.—The House has passed a bill to organize a State Board of Agriculture, to consist of the Governor, one delegate from each Congressional district, to be appointed by the House, and one from each county, the latter to be elected by agricultural organizations.

Bills Signed by Governor Hill.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 28.—The Governor has signed the bill providing a $2,500 collateral inheritance tax-clerk for the New York Surrogate, and the bill appropriating $300,000 for interest on the Canal debt.

An Ex-Mayor Arrested.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 28.—Leonard Meyer, ex-Mayor of Phoenix, Arizona, was arrested here to-day, charged with absconding from that place with $6,000 belonging to the Wells Fargo Express company.

BUYING A DIAMOND.

A Globe-Trotter's Peculiar Experience at Colombo.

How a Man in Search of a Rare Gem Found One—He Buys It for Four Thousand Rupees, Only to Learn That He Has Been Cleverly Swindled.

It was at Colombo that we met him, says a writer in Leisure Hours. He was the beau ideal of a rich young globe-trotter. We used to see him in the deep verandas of the Galle-face and Oriental hotels, surrounded by the best gem-dealers, bargaining and buying at, for them, an exhilarating rate. He had bought rubies, he had bought sapphires, the best pearls and the finest cats-eyes to be obtained for love or money, and still his money seemed abundant. He was a gentlemanly fellow, for all that, and did not parade his wealth intentionally. Stones had a fascination for him. Probably some member of the sex that chiefly wear them had also, that we know not. How they would look out for his return. How their eyes, and their fingers, too, would "look brighter when he came."

He had often said that he meant to look out for a really fine diamond, but naturally found that these gems are not indigenous, or even existent, upon the spicy isle. Agra or Delhi were the places. Of course there was no place like London, but he wished to possess a stone uncontaminated by pawnbrokers' fingers, uncivilized and unchristianized, without a flaw, and also without a pedigree; a gem which had perhaps wasted its brightness, the virgin sparkle of its many facets, in the darkness of some native hoard until he caused it to be admired, worshiped, disparaged or coveted by the fashionable world of her Majesty's or Covent Garden.

There were at this time in the roads no fewer than five mail steamers, two of the Messagerie and three of the Peninsular and Oriental Company. Over seventy first-class passengers had to change steamers at Colombo, and wait two days before re-embarking for Australian ports, whither most of them were bound. Dinner that evening was a pretty sight. Seldom had we seen so many English complexions and so many Parisian dresses gathered round the small tables, or such airy flounces and pretty hair waving under the influence of the punkahs. Our gem-setting friend was dining at our table, and asking no end of questions about up-country life and the planting enterprise.

After dinner he proposed a game of billiards or pool. In the only room in which play was not going on was a gentleman whom we recognized as one of the Australian passengers. There being three, he was asked to join in one game, to which he consented. Upon the first stroke he made I could not help noticing two things—first, that he handled his cue in quite an enviable manner, and that he had upon the third finger of his left hand the very finest diamond ring I had ever set eyes on. The stone seemed as large as a small nut, and the flashes of light it reflected from the gas-jets over the table were dazzling. The attention of our friend, it was easy to see, was riveted upon this ring, which his eyes followed round the table. The Australian passenger seemed a very pleasant man, and soon we all became more friendly.

"What a lovely ring that is you are wearing. Would you allow me to see it?" said our young friend, presently.

"Oh, with pleasure; but I am ashamed to tell you it is only paste," said its owner, slipping it off his finger and allowing us all to look at it.

It is needless to say whose fingers soon held it, while his eyes seemed to reflect the brilliancy of the stone.

"Nonsense, man," said he, pleasantly, "I know something about diamonds and don't know when I've seen such a perfect one."

"Ah, that stone has deceived even jewelers by artificial light. I only wish it were a real diamond, for it would be worth about six hundred pounds."

"It is worth every penny of it," said the other, enthusiastically. "How did you come by it, if it's not an impertinent question to ask?"

"It was left me by my aunt," said the owner. "She knew it was only paste, although she always wore it, and I was very fond of the old lady, so I wear it, too."

We all said good-night and parted, each one of us thinking a good deal about the beautiful ring. After breakfast the next day S—— and I drove over from the club to the hotel, where we had promised to "tiffin" with young "Golconda," as we called him. He was there with a bevy of native "tambles" around him, displaying very inferior gems, which he refused to look at.

The Australian passenger soon strolled up, and asked my companion if he was disposed for a return match at billiards. These two had seen each other before breakfast, and young "Golconda" had backed his opinion of the diamond ring to the extent of offering four thousand rupees for it. During the game he renewed his offer, but the other said he did not wish to sell the ring at all, and especially as a real diamond, knowing well that the stone was paste.

"Will you lend me the ring, then, and allow me to show it to a native jeweler with whom I have been dealing? If he recognizes the stone as a diamond, too, I will repeat my offer, and also will give you an open check on the bank for the amount before closing time this evening." "Look here, gentlemen," said the Australian, "of course I'll sell the stone for that, if any one can be so rash as to buy it at that price; but, you see, mine will be an awkward position. I know the stone to be paste, so I can not and will not sell it as a diamond. If you, sir," turning to the would-be purchaser, "will give me in writing a statement to the effect that you buy the ring as a paste, all well and good; but I warn you honestly you will find that you are deceived in imagining this to be a diamond."

Young Golconda took the ring to his native connoisseur, who in a moment pronounced it to be a diamond; he also went to a European store and showed it to the proprietor. The man, after testing it, said that not only was it a diamond, but that he himself would give 4,500 rupees for it.

The bargain was struck, the requisite statement signed and the check given, all in the presence of the native jeweler, S——, the Australian and myself; and young Golconda sat all through tiffin with the ring upon his finger. He asked us the next day to come round with him shopping, and among others we visited the store proprietor who had tested the ring. Again the man looked at it, took it to the light, shaded it from the light with one hand, again he called for a file, touched it lightly and said at once:

"Sir, you've been done; this isn't the stone you brought me yesterday—this is paste."

And paste it was! Somehow the ring had been changed, although we none of us remembered seeing it touched by the hands of the clever swindler who had sold it. And yet he had done it. The ring had lain on the billiard table during the signing of the paper. The purchaser had paid 4,000 rupees for a ring "knowing the stone to be paste."

The Australian had taken ship, undetached from his lovely diamond, but not before young Golconda's check had been carefully cashed.

ORIGIN OF BOCK-BEER.

A Harrowing Tale of a Feudal Lord, Dark Beer and a Goat.

The reputed origin of bock beer has been preserved in various legends which are current throughout Germany. At the town of Nuremberg, in the spring of a certain year during the feudal ages, an Easter church fair was being held, which was participated in not only by the townsfolk but by people from all the countryside as well. There came riding into town a feudal Lord of great renown, who brought with him from Munich a quantity of light beer, which he praised very much. At the fair the people were drinking a dark beer, which the Lord looked upon with disdain.

After much discussion upon the relative merits of the light and dark beers a wager was laid, to be decided the following year when fair time should come around again. Each side was to brew a quantity of its favorite beer, and by a practical test it was to be ascertained how many mugs of each could be drank before making the drinker drunk. The beer that would make a man drunk first was to be awarded the palm.

At the next Easter fair the contestants sat down together in the presence of a vast concourse to decide the wager, the Lord drinking the dark-brown beer of the town and one of the lustiest of the Nurembergers drinking the Lord's light beer. A citizen kept tally of the number of mugs emptied by each. The Lord soon became hilarious and was finally exalted to a state of roaring intoxication long before his rival began to feel the effects of the light beer. Accordingly the dark beer was declared the winner of the contest and the townspeople sung the praises of their favorite beverage.

While the people were still assembled a young goat, which is known in Germany as a buck or bock, broke into the space where the drinkers were sitting and rushing between the legs of the befuddled Lord threw him flat on his back, where, such was his condition, he was compelled to lie till he was picked up. From this circumstance comes the name of the dark-brown beer which still comes at Easter time.

Another legend is to the effect that the Jesuit monks were accustomed to hold a feast in the spring, at which they slaughtered a young goat or bock. To drink with this they brewed a dark, sweet beer which was considered a delicacy and which, when it became known outside of the monasteries, was hailed with delight by the people, and under the name of bock beer became an established institution.

MR. BRIGHT'S COOLNESS.

The Great Commoner's Meeting with a Rabid Tory Clergyman.

The following incident is related by the London St. James' Gazette on the authority of W. L. Bright, M. P.: "Mr. Bright went into an agricultural district one day, and he had to walk from the station a long way into the village. On the way a clergyman who was driving in a dog-cart came up to him, and the two men passed the time of day. The clergyman offered to drive Mr. Bright into the village, and Mr. Bright accepted the offer. The clergyman was a Tory, and he had been reading a speech Mr. Bright had made the previous night; and turning to Mr. Bright he said: 'Have you seen the paper to-day, sir?' 'Yes,' said Mr. Bright. 'What's in them?' 'Why, that rascal John Bright has been making another speech.' 'And what was it about?' asked Mr. Bright. 'Why, so-and-so and so-and-so,' and he went on to relate the incidents of the speech. Then they discussed the topic, and Mr. Bright said: 'Well, it is just possible that Mr. Bright may have been right, and that he was only expressing his honest convictions. There may be something in it.' 'Oh, no, there can't be,' said the irate clergyman. 'If I had him here, I'd feel just like shooting him.' Neither revealed his identity, but before they separated the clergyman invited Mr. Bright to go to his church next morning, and Mr. Bright promised to go. And he kept his word, as he always did. The clergyman took for his theme Mr. Bright's speech, and at the conclusion Mr. Bright thanked him for his very able sermon. As he was going home to dinner a friend of the clergyman met him and said: 'You have been preaching under distinguished patronage this morning, then.' 'No,' said the clergyman. 'Oh, yes, you have,' said the friend. 'You had John Bright among the congregation. You must have noticed him in the front in the middle pew. I know him perfectly well, and I assure you it was Mr. Bright.' 'Why,' said the clergyman, 'I drove him to the village yesterday in my dog-cart, and called him a rascal and execrated him in all the moods and tenses, and he never said a word. He kept perfectly calm and cool. I have insulted him. I must go and apologize at once.'"

THE WESTERN SOLDIER.

Some of His Accomplishments as a Critic Cleverly Described.

Captain Henry King, of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, contributes to the Century a paper on "The Western Soldier," from which we make this extract: "They assumed a right of criticism towards their regimental and company officers that was almost as free as that exercised by the average voter with regard to political officials. In some instances they did injustice, no doubt; but, generally speaking, their estimates were sagacious and proper. They had no patience with pretense of any description, and they were quick to detect it. Thus, if a Colonel invested his headquarters with unnecessary pomp and formality, as a Colonel was occasionally known to do, they would nudge one another in passing and exchange looks and comments that rarely failed to produce a change. On one occasion a Lieutenant-Colonel, riding out to battle, forfeited the esteem of his regiment by holding a picture of his wife in his hand and gazing fixedly upon it; but he afterwards restored himself to favor by a daring act that cost him two ugly wounds. Another officer of the same rank, on a toilsome march, gained a cheer by alighting from his horse and giving his place in the saddle to a limping soldier; but when the Major at his side did the same thing there was no response. The first had performed a kindness without prompting, while the second was a mere imitator. It was by such distinctions that officers were notified of the sharp watch that was being kept upon them, and admonished that they were mortal as well as those who wore no shoulder-straps. Now and then the instruction took a more amusing turn, as when a Captain, noted for his conceit, undertook to lecture his company upon the necessity of increased respect for officers, and was checked by a droll fellow who said, with a grin and an extravagant salute: 'Cap, I used to know you when you made harness.'"

How Gail Hamilton Writes.

Gail Hamilton, whose real name is Miss Mary A. Dodge, prepares her manuscript for the press on odd scraps of paper with a stub pen. One of her recent articles, which I saw before it went to the printer, was entirely written on the inside blank pages of old envelopes which she had cut open and saved. Friends who send her letters of which one sheet is left clean furnish her with a large amount of her writing material. Miss Dodge's handwriting is a bold, round, masculine type, and no one would suspect that it was produced by a woman.

Rain Prevented the Parade.

BOSTON, May 28.—The Knights of Golden Eagle of Massachusetts, assisted by their brethren from Pennsylvania and other States, had planned a grand parade for yesterday afternoon in honor of the Supreme Castle of the order, which begins its annual session in this city to-day. Rain, however, caused an abandonment of the idea. Last evening a military and civic ball was given at Music Hall in honor of the Supreme Castle. At 8:30 p. m. a reception was given to Supreme Chief Barnes of Philadelphia and the Supreme officers.

Five Companies to Consolidate.

NEW YORK, May 28.—The five companies in the Poughkeepsie Bridge system have arranged to consolidate under the name of the Central New England & Western railroad. The western terminus will be at Campbell Hall, where the Erie, Ontario & Western railroads are tapped. There will be Eastern termini at Hartford and Springfield.

Despondency Leads to Suicide.

KEENE, N. H., May 28.—C. Warren Shaw, aged 25, superintendent of the shoe shop of John Shaw, his father, committed suicide in the barn by shooting. Before leaving the house he bade his wife good-bye, remarking that he was going to do something terrible. Despondency is supposed to have caused the act.

WHO KILLED CRONIN?

The Grand Jury Partially Answers the Question.

THREE INDICTMENTS FOUND

Detective Coughlin, Ice-Dealer Sullivan and Horse-Thief Woodruff, the Men.

The Chicago Police Just Getting an Insight Into the Magnitude of the Conspiracy—Over a Score of Individuals Concerned, Among Them Eight Prominent Irish Nationalists—A Rieteration that Cronin Was "Removed."

CHICAGO, May 29.—The Grand Jury last evening, after a session of nearly seven hours, indicted Detective Daniel Coughlin, P. O. Sullivan, the Lake View ice-dealer, and Frank Black, alias Woodruff, for the willful murder of Dr. P. H. Cronin.

Black is the man arrested for stealing the white horse and rig in which the physician was driven to his death and who told a woolly story regarding Dr. Cronin having been taken to attend the woman whose body, as he claimed, was afterward hidden in the trunk.

Over a score of witnesses, including both personal and political friends of the murdered man, were examined, but no evidence was introduced to prove a conspiracy and the private papers about which so much has been said were kept from the body.

As a result of the investigation it was decided by a unanimous vote to include the three prisoners in one indictment of three counts, one charging them with killing Dr. Cronin with a blunt instrument, the second alleging the use of a sharp instrument and the third with "instruments and means unknown."

The indictments were returned to Judge Williamson and the jury released for the night.

State's Attorney Longenecker said subsequently that the question of a conspiracy was not investigated in any form and that the matter would not be taken up again by the present body.

It is said to-day upon absolute authority that the police are only just beginning to get an insight into the magnitude of the conspiracy. All along they have been working on the theory that it was confined to few. Within the last twenty-four hours, however, they have come into possession of information that places it beyond the shadow of a doubt that at least a score of individuals were connected, directly or indirectly with the diabolical affair.

Among these, it is said, are eight of the most prominent Irish Nationalists in the city. These are being shadowed day and night; not so much with the view of any immediate arrest but as the police put it, "the better to subserve the interests of justice."

Among the best and most widely known of the eight is Alexander Sullivan, the ex-President of the Irish Land League of America. He is probably the best watched man in Chicago to-day. Shadows infest the lobby of the Chicago Opera House building in which his offices are located; they flit around the upper corridor; they dog his footsteps when he goes across to the Court House, and they have his home on Oak street under surveillance. Only when closeted in his office or when in the parlor of his home is he free from their gaze.

Chief of Police Hubbard practically admitted to-day that he was responsible for this espionage, but he declined to say upon what grounds it was based, although he hinted that it was done to satisfy Cronin's friends. Almost in the same breath he said that of all the stream of direct evidence that had been poured in upon him there was not a single fact that pointed in the slightest degree to Alexander Sullivan's culpability.

The friends of the latter—and their number is legion—take the ground that he is being outrageously persecuted. He is, they say, being made a mark of by men who have been opposed to him for years in secret societies and who are now only too willing to take advantage of the present excitement to identify him with the crime in the public mind.

The Herald this morning in an elaborate article reiterates its former statement that Dr. Cronin was "removed" by the Clan-na-Gael after trial and conviction on the charge of being a British spy. It declares circumstantially that an officer of the Order, known as a delegate, called upon the Senior Guardian of a North Side camp to appoint a trial committee. No names or specifications were given. At the next meeting of the camp it was announced under the rules provided for such occasions that a trial committee was required. Each man present wrote a name on a piece of paper. When all the slips had been deposited in the ballot-box it was delivered to a trusty member who counted them and selected the seven that received the highest number. Each was quietly notified of the fact while the unsuccessful ones simply received blank slips. The committee met within a week and for the first time became aware of each other's identity, and also that of the man whom they were to try and the charges preferred. Hence, of all, the members of the Order only the committee, the man preferring the charges and the witnesses examined were cognizant of the personality of the body or its proceedings. Charges were preferred against Cronin of being a British spy; he was found guilty by a unanimous vote and sentenced to be "removed." In some way knowledge of these proceedings came to Cronin and hence his frequent statements just before he met his death that a violent end was in store for him.

The article also says that the only object of the presence in Chicago of Luke Dillon, of Philadelphia, who is one of the triumvirate now ruling the order, is to learn the number of the Camp by which the committee was appointed.

The Coroner's jury yesterday visited the cottage, the man-hole and the locality in which the trunk was found and upon returning to the city adjourned until to-day.

A widow named Hamburger has turned over to the police a suit of flannel underclothing and a vest which were found by her two boys, aged nine and eleven years, in a clump of bushes on the Evanston road, not far from the spot where the trunk was discovered. The officers are mysterious regarding the find and refuse to say whether the articles have been identified as having been worn by the murdered man.

SON DRUNK, MOTHER DEAD.

The Horrible Scene Discovered in a New York Tenement House.

NEW YORK, May 29.—The one hundred occupants of the tenement house 319 East Sixtieth street have been troubled lately by an offensive odor, and to-day the police were called in to locate the source of the smell.

It seemed to proceed from the apartments of Mrs. Bridget Hanrahan, and on breaking into them the dead and decaying body of Mrs. Hanrahan was found in the back room. The woman had evidently been dead at least a week.

In the front room, in the midst of the filth and squalor, lay Mrs. Hanrahan's eighteen-year-old son John, dead drunk. From appearances he had eaten nothing and drunk all he could get for several days past.

The neighbors think that the young man, who was a worthless sot, had been holding a quiet wake over his mother's body, all by himself. The woman was also a heavy drinker. She did no work, but lived in a miserable way on some savings that she had made when formerly employed as a servant.

The mother and son were unsociable and disagreeable, and the other occupants of the house saw and knew but little of them.

LIGHTNING HITS A PREACHER.

Knocked Out of the Pulpit and Probably Blind for Life.

DANVILLE, Ill., May 29.—Rev. J. C. Myers, of State Line, Ind., on request of Rev. Mr. Steele, of the New Liberty Christian church, Fountain county, Ind., filled the pulpit of that church.

During the evening services a small cloud was noticed to overcast the sky, and immediately afterward a blinding bolt of lightning descended, struck and destroyed the church chimney, following along the stovepipes around the room, crushed the two stoves into fragments and tore up the floor. After leaving the chimney a portion of the bolt ran down the chandelier over the pulpit, striking Mr. Myers in the back of the head. He turned a somersault, fell heavily to the floor and was thought to be dead. He lay in an unconscious condition for more than half an hour. Several members of the congregation were shocked to insensibility but soon recovered.

On the back of Mr. Myers' head where the lightning struck him is a bruised place about the size of a silver dollar. His face appears burned and his sight is nearly destroyed. He was brought to this city for treatment, and the oculist, Dr. Poland, fears that the loss of his sight will be permanent.

FLASHED UNDER THE SEA.

News and Gossip from London and Other European Capitals.

LONDON, May 29.—Care has been taken to transmit to the Continental press the Marquis of Salisbury's dictum that Mr. Gladstone is becoming tired, and somewhat ashamed of his connection with the Parnellites.

Only the German papers appear to have any lucid ideas of the relations between Ireland and England and the comments which the press of other countries indulge in are somewhat amusing. They seem to have a somewhat nasty impression that Ireland is a revolted province which is on the eve of being reconciled to England and as the exponents of monarchical government, they congratulate the latter power upon the successful quelling of the disturbance.

Chancellor Bismarck has not been very happy in his selection of a moulder of British opinion. Since Herr Steindopf's acquisition of the St. James Gazette, he has continued to gain the enmity of two persons rather noted for their implacability, and it is speaking mildly to say that the Gazette is in very hot water. An organ of another, and not popular government, is naturally looked upon with distrust by every patriotic Englishman—perhaps the less versed he is in political matters, the more distrusted he is, and Mr. Greenwood, the former editor of the paper, disappointed in obtaining arrears of salary which he claimed are due him, has not failed to call British attention to the enormity of sustaining a mouthpiece of the German ogre in their midst.

Sir Morell Mackenzie is also on the warpath against the Gazette and incidentally against the Times also, anent the old question of the Emperor Frederick's illness and the press, and medical cliques being united against that object detested of Englishmen, a foreigner, the career of the Gazette may be a short one.

While Englishmen are overwhelmed by the condescension of the Queen in requesting Mr. Lincoln to present his credentials to her at Windsor, many Americans here are provoked with him for accepting such an invitation. Whether the seat of government is fixedly at London, or where its head happens to be temporarily resident, is a question often before argued but never satisfactorily determined. Certain it is that Mr. Lincoln would have better pleased his countrymen here by remaining as a private citizen in London until the Queen's arrival there.

Bad for the Ex-Officials.

NEWPORT, Ky., May 29.—The Grand Jury has returned indictments for embezzlement against Louis Constans, ex-City Treasurer and W. J. McClure, ex-City Clerk. The amount of the former's shortage is $34,000; the latter's $1,600. Both were bound over and are now hunting for bondsmen to go on their $15,000 bond. There is much excitement here over the affair, as both men stood high in the community.

Searching for Frank Comey.

FOXBORO, Mass., May 29.—A general search is being made for Frank Comey, who disappeared last Saturday. On that day he visited his child and when about to depart shot himself five times with a revolver. He walked away with blood running down his face. It is supposed he went into the woods and died there.

HOW MAYBRICK DIED

Killed by His Wife, Who Is Jeff Davis' Niece.

LAWLESS LOVE AND POISON.

Damaging Testimony Against an American Woman in England.

Evidence that She Did Away with Her Husband, Because She Loved Another. A Tell-Tale Letter Which She Gave to a Servant to Mail—It Fell in the Mud and the Nurse-Girl Opened It—A Fatal Accident.

LIVERPOOL, May 29.—The inquest over the body of Mr. Maybrick, whose death is supposed to have been caused by poison administered by his wife, a niece of Jeff Davis, was begun yesterday.

Michael Maybrick, brother of the deceased, testified that he had visited his brother during his illness and had warned Mrs. Maybrick that he suspected his brother was receiving improper treatment. The wife insisted upon her right to nurse her husband. Witness thereupon summoned two doctors and a new nurse. He also seized a bottle containing brandy and extract of meat. At a later visit witness found Mrs. Maybrick changing the contents and labels of medicine bottles. He remonstrated with her and asked her how she dared to do such a thing. She replied that there was sediment in the bottles. Witness again caused a change of nurse to be made. Notwithstanding his precautions, however, his brother grew worse and died in a short time. He was delirious toward the end. After his death the nurse gave witness a parcel labelled "arsenic poison for cats." It contained several bottles in which the labels had been erased. Witness placed the bottles under seal and gave them to the police.

A TELL-TALE LETTER.

Alice Japp, a nurse who had charge of the Maybrick children, was next examined. She produced a letter which was addressed to a man named Brierly, in Liverpool, and which was given to witness to post by Mrs. Maybrick, the prisoner. While on her way to do this witness dropped the letter in the mud. The envelope was soiled, and witness opened the letter with the intention of placing it in another envelope. In doing this she noticed that the letter contained a number of endearing words. The following sentences particularly attracted her attention:

"Dearest, my husband is sick unto death. All depends on how long his strength can hold out. Darling relieve your mind of all fear of discovery now or in the future. In any case do not leave England until I see you again."

Witness, instead of posting the letter, gave it to Edwin Maybrick. After Mr. Maybrick died witness found in the linen closet a chocolate box rolled up in a sheet. The box belonged to Mrs. Maybrick, and contained a package of powder labelled "poison."

Evidence was given to the effect that Mrs. Maybrick bought a quantity of arsenical fly papers, and that she apparently tampered with the patient's food and medicines. On one occasion the deceased reproached his wife, saying, "How could you do it?"

Other witnesses testified to the wife's hatred of the decease and to her threatening to "give it to him hot" for publicly upbraiding her.

Fatal Collision on the Housatonic.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 29.—Two freight trains collided on the Housatonic railroad near Trumbull station. Both engines were smashed to pieces, four cars were telescoped, engineer William B. Look and brakeman Charles Olds were killed, and engineer James McBermott and brakeman John Lamonte were badly injured. The body of engineer Look was found buried in the coal of the tender. Operator McGuire, of Stepney, is believed to be the cause of the accident. Orders were sent to him to deliver to engineer McDermott to stop at Stepney until the other train arrived. It is supposed that McGuire went to sleep. Superintendent Lyon is investigating.

The "Harlem Spider" a Winner.

TROY, N. Y., May 29.—A prize-fight took place last evening between Harry Walton, of Philadelphia, and Thomas Kelly, the "Harlem Spider" lightweights, under Queensberry rules. Sixteen rounds were fought when Walton threw up the sponge and the "Spider" was declared victor. The latter had the best of it all the way through and odds were freely offered on him. The fight took place under the auspices of the Troy Athletic club at the Star theatre. About 200 spectators paid $5 apiece for the privilege of witnessing the affair.

Asked to Resign.

NEW YORK, May 29.—Deputy Collector Wm. S. Searing, has been requested by Collector Erhardt to resign, and has done so, though he is an intimate friend of Secretary Tracy, and could probably have remained if he had made much of a fight for the place. He told the Collector that he believed in the theory that the victor should enjoy the spoils and would abide by the logic of that theory. Harry Stanwood, nephew of Secretary Blaine, will take charge of Mr. Searing's division. Mr. Stanwood was appointed a deputy yesterday.

General Drum Retired.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Adjutant-General Richard C. Drum was 64 years old yesterday and in compliance with the Statutes he was placed on the retired list of the Army by the issuance of a brief order. All the morning General Drum received old comrades and others in his room at the War department. At noon he formally retired from the duties of his office and Assistant Adjutant-General Kelton became Adjutant General ad interim. General Drum will continue to reside near this city at Longdrum, his estate.

The Last One this Season.

The lecture room of the First Baptist church, was handsomely decorated with flags last evening, the occasion being the last sociable of the season given by the Young People's League of the church.

There were a large number present including members of the Associations of the Trinity Reformed, Methodist and First Presbyterian churches. During intermission refreshments were served and a very social time was had by all throught the evening. Mr. Stephen B. Joseph, President of the League, acted as master of ceremonies and announced the selections on the informal programme, which were as follows:

PART FIRST:

|---|---|
| Piano Solo | Miss Vinnie French |
| Recitation | Miss F. A. Gaskell |
| Solo | Mrs. Martin I. Cooley |
| Recitation | Mr. H. S. Thatcher |
| Violin Solo | Mr. A. Carpenter |

Intermission.

PART SECOND:

|---|---|
| Solo | Mrs. Martin I. Cooley |
| Recitation | Mr. H. S. Thatcher |
| Piano Solo | Miss Vinnie French |
| Recitation | Mr. H. S. Thatcher |
| Violin Solo | Mr. A. Carpenter |

The ladies and gentlemen comprising the Social committee, made a determined effort that this should truly be a "sociable," and if possible, to change the impression that the young people of the First Baptist church were inclined to be otherwise. The Committeee did indeed carry out such intention, for they have never had an entertainment at which sociability was more manifest than that of last evening. Everybody seemed cordial and the many strangers present were made to feel that they were most heartily welcome.

The Reception Committee did their part well, in seeing that the people were comfortably seated and acquainted, which added very materially to the evening's enjoyment.

The programme arranged was very interesting, and, by way of special mention, it may be said that it was of unusual merit. The playing of Miss Vinnie French on the piano was very fine. She showed great skill in the selections rendered, and the singing of Mrs. Martin I. Cooley was listened to with intense interest. Mr. Andrew Carpenter gave two very interesting solos on the violin, accompanied by Miss Flora Randolph. The recitation given by Miss Gaskell, a selection from "Widow Bedott," gave evidence of strong talent in that direction.

The Social Committee, who secured such an excellent programme and provided cake and cream as refreshments, were: Mr. Wilson, Chairman; Miss Mamie French, Miss Ella Milligan, Miss Alice Woodland and Miss Mary Thorn. The whole affair reflected great credit on this Committee, who worked so hard to make the evening an enjoyable one; and the artistic decorations of flags and flowers were also due to these same ladies.

WAYWARD WILLIAM.

A CHURCH SEXTON RUINED BY GAMBLING.

William Washington Said to be an Absconder. But His Wife Explains the Reason of His Sudden Departure.

It was told all over the town this morning that William Washington, the trusted sexton of one of Plainfield's churches, had absconded with all the funds he could get his hands on including about $60 or $70 that he had been given by his wife, who is housekeeper at the Ostermoor residence in Netherwood, to pay the week's grocery, butcher and ice bills of that family.

But Mrs. Washington tells a PRESS reporter another story. She says that she herself has turned William out in the cold, cold World. It is the second time and it is the last, she declares. As far as his absconding with the amount of the week's bills, Mrs. Washington says he settled all the bills in town for Mr. Ostermoor, on Saturday night as usual. The fact is, however, Washington did not pay the grocery bill, at least. He told Mr. Rockfellow's bookkeeper that Mr. Ostermoor did not give him any money for last week's account; but he paid the meat bill at Benj. Moore's.

Sunday, the last in the month, Washington received his pay as sexton, amounting to $20. This, his wife says, he gambled away as he did every cent of his own or hers that he could get hold of. When he came home to his wife that night under the influence of liquor and without a cent, she was so indignant that she locked him out, and the next day gave him notice to quit.

Washington rented a lodging place in Exchange alley and left over four months rent on that for his wife to pay. All his and her money he could get was gambled away, and Mrs. Washington feels that she was justified in finally getting rid of him. She gave THE PRESS the names of those to whom her husband has been losing the money, but there is no need of their being published.

Messrs Tier, the ice men, hold a bill that Washington says he paid, but took no receipt for. Tier's driver insists he never received the money, but Mr. Ostermoor considers his man's word as good as the other's. Mr. Ostermoor has been in the habit of entrusting a great deal of money to Washington that would have been an object for the later to steal, but he has never known a cent of it to be misapplied.

Mr. and Mrs. Washington have been married about seven years, and are highly esteemed in colored society, and well thought of by their employers. But Mrs. Washington recently discovered a pawn ticket for her watch that William said he had taken to a jewelers for repairs. Consequently implicit trust and confidence has not reposed in the bosom of that particular Washington family for some months.

The ex-Sexton's present whereabouts are just now utterly unknown to anyone.

The Water Works Question.

The committee now considering the water and sewerage question have no hesitation in acknowledging the aid received from the views expressed to them by private citizens.

They have determined to obtain all possible light on the subject before reaching final conclusions as to what methods they will recommend to the Council at is next meeting, and accordingly invite any taxpayer who may have given thought to the subject, to give the city the benefit of it by communicating with the committee.

Messrs. Newhall, Erickson and Watson constitute the committee.

Dunellen Notes.

Washington avenue is being macadamized from Front street to the foot of the mountain.

At the school meeting, held on Thursday evening, the vote on the extra appropriation for school purposes, resulted as follows: for appropriation, 40; against, 34. The poll list, however, did not tally with the number of votes cast, and the matter will be reconsidered on Thursday of next week. It is said that unless something is done to relieve the Dunellen public school, the State school tax, due that school, will be held back.

The Rev. Mr. Cleaver's Class Leases Reform Hall.

A lease has been signed by the authorities of Reform Hall and Mr. John J. Ackerman, Treasurer of the Rev. J. B. Cleaver's Berean class, whereby the latter secures the use of the Hall and basement for meetings during stated days of the week and certain hours on Sundays.

Mr. Cleaver's class have now the occupancy of Reform Hall, every Sunday from 9 A. M., to 4 P. M., and from 5 P. M., to 7:30 P. M. Also the basement of the building during Tuesday and Friday evenings of each week.

To-morrow's Ball Matches.

There will doubtless be a large attendance at the ball games on the Crescent's grounds, to-morrow, and those who want cool and comfortable seats in the grand stands would do well to go early, and avoid the rush. In the forenoon the Crescents will battle with the Putnams of Brooklyn, and in the afternoon with the Alerts of Elizabeth.

Children Cry for It.

If a child will take a medicine with pleasure, you may know that it is not in any way offensive to the taste. Children like HAMBURG FIGS, and it is no longer necessary to disgust them with castor oil. 25 cents. Dose, one fig. J. G. Miller, Agent, Plainfield.

Memorial Day Arrangements.

Commander Isaac Brokaw has issued his orders for to-morrow's celebration by Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R.

The Post will assemble at Post Headquarters at 7:30 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of assisting in the unveiling ceremonies of the Soldiers' Statue, in the Soldiers' Plot in Fairview Cemetery, at Westfield. Conveyances will be in waiting at Post Headquarters. I. S., Wm. Day will, in company with comrades residing at Scotch Plains, decorate the graves of soldiers in that cemetery early enough to unite with the Post at Westfield at 9 A. M.

The Post will return to Plainfield about 12:30 P. M., and the members will again assemble at Post Headquarters at 1:30 o'clock P. M., sharp, for Parade and Memorial Services at Music Hall. Fully uniformed comrades are expected to appear in same; those not uniformed will parade in dark clothing with uniform hats and gloves, wearing the Memorial Badge and carrying cane. The Commander expects every comrade to be in line whether fully uniformed or not.

The exercises at Music Hall will include music by the Plainfield Cornet Band, singing by the chorus, post exercises and an oration by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes.

A Novel Wedding.

At the First Presbyterian church in Dunellen, to-morrow evening will occur a notable wedding. Mi-Mu-Ya, daughter of Koku-Sen-Ya and Fu-Chow-Ya, and Kin-Ta-Ro, son of Chim-Pan-Lang and She-Er-Lang, will be married at 8 o'clock in the evening. The bride's maids will be Koo-Lang, Chew-Ching, Oku-Bo, She-Er-Nan, Rin-Kin and Fi-Fi-Lee, and the ushers—Ling-Fong, Chin-Nung, Nang-Ling and Fuh-He. Too-Dee will act as the go-between.

After the ceremony, a chorus will be sung by several Japanese children, friends of the bride and groom.

Tickets of admission have been placed on sale at the exceedingly low price of 25 cents, and this includes refreshments.

A Wedding Surprise.

About a dozen young people from this city and North Plainfield, went in a stage to the residence of Mr. John Smalley, between Dunellen and Washington Rock, last evening, and tendered a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Smalley upon the 40th anniversary of their marriage. There was about fifteen couple present. Music, both vocal and instrumental, dancing and refreshments were the principle features of the evening. After extending congratulations and a long and happy life to Mr. and Mrs. Smalley, the guests returned to their homes in this city early this morning well pleased with the evening's enjoyment.

Third District Sunday School Convention.

The seventh annual convention of the New Jersey Sunday school association for the Third district, comprising Essex, Hudson, Middlesex and Union counties, will be held on Tuesday, June 11, in the Methodist church at Hoboken. There will be afternoon and evening sessions. In the afternoon session the county work will be presented by the secretaries. Rev. Dr. Hurlbut, of this city, will speak on "The Home and the Sunday school," and there will be a conference on the same topic.

Building Loan.

The regular monthly meeting of the shareholders of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association, was held in Cutter's Hall, Monday evening last. Dues were paid in with commendable promptitude, and loans aggregating $3,000, sold. The Association is in a flourishing condition. The officers are: President—Joseph S. Cutter; Vice President—Lewis E. Barkalew; Treasurer—Wm. R. Codington; Secretary—Nathan Harper.

—The case against Jack Dady, of this city, charged with assault, was this morning adjourned until the next term of Court, upon motion of the Prosecutor. Chief of Police Carey was in Court ready to proceed with the case against Dady.

—Dr. A. M. Dam, 405 Columbus ave., Boston, Mass., would be pleased to answer any correspondence from parties using or intending to use his remedy.

A Big Bugaboo.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I state on good authority that certain physicians of New York, who have heretofore recommended Plainfield as a place of residence—more especially for invalids, on account of its healthfulness—now bitterly oppose the idea, on the ground that the city is becoming thickly populated, minus the proper drainage, and they predict a fever epidemic if steps are not taken at once to remove all possible causes.

It is a most ridiculous thing that a city as large as Plainfield should not have the proper sewerage. Our City Fathers should reflect a little upon this important matter and take action at once before it is too late. Do not have our beautiful city condemned when the remedy is within the power of our Council, and place Plainfield in a healthful condition.

There is nothing sensational concerning this communication. These are facts; and the names of prominent New York physicians who are willing to testify as to their convictions, will be published if necessary. These gentlemen have made many professional visits to Plainfield, enabling them to study the sanitary conditions of our city. C. W.

Somerset's Country Club.

The Board of Governors of the newly incorporated Somerset County Country Club met at the club house at Finderne on Saturday afternoon and elected its first officers as follows: President—Adolph Mack of Raritan; Vice President—G. Snowden Cook of Somerville; Secretary—Jos. C. Garretson of Bound Brook; Treasurer—John C. Shaw of Finderne.

The club starts out with a membership of fifty gentlemen, principally residents of this vicinity. The club house is beautifully situated on Mount Pleasant, the highest ground between Bound Brook and Somerville, and commands a beautiful and extended view of the Raritan Valley. The building is at present the residence of Mr. Shaw, a well known New York lawyer, and is one of a group of structures which he bought at the close of the Centennial exhibition of '76 in Philadelphia and removed there, this particular edifice being the Singer sewing machine house.

Sudden Death of an Old Westfielder.

The sad death of Erastus Miller, aged 74 years, occurred suddenly last evening at Westfield, at 7:30. He had been at his store on Broad street in the afternoon and returned to his residence on Central avenue at 6 P. M. After supper he went to the lavatory, where a short time thereafter he was discovered dead.

About a month ago he was confined to the house by heart failure, but was so much better he could come regularly to the store again. Yesterday afternoon in conversation with several of his neighbors, he said he was feeling unusually well.

His wife died some years ago. He leaves two sons, married, and two maiden daughters. He was the head of the firm of E. Miller & Sons, in the grocery business on Broad street, Westfield, for a number of years, and has been a resident of the town for the past 40 years.

The Converted Priest's Meeting.

Bishop J. V. McNamara, the converted Catholic priest, preached in Reform Hall again last evening, taking for his text: "Jerusalem, Rome and Ireland." There was a large audience present, including many Catholics. The speaker said during his discourse that he had no theories or pet schemes of his own to offer, but that he was simply performing his duty as a Christian.

At times the Bishop grew warm in his discussion, and on one occasion a well known character about town, who evidently had never been in a church before, arose in his seat and heaped blasphemous abuse upon the preacher. The fellow then left the hall, uttering curses. He should have been arrested on the spot and doubtless would have been had an officer been present.

Letter Writing in State Prison.

The letters sent out by the prisoners in the State Prison at Trenton average about 800 a month, while the number received average about four times that number. Each convict is allowed by the regulations to send one letter a month, and nearly all avail themselves of the privilege. A considerable number, however, are sent in addition by special permission. Each prisoner is allowed to receive one letter a week, or even more, as the regulation is not rigorously enforced, considerable latitude being allowed in this particular. As every letter sent and received has to be first read by a prison official, this duty imposes a pretty severe task upon the reader.

Grocerymen's Taffy.

The New Jersey Trade Journal gives us the following bit of "taffy," which, of course, is meant to include the Plainfield grocers among others in the State: "New Jersey is noted for many things, from big eggs to tomatoes, but nothing is more clear than the fact that the average New Jersey grocer is equal to any others found in this country."

—The fair for the benefit of St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield, will continue every night this week at the Saenger and Turn Verein Hall. For further particulars see advertisement.

—Mrs. M. H. Conger, 151 Duer street, says: "Since using Dr. Dam's Remedy have not had a sick headache."

General Telegraphic Despatches.

WARNED BY WHITE CAPS.

Two Threatening Letters Received by Edward Murphy, the Temperance Man.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 29.—Edward Murphy, the temperance advocate, has received two letters signed by White Caps, which breathe threats of the direst vengeance against him for his stand in favor of the Prohibition amendment.

Mr. Murphy is inclined to treat the contents of the first letter lightly, and but for the second and much more serious epistle would permit it soon to pass from his mind. The first letter written on a plain white slip of parchment paper in red and black ink reads as follows:

Write your will on this after the 18th of June. For after that you die—

WHISE CAPS.

The second letter was ornamented with skeleton and cross-bones, also the legend:

"OFFICE OF THE WHITE CAPS," in red ink reading as follows:

T. E. MURPHY, ESQ.

You have no doubt received your notices before this time from the White Caps. You will take warning from this. Also, that you are watched every time you speak in favor of the amendment. It is marked up against you, and you will have to answer after the 18th of June to the White Caps of Indiana, who are taking a great interest in the Pennsylvania fight now. We give you timely warning— Yours,

WHITE CAPS.

In the envelope were a number of cards, announcing an amendment meeting in this city to-night. On the reverse side were the most uncanny figures representing Mr. Murphy and Judge White, and the horrible fate to which the White Caps would consign them after June 18. The cards were inscribed with skull and cross-bones and the suggestive initials "K. K. K."

Mr. Murphy thinks that he knows whence the letters emanate and will at once take steps to prove the correctness or falsity of his belief.

UNABLE TO AGREE.

The Jury in the Faulkner Case Can't Arrive at a Conclusion.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 29.—The jury in the Faulkner case came in yesterday, stating that they could not agree.

This case has attracted wide attention on account of the prominence in politics of Lester B. Faulkner, the defendant. The charge against Faulkner was that he had signed false reports in regard to the condition of the Dansville National bank, and had, while he was a director of the bank, obtained large sums of money from it under false pretenses and that he, in connection with his brother, James Faulkner, who was president of the bank, had entered into a conspiracy with some of the directors to wreck the institution. During the trial evidence was introduced to show that after the failure of the bank the defendant had gained entrance to the building and taken away all the books of the institution and after placing them in his barn had set fire to that building causing the destruction of the books. The most important witness against the defendant was his brother James, who charged that Lester B. was the prime mover in the conspiracy, while the witnesses for the defense testified that James was the cause of the whole trouble. James Faulkner will be placed on trial at the fall term of court. It has not yet been decided when Lester B. will be tried again. The failure of the jury to agree has created considerable excitement in Dansville and the surrounding country, where the feeling against the Faulkner brothers is very strong.

Sightseers at Evictions.

DUBLIN, May 29.—Many English and American visitors were present to witness evictions on the Luggacurran estate. The families of eight tenants were put out of their homes.

LUCIE KNOCKED OUT

George La Blanche Defeats the Philadelphian.

HE DID IT IN THIRTEEN ROUNDS

The First of the Fights for the Middleweight Championship.

The Contest Took Place in San Francisco Last Night—The "Marine" Had the Best of It All the Time—Thomas Kelly, the "Harlem Spider" Bests Harry Walton, of Philadelphia, in a Sharp Fight at Troy.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 29.—In the fight last night between Le Blanche and Mike Lucie, of Philadelphia, this being the first of a series for the middleweight championship of America, the first round was marked by light blows, with no damage done.

In the second round, some good blows were exchanged, with no apparent advantage on either side.

In the third Le Blanche forced Lucie to the ropes. On getting away Lucie received a stinger on the nose, but reached the "Marine's" wind, and also tapped him on the lip, gaining first blood.

Le Blanche forced the fighting in the fourth, but Lucie was nimble, and getting away, landed two on Le Blanche's ribs and one in the wind. The "Marine" struck short.

At the opening of the fourth round, a clinch was followed by Le Blanche's getting in a right hander on Lucie's ear. Light sparring ensued. Lucie then landed heavily on Le Blanche's left cheek. Le Blanche again struck short, while Lucie found him easily.

The sixth and seventh rounds were uneventful.

In the eighth the "Marine" began to get warmed up, and in this and the ninth he did the better hitting.

In the tenth LeBlanche knocked Lucie down, and on his rising, got in a rousing upper cut.

In the eleventh the "Marine" drove Lucie from corner to corner, Lucie hitting wildly, but getting in one sound blow on the ribs.

In the twelfth Le Blanche rained blows on Lucie, who retreated and fell, but got up in time to be dazed with a left-hander.

In the thirteenth round Lucie came up groggy and was knocked flat by a right-hander. He rose at the end of ten seconds, but the fight had been given to Le Blanche.

WAS IT CAUSED BY A CIGAR?

A Barn in Clifton, N. J., Totally Consumed by Fire.

CLIFTON, N. J., May 29.—Flames were discovered coming from the barn belonging to Mr. S. C. Nash, yesterday morning. The alarm was quickly sounded, but the fire was beyond control and the citizens devoted their attention to saving the surrounding buildings.

The barn, which was full of hay, was entirely destroyed. Six valuable running horses belonging to Olney Brothers were saved. The total loss is estimated at $2,000, partly insured.

The people think that the hay caught fire from a lighted cigar.

The trackmen were in the habit of meeting here evenings, and this is probably the secret of the whole matter.

Murdered at a Dance.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 29.—A special from Mansfield, Ohio, says: Frank Piars, a laborer, shot and killed Ed. Hawkins at a dance in the country several miles east of here last night. The men quarrelled while drunk. Piars escaped.

THE BUILDING IS UNSAFE.

There Is Need for a New Government Printing Office in Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—A condition of trepidation and fear exists at the Government Printing office. It need create no surprise if that old building should fall down some day and kill about a dozen persons. Several years ago an architect warned the Public Printer that the building he occupied was in a dangerous condition, and that any sudden jar was liable to make the floors give way and precipitate the structure in a mass to the ground. The building is about three hundred feet long, probably two hundred feet in width, and four stories in height. It is packed full of heavy machinery, type, paper and ink. Public Printer Palmer, upon taking his office, declined to assume the responsibility of occupying the building without first getting advice from a practical architect, and he called Mr. Clark, the architect of the Capitol, to make an examination of the structure. When the report was rendered, Mr. Palmer issued an order prohibiting the moving of packages weighing more than two hundred pounds from place to place on the various floors. There are more than 2,200 people employed in the building, and many of them are women. The scene which would follow the tumbling in of even a small section of floor in this building would be indescribable. It is not probable that Congress will heed the oft-repeated and long calls which have been made during the past ten years for a new structure until some lives have been lost by an accident at the Government Printing office.

Senators Manderson, Hawley and Gorman, the Senate members of the Committee on Printing; Representative Farquhar, who, it is expected, will be a member, if not the chairman, of the House Committee on Printing in the new House, and Mr. Michael, clerk of the committee, visited the Government Printing office and made a thorough inspection of the building.

A careful investigation of the building showed them its dangerous condition, though it is due to Senator Gorman to say that he has on numerous occasions on the floor of the Senate called attention to the urgent need of prompt action in the matter. The Committee will formulate the result of their observations in a recommendation to Congress, in which they will strongly urge the erection of an entirely new structure.

AN ORIGINAL INVALID PENSION.

The Case of Joseph M. Potter, Who Rejected a Special Act in His Favor.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Assistant Secretary Bussey has rendered a decision upon the application of Joseph M. Potter, late of Captain Martin's Battery, Sixth New York Light Artillery, for an original invalid pension. The claim was originally rejected on the ground that a special act of Congress had been passed for the benefit of claimant, during the pendency of his claim in the Pension Bureau, and that he had been placed upon the rolls under said special act. This fact was held to preclude him from the benefits of the general pension laws and to bring him within the operation of Section 5 of the act of July 25, 2882, which prohibits a person in receipt of a pension under a special act from receiving, in addition thereto a pension under the general law. It appears from the record that the special act referred to was procured without the claimants' consent and against his expressed wish, and that he has persistently refused to accept the certificate issued to him under the special act, or to receive the pension therein provided, but has insisted upon his right to prosecute his claim under the general law upon its merits. Assistant Secretary Bussey, in his decision, says that without undertaking to enter upon a discussion of the soundness of the general proposition held, that a special act cuts off a claimant for pension from all benefits of the general laws, and debars him from further prosecuting his claim thereunder, he is clearly of the opinion that it would be a most unjust and inequitable ruling, under the facts in this case, to hold the claimant bound, or his rights in any way affected by the passage of a special act which he had no agency in procuring and which was passed against his express wish and consent, and the benefits of which he has utterly repudiated. This ground for the rejection of the claim is declared to be untenable and is accordingly overruled. The case is then examined upon its merits and pension is allowed.

IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Questioning Lord Lytton's Absence from the Opening of the Paris Exposition.

LONDON, May 29.—In the House of Commons last evening Mr. Edmund Robertson, Liberal member for Dundee, moved to reduce the Foreign Office vote, the purpose of the motion being to take the judgments of the House in the matter of the absence of Lord Lytton, the British Ambassador to France, from the opening ceremonies of the Paris Exhibition.

The withdrawal, Mr. Robertson thought, was the result of a pre-arrangement, in view of the simultaneous action of the representatives of other Powers in ordering their representatives to hold themselves aloof from the ceremonies.

Sir James Fergusson, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs, denied that Lord Lytton's absence was due to any pre-arrangement with the Continental Governments. The House, he said, was of the opinion that England should not take part in the celebration of the centenary of a revolution regarding which parties in France remained bitterly divided. When a nation was unanimous in celebrating a great event there was no impropriety in the Queen's representative being present, as in the case of the celebration of the centenary of the independence of America. But there was no analogy between France and America. Furthermore, there was no dissatisfaction in France at the absence of Lord Lytton from the opening of the exhibition.

Mr. Gladstone said he acquitted the Government of acting in concert with other Powers in the matter, but thought the Government was blameable for its error of judgment. Lord Lytton ought to have been present.

The motion was rejected by a vote of 283 to 190.

A Horse-Owner Charged With Murder.

CINCINNATI, May 29.—Clifford Porter, an owner of race horses, at Latonia, has been arrested and locked up in the Covington, Ky., jail, charged with murder. Deputy Sheriff Jerry Loeder, of Galveston, Tex., arrived last night with a requisition for him. The murder is said to have been committed some time ago in a quarrel at that place. Porter is a very wealthy man and immediatoly employed Senator Goebel, of Covington, to defend him.

The Hearing Was Postponed.

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—The hearing of the cruelty charges against the three Almshouse attendants, Joseph Williamson, Jas. Marshall and Joseph Devlin, which was to have taken place yesterday, has been postponed until next Tuesday morning. The suit was continued on the application of defendants' counsel. The bond of the defendants was renewed.

TO REMOVE WARTS.

Mark Twain Writes a Letter and Tells How It Is Done.

I find the following suggestive derelict wandering about the ocean of journalism, writes Mark Twain in the New York Sun:

"I'd give one thousand dollars," said a well-to-do New Yorker the other day, "to have that mark removed," and he held out a well-shaped and well-cared-for hand, on the back of which, between the thumb and first finger, was tattooed a big blue anchor. "When I was a little fool at school, with my head full of stories of adventure, my highest ambition was to go to sea. An old sailor who lived in the village tattooed about a dozen of us on the sly, and I remember the lies I told my mother, as I kept my hand done up in a rag, pretending I had cut it, till the sore healed. Then she gave me such a thrashing as broke up my plan, fortunately, to have a fine red and blue heart done on the back of the other. The disfigurement has caused me no end of annoyance since, and has cost me considerable money for gloves, which I always wear, winter and summer, though I detest them in warm weather. But a man can't wear gloves at the table, and often at restaurants I catch people staring at my hand and I wonder if they think I have served my term in the fo'castle of some oyster scow or lumber schooner."

A tattooed mark is easily removed. May I drop into personal history? When I was a small boy I had my share of warts. I tried in turn the 368 ways of removing them, but without results; indeed, I seemed to get wartier and wartier right along. But at last somebody revealed to me the 369th way, and I tried it. Thus: I drove a needle down into the basement of the wart; then held the other end of the needle in the flame of a candle some little time; the needle became red hot throughout its length, and proceeded to cook the wart. Presently I drew the needle out; if it had white atoms like nits sticking about its point, that wart was done; if the point was clear, I drove it in again and cooked till I got those white things. They were the roots of the wart. Twenty-four hours later the wart would become soft and flabby, and I removed it with a single wipe of my hand. Where it had been was a smooth surface now, which quickly healed, and left no scar. Within two days I was wartless, and have so remained until this day.

Well, a long time afterward, when I was sixteen years old, a sailor tattooed an anchor and rope on the back of my left hand with India ink. The color was a deep, dark blue and extravagantly conspicuous. I was proud of it for awhile, but by the time I had worn it nine years I was tired of it and ashamed of it. I could find nobody who could tell me how to get rid of it; but at last my wart experience of near half a generation before occurred to me, and I got my several needles and a candle straightway. I drove the needles along just under the surface of the skin and tolerably close together, and made them include the whole tattoo mark, then I fired upon them and cooked that device thorough. Next day I wiped the device off with my hand. The place quickly healed, and left no scar. A faint bluish tinge remained, and I was minded to begin again and cool that out; but as it was hardly detectable, and not noticeable, it did not seem worth the fuel, and so I left it there, and there it is yet, though I suppose I am the only member of my tribe that knows it.

I was in London a good many years ago, when the Tichborne claimants case was being tried, and a batch of learned experts testified that an India ink tattoo mark could not be removed, but I was not asked to testify, and so those people don't know any better to this day. Let the "well-to-do New Yorker" fetch me some needles and a candle, and name his bet. I will take him up.

ROMANCE AND BLANKETS.

Dear Mr. B. Made a Pleasant Remark and He Meant It.

Even a dry-goods store may be selected by fate as a place for a romance, as the following story from the Brooklyn Eagle proves: In one of the big up-town dry-goods stores a spinster saleslady of twenty-five years was sighing her lonely life away in the ladies' and children's department on the third floor, while a widower sales-gentleman, aged forty, was becoming gray and bald with the care of three children among the blankets down in the basement. Was it the subtle but strong power of affinity, or was it only family necessities that drew those lonely hearts together? Who can tell! Neither will ever forget that day, that hour, three weeks ago, when they first gazed into each other's eyes. He had come up-stairs to her counter.

"What can I show you?"

"Children's stockings, please."

"What numbers?"

"Four, five and a half and seven. Two pairs each, please."

"Walk this way. Now, how do you like these?"

"I always get that kind."

"But this kind wears much better. Lovely day, isn't it? Quite a family, eh? Yours? Why doesn't your wife do the buying? Oh! Cash! No, I won't forget the discount. What department are you in? Blankets ought to be soft. Oh, yes; I love children. What name, please?"

"You're a girl after my own heart," said the widower, as he walked away with the stockings.

"A girl after my own heart." These words rang in the lonely saleslady's ears. Like the parson who kissed the fiddler's wife, "she couldna sleep for thinkin' o't." The next day she sent a boy with a note to the blanket department in the basement. The note said:

DEAR MR. B.: Please tell me what you meant by saying I was a girl after your own heart. I have a particular reason for asking. LILLIE M.

Mr. B. wrote back saying he meant nothing. Next Miss M. visited the blanket department. She wanted a "comforter." Of course Mr. B. waited on her.

"Where shall I send this, Miss M.? Yes! Is that your correct address?"

"You can easily find out if you call."

"May I call?"

"Certainly. What did you mean by what you said up in my department?"

"Nothing."

"You must have meant something."

"Well, maybe I did."

"I think you are just terrible. Such short acquaintances, too."

The first visit settled it. Cupid bagged them both. They combined their respective gentility and were made one last Sunday. The widower's hair has become a rich, glossy brown again, and his two-dollar-and-a-half smile is the most bewitching to be found anywhere in his line of business. As to the "girl after my own heart," the sacred curtains of home now conceal her, but the sound of her chirping can be heard for half a mile.

He Wanted the Calf Bad.

An old man in Southern Indiana was charged with stealing a calf. He was brought up for trial, when he made the following statement to the jury: "I was always teached to be honest, an' most always have been, but when I seed that calf I caved. I never wanted a calf so bad in my life, and you all know that when a man wants a calf he wants him." The jury returned the following verdict: "We, the jury, air satisfied that Steve stold the calf, but as the fellow that owned the animal is considerable of a slouch, we agree to clear Steve and make the slouch pay the costs."

PERSONATED A KING.

A Funny Incident in the Career of the Late Congressman Burnes.

"The late Congressman Burnes," said a well-known politician to a Kansas City (Mo.) Journal reporter, "was a whole-souled gentleman, and no one enjoyed a joke better than he. One instance of this was impressed upon my memory. Some years ago, you will remember, King Kalakaua of the Sandwich Islands made a tour of this country. He came down from Omaha to Kansas City, and at St. Joseph the party was joined by Congressman Burnes, for whom the foreign monarch at once conceived a strong admiration, both on account of his size and jovial qualities. At Kansas City King Kalakaua was booked for a speech, and a very brief but excellent one had been prepared. An unforeseen obstacle to compliance with this programme arose, however. As every one knows, the dark-skinned potentate is addicted to the variety of cup that cheers and also inebriates, and the result on this occasion was that when the time arrived to prepare for the Kansas City speech his highness was oblivious to all mundane affairs, and lay in his berth as drunk as the proverbial specimen of nobility.

"What was to be done? It wouldn't do not to make the speech, and the royal party were at their wits' end. But at this juncture Congressman Burnes came to the rescue.

"'Leave it to me,' said he, 'and I'll fix it; only do just as I tell you.'

"There was no time to be lost, so by Colonel Burnes' instructions Kalakaua was quickly divested of his royal costume, which was promptly donned by the big Missouri representative. Colonel Burnes was of dark complexion—quite so—and he didn't make a half-bad Sandwich islander when he stood arrayed in all the regal paraphernalia. Just as the toilet was completed the train rolled into the Union depot at Kansas City. It was quite dark, but there was an immense crowd of people who had assembled to see the island monarch. When Colonel Burnes stepped with stately tread on the rear platform of the Pullman the crowd outside cheered lustily. The Colonel cast a fierce look at the multitude and then commenced to utter the most remarkable string of jargon I ever heard. Laugh! We all laughed until we were almost dead, but Colonel Burnes remained as solemn as an owl. The speech took immensely, and when with a dignified wave of the hand the Colonel ceased, his audience cheered him to the echo and gazed with admiration at the manly proportions of the supposed King.

"In majestic silence Colonel Burnes stood until a moment or two later the train pulled out, and I suppose there are people here to this day who believe they heard King Kalakaua talk in his own language. I'll never forget," continued the gentleman, "Colonel Burnes' appearance on that occasion, and I can see him now, when, after re-entering the car and sitting in solemn silence for a moment, he turned to his laughing friends and said: 'Boys, don't you think after that I'm entitled to a drink?'"

CRAWFISH THOMPSON.

A Coloradoan Who Practices a Peculiar Style of Locomotion.

At the Inter Ocean last evening W. C. Hart, the well-known geologist and extensive gardener, whose home is near Fort Collins, Col., was engaged in general conversation with half a dozen guests of the hotel and a Cheyenne (Wy. T.) Leader owl, when he incidentally mentioned the name of Crawfish Thompson.

"Who in the world is Crawfish Thompson?" inquired one of the listeners.

"Didn't you ever hear of Crawfish Thompson?" was the interrogative reply of both Mr. Hart and another Coloradoan. The remaining member of the party replied in the negative, and Mr. Hart, who is a talker of the order denominated "smooth," was pressed to tell the story. He said:

"R. S. Thompson, or Crawfish, as he is called in the Poudre valley, is a prosperous granger who owns and manages a splendid farm and orchard located a few miles from Fort Collins. A sight of the man established his title to the sobriquet of Crawfish. This applies to his method of locomotion, for, strange as it may appear, he always walks backward after the manner of the crustacea whose name has been thrust upon the old gentleman. The peculiar affliction is the result of natural causes, and is not a whim or crazy notion. When Thompson was a boy he gave great promise of becoming a noted athlete and employed experienced trainers to prepare him for physical contests. He was partial to pedestrianism, and for a long time seemed invincible in endurance events. It was after a walk of forty-eight hours that his ankles failed. The members were operated upon by eminent specialists, but the lost strength could not be restored. Thompson accidentally discovered that he could walk backward without pain and industriously practiced that style of traveling. He has become quite proficient and easily keeps pace with the ordinary walker. The misfortune is more troublesome on the farm than in town, but the farmer's healthy sons save him many steps. In walking Thompson's head is always inclined sideways, and he rarely collides with an obstruction. Museum managers have importuned the man to exhibit himself, but he prefers to remain at home."

HER MUSE'S CAREER.

It Produced Six Lines of Poetry and Then Gave Up Its Ghost.

The Washington (D. C.) Critic thus tells of a young lady whose only "poem" made a hit:

A very bright girl, the daughter of a Congressman, and well known in Washington society during the past winter, is a great reader of poetry.

"I love poetry," she said, the other day, "and I would give any thing if I could write it."

"Did you ever try?" asked her companion.

"Never but once," she said, hesitatingly and with a poetic blush; "never but once, and that ended my muse's career forever. I was in school then, and the teacher insisted upon every girl in the rhetoric class writing a poem for next recitation day. I couldn't do it, and avowed I wouldn't, but she insisted, and finally I just had to."

"What was the poem?" inquired her friend, cautiously.

But the caution was of no avail, and she refused to divulge for some time, but at last gave up.

"Well, if I must, I must, I suppose, so here it goes:

"'Now fancy my delight,
For I am asked to write
A poem for the rhetoric class to-day.
My only hesitation
To do this for recitation
Is that I haven't thought of one darned word to say.'

"Wasn't it awful?" she continued; "but the worst of it was the teacher made me recite it before the whole school. But it brought down the house," and a very satisfied expression fell over her face.

The Ways of Providence.

A Chicago baby has just been born with a full set of teeth. Chicago steak, as well as every thing else in Chicago, is exceedingly tough, and this is another evidence that the Lord tempers the shorn lamb to the wind.

Rhode Island's Governor Chosen.

NEWPORT, R. I., May 29.—The Senate organized with Eugene F. Warner, clerk, and the House elected Augustus L. Miller, speaker. In joint assembly the house appointed a committee to count the votes for general officers. The committee reported no election by the people except for Attorney-General and the Assembly elected and inaugurated the following Republicans:—Herbert W. Ladd, Governor; D. A. Littlefield, Lieutenant-Governor; S. H. Cross, Secretary of State; Samuel Clark, Treasurer.

Mrs. Beechler Tries to End Her Life.

CLEVELAND, O., May 29.—Mrs. Beechler, mother of the notorious Libbie Beechler, who was recently acquitted of the charge of murdering Harry King, in Omaha, endeavored to commit suicide last night. She made several ineffectual attempts to buy poison and tried to jump into the river, but was prevented from doing so by two boys. Family troubles are said to have made her despondent.

The English Get Another Brewery.

DETROIT, Mich., May 29.—The Voigt Brewing company has been sold to an English corporation with a capital of $1,000,000, Mr. Voigt, the proprietor of the company, receiving $950,000 of it. Mr. Voigt will retain $120,000 stock in the concern, and will continue as managing director for three years.

WHY

ADVERTISING PAYS. THERE IS NO QUESTION ABOUT THAT. IT HAS BEEN TRIED SO THOROUGHLY AND MADE SO MANY FORTUNES THAT THERE IS NO ROOM TO DOUBT ITS EFFICACY, NOR THE NECESSITY OF IT WHERE PROSPERITY IN BUSINESS IS TO BE WON. THE MOST PROSPEROUS MERCHANTS IN PLAINFIELD, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ARE USING THE COLUMNS OF THE PRESS.

WHERE!

WHILE THE STATEMENT THAT ADVERTISING PAYS IS UNDENIABLY TRUE, ADVERTISING MUST BE DONE JUDICIOUSLY TO SECURE THE BEST RESULTS. ## But There Is Hope of Solving the Mystery.

WHO MURDERED DR. CRONIN?

A Man Not Yet Known Wants to Answer the Question.

He Is Anxious to Surrender and Turn State's Evidence—Fear that the Clan-na-Gael Will Reveal the Plot Induces Him to Seek Immunity—The Pinkerton Detectives Working Hard—A Sensation Promised To-Day.

CHICAGO, May 31.—It is reported that negotiations are pending between the States Attorney and a well known Chicago lawyer on behalf of a man not yet arrested, but guilty of complicity in the murder, in which he proposes to surrender himself to the authorities, tell the whole story and bring all concerned in the Cronin murder to justice.

The proposition is under consideration and a conference between Judge Longenecker and Chief Hubbard was held in regard to it.

Their decision, if they reach any, has not been made known.

It is hinted that the man who is willing to turn informer in order to save his own neck, resides in an Eastern city, and that he has been induced to make the effort from a fear that work undertaken by Luke Dillon, whereby the Clan-na-Gael organization is to reveal the plot, will prove successful.

Yesterday was rather barren of developments. Being a public holiday, there was no session of the Grand Jury and the offices of the State's Attorney were closed. The dragging of the lake by the police in the hope that the clothing of the victim might be brought to light was resumed, but the gale soon compelled them to suspend operations. A thorough search of the residence of Sullivan, the iceman, at Lake View, was also made by the police of that suburb, but nothing of an incriminating character was found.

Luke Dillon, the Philadelphia delegate, in a lengthy interview yesterday afternoon, insisted with a considerable show of indignation, that the Clan-na-Gael, as a body, had nothing whatever to do with the assassination. He produced a copy of the Constitution of the order which showed that the most severe punishment that could be imposed for the worst crime against the order or the cause of Ireland—that of treason—was expulsion from the ranks in disgrace. He went on to say that there was now but little if any doubt but that the crime was committed by members of the order and these members of a certain camp, but contended that the order as a body could not be held responsible for the action of the conspirators.

Any number of rumors are afloat regarding the course that will be taken by State's Attorney Longnecker when the Grand Jury re-assembles. One is to the effect that he will at once take up that branch of the investigation relating to the alleged misappropriation of Land League funds and that the books of the Traders Bank will be submitted to the body for examination. In another quarter it is said that the official is looking into the Canadian end of the mystery and that the Grand Jury may be asked to find indictments for conspiracy to murder against Coughlin, Sullivan, Woodruff and also Long, the Toronto reporter. In this event an effort would be made to secure the extradition of the latter, although it is admitted that it is doubtful whether this could be accomplished unless more evidence is forthcoming than the authorities have in hand. The State's Attorney is thoroughly convinced that the despatches and interviews with Cronin from that city were a portion of the plot rather than a "fake" with mercenary motives and he believes that if Long could be gotten into the sweat box the entire conspiracy might be exposed.

Still another report is that he has obtained the names of the principal officers of the local Clan-na-Gael camps and more particularly of the North Side one in which according to the now prevailing opinion the death of Cronin was decreed and that these men will be brought face to face with the Grand Jury and subjected to an inquisition. It is the general opinion at police headquarters that further developments will occur before the end of the week.

Meanwhile there is a good deal of speculation as to what has been accomplished by the Pinkerton agency which has been employed by Cronin's friends to sift the matter to the bottom regardless of expense. The officers of the agency are as dumb as oysters, while W. P. Rend, the treasurer of the committee to whom the reports are made, is equally non-communicative. People very close to the latter, however, significantly suggest that the agency has the key to the mystery and that it will be but a few days before the world will be treated to a startling sensation. It is admitted that nearly a score of operatives, some of them brought here from Philadelphia and New York are on the case and those familiar with the record of the agency are confident that some of this number are bound to strike the right lead.

"For all you or I may know," said a prominent Irishman this morning, "they may already have people at their headquarters whom they have reason to suspect of complicity in the crime. Such things have happened before and are nothing foreign to their methods."

Regarding the latest theory that Sullivan, the ice-man, might have gotten a woman into trouble; that Cronin was acquainted with the facts in the case; that Cronin being a practitioner of strict moral and religious principles was about to inform the authorities and that to prevent the exposure Sullivan lured him to his death, Chief Hubbard said to-day:

"Yes, we have men working on that feature of the murder. Sullivan is a bachelor and it is not at all unlikely that he got some woman into trouble. If such is the fact we do not yet know whether there is any connection between the circumstances and the murder of Cronin. It is being thoroughly looked into."

AN INGENIOUS SWINDLE.

How the Pennsylvania Farmers Are Being Worked.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., May 31.—A new swindle now being worked upon the farming community is a compound used for painting roofs. The farmer is induced to take a few gallons of the stuff free of charge if he will become an agent for its sale, or purchase a certain amount for himself. The contract order is printed on postal cards, and looks straight enough on cursory examination. A critical examination of the instrument, however, shows that the dealers are at liberty to send any amount that suits them, on any contract or order, probably proportional to the victim's wealth, and that they can enforce payment by its provisions, or at least cause great trouble and expense to the dupe who signs it.

SIX KILLED, SEVEN INJURED.

An Awful Casualty to a Force of Men Building a Factory.

DANVILLE, Va., May 31.—An awful casualty occurred here yesterday. A force of men were engaged in putting up a brick factory which J. G. Penn, tobacconist, was building. The building was an immense affair, about 200 feet long and six stories high. The bricklayers had just completed the walls, but there was no roof on the building. The wind was blowing a gale and one of the walls got out of plumb. The force of hands went to different parts of the building to brace the walls and were so engaged when the entire structure collapsed. Robert Pruitt, D. N. Collie, G. B. Jones, Wm. Young and Buck Hooper were killed. Seven others were more or less injured.

Killed Himself in Jail.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., May 31.—George Wagoner the prisoner who took poison in the jail here on Tuesday night, died yesterday. He left a letter to his parents requesting them to make no investigation into his death; he alone was responsible and no one can find out where he got the poison. He claims to be innocent of the crime charged against him and adds: "If they take Tom they will have the right one." Wagoner was charged with rape on a sixteen-year-old girl.

A Brutal and Unprovoked Murder.

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 31.—Joseph Doucett was shot and probably fatally wounded last night by Eugene Collins, at Whittemore's farm near here, where Doucett was employed. The murder was without warning and unprovoked, and no reason for it is known. Collins has a bad reputation. Mrs. Doucett walked to Goffs' Falls to procure aid for her wounded husband, as there was none of the Whittemore family at home at the time. Collins escaped.

Pennsylvania Men Dissatisfied.

BOSTON, May 31.—The Supreme Court of the Golden Eagle closed yesterday. R. E. Eanis, of Maryland, was elected Supreme Chief; Timothy McCarthy, of Pennsylvania, Supreme Keeper of the Exchequer, and Louis Stilz, Lieutenant-General. Pennsylvania men are dissatisfied over the defeat of Lieutenant-General O'Neill, who was a candidate for re-election. A badge of honor was voted General O'Neill. The next session will be at Pittsburg in 1890.

Editor Ward Gregory Dead.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 31.—Ward Gregory, postmaster of this city and editor of the Ithaca Democrat, is dead of Bright's disease, aged 45 years. He was a prominent Democrat. His term as postmaster would have expired next April. Mr. Gregory acquired some notoriety years ago by keeping Mr. Tilden's picture at the head of his editorial column all through President Hayes' term, with a legend declaring Tilden to be President and Hayes a fraud.

The President's Return Home.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 31.—Immediately after President Harrison had reviewed the Brooklyn parade he was driven to Mr. Knapp's residence, where lunch was served. The President, Secretary Tracy and Private Secretary Halford were then taken to the Pennsylvania railroad depot at Jersey City, where President Roberts' private car was awaiting them. The car was attached to the limited express, which left for Washington at 3:45 p. m.

A Memorial Day Suicide.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Capt. C. Henry Witthaus, a prominent citizen, a member of the Old Guard, the Liederkranz society, the Press club and other organizations, shot himself dead after returning home from the Decoration Day parade. He was 35 years old and quite wealthy. Deceased was at one time inspector of rifle practice for the Ninth Regiment. No cause for the suicide is known.

The Free Religious Association.

BOSTON, May 31.—The Free Religious Association of America has elected William J. Potter, of New Bedford, President; O. B. Frothingham, Felix Adler, George William Curtis, T. W. Higginson, Elizabeth B. Chace, Fred. Douglass, Edna D. Cheney, M. D. Conway and others, Vice-Presidents; E. D. Mead, Secretary, and J. C. Haynes, Treasurer. The annual convention begins to-day.

A Confederate's Grave Decorated.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 31.—The Veteran association decorated the grave of the one Confederate soldier buried at East Haven, along with the graves of their own late comrades. The various G. A. R. posts decorated graves at all the cemeteries. There was a grand parade followed by a mass meeting on the Green, where prominent citizens spoke.

Colored G. A. R. Men Shaken Up.

BROOKLYN, May 31.—An Atlantic avenue train carrying members of a colored G. A. R. post, ran into some empty cars on a switch at Vesta street yesterday, owing to the failure of a brake. The shock threw the passengers about in great confusion, and several were bruised, but no one badly hurt except Edward Buell, whose hip was fractured.

RUN DOWN AT LAST

The Murderer of Pretty Adeline Bavor.

AN ALMOST FORGOTTEN CRIME.

A Mystery Which for Over Thirty Years Has Been Unsolved.

It Is So Old that It Has Virtually Developed Into a Legend—Western Detectives, at This Late Day, Say They Can Arrest the Murderer—What is Known of the Case in Reading—Reported Confession of the Murderer.

READING, Pa., May 31.—Facts have come into the possession of the Police department and District-Attorney Grant, which again revive interest in a murder which was committed near Mohrsville, this county, nearly thirty-two years ago. The perpetrator of the crime was never found, although several men were arrested at the time, and all were discharged after hearings before Alderman Mengel. Recently, however, through the Rocky Mountain Detective agency, with headquarters at Denver, Col., information has been furnished which leaves little doubt that at least one man who knows much about the murder is living and can be easily secured if the Berks county authorities want him.

BRIEF HISTORY OF THE MURDER.

On Thursday morning, October 7, 1857, the dead body of Miss Adeline Bavor, a pretty young woman, twenty-one years of age and an orphan, was found lying in a pool of water under the Philadelphia and Reading railroad bridge crossing the Irish creek, between Leesport and Mohrsville. A deep gash in the throat plainly told how the young woman came to her death, while there were also slight cuts in the left breast. The body was accidentally discovered by some person passing up the railroad. The last time Miss Bavor was seen alive was the morning of the day previous, when she passed up the railroad on foot, and told several railroad section hands whom she passed and knew that she was going to Mohrsville on an errand and from there intended to take the train for Reading to visit the agricultural fair then in progress in this city. The young woman had served as a domestic in several families in the vicinity of Leesport, and while visiting the family of a Mr. Shelly she forgot her gold watch, which the gentleman named had promised to bring to Reading and give her at the fair, but Miss Bavor never came to Reading.

SEVERAL MEN ARRESTED.

About two weeks after the murder, an Irishman was arrested at Phœnixville, charged with being implicated in the crime. He was discharged for want of evidence. Two young men named Patrick O'Neill and Charles Baetzol were also arrested and subsequently discharged. A fourth man, named Samuel Heilner, was arrested with the same result. Meantime a reward of $500 was offered for the apprehension of the murderers. The murder was the talk for quite a while, but finally was forgotten, and the men who had been arrested lost sight of. Baetzol, it was reported, having met his death on the railroad in Schuylkill county.

WHAT WESTERN DETECTIVES KNOW.

Some weeks ago Chief of Police Shaaber received a letter from the Rocky Mountain Detective agency, with headquarters at Denver, inquiring whether a young woman had been murdered in this county about thirty years ago, and the murderer had not escaped. Chief Shaaber answered in the affirmative, when a second letter was received from the detective agency. In this letter the inquiry was made whether the woman's name was Bavor and whether a man named Baetzol had not been suspected of being implicated in the crime. An affirmative answer to this letter was also sent back, and since then quite a number of letters have passed between Chief Shaaber and the Denver detectives. The detective agency also placed itself in communication with District-Attorney Grant at the same time, and all information obtainable was sent West.

THEY WANT $300 TO ARREST THE MAN.

One of the first things the Rocky Mountain detectives wanted to know whether a reward had been offered for the arrest of the murderer, and if so, whether the reward was still open. The detectives in their letters stated that they were in communication with Baetzol and could put him under arrest in a very short time if he was wanted here for the crime. Before they arrested him, however, they wanted $300, when he would be brought to Denver to await the action of the Berks county authorities. From all the letters received by Chief Shaaber and District-Attorney Grant there is little doubt but that Baetzol is still living, and that the story of the detectives is true.

HONORING OUR HEROES.

THE PRESENT AND THE PAST.

How Decoration Day Was Observed in this City—Grand Army Exercises—The Parade and Subsequent Proceedings at Music Hall—An Oration by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes.

Yesterday was the time set apart to fittingly commemorate the men who bravely fought and fell in the deadly strife of brother against brother—the strife wherein one sought to save the nation, and the other to destroy it. The weather was anything but fair, and this had a deteriorating effect upon the proceedings. The commemoration really begun at day break, when details from the Grand Army Post, visited the various cemeteries and deposited their tokens of esteem, in the shape of floral offerings, on the graves of their departed comrades.

Early in the day the members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., went to Westfield in stages and participated in the exercises of unveiling the Soldiers' Monument in Fairview cemetery. All Westfield turned out to witness the celebration, and the various fire companies, citizens, etc., joined the Grand Army men in a short street parade, previous to the ceremony of unveiling the monument. The service in the cemetery was very solemn and impressive. Comrade DeCuna of Sumner Post, of New York, delivered the oration, and Mr. A. E. Pearsall recited a poem. The visitors were subsequently provided with a lunch in the W. C. T. U. rooms, after which ex-Mayor L. V. F. Randolph of this city, made a brief address and the Post returned to Plainfield early in the afternoon.

The monument was presented by Mr. Jos. R. Connoly, a member of the Township Committee, and Commander Brokaw of Winfield Scott Post, accepted the same on behalf of the veterans. The exercises also included singing by the school children.

At two o'clock the members of Winfield Scott Post, re-assembled at their headquarters on East Front street, where they were joined by the members of Craven Post, No. 54, of Bound Brook. A short parade was made through some of the principle streets, and the procession drew up in front of Music Hall about three o'clock in the following order:

Platoon of G. A. R.
Plainfield Cornet Band.
Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein.
Color Bearer.
Craven Post, No. 54, of Bound Brook.
Color Bearer.
Widfield Scott Post, No. 73.

Music Hall was crowded almost to suffocation, many persons being compelled to stand throughout the exercises. When the time arrived for beginning the exercises, the cornet band played "America," and Rev Dr. Yerkes made the opening prayer. The curtain arose upon a scene of splendor. Nearly two hundred children, boys and girls, constituting the chorus, were seated in rows extending the entire width of the platform. Directly in front and in the centre of the platform a monument was erected, bearing the inscription "Our Unknown Dead." Commander Isaac Brokaw presided, and Mrs. Phœbe Dodge, a member of the Woman's Relief Corps, No. 10, officiated at the piano. Calcium lights shed variegated rays on the platform, and made an imposing spectacle.

The chorus sang "Mark Their Graves," after which the usual Post services took place. Singing by the chorus, "Deck Their Graves," was followed by a recitation by Miss Renoff of Brooklyn. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes then delivered the oration. In part he said: This day brings precious memories which are dear to us all; this is a memorial day. There are monuments erected to commemorate great events, great men, etc., but time brings decay to them; every Spring brings forth its flowers, and these memorials will ever be fresh. Today you have laid a tribute on the graves of your comrades; all this is pleasant, but there is something far greater—the cause for which you fought and won. This day is one of special interest as this is the Centennial year of our Government. One hundred years ago the constitution of the United States was ordained; in 1606 colonies settled from England; in 1620, the Plymouth colony settled; some of these were provincial, and all independent, yet holding relations with the mother country. In 1788 the first constitution was adopted by the colonies, and a year later, in 1789, the first congress of the United States met in New York and Washington was elected the first President. Here the speaker alluded to the illustrious Washington as the first in peace, first in war and first in the hearts of the people. He also eulogized Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Lincoln, Grant and others of the nation's rulers—adding, where in the history of the World will you find such another body of rulers. Under our constitution the nation has been one of peace, prosperity and continued growth. In 1860 this Government had become so strong as to defy the World, and the civil war ensued.

Dr. Yerkes reviewed briefly the late war, but space will not permit us to make a full report of it. He closed by stating that today the nation is freer and more prosperous than ever before. Dr. Yerkes was frequently applauded during his remarks.

The members of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein then rendered a song, after which 43 young Misses, representing the various States, formed a semi-circle on the stage, and one by one they advanced to the footlights and recited an appropriate verse, depositing a floral tribute at the base of the monument.

The curtain was lowered for a moment and when it was again raised the audience gazed on a grand allegorical tableau, with the following charades:

Goddess of Liberty, (Miss Lizzie Mattox), supported by the Army, (Charles H. Stevens), and Navy, (Wm. R. Moore).

Dying Zouave, (S. C. Terry), attended by Sister of Charity, (Mrs. Sarah Mattox). Wm. C. Smith in act of drawing sword in defense of the Union.

Crowning the victor, (Wm. Addis), by Miss Sadie Smith and Miss Bertha Naylor.

The audience joined with the chorus, in singing "America," after which Rev. Mr. Schenck dismissed the gathering with the benediction, and the children on the stage were treated to iced cream.

The exercises were the most elaborate and successful of any that have taken place under the auspices of Winfield Scott Post. The beautiful stage settings were arranged by Mr. W. R. Mattox, a member of the Post, and the children were trained by Mrs. William Addis, president of the Woman's Relief Corps, No. 10, assisted by the Executive Committee of the Corps, which includes Mrs. Samuel Lemon, Mrs. S. C. Terry and Mrs. Sarah Mattox.

MAJ. ANDERSON POST EXERCISES.

The above post gathered around the grave of the late Josiah Kirkpatrick in the Presbyterian cemetery in North Plainfield, yesterday morning, and held appropriate exercises. Commander Elmore D. Moffett presided, and a chorus of 25 girls dressed in white, in charge of Mrs. E. J. Olsen, rendered special music. Archdeacon Rodman, who was announced to deliver the oration, was unavoidably absent, and the regular services by the post, brought the celebration to a close. The attendance was large.

THE RUN OF THE B'I'S.

Although the weather looked very dubious, yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, the time that the Plainfield Bicycle Club run had been called to go to Princeton, Captain Frank L. C. Martin, E. L. Walz, Jr., Geo. C. Martin, Jr., E. S. Dorman, J. E. Erickson, Jos. W. Sandford, Jr., Jno. P. Munn and W. Lee Simmonds, were at the club house determined to "get there" if possible, as they had been looking forward to this run with a great deal of pleasure.

The start was made at 7:20. At Dunellen the party was joined by Wm. T. Milliken on his new safety, but owing to a previous engagement he could only accompany his companions about five miles beyond New Brunswick.

On reaching New Brunswick the bi's took a short rest on Rutgers College campus, while one of the new riders began to polish his wheel. A bystander was heard to remark, "I guess that fellow must be a beginner or he would not be so particular." Shortly before reaching New Brunswick the riders were overtaken by a shower, after which the clouds began to roll by and when Franklin Park was reached the sun made its appearance and remained nearly all day.

By the time the riders arrived at Kingston it was very warm, and as they were delayed about fifteen minutes owing to the draw bridge over the canal being open, two of the party stole away on the quiet and were soon after discovered in a hotel eating iced cream.

On arrival at Princeton the silent steeds were brought to a halt at Nassau Hotel, where the party was met by the jovial proprietor, Mr. A. D. Cook, who tendered a warm welcome and a first class dinner which all did justice to. After a spin through the college grounds and about the town, two of the number, who were new riders and had never before taken a long run, decided to wheel to Hopewell and train it home having ridden about 40 miles. The rest rode home by the way of Blawenburgh, Plainville, Belle Mead and Somerville, arriving in Plainfield at 7:15 with 65 miles to their credit.

The bi's had clear weather all day with the exception of early in the morning and a shower while at dinner, and were surprised on reaching Somerville to learn by the condition of the roads that it had rained so much. All had had a splendid time and pitied the fellows who remained at home because the weather looked disagreeable.

A Fine Endorsement for William Tier.

A feature of the Ground Breaking for the new Crescent Avenue chapel, next Tuesday, will be the serving of French iced cream in individual bricks.

The committee in charge of the refreshments for the occasion, determined that they should be unexcelled, and after one or two meetings for discussion and trial of the iced cream made by the respective manufacturers in the city, have given their large order to Mr. William Tier.

COMPETENT CRESCENTS.

PLAINFIELD WINS BOTH.

The Putnams of Brooklyn, and the Alerts of Elizabeth, Fall Victims to the Crescents on Decoration Day.

In spite of the Heavens above and the Earth below, the Y. M. C. A., Crescents played the two games scheduled for Decoration Day, and won them, too. Cornwell was laid off with a broken nose, McCutchen is not yet in shape, and Dilts was out of town, yet with the material at hand a couple of good games were put up, and the large attendance at both games expressed its appreciation and approbation in loud applause over special plays and general results.

In the morning it was the Putnams of Brooklyn that crossed bats with the home team. Gately was not on deck, so Condon, the other half of the battery, was taken from behind the bat and put in the pitcher's box, with Huntley to catch. Again Dave proved himself a gay deceiver. He had already a record for striking out three men in the Rutger's team and he wanted to beat it. He did He struck out seven of the Brooklyn boys in the first three innings.

Huntley backed him up as well as a brand new glove would permit, but he was very weak at the bat and failed to hit the ball at all during the game. Another new man of the season was Harry Cadmus, who used to line 'em out last year, but could not find them this. He was also rocky in the field. But a prize was discovered in Darian on second base. He is another deaf mute but like smiling Patrick J. Gately, he was always there. For a man who had not played before in two years, his work was particularly praiseworthy.

The Putnams went first to the bat, and Walker was given his base on balls while Dave was getting his hand in. With the help of a passed ball Walker got home, and thus was made what proved to be the Brooklyn boys' only run. The Putnams kept this lead of one until the third inning. Time was frequently called when the rain was too hard, and the game suspended for awhile, but at the beginning of the seventh inning all agreed that the showers were too frequent and too wet, so Umpire Tom Keller dismissed the players with the score standing six to one in favor of the Crescents.

The home club made its runs in this way. In the third inning, John Murray, Jr., reached first, took second on a passed ball, stole third and got home in safety. Lee and McMurray were on the bases when Condon knocked a high fly that burried itself in the grass back of third, and all three came home before the ball was found. Huntley, Cadmus and Darian struck out, and the inning closed with four runs.

In the fourth: McLaughlin flew out to Keys; Demarest reached first on the same player's error and stole all the way home while Murray and Huntley were striking out.

Lee went to the bat first in the fifth and was caught out on a foul fly, by Relyea. McMurray was hit by the ball and subsequently scored after Condon had made a base hit, Cadmus had been put out at third, and McLaughlin had flown out on a foul. Condon, Darian and Demarest were left on the three bags in this inning.

The score in detail, was:

THE AFTERNOON GAME.

At 3:30 o'clock, a half-hour after the afternoon's game was to be called, it did not look as if there could possibly be any. The rain fell in torrents, and beat into the grand stand so fiercely that even the two hundred umbrellas raised were no protection. For over two hours a gang of men and boys with brooms and pails had labored hard to sweep and bale the water out of the infield. First base was afloat, the short stop's stand was a foot under water, and the paths between the bags were but traceries of slimy, slippery mud.

But the Alerts of Elizabeth were on hand in their white flannel suits, and patiently waited with the spectators for a let up of the showers. They were so confident of victory that they handicapped their luck by stuffing their mascot full of peanuts that made him as bilious as some of their own throwing. And it was wild throwing that beat them. Game was not called until 4:10, because of the non-arrival of the Alert's battery.

The Crescents nine was slightly changed from that of the morning. Murray and Huntley were off, and Gately and Townley filled the team. Deceiving Dave went behind the bat to collar the Pleasing Patrick's delusive up shoots, and fallacious outer curves. Darian played second again with much credit; McLaughlin, Demarest and Townley scooped everything in their reach; while Lee and Mc Murray kept their ends up besides excelling at the bat.

It was the most interesting contest on the grounds this season. There was plenty of batting, sharp fielding and base running. Then it was also a game that was not through until the last man of the Elizabeths was out. Plainfield led at the end of the second inning; Elizabeth led on the third; the score was a tie on the fourth, and Elizabeth led again on the fifth.

It was hard work for the pitchers. The ball was so soft and treacherous in the hand, it was almost impossible to grip it for a twist. But both Kennedy and Gately did nobly, though the former's errors in other ways were costly. A feature of the games lately has been Demarest's base running. He stole seven bases out of a total of sixteen during the day. In the afternoon the batting of McMurray, Condon and Lee was commendable, and the latter two were the only ones who made base hits in the morning. Mr. Thomas Keller was umpire again, and a first-class one, too.

The following was the score of the afternoon's game:

MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL.

The Good Work it Has Done—Its Financial Condition and its Officers.

The annual meeting of the Board of Governors of the Hospital, took place on Monday evening.

From the various reports presented it appears that the number of patients treated during the year, has been 88. Of these, 54 have been discharged cured and 18 improved; 9 have died and 7 remain in the Hospital. In addition to these, more than 100 out-door or clinical patients have received advice and treatment at the Hospital.

These figures, however, give but a very imperfect idea of the good work done by the faithful matron, Mrs. Clarinda Walrod, and her assistants, or of the assiduous attention and services rendered by the medical staff. There have been many important surgical operations, nearly all of which have been successful.

During the year the Hospital has acquired a large piece of land adjoining on the Southwest of the old property, thus securing much needed additional space for light, air, quiet and future improvements. Of the price of this land $200 was kindly contributed by the Hon. Job Male, leaving $1,800, the residue, unpaid, secured by mortgage of the property bought. This year, also, $2,800 has been raised by subscriptions for the new building, described in THE PRESS, which is nearly completed, and which is much needed for special uses. It will add much to the efficiency and comfort of the Hospital.

The current expenses for the year have been about $2,900. Uusually about one-half of the expenses are met by the amounts received from patients, and the remainder by donations received through various channels; but so many of the patients were unable to pay anything that the moneys received from patients were only $830 this year, whereas last year $1,630 was received from this source. As there was likewise a considerable falling off in receipts from other sources, the expenditures have exceeded the receipts by about $900.

President—Rufus K. Case.

Vice Presidents—Charles Schipper and Edw. B. Clark.

Secretary—William R. Cock.

Treasurer—Geo. H. Goddard.

Managing Committee—Edward B. Clark, E. Woltmann, E. N. Erickson, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, W. R. Cock.

Finance Committee—J. Evarts Tracy, John M. Whiton, W. E. Lowe, Charles Schipper, Samuel Huntington.

To-Morrow's Ball Match.

The Crescents propose to win again, to-morrow, although they will buck agin the "Tempests." The latter is a New York club that is credited by rumor with some strong games.

Gately and Condon will be the home nine's battery, and Dilts will play short stop. Among the crowd who stood along the ropes in the rain, yesterday, and saved 15 cents, were noticed a number of the very ones who have the most to say in criticism of the Crescent nine.

—Mrs. M. H. Conger, 151 Duer street, says: "Since using Dr. Dam's Remedy have not had a sick headache."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. Wm. H. Grant, of Danbury, Ct., is spending a few days with his uncle, J. B. Hurlburt, Emily and Vine streets.

The regular preparatory service, preceding the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, will be held in Trinity Reformed church this evening at 8 o'clock.

Joseph N. Jenkins of this city, father of Councilman O. L. Jenkins and Mr. J. Newton Jenkins, died this morning at nine o'clock. He was 76 years of age. His funeral will take place Monday afternoon.

At her home, No. 3 Plainfield avenue, yesterday morning, occurred the death of Mrs. John Howarth, aged 28 years. The deceased had been a sufferer from abscess in the side for the past ten months. She leaves a husband and two children.

A double wedding took place at the residence of Rev. Cornelius Schenck, on East Second street, yesterday evening, when Mr. Willie R. Moore and Miss Emma Watts, both of this city, and Mr. Wm. Laible of Dunellen and Miss Sarah Newman of North Plainfield, were united in marriage, Rev. Mr. Schenck officiating.

In the extended account given in THE PRESS of Wednesday, of the sociable held in the First Baptist church, special mention was unintentionally omitted of Mr. Herbert Thatcher who added so greatly to the evening's entertainment in the way of humorous recitations. The encores he received were enthusiastic and well deserved.

William Washington, sexton for many years of the M. E. church, died about eight o'clock, last evening, of hasty consumption, the result of exposure at the inaugural ceremonies in Washington. He was 45 years of age and leaves a wife and five children. The funeral services will be held in Bethel Mission, Sunday afternoon, at three o'clock.

After weeks of indifferent success, Mr. N. W. Pike of this city, has proven the sanity of a young lady wrongfully confined upon the affidavit of two young physicians and her trustee, in the Stockton Insane Asylum, California. The latter, after squandering his ward's property in his hands, had left her to pine away her life amid the surroundings and companionship of maniacs. Thureday last Mr. Pike visited the unfortunate girl at Paterson, where she arrived the preceding day from California. The young lady is an orphan and the daughter of a late Assemblyman of New York State.

WILL WE HAVE WAR?

A Sensational Despatch from Victoria, B. C.

BOAST OF A BRITISH OFFICER.

Why the English Men-of-War Have Been Sent to Behring Sea.

If the United States Interferes with the Canadian Seal Fishers, There Will Be Trouble—No Attention to Be Paid to the President's Proclamation—A Denial of the Report by Sir James Fergusson in the House of Commons.

NEW YORK, May 31.—A special despatch from Victoria, B. C., says:

Startling revelations concerning the tenor and extent of the orders issued by the Admiralty authorities to Admiral Heneage, commanding the Pacific squadron, and under which the British men-of-war Swiftsure, Yarus and Amphion, now at Esquimault, will proceed to Behring Sea early in June, were made yesterday by an officer in high rank attached to the flagship.

He and a number of other naval officers attended a luncheon given by local clubmen and before the affair came to a close all were very much under the influence of champagne. At the height of the festivities the officer in responding to the toast of the Navy, said in substance that there would be some fighting soon in Behring Sea if the American authorities attempted to prevent Canadian sealers from hunting there. No attention would be paid to the President's proclamation, he said, and the Admiral could not only dispute the claim of the Americans to exclusive sovereignty in the disputed waters; but if American cruisers should take into custody Canadian sealers caught fishing therein the British men-of-war would take steps to recapture them.

He said further that the admiral commanding the North American squadron had sent the British cruiser Buzzard from Bermuda to New York, and while there orders were received from the Admiralty to act at once and send two warships from the North American station to reinforce those now under orders to proceed to Behring Sea.

If the statements made by the officer are true it would seem that Great Britain means to resort to force rather than wait for a diplomatic solution of the seal fishing difficulty.

Late yesterday the Admiral heard of the statements made by the officers and at once ordered him under arrest. Strong efforts were made to keep the matters secret, but it leaked out and caused great excitement. He has communicated to the Admiralty authorities by cable.

SIR JAMES FERGUSSON DENIES IT.

LONDON, May 31.—In the House of Commons Sir James Fergusson, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, replying to a question, denied that British men-of-war had been ordered from the Pacific station to Behring Strait to protect British sealers from attack by American warships

THE PARNELL COMMISSION.

President Harrison's High Opinion of Editor O'Brien.

LONDON, May 31.—Mr. Arthur O'Connor, M. P., for East Donegal, testified before the Parnell Commission at yesterday's sitting.

Among other statements he said that he heard President Harrison, in a speech at Indianapolis, say that every honest man and lover of libery would rather be in the company of William O'Brien in Tullamore Jail than to be entertained by the Viceroy of Ireland at Dublin Castle.

Mr. O'Connor testified that when he took the office of Secretary of the National League, he found many of the organization's books in such a fragmentary condition and so far in arrears that it was impossible to do anything with them.

The witness did not know whether the books of the League which the Government seized when Mr. Foster was Chief Secretary for Ireland had been destroyed or not.

Presiding Justice Hannen ordered that inquiry be made and that it be ascertained if the books were in existence.

Mr. O'Conner declared the suggestion that the tenants understood his advice to them to boycott land grabbers as a hint to murder them and to committ other outrages, was a base calumny.

Mr. Justin McCarthy, M. P., for Londonderry, was called to the witness box. He testified that the Parnellites received the news of the Phœnix Park murders with horror and dismay.

THE SAMOAN TREATY.

What is Understood to Have Been Agreed Upon.

BERLIN, May 31.—The following is understood to be the substance of the treaty agreed upon by the Samoan Conference:

Malietoa is to be reinstated as King, and the status quo ante restored.

Germany accepts a nominal indemnity.

The government of the Islands is to be purely by natives, with an advisory council composed of one representative of Germany and one of the United States, with an English representative who will act only as the arbiter, or umpire, when the other two cannot agree.

A Land Court to settle disputed land claims is established. The municipal government of Apia is to be native, with advisory provision, similar to the general government.

The absolute autonomy of Samoa is guaranteed, with native predominance in all departments of the government.

A tariff schedule is included in the treaty.

Each of the three powers is allotted the use of a coaling station, with all privileges therein except soverignty.

Lieut. Zalinski May Look Around.

LONDON, May 31.—Lieut. Zalinski, military attache to the American Legation who is here to study the navies of the European powers, in the interest of his government, has been granted permission to inspect the British arsenals and camps and the Gunnery school.

Lord Douglas Ruled Off.

LONDON, May 31.—The Jockey club has ruled Lord James Douglas off the Newmarket course on the ground that he is a defaulter in his bets.

A Prince Wounded in a Duel.

VIENNA, May 31.—Prince Alois Schwarzenberg has been so badly wounded in a duel with a lieutenant of Hussars that he is now dying.

RACING ON WHEELS.

The Bicycle Tournament of the Rhode Island Wheelmen.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 31.—Rain spoiled the track at Narragansett Park, and it was in wretched condition when the events in the bicycle and athletic tournament of the Rhode Island Wheelmen were called at 2 o'clock. Some two thousand spectators were present, however.

R. H. Davis and E. A. Bailey, the Harvard Club safety cracks, were on hand but were barred from racing, the chairman of the L. A. W. racing board having suspended them from the race track until August 1 for contesting on safeties with ordinaries in the Intercollegiate games at Berkley Oval on the 11th inst.

The one-mile novice race was won by G. A. Armstrong, of Boston; L. L. Clark, of New York, second; W. C. Miller, East Greenwich, third. Time, 3:36½.

The two-mile National L. A. W. championship was contested by J. P. Clark of Dorchester, Mont., Scott, of Providence, A. C. Ranker, of New York, Ludwig, of Hartford, G. M. Warden, of Boston and W. E. McCune, of Highlandale, Mass. Warden and McCune dropped out and the others finished in the order above given—Clark first. Time, 6:58 3-5.

G. A. Prickett, of New Haven, was given the two-mile safety race. Davis and Bailey, his only competitors, being under suspension.

Scott won the three-mile State championship. Time, 11:24.

Ludwig Forster, of Hartford, won the one-mile bicycle open race, J. W. Scheffler, of New York, second. Time, 3:31 1-5.

W. J. Doane won the one-mile safety handicap, Pickett second. Time, 3:23.

Scott won the one-mile state safety championship. Time, 3:53.

The one-mile handicap was won by C. A. Armstrong, of Boston, Clark, of New York, second, Worden, of Boston, third. Time, 3 min.

In the tandem safety handicap Clark and Benson, of Dorchester, won. Time, 3:18¼.

Doane and E. W. Bailey won the tandem safety open. Time, 3:34 1-5.

The team race was won by the Dorchester team, Clark, Benson and Armstrong, with eighteen points; Hartford Wheel club second with fourteen points; Berkely Athletic club third with thirteen points.

AMERICA.

HIS name was America, but it should have been Apollo, because he was fleet of foot and lithe and graceful of limb, and his sweetheart's name was Daphne. He pursued her, figuratively speaking, around the house, out the front gate, down the road, across the cornfield, through the cane-brake and back home again every Sunday afternoon. But he could not catch her.

It was before the war, and they were slaves. He was solid black and his face had an oily sheen; but his nasal organ was long enough to place him outside the classification of "flat-nosed niggers." Daphne was also as dark as an hour before day, and consequently had no objection to his color. Her complaint against him was based on higher ground.

"'Tain't no usen axin me ter ma'ay yer, Mereky, for I ain't gwine ter do it less'n yer do what I ax yer to do."

"But, Daffny," he pleaded, placing his hat on a stool and wiping his brow with a bandana handkerchief, "you know I kain't be er hippercrit. Sposen I'd jine de church. Wouldn't I lose my 'ligion de fus' time I plowed in er new groun's? I tell yer w'en er root flies back en hits me on de shin, I'se 'bleeged ter swar. It he'ps taik de so'ness outen de bruise."

"You knows I likes yer, but I won't hab yer. You's de only fiel' nigger dat missus let's come inter dis kitchen, kase she says you'se got some sense and knows how ter ack like er generman; but ef I'd ma'ay you ez you iz I'd hafter leave heah an' go down ter de plantashun. Missus couldn't bide yer. Yo' promisin' ter stop cussin' ain't gwine ter do no good. Er nigger kain't quit his meanness 'cep'n he leans on de Lawd."

America went to work next morning. It was a hot day in June. The sky was intensely blue; a startled quail rustled the still leaves of the dark-green corn before him; a woodpecker rattled off his snare-drum beat on a dead limb. The negro was almost pious. "I'll fool Daffny by not takin' de Lawd's name in vain dis day, sho'."

A storm came up when the afternoon was half gone. While unhitching his mule it stepped on his foot. He could not utter a word until he had mounted the animal, when he turned loose the pent-up profanity of a day. A streak of lightning split the air, followed by thunder and a smell of burnt leather. The mule was dead and the sole of one of America's brogans was gone. His wits were gone, too; but he found his way to the "quarters."

Next Sunday he was baptized. "No, Daffny," he said, solemnly, dropping her hand from his as he stood at the kitchen door. "I ain't fitten ter marry yer yit. De Lawd was mussiful ter me. I mus' show 'im dat I lub 'im. When I'se called ter preach I'll ax yer ergin fur yer han'."

Three months afterward he was "called," and they were married. "Missus" taught them to read and write, and they were the wonder and envy of their brethren and sisters of the faith. The war came and went, and they left the farm and took residence in New Orleans, where America tended a large flock and prospered accordingly. He was a wonderful speaker, and many people of wealth frequented his church, always leaving him a practical reminder of their appreciation of his talents. He grew in fame, and went to the Legislature.

One morning the postman handed him a letter. It was for his wife. They went into the parlor and read it. It said:

"MY DEAR GOOD SERVANT DAPHNE: Papa is dead. The old home must be sold, unless I can borrow five hundred dollars. If it passes into strangers' hands I will not care to live in it any more, even if its new owners were to offer me a home with them. I was always good to you, and I know you loved me. I hear you are prospering. If you can help me I know you will: so it is no use for me to write more than this. Your mistress in sorrow, DELLA."

"Does er boat go up this evenin', Daffny?" he asked. "Look in the paper an' see."

"Yes, at half-pas' five."

"You go down an' 'gage passage fur two."

* * * * * * *

"My own sweet darlin' purty lady, w'y didn't you write sooner? Whut did you go and worry yerself even fur er day fur, when you knowed Daffny wuz er livin' an willin' ter give you ebery cent she had ef you needed it. Did you think dis chile 'ud let de ole house go, ef her dollars could sabe it?"

"No, Daphne, no, but—sit down, America; I insist on it."

Calumny Will Come.

A distinguished United States Senator recently said: "There is considerable abuse of me just now in the public prints. It is all owing to a singular fact. I declined to make peace with my enemy at his price. I have always made it a rule to defy persecution. In every man's life there is something which he wants to keep to himself. My life has not been perfect, and I realize it. But, when any one professes to know something damaging about me, I never beg. It is simply a question of time when the persecution will commence, and with me the sooner it comes and is over with the better." He is eminently right. Though he be chaste as ice and pure as snow, no public man can escape calumny at some period of his life.

ABOUT WATCH DOGS.

What a Dealer in Canines Knows from Long Experience.

Some Dogs Bark in Season, Some Out of Season, and Some Don't Bark at All—Good Points of the Bull Terrier and the Skye Terrier.

"But I am not looking for a cur," snapped the lady. "If I was I should not come to you. I could get all I wanted for nothing."

"You can have this one for nothing, ma'am," said the liberal dealer. "And if he does not suit you I shall not ask you to bring him back. Just leave the basement door open and set the house cat at him. I'll warrant you'll see him no more."

The lady, says a New York Sun reporter, was offended. She picked up her reticule, which she had deposited on a chair, and haughtily swept out of the store. The dealer politely held the door open and allowed a vagrant yellow and white cur to follow her. He watched them until they disappeared in the crowd. Then he turned to the reporter, who had silently witnessed the interview.

"She would have given me five dollars for that dog," he said, "if I had told her he was well bred. She is one of the many people who fancy that the watch dog is of a peculiar species. Of course, anybody who has the slightest practical knowledge of dogs is aware that they are all watchers. They are the lightest of all sleepers, and are very vigilant and quick to detect a strange footstep in or near the house. The only difference in their mode of watching lies in their action after they are aroused. The common cur, such as the one who has just gone out with the lady, is by far the most watchful, but he will bark furiously at any thing; and it is not the pleasantest thing imaginable to have the house disturbed every time a belated man passes it in the night. But the barking dog is the one that most women want. They have a horror of an animal that bites, and only desire to be notified when a robber is about to enter or has already entered the house. Then they can put their heads under the bedclothes and pray that the burglar may be satisfied with stealing every thing he can find outside of their door, and go away without entering their apartment. Of course, this end might be achieved with much greater personal comfort in the absence of the dog, when they could sleep through the danger, instead of lying paralyzed with terror; but they can't realize that, and always value a dog in proportion to the noise he makes.

"The bull terrier is a capital watch dog. He never barks, because he feels that he can deal unaided with any burglar; and in nine cases out of ten he is right. It is all tooth with him, and a robber rarely knows that he is present until he feels him. But in this line of business he is not a favorite with refined people. You see, there are no bounds to the ferocity of a bull terrier when he is once aroused, and the lifeless body of a robber is an unpleasant thing for the servants to find on a kitchen floor when they get up in the morning. I once sold a good bull terrier to the widow of a clergyman. She lived in a lonely house in Westchester County, and before she had owned the dog a week a burglar climbed through the basement window. He saw the terrier in the dining room, and managed to clamber up on the high mantelpiece. It was a bitterly cold night in mid-winter, and he clung there, shivering for several hours, while the dog hungrily licked his jaws underneath. The lady kept no servant, and when she entered the room in the morning she was at first terribly frightened: but the fellow told her such a pitiful story of his sufferings that she was moved to compassion. She gave him two dollars and a good breakfast, and allowed him to go away. Then she sent the dog back to me, advising me to shoot him, as such a savage, remorseless brute was clearly unfit to live. Bull terriers and the widows of clergymen have no common ground upon which they can amicably meet.

"I doubt, too, whether bull terriers, faithful, brave, strong and watchful as they are, have very much intelligence. Certainly they have not as much as the Scotch or the old-fashioned Skye; I mean the big silky-haired Skye, from which the delicate little thing, like a miniature portrait of his ancestors, has been bred for a lady's lap dog. A prominent lawyer of New Haven bought a fine bull terrier from me about a year ago. On the second night after the dog had been in his possession the gentleman was a guest at a supper party, and did not reach home until the small hours of the morning. The terrier met him at the gate of his orchard, and drove him up an apple tree, where he held him a prisoner until the family arose at breakfast time. The dog had only seen him half a dozen times, and he did not recognize him. This is a danger with all bull terriers when used as watch dogs. They reason slowly, and when they once reach a conclusion, whether it is wrong or right, they cling to it as tenaciously as though it was an opponent's throat or a prowling tramp's leg, and, like a gun with an imperfect breech, they are apt to injure their owners in an excess of zeal. Nothing will beguile them to forget their duty while life lasts, but their sense of smell is very weak, and a bit of poisoned meat thrown over the fence is tolerably sure to clear the course for the burglars when they arrive, ready for business, at night.

"By far the best dog for keeping watch and ward in a country house is one of the large light-colored, rough-coated terriers, with as little of the reduced breeds about him as is possible. He need not be a pure strain, but there must be no bad blood in him. A cross of Scotch and Irish is very good, but, I think, the old Skye and large plain Scotch is better. It should produce a dog weighing about twelve pounds. Such an animal, without either the strength or the ferocity of the bull terrier, has all his courage, tempered with a good deal of discretion. When he hears a noise near any of the doors or windows he does not at once begin to bark. He goes cautiously to the place whence the sound came, and, of course, generally finds that it was made by the wind, or some harmless passer-by, and the sleepers are not aroused without reason. But when he barks you may feel assured that it is time for you to get up, for he never gives a false alarm; and if there is any fighting to be done he will take his full share of it. But he is no fool. He can not deal with the burglars alone, and he is not going to try to do so. His bark almost invariably frightens them away, but if your house is isolated and they persist in trying to enter it, you can safely count upon him as a valuable assistant. The bull terrier allows them to come in before he begins operations, while the rough-coated dog endeavors to keep the door between you and them."

How to Kill Time.

Here is a novel method. A number of men take perfectly similar cigars and see who can keep his lighted the longest. Each one puts a certain sum into a pot and all the cigars are of course lit at the same time. The new game has had great success in various clubs. One young man kept his cigar lighted two hours and forty-eight minutes. Of course these cigars must not be allowed to go out; when they do the smoker must drop out of the contest.
